9th Captures Muenchen-Gladbach in Ruhr, 3d Enters Trier, Cologne Drive Is Slowed; Roosevelt Calls Peace Futile Without U. S.

MUENCHEN GLADBACH FALLS TO 9TH ARMY

MAR 2 1945

Other American Forces Break Into Trier and Smash Way Through Outer Defenses of Cologne.

Paris, March 1 (A. P.).—The American Ninth Army captured the German citadel of Muenchen Gladbach today as other American forces broke into ancient Trier and plunged through the outer defenses of Cologne.

Muenchen Gladbach, industrial center of 127,000 population, was the first city in the Ruhr to fall to an Allied Army. It is eleven miles west of the Rhine bridge at Duesseldorf. The Ninth Army troops drove into the heart of this "Manchester of Germany" from the south as converging columns flanking it on the east and west sealed the fate of the largest German city yet to fall into American hands.

Doughboys of the Twenty-ninth Division who marched afoot more than twenty miles without armored support entered the outskirts after light skirmishing with a Nazi rearguard of infantry and self-propelled guns. The Americans drove on after taking suburban Rheydt, the reported birthplace of Propaganda Minister Goebbels, and suffered only five casualties in taking Muenchen Gladbach.

The southern outskirts were reached last night. Units of the spearheading Twenty-ninth division found only between 15,000 and 20,000 civilians in the heavily bombed textile and motor manufacturing down, center of an industrial area with 300,000 population. Although large sections of the city were badly smashed, it still was in better shape than Aachen or Dueren, a front line dispatch asserted.

Duesseldorf is Shattered.

The news blackout, placed on Ninth Army operations three days ago when Lieut.-Gen. William H. Simpson's men began scoring sensational gains, was lifted temporarily to permit the disclosure that the ancient Teutonic fortress on the banks of the Niers had fallen. No other disclosures were permitted, but field dispatches said that the Ninth Army was continuing to make rapid progress, and one report said that Duesseldorf already was being shelled by American guns.

Huge 240-millimeter howitzers of the American First Army began blasting at one of the greatest electric power plants in the world—the Brauweil plant, four miles west of Cologne. This provided electricity for the entire Cologne area.

The Tenth Armored Division of Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton's Army drove into Trier, once used as a base of operations by Cæsar against France, in the climax to a ten-mile northward drive from beyond Saarburg. The Tenth gathered 3,000 prisoners in its dash.

German artillery heavily opposed the American tanks. Some of Germany's strongest forts are clustered around Trier, her oldest city and an imposing place of 88,000. On the way into Trier, Major-Gen. William H. Morris Jr. led his division through dense minefields and through fire from thirty-six 88-millimeter guns.

Several thousand Germans were believed trapped south and southwest of Trier by the Third Army coup.

Third Makes Biggest Gains.

The largest reported gains were made by the Third Army along the Moselle, where Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton's men advanced up to three and a half miles on a fifty-mile front, capturing eleven towns. Gen. Patton was using twelve divisions.

The Third Army pushed on from the captured road center of Bitburg to the Kyll River west bank, where a crossing would crack the last natural defense line before Coblenz, forty-five miles beyond advance positions.

At Bitburg the Third Army at long last got astride good paved roads leading to Trier and the Rhine cities of Cologne, Bonn, Godesberg and Coblenz. Terrain flattened out beyond Bitburg, where the country is good for tanks.

Prisoners streamed by thousands into the cages of all four of Gen. Eisenhower's attacking armies.

Marshal Montgomery's headquarters said German resistance was badly disorganized in some sectors of the Rhineland, where the Ninth Army still was operating under a news blackout.

Canadians to the north fought into the bastion of Kervenheim and to the eastern edge of Weeze in plodding gains through the Third and last Siegfried Line chain guarding the northwest edge of the Ruhr, less than ten miles away.

The German communique said the Ninth Army was at Grevenbroich, eleven miles southwest of Dusseldorf, and on both sides of Rheydt, a city of 80,000 which adjoins Muenchen Gladbach, fifteen miles west of Dusseldorf. Both are five miles beyond last reported Ninth Army positions.

Nazis Talk of Coherent Line.

The enemy said officially that breakthrough attempts on both sides of Rheydt and Grevenbroich, a main Erft River crossing, were foiled by Germans fighting "on a coherent line running from west of Duelken (five miles northwest of Muenchen Galdbach) to the Erft and reaching the Roer south of Dueren."

Canadians and Britons fought strongly with armor to break the enemy's last-ditch stand in three places of the Hochwald Gap between Weeze and Kervenheim, within twenty-two miles of the great Rhine port of Duisburg and less than ten of the Ruhr city of Wesel across the Rhine.

Allied warplanes were keeping a vigilant "Watch on the Rhine" for signs of a mass retreat eastward and shot up clusters of river barges and tugs at one point.

A wholesale withdrawal of Field Marshal von Rundstedt's armies has not yet begun across the river, Associated Press Correspondent Roger D. Greene, reported from Field Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery's headquarters.

A prisoner reported that German troops before the Ninth Army had been ordered to fall back east of the Rhine.

First Army tanks, self-propelled guns and infantry with bayonets and flamethrowers streamed across the Erft River before Cologne into several bridgeheads. Armor fanned out. Infantry widened the crossings under heavy artillery fire.

Nazis Yield Muenchen-Gladbach Without Usual Last-Ditch Stand

By HAL BOYLE

MUENCHEN-GLADBACH, Germany, March 1 — (AP) American Ninth army troops drove into the heart of this great German industrial city from the south today after converging columns flanking it on the east and west had sealed capture of this largest Reich city to fall into Allied hands.

Dougboys who marched afoot more than 20 miles without armored support entered the outskirts of the city after light skirmishing with Nazi rear guard infantry and self propelled guns.

Take Goebbels' Birthplace

They lunged on after taking suburban Rheydt — the birthplace of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels—and seized the city after suffering only five casualties.

Units of the 29th infantry division which spearheaded the drive found only 15,000 to 20,000 civilians remained of the population of this heavily bombed textile and mortar manufacturing center. Its normal peace-time population of 127,000 had once been swelled to 200,000 during the war.

Muenchen - Gladbach frequently has been a target of Allied bombers because of its industrial importance and the fact that it is one of the main railroad junctions in the Rhineland. Large sections were battered badly by the raids but the city still is in better shape than Aachen or Dueren.

At 8 p.m. the city officially was reported "cleared." Its capture was a triumph of the American army's mobility rather than a test of battle mettle. The Germans yielded battered Muenchen-Gladbach without a serious struggle.

Citizens said the main bodies of retreating German army units bypassed the city on either side in the hope that it would be spared further shattering air blows which any attempt to make it "another Stalingrad" surely would have invited.

Maj. Gen. Charles Hunter Gerhardt's troops—heroes of the siege of St. Lo in Normandy — worked wearily forward through the city's southern suburbs.

The first to enter the city through the rubble-littered streets with rifles at the ready was led by 1st Lt. Frank Bishop of Norman, Okla.

Sweep Through City

Three other companies promptly extended this wedge and began a sweeping arc through the city, meeting only scattered fire from snipers. These companies were commanded by Capt. Charles E. Morris, Capt. Alex Pouska of Baltimore, Md., and 1st Lt. Robert Crepau of St. Paul, Minn.

"We were ready for a house to house fight — and it would have been a tough job to clean out every one of these damaged buildings," said Capt. Bennet Pollard of Baltimore. "We're just as glad it fell as easily as it did. We had marvelous artillery support."

The seizure of Muenchen-Gladbach—its textile industry alone employed 32,000 persons — strikes a heavy blow at the Reich's dwindling industrial potential.

There were many signs that Propaganda Minister Goebbels hoped his old home town would put up a better scrap. The walls of buildings were scored with exhortations in white paint to "support the Fuehrer," reminding that Germany stood for "one people, one country, one Fuehrer" and that the "Fuehrer is our victory."

These pleas by the "local boy who made good" failed to impress the folks who knew Goebbels when Storekeepers had boarded up their windows and only scattered columns of refugees and a few curious citizens were abroad either to welcome or defy the American army.

There was no last ditch defense by the Volkssturm as promised by Hitler and most townspeople still remaining appeared relieved rather than disappointed. Several volunteered belief that the war would be over in a month, saying regular Wehrmacht troops shared their view.

"The only thing that has slowed us much is this rubble—we can't take a chance of getting ambushed," said Maj. Geiglein. "All they left behind to hold us up was a little infantry and a few tanks and self propelled guns.

U. S. Losses Light

"Our losses have been very light. Since we jumped off a week ago we've had fewer than a hundred casualties and taken Juelich and six other towns. We lost only five men today.

"They dropped some big, long range artillery fire on us as we came up past Wickrath. They also have been causing us trouble with machine gun fire, mortars and a few roving, self propelled guns or tanks."

Geiglein said three enemy self propelled guns near a church delayed the advance temporarily by firing down the Hindenburg wall—one of the main entering thoroughfares.

"We sent two tank destroyers to knock them out," he said. "Our first tank destroyer drove them away with 12 rounds but they hit and knocked out our second destroyer during the battle. Some of our boys said they saw nine of our tank destroyer shells hit one German gun but it managed to pull out."

Earlier in the day German planes had made sporadic attacks on advancing American columns, but clouding skies cut down further activity afternoon. It was raining when I entered the city this afternoon with Cy Peterman of the Philadelphia Inquirer and Gordon Gaskill of the American magazine.

A knocked-out American tank destroyer stood silent in the street and one house set afire during the brief street battle blazed with orange fervor.

A few frightened German women pulling carts or pushing baby carriages overloaded with household goods walked quickly by the Doughboys who gave them no more than a weary glance. Most of the citizens merely stayed indoors peeking out the window occasionally.

"Our people left by the thousands after each of your air raids," said one 56-year-old fire warden and policeman. "But those still here want to stay. There are about 20,000. Word has just come up from Aachen that your army doesn't mistreat civilians—that is why so many remained here."

The victorious Doughboys got their biggest laugh of the war out of a series of huge Nazi signs painted every few score yards on walls and houses. They said:

"What have you done for the Fatherland today?"

PATTON'S FORCES SMASH INTO TRIER IN 6-MILE SPURT

First Army Masses Tanks, Troops for Assault on Cologne.

GERMANS FALL BACK

U.S. Troops, Canadians Near Union in Drive on Ruhr Basin.

BERLIN EDITION

PARIS, March 1. — (AP) The U. S. Ninth army today swiftly captured the Ruhr city of Muenchen Gladbach — largest Reich center to fall on the Eastern or Western front —and the German radio said tanks slashed 11 miles farther north into Krefeld, only two miles from the Rhine.

NIGHT

The U. S. First army massed tanks and troops ready to storm the last five miles into Germany's fourth largest city of Cologne, and 80 miles south the U. S. Third army smashed into the ancient fortress of Trier after a blazing six-mile spurt that cut off several thousand Germans.

Only 20 miles northwest of where the Germans said the Ninth army was driving for the Rhine, the Canadian First army crunched southward nearly a mile, threatening to join the Americans in a rampage through the sprawling Ruhr industries west of the Rhine.

Yanks Seize Rheydt

The fall of Muenchen Gladbach and adjacent Rheydt, where Propaganda Minister Goebbels was born was the only news sifting through the two-day security blackout masking the lightning moves of the Ninth army, which even now may be at the Rhine.

Several divisions were approaching the Rhine from various directions, and in its rush the Ninth overwhelmed a dozen more towns.

The capture of Muenchen Gladbach in the western edge of the Ruhr basin in less than 24 hours testified to the speed with which the Germans are pulling back across the Rhine with every tank, gun and soldier they can salvage from the flaming battlefields. Thousands of Germans were surrendering and resistance often was disorganized.

A total of 57 German towns fell to the U. S. First, Third and Ninth armies during the day and the First and Ninth have taken 20,000 prisoners in a week.

Staff officers of both the First and Ninth armies declared the Germans were pulling out west of the Rhine and preparing for an inner Reich defense on the east bank. Even in front of Cologne the enemy was expected to make little more than a delaying stand.

Tanks Mass Along Erft

While tanks and troops massed along the broken Erft river line for the final smash at Cologne, huge 10-inch howitzers began blasting today at Brauweil power plant—one of the world's largest — four miles west of the city and supplying the Cologne area.

It appeared that Trier was soon to go the way of Muenchen-Gladbach, for as fierce fighting broke out in its time-worn streets, other forces swept three and a half miles to the northeast and cut the main highway to Coblenz, 60 miles farther northeast.

(NBC said in a front broadcast tonight that Gen. Eisenhower had conferred with Field Marshal Montgomery, commander of the 21st Army Group, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the 12th Army Group, and the generals of the U. S. Ninth, British Second and Canadian First armies on the final big push against Germany.)

A dispatch from Bradley's headquarters said three plans originally were laid out for the American Rhine-bound offensive—slow, medium and fast—that the first two had been discarded and the doughboys were in highest gear.

Although the weather closed in soon after mid-day, Allied air forces put 5,500 warplanes into the skies, pounding the Germans in their psitions west of the Rhine and their communications in the rear.

The First army expanded its Erft bridgehead to a width of six miles from Bergsheim in the north to Moedrath on the south, and deepened it to as much as three miles in the face of heavy German artillery and mortar fire.

Muenchen Gladbach proper has a population of 307,000 but is the center of a vital industrial region of 300,000 population. Despite its strategic railroads and highways only 12 miles from Duesseldorf, it fell without a serious struggle.

Citizens said the retreating German 14th Army had by-passed the city, noted for its textiles and often called the "Manchester of Germany."

The honor of capturing the city fell to the 29th Infantry Division, which reached it last night. There were light skirmishes on the outside of the city and then the Americans moved in. Only 15,000 to 20,000 civilians remained.

The largest German towns captured by the Russians on the Eastern Front are Hindenburg, 126,000, and Gleiwitz, 117,000.

Ninth Engulfs 12 Towns

The Ninth Army in all engulfed 12 more towns during the day and the First Army 27 in a powerful sweep which appeared unstoppable short of the Rhine and was threatening to cut off thousands of Germans arrayed along the Maas river and against the Canadian First Army on the north.

The Ninth, commanded by Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson, was reported making spectacular gains under a security blackout which, when lifted, might disclose that it already had reached the Rhine.

The First Army staff officer declared "the Germans have shown no signs of strengthening their defenses and the bulk of their traffic movement is eastward across the river."

Between the Canadians and the Americans, the enemy's powerful Dutch line along the Maas river, which had balked a direct smash by the Baritish Second army into the Ruhr, steadily was being rolled up.

Simpson, was attacking at what was believed to be maximum speed for undisclosed gains all along his front against the German 15th army, which was mauled in the battle of France and the Lowlands.

The German communique claimed the 15th had set up a coherent front running from a point five miles northwest of Muenchen Gladbach to a point 12 miles southwest of Duesseldorf.

GERMANS PREDICT INVASION ON RHINE

Place All Civilians in Area Under Army Rule—Berlin Admits Threats in East

MAR 2 1945

LONDON, March 1 (AP)—The Germans proclaimed invasion warnings and virtual martial law in the provinces immediately east of the Rhine today as they conceded that American armies sweeping toward that river of destiny had crashed into the approaches of Cologne.

Declaring that the American offensive between Aachen and Cologne "now has reached its climax, with all reserves thrown in for a break-through," Berlin forecast that "the next few days will see a decision on whether the First and Ninth Armies are to reach the Rhine."

In this perilous situation the Germans issued "laws of military behavior" for civilians in threatened areas, including the provinces of Westphalia and Baden in the Rhineland. Civilians in these areas were commanded to give strict obedience to military laws and to avoid panic or any actions that might hinder the German Army.

"Everyone—able-bodied men as well as the aged and women and children—must adapt himself to military laws and must be imbued with the spirit of discipline," said a decree distributed by the German news agency DNB to the press in the invaded and invasion-threatened areas.

News Kept From Rest of Reich

"Discipline particularly is required from refugees on the march, who must not interfere with military movements. Rumors are the best allies of the enemy and they may assume terrifying proportions."

Editors were told, however, to publish the story only in invaded or threatened provinces.

All German accounts stressed that the American Armies were striking with tremendous power for a breakthrough to the Rhine. One news commenator declared that six tank and twelve infantry divisions—200,000 or more men—were attacking on the Cologne Plain between Erkelenz and Dueren.

Breaches in German defenses were admitted, but a Berlin military spokesman contended that no decisive break-through had been made despite "the typical Anglo-American operation aiming to break German power of resistance by crushing material superiority."

Threats in East Admitted

"The loss of terrain is grievous to the German command," the spokesman added, "but this is not decisive. Our defense is imbued with the idea of causing the Allies the greatest number of casualties and so finally suffocating the offensive."

The spokesman said the bitterest fighting was raging less than two miles northwest of Muenchen-Gladbach and three miles south of the near-by town of Rheydt, birthplace of Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels.

On the east front the Germans admitted new threats in Pomerania and issued invasion warnings to the Province of Saxony, which is imperiled by the Soviet drive westward through Silesia.

The Koenigsberg district leader, Wagner, called on all Germans in East Prussia to make a death stand.

General Church, Of Frederick, Leads Drive

On the Western Front, March 1 (AP)—A band of American riflemen commanded by Brig. Gen. John H. Church, of 17 East Patrick street, Frederick, Md., advanced 10 miles its first day out but went a little slower yesterday as opposition developed at one town.

"Task Force Church" is operating with United States 9th Army divisions, whose advance is clothed in a security news blackout.

One platoon supplemented its "K" and "C" rations yesterday when three doughboys found fifteen jars of eggs, eight smoked hams, three cases of cognac, two cases of wine, four cases of brandy and many jars of jellies, preserves and vegetables at a deserted chateau.

Divide With Platoon

Pfc. Leroy Evenson, of Salt Lake City; Pfc. Edward A. Dream, of Pittsburgh, and Corporal Robert Keem, of Hayti, Mo., divided their find with every man in the platoon.

Sergt. John Ward, of Flushing, N.Y., walked into headquarters yesterday with 13 Russians, who said they had been forced into the German Army. He was walking across a field when a man dressed in semi-uniform waved to him. The stranger spoke in broken English and kept pointing toward the enemy lines.

Goes Back For Others

"He was a nice enough guy, so I let him go back for the others," Ward said.

Interrogating officers said they learned the Russians had killed their officers and had been waiting for the Americans since February 23.

Lieut. Edward T. Higgins, of St. Louis, captured three German officers while standing in front of his battalion command post.

"They just walked up and said all was kaput (finished)," he explained.

FDR Appeals to Congress To Back Yalta Decisions

MAR 2 1945

WASHINGTON, March 1—(AP) President Roosevelt, in a dramatic arm-chair appearance before Congress, pleaded today for country-wide support of the Big Three agreements at Yalta and of his ideas for world peace.

"We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict," he declared.

Speaks in House

Mr. Roosevelt, one day after his return from the 14,000 mile Yalta mission, sat in a red plush chair in the well of the House as he spoke to a capacity audience of legislators, foreign diplomats and other notables. Armed guards watchfully patrolled the capitol.

Military and peacetime themes were both emphasized by Mr. Roosevelt. His main points included:

1. World peace is not a party question.

2. Germany and Japan must be shorn of their militarism and their power to make war.

3. The Yalta conference means an end to balance of power politics in Europe.

4. The Russo-Polish boundary agreement at Yalta was "the most hopeful agreement possible for a free, independent and prosperous Polish state."

Senators Hear Talk

His words fell upon important ears. For among his listeners at the joint session of Congress were the Senators who must, by a two-thirds majority, decide whether to approve the peace-enforcing machinery that is due to come out of the San Francisco conference starting April 25.

And in the audience, too, were the American people who listened over the radio. They will be the ones to whom the Senators must turn for approval of the course they choose.

In his immediate audience, also, were the British ambassador, the Earl of Halifax, lanky in tweeds; Ambassador Bonnet of France, whose governmen' has just signed a huge credit arrangement with the United States; Russian ambassador Gromyko, formally dressed and dignified in his role as Premier Stalin's man in Washington.

And there was Ambassador Ciechanowski of Poland, whose long-troubled land is the subject of the greatest quarrel over the justice of the Yalta agreements.

All of them, including the President, the American Senators and Representatives and their guests, had gone through military and police lines of carefully-planned strength for the occasion.

There was a great cheer for the President when he began. There were frequent interruptions by applause, and there was a great cheering when he finished after 55 minutes of speaking, sometimes grim, but carrying all the way through the hope for a better world.

Here are the bare alternatives Mr. Roosevelt laid down for the American people in a report on his Yalta discussions — and arguments — with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin:

"There can be no middle ground here. We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration, or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict."

Yalta, he told the attentive, oft cheering lawmakers fanned out before him as he talked from a red plush chair in the House of Representatives, was a bright start toward the better world of the future.

A turning point, he called it, in American history.

And next to come—Mr. Roosevelt emphasized its importance as carrying the hopes and fears of generations to come—will be the San Francisco conference of the United Nations.

He made, in his speech which was broadcast over all networks, a plea for unity in working toward peace.

Peace Not Party Issue

"World peace is not a party question—any more than is military victory," Mr. Roosevelt said. "The same consecration to the cause of peace will be expected by every patriotic American and every human soul overseas."

Applause went up from all over the House when he departed from his prepared text to remark: "Republicans want peace just as much as Democrats."

"This time," Mr. Roosevelt said, "we shall not make the mistake of waiting until the end of the war to set up the machinery of peace."

And, in noting that Republicans as well as Democrats have been selected as delegates to the San Francisco conference on chartering a world peace organization, he declared:

"I am well aware of the constitutional fact—as are all the United Nations—that this charter must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate of the United States."

Mr. Roosevelt commented that he has "spent a great deal of time educating the leaders of two other nations about the Constitution of the United States." With an interpolation obviously aimed at Congressional discussion of war and peace plans, he declared:

"The slightest remark in Congress is known all over the world the next day."

There were other additions to the text also and, with Mr. Roosevelt speaking somewhat slower than usual, the speech consumed 55 minutes. Spectators remarked that he looked tanned and fit after his 14,000 mile trip to the Big 3 meetings at Yalta on the Black Sea.

PRESIDENT LAYS YALTA REPORT BEFORE NATION

MAR 2 1945

STATES TERMS FOR GERMANY

Says Polish Agreement Was a Compromise—'I Didn't Agree With All of It.'

Washington, March 1 (A. P.). — President Roosevelt called on a cheering Congress today to assume responsibility for underwriting future peace through world collaboration in the same non-partisan spirit that America wages war.

"We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration," he declared, "or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict."

Tanned and fit-looking after his 14,000-mile trip to Yalta and back, the President sat comfortably in a red plush White House chair as he told applauding members of the House and Senate that "this time we shall not make the mistake of waiting until the end of the war to set up the machinery of peace."

Mr. Roosevelt sat in the well of the house, with a battery of thirteen microphones on the oak table before him. As he was wheeled onto the floor by an aid he halted momentarily to shake hands with Representatives Cross (D.-Ohio) and Cochran (D.-Mo.), who also were in wheel chairs.

After transferring to the plush armchair, Mr. Roosevelt began his first personal address to Congress since January, 1943, by asking his listeners to pardon him for sitting down. It was a relief, he said, not to have ten pounds of steel around the bottom of his legs—the braces he must wear to stand erect the length of time required for a speech of this nature.

Not a Party Question.

Declaring that "world peace is not a party question—any more than is military victory," the President said "there can be no middle ground" on the issue of world collaboration.

He had come back from the Crimean conferences "refreshed and inspired," he said. He had not been ill, he continued, and not until he got back did he hear all the rumors he said had been circulated about his health.

The President arrived at the Capitol at 12:17 o'clock, entering by a side door. He rode to the second floor on an elevator and entered the House chamber at 12:31 o'clock to a thunderous ovation.

Cabinet members preceded the President by two minutes and took seats in front of him. Secretaries Stettinius and Forrestal were absent; both are out of the country.

In the diplomatic gallery were the Ambassadors of the other four of the "big five"—Halifax of Britain, Gromyko of Russia, Bonnet of France and Wei of China.

Mrs. Roosevelt was accompanied in another section of the gallery by her daughter, Mrs. Anna Boettiger—who was her father's companion on the trip to Yalta—and the Crown Prince and Princess of Norway.

Voices Hope for Approval.

Departing from his prepared text in discussing the April 25 United Nations conference in San Francisco, Mr. Roosevelt expressed a hope that the Senate "will approve the charter of the United Nations when they all come together in San Francisco next month."

"As you know I've always been a believer in a document known as the Constitution of the United States," he went on. "I've spent a good deal of time educating the leaders of two other nations about the Constitution of the United States."

He tossed in that remark just after reading, from his prepared text, the sentence that he and the other United Nations are aware that the United Nations charter "must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate of the United States."

Mr. Roosevelt looked away from his manuscript frequently to emphasize points—and once he embarked on a long anecdote about how high Nazi officers had hoped to make the villas of Yalta their private homes after the war.

"When the Russians took over and drove them out, these villas were looted (by the Nazis) and bombs placed in their foundations," he said.

By several references the President stressed the role of Congress in the coming world peace plans.

He called the voting arrangements on the projected security council a "complicated and difficult problem," and observed: "I'd almost say it is a legislative problem."

"We will straighten that voting matter out," he added, by the time the United Nations conference opens in San Francisco.

Both Sides Applaud.

Mr. Roosevelt drew a round of applause from both sides of the party aisle when—in stressing the bi-partisan nature of the United States delegation to San Francisco—he observed: "Republicans want peace as well as Democrats."

In discussing the Big Three's Polish agreement, he expanded his prepared remarks to explain that Poland will obtain "quite a large slice of Germany" in return for territory east of the Curzon line, which will go to Russia.

Dropping his voice to a conversational tone, the President said most of East Prussia will go to Poland, which he remarked wasn't a country at all before 1919.

He said the anomely of the free city of Danzig would be abolished and Poland would embrace that territory. His explanation was similar to that given previously by Prime Minister Churchill to the British House of Commons.

The Polish agreement, Mr. Roosevelt said, was "frankly a compromise—I didn't agree with all of it by any means."

Without further explanation, the President departed from his text to speak of "prima donnas" while discussing the agreement on Yugoslavia. This agreement, he said, "is in process of fulfillment," but "there are a great many prima donnas in the world who want to be heard. We may have a little delay if we listen to all the prima donnas."

Swinging himself back into his wheel chair, Mr. Roosevelt turned and waved to Vice-President Truman and Democratic Leader McCormick of Massachusetts.

The President's address consumed fifty-five minutes. Spectators remarked that he read more slowly than usual, made many additions to his text.

At one point, while discussing the vast influence he said the United States now has in world affairs, Mr. Roosevelt observed:

Speaking of the war against Japan, he interpolated this statement:

"Lest someone lay off work in the United States, I repeat what I think I can say in my sleep:

'We haven't won the war yet.'"

Speaking "in all frankness" the President said that whether the momentous parleys with Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin are to be "entirely fruitful or not lies to a great extent in your hands." He linked "the fate of the United States—and of the world—for generations to come" on the Dumbarton Oaks and other agreements soon to be submitted for Senate ratification.

"For unless you here in the halls of the American Congress—with the support of the American people—concur in the decisions reached at Yalta, and give them your active support," he said, "the meetitng will not have produced lasting results. . . .

For Germany, the President voiced again an emphatic ultimatum of "unconditional surrender" and indicated simultaneously that general surrender by the Nazi Government was not expected.

"The German people," he said, "as well as the German soldiers, must realize the sooner they give up and surrender, by groups or as individuals, the sooner the present agony will be over."

Mr. Roosevelt said decisions on German control reached by the Big Three at Yalta do not mean enslavement for the German people, adding: "Our objective in handling Germany is simple—it is to secure the peace of the future world."

Text of President's Report

Washington, March 1 (A. P.).—The text of President Roosevelt's report to Congress today on the Yalta conference follows:

It is good to be home.

It has been a long journey. I hope you will agree that it was a fruitful one.

Speaking in all frankness, the question of whether it is to be entirely fruitful or not lies to a great extent in your hands. For unless you here in the halls of the American Congress—with the support of the American people—concur in the decisions reached at Yalta, and give them your active support, the meeting will not have produced lasting results.

That is why I come before you at the earliest hour after my return. I want to make a personal report to you—and, at the same time, to the people of the country. Many months of earnest work are ahead of us all, and I should like to feel that when the last stone is laid on the structure of international peace, it will be an achievement for which all of us in America have worked steadfastly and unselfishly—together.

I return from this trip—which took me as far as 7,000 miles from the White House—refreshed and inspired. The Roosevelts are not, as you may suspect averse to travel. We thrive on it!

Far away as I was, I was kept constantly informed of affairs in the United States. The modern miracle of rapid communication has made this world very small; and we must always bear that in mind, when we think or speak of international relations. I received a steady stream of messages from Washington, and except where radio silence was necessary for security purposes, I could continuously send messages any place in the world. And, of course, in a grave emergency, we could even have risked breaking the security rule.

A Good Start Made.

I come from the Crimean conference, my fellow Americans, with a firm belief that we have made a good start on the road to a world of peace.

There were two main purposes at the Crimean conference. The first was to bring defeat to Germany with the greatest possible speed and with the smallest possible loss of Allied men. That purpose is now being carried out in great force. The German army, and the German people, are feeling the ever-increasing might of our fighting men and of the Allied armies. Every hour gives us added pride in the heroic advance of our troops over German soil toward a meeting with the gallant Red Army.

The second purpose was to continue to build the foundation for an international accord which would bring order and security after the chaos of war, and which would give some assurance of lasting peace among the nations of the world.

Toward that goal also, a tremendous stride was made.

At Teheran, over a year ago, there were long-range military plans laid by the chiefs of staff of the three most powerful nations. Among the civilian leaders at Teheran, however, there were only exchanges of views and expressions of opinion. No political agreements were made—and none was attempted.

At the Crimean conference, however, the time had come for getting down to specific cases in the political field.

There was on all sides at this conference an enthusiastic effort to reach agreement. Since the time of the Teheran conference, there had developed among all of use a greater facility in negotiating with each other, which augurs well for the future peace of the world.

I have never for an instant wavered in my belief that an agreement to insure world peace and security can be reached.

Too Long Between Parleys.

The lapse of time between Teheran and Yalta without conferences of civilian representatives of the three major Powers has proved to be too long—fourteen months. During this long period, local problems were permitted to become acute in places like Poland and Greece and Italy and Yugoslavia.

Therefore we decided at Yalta that, even if circumstances made it impossible for the heads of the three governments to meet more often in the future, we would make sure that there would be more frequent personal contacts for exchange of views.

Accordingly, we arranged for periodic meetings of the foreign secretaries of Great Britain, Russia and the United States at intervals of three or four months. I feel very confident that under this arrangement there will be no recurrence of the incidents which this winter disturbed the friends of worldwide collaboration.

When we met at Yalta, in addition to laying our strategic and tactical plans for a final and complete military victory over Germany, there were a number of problems of vital political consequence.

First, there were the problems of the occupation and control of Germany after victory, the complete destruction of her military power, and the assurance that neither Nazism nor Prussian militarism could again be revived to threaten the peace and civilization of the world.

Second, there was the settlement of the few differences which remained among us with respect to the international security organization after the Dumbarton Oaks conference.

Third, there were the general political and economic problems common to all of the areas which had been or would be liberated from the Nazi yoke.

Fourth, there were the special problems created by Poland and Yugoslavia.

Agreements Unanimous.

Days were spent in discussing these momentous matters and we argued freely and frankly across the table. But at the end, on every point, unanimous agreement was reached. And more important even than the agreement of words, I may say we achieved a unity of thought and a way of getting along together.

ican delegation is—in every sense would not agree — that some slight crack might appear in the solid wall of Allied unity which would give him and his fellow gangsters one last hope of escaping their just doom. That is the objective for which his propaganda machine has been working for months.

But Hitler has failed.

Never before have the major Allies been more closely united—not only in their war aims but in their peace aims. And they are determined to continue to be united with each other—and with all peace-loving nations—so that the ideal of lasting world peace will become a reality.

The Soviet, British and United States chiefs of staff held daily meetings with each other, and conferred frequently with Marshal Stalin, with Prime Minister Churchill and with me, on the problem of co-ordinating the strategic and tactical efforts of all the Allied forces. They completed their plans for the final knock-out blows to Germany.

At the time of the Teheran conference, the Russian front was so far removed from the American and British fronts that, while certain long-range strategic co-operation was possible, there could be no tactical, day-by-day co-ordination. But Russian troops have now crossed Poland, and are fighting on the eastern soil of Germany; British and American troops are now on German soil close to the River Rhine in the west. It is a different situation today; a closer tactical liaison has become possible—and, in the Crimean conference, this has been accomplished.

Two Armies Co-ordinated.

Provision was made for daily exchange of information between the armies under command of Gen. Eisenhower, those under command of the Soviet marshals on the eastern front, and our armies in Italy—without the necessity of going through the chiefs of staff in Washington and London as in the past.

You have seen one result of this exchange of information in the recent bombing by American and English aircraft of points which are directly related to the Russian advance on Berlin.

From now on, American and British heavy bombers will be used—in the day-by-day tactics of the war—in direct support of the Soviet armies, as well as in support of our own on the Western Front.

They are now engaged in bombing and strafing in order to hamper the movement of German reserves and materials to the Eastern and Western fronts from other parts of Germany and from Italy.

Arrangements were made for the most effective distribution of all available material and transportation to the places where they can best be used in the combined war effort—American, British and Russian.

Details of all these plans and arrangements are military secrets; but they will hasten the day of the final collapse of Germany. The Nazis are learning about some of them already, to their sorrow. They will learn more about them tomorrow and the next day—and every day.

There will be no respite for them. We will not desist for one moment until unconditional surrender.

What Germans Must Realize.

The German people, as well as the German soldiers must realize that the sooner they give up and surrender, by groups or as individuals, the sooner their present agony will be over. They must realize that only with complete surrender can they begin to re-establish themselves as people whom the world might accept as decent neighbors.

We made it clear again at Yalta, and I now repeat—that unconditional surrender does not mean the destruction or enslavement of the German people. The Nazi leaders have deliberately withheld that part of the Yalta declaration from the German press and radio. They seek to convince the people of Germany that the Yalta declaration does mean slavery and destruction for them—for that is how the Nazis hope to save their own skins, and deceive their people into continued useless resistance.

We did, however, make it clear at this conference just what unconditional surrender does mean for Germany.

It means the temporary control of Germany by Great Britain, Russia, France, and the United States. Each of these nations will occupy and control a separate zone of Germany—and the administration of the four zones will be co-ordinated in Berlin by a control council composed of representatives of the four nations.

Unconditional surrender also means the end of Nazism, and of the Nazi party—and all of its barbaric laws and institutions.

It means the termination of all militaristic influence in the public, private and cultural life of Germany.

It means the complete disarmament of Germany; the destruction of its militarism and its military equipment; the end of its production of armament; the dispersal of all of its armed forces; the permanent dismemberment of the German General Staff, which has so often shattered the peace of the world.

It means that Germany will have to make reparations in kind for the damage which it has done to the innocent victims of its aggression.

By compelling reparations in kind—in plants, and machinery, and rolling stock, and raw materials—we shall avoid the mistake made after the last war of demanding reparations in the form of money which Germany could never pay.

We do not want the German people to starve, or to become a burden on the rest of the world.

Our objective in handling Germany is simple—it is to secure the peace of the future world. Too much experience has shown that that objective is impossible if Germany is allowed to retain any ability to wage aggressive war.

That objective will not harm the German people. On the contrary, it will protect them from a repetition of the fate which the general staff and Kaiserism imposed on them before, and which Hitlerism is now imposing upon them again a hundredfold. It will be removing a cancer from the German body, which for generations has produced only misery and pain for the whole world.

During my stay at Yalta, I saw the kind of reckless, senseless fury and destruction which comes out of German militarism. Yalta had no military significance of any kind, and no defenses.

Before the last war, it had been a resort for the Czars and for the aristocracy of Russia. Afterward, however, and until the attack upon the Soviet Union by Hitler, the palaces and villas of Yalta had been used as a rest and recreation center by the Russian people.

The Nazi officers took them over for their own use; and when the Red Army forced the Nazis out of the Crimea, these villas were looted by the Nazis, and then nearly all were destroyed. And even the humblest of homes were not spared.

The Ruin of Sevastopol.

Sevastopol was also a scene of utter destruction—with less than a dozen buildings left intact in the whole city.

I had read about Warsaw and Lidice and Rotterdam and Coventry—but I saw Sevastopol and Yalta! And I know that there is not enough room on earth for both German militarism and Christian decency.

Of equal importance with the military arrangements at the Crimean conference were the agreements reached with respect to a general international organization for lasting world peace. The foundations were laid at Dumbarton Oaks. There was one point, however, on which agreement was not reached at Dumbarton Oaks. It involved the procedure of voting in the security council.

At the Crimean conference, the Americans made a proposal on this subject which, after full discussion, was unanimously adopted by the other two nations.

It is not yet possible to announce the terms of that agreement publicly, but it will be in a very short time.

When the conclusions reached at the Crimean conference with respect to voting in the Security Council are made known, I believe you will find them a fair solution of this complicated and difficult problem. They are founded in justice, and will go far to assure international co-operation in the maintenance of peace.

A conference of all the United Nations of the world will meet in San Francisco on April 25, 1945. There, we all hope, and confidently expect, to execute a definite charter of organization under which the peace of the world will be preserved and the forces of aggression permanently outlawed.

No Waiting This Time.

This time we shall not make the mistake of waiting until the end of the war to set up the machinery of peace. This time, as we fight together to get the war over quickly, we work together to keep it from happening again.

I am well aware of the constitutional fact—as are all the United Nations—that this charter must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate of the United States—as will some of the other arrangements made at Yalta.

The Senate of the United States, through its appropriate representatives, has been kept continuously advised of the program of this Government in the creation of the international security organization.

The Senate and the House of Representatives will both be represented at the San Francisco conference. The congressional delegates to the San Francisco conference will consist of an equal number of Republican and Democratic members. The American delegation is—in every sense of the word—bi-partisan.

When our republic was threatened, first by the Nazi clutch for world conquest in 1940, and then by the Japanese treachery of 1941, partisanship and politics were laid aside by nearly every American; and every resource was dedicated to our common safety. The same consecration to the cause of peace will be expected by every patriotic American and by every human soul overseas.

The structure of world peace cannot be the work of one man, or one party, or one nation. It cannot be an American peace, or a British, a Russian, a French, or a Chinese peace. It cannot be a peace of large nations—or of small nations. It must be a peace which rests on the co-operative effort of the whole world.

It cannot be a structure of complete perfection at first. But it can be a peace—and it will be a peace-based on the sound and just principles of the Atlantic Charter—on the conception of the dignity of the human being—on the guaranties of tolerance and freedom of religious worship.

As the Allied armies have marched to military victory, they have liberated peoples whose liberties had been crushed by the Nazis for four years, and whose economy had been reduced to ruin by Nazi despoilers.

Unrest in Liberated Areas.

There have been instances of political confusion and unrest in these liberated areas—as in Greece and Poland and Yugoslavia and other places. Worse than that, there actually began to grow up in some of them vaguely defined ideas of "spheres of influence" which were incompatible with the basic principles of international collaboration. If allowed to go unchecked, these developments might have had tragic results.

It is fruitless to try to place the blame for this situation on one particular nation or another. It is the kind of development which is almost inevitable unless the major Powers of the world continue without interruption to work together and to assume joint responsibility for the solution of problems which may arise to endancer the peace of the world.

We met in the Crimea, determined to settle this matter of liberated areas. I am happy to confirm to the Congress that we did arrive at a settlement—a unanimous settlement.

The three most powerful nations have agreed that the political and economic problems of any area liberated from the Nazi conquest, or of any former Axis satellite, are a joint responsibility of all three governments. They will join together, during the temporary period of instability after hostilities, to help the people of any liberated area, or of any former satellite state, to solve their own problems through firmly established democratic processes.

They will endeavor to see to it that interim governing authorities are as representative as possible of all democratic elements in the population, and that free elections are held as soon as possible.

The Influences of U. S.

Responsibility for political conditions thousands of miles overseas can no longer be avoided by this great nation. As I have said, it is a smaller world. The United States now exerts a vast influence in the cause of peace throughout all the world. It will continue to exert that influence, only if it is willing to continue to share in the responsibility for keeping the peace. It would be our own tragic loss were we to shirk that responsibility.

Final decisions in these areas are going to be made jointly; and therefore they will often be a result of give-and-take compromise. The United States will not always have its way 100 per cent—nor will Russia nor Great Britain. We shall not always have ideal solutions to complicated international problems, even though we are determined continuously to strive toward the ideal. But I am sure that—under the agreements reached at Yalta—there will be a more stable political Europe than ever before.

Of course, once there has been a free expression of the peoples' will in any country, our immediate responsibility ends—with the execution only of such action as may be agreed upon in the international security organization.

The United Nations must also soon begin to help these liberated areas adquately to reconstruct their economy so that they are ready to resume their places in the world. The Nazi war machine has stripped them of raw materials and machine tools and trucks and locomotives. They have left their industry stagnant and much of their agriculture unproductive.

To start the wheels running again is not a mere matter of relief. It is to the national interest of all of us to see that these liberated areas are again made self-supporting and productive so that they do not need continued relief from us.

One outstanding example of joint action by the three major Allies in the liberated areas was the solution reached on Poland. The whole Polish question was a potential source of trouble in post-war Europe, and we came to the conference determined to find a common ground for its solution. We did.

For a Strong Poland.

Our objective was to help create a strong, independent, and prosperous nation, with a government ultimately to be selected by the Polish people themselves.

To achieve this objective, it was necessary to provide for the formation of a new government much more representative than had been possible while Poland was enslaved. Accordingly, steps were taken at Yalta to reorganize the existing provisional government in Poland on a broader democratic basis, so as to include democratic leaders now in Poland and those abroad. This new, reorganized government will be recognized by all of us as the temporary government of Poland.

However, the new Polish provisional government of national unity will be pledged to hold a free election as soon as possible on the basis of universal suffrage and a secret ballot.

Throughout history, Poland has been the corridor through which attacks on Russia have been made. Twice in this generation, Germany has struck at Russia through this corridor. To insure European security and world peace, a strong and independent Poland is necessary.

The decision with respect to the boundaries of Poland was a compromise, under which, however, the Poles will receive compensation in territory in the north and west in exchange for what they lose by the Curzon line. The limits of the western boundary will be permanently fixed in the final peace conference. It was agreed that a large coast line should be included.

It is well known that the people east of the Curzon line are predominantly White Russian and Ukrainian; and that the people west of the line are predominantly Polish. As far back as 1919, the representatives of the Allies agreed that the Curzon line represented a fair boundary between the two peoples.

I am convinced that the agreement on Poland, under the circumstances, is the most hopeful agreement possible for a free, independent and prosperous Polish state.

The Part of France.

The Crimean conference was a meeting of the three major military Powers on whose shoulders rest the chief responsibility and burden of the war. Although, for this reason, France was not a participant in the conference, no one should detract from the recognition there accorded of her role in the future of Europe and the world.

MAR 2 1945

France has been invited to accept a zone of control in Germany, and to participate as a fourth member of the Allied Control Council of Germany.

She has been invited to join as a sponsor of the international conference at San Francisco.

She will be a permanent member of the International Security Council together with the other four major Powers.

And, finally, we have asked that France be associated with us in our joint responsibility over the liberated areas of Europe.

Agreement was also reached on Yugoslavia, as announced in the communique; and is in process of fulfillment.

Quite naturally, the Crimean conference concerned itself only with the European war and with the political problems of Europe—and not with the Pacific war.

At Malta, however, our combined British and American staffs made their plans to increase the attack against Japan.

The Japanese war lords know that they are not being overlooked. They have felt the force of our B-29s and our carrier planes; they have felt the naval might of the United States and do not appear very anxious to come out and try it again.

The Japs know what it means to hear that "the United States Marines have landed." And we can add, having Iwo Jima in mind: "The situation is well in hand."

What's Ahead for Japan.

They also know what is in store for the homeland of Japan now that Gen. MacArthur has completed his magnificent march back to Manila, and Admiral Nimitz is establishing his air bases right in the backyard of Japan itself—in Iwo Jima.

It is still a tough, long road to Tokyo. The defeat of Germany will not mean the end of the war against Japan. On the contrary, America must be prepared for a long and costly struggle in the Pacific.

But the unconditional surrender of Japan is as essential as the defeat of Germany—if our plans for world peace are to succeed. For Japanese militarism must be wiped out as thoroughly as German militarism.

On the way home from the Crimea I made arrangements to meet personally King Farouk of Egypt, Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia, and King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia. Our conversations had to do with matters of common interest. They will be of great mutual advantage because they gave us an opportunity of meeting and talking face to face, and of exchanging views in personal conversation instead of formal correspondence.

On my voyage I had the benefit of seeing our Army and Navy and Air Force at work.

All Americans would feel as proud of our armed forces as I am, if they could see and hear what I did.

Against the most efficient professional soldiers and sailors and airmen of all history, our men stood and fought—and won.

Crimea a Turning Point.

This is our chance to see to it that the sons and grandsons of these gallant fighting men do not have to do it all over again in a few years.

The conference in the Crimea was a turning point in American history. There will soon be presented to the Senate of the United States and to the American people a great decision which will determine the fate of the United States—and of the world—for generations to come.

There can be no middle ground here. We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration, or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict.

I know that the word "planning" is not looked upon with favor in some quarters. In domestic affairs, tragic mistakes have been made by reason of lack of planning; and on the other hand, many great improvements in living, and many benefits to the human race, have been accomplished as a result of adequate, intelligent planning—reclamations of desert areas, development of whole river valleys, provision for adequate housing.

The same will be true in relations between nations. For a second time, this generation is face to face with the objective of preventing wars. To meet the objective, the nations of the world will either have a plan or they will not. The groundwork of a plan has now been furnished, and has been submitted to humanity for discussion and decision.

No plan is perfect. Whatever is adopted at San Francisco will doubtless have to be amended time and again over the years, just as your own Constitution has been.

No one can say exactly how long any plan will last. Peace can endure only so long as humanity really insists upon it, and is willing to work for it—and sacrifice for it.

End to Unilateral Action.

Twenty-five years ago, American fighting men looked to the statesmen of the world to finish the work of peace for which they fought and suffered. We failed them then. We cannot fail them again, and expect the world again to survive.

The Crimean conference was a successful effort by the three leading nations to find a common ground for peace. It spells the end of the system of unilateral action and exclusive alliances and spheres of influence and balances of power and all the other expedients which have been tried for centuries—and have failed.

We propose to substitute for all these, a universal organization in which all peace-loving nations will finally have a chance to join.

I am confident that the Congress and the American people will accept the results of this conference as the beginnings of a permanent structure of peace upon which we can begin to build, under God, that better world in which our children and grandchildren—yours and mine, the children and grandchildren of the whole world—must live.

HOUSE PACKED FOR FDR ADDRESS

By TOM REEDY

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP) Just getting into the capitol today was almost as hard as crashing the Big Three itself.

There was a formula if you wanted to hear President Roosevelt report on what happened at Yalta.

First you had to get past the military policemen and there were scores surrounding every conceivable entrance and exit. There were several even behind the shrubbery, toting mean-looking pistols.

The next hurdle was hundreds of District of Columbia policemen. Then came the capitol cops and finally some Secret Service and FBI men.

By that time, you looked at your credentials with awe. You had no idea they were that good.

MAR 2 1945

Seven hundred persons crowded into the galleries of the House chamber. They were channeled past guards and whatnot with about the same care a bank takes with its dough. There were wooden barriers at certain strategic points that kept people from going any place but where their passes entitled them to be. There were hundreds outside, behind ropes, just to get a glimpse of the arrival.

The President's party in six automobiles dashed up to the south entrance of the capitol, a little used one. They came up a private elevator to Speaker Rayburn's office where the House and Senate leaders awaited to escort the Executive.

Mr. Roosevelt wheeled into the House chamber and broke another precedent. He spoke from the well of the House, down in front, as though it was an informal conversation across a table. He used to address Congress from the speaker's rostrum.

Twenty microphones were distributed around the House to relay the message. There were 13 on the bench in front of the President until a superstitious engineer removed one.

Once the show started the guards put a clamp on the doors and the assemblage lapsed into silence to hear the report.

It ended with a burst of applause and the joint session was dissolved. The place emptied like magic. There's nothing very stimulating about debate on a deficiency appropriation bill.

ROOSEVELT TIRED AFTER CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, March 1—(AP) President Roosevelt's arm chair report on the Yalta conference caused mixed reaction in Congress tonight on the state of Mr. Roosevelt's health.

Comment ranged from Senator George's (D.-Ga.) observation that the President appeared "noticeably tired" to Senator Tydings' (D.-Md.) observation that "he looks fitter than his pictures."

The President himself said that he was "not ill one second" on his 14,000-mile trip to Yalta and back, mentioning rumors of illness he heard on his return.

For the first time since he became President, Mr. Roosevelt permitted himself to be wheeled into the House to address the joint session. It was his first appearance before the legislators since Jan. 7, 1943.

When he had swung himself over to a red plush chair behind a battery of microphones placed on an oak table before him, the President apologized to legislators for speaking while seated.

It was more comfortable, he said, since he did not have 10 pounds of steel around the bottom of his legs —the weight of the braces he used in the past to support himself when making speeches. Mr. Roosevelt, a victim of infantile paralysis years ago, has limited use of his legs.

He insisted upon standing at his brief inaugural for the fourth term in January. But Senator George said it was his understanding Mr. Roosevelt had not used the leg braces much for six or eight months because of the pain their use involves.

The President's decision to appear publicly in his wheel chair and to speak while seated today was applauded by Senator Hill of Alabama, the Democratic whip.

"He means so much to the nation that he ought to conserve his strength any way he can," Hill declared.

Senator Tydings said he thought Mr. Roosevelt, bronzed by the sun on his boat trip back to the United States, looked very fit indeed.

Senator George (D.-Ga.) thought the President "looked much better than he did when I saw him a day or two before he went away" but was "noticeably tired" as he read the final portion of his address.

"His voice doesn't have the resilience it once had," the Georgia senator commented.

Some legislators said they thought the President fumbled for words at times, but others thought this was caused primarily by the fact that he departed so often from his text and sometimes had difficulty making a smooth transition back to it.

Roosevelt Writes To Eight Conferees

Washington, March 1 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt believes that the United Nations conference at San Francisco can remove the "political, economic and social causes of war." In a letter to the eight members of the American delegation to the conference, opening on April 25, he said he feels certain that the meeting "will successfully complete" the plans for an international organization to prevent future wars.

The letter was dated yesterday and formally invited the eight persons to serve on the delegation.

President Put Many Interpolations in Text; Started With Apology for Remaining Seated

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt took his carefully prepared congressional speech for an oratorical buggy ride today. The Chief Executive, a ready ad libber when he is in the mood, bounced in and out of his prepared text as he gave Congress a personal report on the Crimea conference.

A crack at "prima donnas" in world affairs, a remark about his own health and some of his appeal for congressional support of world peace plans all were interpolations, apparently voiced by the President on the spur of the moment.

Many of the changes were minor variations in phraseology characteristic of Mr. Roosevelt's public speeches. On occasion, entirely new matter was introduced.

An example was the President's apology to Congress for addressing it while seated. He explained that it was a relief not to wear the ten pounds of steel braces required for his legs when he must stand erect for such a speech.

One of the spots where Mr. Roosevelt left his text drop in some extemporaneous remarks was after his brief discussion of France and Yugoslavia. This is what he added:

"There are a great many prima donnas in the world who want to be heard. We may have a little delay if we listen to all the prima donnas."

At another point Mr. Roosevelt went away from his prepared text with a brief lecture to home-front war workers:

"Lest someone lay off work in the United States," he said, "I repeat what I think I can say in my sleep: 'We haven't won the war.'"

But many of his asides may never see the light of official record in the words in which they were spoken. The reason is that Mr. Roosevelt gets the same courtesy that goes to a member of Congress—the right to revise his own speech for the Congressional Record, which is posterity's official account of his words.

An airtighe clamp dropped temporarily on the official record of the ad libs even before they were made.

Stenographers for The Congressional Record took down everything Mr. Roosevelt said, but they did not transcribe their notes immediately because their instructions from the White House were to use the prepared text.

Later in the day an official transcription was made and hurried to the White House, along with a copy made by the President's own stenographer.

Congressmen Praise, Score Roosevelt's Yalta Report

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP) Congressmen received President Roosevelt's Yalta report today with comment running the gamut from praise to dark suspicion.

The legislators' remarks after the President spoke followed generally their own speaking and voting records on foreign affairs.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, majority leader, set the tone of most pro-administration Democratic reaction, asserting the speech was "frank and sincere and it had the admirable quality of being informal."

Spells Hope for Victory

"In every sentence and paragraph," Barkley added, "it breathed hope not only for complete victory over our enemies but for a better world in which nations may develop the arts of peace and happiness in the future."

Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, whose voice on foreign affairs usually is the strongest among the Senate minority, had nothing to say.

Senator Taft of Ohio, another Republican foreign affairs leader, dismissed the address curtly — "very interesting but there was no news in it."

Many of the congressmen, including some of the President's own party, expressed disappointment that they weren't told more.

The extremes were pretty well represented by Rep. Bloom (D-N. Y.) chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee and Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.), ranking minority members on the Ways and Means committee:

Bloom — "The President's truly magnificent speech gave the blueprints on which all the United Nations will be able to lay the joint foundaiton of a just and enduring peace."

Knutson—"It was a studied attempt to sell a bill of goods without opening the wrapper."

Among senators these were at opposite positions:

Hill of Alabama, Democratic whip—"a telling message bringing home to Congress and the American people the epochal events of the Yalta conference."

Wheeler (D-Mont.), long-time foe of Roosevelt foreign policy, expressed hope that Mr. Roosevelt's confidence in Allied promises is not "misplaced" and added: "If the end of the system of unilateral action by Russia and exclusive alliances and balances of power were definitely ended at the Yalta conference, that, of course, would be an accomplishment."

A middle course was taken by Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, who said "the members enjoyed the presentation, but many were a bit disappointed that nothing especially new was disclosed."

House Leader McCormack of Massachusetts spoke for those who held that the President went as far as he could in letting Congress in on what happened in the Crimea:

"It was a dramatic speech on an historic occasion. The speech was as comprehensive as he could have made it at this time."

Brewster is Disappointed

Senator Brewster (R-Me.) expressed disappointment that the President could not reveal some of the "secret understandings" of Yalta. "This indicates no intention to challenge these understandings, but just a desire to know," he said.

Sen. Guffey (D-Pa.): "I think he took all the people of the United States into his confidence and it was a very fruitful, constructive speech."

Rep. Vorys (R-O.): "What worried me was this conversational friendly discussion of secret covenants secretly arrived at."

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.): "It was a fine presentation, and I think the reaction shows that Congress approves."

Rep. Rich (R-Pa.): "I think the plan as outlined by the President would be a fine thing for the world if we could accomplish it without having to look after the policing of the world after it is accomplished."

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) described it as "a very inspiring report indicating that a long step has been taken toward establishment of what the whole world wants most—permanent peace."

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) said "It was a good speech and I liked it, but I regret he could not tell us what solution was worked out on the question of voting in the international peace organization."

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.): "A good presentation of generalities. I wish he had told us what Russia is going to do about Japan."

Rep. O'Konski (R-Wis.), the most vocal Congressional critic of the Big Three plan to partition Poland: "He talked about a free and independent Poland when 130,000 Polish boys can't even go home without being sent to Siberia."

Senator Hatch (D-N.M.): "Apart from it being a great speech, I was most impressed by the President coming before a joint session of the Congress to make a report on foreign affairs. I hope this practice will be continued."

Senator Thomas (D-Okla.): "The President said all that he could say due to the fact that we still are in war. Congress should be satisfied with assurances that it will be represented at forthcoming meetings."

BERLIN, ERFURT HIT BY ALLIED PLANES

Bombers Hammer German Supply Lines Feeding Western Front.

LONDON, Friday, March 2. — (AP) Allied air fleets totalling 5,000 bombers and fighters ripped German communications feeding the entire Western Front yesterday and the blows were followed up last night by RAF Mosquito bombers attacking both Berlin and Erfurt, important rail center 50 miles southwest of Leipzig.

Germany was kept under two-way assault by Italy-based heavy bombers of the U. S. 15th Air Force, which attacked Moosbierbaum oil refinery, 22 miles northwest of Vienna.

The U. S. Eighth Air Force announced that nine bombers and five fighters were missing from its sweeps, which destroyed two jet-propelled planes in the air and nine other enemy planes on the ground. Mustang escorts of the 15th Air Force knocked down five enemy interceptors.

The RAF sent its heavies into an afternoon attack on industrial Mannheim in an attempt to choke off new equipment being fed to German armies on the front. The target area was left aflame.

The non-stop aerial offensive its momentum unchecked after a record breaking month of 100,000 sorties, was led today by a U. S. Eighth Air Force team of 1,200 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and 450 escorting Mustangs.

Targets were Heilbronn, Bruchsal, Goppingen, Reutlingen, Neckarhulm, Ingolstadt, Ulm and Augsburg. Only Heilbronn, Bruchsal and Reutlingen were bombed visually, the remainder being obscured by clouds.

These eight railroad centers serve the Reich's Western, Eastern and Italian fronts. Bruchsal, located north of Karlsruhe, is on the chief supply route serving the Germans facing the American Seventh army.

Following up these American blows, an RAF fleet of more than 600 Lancasters and Halifaxes guarded by probably 200 fighters ripped the communications hub of Mannheim, a Rhine crossing before the Seventh army, and two Ruhr synthetic oil refineries at Kamen, near Dortmund.

Continent-based tactical aircraft were operating at nearly maximum strength. Up to noon the United States 9th Air Force alone had dispatched nearly 1,000 planes despite only scattered stretches of favorable weather. These planes attacked highways and railways on both the western and eastern sides of the Rhine, centering their main weight on the Muenchen-Gladbach and Duesseldorf areas.

Austria Is Raided

The 15th Air Force bombers encountered a cloud cover over the Moosbierbaum refinery and used instruments for the bombing. Results were not observed. A force of 15th Air Force Lightnings bombed the railway yards at Tulin, near Moosbierbaum. At Tulin the railroad from Moosbierbaum joins the main Prague-Vienna line.

1,800 Bombers Hit Reich, 18th Day In Row

through its eighteenth straight day today. More than 1,800 United States and British heavy bombers smashed almost simultaneously against at least ten targets in the Reich.

More than 600 RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes struck two rail and oil cities in western Germany, while more than 1,200 American heavies attacked a chain of eight railway centers in the southern Reich which serve three Nazi battlefronts.

Retreat Lines Lashed

Before noon, the United States 9th Air Force lashed out with almost 1,000 sorties ahead of the blazing Western front. A force of 560 fighter-bombers battered Neuss, cross-Rhine suburb of the Ruhr's Duesseldorf, in the path of the Allied ground drive in the west.

Before worsening weather crippled air operations shortly after noon, the 9th Air Force alone had plastered German retreat lines and troop movements along the Rhine all the way from Neuss to the Moselle Valley ahead of the United States 3d Army drive.

Road Bridges Blasted

Havocs, Invaders and Marauders, 375 strong, blasted eight communications centers and three road bridges from northwest of Cologne to west of Coblenz.

Allied air fleets during February flew more than 100,000 sorties against the Reich with record low losses.

Today's targets for the heavy American bombers were Heilbronn, Bruchsal, Groppingen, Reutlingen, Neckarsulm, Ingolstadt, Ulm and Augsburg. All are within a 150-mile arc bordered roughly by Stuttgart, Munich and Nuernberg.

Mannheim Pounded

The RAF attacks centered on the railroad city of Mannheim on the Rhine and on the Kamen synthetic oil plants near Dortmund.

Italy-based United States 15th Air Force heavy bombers attacked the Moosbierbaum oil refinery, 22 miles northwest of Vienna. Escorting Mustangs blasted down five enemy planes which tried to intercept.

The 15th also sent a force of Lightnings to bomb rail yards near Moosbierbaum from a high level.

seven Soviet armies had opened a powerful new onslaught in East Prussia aimed at wiping out the last Nazi toehold around Koenigsberg.

A Moscow dispatch said Red Army planes attacking the Stettin-Danzig railway and highway, objectives of the Pomeranian push, had blocked traffic on those vital supply routes serving northeastern Pomerania and the Danzig-Gdynia areas.

Report Cavalry Spearheads

Russian infantrymen officially still were 22 miles from those arteries where they run through the Baltic town of Koeslin, and 28 miles from the coast, but dispatches said Cossack and Siberian horsemen under Lieut. Gen. N. S. Oslikovsky were even closer, threatening to cut the routes and seal off thousands of Germans by splitting Pomerania in two.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army gained up to 9 miles and captured eight localities during the day on a 40-mile front northwest, north and northeast of Neustettin, prize communications town taken Wednesday.

The Russians killed 2,000 Germans during the day and captured 400 prisoners. Among booty captured were 16 undamaged airplanes, a midnight Soviet supplementary communiqué said.

Fourteen miles northwest of Neustettin one column took Zechendorf, 11 miles east of Gross-Tychow. Another American war prison camp is at Kolberg, on the Baltic coast 23 miles northwest of Gross-Tychow. Whether the Germans have removed the Americans from these two camps is not known.

Push Along Railway

Fourteen miles east of Bublitz another Russian group seized Falkenhagen, only 5 miles southwest of the seven-way road and rail town of Rummelsburg. Rummelsburg is 70 miles southwest of the free city of Danzig, where the Nazi Gauleiter, Albert Forster, nian bulge captured Eschenriege, 8 miles northwest of Neustettin, and also took Buchwald, 4 miles to the north.

Berlin said the Russians repeatedly attacked Pyritz, 22 miles southeast of Stettin and 14 miles southwest of Stargard. Other Soviet forces were reported to have forced a crossing of the Ihna River 6 miles north of Arnswalde, putting them within 15 miles of Stargard on the east.

Take 10 More Blocks In Breslau

Moscow's communiqué announced the capture of ten more blocks in Breslau, besieged lower Silesian capital, and the seizure of seven localities west of Losonc (Lucenes) in southern Slovakia, but did not mention the East Prussian theater.

Late Berlin broadcasts said that "seven armies" had mounted a major attacks against German positions around besieged Koenigsberg, East Prussian capital. The German high command said its troops had lost ground under these blows, launched after hours of a drumfire artillery barrage.

Koenigsberg District Leader Gager again called on all Germans to make a death stand.

Death For Surrender

"Whoever lays down his arms or his 'Panzer fist' is a traitor and must die," said Wagner. "Dig in and cling to every bit of ground of the Fatherland. Sweat saves blood. Fight like red Indians and battle like lions. Beat up every coward and pessimist."

The Germans said that Russian attacks southeast of Liepaja, west Latvian Baltic port, had tapered off after the "fifth battle of Courland" peninsula during which the Russians "lost 19,000 men, 301 tanks and numerous guns in eight days of fighting." Moscow has never announced any recent fighting in this area, where the remnants of 30 Nazi divisions are isolated in a 5,000-square-mile sector of Latvia.

Berlin's high command acknowledged for the first time that Poznan, western Polish stronghold whose capture was announced by Premier Stalin February 23, had fallen. It said that Major General Gonnell's reduced garrison had succumbed after having fired its last shot."

Danzig Is Cut Off From Germany By Drive For Baltic, Reds Say

London, March 1 (AP)—Red Army tank spearheads sweeping through a splitup German front have cut Danzig off from Germany by land, a Moscow dispatch said today, and the Germans said the Russians had crossed the Ihna River defense line east of Stettin.

"This rush upon the sea has definitely cut Danzig off from Germany by land," said a dispatch by Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent in Moscow.

Gilmore said a large section of eastern Pomerania also appeared to have been cut off.

New Nazi Retreat

"Col. Gen. A. K. Sokolsky's artillery has the Danzig-Stettin coastal railway under fire in several sectors and there is no traffic moving from east to west," another dispatch from Gilmore said.

The German communiqué said Marshal Gregory Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army forced the crossing of the Ihna, a river flowing in an east-west direction to Stargard, a stronghold 19 miles east of Stettin, then turning north toward the Baltic.

Farther east, the Germans said, Marshall Rokossovsky's army forced the Germans into another retreat south of Bublitz, 22 miles from the coastal railway, whose capture the Russians announced last night.

A retreat southeast of Rummelsburg, 15 miles east of Bublitz, also was announced by the Germans.

Earlier, German broadcasts said Rokossovsky had plunged 12 miles north of Bublitz to Pollnow, only 16 miles from the railway and 30 miles north of captured Neustettin.

Three Cities Apparently Cut Off

Gilmore said Kolberg, Koeslin and Schlawe, a string of cities spaced 25 miles apart from southwest to northeast on the Stettin-Danzig railway, appeared to have been cut off from one another by artillery fire brought within range by Rokossovsky's armored and motorized swoop.

Stolp, 15 miles east of Schlawe, appeared to have been caught in the area blocked out by the Russians, he added.

Tanks and mobile infantry were receiving cavalry support in the northward surge toward the Baltic. Large formations of Red Air Force Stormoviks threw battered German Army and Volkssturm units into confusion.

Railways, Transport Bombed

The Stormoviks pounded the railway and groups of German transport, easily spotted in the flat country.

Telling of the capture of Neustettin, big communications hub, Red Star said "demoralized Germans surrendered one position after another" and quickly gave up the stronghold.

On the Berlin front, Moscow dispatches said there were indications that the Russians had finally begun large-scale operations across the Neisse in the thick defense zone between that river and the Spree.

Attacking "East Wall"

This is in the "East Wall" which the Germans have prepared as Berlin's southeastern defenses.

The fighting continued to be violent in Breslau, Silesian industrial capital where the Russians had won about a fourth of the city and virtually all the important suburbs.

[Reuters reported from Moscow that Russian forces on the Neisse front today had captured Naumburg, only 15 miles east of the main river bastion of Goerlitz.]

Russian Push Toward Baltic Bars Traffic On Danzig Road

London, Friday, March 2 (AP)—Russian troops widened their middle Pomeranian wedge toward the Baltic coast yesterday, driving one spearhead to within 11 miles of an American prisoner of war camp at Gross-Tychow.

Berlin announced meanwhile that again called on every able-bodied German to erect fortifications.

BRITISH RECOVER GROUND IN ITALY

Retake Land on the East Bank of the Senio—U. S. 5th Army Front Quiet—Lines Bombed

ROME, March 1 (AP)—Counter-attacking British Eighth Army troops have regained some of the ground on the east bank of Italy's Senio River below the Russi-Lugo road that they lost earlier to German raiding parties, Allied headquarters announced today.

A number of prisoners were taken in this action, which occurred about seventeen miles inland from the Adriatic coast, but part of the German forces still remain on the east bank of the stream.

Other Eighth Army units drove back two strong enemy fighting patrols that attacked at night across the Senio immediately south of the main Faenza-Bologna highway.

In numerous other clashes in Eighth Army areas the Germans apparently sought to ascertain Lieut. Gen. Sir Richard L. McCreery's troop dispositions.

Fifth Army Front Quiet

The American Fifth Army front remained fairly quiet, although German mortars pounded away steadily at newly won positions on the United States Tenth Mountain Division and Brazilian troops on Mount Belvedere and Mount della Torraccia southwest of Bologna.

Most of the 1,900 sorties flown yesterday by Allied war planes were aimed at completing the destruction of Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's major escape route to the north through the Brenner Pass.

A fleet of more than 500 United States Fifteenth Air Force heavy bombers participated with Twelfth Air Force medium bombers in a day-long pounding of bridges and rail yards. Thirteen Allied planes were lost and one enemy aircraft was destroyed.

First reports gave no indication whether the intensification of the aerial onslaught on the Brenner line meant that Marshal Kesselring had begun to use it to withdraw a substantial number of troops.

British Use Propaganda

The air attack continued through last night when American A-20 bombers blasted road targets in the Po Valley. A Twelfth Air Force Mosquito, manned by Capt. Lawrence Englert of Erie, Pa., and Lieut. Earl Dickey of Tampa, Fla., shot down a Junkers 188 near Parma last night.

In some sectors the blare of propaganda from loudspeakers succeeded the roar of cannon. General McCreery's headquarters said that in an area north of the Faenza-Bologna highway an Eighth Army propaganda broadcast "caused temporary cessation of German machine-gun fire while the enemy listened" and subsequently a heated discussion among the Germans was heard.

Commons Votes Churchill Full Confidence

London, March 1 (AP)—The House of Commons gave Prime Minister Churchill a unanimous vote of confidence tonight in support of the Big Three decisions at Yalta.

The vote was 413 to 0.

The action came after three days of Britain's most important foreign-policy debate since the war began and constituted the first legislative indorsement of the Big Three's Yalta decisions by one of the great powers.

Earlier, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, indicating the extent of arrangements for Germany's downfall, told Commons that plans were ready for the control of the press and radio in the Reich.

Leading Churchill Triumph

It was perhaps Churchill's most sweeping triumph in the eleven tests of strength he has had since taking office. He won the past three tests by votes of 425 to 23, 279 to 30 and 340 to 7.

The House vote came after a last-minute appeal for unbroken unity by Eden, during which he warned Austria to part company with Nazi Germany.

Eden disclosed that agreement between Russia and the United States had been worked out at Moscow last November 1 for "dealing with Austria, the first victim of Nazi aggression."

Austria's Position "Separate"

"The position of Austria, which has waged war as an integral part of Germany," he said, "is, nonetheless, I think, a rather special one. It is not conceivable in our judgment that she can be placed on an equal footing with liberated territory or Allied territory, or any arrangement of that kind. But it has, on the other hand, been repeatedly made clear that in final settlement account must be taken of Austria's own contribution."

Eden bluntly declared that members of the Polish Lublin Committee did not make a good impression upon himself or Churchill during their conferences in Moscow several months ago.

"There is no question of our affording recognition to them," he asserted — a firm indication that Britain would refuse to go farther than the Big Three's proposition to set up a new Polish coalition government.

Transfer Of Poles Noted

In a simultaneous debate proceeding in the House of Lords, Viscount Cranborne, speaking for the Government, said he understood that transfer of the Polish population out of some of the area to be taken over by Russia was already under way.

"I understand the Lublin Poles have already concluded an agreement with the Ukrainian, White Russian and Lithuanian Soviet republics providing for an exchange of populations," Cranborne said. "I understand that the exchange has already begun."

Austria Urged To Break

Winding up the debate on the Crimea conference decisions, the Foreign Secretary urged the people of Austria to break their connections with Nazi Germany and warned them that "time is running short."

"It remains the wish of the Government that a free and independent Austria shall be re-established," he said.

Eden also announced that there would be a meeting of representatives of the British Commonwealth of Nations in London before April 25, when the World Security Conference opens in San Francisco.

Land For Holland

Deputy Prime Minister Clement Atlee told Commons earlier that Germany might lose part of her land to Holland as compensation for Nazi devastation.

"If it is necessary to take some German soil to make it up to the entirely innocent Dutch people, who have seen their land destroyed, I shall not complain," he declared as the House moved toward a vote of confidence demanded by Prime Minister Churchill to place Britain squarely behind the Big Three decisions at Yalta.

Same Stand On Poland

"Or if it is necessary to clear certain areas in order to enable the Polish people to lead a full, free life, I shall not complain and I don't think the Germans have the right to complain."

Prime Minister Churchill said Tuesday that most of East Prussia Danzig and Upper Silesia would go to Poland and has declared himself in favor of shifting populations if necessary.

Sir Arthur Salter, one of Britain's outstanding economic and governmental experts, declared that safeguards against future German aggression "will need a treaty which will be severe by comparison with the much-abused Treaty of Versailles . . . but less severe than strict consideration of justice would permit."

The Government, by a vote of 396 to 25, yesterday crushed the rebellious Conservative bloc's move to censure the Big Three's plans for post-war Poland.

Holds Victors Are Responsible.

In his discussion of the forthcoming peace treaty, Sir Arthur declared: "I do not accept the idea that a just peace is one which treats the country which started the world war exactly as if she had not done so, and encourages a would-be aggressor to gamble on the hypothesis of heads I win and tails I do not lose."

The Allies after the last war made the mistake, not of taking too much from Germany, but of taking it in the wrong form," said Sir Arthur, who was general secretary of the Reparations Commission in 1920. He indorsed the Crimean proposal for reparations i nkind. He contended that the adjustment of frontiers as a result of the war was "quite clearly the victors' responsibility" and could not be transferred to a proposed world security league. He also assailed "the timid approach" of the Dumbarton Oaks conference to the issue of sovereign equality and expressed the hope that mutual aid associations would develo pin a federal direction.

Coming to grips with the question of whether Britain would have an equal post-war status with Russia and the United States, Sir Arthur said: "If we mean that our leg of the tripod is to be merely this little island, the answer is 'No'; but if we mean the Commonwealth of Nations, the answer is 'Perhaps we can be.'"

Lieut.-Col. Sir Arthur Heneage, a member of the Interallied Control Commission in Germany after the last war, argued that it was absolutely essential to allow their families to accompany the officers and men assigned to control Germany after the victory in order to reduce fraternization.

ROMANIA FACES POLITICAL CRISIS

LONDON, March 1 — (AP) Romania smoldered in a new Political crisis today as young King Mihai appointed Prince Barbu Stirbey to form a new government replacing that of Gen. Nicolae Radescu, who resigned after street clashes in Bucharest and other cities.

The Leftist national democratic front suggested a broad program to clean out all Fascist elements, ensure Romania's independence and security, and bring war criminals to trial.

Prince Stirbey, a leader of the National Peasant party, served as premier in 1927, shortly after the death of King Ferdinand. He broke the ice for negotiations resulting in Romania's armistice with the Allies last year when he slipped out of the country and engaged in secret talks in Cairo.

Later he headed the Romanian delegation which went to Moscow and negotiated an armistice with Russia after King Mihai threw out the pro-Axis government.

Diplomatic circles in London described the Romanian political situation as chaotic and said prospects for any sort of a regime capable of handling the situation seemed remote.

Radescu was given the task of cleaning up Fascist and pro-Fascist elements in the administration but in recent weeks the national democratic front attacked him, arguing he was not carrying out a Fascist purge. Radescu also has been criticized in Moscow utterances.

Arciszewski's Wife Arrested

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—The Polish exiled government in London said today that the sixty-year-old wife of Premier Tomasz Arciszewski had been arrested in Poland by Russian political police Feb. 20. The announcement said the government had received information that a number of Polish Red Cross workers also had been arrested on the same day.

French Rake Italian Coast

PARIS, March 1 (AP).—German supplies and munitions depots on the Italian Riviera were raked by a French naval flotilla in a week-long operation from Feb. 21 to Feb. 28, the French Navy ministry announced today.

French Seek Remedies For Drop in Birth Rate

DeGaulle Heads Commission to Survey Population Problem

PARIS, March 1 (AP). — The French government announced today creation of an inter-ministerial commission of eight members headed by General Charles De Gaulle to survey the problem of France's dwindling population.

If the present birth rate continues, the government said France, at the end of the century, will be a nation of only 25,000,000 persons—including a large percentage of aged.

The commission will seek to increase the birth rate by measures to encourage childbearing and to organize "artificial repopulation by controlled and directed immigration." It also will study means of repopulation of rural areas by migration from the cities.

ARMY CIVILIAN GETS BLACK MARKET TRIAL

PARIS, March 1 (AP)—The first American civilian technician to face court martial in the United States Army's drive to clean up black market operations involving military personnel went on trial today charged with issuing fictitious Army documents to obtain huge quantities of cognac.

The civilian technician is Arthur H. Lang, 2d, of Newark, N. J., employed in the Army Exchange Service in Paris as a $350 per month accountant. He said he had been a student in New York University night school.

French civilian witnesses testified they planned to use requisitions issued by Lang to obtain 600,000 bottles of cognac for resale in the black market.

The prosecution introduced what it called fictitious Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force documents that included authorizations for the purchase and transport of various amounts of cognac aggregating 27,000 bottles.

Lang admitted in signed statements, also introduced in testimony, that he drew up the documents, signed them with fictitious names of officers and equipped some of them with what purported to be the SHAEF seal.

He asserted this intention, however, was simply to help an Air Force lieutenant friend of his to obtain 500 bottles of cognac for a Christmas party at an officers' club.

Lang admitted he accepted 8,000 francs (about $160) from a civilian involved in the case but contended this was only a loan.

Sgt. Andrew J. Shagan, of 1045 Bryant Avenue, the Bronx, N. Y., was sentenced to twenty years today for diversion of Army supplies into the black market. A member of the 724th Railway Operating Battalion, he pleaded guilty before a general court martial to wrongful disposition of two cases of post-exchange rations and 500 packages of cigarettes.

Wants to Know Why Couple Stayed in France During War

PARIS, March 1 (AP).—The American government is investigating the activities of Mrs. Frank Jay Gould during the German occupation of France, it was learned today. Mrs. Gould, whose property has been sequestered by the French government, pending an investigation of her investment in a Monte Carlo bank in the summer of 1944, was summoned to the American Embassy.

The Embassy declined to comment, on the ground that it was a case for the French authorities, but French sources said the government at Washington wished to know why she and her husband did not return to America after Pearl Harbor. She told officials her husband was too ill to travel. At present he is on the Riviera.

French authorities are inquiring into the identities and background of various Frenchmen connected with the Monte Carlo bank, which the Finance Ministry says was an agent for the Germans. Mrs. Gould has explained that she invested $100,000 in the bank so that her husband would not be carried off to Germany.

Goetterdaemmerung on Rafters

WITH THE UNITED STATES FIRST ARMY, at the Erft River March 1 (AP)—"The shame of German defeat is too much to bear." This was the farewell note left by a German man, his wife and his daughter. Their bodies were found hanging from the rafters in their home at Elsdorf when American troops captured the town. Their dog was found hanging beside them.

Stork Breaks Stern Rule On Fraternizing in Reich

By The Associated Press

WITH THE UNITED STATES THIRD ARMY, in Germany, March 1—A frantic German man and his wife sought the aid of the United States Third Army today, and the old rule against fraternizing with the enemy went by the boards.

Capts. Alfred Hartmann of Malone, N. Y., and Elwyn Akers of St. Louis, Mo., in fact, spent four hours with the couple, and when it was over a seven and a half pound boy had been ushered into the world to the accompaniment of heavy artillery fire.

The grateful parents named the baby Franklin Delano Ludwig.

U.S. Rhine Push Shifts From Second Into High

HEADQUARTERS, 12th Army Group, March 1 (AP).—A strict news blackout has been clamped on the extent of the advance in the current Allied push toward the Rhine, but—

When the campaign was plotted, three plans were drawn up—fast, medium and slow, and—

The Americans started on the slow plan. The rapid strides in the early hours brought a quick shift to the second, and now it can be disclosed that the armies are moving under plan No. 3, geared for maximum speed.

Stephen Early Visits Press With 3d Army

On the 3rd Army Front, Feb. 27 (AP—Delayed By Censorship)—Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, on a public relations mission for Supreme Headquarters, visited the 3rd Army press camp today and said he hoped to view some part of this front tomorrow.

Early traveled through this same general area 27 years ago as a soldier in World War I.

"It's much different now," he said.

PILOT DIED TRYING TO SAVE FRIEND

Rome, March 1 (A. P.).—A Flying Fortress pilot of the Fifteenth United States Air Force who died trying to save an injured crewman in a flaming plane, and another pilot who brought his battered Fortress back to base in the face of heavy odds, were today decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross.

Posthumously honored was Lieut. William C. Schild of 51 Walkill avenue, Middletown, N. Y. His Fortress caught fire on being hit by flak over the north of Italy on June 22. After his crew had bailed out, Lieut. Schild stayed on, trying to revive his wounded co-pilot and help him escape. The bomber exploded in air, and those who had parachuted to safety were later informed by Italian Partisans that Lieut. Schild's body was found in the charred wreckage of his plane, his arms around the dead co-pilot.

Also decorated was Capt. Walter L. Glass, 24 years old, of Slingerlands, N. Y., who saved the lives of several of his crew by refusing to give the bail-out order and by bringing the flak-shattered plane home from a Vienna raid on October 7.

Widow Denies Marconi Suicide

ROME, March 1 (AP).—Countess Maria Cristina Marconi, widow of Guglielmo Marconi, denied today a suggestion in the Rome newspaper "Libera Stampa" that the inventor, who died in 1937, killed himself to avoid turning over "the secret of a death ray" to Mussolini. "Nothing concrete ever led me to believe in the existence of the famous death ray," the widow said. She added that Marconi had suffered from heart disease for some time before his death.

SKIRMISHES IN ITALY

Rome, March 1 (A. P.).—German raiding parties, striking across the Senio River south of the Russi-Lugo road, about seventeen miles inland from the Adriatic coast, have driven Eighth Army triips from some of their positions, Allied headquarters announced today.

Allied forces promptly counter-attacked and took a number of prisoners, but part of the German forces still remain on the east bank of the stream.

Two other strong enemy fighting patrols drove across the Senio immediately south of the main Faenz-Bologna highway at night and attacked Eighth Army strongpoints, but were driven back.

Two Killed in Greek Flare-Up

ATHENS, March 1 (AP).—Greek National Guardsmen and E. L. A. S. sympathizers clashed today in Levadeia, fifty-two miles northwest of Athens, after 300 former E. L. A. S. troops accused of violating the civil law attempted a mass escape. Two guardsmen were killed and seven wounded, and twenty-five demonstrators were wounded. A British major standing near the entrance of the town hall also was seriously wounded by a grenade explosion.

REDS LAUD CHURCHILL

Moscow, March 1 (A. P.).—The Soviet Army paper Red Star declared today that Prime Minister Churchill's address in the British House of Commons Tuesday had rebuffed all critics of the decisions reached by the Big Three at Yalta.

The paper singled out Polish groups in the United States, which, it said, were "supported by Hearst, McCormick and other newspaper gangsters" for criticizing the decisions on Poland, but added:

6,000 Nazis in Convoy Perish

STOCKHOLM, March 1 (AP).—Patrolling Allied bombers pounced on a German convoy bound from Norway to Denmark and sank eight of fifteen ships, the Stockholm "Sydsvenska Dagbladet," reported today. Quoting Danish sources, it said the action occurred off the north tip of Denmark several days ago, and that 6,000 to 7,000 German soldiers perished in the sinkings.

Finns Protest Wage Ceilings

HELSINKI, March 1 (AP).—The Finnish Trades Union Congress has appealed to the government to increase wage ceilings generally because "food rations are insufficient and workers are forced to make purchases on the black market." Widespread strikes have tied up most of Finland's flour mills.

JAPANESE RESISTANCE NEAR LASHIO CRACKING

KANDY, Ceylon, March 1 (AP)—Chinese First Army troops, pursuing the Japanese southward along the old Burma Road, have driven to within fifteen miles of the railhead at Lashio, 130 miles northeast of Mandalay, front dispatches said today.

British Fourteenth Army troops, closing on Mandalay, pushed south and east in the Singu bridgehead area, capturing five villages, and repulsed three artillery-supported enemy attacks in the Myinmu bridgehead. Both bridgeheads are on the left bank of the Irrawaddy River. Singu and Myinmu are forty miles north and twenty-nine miles west of Mandalay, respectively.

On the Burma west coast, West African troops of the Fifteenth Indian Corps are approaching Dalte, sixty miles southeast of Akyab, against stiffening enemy resistance, the war bulletin said.

Chinese Burma Drive Nears Lashio

Kandy, Ceylon, March 1 (AP)—Chinese troops have driven to within 15 miles of the Burma Road railhead at Lashio, 130 miles northeast of Mandalay. An Allied communiqué announced today that Japanese resistance had collapsed in that sector.

The communiqué said the Chinese were rapidly pursuing the enemy toward Lashio, the terminus of the railway from Mandalay.

British Empire forces, meanwhile pressed their semi-circle of Irrawaddy bridgeheads closer to Mandalay. The communiqué said the British were fighting 40 miles north and 29 miles west of Mandalay after capturing five villages.

On the west coast they were approaching Dalte, 60 miles southeast of Akyab.

AUSTRALIA RECEIVED $977,000,000 FROM US

CANBERRA, Australia, March 1 (AP)—Australia received $977,000,000 worth of goods and materials from the United States under lend-lease up to Jan. 31, 1945, R. V. Keane, Customs Minister, told the Senate today.

Since the inception of reciprocal aid to the same date, Australia supplied America with goods and services valued at 223,000,000 Australian pounds (about $709,140,000).

Reporting on his recent mission to the United States, Mr. Keane said that he had reached an agreement under which Australia would continue to receive the most liberal possible lend-lease aid.

Negotiations were proceeding, he said, for the bulk purchase of American machine tools. Mr. Keane announced that America had agreed to release Australia from all financial responsibility for goods from refugee ship cargoes valued at $30,000,000, which were distributed to United States forces, and for goods valued at $34,000,000, which were used by Australia in the war effort and which came within the lend-lease category.

ENEMY BEGINS TO CRACK

Part of Incompleted Airfield Taken, Leathernecks Push Ahead.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Friday, March 2.—(AP) The Marines punched within less than a mile of ending their drive across Iwo's five-mile length Thursday as front reports told of the Japanese reforming for a last stand on the island's hilly north tip.

While Leathernecks moving north of the town of Motoyama occupied part of an incompleted airfield, others moved 800 yards northeast to approach Hill 362, one of the few good promontories in enemy hands. The hill is 1,000 yards from the northeast end of the island.

Japs Prepare Attack

Aerial observers noted enemy movements in the third of Iwo still in Japanese hands which suggested regrouping for a last fight to the death in rugged terrain.

Aboard an expeditionary flagship, Associated Press Correspondent Morrie Landsberg said the compressed enemy garrison has begun to fire at warships offshore instead of saving dwindling ammunition for land fighting.

"They may be beginning to crack," Landsberg said.

The curving Marine line also bulges 800 yards north of Motoyama town.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the advances in a communique this morning.

Although the three Marine divisions have wrested most of the high ground from the enemy and are driving downhill, in places enemy resistance continued fierce and gains were limited.

One of the few penetrations of the Iwo area by enemy planes—an area dominated from the start by carrier-based aircraft of the U. S. Fifth fleet—was reported.

Early Thursday a small group of Nipponese planes dropped some bombs but the communique said they "caused no damage." One raider was shot down by warship anti-aircraft guns.

Enemy regrouping in order to amass fading strength, would mean an attempt to raise the already high price in Yank blood but it also would entail giving up hundreds of pillboxes and emplacements through which the garrison is scattered.

Evidently the Marines must go in and get the Nipponese for there still is no sign of an all-out Banzai charge.

The capture of the town of Motoyama did not yield a single civilian.

Occasional mortar and artillery fire still is hammering the advancing Marines but unloading of supplies on the beaches is proceeding.

Enemy nighttime counterattacks continue but they are small scale and are repulsed.

The biggest gains Thursday were made on the west by Maj. Gen. Rockey's Fifth Marine division and in the center by Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third. The latter pushed onto the airfield, which had not been completed when the invasion opened Feb. 19. Two other airfields are in Marine hands.

On the east side, the progress of Maj. Gen. Cates' Fourth was slow because of stiff opposition.

Erskine's Third more than doubled the total number of enemy prisoners taken in the first 11 days by bagging 17 yesterday. The previous total bag since D-day had been announced as 10.

Marine artillery, warship guns and carrier planes backed the latest Marine advances.

The communique reported 37 more Japanese killed and 52 captured in mopping up operations on Saipan, the base from which B-29s are flying to Japan, and the killing of 35 Japanese and capture of 11 on Guam, Nimitz' headquarters island. Seven more have been killed and two taken prisoner on Tinian, another B-29 base in the Marianas.

What Tokyo Is Saying.

In a broadcast communique, Japanese Imperial Headquarters today announced that the American Marines on Iwo had suffered 13,500 casualties. The Tokyo radio had previously said 20,000.

The communique also said that the Japanese on Iwo had destroyed 226 American tanks and sunk fifteen warcraft and six landing ships. It named Lieut.-Gen. Tadamichi Kuribayashi as the supreme commander on Iwo.

The Tokyo radio said that a strong formation of Japanese planes today made violent attacks on a concentration of American warships in the vicinity of Iwo and the Bonin Islands immediately to the north.

All these enemy assertions were wholly unconfirmed.

JAPS CLAIM U.S. CONVOY OFF BONIN ISLANDS

NEW YORK, March 1 — Tokyo radio said tonight a concentration of American convoys had been spotted and attacked by Japanese planes off the Bonin islands, north of Iwo Jima. The broadcast, as monitored by NBC, said American shipping off Iwo Jima also was hit.

HARBOR CAPTURED

ENEMY FLEES INLAND

Landings Put Our Troops on Key to East Indies and the China Sea

By The Associated Press.

MANILA, Friday, March 2—American invasion forces landed Wednesday on Palawan, westernmost of the Philippines, and quickly captured its main port, capital city and two airfields in a move to dominate the South China Sea approaches to Japanese-held Indo-China, Thailand, Malaya and Singapore.

Achieving complete surprise, the invaders "seized control" of the fifth largest island of the archipelago, 250 miles southwest of Manila, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today in a communiqué.

He pointed out that the successful operation by Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe's veteran Forty-first Infantry Division will "insure the safe passage of our own sea transport" through the Sulu Sea, make the area hazardous for the enemy and will "condemn all his conquests to the south to recapture."

To the south lie the rich Netherlands Indies.

General MacArthur said the enemy "engrossed in operations elsewhere, again failed to diagnose our plans and properly prepare his defense."

Consequently, American losses were termed "very light."

In Manila, meantime, Thirty-seventh Infantry doughboys captured the Agricultural Building in the downtown area after a bitter fight in the basement. The remaining hold-out Japanese were squeezed into the Finance Building fighting to the last man.

Fighting continued all along the Shimbu line, in the Marikina watershed area vital to Manila's water supply.

One section of the line was overrun by American troops, but the Japanese still were inside interconnecting concrete tunnels that commanded wide fields of fire.

Enemy Counter-Attack Beaten Off

In another sector of the line the Sixth Division beat off two counter-attacks, one a banzai charge preceded by a rocket and mortar barrage.

The Eighth Army landed near Puerto Princesa, midway along the 275-mile east coast of the narrow island which juts into the South China Sea.

They pushed swiftly inland to seize the town and two near-by airfields. The Japanese fled to the hills, General MacArthur said, and American losses were light.

Tokyo radio said last night that a regiment of American troops had landed on Palawan at 11 A. M. Wednesday and engaged the small Japanese garrison in a "violent battle."

Palawan, seventeenth Philippine island invaded by General MacArthur's forces, has been bombed several times by American heavy bombers concentrating on the Puerto Princess area. This sector has waterfront facilities, airdromes and a seaplane base.

Occupation of Palawan will go far toward sealing off Japanese holdings in the southern Philippines from access to the South China Sea.

The stringbean-shaped island, 275 miles long and twenty-five across its widest part, is the dividing line between the China Sea and the Sulu Sea.

Palwan in American hands places United States forces along more than 600 miles of the South China Sea, stretching in an arc from Lingayen Gulf on western Luzon to Palawan's southern extremity.

The Forty-first Division is one of the most veteran outfits in the Pacific. It is serving its thirty-fifth month. It served in sixteen major assault invasions, including the Marshalls, Admiralties, Saipan Guam, the Palaus and Leyte.

General MacArthur said:

"The air bases of Palawan command the western end of the southern water passage through the Philippines by way of the Sulu Sea and interdict the north and south channel of the South China Sea, the enemy's main water transportation line to Indo-China, Thailand, Malaya, Singapore, Burma and the East Indies.

"The progressive security of the Philippines as a base thus tends to cut the enemy in two and condemn all his conquests to the south to recapture."

A Blue Network correspondent, reporting from Manila, said two landings were made in Puerto Princesa Harbor and the bay, and three airstrips had been captured.

On Luzon, meantime, First Cavalry Division troops southeast of Manila captured hills dominating the town of Antipolo from the southwest after sharp fighting. They seized Cardona on the north shore of Laguna De Bay.

Three Japanese counter-attacks were repulsed east of Montalban, eighteen miles east of Manila, where the enemy has considerable strength.

General MacArthur said the fighting along this Marikina watershed area was increasing in intensity. Fighters closely supported the American ground troops.

WARSHIPS OFF AKYAB

San Francisco, March 1—The Blue Network intercepted a Tokyo radio broadcast last night which said that Allied warships were massing at the British-held west Burma coast port of Akyab.

The broadcast also said the Fourteenth American Air Force in China and the Chinese Air Force are being heavily reinforced.

Our Medium Bombers Damage 15 More Near Hong Kong

MANILA, Friday, March 2 (AP)—Eleven ships were sunk and fifteen others damaged as medium units swept coastal craft near Hong Kong, China.

Liberators dropped ninety-eight tons of bombs on northern Borneo airdromes. Bombs weighing 1,000 pounds severely cratered the runways of Tarakan and Jesselton airdromes.

Formosa was hit with seventy-eight tons of bombs concentrated in the Takao area on the southwest coast. Fires and explosions were observed. Three Japanese planes were shot down in combat there.

Two American planes were lost in a forty-nine-ton bombing of Mindanao, large southern Philippine island.

Luzon Fight Stiff On Shimbu Line

With the 6th Division East of Manila, March 1 (AP)—The battle for the Manila area has spread into the rugged foothills of the Sierra Madre mountains, where the entrenched Japanese control the capital's water supply and may blow up the dams.

Eight-inch rockets and six-inch mortars are being used by the enemy fighting from caves and tunnels in what veteran American officers describe as the most rugged and defensively favorable mountain terrain they have encountered.

Within a total 25-mile front on the Shimbu line from Imo Dam on the Angat River to Antipolo the Japanese hold the water sources, and one American mission of the current offensive is to secure the watershed.

Favorable Terrain

American officers believe the Japanese chose their positions primarily because of the favorable terrain which permits them to fight a delaying action. The position also poses an artillery threat to Manila.

Thousands of Filipino forced laborers and Formosan labor troops are working to perfect an intensive network of caves, pillboxes and tunnels. Filipinos who escaped report. The Japanese began intensive preparations four months ago.

Suicide For Japs

This is a suicide engagement for the Japanese troops behind the mountain ranges for they are holed up with no chance to escape. For the doughboys it is a rugged, dangerous, sweaty job digging them out man by man.

The total task ahead is far more difficult than the conquest of Manila, and possibly of more military importance.

The full wrath of American dive bombers—Marines and Army—and heavy artillery is blasting the way for the doughboys.

The Japanese unleashed hundreds of their new rockets from th hills. Some launching sites and equipment have been captured. The Japanese are using both heavy steel and wooden platforms with about an eighteen-foot runway to hurtle the projectiles, which are more than three feet long. They explode with a wide scattering of shrapnel.

8 Miles From Dam

Filipinos say there are strong Japanese divisions around the Ipo Dam on the Angat River at the northern end of the Shimbu Line. In addition to an elaborate cave network the Japanese are utilizing a sunken aqueduct for defense. The Americans currently are about 8 miles from the dam.

The second dam is at Wawa on the Marikina River about 12 miles southeast of Ipo, and the Yanks have pushed within 2 miles of the dam. Japanese strong points are in three mountains. Americans occupied two slopes of Mount Pacawagan. The others—Mataba and Oro—are being lashed by dive bombers and artillery.

Tokyo Rails Badly Damaged

GUAM, March 1 (AP)—Superfortresses inflicted "important damage" on two of Tokyo's major railyards and a war plant in their attack last Sunday, which ripped up more than 240 blocks of the downtown area, the Twenty-first Bomber Command announced today.

Maj. M. B. O'Connor, photographic interpreter for this command, estimated 29,000,000 square feet of Tokyo had been damaged by the record-breaking attack. Unofficial estimates ranged from 240 to 260 city blocks.

Major O'Connor said reconnaissance photographs showed "important damage" to at least three major military targets in the area—two big railroad yards and stations and a fertilizer works that had been converted to manufacturing war materiel.

The damaged area runs east from the Imperial Palace to the Sumida River, and north from the palace to include the Uweno railway station, whose elevated tracks are an important traffic artery. Main yards of the Jabor lines, vital railroad serving much of Honshu, were also in the blackened area.

"This represents a serious loss to the Japanese," Major O'Connor said, "as with sea lanes shut down by our fleet they depend more and more on their railways, which they are overworking.

"We know how important railway damage is to them, for after our raid on the Kawasaki aircraft plant at Akashi the damaged rail lines which we hit were the first thing they repaired."

CHIANG ANNOUNCES ALL-PARTY SYSTEM

He Calls National Assembly to Meet Nov. 12 to Draw Up a Constitution

EQUAL STATUS PLEDGED

Leader Implies, However, That Full Action May Hinge on the Cooperation of Communists

CHUNGKING, China, March 1 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek took a tentative step toward giving China a long-promised constitutional government with the announcement today that a national assembly in which all parties would enjoy equal status would be convoked next Nov. 12 to draw up a constitution.

He called again on the Communists, however, to incorporate their army and local administration in the National Army and Government, which they hitherto have refused to do. He implied that full implementation of his promise might depend on the Communists falling in line.

"Before the Japanese invasion we were a united nation," General Chiang declared. "Today, but for the Communists and their armed forces, we are a united nation. There are no independent war lords of local governments challenging the central authority."

In announcing his plan for the national assembly, China's leader said that the Communists had rejected a suggestion made by him that an American general be placed in command of Communist forces for the duration of the war under over-all command of General Chiang.

Bars Loose Combination

Between now and the meeting of the national assembly, General Chiang said he would be ready to admit other parties to share in the Government but added:

"I definitely cannot abdicate to a loose combination of parties."

He stipulated that the Kuomintang (National People's Party of which he is head) should consent to the proposed constitutional government.

The Communists' chief negotiator in talks in Chungking that broke down two weeks ago, Gen. Chou En-lai, said at that time that the Government's conciliation proposals had conditions attached that made them "meaningless."

General Chiang indicated that in setting a definite date for the convening of a National Assembly he was bowing to public opinion.

"I am optimistic of national unification and the future of democratic government in our country," he said. "The torrent of public opinion demanding national unity and reconstruction is mounting ever stronger and will soon become an irresistible force. No individual or political party can afford to disregard this force any longer. Let all of us, regardless of affiliations, work together for the twin objectives of our people—national unity and reconstruction."

China, he said, must emerge from this war a united nation, declaring that "only a united nation can effectively perform the tasks of political and economic reconstruction to raise the lot of our toiling masses and handle the problems of external relations in a new and uncharted world."

General Chiang said that no sooner had he met one demand of the Communists than they came up with a fresh one. Their latest demand, he said, was that the Government immediately liquidate the Kuomintang and surrender all power to a coalition of various parties.

Would Admit Communists

He said the Government was willing to admit other parties, including the Communists, but that the Kuomintang would not relinquish its power of ultimate decision and final responsibility for the time and the location of the National Assembly. The Kuomintang even had offered, General Chiang said, to include Communists and other party members in a sort of War Cabinet.

"The war remains to be won," he said. "The future still is fraught with perils. If the Government shirks its responsibility and surrenders its power of ultimate decision to a combination of political parties, the result would be unending friction and chaos, leading to the collapse of the central authority."

China, he insisted, must emerge from the war with a united army. He said that Communist propaganda abroad had tried to justify a private Communist army in China on the ground that, if incorporated in the National Army, it was liable to destruction or disintegration. He declared, also, that the strength of the Communists had been magnified out of true proportion.

"Government forces have always, without exception, borne the brunt of the Japanese attack and will continue to do so. Today, with the whole-hearted cooperation of our Allies, powerful armies are being equipped and conditioned to assume the offensive."

CHUNGKING, China, March 1 (AP)—Liberator bombers of the United States Fourteenth Air Force attacked a convoy of Japanese tankers and destroyers off the French Indo-China coast yesterday and probably sank one vessel, a communiqué announced today.

CHINA HINTS LANDINGS ARE NEAR

Chungking, March 1 (A. P.).—The Chungking radio began a series of broadcasts today calling on the Chinese inhabitants of Jap occupied coastal regions to be prepared to support an Allied landing.

The broadcasts, to be made daily for fifteen days, will be delivered in different dialects.

396,000 Mustered Out Of China Army as Unfit

1,300,000 To Be Disbanded by End of the Year

CHUNGKING, March 1 (AP).—A program of eliminating Chinese Army units considered unfit for combat and building up others possessing real fighting potential already has resulted in mustering out 396,000 men, General Chen Cheng, Minister of War, announced today. By the end of the year, he said, a total of 1,800,000 troops will have been disbanded.

The program is part of plans for strengthening China's Army in preparation for an eventual counter-offensive to drive the Japanese from the continent. The new army will be built around well disciplined and adequately equipped units of "high fighting ability," the war minister said.

Formula To Deal With Aggression

Mexico City, March 1 (AP)—Senator Tom Connally (D., Texas), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said today he believed the United States delegation to the Inter-American Conference here would be able to offer tomorrow a satisfactory formula for dealing with aggression in this hemisphere.

Connally spent the morning in consultations with other members of the United States delegation on a formula which would provide for the use of American forces if necessary to put down any threat of aggression in the Americas.

The Texan is attempting to devise a method that would be acceptable, in his opinion, to Congress.

Depending On U.S. Support

His decision is regarded here as

MAR 2 1945

30.24-23483

extremely important since the rest of the conference delegations are looking toward United States support in their desire to employ collective action to guarantee their security.

As tentatively drafted before Connally's arrival, the formula provides for immediate action by the invocation of President Roosevelt's existing war powers to use force anywhere required by the war effort.

It also recommends treaty arrangements, within the framework of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, to take care of the postwar period.

Modifications Probable

Connally said that some modifications in the tentative draft probably would be made, but that they involved no substantial changes in the over-all plan and that he believed they would be acceptable to the other American republics.

The delegation was meeting again this afternoon in an effort to whip the draft into final form so that it could be presented to a conference committee which was postponed from today at the request of the United States.

Members of the American delegation appeared hopeful that Connally would approve this formula or a substitute which would empower the United States to take effective military action in this hemisphere.

Would Yield To Connally

Senator Warren Austin (R., Vt.), minority leader of the Foreign Relations Committee, devised the formula which Connally now has under study but he said he would rather that the Texan take the leadership in this matter.

Conference today approved two measures in a resolution strengthening the inter-American system designed to give it the powers to keep the peace in this hemisphere.

The resolution piecing together proposals by the United States, Mexico and Paraguay is intended to give the inter-American system the responsibilities to function as an intergral part of the international security organization.

Regular Meetings Approved

The committee, passing upon the resolution, approved measures calling for:

1. Regular four-year meetings of the international conference of American States to formulate general inter-American policy.

2. Annual meetings of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs to compare in principle with the quarterly meetings of the "Big Three" Foreign Ministers.

The committee also approved measures to hold the next international conference of American States in Bogota in 1946 and the foreign ministers' meeting in 1947.

Other parts of the resolution which include provisions for revamping the makeup of the Pan-American Union, designation of delegates to the Union's governing board, and co-ordination of inter-American agencies will be taken up for consideration tomorrow.

The committee adjourned after discussing and voting upon only the first two articles of the resolution. The proposal must be further approved by the plenary session of the conference.

Canada May Revive Meat Rationing

Ottawa, March 1 (A. P.).—Government officials today were discussing whether Canada again would have meat rationing. The rationing was lifted a year ago.

TITO RENAMES ARMY

Marshal Tito has renamed his National Liberation Army, London radio reported today, adding that "from now on it will simply be the Yugoslav Army."

CBS recorded the London broadcast, which added:

"This has been done, Marshal Tito said, because as a result of its war experience it is already playing the part of a modern regular army and it has become the real and only armed force of democratic Yugoslavia."

ADMIRAL QUITS TOKYO CABINET

By Associated Press.

The Japanese Domei news agency reported today that Admiral Seizo Kobayashi has resigned from the Cabinet to lead the movement for a new totalitarian party to replace the powerful Imperial Rule Assistance Political Society which Kobayashi heads.

Simultaneously Domei reported that the Diet probably would be reconvened early in March in a related move toward formation of a new party. In broadcasts recorded by FCC, Domei said both moves were linked with "grave developments of the war situation."

The new party, for which politicians have been agitating for months, is intended to guide Japan's war effort and establish greater unity among the Japanese.

Admiral Kobayashi, who was appointed Minister without portfolio last December 19, tendered his resignation yesterday after discussing the formation of a new party with Emperor Hirohito.

Austrian Troops' Mutiny In Denmark Held Serious

Stockholm Paper Says 200 Were Executed by Germans

The Stockholm newspaper "Svenska Dagbladet" said yesterday that according to reports from Denmark the "mutiny" of Austrian troops in Copennagen Saturday was of "a far more serious nature than hitherto known." Two hundred mutineers were said to have been executed by the German authorities.

The "Svenska Dagbladet" dispatch, reported to the Office of War Information, said that the Austrian troops had had "a long, nerve-straining period of service in Norway behind them, and now were en route to the east front."

"From the very beginning they had expressed an aversion to this move, demanding to stay in Denmark," the dispatch said. "When this demand was rejected, they declared they might as well die in Copenhagen as on the east front and decided to mutiny, hoping to get all the ordinary soldiers with them."

New Romanian Regime Is Left Up to Stirbey

King Asks Him to Form Government to Succeed Radescu's

Prince Barbu Stirbey, Romanian armistice negotiator, has been asked by King Michael to form a new government to succeed that of premier Nicolae Radescu, which resigned Wednesday, the British radio said yesterday in a broadcast reported by the Federal Communications Commission.

The seventy - four - year - old Prince, a member of leading families of Walachia and Moldavia, was Premier for a fortnight in 1927, soon after the death of King Ferdinand. Early in 1944 he headed a peace delegation which attempted to negotiate terms with the Allies in Cairo. The negotiations broke down, and Stirbey finally headed the mission which went to Moscow and negotiated Romania's armistice after King Michael threw out the pro-Axis government.

Stirbey, long associated with Juliu Maniu, Peasant party leader, was among five Romanian political figures who conferred with King Michael in the government crisis that followed demonstrations in Bucharest and other parts of the country and brought Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs, to the Romanian capital.

6 More New Yorkers Freed in Philippines

Additional names of American civilians from the New York area released from internment camps in the Philippines were given out yesterday by the War Department through The Associated Press as follows:

537,000 NAZIS IN TRAPS

Estimate Covers Those Behind Allied Lines, East and West

German troops, estimated up to 537,000, are trapped far behind Allied and Russian lines on both sides of Europe, The Associated Press said yesterday.

Possibly 200,000 more in from fifteen to thirty understrength enemy divisions are trapped in Latvia, where they hold 5,500 square miles of Courland Peninsula. Some 200,000 more are cut off in the 325-square-mile fragment of East Prussia still held by the enemy around Koenigsberg.

Latest estimates on the number of Germans holding French ports, and thus denying these needed facilities to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, were: Dunkerque, 12,000; Lorient, 25,000; St. Nazaire, 35,000; mouth of the Gironde leading to Bordeaux, 40,000. Another 25,000 hold the Channel islands of Guernsey, Jersey and Sark.

JAPANESE REPORT CARRIER BLOWS AGAINST RYUKYUS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Radio Tokyo reported another American carrier plane attack today—this time along the homeland's Ryukyu island outposts—and the resignation of another cabinet minister in a new political shakeup.

There was no further word from the Japanese capital concerning a Wednesday night broadcast that American troops had invaded Palawan island in the southern Philippines. The report lacked American confirmation.

An unconfirmed enemy broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications commission today, said 600 carrier planes raided Okinawa and other Ryukyu islands for six and one half hours—from 7 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Tokyo time.

The broadcast said the planes apparently were from the United States Fifth fleet task force which attacked the Tokyo area Feb. 25. Tokyo claimed 25 American aircraft were shot down.

Resignation of Adm. Seizo Hobayashi from Premier Kuniaki Koiso's cabinet was reported in another broadcast, which added that he had called on Koiso to reconvene the Diet (parliament) "within the next two days."

The resignation followed prolonged criticism of the war situation, which had led to other cabinet changes recently. Kobayashi, former commander-in-chief of the combined Japanese fleet, is president of the powerful Imperial rule assistance association, which has advocated organization of a new political party to intensify war efforts

Tokyo reported the Koiso cabinet had adopted a war production program, also advocated by the association, which authorized the government to take over management of private industry "in view of the critical war situation."

A three-month drive to wipe out the black market in Japan and gather hidden materials needed by industry was announced by Tokyo. Another broadcast reported the death from pneumonia of Adm. Ryozo Nakamura, 68, councilor to the cabinet and former commander of the Second fleet.

U. S. Casualties 11,870 in Week; Total Is 813,032

Stimson Says Policy on Sending Youths Abroad Has Shortened the War

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP).—Army and Navy casualties since Pearl Harbor have mounted to 813,032.

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, reported today that Army losses now total 722,695, while the Navy placed its casualties at 90,337. The aggregate represents an increase of 11,870 from last week's report, of which the Army accounted for all except 672.

Mr. Stimson also disclosed at his news conference that Army losses in Italy, from the invasion on Sept. 9, 1943, to Feb. 25, 1945, amounted to 100,790, including 19,889 killed, 70,402 wounded, and 10,499 missing.

Mr. Stimson also said today that the campaign in Europe and probably in the Pacific would have been delayed if younger soldiers had not been sent overseas as combat replacements. This would have resulted in increased cost in lives, Mr. Stimson said, adding that such a result would "be wholly inexcusable."

He was asked about the policy of sending eighteen-year-olds into combat. Members of Congress have raised the question.

Mr. Stimson explained that at the outset of the war the department had avoided using the youngest of the inductees. This practice, he said, was followed as long as practical by taking individual replacements out of divisions still in the United States and replacing them with inductees or veterans returned from overseas.

However, "subsequent battle emergencies forced considerable variations" in that policy, he said.

"These young men are being trained more intensively and effectively than soldiers in any previous war," Mr. Stimson said.

"Some members of the Congress and the public have confused the training of a division with the training of an individual," Mr. Stimson explained. "The former requires a minimum of a year, preferably longer. The training of an individual to go into a veteran unit is an entirely different matter. . . .

"The impression apparently has grown that the Army is maintaining men of great experience and training in the United States who might well have been sent overseas, and that if we had sent these older men overseas the younger men could have been continued longer in training before actually committed to combat.

"This is not the case. During the last year practically every man less than thirty-five who was physically qualified and for whose job a replacement could be found—either in the form of a physically disqualified man who had been returned from overseas, or a civilian—has been ordered overseas. This process is continuing. Furthermore, the same procedure is being followed in regard to the men in the rear areas overseas.

"Men recently inducted into the Army are given a minimum of fifteen weeks of the most rigorous training which the Army has been able to devise after four years' experience. Most of the replacements since July, 1943, have received seventeen weeks in the basic camps. All have received additional training in staging camps en route to the ports in this country or in replacement-receiving pools overseas where they are under veteran tutelage. Before any man is sent overseas he is submitted to a thorough test to insure that he has assimilated his training and is in fact prepared for combat duty."

Mr. Stimson asserted that "it is my opinion that never before have American soldiers been so thoroughly prepared for their duty in battle."

A breakdown on Army casualties, based on compilation of individual names through Feb. 21 and corresponding tallies for the previous week, follows: Killed, 140,366 and 138,723; wounded, 430,757 and 420,465; prisoners, 60,535 and 60,086; missing, 91,037 and 92,223. Of the wounded, Mr. Stimson said, 213,948 have returned to duty.

Similar figures for the Navy are: Killed, 34,283 and 33,862; wounded, 40,904 and 40,783; prisoners, 4,476 and 4,474; missing, 10,674 and 10,546.

Special Exemptions Provided For Men and Women in Service

WASHINGTON, March 1—(AP) Comparatively few men and women in the military service are required to pay income tax or file a tax return for 1944.

The law provides special exemptions for members of the armed forces. The first $1,500 received each year as active service pay is exempt from taxation. That $1,500 is in addition to the regular $500 exemption which every person gets. Therefore, a service man (or service woman) ordinarily does not need to file a return unless his pay was $2,000 or more.

Benefits and subsistence allowances given to discharged veterans for education and training or vocational rehabilitation under the "GI bill of rights" are also exempt from income tax.

If a service man is on sea duty or outside of the continental United States on March 15, he may postpone filing a return and making any tax payment until the 15th day of the fourth month after he returns to this country. However, the postponement may not be made beyond the 15th day of the third month after the war officially ends.

On the other hand, a service man stationed in the United States must file a return by March 15 if he receives $500 or more in income that is taxable.

If a member of the armed forces has a taxable income but finds that his ability to pay has been "materially impaired" because of his service he may request the collector to defer payment not more than six months after the end of his military or naval service. His request may be in the form of a letter, filed with his return or given to the collector in a reply to a notice for payment.

If a married service man is entitled to postpone filing his return, his civilian wife is entitled to the same postponement if her gross income in 1944 was less than $1,200. If her gross income was $1,200 or more, she must file a return by March 15.

The "armed forces" include the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and the Coast Guard and their women auxiliaries, WACS, WAVES, Women Marines, and Spars. Also Army and Navy nurses and commissioned officers of the coast and geodetic survey and the public health service.

They do not include the Merchant Marine, Civil Air Patrol, the American Field service, the Red Cross field service or the United States Cadet Nurse corps.

Pact With France May Set Lend-Lease Pattern

Washington, March 1 (AP)—The possibility that American lend-lease might provide a stop-gap method of financing European reconstruction appeared today.

It grew out of the signing of a new mutual aid agreement with France late yesterday.

Under terms of the pact, France is to receive $2,575,000,000 in civilian supplies and credits to obtain heavy industrial and transportation equipment.

900 Million In Heavy Equipment

The French will obtain long-life equipment totaling $900,000,000, and ranging from a fishing fleet to locomotives. The balance will consist of consumer goods, such as food and raw materials, and also will include some short-life manufacturing equipment to turn out war-needed items.

So long as the war lasts, the agreement provides, France may obtain the short-life supplies on straight lend-lease. For those supplies received after the end of hostilities she agreed to repay the total cost in 30 annual installments beginning July 1, 1946.

The long-life capital goods are to be paid for twenty per cent on delivery, the balance in 30 equal yearly installments.

With postwar financial-aid programs still in the congressional study stage, some doubts have been expressed that Europe's war ravaged nations would have access to American aid for reconstruction until some time after the fighting ceases.

Agreement With Russia

By making use in the case of the French agreement, however, of a clause in the Lend-Lease Act under which this country may continue shipping to an Allied nation mutual-aid materials earmarked but not delivered before war's end, some observers saw a possible pattern for future negotiations.

A similar agreement, of an amount not yet determined, is being negotiated with Russia. Some months ago it was learned the Russians asked for $6,000,000,000 of industrial and transportation equipment for postwar uses, but at that time received virtually no encouragement.

Firm-Rent Control Urged

Washington, March 1 (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles recommended to Congress today that commercial rents and charges for barber and beauty parlor services be brought under price control.

Bowles also stated that absence of checks on prices of real estate was bringing about a boom "which can have disastrous effect." He would not undertake to say whether OPA was the appropriate agency to administer any control plan, he added in testimony before the Senate Banking Committee, but urged that Congress give its attention to the problem.

OPA Extension Studied

The committee is considering extension of OPA's life after June 30.

The Price Administrator strongly recommended repeal of an amendment, adopted a year ago, which directed that price ceilings for textile products must reflect parity prices for raw cotton.

This was adopted, he told the committee, on the assumption that it would bring increased returns to cotton farmers but its chief effect was to give "huge windfalls" to cotton textile mills.

"Many mills had and still have inventories of cotton purchased far below recent market levels," he said. "It is estimated that at the close of 1944 the difference between the mills' actual cotton costs and the costs assumed in the price ceilings amounted on an annual basis to at least $80,000,000."

Profits Cited

He presented a chart to show that profits of textile mills in the 1936-39 period averaged $28,000,000 a year and in 1944 were $340,000,000.

Bowles said he saw no persuasive reasons for continued exemption of barber and beauty parlor services from price control.

"These account for 1.6 per cent in the cost of living index," he said. "They increased 29 per cent and 40 per cent, respectively, from May, 1942, to November, 1944, and contributed about 5 per cent of the over-all increase in the index.

"There are, to be sure, inherent difficulties in the control of these services. If OPA is authorized to control them, we believe, however, that this aspect of the cost of living can be effectively stabilized."

Roll Call of Senate On Wallace Appointment

200 DIE IN LOSS OF U.S. CARGO SHIP

WASHINGTON, March 1 — (AP) About 200 Coast Guardsmen lost their lives when the Japanese sank the U.S.S. Serpens, 14,250-ton ammunition-carrying cargo ship, the Navy disclosed today.

There were no survivors of the sinking. A "handful" of the ship's crew were ashore when she went down somewhere in the South Pacific area.

At the same time the Navy disclosed the loss of a small salvage vessel the "Extractor," sunk in the central Pacific by one of our own submarines as a result of mistaken identity, and the loss of the large infantry landing craft LCI (L) 600, sunk in the Central Pacific by enemy action.

The submarine which sank the Extractor just before sunrise, scoured the area after discovering its mistake and rescued all but six of the vessel's crew of approximately 60. The six are listed as missing in action.

It was the first reported sinking of an American warship by an American submarine in this war.

The landing craft, with a complement of approximately 25 men, was sunk in January in the harbor of a Pacific base after hitting a Japanese mine. Two men died and one was reported missing.

Lt. Cmdr. Perry L. Stinson, a U. S. Coast Guard, skipper of the Serpens was reported safe, not having been aboard. His wife, Mrs. Dorothy B. Stinson lives in Dermott, Ark.

Lt. (j.g.) Lester P. Condon, 44 Rockdale avenue, New Rochelle, N. Y., skipper of the landing craft, was injured in the loss of his ship. The Navy said it had no casualty status for the skipper of the Extractor, Lt. Horace M. E. Babcock, 303 East Mabel street, Tucson, Ariz., who was presumed to be safe.

The next of kin of all casualties of the three vessels have been notified, the Navy said.

The losses raised the total of naval vessels lost from all causes to 270.

Some Trains Taken Out Of Operation

Washington, March 1 (AP)—An undetermined number of passenger trains quit operating today under an ODT order to eliminate lightly patronized schedules.

The order, issued several weeks ago in a move designed to save coal, forbids the operation of passenger trains which did not have 35 per cent occupancy last November.

G. I.'s Submit a Rotation Plan

Soldiers in the South Pacific List Three Broken Limbs as One Requisite.

Washington, March 1 (A. P.).—The War Department's rotation furlough policy is described in several shades of satire by a soldier from Paterson, N. J., now in the South Pacific, in a letter to Representative Canfield (R.-N. J.).

"Some of us," the unidentified New Jersey veteran wrote Mr. Canfield, "could not wait for a definite policy, so we have prepared our own. With all our difficulties, it serves to emphasize that even here the good old-fashioned American sense of humor prevails."

According to the G. I. "Circular on Rotation of Personnel," only those "enlisted men, officers and second lieutenants" are eligible who have "spent seven or more years in the Southwest Pacific area."

The applicant "must have at least three broken limbs at time of application; compound or linear fractures, strains, sprains, ruptures will not be accepted; the break must be clean."

He must have been awarded at least five of the following medals: Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal, Iron Cross, Order of the Rising Sun.

Limited Selection.

He is ineligible if his name has been entered on the sick book during the seven-year period; if he has at any time contracted athlete's foot, scurvy, beri-beri, ringworm, malaria, St. Vitus dance, bubonic plague, B. O., or common cold; or if he has been in New Guinea for a period in excess of thirty days.

Among those eligible for rotation, the G. I. circular lists the following:

Men over 55 years of age who have completed forty-four consecutive years of faithful service; men who have become deceased. "If a man dies while waiting to be rotated it will be interpreted to mean that he does not wish to return to the United States and his application will be automatically canceled."

The circular concludes: "No applications will be accepted until further notice, as all troops are at present frozen."

17 Republicans Urge Reports By Roosevelt

Washington, March 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt was told by seventeen newly elected House Republicans today that "the people will support a sound program of international co-operation which gives reasonable promise of preventing war."

"It seems to us," the representatives said in a letter to the White House, "that the policy outlined by our party at Mackinac offers the basis for such a program."

[In September, 1943, the Republicans' Postwar Advisory Committee met at Mackinac Island, Mich. It agreed to foster "responsible participation" by the United States in an organization of sovereign nations to halt future military aggression.]

Progress Reports Urged

"We are sure," the letter added, "that the American people will much more readily approve the proposals for a lasting peace if reports of progress are made from time to time.

"We, therefore, urge you to inform the people as fully as possible of the plans that are being discussed."

The letter was signed by Representatives Henry and Byrnes (Wis.), Adams (N.H.), Elsaesser, Gwinn, Latham, Sharp and Bennet (N.Y.), Campbell and Fulton (Pa.), McDonough (Cal.), Hand and Case (N.J.), Heselton (Mass.), Dolliver (Iowa), Cole (Kan.) and Schwabe (Okla.).

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, March 1 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today 2,613 casualties in the European and Southwest Pacific areas.

In all of these cases next of kin have been notified previously and have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status.

Included in the list are the following with next of kin:

Senator Hill Urges Immediate Confirmation Of Wallace

Washington, March 1 (AP)—Senator Hill (D., Ala.) called for confirmation of Henry A. Wallace as Commerce Secretary today with a plea that the Senate put aside "malignance and hysteria" in its considerations.

In all his political experience, the Alabama Senator declared, he had never seen "any such thunderstorm of excitement, wild charges, defamation and extravagant libel as this question of an ordinarily routine confirmation to a Cabinet post has brought down upon Henry Wallace's head, and your heads, and mine."

Asks Immediate Vote

"I have argued here before, and I repeat now, that we, as senators, should put such malignance and hysteria aside, turn our minds to other pressing considerations and confirm this appointment immediately," Hill asserted in opening the Senate debate.

He declared Wallace's presence in the Cabinet "will broaden and strengthen the base of support for Government in these critical years" and that his rejection would "weaken and undermine faith in Congress and the national Government."

Aiken Praises Wallace

Taking issue with a majority of his party in the Senate, Senator Aiken (R., Vt.) praised Wallace as a champion of "the weak and unfortunate" in calling for his confirmation.

Wallace, Aiken told the Senate, "has met with ridicule because of his confidence in the future of the United States," and added:

"He has been derided and verbally stoned because he expresses

Roosevelt Orders Navy To Release York Firm

Washington, March 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt today ordered the Navy to terminate Government possession of the York county (Pennsylvania) plants of the York Safe and Lock Company by March 15.

The properties were taken over January 21, 1944, "to produce effectively essential war material required by the United States," the President's order said.

Some of the plants were turned back June 19, 1944.

The President said it now appears that the facilities still held by the Navy "will be operated privately in a manner consistent with the war effort."

MOST REPUBLICANS OPPOSED

Nominee Attacked and Defended in Debate on Floor by Both Parties.

Washington, March 1 (A. P.).—The Senate confirmed Henry A. Wallace's nomination today as Secretary of a Commerce Department stripped of its huge lending agencies. The roll call vote was 56 to 32.

It reflected the opposition of the majority of the Republican members, who said that they feared Mr. Wallace's economic philosophies might prove costly to the Treasury.

Mr. Wallace was defended, as well as attacked, in debeate preceding the vote.

Senator Wiley (R.-Wis.), called him an exponent of "ersatz" ideas while Senator, Taylor (D.-Idaho), said that the former Vice-President had demonstrated "the vision to act boldly and practically." Speaking after Mr. Walace had been warmly praised by Senators Hill (D.-Ala.), and Aiken (R.-Vt.), Senator Wiley told the Senate that as a matter of fact "the cracker-barrel folks in America think the whole tribe of New Dealers resembles the medicine men of old."

The Senate Roll Call.

The roll call vote by which Mr. Wallace was confirmed was as follows:

FOR CONFIRMATION—56.

Press Photo Proposed As Model for Monument

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1—Use of a war picture taken by an Associated Press photographer as a model for a monument was proposed in Congress today.

Representative Hendricks, Democrat, of Florida, introduced a bill authorizing erection of the monument here as a tribute to "the heroic action of the Marine Corps as typified by the marines in this photograph."

Explaining his bill to the House, Mr. Hendricks declared:

"Never have I seen a more striking photograph.

"I have provided in the bill that this picture be a model for the monument, because I do not believe any product of the mind of the artist could equal this photograph in action."

Mine-Wage Parley Takes Recess

Washington, March 1 (AP)—Contract negotiations between bituminous operators and the United Mine Workers recessed today until later this afternoon on motion of John L. Lewis after brief organization.

Lewis asked for the recess to allow credentials and rules committees to report, and made no reference to the fact that President Roosevelt was making an historic report to Congress at 12.30 on his Yalta conference.

General Increase Vetoed

Lewis kept silent on his demands, but it was learned that the UMW policy committee had vetoed any general increase demand. Prior to the committee's meetings this week, it was understood that the miners might ask for $1.25 instead of the present $1-an-hour rate.

Abandoning a direct assault on the Little Steel formula, the Lewis strategy now appears to be to concentrate on "fringe" or secondary demands which some operators estimate would increase the miners' daily earnings as much as $1.50.

Committee Feels "Hurt"

The Mine Workers Journal, out today, said the union's policy committee "felt hurt over the trend of affairs" in building up what it described as prejudice against the miners in advance of the wage parley.

The publication said editorially that Washington newsmen conceded "that one of the underlying reasons behind both the brownout and the curfew was the publicity vantage to be gained for the burrocrats (sic) in turning the public against the mine workers and thereby making the forthcoming UMWA wage demands unpopular in the public mind.

"The miners are not concerned about the closing of night clubs, race tracks or any other useless establishments, but they do feel that they should not be made the fall guy for 'buprocratic' stunts which will not save manpower or fuel."

Legion Chief Decries New Policy On Officers

Washington, March 1 (AP)—Commander Edward N. Scheiberling of the American Legion, protested today against what he called a new army policy which "opens the door for Communists to penetrate any and every office in the armed services."

Scheiberling was commenting on House testimony by War Department officials on eligibility for army commissions. He said in a statement:

"Fifty-one per cent loyalty is not enough when the security of our country is at stake. The new policy for the armed forces states that no Communist or person of other alien leaning may be barred from officer rank unless his alien loyalty 'overrides' his loyalty to the United States."

SAUDI ARABIA WARS ON AXIS

King Ibn Saud Tells Roosevelt Holy Shrines Neutral

Washington, March 1 (AP)—Most of Saudi Arabia went to war with Germany and Japan today, but not all.

King Ibn Saud wrote President Roosevelt formal notification of the action under date of yesterday. His letter, reserving neutrality for Moslem holy places, was without doubt the most unusual war declaration yet.

"I have decided to adhere to the Allies in this war," wrote the ruler, whose formal name is Abdul Aziz.

Holy Shrines Excluded

"We exclude from this declaration the zone of the Holy Shrines. Because of their sanctuary we should preserve complete neutrality for them.

"Thus they will not engage in war or will war be declared on them. They are the zone of safety and peace for all those who live therein and all those Moslems who come to them."

The zone of neutrality was not defined, but presumably is the territory of the cities of Mecca and Jidda.

Ibn Saud told the President that his Government had been since the beginning of the war "inclined to the cause of justice defended by the Allies" and had taken its stand against the Axis Government in several events.

President Replies

Mr. Roosevelt replied:

"I have received your Majesty's telegram of February 28, 1945, stating that since the beginning of the war Saudi Arabia has been inclined to the cause of justice defended by the Allies; that Saudi Arabia has already taken its stand against the Axis governments and has decided that it should be in a state of war with Germany and Japan from March 1, 1945.

"I appreciate that long ago Saudi Arabia made known its sympathy with the cause of the United Nations and has been contributing to our war effort. It is a source of genuine satisfaction to have Saudi Arabia now formally aligned with the United Nations in the struggle against the common enemies and in building for the peace of the future."

MEAT POINTS GIVEN SHARP BOOST BY OPA

4 Fruits, 1 Vegetable Also Raised; 2 Other Fruits Are Lowered

Washington, March 1 (AP)—Ration point values of many beef and pork cuts were boosted sharply today, effective Sunday, with the over-all effect of cutting another five to six per cent off the amount housewives can buy in March.

A few higher value steaks and roasts, however, came down in point price to make than more attractive buys and prevent them from backing up in stock.

Canned Food Changes

The Office of Price Administration also raised the point value of four canned fruits and one vegetable, while cutting the ration price of two other fruits.

The canned foods which will take more blue points are mixed fruits, peaches, pineapple and pears. The point value for the popular No. 2½ can for these items is being increased 20 points—from 60 to 80.

The point value of tomatoes (No. 2 can) will be 30, an increase of 10 points.

The Two Decreases

The two decreases are for apples and applesauce, but one of them does not mean anything to most consumers.

The blue-point value for a No. 10 can of apples is reduced from 120 to 80 points. This large can is bought principally by institutional and industrial users.

The point value of applesauce (No. 2 can) is being reduced 20 points to 10 points.

The meat increases apply generally to beef and pork cuts heretofore low in point value, or point free.

Idea Behind Boosts

OPA said the idea of the boosts is to make the point supply come out even with the civilian meat supply, down five to six per cent from February and thirteen to fifteen per cent from January.

The agency added that prospects for coming months are still darker.

Attributing the reduction in civilian supplies to heavy military requirements and a decline in hog marketings below previous estimates, OPA said no "marked improvement" can be expected before late summer or early fall.

Government estimates have placed supplies of meat available to civilians in the first six months of this year at fifteen per cent below the corresponding period of 1944, but OPA indicated that the reduction may be even greater.

Steaks Come Down

Present lamb-point values continue unchanged. Mutton remains on the free list. Most veal cuts are unchanged.

For those who can find them and have enough red points, T-bone and porterhouse steaks will cost nine points a pound instead of twelve, and top round steak ten points instead of thirteen.

Hard-to-find bacon, hamburger and chuck roast (bone in) go up to six points a pound. Present values are four for bacon and hamburger and three for chuck roast. Items being added to the point list include beef, veal, pork and lamb hearts, sweetbreads and tongue, lamb liver, liver loaf and many sausage products made from rationed materials.

Meanwhile the OPA announced that blue stamps N-2, P-2, Q-2, R-2 and S-2 are valid, beginning today, while red stamps E-2, F-2, G-2, H-2 and J-2 will become valid Sunday. In addition to these new stamps shoppers may also use blue stamps X-5 through Z-5, A-2 through M-2, red stamps Q-5 through Z-5, A-2 through D2 and sugar stamp 35.

RFC Changes Lending Policy

Washington, March 1 (AP)—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced tonight a far-reaching change in its lending operations designed "to assure ample credit for business and industry, particularly small business, for reconversion."

In addition to its established lending procedures, the multibillion-dollar Federal corporation will co-operate with regional credit pools which banks are organizing throughout the country.

RFC will take up to 75 per cent of such loans made through the credit pools, when the pool managers wish.

Automatic Participation

That is, if a credit pool undertakes to make a $10,000 loan, the RFC, if requested by the pool managers, will supplement the amount by $30,000, for a total $40,000 loan.

Procedure for automatic participation by RFC with credit pool members will be made available through the RFC's 31 loan agencies.

The new plan goes in effect immediately.

The RFC, which has borrowing authority of around $14,000,000,000, has been accused by some critics of not making enough loans to small businesses.

RFC Separated

The agency has just been divorced from the Commerce Department by Congress. Charles B. Henderson is chairman of the board.

Jesse Jones, ousted as Secretary of Commerce in favor of Henry Wallace, has been Federal loan administrator with supervision over the RFC. Whether Jones is technically Federal loan administrator now that this position has been separated from Secretary of Commerce, is a question RFC aides wouldn't talk about tonight. Jones has not cleared out of his office in the RFC building.

The change in policy apparently strikes a blow against proposals for other governmental agencies to lend money—or guarantee private loans—to small businesses.

There is a bill in Congress to give the Smaller War Plants Corporation broad lending powers, and other to extend into the reconversion period powers of the Federal Reserve Banks to guarantee loans.

RFC announced that it will charge four per cent interest on its portion of the loans and will allow the credit pool banks to charge up to six per cent for participation.

LEWIS ASKS FOR ROYALTY ON SOFT COAL

Detroit strikers refuse to return to work.....Page 11

The royalty, which topped a long list of other proposed pay concessions, was urged to build up a $55,000,000 medical and rehabilitation fund for members of the United Mine Workers and not to be actually paid to the men themselves

By that means Lewis shied away from a direct assault on the Little Steel formula. The same end was achieved by making the other demands on "fringe" issues not involving regular time pay.

Have Had 15% Boost

The miners already have had their allowed fifteen per cent increase in base pay above the rates of January, 1941, but there had been much speculation that Lewis would make the issue of the Little Steel formula a direct one in the negotiations opening today on a new contract to supplant the agreement which expires March 31.

Charles O'Neill, of Altoona, Pa., president of the Central Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association and spokesman for the operators, said Lewis's proposals would mean something beyond $2 a day additional wage for miners.

"I counted up to $2 a man and I quit," O'Neill said. "Of course, the count went well beyond that figure."

Defends Royalty Plan

O'Neill, expected to address the wage conference tomorrow, said he would attempt to present a more definite estimate then.

Lewis said his royalty plan would not "violate the anti-inflation policy of the Government in the Little Steel formula, or any other formula."

"This money," Lewis told 450 miners and operators assembled for the beginning of momentous wage negotiations, "would not be available for the purchase of goods and chattels, but would constitute an investment insurance.

Called Anti- flationary

"It is anti-inflationary and seeks only to promote the physical welfare of the miners, thereby increasing their productivity."

Lewis said the payment would be "deemed partial compensation in equity to the mine worker for the establishment and maintenance of his ready-to-serve status so vital to the profit motive of the employer and so imperatively essential to public welfare."

The funds would be used for medical and surgical service, hospitalization, insurance, rehabilitation and economic protection, according to Lewis.

Obstacles In Way

He expressed the hope that "governmental interference in 1945 be kept to an irreducible minimum."

He referred to what he called "obstacles placed in our way by representatives of our existing Government" in the 1943 negotiations which brought on convulsive strikes and resulted in enactment of the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes Act.

He decried "threats of those who say we are liable to be thrown in jail or incarcerated" for advancing their demands.

Other Lewis Demands

Briefly, the other demands in Lewis's eighteen-point outline were:

Reinstitution of the seven-hour day with time and a half for additional productive and underground travel time beyond seven hours a day and 35 hours a week. At present the miners receive 50 cents allowance for an estimated 45 minutes' "portal-to-portal" travel and work a nine-hour day, including an unpaid fifteen-minute lunch period. Overtime at present does not begin until after the fortieth hour each week.

A 10-cent differential for the second shift and 15-cent premium for the third shift.

Increase in vacation payment from $50 to $100 in lieu of time off.

Pay for six holidays.

Foregoing of physical examinations as a condition of employment.

Termination of the contract on twenty days' written notice.

Protection of returning veterans in seniority rights and other problems relating to re-employment.

Joint effort by the union and companies to eliminate substandard housing conditions and "debased sanitary conditions" in certain mining communities.

Lewis indicated he would continue his presentation of miners' claims when the conference resumes tomorrow at 10 A.M.

BYRNES ASKED TO MODIFY BAN

Rep. Barry And Buckley Urge Partial Track Release

Washington, March 1 (AP)—Racing spokesmen today called upon James F. Byrnes and urged him to "act now" and "at least partially release" the ban on the turf sport.

Representative Barry (D., N.Y.) and David A. Buckley, New York horseman, "discussed at length" the racing situation with the War Mobilization Director at the White House.

Barry later said that Byrnes reiterated earlier assurances "that the ban would be lifted at the first possible moment consistent with the prosecution of the war."

To Study Memorandum

Byrnes also assured them, Barry added, that he would study a memorandum prepared by Buckley setting forth additional reasons why the ban should be modified. Racing's position had previously been outlined in correspondence with Byrnes.

It is necessary to modify the ban, Buckley said in the memorandum, so that "this great industry might be able to plan its immediate future, keep its existence and help American breeders in competition with other countries."

Other points in the memorandum included:

Other countries with more direct contact with the war allow racing to continue.

Cites Canada's Tracks

Canada, whose interest in the war is "more in line with ours," has "racing as usual," with its 1945 dates already published.

In New York, "there are already signs of a job shortage instead of a labor shortage."

Assemblages of great numbers of people have been permitted at other sports events solely for spectator amusement. Racing is not only a sport but an important business.

The only real evidence concerning absenteeism, from the Hollywood (Cal.) Turf Club, indicates that "racing has not been the cause." That absenteeism at 68 Southern California war plants dropped from 6.5 per cent in September to 6.1 per cent in November when the Hollywood track operated.

Nelson May Quit As F.D.R. Aide

Washington, March 1 (AP)—Donald M. Nelson plans to resign shortly as personal representative of President Roosevelt on international economic affairs, informed officials reported tonight.

The former War Production Board chairman is said to feel that his services are being little used, despite his White House bestowed rank and his presence in Cabinet meetings.

Nelson, who quit the executive vice presidency of Sears, Roebuck & Co. to become WPB chairman shortly after Pearl Harbor, is understood to be planning to re-enter private business.

Joined F.D.R. In NRA Days

This would end a connection with the Roosevelt Administration which has lasted intermittently since NRA days.

Friends say Nelson had planned to submit his resignation soon after Mr. Roosevelt's return from the Crimea conference. However, Nelson himself is now out of the city with his bride, the former Marguerite Coulbourn, 26-year-old college beauty contest winner. His return is expected early next week.

Nelson received the White House post after an internal WPB blow-up last summer. His executive vice chairman, Charles E. Wilson, resigned in August with the charge that Nelson's personal staff had made unfair attacks on him and created dissension which harmed the production effort.

The WPB high command was swept clean when Nelson resigned a month later to be succeeded by J. A. Krug.

No Major Assignment

So far as is known, Nelson has received no major new assignment since his winter visit to Chungking to create a Chinese war production board.

Nelson had been expected to undertake economic missions to Mexico, South American countries and perhaps elsewhere. These have not materialized, although Mr. Roosevelt informed Nelson, in accepting his WPB resignation, that his services were needed in "laying the groundwork for postwar economic co-operation with other nations."

Associates were unable to guess what his future business connections might be. He severed his connection with the big mail-order company completely when he took the WPB chairmanship in January, 1942.

Roosevelt Sends Four Nominations To Senate

Washington, March 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated George A. Cook, of Illinois, for reappointment as a member of the National Mediation Board that passes on railroad labor disputes.

Other nominations sent to the Senate included:

Pay Director William J. Carter, Washington, D.C., to be Paymaster General and chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts of the Navy, with the rank of rear admiral.

Pay Director Horace D. Nuber, Takoma Park, Md., to be Pay Director in the Navy with rank of rear admiral to continue while serving as assistant chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

Man, Foster Daughter Sentenced As Spies

New York, March 1 (AP)—Simon Emil Koedel, 63, a naturalized native of Germany and one-time soldier in the United States Army, was sentenced in Brooklyn Federal Court today to fifteen years in Federal prison on his guilty plea to conspiracy to commit espionage.

Judge Robert A. Inch sentenced Koedel's foster daughter, Marie Hedwig Koedel, 26, convicted of the same charge, to seven and a half years in Alderson Women's Prison in West Virginia.

The two were arrested last October 23, Miss Koedel here and her foster father in Harper's Ferry, W.Va. The FBI charged they collected information on military developments, especially on shipping in New York harbor, during the two years prior to Pearl Harbor and transmitted it to the German consulate here.

COAST GUARD ENDS PROBE OF COLLISION

NEW YORK, March 1 — (AP) A Coast Guard board concluded today a 10-day investigation of the Feb. 5 collision of the tankers Spring Hill and Panclio in New York harbor without disclosing its findings.

The collision killed 19 men and injured 100.

Captain W. M. McGuire, Merchant Marine inspector in charge of the New York district, headed the five-man board.

The Coast Guard said it had not been determined whether the board's finding would ever be made public.

Tea To Be Plentiful, Bureau Director Says

New York, March 1 (AP)—Tea apparently will not be on the shortage list in 1945 with cigarettes, meats and other commodities.

Benjamin Wood, managing director of the Tea Bureau, said today current tea supplies, together with expectations for further shipments, indicate United States tea drinkers will continue to get enough to meet demand through all of 1945.

"On March 31, 1943, when the Government became sole purchaser of all tea entering the country, stocks had shrunk to about 11,000,000 pounds," he added. "Twenty-one months later, on December 31, 1944, they totaled 34,689,000 pounds—an increase of more than 200 per cent."

REQUEST TO EXTEND N.Y. CURFEW IS DENIED

NEW YORK, March 1—(AP) Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's request for an extension of the midnight curfew to 1 a. m. in New York city was refused today by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, the mayor's office announced.

Byrnes telegraphed the mayor there had been no change in the situation and said of the enforcement of the curfew:

"We must depend in a great measure upon the cooperation of the people. We cannot secure that cooperation unless all are treated alike. When the rest of the nation complies with the midnight closing, I am sure the patriotic citizens of New York will do so."

The mayor's request was made in telephone conversations to Byrnes' office yesterday and last week. LaGuardia had said New York city should have a later curfew because the situation here was different from that in any other American city. He did not explain the difference.

Curfew Breeds 'Speaks' In N.Y.

New York, March 1 (AP)—The three-day-old Cinderella curfew already has spawned the speakeasy in New York city, the Daily News said today in a story by David Charnay, who said a postmidnight tour took him to five places in Manhattan where liquor was served.

Charnay said in some cases telephone introductions were needed to get into the places during forbidden hours, while in others written credentials were required.

Informed of Charnay's story and asked if police were doing anything about it, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia said:

"'Speaks' and 'joints' cannot operate at any time before or after midnight. Of course, the police will take action."

Armored Tanks Operate In Six Feet Of Water

New York, March 1 (AP)—Armored tanks now are so thoroughly waterproofed they can operate in six feet of water in invasion operations, the United States Rubber Company reported today.

The company said the sealing methods used—still a War Department secret—permitted the big vehicles to plunge from landing barges into the surf without "drowning out" their engines.

While used since the European invasion last June, when German troops had expected to find tanks stalled on the beaches, disclosure was not permitted until today.

ALLIED LEADERS HOLD IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, March 1—The London radio said tonight that Gen. Eisenhower had held an important conference this morning at the headquarters of Field Marshal Montgomery.

New ship propellers now being placed in service are 22 feet in diameter and weigh 70,000 pounds.

3 N. Y. Cigarette Wholesalers Accused of 'Black Market' Sales

NEW YORK, March 1—(AP) The government today accused three of Manhattan's largest cigarette wholesalers of selling approximately 15,600,000 cigarettes in the "black market," netting $140,529 in total sales.

Criminal informations containing 143 counts charging ceiling price violations and failure to keep proper records were filed in Federal court by U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey against the firms and several individuals.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Peter J. Donoghue said the defendants "cut off certain of their regular customers so as to have available for diversion to black market channels additional quantities of cigarettes."

"In the event that any customer was not willing to pay the additional premium," Donoghue said, "he was informed that no cigarettes could be obtained."

Defendants are W. Simon, Inc., Harry Simon, who is its president, secretary and treasurer; J. Rosenberg and Sons and Louis Rosenberg; and Ben Maslinoff and John Maslinoff.

If convicted, the individuals face possible sentence of one year and $5,000 fine on each count. The corporate defendants would face possible fine of $5,000 on each count.

Donoghue said the purported violations began last July with sales of popular brand cigarettes in case lots at a price of $75 a case when OPA ceiling prices were $70.40.

As the shortage became more acute, he said, the price was boosted, reaching $110 a case after the Christmas holidays.

The defendants will be arraigned tomorrow.

Must Continue Arms Pace, Batt Says

New York, March 1 (AP)—William L. Batt said today war production must continue full speed for "big military landings" in the Pacific and land fighting on perhaps the European scale.

The army and air forces will have to be "pretty completely re-equipped" to fight Japan, the War Production Board vice chairman said in an address prepared for a Rotary Club luncheon.

Batt announced staggering figures on America's production—now equal to that of "all our allies and enemies" combined—but forecast that Germany's fall will permit less than a 20 per cent reconversion to peacetime goods.

Report Corroborated

"I can tell you that our military men may not use much of the equipment they have employed in Europe against the Japanese," Batt said, since other types of material are needed and the task of assembling and reshipping across the world is "simply not practicable."

[The WPB official thus corroborated an Associated Press report of January 31 with which Secretary of War Stimson took issue last week. The story stated that American troops so transferred would leave the bulk of their equipment behind and would be armed anew.

[Stimson told Representative Engel (R., Mich.) by letter that army policy called for "maximum transfer" to the Pacific of everything that could be effectively used there.

[Engel, who had been alarmed at possible duplication of production, entered the AP story and Stimson's letter in the Congressional Record, along with the comment of another War Department representative. The latter, when asked where the AP reporter could have got the story, Engel said, answered: "He must have picked it up in some barbershop."]

28,471 Big Bombers

Batt disclosed that this country has sent 28,471 heavy bombers—Liberators, Fortresses and the huge new Superbombers into the air. These were among munitions totals announced for the first time, covering the period from the start of the defense program in July, 1940, to the end of 1944.

All types of planes numbered 246,845, of which 79,776 were fighters and 19,547 were transports.

"In merchant vessels we have produced 45,384,000 deadweight tons of ocean-going cargo ships. Of naval vessels, there have been constructed no fewer than 56,697. . . .

Tanks Total 75,000

"The President wanted 45,000 tanks. Well, we have actually turned out 75,000 tanks. . . .

"We have produced 37,198,000 rounds of small-arms ammunition . . . 2,927,502 short tons of ground artillery ammunition . . . 4,130,000 short tons of aircraft bombs, 59,646,000 grenades.

"Now, these are some stratospheric figures . . . and every American may justifiably feel proud."

But, Batt said, this does not permit extensive planning for reconversion.

"We must not underestimate the Japanese any more than we have now learned not to underestimate the Germans."

Jap Power Cited

Saying the Japanese land army now is about as large as the German Army at its peak, Batt added:

"Our present naval operations and victories must certainly be preliminary to big military landings somewhere. At the end of supply lines three times as long as those that have separated us from the Germans, and, lacking an advance fortress base such as we had in Britain, we must conduct a land war, possibly of a scale comparable to that we have waged in Europe, at that tremendous distance. . . .

"I can tell you that our military men may not use much of the equipment they have employed in Europe against the Japanese. Secretary Stimson says they will use what they can.

Conditions Differ

"But men fighting in the tropics and in many parts of the Orient require, as you know, different clothing than men fighting in northwest Europe. Weapons designed for the fairly good highways and rail transportation of Europe are not necessarily adapted to the primitive conditions of the Far East.

"Further than that, just the mechanical job of cleaning up, repairing and packing much of the equipment . . . so that it could be shipped to the Pacific is an appalling job and to a very considerable degree simply not practicable.

"I think the inevitable result must be, therefore, that as we move to the Orient from Europe our army and air force will have to be pretty completely re-equipped. This is another part of the big job ahead of us."

FDR in 'Cooperative' Attitude, Mrs. Luce Says

WASHINGTON, March 1—President Roosevelt appeared to be in "a remarkably cooperative" attitude when he addressed Congress today on the results of the Yalta conference and presented his case with "extraordinary patience and humility leaving the final decisions in the hands of Congress where he said it belongs," Representative Clare Boothe Luce said following the President's talk.

Asked to give her impressions of the President's speech Mrs. Luce said it was "a most interesting account of his trip." She added the hope that "all his hopes come to pass." Mrs. Luce said she wanted to read the President's speech in connection with Winston Churchill's report to the House of Commons. She said she suspected that Mr. Roosevelt had said in one hour what Mr. Churchill required two hours to tell Commons. In any event, Mrs. Luce added, there seems to be agreement between Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin on Yalta.

HERO'S RETURN ASKED

Tampa, Fla., March 1 (A. P.).—The War Department was asked by the Red Cross today to expedite the return of Lieut.-Col. Frank S. Adamo, liberated hero of Bataan, so that his aged and ill mother might see him.

A similar request was made for an emergency furlough for Capt. Adamo, another son, with the Army Engineers in Persia.

The mother, Mrs. Maria S. Adamo, 75 years old, has been ill three years. She never knew the story of Bataan and Corregidor.

Pascagoula, Miss., March 1 (A. P.).—The 10,000 striking workers at the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corporation yards were called back to their jobs today under a temporary strike settlement pending a War Labor Board hearing.

The settlement of the five-day-old strike was announced last night after an executive meeting of the unions, which followed a long session between union officials, representatives of the Army and Navy, the Maritime Commission and the War Labor Board.

Selective service boards had been busy since Monday reclassifying eligible strikers to 1-A.

Reading Mayor Calls Meeting On Strike

Reading, Pa., March 1 (AP)—Union and company representatives were scheduled to meet today with Mayor J. Henry Stump in an effort to end a five-day work stoppage of approximately 325 transit workers.

Officials of the Reading Street Railway Company, which serves 90,000 persons in the Lebanon-Reading area, and the Amalgamated Association of Electric Street Railway and Motor Coach Employés assured Mayor Stump they would attend.

Meanwhile, however, the street railway employés, who voted Sunday to continue the work stoppage which began earlier in the day, remained idle again today, despite a Regional War Labor Board directive to return to work.

Captive Germans Balk At Work; Put On Diet

Camp Perry, Ohio, March 1 (AP)—German prisoners of war held at Camp Perry today were placed on a bread and water diet for refusal to work on assigned tasks, Lieut. Col. E. C. McCormick, Jr., commanding officer of the camp, announced.

Most of the 2,200 prisoners declared they would not go to work because they believed the discipline at the camp was too rigid, McCormick said.

Representatives of the Swiss Government, which acts as representative of the German Government for prisoners of war in the United States, recently inspected the camp and reported the "prisoners are being treated fairly and in compliance with the articles of the Geneva Convention which governs the treatment of prisoners of war."

OPA Sees Rationing Till Pacific War's End

Cleveland, March 1 (AP)—Removal of major rationing-control programs cannot be expected until [redacted] Pacific war is won, James [redacted] Rogers, Jr., of Washington, deputy administrator of the Office of Price Administration, declared today.

Rogers told a press conference that serious shortages in many commodities would grow more critical as military demands, now higher than ever, are further increased.

He named meats, butter, sugar, canned fruit and vegetables, gasoline, fuel oil, shoes and tires as specific consumer items which will be increasingly difficult to obtain as the war tempo sweeps into its final phase.

Rogers said the increase in the cost of living has been held to 1.5 per cent since May, 1943; that the major advance has been in clothing, which represents thirteen per cent of the index, and that the new clothing program will result in a rollback of six or seven per cent by midsummer.

Farm Bureau Backs U.S. Fertilizer Plants

Chicago, March 1 (AP)—The American Farm Bureau Federation asked legislation today empowering the Federal Government to set up plants for producing potash, nitrogen and phosphate fertilizers.

The federation's board of directors adopted a resolution authorizing Farm Bureau executive officers to have the legislation introduced in Congress.

The resolution also sought an appropriation of Federal funds to the Department of Agriculture for loaning to three regional farmer co-operatives which would process raw fertilizer materials for distribution by co-operatives in the Atlantic Seaboard States, the Mississippi Valley States, and the Pacific, Inter-Mountain and High Plains States.

17,500 STRIKE IN DETROIT AT 2 WAR PLANTS

Briggs Day Shift Workers Walk Out in Protest Over Firing.

DODGE DISPUTE CONTINUES

Ending of Six-day Stoppage at Chrysler Factory Is Being Discussed.

Detroit, March 1 (A. P.).—The number of striking war plant employees in the Detroit area mounted to approximately 17,500 today as 4,000 day-shift workers of the Briggs Manufacturing Company's Mack avenue plant

The Briggs walkout came as the National War Labor Board and the International United Automobile Workers, C. I. O., sought to end the six-day strike of 13,500 employees of Chrysler Corporation's Dodge main plant.

Besides the strikes more than 3,500 other workers in Detroit area plants have been made idle by the Dodge stoppage.

The Briggs strike, like that at the Dodge plant, followed the discharge of a group of workers. Dismissing a shop committeeman and six stewards, the Briggs management said they had been primarily responsible for fifty-seven work stoppages at the plant since December 7, 1941.

Soon after today's walkout, a Briggs spokesman announced that four more employees had been discharged. He said that dismissals were "for inciting and causing the strike this morning," and added that additional dismissals would be ordered if any other workers are found to have been responsible for today's strike.

Union Stages Demonstration.

Some 300 Briggs strikers led by officers of U. A. W.-C. I. O. Local 212, including Jess Ferrazza, president, staged a demonstration this morning at the union's international headquarters, protesting actions of Melvin L. Bishop, Briggs director for the international union.

Some of the Local 212 members have objected to a contract recently negotiated with the Briggs company covering Local 212 and also Local 742. Although the contract was signed by Mr. Bishop and officers of the locals, the membership of Local 212 voted to defer action on it pending further study, and the company has received no notice of its acceptance by either local.

Today's demonstrators at the union headquarters carried placards, one of which read "We want an administrator over the International U. A. W.-C. I. O.

Mr. Ferrazza and other officers conferred, after the demonstration, with George F. Addes, international secretary-treasurer and acting president in the absence of R. J. Thomas. Mr. Addes told them, "Bishop does not represent the Briggs Manufacturing Company. He represents your union."

160 Work Stoppages.

W. D. Robinson, vice-president of the Briggs Company, said an investigation showed that "in practically every case the trouble was caused by the refusal on the part of some of our employees to follow the grievance procedure as outlined in our contract with the United Automobile Workers, C. I. O."

At a meeting with the regional War Labor Board on February 8 Mr. Robinson reported there had been 160 work stoppages in the Briggs Detroit plants.

The Briggs strikers are members of Local 212, U. A. W.-C. I. O. There was no immediate comment from the union.

The strike at the Dodge main plant has stopped production of bomber engine parts, rockets, anti-aircraft cannon and other war material. The Briggs Mack avenue plant has been making various types of aircraft parts and tank assemblies.

The international U. A. W.-C. I. O. went over the heads of the local union leaders today in an effort to end the Dodge plant strike.

May Discipline Official.

After War Labor Board directives ordering immediate resumption of production were rejected at two previous meetings called by the local, international union officers summoned the strikers to meet again tonight. A U. A. W.-C. I. O. statement said the emergency meeting "will be chaired and addressed by spokesmen for the international executive board."

The board, at a special session yesterday "to consider the situation created by the unauthorized strike at the Dodge plant," decided to postpone until its regular meeting in New York next Monday possible disciplinary action against President Mike Novak and other officers of Dodge Local 3.

Mr. Novak, meanwhile, called a membership meeting for late this afternoon to see if the union can't work out something regarding the men going back to work. Nearly 4,000 workers in other Chrysler plants dependent on Dodge main for parts have been made idle by the dispute.

Grain-Spoilage Peril Cited In Plea To ODT

Kansas City, March 1 (AP)—The plight of mid-Western granaries, bursting at the seams with more than 1,000,000,000 bushels of corn and over 200,000,000 bushels of wheat, is causing furrowed brows among Board of Trade officials, who have appealed to the ODT for railroad cars to move the surplus.

Secretary Walter R. Scott, of the Kansas City board, in a letter to ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson said that the danger of "further spoilage" has made "the greatly reduced rate of grain movement a very serious matter."

Record Sorghum Crops

Increased production in 1944 complicated the problem, Scott told Johnson. "There was raised this year the greatest crop of grain sorghums ever produced."

The Office of Defense Transportation a week ago ordered Eastern lines to send cars to the grain region, Scott said, but he declared:

"This has not been satisfactory. Eastern lines have sent their worst cars. All usable cars have been halted and used before they got any further west than Missouri. The situation in Kansas hasn't been touched."

"The corn crop west of the Mississippi River has been harvested under difficult weather conditions," Scott asserted, saying there is "an extraordinary percentage of very high moisture corn to be disposed of."

CENSORSHIP CODE RAPPED BY PEGLER

TUCSON, Ariz., March 1—(AP) Columnist Westbrook Pegler said here today government officials "haven't been fair in the application of the censorship code they have imposed on the newspapers and the reporters."

Commenting upon a statement by Censorship Director Byron Price that there is "a better way to meet the needs both of public information and security" than individual violations of the voluntary newspaper code, Pegler said "This censorship was not meant to create and protect another racket for the private profit of Harry Hopkins and a few others through the personal sale of news which correctly belongs to the whole press."

"One other thing," Pegler declared, "Mr. Roosevelt could ride through the streets of New York in an open car and with prior announcement for political purposes. Why, then, it is dangerous to him to say that he is in Hyde Park where he is guarded by a household garrison?"

Pegler wrote Feb. 20 he intends to report the President's next visit to Hyde Park.

Japs Launch New Drive To Erase Black Market

San Francisco, March 1 (AP)—Tokyo radio reported Japan today launched a 3-month drive to wipe out the black market in Japan and round up hidden materials needed by war industry.

This is the latest of many drives conducted during the last 2 years to accomplish this dual purpose.

Today's broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the government wanted to collect all steel, alloys, metals, mica, asbestos, fuel and medicine that are sidetracked in private hands.

LONDON, MARCH 1--(AP)--LONDON DIPLOMATIC QUARTERS BELIEVED TONIGHT THAT THE FORTHCOMING SAN FRANCISCO WORLD SECURITY CONFERENCE WOULD DISCUSS REMANDATING THE PACIFIC ISLANDS IN A MOVE BELIEVED AIMED AT THROWING AN ANTI-AGGRESSION BELT AROUND JAPAN.

IT WAS SUGGESTED THAT ISLANDS PREVIOUSLY HELD BY JAPAN UNDER MANDATE AND JAPANESE-OWNED ISLANDS WON BY ARMS POSSIBLY WOULD GO TO THE UNITED STATES AS PACIFIC BASES.

THIS WOULD DRAW A BELT AROUND JAPAN WITH CHINA ON THE WEST, RUSSIA ON THE NORTH AND WITH THE NAVAL AND AIR SUPPORTED POWER OF THE UNITED STATES ON THE EAST AND SOUTH. JAPAN THUS WOULD BE CONTAINED WITHIN HER PRINCIPAL HOME ISLANDS UNTIL SHE MIGHT BE READMITTED TO THE WORLD COMMUNITY OF NATIONS.

MOST QUARTERS BELIEVED AUSTRALIA WOULD BE FRIENDLY TO SUCH A MOVE SINCE SHE HAS EMPHASIZED REPEATEDLY THAT SHE EXPECTS TO COOPERATE MORE AND MORE WITH THE UNITED STATES MILITARILY AND ECONOMICALLY.

UNDER UNITED STATES CONTROL THE JAPANESE-MANDATED MARSHALLS, MARIANAS AND CAROLINES WOULD SERVE AS A FORTRESS SHIELD FOR AUSTRALIA. IN CONNECTION WITH THE MANDATED ISLANDS IT SEEMED LIKELY THE SECURITY CONFERENCE ALSO WOULD DISCUSS THE ULTIMATE FATE OF JAPAN'S VOLCANO AND BONIN ISLANDS. U. S. HE SAID HE WOULD ANNOUNCE THE DATE OF THE DIET SESSION SHORTLY.
THE BROADCAST SAID THERE HAD BEEN DEMANDS BY MEMBERS OF BOTH HOUSES OF THE DIET THAT IT BE SUMMONED WITHOUT DELAY. THE DIET ADJOURNED ON FEB.8 AND AT THAT TIME THE GOVERNMENT PROMISED TO CALL THE MEMBERS BACK IF ANY SUDDEN CHANGE IN THE WAR PICTURE DEVELOPED.
SIMULTANEOUSLY JAPANESE IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS ISSUED A COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCING THAT THE IWO GARRISON STILL WAS HOLDING OUT IN THE FACE OF TERRIFIC AMERICAN BOMBING AND SHELLING. THE BULLETIN REPORTED 13,000 AMERICAN CASUALTIES "ON THE ISLAND OR IN THE WATERS AROUND THE ISLAND" UP TO YESTERDAY--A FIGURE FAR IN EXCESS OF OFFICIAL U.S.ANNOUNCEMENTS ON LOSSES.
IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS ALSO ASSERTED THAT 226 AMERICAN TANKS HAD BEEN DESTROYED AND 21 WARSHIPS AND 31 TRANSPORTS SUNK OR DAMAGED. AMONG THE WARSHIPS LISTED AS SUNK WERE TWO AIRCRAFT CARRIERS, ONE BATTLESHIP, ONE BATTLESHIP OR CRUISER, FOUR CRUISERS, SEVEN VESSELS OF UNIDENTIFIED CLASS AND "SIX TRANSPORTS FOR LANDINGS OPERATIONS."

LONDON, MARCH 1-(AP)-SIR ARTHUR SALTER, ONE OF BRITAIN'S OUTSTANDING ECONOMIC AND GOVERNMENTAL EXPERTS, ASSERTED IN COMMONS TODAY THAT SAFEGUARDS AGAINST FUTURE GERMAN AGGRESSION "WILL NEED A TREATY WHICH WILL BE SEVERE BY COMPARISON WITH THE MUCH-ABUSED TREATY OF VERSAILLES."

LONDON SECOND ADD NIGHT LEAD CHURCHILL BY SINGLETON

XXX FLATLY:

"THERE IS NO QUESTION OF OUR AFFORDING RECOGNITION TO THEM"--A FIRM INDICATION THAT BRITAIN WOULD REFUSE TO GO FURTHER THAN THE BIG THREE'S PROPOSAL THAT THE NEW POLISH COALITION GOVERNMENT SHOULD BE SET UP TO REPLACE BOTH THE LUBLIN COMMITTEE AND THE LONDON POLISH GOVERNMENT.

DISCLOSING AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN RUSSIA AND THE UNITED STATES AT MOSCOW LAST NOV. 1 FOR "DEALING WITH AUSTRIA, THE FIRST VICTIM OF NAZI AGGRESSION," EDEN SAID:

5&3"POSITION OF AUSTRIA, VICTIM OF NAZI AGGRESSION," EDEN SAID:

"THE POSITION OF AUSTRIA, WHO HAS WAGED WAR AS AN INTEGRAL PART OF GERMANY IS NONETHELESS I THINK A RATHER SPECIAL ONE. IT IS NOT CONCEIVABLE IN OUR JUDGMENT THAT SHE CAN BE PLACED ON AN EQUAL FOOTING WITH LIBERATED TERRITORY OR ALLIED TERRITORY, OR ANY ARRANGEMENT OF THAT KIND. BUT IT HAS, ON THE OTHER HAND, BEEN REPEATEDLY MADE CLEAR THAT IN THE FINAL SETTLEMENT ACCOUNT MUST BE TAKEN OF AUSTRIA'S OWN CONTRIBUTION."

SIR ARTHUR SALTER, ONE OF BRITAIN'S OUTSTANDING ECONOMIC AND GOVERNMENTAL EXPERTS, MAINTAINED THAT SAFEGUARDS AGAINST FUTURE GERMAN AGGRESSION "WILL NEED A TREATY WHICH WILL BE SEVERE BY COMPARISON WITH THE MUCH-ABUSED TREATY OF VERSAILLES."

AMID CHEERS ATTLEE CRIED: "WE CANNOT AFFORD TO RUN RISKS. WE HAVE GOT TO BE QUITE SURE THAT GERMANY IS NOT ONLY BEATEN BUT THAT GERMANY KNOWS IT IS BEATEN AND THAT GERMANY IS PREVENTED FROM REARMING AND BEING A MENACE AGAIN."

SUMMING UP THE CASE FOR THE GOVERNMENT EDEN SAID THAT A CHARTER WAS A BEGINNING AND NOT AN END AND SAID: "IF WE DID NOT ASK THIS HOUSE TO TAKE A DECISION I DON'T KNOW HOW A FOREIGN GOVERNMENT WOULD ASSESS ITS VIEW OF THE WORK THIS GOVERNMENT HAS DONE."

MEANWHILE THE HOUSE OF LORDS ALSO UNANIMOUSLY APPROVED A SIMILAR RESOLUTION COMMENDING THE WORK OF THE CRIMEA CONFERENCE FOLLOWING A SIX-HOUR DEBATE DURING WHICH POLAND'S CREATED THE CHIEF CONTROVERSY.

NIGHT LEAD GERMAN (470)

BY RICHARD KASISCHKE

LONDON, MARCH 1-(AP)-THE GERMAN PROPAGANDA MACHINE, POINTING UP THE GRAVITY OF THE SITUATION ON BOTH THE EASTERN AND WESTERN FRONTS AND DISCUSSING A GERMAN DESIRE FOR A CHANGE "IN THE FORTUNES OF WAR," DECLARED TONIGHT THAT "NOT EVERYTHING IS LOST YET."

PROPAGANDA CHIEF PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS LED THE DISCUSSION IN HIS WEEKLY ARTICLE IN "DAS REICH" WHICH THE BERLIN RADIO QUOTED:

"IT IS QUITE PLAIN THAT THE QUESTION MOST DISCUSSED AMONG OUR PEOPLE TODAY IS WHERE, UNDER THE PRESENT UNFAVORABLE WAR SITUATION, THERE STILL IS A CHANCE FOR CHANGING THE FORTUNRES OF WAR."

GOEBBELS ADDED THAT "IT IS JUST AS PLAIN THAT THIS QUESTION CAN ONLY BE INCOMPLETELY ANSWERED IN PUBLIC."

"THERE IS NO ONE IN GERMANY DEMANDING THAT THE GOVERNMENT CONCLUDE A PEACE AT ANY PRICE," THE RADIO QUOTED GOEBBELS AS SAYING, ADDING THAT HE SAID "THE WHOLE GERMAN PEOPLE EXPECTS THE COMING PEACE IN ALL CIRCUMSTANCES MUST CORRESPOND TO THE SACRIFICES THE PEOPLE HAVE MADE IN THIS WAR."

THE GERMANS PROCLAIMED INVASION WARNINGS AND VIRTUAL MARTIAL LAW IN PROVINCES IMMEDIATELY EAST OF THE RHINE TODAY AS THEY CONCEDED THAT AMERICAN ARMIES SWEEPING TOWARD THAT RIVER OF DESTINY HAD CRASHED INTO THE "APPROACHES" OF COLOGNE.

THE AMERICAN OFFENSIVE BETWEEN AACHEN AND COLOGNE "NOW HAS REACHED ITS CLIMAX, WITH ALL RESERVES THROWN IN FOR A BREAKTHROUGH," BERLIN SAID.

IN THIS PERILOUS SITUATION THE NAZIS ISSUED "LAWS OF MILITARY BEHAVIOR" FOR CIVILIANS IN THREATENED AREAS, INCLUDING THE PROVINCES OF WESTPHALIA AND BADEN IN THE RHINELAND. CIVILIANS IN THESE AREAS WERE COMMANDED TO GIVE STRICT OBEDIENCE TO MILITARY LAWS AND TO AVOID PANIC OR ANY ACTION'S WHICH MIGHT HINDER THE GERMAN ARMY.

ALL GERMAN ACCOUNTS STRESSES THAT THE AMERICAN ARMIES WERE STRIKING WITH TREMENDOUS POWER FOR A BREAKTHROUGH TO THE RHINE. ONE NEWS COMMENTATOR DECLARED THAT SIX TANK AND 12 INFANTRY DIVISIONS--200,000 OR MORE MEN--WERE ATTACKING ON THE COLOGNE PLAIN BETWEEN ERKELENZ AND DUEREN.

BREACHES IN GERMAN DEFENSES WERE ADMITTED, BUT A BERLIN MILITARY SPOKESMAN CONTENDED NO DECISIVE BREAKTHROUGH HAD BEEN MADE.

THE SPOKESMAN SAID THE BITTEREST FIGHTING WAS RAGING LESS THAN TWO MILES NORTHWEST OF MUENCHEN GLADBACH AND THREE MILES SOUTH OF THE NEARBY TOWN OF RHEYDT, BIRTHPLACE OF GOEBBELS.

ON THE EAST FRONT THE NAZIS ADMITTED NEW RETREATS IN POMERANIA AND ISSUED INVASION WARNINGS TO THE PROVINCE OF SAXONY, IMPERILLED BY THE SOVIET DRIVE WESTWARD THROUGH SILESIA.

PARIS, MARCH 1-(AP)-THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCED TODAY THAT IT WOULD RESUME "DIRECT RELATIONS" WITH THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT, BUT WOULD DENY ITALIANS IN TUNISIA THE SPECIAL STATUS ACCORDED THEM UNDER THE 1896 CONVENTION.

THAT CONVENTION GUARANTEED THE RIGHT OF ITALIANS IN TUNISIA TO MAINTAIN THEIR NATIONALITY. IT WAS ANNOUNCED THAT THE FRENCH INTENDED TO DRAFT A NEW CONVENTION DEFINING THE POSITION OF ITALIANS THERE.

MAURICE COUVE DE MURVILLE, FRENCH MEMBER OF THE ALLIED CONTROL COMMISSION, WILL BE NAMED FRENCH REPRESENTATIVE TO ROME WITH THE PERSONAL RANK OF AMBASSADOR. ITALY LIKEWISE WILL SEND A DELEGATE TO PARIS AND WILL BE PERMITED CONSULAR AGENTS IN PARIS, TOULOUSE AND MARSEILLE. IT WAS POINTED OUT THAT "DIRECT RELATIONS" DO NOT CONSTITUTE DIPLOMATIC RECOGNITION.

BLACK MARKET (250)
BY WADE WERNER

PARIS, MARCH 1-(AP)-THE UNITED STATES ARMY WAS GETTING SET TODAY TO MOVE AGAINST FOOD RACKETEERING GANGS IN FRANCE AFTER SUCCESSFULLY CRACKING DOWN ON CIGARETTE, GASOLINE, COGNAC AND CHAMPAGNE RACKETS INVOLVING THEFT OF ARMY SUPPLIES OF MISUSE OF MILITARY TRUCKS.

SOME INCORRIGIBLES AMONG AMERICAN TROOPS APPARENTLY ALREADY ARE

MAR 2 1945

BEGINNING TO SEE BIG MONEY POSSIBILITIES IN THE FOOD CRISIS, NOW
THAT MOST OTHER RACKET SOURCES ARE BEING SHUT OFF.
TRANSPORTING FOOD FROM FARMS TO CITIES A SHORT DISTANCE AWAY
FOR HIGH BLACK MARKET PRICES IS COMPARATIVELY EASY. MILITARY POLICE HAVE BEEN WARNED TO BE ON THE LOOKOUT.
FRENCH CIVILIAN BLACK MARKET OPERATORS ARE MAKING BIG MONEY TRANSPORTING FOOD IN CIVILIAN TRUCKS, BUT STOLEN ARMY GAS FOR FUELING THESE TRUCKS IS GETTING SCARCE. AN ALTERNATIVE IS TO TRY TO GET THE TEMPORARY USE OF ARMY TRUCKS ALREADY FUELED.
DIVERSION OF ARMY CIGARETTE SUPPLIES INTO THE BLACK MARKET WAS BELIEVED ABOUT WIPED OUT AS A RESULT OF THE RAILWAY BATTALION TRIALS
OF THE PAST FEW WEEKS. THEFTS OF ARMY GASOLINE ALSO HAVE DECLINED
SHARPLY UNDER THE STERN INFLUENCE OF 14 DEATH SENTENCES IN TWO MONTHS.

LIQUOR RUNNING GANGS USING ARMY TRUCKS ARE NOW BEING WIPED OUT.
SGT.IVAN L.GELDER OF PITTSBURGH WAS SENTENCED YESTERDAY TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT AND CAPT.GLEN E.MILLER OF TOLEDO, OHIO, TO SIX YEAR
ONCHARGES OF CONSPIRING TO USE ARMY TRUCKS TO TRANSPORT COGNAC FROM BORDEAUX TO BRUSSELS, WHERE IT WAS SOLD AT TWICE THE BORDEAUX PRICE.
ANOTHER OFFICER AND ENLISTED MAN ARE AWAITING COURT MARTIAL IN THE SAME CASE. MILITARY POLICE ALSO ARE ON TRAIL OF FIVE OTHER GANGS
WORKING THE SAME RACKET.

THE LARGEST GERMAN MUNICIPAL AREA CAPTURED BY THE AMERICANS
UNTIL TODAY WAS AACHEN, A CITY OF 165,000 WHICH FELL LAST OCT. 20.
THE MUENCHEN GLADBACH-RHEYDT CENTER IS NEARLY TWICE AS LARGE,
MUENCHEN GLADBACH ITSELF, ALTHOUGH NORMALLY OF 127,000 POPULATION,
HAVING GROWN TO 200,000 SINCE THE WAR.

LT. GEN. COURTNEY H.HODGES' FIRST ARMY WAS BUILDING UP POWERFUL FORCES FOR THE FINAL ASSAULT ON COLOGNE, AND HAD BROKEN ACROSS THE
POINTS.

TANKS AND TROOPS WERE POURING ACROSS THE RIVER AND A DISPATCH
FROM THE FRONT DECLARED THE FIRST ARMY EXPECTED ONLY DELAYING ACTION
BEFORE THE CITY.

WHILE THE EIGHTH DIVISION MOPPED UP MOEDRATH, ON THE DUEREN-
COLOGNE HIGHWAY SEVEN MILES FROM THE CITY, THE 104TH DIVISION
FORGED ACROSS THE ERFT RIVER AND FOUGHT INTO HORREM, TWO MILES

TO THE NORTH ON HITLER'S SUPERHIGHWAY.
THE ERFT BRIDGEHEAD WAS UP TO THREE MILES DEEP AND THE AMERICANS WERE DRIVING FOR HIGH GROUND FROM WHICH THE GERMANS WERE DIRECTING A HAIL OF ARTILLERY AND MORTAR FIRE AT THE CROSSINGS.
TWO MILES NORTH OF HORREM, THE 104TH DIVISION IN ANOTHER OF ITS FAMOUS NIGHT ATTACKS CROSSED THE ERFT AND CAPTURED QUADRATH AND ICHENDORF.
TWO MILES TO THE NORTHWEST, OTHER FORCES CLEARED BERGHEIM AND SPEARED ON EASTWARD NEARLY A MILE.
ALL THESE WERE OPERATIONS TO STRENGTHEN THE FIRST ARMY'S HOLD ON THE EAST BANK OF THE ERFT, AND NO ACTUAL ADVANCES TOWARD THE CITY WERE MADE DURING THE DAY.
ON THE SOUTH FLANK, THE FIRST ARMY WAS MAKING A DRIVE WHICH HAD CARRIED TO WITHIN 19 .ILES OF THE RHINE TRAFFIC CENTER OF BONN, REPEATEDLY ATTACKED BY ALLIED BOMBERS IN ORDER TO BLOCK OFF REINFORCEMENTS FOR THE WESTERN FRONT.
THE AMERICANS WERE THREE MILES AWAY ON THE WEST AND NORTH FROM ZUELPICH, A TRAFFIC CONTROL POINT WEST OF BONN. AMONG TOWNS ENTERED WERE WISSERSHEIM AND DORWEILER, NINE TO TEN MILES EAST OF DUEREN.
THIS DRIVE WAS SPEARED BY THE VETERAN FIRST INFANTRY DIVISION, NOW DISCLOSED TO BE IN ON THE FIRST ARMY OFFENSIVE.

LT. GEN. GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY WAS TOPPLING TRIER, GERMANY'S OLDEST CITY, AFTER A SUDDEN SPURT THAT WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE TRAPPED SEVERAL THOUSAND GERMANS SOUTHWEST OF THE FORTRESS.
THE TENTH ARMORED DIVISION CRACKED INTO THIS CITY OF 88,000 IN A STORM OF ARTILLERY FIRE FROM THE ANCIENT BATTLEMENTS AND A FIERCE BATTLE RAGED INSIDE TONIGHT.
GEN. EISENHOWER HAD WARNED THE GERMANS THAT THE CITY, DESPITE ITS HISTORY, WOULD BE SHELLED IF NECESSARY, BUT A FIELD DISPATCH SAID THE AMERICANS CHARGED IN WITHOUT A SHELL BURSTING INSIDE TRIER, ALTHOUGH IT WAS TERRIFIC IMMEDIATELY OUTSIDE.
THE GERMANS HAD LINED UP 36 88-MM GUNS IN FRONT OF THE CITY, AND THE TENTH ARMORED BRAVED THEIR FIRE AS IT SLASHED THROUGH THE MINEFIELDS.
ENTRANCE CAME AS A CLIMAX TO A SUDDEN NORTHERN SPRINT WHICH ENGULFED 1,000 PRISONERS.
IN ALL, 14 TOWNS FELL, INCLUDING IRSCH, TWO AND A HALF MILES SOUTHEAST OF TRIER.
OTHER TANKS AND INFANTRY WERE ONLY THREE AND A HALF MILES NORTHWEST OF TRIER, AND WERE DRAWN UP ALONG A 13-MILE STRETCH OF THE KYLL RIVER IN A POSITION TO SMASH ON EAST BEHIND TRIER AND HEAD DOWN THE MOSELLE VALLEY FOR THE RHINE.
GEN. H.D.G.CRERAR'S CANADIAN FIRST ARMY FOUGHT INTO THE EDGE OF THE GERMANS' BITTERLY-DEFENDED PIVOTAL TOWN OF WEEZE, BATTLING TO BREAK THE STOUT ENEMY LINE AND BURST OUT INTO THE RUHR.
THREE AND A HALF MILES TO THE EAST, STREET FIGHTING RAGED IN KERVENHEIM, AND FOUR MILES FARTHER EAST ON THE UEDEM-XANTEN RAILWAY, WHERE THE CANADIANS WERE TRYING TO CUT THROUGH THE FIR FOREST OF HOCHWALD.
IT WAS IN THIS SECTOR THAT THE CANADIANS WERE 10 MILES FROM THE NORTHWEST CORNER OF THE RUHR, AND HERE THE GERMANS WERE FIGHTING WITH THE GREATEST DETERMINATION TO PREVENT A BREAKTHROUGH.
THE ENEMY WAS BACKING HIS STAND WITH SOME OF THE HEAVIEST SHELLING LOOSED SINCE THE BATTLE OF NORMANDY.
THE ADVANCE WAS STOPPED COLD IN THE HOCHWALD, WHERE THE GERMANS

WITH THE U.S.FIRST ARMY AT THE ERFT RIVER IN GERMANY, MARCH 1-(AP)-A STAFF OFFICER SAID TODAY THE "GERMANS SHOW NO SIGNS OF STRENGTHENING THEIR DEFENSES WEST OF THE RHINE--THE BULK OF THEIR TRAFFIC MOVEMENT IS EASTWARD ACROSS THE RIVER."
HE SAID THE GREAT AMERICAN OFFENSIVE WAS DEVELOPING AS PLANNED.
UNDER GRAY, DRIPPING SKIES TANKS AND INFANTRY POURED ACROSS THE ERFT INTO A BRIDGEHEAD NOW APPROXIMATELY TWO TO THREE MILES DEEP AND DROVE FOR THE HIGH GROUND JUST EAST OF THE RIVER, FROM WHICH THE GERMANS HAVE OBSERVATION POINTS DIRECTING ACCURATE ARTILLERY AND MORTAR FIRE ONTO THE BRIDGE SITES.
THE DOUGHBOYS "BUTTONED UP" ON THE BRIDGEHEAD DURING THE DAY AND PREPARED FOR THE NEXT MOVE.
IN THE PAST 24 HOURS THE FIRST ARMY HAS CAPTURED 27 TOWNS. THE NINTH AND FIRST ARMIES TOGETHER SINCE THE START OF THE OFFENSIVE HAVE CAPTURED 20,000 PRISONERS.
OUR TROOPS CLEARED MOST OF BERGHEIM AND ARE ONLY ABOUT A MILE FROM OBERAUSSEM. AMONG THE TOWNS CAPTURED WERE QUADRATH, ICHENDORF, PINGSHEIM AND RATH. THE DOUGHBOYS ARE FIGHTING IN WISSERSHEIM.

THERE WERE NO ADVANCES TODAY ON A DIRECT LINE TOWARD COLOGNE AS THE BRIDGEHEAD WAS BEING SECURED, BUT ALL ALONG THE LINE THE DOUGHBOYS STRENGTHENED THEIR POSITIONS, WHILE LT.GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES GATHERED THE POWER OF HIS FIRST ARMY FOR THE NEXT MOVE EASTWARD.

QUADRATH AND ICHENDORF WERE CAPTURED BY THE 104TH INFANTRY DIVISION IN ANOTHER OF ITS FAMOUS NIGHT ATTACKS. IT IS THE SECOND RIVER CROSSING FOR THIS DIVISION SINCE THE OFFENSIVE BEGAN FEB. 23, AND REALLY THE THIRD SINCE THEY ALSO HAD TO CROSS THE 12-FOOT-WIDE GROSSE ERFT.

BY DAYBREAK THE DOUGHBOYS HAD SECURED THE CROSSING OF THE MAIN ERFT CHANNEL AND TANKS HAD FOLLOWED. BOTH TOWNS HAD BEEN CLEARED BY MID-MORNING.

AMONG THE FIRST TROOPS ACROSS WERE THOSE UNDER COMMAND OF LT.GEN. ROBERT CLARK, OF ST.JOSEPH, MO., AND LT.COL.JAMES IRVINE, 166 CLEVELAND ST., ATLANTA, GA.

THE NUMBER OF CIVILIANS LEFT BEHIND IN THE SMALL TOWNS BEING CAPTURED BY THE AMERICANS IS CREATING A PROBLEM FOR MILITARY AUTHORITIES.

IN ELSDORF FOR EXAMPLE PEOPLE CROWDED INTO A CHURCH FOR REFUGE. SINCE THERE WERE NO SANITARY FACILITIES AN OFFICER SAID THE SITUATION PRESENTED THE POSSIBILITY OF AN EPIDEMIC UNLESS CORRECTED QUICKLY.

ON THE PRUEM RIVER IN GERMANY FEB 28-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE AMERICAN CROSSING OF THE PRUEM RIVER TODAY AND CAPTURE OF MERSCHEID APPARENTLY SOLVED THE PROBLEM OF ONE GERMAN CIVILIAN WHOSE WIFE WAS ABOUT TO HAVE A BABY.

BROUGHT INTO SIXTH ARMORED DIVISION HEADQUARTERS BEFORE THE CROSSING, THE GERMAN BEGAN CHATTERING EXCITEDLY BEFORE THE INTERPRETER, SGT.JULIUS WOLF OF FAIRFIELD, ILL., COULD BEGIN ASKING QUESTIONS.

"WHAT'S HE SAY?" ASKED THE PROVOST MARSHAL, MAJ.WHIZ WHITE, 305 SOUTH RANDOLPH STREET, CHAMPAIGN, ILL.

WOLF EVENTUALLY SLOWED DOWN THE PRISONER SUFFICIENTLY TO LEARN THAT HIS WIFE WAS ABOUT TO HAVE A BABY, THAT THE GERMAN COMMANDANT ACROSS THE RIVER HAD REFUSED TO SEND A DOCTOR AND HE HAD COME TO THE AMERICANS. HE ASKED THAT THE AMERICANS HOLD UP THEIR FIRE WHILE HE CARRIED HIS WIFE ACROSS THE STREAM BY NIGHT.

BUT, AS IT DEVELOPED, THAT WAS NOT NECESSARY. BEFORE NIGHTFALL THE AMERICANS WERE IN MERSCHEID. WITH THEM WAS A DOCTOR.

IN CASTLE RATH, GERMANY, FEB.27-(DELAYED)-(AP)-

A DREAM CAME ~~XXX~~ TRUE TODAY FOR A GROUP OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS WHO HAD ALWAYS WONDERED WHAT IT WOULD BE LIKE TO LIVE IN A CASTLE.

THEY KNOW NOW AND, WITH ALL DUE THANKS TO UNCLE SAM FOR THE OPPORTUNITY, THEY WOULD LIKE TO RETURN TO THAT LITTLE GRAY HOME IN THE WEST.

THE SOLDIERS -- MEMBERS OF A 155 MILLIMETER "LONG TOM" ARTILLERY OUTFIT -- WERE BILLETED IN CASTLE RATH, A CENTURIES-OLD BRICK CHATEAU BUILT AROUND A SQUARE COURTYARD AND COMPLETE WITH ALL MANNER OF HERALDIC TRAPPINGS.

~~BUT THERE WERE CERTAIN DISADVANTAGES.~~ AMERICAN SHELLS HAD VENTILATED THE ROOF AND SIDES ~~XX~~ OF ~~XX~~ THE TIME-STAINED BUILDING. LOCATED SEVERAL MILES NORTHEAST OF DUEREN. THE INTERIOR WAS KNEE-DEEP IN A MIXTURE OF FALLEN ~~XXX~~ PLASTER, BROKEN GLASS, SOILED LINENS AND SUCH.

PILED CARELESS IN ONE CORNER OF THE BARNYARD WERE THE BODIES OF SEVEN NAZIS WHO DIED TRYING TO DEFEND THE CASTLE, LOCATED SEVERAL ~~XXX~~ MILES NORTHEAST OF DUEREN.

"THEY DIED IN ONE OF THE TUNNELS OF THE CASTLE WHICH THE GERMANS WERE USING AS A HOSPITAL FOR THE WOUNDED," SAID SGT. STANLEY H. FOXEN, 621 GARDEN STREET, SANTA BARBARA, CALIF. "OUR DOUGHBOYS CAUGHT A WHOLE BATTALION OF GERMANS HERE YESTERDAY WAITING FOR SOME TANKS TO COME UP TO SUPPORT THEM. THEY HAD TO GIVE UP. WE GOT 11 NAZI OFFICERS.

WHEN THE ARTILLERYMEN SAT DOWN FOR THEIR FIRST MEAL IN THE CASTLE'S HUGE DINING ROOM THEY HAD QUITE A DEMOCRATIC MEAL.

"WE HAD HAMBURGER," SAID PFC. GEORGE KUHN, 66 DELAWARE AVENUE, PATERSON, N.J., AS HE LOOKED AROUND THE TAPESTRY HUNG

DINING ROOM WHICH HE ALSO WAS USING AS A BEDROOM FOR THE NIGHT. "EVEN IF THEY MOVED THIS PLACE TO THE UNITED STATES I WOULDN'T WANT TO LIVE IN IT -- IT'S JUST TOO BIG."

"WELL, IT'S BETTER THAN LIVING OUTDOORS -- BUT I WOULD HATE TO TRY TO KEEP IT UP ON MY ARMY SALARY," REMARKED PFC. VIRGIL JACKSON, CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA.

BUT MESS SGT. LOUIS CAIERA, MARSTELLA, PA., HAD NO FAULT TO FIND WITH THE CASTLE.

"WHY SHOULD I?" HE ASKED. "IT HAS A BIG ENOUGH KITCHEN. HOWEVER, I WOULDN'T GRADE MY ARMY STOVE FOR ALL THE STOVES IN ALL THE CASTLES IN GERMANY."

"LOOK AT THAT PILE OF DOUGH," HE SAID. "FIVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIVE MILLION MARKS -- A FORTUNE IF IT WAS ONLY WORTH A PENNY."

"KEEP IT UNTIL YOU GET BACK TO DUBUQUE," SUGGESTED PFC. STEVE KOMISCHOCK, DRIFTON, PA. "MAYBE THEY WON'T KNOW THE DIFFERENCE."

CORP. JAMES JOHNSTON, 118 EAST NINTH STREET, ERIE, PA., AND PFC. JOE "BIG CHIEF" ENEAS, AN INDIAN FROM WHITE SWAN, WASH., BOTH THOUGHT THE CASTLE MORE COMFORTABLE THAN A FOXHOLE -- OR WIGWAM.

"IT'S A GOOD PLACE -- BUT I AM JUST PASSING THROUGH," SAID "BIG CHIEF."

CALCUTTA, MARCH 1-(AP)-A TEXAS SERGEANT WAS DETERMINED TO PLANT HIS LONE STAR STATE FLAG ON A JAPANESE-HELD HILL IN BURMA. THE JAPANESE COULDN'T STOP HIM BUT HIS OWN MEN DID.

THE DETAILS WERE IN A PRESS RELEASE TODAY.

HE STARTED OUT AS A MORTAR FIRE OBSERVER BUT WHEN THE TELEPHONE WIRE RAN OUT HE WENT ON AS A RIFLEMAN. HE TOSSED GRENADES INTO TWO PILLBOXES BEFORE BEING WOUNDED IN THE LEG.

HATFIELD WAS CARRIED DOWN THE HILL TO AN AID STATION. TWICE HE SNEAKED OUT AND STARTED UP THE HILL WITH HIS FLAG. HE WAS CAUGHT AND BROUGHT BACK AND THE SECOND TIME HE WAS TAKEN TO A PORTABLE SURGICAL HOSPITAL WHERE HE SPENT THE NIGHT.

THE NEXT MORNING, BACK HE CAME WITH THE FLAG BUT THIS TIME HIS COMMANDING OFFICER STEPPED IN AND BELLOWED: "IT'S TOO LARGE A FLAG AND TOO BARE A HILL AND BESIDES THE YANKEES IN THE OUTFIT FOUGHT JUST AS HARD AS THE TEXANS DID. PLANT IT SOMEWHERE ELSE."

BY WILLIAM HIPPLE

WITH THE U.S.MARINES ON TARAWA, NOV.28, 1943, (CORRECT)-(DELAYED BY CENSOR)-(AP)-TWO BLACK-BEARDED FRENCH PRIESTS, FREED FROM JAPANESE DOMINATION FOR THE FIRST TIME IN TWO YEARS, CAME OUT OF HIDING TODAY AND ASSERTED THAT THE JAPANESE HAD BAYONETTED, BEHEADED AND BURNED 22 ENGLISHMEN, NEW ZEALANDERS AND AUSTRALIANS AT TARAWA BECAUSE THEY SHOWED ENTHUSIASM DURING AN ATTACK ON THE ISLAND BY U.S.WARSHIPS.

MAR 2 1945

REV.HENRY JOLIVEL AND REV.LUCIEN GRANDGEORGE, TASTING THEIR FIRST WHITE MAN'S FOOD IN MANY MONTHS, THANKED THE MARINES FOR THEIR DELIVERANCE AND MADE PLANS TO CONTINUE IMMEDIATELY THEIR MISSION WORK WITH THE NATIVES.

THEY TOLD THIS STORY:

THE JAPANESE FIRST ARRIVED AT BETIO, TARAWA, IN TWO WARSHIPS DEC.10, 1941 (JUST AFTER PEARL HARBOR), PUT 100 TROOPS ASHORE AND ROUNDED UP ALL WHITES, INCLUDING A CATHOLIC BISHOP, SEVERAL PRIESTS AND BROTHERS AND SISTERS, AND BRITISH GOVERNMENT EMPLOYES, TRADERS AND MERCHANTS.

THE JAPANESE TOOK EVERYTHING THEY WANTED, INCLUDING THE BISHOP'S CROSS. THEY SEIZED LARGE AMOUNTS OF STORES AND CARRIED THEM TO THEIR WARSHIPS IN BOATS, THEN LEFT.

MEANWHILE EIGHT AMERICANS DRIFTED ASHORE IN A LIFEBOAT AFTE HAVING BEEN AT SEA 36 DAYS AFTER THEIR SHIP HAD BEEN SUNK. THE AMERICANS FOUND AN OVERLOOKED CRATED ENGINE, PUT IT IN THEIR BOAT AND DEPARTED WITH MANY OF THE TARAWA WHITES, LEAVING ONLY THE PRIESTS, TWO SISTERS, THE BISHOP, SEVERAL GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS, AN ENGLISH DOCTOR, A WIRELESS OPERATOR AND AN OLD FORMER SHIP CAPTAIN WHO DECLINED TO GO.

IN SEPTEMBER OF 1942 THE ENEMY TOOK OVER BETIO IN FORCE, BRINGING ASHORE 17 NEW ZEALAND SOLDIERS THEY HAD CAPTURED AT AN UNDISCLOSED PORT. THEY PUT THE NEW ZEALANDERS TO WORK IMPROVING THE PIER.

A69

WHEN AMERICAN WARSHIPS BOMBARDED TARAWA (PROBABLY DURING THE RAID ON THE MARSHALL AND GILBERT ISLANDS LED BY ADMIRAL HALSEY IN FEBRUARY, 1942) THE ENGLISH DOCTOR TRIED TO ESCAPE BY SWIMMING TO ONE OF THE AMERICAN SHIPS. HE WAS RECAPTURED BY THE JAPANESE, WHO THEN SLIT HIS CALVES FROM HIS KNEES TO HIS ANKLES TO PREVENT HIS RUNNING AWAY IN THE FUTURE.

THE JAPANESE ALSO WERE ANNOYED BY THE ENTHUSIASM THEIR PRISONERS SHOWED FOR THE AMERICAN ATTACK. THEY LATER TOOK 22 MEN, INCLUDING THE NEW ZEALANDERS, TIED THEM TO TREES AND BAYONETTED THEM. THEN THEY CUT OFF THEIR HEADS AND BURNED THE BODIES.

THEY SPARED THE BISHOP AND AN 81-YEAR-OLD PADRE WHO HAD BEEN TAKEN ON MAKIN ISLAND.

AS THE 24-YEAR-OLD LIGHTNING PILOT SWOOPED TO SHOOT UP THESE TWO GROUNDED AMERICAN PLANES IN ENEMY HANDS THE GERMANS ON THE FIELD FIRED ON HIM WITH RIFLES.

STROZIER GOT THE LIBERATOR AND MADE A PASS AT THE P-38, BUT RIFLE FIRE KNOCKED OUT ONE OF HIS ENGINES. STROZIER ORDERED CAPT. WILLING PARENTS, A MUSTANG PILOT OF EAST EIGHTH STREET, BRISTOW, OKLA., TO TRY FOR THE P-38. PARENTS MADE THREE PASSES THROUGH POPPING SMALL ARMS FIRE, HAD HIS OWN RUDDER SHOT OUT AND FINALLY SAW THE P-38 BURST INTO FLAMES.

U.S. 15TH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, ITALY, MARCH 1-(AP)-AMERICAN LIGHTNING AND MUSTANG FLIERS WHO SPECIALIZE IN SHOOTING UP GERMAN TRAINS HAVE BLOWN UP 217 LOCOMOTIVES SINCE THE FIRST OF THE YEAR.

THEY ADDED 19 TO THEIR SCORE OVER AUSTRIA AND NORTHERN ITALY YESTERDAY IN THE 16TH CONSECUTIVE DAY OF 15TH AIR FORCE OPERATIONS.

LT.COL.CHARLES D.CHITTY, JR., OF 901 FIRST AVE., ALBANY, GA., GOT FIVE AND BECAME THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER'S "LOCOMOTIVE BUSTING" CHAMPION WITH A TOTAL OF 21.

IN ADDITION TO THE LOCOMOTIVES DESTROYED 21 MORE WERE DAMAGED--SEVEN OF THEM BY CHITTY. HE SUCCEEDED LT.COL.HUGH A.GRIFFITH OF PITTSBURGH AS THE CHAMPION. CHITTY GOT BACK WITH A PLANE SO BADLY SHOT UP IT NEEDED A NEW WING. SEVENTEEN FREIGHT CARS WERE DESTROYED AND 183 WERE DAMAGED.

"STREAKS OF ALL COLORS WERE GOING ALL OVER THE PLACE," HE SAID. "IT WAS JUST LIKE A CHRISTMAS TREE DECORATED WITH RAINBOWS."

PEARL HARBOR, MARCH 1-(AP)-MORE THAN A HUNDRED WOUNDED MARINES, SAILORS AND SEABEES--SOME OF THE FIRST MEN TO PAY THE WAGES OF VICTORY AT IWO JIMA--HAVE REACHED PEARL HARBOR BY PLANE.

THEIR BODIES WERE TORN BY ARTILLERY, MORTARS, MACHINEGUNS, RIFLES AND LAND MINES. ONE HAD BEEN HIT BY A 1,000-POUND JAPANESE ROCKET--A NEW ENEMY WEAPON.

THE FIRST PLANELOADS ARRIVED LAST SUNDAY NIGHT, SEVEN DAYS AND ALMOST 5,000 MILES FROM THE BLACK VOLCANIC LITTLE ROCK WHERE THE JAPANESE ARE MAKING A FRENZIED STAND JUST 750 MILES SOUTH OF THEIR CAPITAL.

STORIES OF THE WOUNDED WERE ALIKE IN DISCLOSING THE BITERNESS OF THE FIGHTING AND THE HEROISM OF THE FIGHTERS. SOME OF THEIR PERSONAL EXPERIENCES WERE NIGHTMARISH AND UNMATCHED FOR STRANGENESS.

A NAVAL OFFICER FROM AN INFANTRY LANDING CRAFT (LCI) TOLD HOW HIS SHIP, STANDING OFF IWO FOR TWO DAYS BEFORE LANDING, TOOK FOUR HITS IN THREE MINUTES. SIXTY PER CENT OF THE PERSONNEL WERE LOST.

OUT OF SEVEN OFFICERS, THREE WERE KILLED AND THREE--INCLUDING HIMSELF--WERE WOUNDED. HE IS AN ENSIGN FROM FRANKFORT, KY.

ONE OF THE FIRST SEABEES WOUNDED ON THE BEACHHEAD WAS A BOATSWAIN'S MATE FIRST CLASS FROM ANAHEIM, CALIF., WHO LOST HIS RIGHT ARM FROM A DIRECT HIT BY A MORTAR SHELL. HE GAVE HIMSELF FIRST AID THROUGH KNOWLEDGE GAINED WHILE HE WAS A SCOUTMASTER.

"I WAS UP ON A TERRACE ABOVE THE BEACH LOOKING FOR A JAP MACHINE-GUNNER," HE RELATED. "I LOCATED THE JAP IN SOME DEBRIS AND WAE TRYING TO GET UP NERVE TO GO AND GET HIM WHEN I GOT HIT."

NAMES OF THE WOUNDED CANNOT BE USED UNTIL THE FAMILIES ARE NOTIFIED.

ONE WOUNDED MARINE PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER, AN ASSOCIATED PRESS NEWSMAN ON MILITARY LEAVE, TOLD WHY THE NEWS WAS LATE FROM THE IWO JIMA BEACH ON D-DAY, FEB. 19.

IT WAS NO JOB TO GET COPY OUT TO THE TRANSMISSION SHIP, BUT JAPANESE FIRE WAS TOO HEAVY ON THE BEACH FOR ANY CONTACTS WITH CORRESPONDENTS. HE WAS WOUNDED LATER AND WENT OUT TO THE SHIP AS A CASUALTY, CARRYING A.P. CORRESPONDENT JAMES LINDSLEY'S TYPEWRITER ON HIS CHEST AS HE LAY ON A LITTLER.

A91FX

"MY JOB WAS TO EXPEDITE BEACHHEAD COPY AND PHOTOS," HE SAID. "I LANDED AT 3:30 P.M. ON D-DAY ON A YELLOW BEACH WHERE I WAS TO MEET THE CORRESPONDENTS AND PHOTOGRAPHERS. I EXPECTED TO GET THE COPY IN ABOUT AN HOUR AND TAKE IT OUT TO THE PRESS BOAT. I WAS SUPPOSED TO FIND THEM WITH THE BEACHMASTER, BUT THE BEACHMASTER WAS KILLED, AND ANYWAY NO PRESS BOAT SHOWED UP.

"SGT.ROY HEINECKE OF OLNEY, PA., WAE WITH ME. WE GOT ONTO THE BEACH EAEILY ENOUGH BUT IMMEDIATELY I SAW SOMETHING WAS WRONG. THERE WAS ABOUT 30 YARDS OF FLAT, BLACK VOLCANIC SAND AND THEN A

BLUFF. MEN WERE FRANTICALLY DIGGING IN WITH THEIR HANDS, AND VEHICLES AND BOATS OF ALL KINDS GLUTTED THE PLACE.

"THE JAPS WERE BRACKETING THE PLACE WITH MORTARS AT INTERVALS. THEY HAD PERFECT OBSERVATION FROM SURIBACHI MOUNTAIN. NOBODY WAS MOVING, AND CORPSMEN WENT AROUND POKING MEN TO SEE IF THEY WERE ALIVE OR DEAD. EVERY TIME SOMEBODY WOULD MOVE THE JAPS WOULD FIRE MORTARS.

"IN SPITE OF ALL THIS A 19-YEAR-OLD KID TRACTOR DRIVER--I THINK HE WAS A MARINE--KEPT HIS TRACTOR ACTIVE UP AND DOWN THE BEACH. HE HAD A CIGAR IN HIS MOUTH AND A CARBINE SLUNG OVER HIS SHOULDER. HE WOULD MOVE THE TRACTOR AND THEN JUMP OFF INTO THE SAND AND WAIT UNTIL THE MORTARS HAD BURST, AND THEN GET UP AGAIN.

"FINALLY I DECIDED THE BEACH WAS TOO HOT, AND MOVED INLAND 150 YARDS WITH SERGEANT HEINECKE. WE DUG IN FOR THE NIGHT ON THE BROW OF A HILL. JUST AT TWILIGHT SOME TIRED TROOPS CAME BACK FROM THE FRONT FOR A REST AROUND US.

"AT 10:30 P.M. THE JAPANESE BEGAN FIRING ARTILLERY AND MORTARS AT US AT 20-SECOND INTERVALS AND KEPT IT UP FOR 30 MINUTES. THE NEXT THING I KNEW I DIDN'T KNOW NOTHING. THEN I CAME TO AND FOUND HEINECKE AND I BOTH YELLING HYSTERICALLY. I THOUGHT I'D LOST MY FOOT AND WOULDN'T LOOK UNTIL I HAD TAKEN A DRINK OF WHISKY. THEN I FOUND THE LEG TWISTED UP BY THE THIGH. IT TOOK ME 30 MINUTES TO STRAIGHTEN IT OUT BUT NOW I KNOW IT WILL BE A

EIGHT JAPANESE WHO CREPT OUT OF THE BEAUTIFUL FINANCE BUILDING THIS AFTERNOON AND GAVE THEMSELVES UP SAID THERE STILL WERE SEVERAL SCORE INSIDE THE BUILDING AND MOST OF THEM WANTED TO SURRENDER BUT DIDN'T DARE. BY NIGHTFALL ANOTHER DOZEN JAPANESE HAD SLIPPED THROUGH THE DEBRIS IN ONES AND TWOS TO SURRENDER.

BY TECH.SGT.KEYES BEECH, A MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT, FORMERLY OF THE AKRON BEACON JOURNAL, DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WITH THE FIFTH MARINE DIVISION, IWO JIMA,FEB.19-(DELAYED)--OUT OF COUNTLESS TALES OF HEROISM THERE CAME TODAY THE STORY OF A MARINE LIEUTENANT AND TWO ENLISTED MEN WHO FOUGHT THEIR WAY THROUGH A MAZE OF PILLBOXES, BUNKERS, BLOCKHOUSES AND MACHINE GUN NESTS TO CROSS TO THE WESTERN SHORE OF THIS ISLAND ONLY 90 MINUTS AFTER THEY LANDED ON THE EAST.

WHEN HE HIT THE BEACH AT H-HOUR, FEB. 19, LT.FRANK J.WRIGHT, 25, (2324 PRIMROSE AVENUE,) PITTSBURGH, PA., HAD A PLATOON OF 60 MEN.

BY THE TIME HE HAD CROSSED THE ISLAND AN HOUR AND A HALF LATER TWO OF THE 60 REMAINED AND INSTEAD OF BEING A PLATOON LEADER WRIGHT WAS A COMPANY COMMANDER.

FOUR OF HIS COMPANY'S OFFICERS, INCLUDING THE COMMANDER, WERE KILLED OR WOUNDED.

THE COMPANY WAS PART OF A FIFTH MARINE DIVISION ASSAULT BATTALION WHICH WAS ASSIGNED TO CUT DIRECTLY ACROSS THE ISLAND TO THE WESTERN SHORE AND THEN PIVOT TOWARD MORTAR MOUNTAIN, AS IT NOW IS CALLED.

THE TWO MEN WITH WHOM WRIGHT BLAZED A TRAIL FOR 800 YARDS FROM SHORE TO SHORE WERE PFC.LEE H.ZUCK, 22, (ROUTE 2,) SCRANTON, ARK., AND PFC.REMO A.BECHELLI, 26, (9326 OSTEGO AVENUE,) DETROIT, MICH.

"WE WEREN'T TRYING TO RUN A FOOT RACE," SAID WRIGHT, "BUT OUR ORDERS WERE TO GET ACROSS THE ISLAND AS FAST AS POSSIBLE, AND THAT'S WHAT WE DID.

"THE GOING WAS ALMOST TOO EASY AT THE BEACH. IT WAS STILL EASY COMING UP THOSE TERRACES. BUT WHEN WE HIT THE CREST OF THE RIDGE EVERYTHING CHANGED.

"WHAT HAPPENED WAS THAT THE JAPS HAD WITHDRAWN FROM THE BEACH AND THE TERRACES AND TAKEN THEIR POSITIONS ON THE RIDGE.

B16PX (Q)

"I WOULD MOVE ALONG AHEAD WHILE BECHELLI AND ZUCK KEPT ME COVERED WITH THEIR BAR'S (BROWNING AUTOMATIC RIFLES,) AS SOON AS I COULD SEE WHERE WE WERE GOING NEXT I'D MOTION TO THEM TO COME ON UP.

"WE SAW SOME JAPS, SEVEN OR EIGHT OF THEM, RUNNING ALONG A HILL. I THINK WE GOT ALL OF THEM."

AT ONE POINT THE THREE MEN CAME TO AN ENEMY 20-MILLIMETER GUN EMPLACEMENT. THERE DIDN'T SEEM TO BE A WAY AROUND IT, SO ZUCK LEAPED TO THE TOP OF THE EMPLACEMENT AND SPRAYED ITS OCCUPANTS WITH HIS BAR, KILLING OR WOUNDING ALL OF THEM.

THIS IS THE FIRST TIME ANY OF THE THREE MEN HAVE BEEN IN COMBAT. WRIGHT, WHO ATTENDED DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY AND QUIT TO ENLIST IN THE MARINE CORPS IN 1941, IS THE SON OF MR. AND MRS.MARTIN WRIGHT OF THE PRIMROSE AVENUE ADDRESS.

"WE CAME TO WHAT LOOKED LIKE A JAP CP (COMMAND POST,") SAID PFC. JOHN H.HENNING, 20, SON OF MR.AND MRS.JOHN W.HENNING (902 WEST NOBLE AVENUE,) GUTHRIE, OKLA.

"THERE WASN'T ANY WAY AROUND IT SO WE WENT THROUGH IT. I WAS SCORED, BUT THE SQUAD LEADER JUST KEPT ON A-GOIN' AND THERE WAS NOTHIN' I COULD DO ABOUT IT," SAID HENNING.

THAT NIGHT HENNING KILLED TWO OR THREE MORE JAPS WHEN THEY STARTED MOVING AROUND HIS FOXHOLE.

PFC.KEITH O.BUNDY, 18, LANE, ILL. (NO STREET ADDRESS,) ALSO GOT HIS JAP.

THE SQUAD LEADER TO WHOM HENNING REFERRED WAS SGT.J.D.DAWSON,25, OF ODESSA, TEX.. (NO STREET ADDRESS,) WHO KILLED AT LEAST ONE JAP.

PFC.JAMES B.TREADWAY, 23, SON OF MRS.CLARA TREADWAY (BOX 282,) WALNUT CREEK, CALIF., KILLED A JAP LIEUTENANT.

THERE IS A HOLE ALMOST DEAD CENTER THROUGH EACH SIDE OF TREADWAY'S HELMET. HIS HEAD WAS IN THE HELMET WHEN THE BULLET, SHRAPNEL OR WHATEVER IT WAS, WENT THROUGH. BUT ALL TREADWAY HAS TO SHOW FOR IT IS A BUMP ON THE BACK OF HIS HEAD.

B17PX (Q)

PFC.PAUL L.ADAMS, 21, (955 NORTH SIXTH ST.) MANITOWOC, WIS., WAS ONE OF 11 MEN IN HIS PLATOON TO GET ACROSS THE ISLAND.

HIS FIELD JACKET IS SO FULL OF HOLES IT LOOKS LIKE A SIEVE. IT WAS IN HIS PACK WHEN HIS PACK WAS SHOT OFF HIS BACK.

WITH U.S. SIXTH DIVISION,LUZON,MARCH 1-(AP)-THE "LOST PATROL" CAME BACK TODAY, BUT TWO WOUNDED MEN THEY FOUGHT TO SAVE STILL LIE IN A JAPANESE SURROUNDED RAVINE ON THESIDE OF A SHEER HILL.

THE SECOND IS A SERGEANT FROM MINNEAPOLIS WHO WAS HIT IN THE CHEST DURING A RESCUE ATTEMPT.

TWENTY-SIX MEN CAME BACK FROM THIS POCKET OF HELL. THEY WERE WEAK AND FAMISHED BUT IMMEDIATELY TALKED ABOUT GOING BACK FOR THEIR TWO COMRADES, NOT KNOWING WHETHER THEY WERE DEAD OR ALIVE.

THIS LITTLE SAGA OF BLOOD AND DEVOTION BEGAN THREE NIGHTS AGO, SAID LT.BERTHOLD BANEK, VERMILLION,S.D., WHEN COMPANY L OF THE FIRST INFANTRY CRAWLED UP A PRECIPITIOUS, GRASS-BORDERED TRAIL ALONG THE SPINE OF A HILL NEAR MOUNT MATABA.

THE TRAIL BROKE OUT INTO A SMALL CLEARING AND THEN PLUNGED DOWNWARD INTO BRUSH. THE JAPANESE, HIDDEN IN THE BRUSH, ALLOWED THE YANK SCOUTS TO PASS. ONE WHO GOT BY BEFORE THE AMBUSHERS OPENED FIRE ON THE MAIN BODY WAS PFC RAY W.SALADIN, 2114 OAKDALE AVE., ST.LOUIS,MO.

A WOUNDED LIEUTENANT, WHOSE NAME CANNOT BE MENTIONED, AND OTHERS WERE HIT BY THE FIRST VOLLEY. THIS MAN RECEIVED HIS COM- MISSION A FEW DAYS BEFORE FOR LEADERSHIP SHOWN DURING A LONG, UPWARD CLIMB FROM THE RANK OF PRIVATE.

THE JAPANESE OPENED UP ON YANKS TRYING TO EVACUATE THE WOUNDED. THE MEN CARRYING THE LIEUTENANT'S LITTER FELL IN A HEAP. AMONG THEM WAS T/5 CARL GARDNER OF HAMBURG TOWN (EDS: STATE UNAVAILABLE), A MEDIC FOR WHOM IT WAS THE SECOND CLOSE ESCAPE.

SUBSEQUENTLY MOST OF THE COMPANY EVACUATED UNDER COVER OF SMOKE SHELL FIRED BY YANK ARTILLERY.

A108FX

THE LIEUTENANT WAS LYING UNDER GRASS CAMOUFLAGE ON THE GROUND WHEN A SMOKE SHELL LANDED NEARBY. IT STARTED A FIRE WHICH SPREAD TO THE LIEUTENANT'S COVERING, BURNING HIM BADLY. HE WRIGGLED ASIDE TO AVOID THEFLAMES AND ROLLED 30 YARDS DOWN AN EMBANKMENT INTO A RAVINE.

THE SECOND JAPANESE VOLLEY CUT INTO THE AMERICANS ATTEMPTING TO CARRY THE LIEUTENANT FROM THE RAVINE AND ALL TUMBLED BACK INTO THE HELL HOLE. SOME REMAINED AND TWO OTHERS WERE THREE DAYS AND NIGHTS HIDDEN BENEATH BRUSH FROM PERIODIC JAPANESE VOLLEYS OF MACHINEGUNS AND MORTARS.

THERE WAS NO FOOD, NO MORPHINE, NO PLASMA FOR THE LIEU- TENANT AND SERGEANT. ALTHOUGH A RESCUE FORCE HAD ATTEMPTED TO SUPPLY THEM BY ROLLING MEDICINE AND FOOD FROM A HILL TOP, THE TRAPPED MEN DID NOT RECEIVE THEM.

HE SAID THAT HADDOX, OF 714 MINERVA ST., EAST LIVERPOOL,OHIO, ALTHOUGH WOUNDED IN THE HAND HELPED CARRY INJURED TO FIRST AID STATIONS.

"THEN KNOWING THAT THE SIGNAL SUPPLY SITUATION WAS CRITICAL AND THE FRONT LINES WERE PRACTICALLY OUT OF COMMUNICATION FOR WANT OF GEAR, HE FOUND A WEASEL (A TINY JEEP-LIKE TRACKED AMPHIBIOUS VEHICLE) WHOSE DRIVER HAD BEEN KILLED.

"ALTHOUGH HADDOX HAD NEVER SEEN ONE BEFORE HE JUMPED IN AND TOOK OFF FOR THE BEACH AND LOADED UP WITH THE CRITICALLY NEEDED ITEMS AND RETURNED THROUGH HEAVY FIRE TO THE HILLTOP TIME AND AGAIN. IT SEEMED THAT EVERY TIME A UNIT WAS ALMOST DONE FOR, HADDOX WOULD SHOW UP WITH A FRESH LOAD OF WIRE, BATTERIES OR PHONES AND THE COMMUNICATIONS HELD UP," SAID CONFER.

THE FORM IN WHICH THE CHAPULTEPEC INSTRUMENT FINALLY WILL COME BEFORE THE CONVENTION REMAINS AT ISSUE. IT WAS LEARNED ON THE HIGHEST AUTHORITY YESTERDAY THAT THE U.S. DELEGATION HAD DRAFTED A COMPROMISE PLEDGE TO LATIN AMERICA ON THE USE OF ARMED FORCES TO CRUSH AGGRESS-ION IN THIS HEMISPHERE.

THIS WOULD MODIFY THE TEXT PRESENTED TO THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE TUESDAY, WHICH PROVIDED FOR AUTOMATIC USE OF ARMED FORCES WITHOUT RESERVATION.

THE CHANGES CONSIST MAINLY OF DIVIDING INTO TWO PERIODS THE OPERA-TION OF THE COMMITMENT TO PUT DOWN AGGRESSION, DURING THE REMAINDER OF THE WAR AND IN THE POSTWAR PERIOD. UNDER THE PROPOSED REDRAFT THE DECLARATION WOULD TAKE EFFECT AS SOON AS SIGNED AND WOULD BIND THE AMERICAN NATIONS SO LONG AS THE WAR CONTINUES. AFTER THE WAR A TREATY WOULD BE NEGOTIATED CARRYING THE SAME PRINCIPLES.

THIS COVERS THE POINTS (1) PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAS THE AUTHORITY TO USE U.S. ARMED FORCES TO PROTECT THE UNITED NATIONS' WAR EFFORT UNDER HIS SPECIAL EMERGENCY POWERS AND (2) AFTER THE WAR CONGRESSIONAL APPROVAL WOULD BE NECESSARY.

SENATOR TOM CONNALLY ETC XXX THIRD GRAF.

ME904AEW

PRINCIPAL AMONG THEM IS THE "DECLARATION OF CHAPULTEPEC", WHICH CALLS FOR JOINT AMERICAN AND LATIN-AMERICAN ARMED ASSISTANCE TO STOP ACTUAL OR POTENTIAL AGGRESSION IN THE HEMISPHERE.

SENATOR TOM CONNALLY (D-TEXAS), CHAIRMAN OF THE SENATE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE, IS EXPECTED TO PASS ON THE FORMULA BY TOMORROW. AT PRESENT, IT WOULD COMMIT UNITED STATES ARMED FORCES FOR USE IN THIS HEMISPHERE AT LEAST DURING THE WAR. A SENATE TREATY WOULD BE REQUIRED IN PEACETIME.

CONNALLY ARRIVED HERE YESTERDAY FROM WASHINGTON, AND WAS IMMEDIATELY ASKED TO PASS ON BASIC UNITED STATES POLICY DECISIONS FOR THIS HEMISPHERE.

ALTHOUGH DIPLOMATS HAD HOPED FOR A QUICK ANSWER, CONNALLY APPEARED TO BE STEPPING CAUTIOUSLY TOWARD A STAND ON FUNDAMENTAL MILITARY, POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC ISSUES.

THE CONFERENCE, FOR ALL PRACTICAL PURPOSES ADJOURNED TO THE COUNTRY, SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS, ASSISTANT SECRETARY NELSON ROCKEFELLER AND MANY LATIN AMERICAN DELEGATES SPENT THE AFTERNOON AT NEARBY CUERNAVACA, A COUNTRY RESORT, CONFERENCE DISCUSSIONS WERE HELD THERE ON AN INFORMAL BASIS.

MEANWHILE, VARIOUS SUBCOMMITTEES TOOK UP FINAL ACTION ON A COMPROMISE MEASURE TO GIVE THE INTER-AMERICAN SYSTEM POLITICAL POWER AND A PLACE OF ITS OWN IN THE INTERNATIONAL SECURITY ORGANIZATION.

MAR 2 1945

A BROAD MEASURE SETTING FORTH CERTAIN SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES AND WHICH WOULD APPLY GENERALLY IN THE HEMISPHERE WAS UP FOR FINAL ACTION BEFORE A SUBCOMMITTEE.

THE SUBCOMMITTEE IS ALSO DRAWING UP A SET OF STANDARDS ON THE TREATMENT OF AXIS WAR CRIMINALS. CONFERENCE LEADERS BELIEVE IT MIGHT BE BROUGHT IN LINE WITH THE PRINCIPLES LAID DOWN BY THE LONDON COMMITTEE ON WAR CRIMINALS OR SOME OTHER GROUP TO BE CONSISTENT.

FRENCH APPROVAL OF THE BIG THREE CRIMEAN DECISION CLEARED THE WAY FOR AN ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE FORMULA FOR VOTING IN THE WORLD SECURITY CONFERENCE, ANTICIPATED SHORTLY.

FRENCH RESERVATIONS MADE IT NECESSARY TO HAVE SOME FURTHER CONSULTATIONS, BUT AN EXTREMELY DIFFICULT IMPASSE HAS NOW BEEN BROKEN FOR THE UNITED STATES DELEGATION HERE.

FORMATION OF A RSOLUTION SUPPORTING THE PRINCIPLES OF DUMBARTON OAKS BY THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS HAS BEEN HELD UP UNTIL ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE BIG THREE VOTING SOLUTION.

THE IMPASSE AROSE BECAUSE THE BIG THREE HAD AGREED NOT TO MAKE PUBLIC THE YALTA VOTING DECISION UNTIL FRANCE AND CHINA HAD APPROVED. CHINA ASSENTED QUICKLY.

OBVIOUSLY, IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE FOR LATIN-AMERICAN DELEGATES TO VOTE THEIR SUPPORT FOR THE DUMBARTON OAKS PRINCIPLES UNTIL THEY KNEW THEM FULLY.

JUST AS THE FRENCH APPROVED THE YALTA CONFERENCE WITH RESERVATIONS, LATIN AMERICANS HERE HAVE SEVERAL IDEAS FOR REVISION OF THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN.

THESE CENTER MAINLY ON DEMANDS FOR MORE REPRESENTATION IN THE SECURITY COUNCIL AND MORE POWERS FOR THE ASSEMBLY OF NATIONS AS COMPARED WITH THE COUNCIL.

HOWEVER, THE DECISION SEEMS GENERALLY ACCEPTED NOW TO AIR THESE MATTERS HERE BUT TAKE NO ACTION UNTIL SAN FRANCISCO. A RESOLUTION APPROVING THE GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF DUMBARTON OAKS IS EXPECTED TO RESULT FROM THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE. TAKING UP DETAILS OF THE PLAN WAS PUT OFF BECAUSE THE UNITED STATES COULD NOT COMMIT ITSELF TO ANY REVISIONS WITHOUT CONSULTATION WITH RUSSIA AND GREAT BRITAIN.

RIO DE JANEIRO, MARCH 1-(AP)-PRESIDENT GETULIO VARGAS PROMISED THE BRAZILIAN PEOPLE TODAY THAT HE WOULD FIX WITHIN ~~90 DAYS~~ THE DATE FOR THE FIRST GENERAL ELECTION THIS COUNTRY HAS KNOWN SINCE 1930.

THE PROMISE WAS EMBODIED IN A DECREE MODIFYING THE CONSTITUTION WHICH HE ESTABLISHED IN 1937 BY RESTORING TO THE PEOPLE THE RIGHT OF DIRECT SUFFRAGE IN THE ELECTION OF THE PRESIDENT, GOVERNORS OF STATES, PARLIAMENT AND STATE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLIES.

VARGAS GAVE NO INDICATION OF THE PROBABLE DATE OF THE ELECTION, BUT IN RECENT PUBLIC UTTERANCES HE HAS EXPRESSED BELIEF THAT NONE SHOULD BE HELD UNTIL THE END OF THE EUROPEAN WAR, IN WHICH BRAZIL IS TAKING AN ACTIVE PART.

THE PRESIDENT'S ACTION REVOKED IN WHOLE OR IN PART 10 ARTICLES OF THE 1937 CONSTITUTION, AGAINST WHICH A LARGE SEGMENT OF THE BRAZILIAN PRESS HAS BEEN AGITATING RECENTLY ON THE GROUND IT WAS MOLDED ON THE AUTHORITARIAN EUROPEAN PATTERN.

THE NEW LAW PROVIDES THAT THE PRESIDENT CHOSEN AT THE FORTHCOMING ELECTIONS SHALL TAKE OFFICE WITHIN 60 DAYS AFTER THE RESULTS ARE DETERMINED--THEREBY IN EFFECT FIXING A DATE FOR THE TERMINATION OF PRESIDENT VARGAS' PRESENT INDEFINITE TERM.

VARGAS BECAME CHIEF OF THE GOVERNMENT ON NOV. 3, 1930, AFTER A MILITARY UPRISING WHICH FORCED THE RESIGNATION OF PRESIDENT WASHINGTON LUIS PEREIRA DE SOUZA AND PREVENTED THE INSTALLATION OF DR. JULIO PRESTES, WHO HAD BEEN ELECTED THE PREVIOUS MARCH.

VARGAS SERVED AS HEAD OF THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT UNTIL JULY 18, 1934, WHEN HE WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT BY THE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY. IN NOVEMBER, 1937, AS HIS TERM WAS ABOUT TO EXPIRE, VARGAS DECREED A NEW CONSTITUTION UNDER WHICH THE TERM OF THE PRESIDENT WAS EXTENDED UNTIL A PLEBESCITE COULD BE HELD.

THIS PLEBESCITE NEVER WAS HELD, HOWEVER, BECAUSE EARLY IN 1938 VARGAS DECREED A STATE OF EMERGENCY FOLLOWING AN UPRISING WHICH REACHED TO THE VERY GATES OF THE PRESIDENTIAL PALACE.

THE 1937 CONSTITUTION PROVIDED FOR A CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES, TO BE CHOSEN INDIRECTLY THROUGH LOCAL ELECTORS, AND FOR A FEDERAL COUNCIL OF 30 MEMBERS--ONE TO BE NAMED BY EACH OF THE 20 STATE LEGISLATURES AND 10 TO BE NAMED BY THE PRESIDENT. NEITHER BODY EVER WAS ELECTED, HOWEVER, DUE TO POSTPONEMENT OF THE PLEBESCITE.

UNDER THE NEW LAW THE UPPER HOUSE WILL CONSIST OF TWO SENATORS FROM EACH OF THE STATES AND THE FEDERAL DISTRICT, ALL CHOSEN BY DIRECT SUFFRAGE.

NIGHT LEAD CONFERENCE
BY NORMAN CARIGNAN
MEXICO CITY, MARCH 1-(AP)-THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE LOOKED FORWARD TODAY TO A UNITED STATES FORMULA THAT WOULD EVENTUALLY GIVE LATIN AMERICA POWER TO SETTLE ITS OWN DISPUTES. SUCH A FORMULA CONTEMPLATES USING U.S.ARMED FORCES.
SENATOR TOM CONNALLY (D-TEX), CHAIRMAN OF THE SENATE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE, AND SENATOR WARREN AUSTIN (R-VT.), MINORITY LEADER OF THE COMMITTEE, SPENT THE MORNING CONFERRING WITH THE UNITED STATES DELEGATION ON A PLAN THAT WILL PERMIT U.S. PARTICIPATION IN THE PROGRAM WITHIN THE BOUNDS OF UNITED STATES LAW AND CONGRESSIONAL SENTIMENT.
CONNALLY SAID HE HOPED TO BE ABLE TO ANNOUNCE SOMETHING DEFINITE TOMORROW. HE WAS UNDERSTOOD TO BE CONSIDERING TWO METHODS -- ONE CALLING FOR IMMEDIATE MILITARY AID BY INVOKING THE PRESIDENT'S EXISTING WARTIME POWERS AND PROVIDING FOR TREATY ARRANGEMENTS DURING PEACE TIME; THE OTHER CALLING FOR A "RECOMMENDATION" FOR MILITARY ASSISTANCE, LEAVING THE MATTER UP TO THE WILL OF CONGRESS.
CONNALLY GAVE NO INDICATION OF HIS PREFERENCE.
THE CONFERENCE PRACTICALLY TOOK THE AFTERNOON OFF. SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS, ASSISTANT SECRETARY NELSON ROCKEFELLER, CONNALLY AND MOST OF THE OTHER DELEGATES WENT TO A NEARBY COUNTRY RESORT FOR A REST AND INFORMAL DISCUSSIONS.
DURING THE DAY ONE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE APPROVED TWO MEASURES DESIGNED TO STRENGTHEN THE INTER-AMERICAN SYSTEM. IT VOTED UNANIMOUSLY TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETINGS OF THE AMERICAN FOREIGN MINISTERS AND TO HAVE QUADRENNIAL SESSIONS OF THE INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE OF AMERICAN STATES, THE POLICY MAKING BODY WHICH WILL CONVENE AT BOGOTA, COLOMBIA, NEXT YEAR.

TOKYO RADIO TOLD JAPANESE IN THE HOMELAND LAST NIGHT THAT SUPERFORTRESSES ARE DROPPING A PHOSPHOROUS INCENDIARY WITH "A HIGH DESTRUCTIVE POWER" AND AN "ELECTRON BOMB" WHICH SPREADS FIRE OVER AN AREA OF 30 TO 46 FEET.
THE BROADCAST, INTERCEPTED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, WENT INTO GREAT DETAIL IN INSTRUCTIONS ON HOW TO COMBAT THE BOMBS.
THE COMMENTATOR SAID THE AMERICAN BOMBERS RECENTLY HAVE BEGUN TO "USE A LARGE-SIZE BOMB SO WE SHOULD KEEP A VERY CLOSE WATCH ON THIS PHOSPHOROUS BOMB."
HE TOLD THE JAPANESE THE ELECTRON INCENDIARY, ON EXPLODING, SHOOTS UP A FLAME TO A HEIGHT OF ABOUT NINE FEET AND ENVELOPS AN AREA TWICE THE SIZE "OF THAT COVERED BY THE OIL INCENDIARY."
HE PREVIOUSLY HAD DESCRIBED AN OIL INCENDIARY BOMB AS ONE SPREADING OUT OVER AN AREA OF 15 TO 18 FEET.
BOTH THE PHOSPHOROUS AND ELECTRON INCENDIARIES WERE CREDITED WITH POWER TO CONTINUE BURNING FOR 30 MINUTES.

Nazi Army Flees In Panic; British Join in Big Drive

LONDON, March 3 (Saturday) (A. P.). — The first American troops have crossed the Rhine River at Neuss, London reports indicated early today as the German radio said "Americans are making efforts to cross the Rhine."

Front line dispatches to London newspapers said the first patrols already were across but no details were given.

One dispatch from Ninth Army Headquarters said, "It looks as if the Germans fell for our bluff that we were going for Cologne. I can tell you now it never was our objective."

Other reports indicated the British Second Army, which has been largely in reserve, now is on the move. The German radio declared this powerful, fresh and superbly-equipped force "is preparing for a crossing of the lower Rhine at Emmerich."

It was unofficially believed here that a breaching of the Rhine would be the signal for resumption of the gigantic Russian offensive in a co-ordinated east-west drive to the heart of the Reich.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

PARIS, March 2 (A. P.).—The United States Ninth Army smashed to the Rhine at two points today, engulfed all the arsenal cities in the Ruhr area west of that formidable river, routed the German 15th Army, and began shelling Duesseldorf in the greatest offensive in American history.

It split the German defenses and sent the mauled enemy in frantic retreat across the Rhine as the U. S. First Army fought to within four and a half miles of Cologne and the U. S. Third Army captured the ancient fortress of Trier, guarding the Moselle River route to Coblenz.

NIGHT MAR 3 1945

MAR 3 1945

CANADIANS SETTING GIANT TRAP

The Canadian First Army on the north knocked out two other strongpoints in a five-mile surge through the buckling lines, and was 10 miles from a junction with the Ninth Army, threatening entrapment of thousands of Germans.

German broadcasts said that between the closing jaws of this nutcracker the British Second Army went over on the offensive, and broke across the Meuse River in a drive designed to pin down and destroy the German Army west of the Rhine.

Duesseldorf's cross-Rhine suburb of Neuss and the steel city of Krefeld near the Rhine, 10 miles to the northwest, fell with astonishing speed as the Ninth Army roared 15 miles through broken lines.

Gen. Eisenhower, travelling within five miles of Duesseldorf during a tour of the front, said the Ninth army had taken 17,500 prisoners.

German rearguards fought fiercely between Neuss and the Rhine to keep the Americans from breaking across the river into Duesseldorf on two bridges still intact.

In the northern outskirts of Krefeld, a city of 170,000, enemy tanks battled to hold open the main Rhine bridge on the super highway at nearby Uerdingen.

This was the principal way out of the closing trap for parts of 10 crack divisions, which abruptly broke off the battle with the Canadian First Army and fled. The Canadians then

To the west the 35th Infantry and the Eighth Armored divisions sealed off an undetermined number of Germans left along the once-formidable Maas river line south of Venlo, and, striking seven miles northwest of that fallen citadel, captured Straelen.

Farther south patrols entered Roermond and found it deserted, but between Venlo and Roermond patrols crossing the Maas got a sharp reaction, indicating possibly sizeable forces had been trapped.

The greatest peril to the Germans still west of the Rhine was rising from the Krefeld push, for here Simpson's tanks and infantry were closing fast on the best roads of retreat to the Rhine.

In the broad sweep, which won control of the Rhine plain all the way from the Maas 30 miles eastward to the Rhine, the Ninth army captured such small industrial cities as Duelken and Viersen, with a combined population of about 30,000.

In some of the cities smoke still rose from chimneys of factories making materials for Hitler's armies as the Americans charged through.

Sullen German civilians watched from windows, but made no attempt to scorch the earth and snipe as ordered by Hitler.

A Ninth army staff officer declared that the German defenses for the most part had degenerated into a rout.

Nazi Forces Retreat

With this peril rising behind them, elements of 10 divisions opposing Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian First army abruptly broke off the battle and headed for the Rhine.

Bitterly-contested Weeze fell to British troops who then sped on two and a half miles south to within a mile of Kevelaer, 10 miles from the Americans at Straelen.

Canadians six miles to the east swept forward five miles to within a mile and a half of the road junction of Sonsbeck as the Germans there likewise abruptly broke off contact.

Other Canadian troops stormed to within two miles of the Rhine stronghold of Xanten, five miles northwest of Sonsbeck, and were mopping up the Hochwald, a fir forest where the Germans had stopped them cold for days with dug-in tanks and machineguns.

occupied the strongpoints of Weeze and Kervenheim and neared the anchor city of Xanten on the Rhine.

VENLO, ROERMOND TAKEN

Already large numbers of Germans had been sealed off along the Meuse by a lightning Ninth Army blow that overran the strongholds of Venlo and Roermond, at whose muddy approaches many a British Second Army soldier died last fall and winter.

The Germans were left with nothing west of the Rhine capable of halting General Dwight D. Eisenhower's avalanche, and 6000 warplanes pounded on the bleeding Wehrmacht, hammering it from dawn to dusk in a gigantic display of combined land and air power.

NAZIS BREAK OFF BATTLE

One report said the Germans frequently stopped fighting in the midst of battle and broke into headlong retreat, and another said the Americans ran wild through city after city.

One way out was Cologne itself, and 900 Royal Air Force bombers in two raids plastered it with high explosives aimed at German troop concentrations reported there. They also sought to block the main streets with craters and debris.

The U. S. First Army once more was lashing out from its Erft River bridgehead—now 11 miles wide—toward Cologne, which was under heavy bomber attack with four of its five bridges destroyed.

15 MILES FROM BONN

Another column of the First Army speared southeastward to within 15 miles of the Rhine's transit center of Bonn, 11 miles southeast of Cologne.

Lieutenant General William H. Simpson, Ninth Army commander, was disclosed to have hurled seven infantry and three armored divisions, 150,000 men, into the offensive which in a week has destroyed five German infantry divisions of the 15th Army and heavily mauled three Panzer divisions.

Since striking out a week ago, the Ninth Army had reeled off 33 miles, and tonight it was clear that the battle of the Rhine, one of the swiftest of Allied triumphs, was near an end, a dispatch from Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Headquarters said.

EISENHOWER AT FRONT

As the flight became as chaotic in some places as that in Normandy last summer, General Eisenhower toured the front with General Simpson to see how well the Ninth had carried out his orders to destroy every German soldier west of the Rhine.

The smoke of American shellbursts mingled with the smoke from the factories of Duesseldorf, administrative center of the Ruhr Basin with a population of 539,000.

The suburb of Neuss, itself with a normal population of 60,000, held out but a short time before the charge of the 83d Infantry Division.

GUNS DUEL ACROSS RHINE

German guns, emplaced on the east bank of the river, opened fire as the Americans appeared, and mobile American artillery returned the fire in a thunderous cannonading. The river is 1180 feet wide at this point and is 50 feet deep.

Ten miles to the northwest, the 102d Division in 10-mile advance captured Krefeld, a steel and railway city of 170,000 population.

Between the two cities, the Second Armored Division also reached the Rhine last night almost simultaneously with the 83d Division and today captured Boesinghoven, three miles south of the Germans' main Rhine escape bridge on the superhighway east of Krefeld.

Lieutenant General George S. Patton, Jr.'s, Third Army took a giant stride in its own drive for the Rhine with the capture of Trier, Germany's oldest city, with a normal population of 88,000.

The Third Army was lashing out all along its 50-mile front, gaining up to two miles, seizing nine more towns and so many prisoners that it was having difficulty taking care of them.

Lieutenant General Courtney H. Hodges' power-laden U. S. First Army dug into the Germans fighting savagely from behind the slag heaps and hilltops to hold it back from the last five miles to Cologne.

land, was placed under artillery fire again while the American First Army fought less than five miles away on plains as flat as Kansas. Nearly 1,000 British heavy bombers spread new rubble in the metropolis, second only to Berlin as the most bombed city.

The First Army also beat within fifteen miles of Bonn and seven of Euskirchen, important Rhineland transit center.

Curiously, the eleven German divisions fighting the Canadians to the north stood their ground until noon today, when they started frantically to cross the Rhine for refuge. Then Canadian armor and infantry pushed through German suicide squads for an advance of more than five miles in the northern Rhine plain.

At Krefeld, the Americans were within seven miles of Duisburg, the great Rhineland port that serves the Ruhr.

The American triumphs had split the Rhine plain. The breakthrough salient widened to fifty-six miles from a point six miles north of captured Venlo to Zuelpich, on the approaches to Cologne and Bonn. At Neuss, the Americans were 290 miles from Berlin, the nearest approach from the west. Maximum advances in the week-old campaign were twenty-three miles from the Roer to Neuss, across the Rhine from Duesseldorf.

One trap already had snapped on whatever Germans were left in the 21-by-10-mile strip between Venlo and Roermond. Escape routes for the rest of Gen. Gustav von Zangen's broken Fifteenth Army were being sealed off swiftly.

Trier was a dead city, abandoned by most of its 88,000 peacetime inhabitants, when the Third Army took it over. It was badly scarred from aerial bombardment, but the famous Porta Nigra, built by the Romans in the third century, was hardly touched, and the cathedral, dating back to the fourth century, was damaged only to a repairable extent at one end.

The southern part of Trier is the most severely damaged. The section north of the Porta Nigra is in relatively good condition. Six large fires and several small ones are burning in scattered areas tonight, but all are under control.

The Americans first entered the narrow, crooked streets in the ancient quarter early today. The first were members of a task force led by Lieut.-Col. Jack Richardson of Athens, Tex., and they seized intact the south bridge over the Moselle. This enabled tanks to roll across and establish a bridgehead on the western bank. But the Germans succeeded in blowing up the center span of the north bridge.

Krefeld, a steel and rail center of 170,000, was greater Germany's thirty-fifth largest city. Among Rhineland conquests, it was second only in size to the twin cities of Muenchen Gladbach and Rheydt which were captured yesterday. With their populations swollen by war refugees, they formed a center of 300,000—the largest German center of population captured by either Gen. Eisenhower or his Russian allies.

Scores of Other Towns Fall.

Scores of other towns were taken, often linked closely with each other. The total number captured by the First and Ninth armies since the offensive started was nearly 500.

Among the advanced towns taken by the Ninth were Bosinghoven, three miles from the superhighway bridgehead across the Rhine east of Krefeld. Others were Greferath and Straelen, both fairly large.

The First Army widened its assault front on the west, northwest and southwest of Cologne. Habelrath, east of the River Erft and six miles from the edge of Cologne, was captured. Bedburg on the Erft was taken; Buccholz beyond was entered. Gymich, Wissersheim, Pingsheim and Erp were seized on the approaches of both Cologne and Bonn. Zeupich was hemmed on three sides. Heimbach, east of the River Roer headwater dams, was captured, and so were Juntersdorf, Wellersheim and Bessenich.

The Canadians on the north broke forward five miles through German reaerguards. Weeze fell. Kervenheim was won by the Canadians and the Nazis broke contact. The infantrymen pursued them two and a half miles from the Ruhr corner city of Wesel. The northern half of the Hochwald was cleared.

The Eighty-third Infantry Division fought swiftly through the bomb-blasted city of Neuss, which lies on the west bank of the river opposite Duesseldorf, administrative center of the Ruhr.

Artillery Duel Rages.

A thunderous artillery duel was being fought across the Rhine as Neuss and other towns on the west bank surrendered. Many American shells poured into Duesseldorf, thick with chimneys of blast furnaces, oil plants, munition works and coking ovens.

The 150,000 attacking men of the Ninth Army were in a swift and fruitful pursuit of Field Marshal von Rundstedt's fleeing and shattered forces.

It was apparent that Duesseldorf, one of the great industrial producers of Germany, was finished as a source of materiel for the Nazi armies. Whether the Americans cross the Rhine now or later, artillery falling in the city twenty-four hours a day will make factory work impossible and harass those remaining of the normal population of 539,000.

Gen. Simpson's headquarters called the German Fifteenth Army retreat a "rout."

Five German infantry divisions have been destroyed by the Ninth Army's drive to the Rhine and three armored divisions have been severely mauled, it was estimated today.

Numerous new divisions were identified in the Ninth Army assault lines, including the "Hell on Wheels" Second Armored. Two other tank divisions were on the loose. Prisoners clogged cages; the Ninth Army total yesterday rose 3,052 to 15,576 for the campaign which started west of the Roer River on February 23.

The wide and sweeping gains, most spectacular since the Brittany break-through last summer which precipitated the capture of France, Belgium and Luxembourg, won control of the whole width of the plain between the Rhine and the Maas. In this plain is the section of the Ruhr which spills over west of the Rhine.

The Ruhr, far and away Germany's greatest concentration of heavy industries, produced three-fourths of her war materials in 1942 when train after train of Allied bombers started reducing its great steel, coke, chemical, plastic and textile factories.

Germans' Western Line Collapsing; Nazi Forces on River Plain Split

Paris, March 2 (A. P.).—The American Ninth Army drove to the Rhine today and captured the western end of the Ruhr with its large cities of Krefeld and Neuss, the latter a suburb of Duesseldorf. Germany's whole western front before the Rhine was collapsing.

It was learned tonight that Gen. Eisenhower toured the Ninth Army front today with Lieut.-Gen. William H. Simpson, personally inspecting the fast-moving battle.

Far to the south, ancient Trier fell to the American Third Army which thus pried open the gate of the Moselle Valley leading to the middle Rhine cities of Coblenz, Mainz and Frankfort.

Cologne, largest and most important of all cities in the Rhine-

It is doubly important now that the Russians have taken Silesia and American armies have pushed to the Saar, where the great steel mills lie along the Saar River opposite American cannon.

The Rhineland area north and east of captured Muenchen Gladbach and Rheydt was enveloped swiftly.

Dash To The Rhine Called A "Rat Race"

A field officer of Maj. Gen. Robert C. Macon's 83d Division, first Americans to reach the Rhine, described the chase as a "rat race." The Canadians to the north hold 44 miles or more of the west banks of the lower Rhine. On the river's upper reaches, the French 1st Army stands on about 100 miles of its bank from the Alps to north of Strasbourg.

MAR 3 1945

Division.

Powered by tanks and armor, elements of the 83d drove to the Rhine in a lightning blow that carried them 10 miles today.

An intense artillery duel began there. The Germans' big guns reached out, trying to locate the American columns, while mobile guns of veteran American armored units pulled up behind the doughboys and sent their shells across the Rhine.

Nazi Tanks And Self-Propelled Guns Beaten

At Neuss, a machine and steel city of 45,000, the 2nd Armored Division fought Nazi tanks and self-propelled guns at Neuse Canal, and then crossed it.

With new divisions announced in the 9th Army, its total weight was seven infantry and three tank divisions of perhaps 150,000 fighting men. These were the 2d, 5th and 8th Armored Divisions and the 29th, 30th, 35th, 79th, 83d, 84th and 102d Infantry Divisions.

Three attack divisions have been named in the 1st Army drive and a dozen in the 3d Army's central attacks. (Canadians on the north are possibly using three Canadian and nine British divisions.)

Among the towns captured by the 9th Army were Duelken, 5 miles northwest of Muenchen Gladbach, and Bosheim. Vierson fell and Ambruck was reached.

Roermond Hopelessly Outflanked

Roermond, Dutch fortress town where the Roer flows into the Maas, was by-passed and hopelessly outflanked, if not captured. Patrols entered Roermond last night and found it empty.

In all, 21 towns were taken yesterday. The extreme 15-mile advance was made by the hard-hitting 35th Division into Venlo. British 2d Army lines were west of Venlo, and between that town and the Canadian 1st Army. All Germans still between the left flank of the 9th Army and the British were trapped.

Associated Press Correspondent J. W. Gallagher, with the 9th Army, said:

"It may be only a matter of hours before the fate of Field Marshal von Rundstedt's forces north of Cologne is sealed."

In the Cologne area, the 1st Army was within 15 miles of the Rhine city of Bonn, at the edge of Zuelpich and 7 from the important traffic center of Euskirchen.

The 9th Army's Disclosed Position

This was the position of the 9th Army as disclosed in the brief lifting of the news blackout:

The 83d Infantry was standing watch on the Rhine and was in the Duesseldorf suburb of Neuss. Yesterday it captured Rheydt.

The 29th Infantry was patrolling Muenchen Gladbach.

The 2d Armored Division had raced 8 miles north and was in sight of Krefeld, near which an important superhighway bridge spans the Rhine.

The 102d Infantry gained 5 miles in capturing Viersen and drove on to Amburch.

The 5th Armored Division drove 7 miles to the vicinity of Anrath.

The 84th Division captured Duelken and went on 3 or 4 miles west to take Bolsheim.

The 8th Armored Diivsion advanced 6 miles in close conjunction with a 15-mile sweep which carried the 35th Infantry into Venlo. Venlo was entered last night and captured at dawn.

In all, the 9th Army overran 21 towns yesterday. It was estimated that 15,500 prisoners have been taken by Simpson's forces since they crossed the Roer eight days ago.

Venlo, taken by the 35th (Santa Fe) Division, was one of the larger prizes, a Maas River stronghold of 27,600 and a major railroad junction for traffic from the Ruhr and Rhineland.

1st Takes 13 Towns

The American 1st Army pushing upon Cologne fought against a tough enemy dug into ridges, open mien pits and trenches. The 1st captured thirteen towns overnight, including Erp, 15 miles from Bonn and 7 miles from the major traffic center of Euskirchen.

The Germans said 9th Army shock troops had reached Krefeld in their drive to join the Canadian 1st Army and for a trap. The Germans, however, were pulling out—fast—toward and across the Rhine. British airmen spotted over 300 vehicles running with lights on last night for the river in the area of Krefeld.

Skies Clear For Planes

Clear skies appeared at dawn for the first time in a week, promising the harried and often disorganized Germans frightful aerial torture in their dangerously restricted area west of the Rhine.

The Erft River bridgehead west of Cologne was widened and consolidated. Bergheim, one of the principal crossings, was cleared. Kenten and Horren on the river were also taken.

Nine More Towns Captured

The greatest 1st Army gains, however, were made south of the bridgehead. Frussenich, at the edge of the important Rhineland road center of Zuelpich, fell. A cluster of near-by towns—Wissersheim, Ginnick, Froitzheim, Juntersdorf, Embken, Sievernich, Disternich and Nuttersheim—also was cleared.

The German air force blasted at Allied bridges across the Erft last night and were active over the entire front. First Army ground guns destroyed 24 planes.

29th Has Only Five Casualties

The twin cities of Muenchen Gladbach and Rheydt, which spread over 15 square miles, were the first important places the Germans [illegible] without anything like a fight. Only five American casualties were suffered there in the 29th Division assault.

There were increasing indications that the Germans realized Cologne was doomed.

All the crushing blows to Germany's last hopes of making a stand west of the Rhine did not fall in the north, however.

Trier Force Bolstered

Trier was tottering as the 10th Armored Division of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's 3d Army hurled additional men and machines into the city. Tanks streamed across the Moselle on the south bridge, which was captured intact. The north bridge was damaged.

The Volkssturm from Trier and near-by Irsch were among the defenders. Anti-aircraft guns were used as artillery.

Butzweiler Captured

Butzweiler, where one of western Germany's largest fortresses is located, just north of Trier, was captured. The city was surrounded to the east of the Moselle and the 76th Infantry was driving down from the northwest only 3 miles from the stream. En route, the infantrymen captured Kersch and Newel in 3-mile gains.

Cleaning out the area between the Kyll and Nims Rivers, the 4th Armored Division captured Sefferweich and Malbergweich, 6 miles north of Bitburg. Cavalry entered Plutscheid. The 6th Armored Division captured Matzerath and the 4th Infantry Division entered Willerath, 52 miles west of Coblenz and just northeast of Pruem.

Major Cities Captured By Allies in 24 Hours

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, March 2—Major German cities captured in the last twenty-four hours:

Muenchen-Gladbach, with a pre-war population of 127,115.

Rheydt, 80,000, a twin city of Muenchen-Gladbach (the two cities together formed a war-swollen metropolitan center of 300,000).

Trier, 68,000.

Neuss, 45,000.

Vierson, 32,000.

Duelken, 11,400.

Krefeld, 170,000.

Dutch cities taken:

Venlo, 27,602.

Roermond, 12,000.

EISENHOWER PLEASED

WITH THE SUPREME COMMANDER EAST OF THE ROER, March 2 (A. P.)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Supreme Allied Commander, said tonight:

"A week ago today the Ninth and First Armies jumped off to participate in the offensive initiated by the First Canadian Army in the north on Feb. 8. Progress has been eminently satisfactory and casualties gratifyingly light. The Ninth Army has reached the Rhine near Duesseldorf and Lieutenant General William H. Simpson's troops have captured at least 17,500 prisoners."

GOES NEAR DUESSELDORF

In the wake of his Rhine-bound offensive, General Eisenhower earlier today careened over smashed German roads to within five miles of the great industrial city of Duesseldorf.

The Supreme Commander, accompanied by General Simpson, was anxious to travel by jeep nearer the Ninth Army's objective, but his crowded on-the-spot inspection trip to divisions and corps did not permit it.

But he did manage to see some action, although it was not prearranged by his aides.

Brig. Gen. John Church, of 17 East Patrick street, Frederick, Md., is in the field as an assistant division commander.

Church Leads Attack

Church, a veteran of the Anzio, Salerno, Sicily and southern France beachheads, started out the first day with a task force that gained 10 miles riding trucks with machine guns lashed on their fronts. Now the whole division is on the move.

When there wesn't enough trucks and jeeps to go around, the 3d Battalion of the 335th United States Infantry Regiment mounted bicycles the Germna Army had left behind and rode out into combat.

This bike-riding column overran a German labor battalion, giving some idea of how far the breakthrough had carried.

Take Battalion Of 300

Later in the day this same battalion, commanded by Lieut. Col. Ridgley B. Bond, of 24 Seminole avenue, Baltimore, met a German battalion of 300 men, killed 150 and captured the remainder. Bond said the Germans were former members of the air force who had been given rifles the day before and put in the line.

Enjoying the supplies found in the enemy labor battalion camp's dump, Sergt. Donald Graham, of Dunsmuir, Cal., said he liked German cigarettes better than those he had been getting in Belgium.

Cooks Capture 26

Two kitchen trucks on the way back from the front lines took a short cut through two towns where no one was seen on the streets.

A Red Cross worker came out waving a flag. Almost before the trucks could stop, German soldiers started pouring out into the streets and climbing up on the trucks. The cooks said they could have taken more than 26 but they didn't have room.

In another incident, Lieut. Kenneth MacInnis, a crack shot with a rifle, hopped through a window and landed on his feet in the middle of a room full of Germans. He killed one with a quick shot and the rest surrendered. MacInnis is from Laurel, Long Island, New York.

Factory Just Evacuated

At one place a German factory was captured while smoke still was coming out of the stacks.

"When we moved in the people were still cooking and we just sat down at the tables and finished the meals," said Staff Sergeant John Kent, of Arcadia, Fla. "The people had been working in the factory the day before."

Three Americans swept into a town and heard a siren blowing behind them.

"Are we in the wrong town?" one of them asked a redfaced member of the military police on a motorcycle.

"I hope to tell you," the MP said. "We're just starting to attack this place."

Nazi Taps Army Wire To Request Capture

WITH UNITED STATES 9TH ARMY NEAR THE RHINE, March 2 (AP).—The telephone rang in Lieutenant Nester McGee's anti-tank platoon Headquarters.

"The voice at the other end said he was a German and wanted somebody to come and capture him," McGee said later. "I thought some one was pulling my leg, and hung up. When he called back I informed Intelligence, and they sent a man down to make the capture.

Soviet Mission On Western Front

With the United States Ninth Army, March 2 (A. P.).—The first important Russian military mission to tour the western front reached the Ninth Army area February 23, it can now be related.

Major-Gens. V. Dragoun and I. Suslaporov showed great interest in the American method of traffic control in exploiting a breakthrough. They also asked to see American tanks and armor in action.

Yanks Capture 800 Prisoners Near Rhine; Cooks Take 26

By Robert Eunson

With the 84th Infantry Division Between the Roer and Rhine, March 2 (AP)—This Nomadic band of American doughboys, riding tanks, trucks, jeeps and now bicycles, captured about 800 prisoners yesterday, with cooks taking 26.

One German, tapping a telephone line to command post, asked an American lieutenant to send somebody down to get him.

The old "task force Church" still is operating, but its commander,

Nazis Fight 'Battle of Bridges' To Keep Escape Routes Open

By HAL BOYLE

NEUSS, Germany, March 2—(AP) German sacrificial troops who already had ceded three-fourths of Duesseldorf's suburban industrial area west of the Rhine fought into the darkness tonight a savage "battle of bridges" to keep enveloping American troops from closing their escape routes.

The battle raged around the western approaches to the railway bridge and the giant highway bridge linking Neuss and Duesseldorf, twin manufacturing cities which form one of the cornerstones of the German industrial empire.

Neuss Is Already Lost

Already lost was Neuss, a city normally of 60,000 population, but remnants of the Nazis' harried Western front forces fought with their old-time fervor to keep the Yanks from the bridges over the Rhine, across which lies Duesseldorf, a metropolis of half a million people ripe for military plucking.

This fight to defend the bridges was in contrast to the lack of resistance which featured the sudden American smash up to the river.

The battlefield was a flat, marshy stretch of soil on the western bank of the Rhine at the southern edge of Neuss, which in 1774 withstood a 44-week siege by Charles the Bold and fell to American Doughboys today after an attack of less than 24 hours.

The fighting spread to both sides of the river—the Germans had emplaced anti-aircraft guns and artillery in Duesseldorf streets —and this comparatively small battlefront became a microcosm of the whole long world war.

Everything but submarines was employed. The Doughboys fought Nazi infantry; tanks were attacked by Tanks and anti-tank guns; American airplanes dived down through black anti-aircraft bursts and enemy artillery beat a strong drumfire of hate in one of the most concentrated series of barrages since D-day.

And all this multi-faceted action took place on a narrow front only a few hundred yards wide. It was like holding a world's championship fight—and this may be one—in a high school gymnasium.

I watched it from a window in a tall building only half a mile from the Rhine, flowing in sullen beauty under the concrete arches of a great Cantilever bridge this vantage point was shared with Brig. Gen. Claude B. Ferenbaugh, Washington, D. C., deputy commander of the 83rd infantry division. It was the best battleside seat ever issued on a free pass.

Straight forward across the river in the setting sun the green-steepled churches and the red and white towers of Duesseldorf gleamed through a light river mist. Far to the left but clearly visible were the rusty arches of the railroad bridge diminishing in a series of iron scallops. Some distance to its right was the huge highway bridge.

Traffic Is Idle

No traffic could be seen on either span, which have been under the jurisdiction of American artillery for several days. At the western edge of the bridge a concrete Nazi pillbox was destroyed by a direct hit.

"We think there's another pillbox at the other end but haven't been able to reach it yet," said Lt. Col. John C. Speedie, San Antonio, Tex., whose men were working slowly across the muddy flats below toward three knocked-out German 20-MM. anti-aircraft guns.

"All we have left between us and the river now are two hidden anti-aircraft guns and some infantry," he said. "They can't get away very easily now—but they have big 8-inch guns on the other side of the river and other ack-ack guns that have been keeping us busy as hell."

"Yes, they are the heaviest concentrations of artillery I ever saw," said Maj. George C. Shite, Toledo, Ohio, his executive officer.

He no sooner had spoke than the Germans threw in another barrage. They splattered with ear-aching cracks all across the battlefield which was churned for a few moments into dirty flame-lit clouds of gray smoke and yellow mudspray from the explosions. It was hard to see how any men could live in that hell of bursting hot metal, but as soon as it lifted there were the Doughboys crawling forward again, their goal neither bridges nor the river, only to kill or capture the few Germans still figh[illegible] the last 300 yards between th[illegible]ed the Rhine.

REGIMENT DECORATED 'MID ROAR OF SHELLS

WITH THE 90TH DIVISION IN GERMANY, Feb. 27 (Delayed) (AP) —Sixteen officers and men of the 257th Regiment received battle decorations today in a strange setting.

The regiment commanded by Lieut. Col. John Masons, of West Los Angeles, staged a parade and passed in review on German soil inside the Siegfried Line within earshot of the battle across the River Pruem.

Silver Stars, Bronze Stars and soldiers' medals were pinned on the jackets of two officers and fourteen men as they stood at attention, their mudcrusted combat boots sinking into a boggy field swept clear of mines for the ceremony.

RUSSIANS SLASH BERLIN HIGHWAY

Trap Thousands of Nazi Troops, Near Baltic Coast.

LONDON, Saturday, March 3. — (AP) The Germans announced last night that Red army spearheads had rolled within four miles of the Baltic Pomeranian coast, slashing the Berlin-Stettin-Danzig military superhighway near Koeslin and trapping scores of thousands of Nazi troops in a 5,800-square-mile section of northeastern Pomerania, the Polish "corridor," and Danzig.

The Soviet high command did not immediately confirm this sensational development, telling only of the capture of 30 villages on the western side of the Baltic salient. Moscow apparently was waiting until the narrow tank-tipped wedge had been strengthened before announcing that Pomerania had been chopped in two and another great trap sprung on the reeling foe.

Reach Koeslin-Schlawe Area

Striking 22 miles north of captured Bublitz, Marshal K.K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army veterans reached the Koeslin-Schlawe section of the big highway at Zanow after three days' hard fighting and the employment of 60,000 men, an enemy broadcast said.

The Berlin-Danzig trunk railway —last artery connecting central Germany with the imperilled northeastern forces—lies only a mile north of Zanow, within easy range of Russian guns, and one German Transocean agency report from the front said that Soviet troops also had reached it.

Backed by six divisions, three armored and three motorized infantry, Russian vanguards yesterday were "feeling their way forward to the eastern outskirts of Koeslin," bottleneck junction town four miles squthwest of Zanow and four miles from the coast, the Germans said.

The nearest the Russians were placed to Koeslin officially by Moscow was at captured Dubbertech, five miles northwest of Bublitz and 18 miles southeast of Koeslin. With the seizure of this village one Soviet column was only 10 miles northeast of Gross-Tychow, site of a large American prisoner of war camp.

Although it is likely the Germans already have begun moving these prisoners westward a dispatch to the Russian newspaper Izvestia said that great numbers of Allied war prisoners were being freed in the sweep through Pomerania.

Attacking on a 22-mile front northwest and west of Neustettin, taken Wednesday, the Russians gained up to nine miles from their previous positions as they expanded the western side of the Baltic salient. Among the places taken were Klingbeck, eight miles northwest of Neustettin, and Gissolk, nine miles west of Neustettin and six miles from Baerwalde, a German stronghold on the Stettin-Schlawe superhighway.

Reds Capture Juchow

The Soviet bulletin also announced the capture of Juchow, nine miles southwest of Neustettin, and the Germans said other Red army troops had broken into Schoenfeld, 26 miles southwest of Juchow, after attacking the town 16 times. Schoenfeld is five miles north of Russian-held Maerkisch-Friedland.

Tightening their knot on the enemy troops pocketed in East Prussia the Russians gained up to one mile on a 16-mile front southwest of Koenigsberg, capturing six localities, including Rosen, two and a half miles southwest of Zinten and 12 miles southeast of Heiligenbeil, and Mertensdorf, five miles southeast of Braunsberg.

The Germans in this area are compressed into a 325-square mile pocket with their backs to the sea, and the Pomeranian breakthrough made their sector a trap within a trap.

The only other new development reported by Moscow was the clearing of the southern part of Grudziadz, encircled Vistula river stronghold in the Polish corridor south of Danzig, but Berlin also told of heavy fighting in the Sudeten mountain foothills in Silesia near Schweidnitz, 27 miles southwest of embattled Breslau.

Moscow radio broadcasts credited the Russian Pomeranian forces with "important operational successes," and Berlin said "the all-out Soviet offensive has reached its climax."

Reds At Road Only 7 Miles From Baltic

London, March 2 (AP)—Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army has reached the Stettin-Danzig highway between Koeslin and Schlawe in Pomerania and only 7 miles from the Baltic coast, the German high command announced today.

The Stettin-Danzig railway parallels the Autobahn from 1 to 3 miles nearer the sea in this area.

The 22-mile advance from Bublitz, for all practical purposes, cut Danzig off from contact with Germany and isolated a 150-mile coastal belt of eastern Pomerania and northwestern Poland fronting on the Baltic and the Gulf of Danzig.

Hit Main German Line

About 90 miles southeast of this penetration, the Germans said, the Russians also broke into the main German lines north of Arnswalde after crossing the Ihna River.

The Ihna forms one of the chief [illegible]nses of the fortress of Stargard, 19 miles east of Stettin.

Here the Russians were about 55 miles from the Baltic and were threatening to drive on to the Stettiner Haff, a 25-mile wide coastal lagoon north of Stettin, through which the Oder River flows to the sea.

New Drive At Koenigsberg

Moscow dispatches said Cossack and Siberian horsemen were ahead of Rokossovsky's infantrymen which, by official Soviet account, were 22 miles from Koeslin.

New Offensive By Konev

The German radio said Marshal Ivan Konev launched a large-scale offensive with his 1st Ukrainian Army at a point about 105 miles northeast of Prague, Czechoslovakia.

A German radio commentator said Konev was attacking east of Schweidnitz, about 30 miles southwest of Breslau and 15 miles from the old Czech border, in a drive toward the Sudeten Mountains.

Berlin also said the Russians had sprung a tremendous new assault against Koenigsberg, in East Prussia.

Road Arrival Unconfirmed

While Moscow had not officially confirmed the German report of the reaching of the Stettin-Danzig highway, dispatches from the Soviet capital said the fighting was extremely fluid over a 15-mile stretch of lake-dotted plain between Bublitz and Rummelsburg, 15 miles to the northeast.

Rummelsburg was described as a strong hedgehog position protecting the approaches to Schlawe and Stolp, both on the Stettin-Danzig railway.

With Cossack and Siberian horsemen striking out ahead of infantry and tanks, Rokossovsky's forces also were probing southwest of Bublitz along the 35-mile railway from captured Neustettin to Belgrad.

Prisoners Reported Freed

Here the Russians were striking close to Gross-Tychow, site of a large camp for American prisoners of war. Izvestia said swarms of Allied prisoners of war were being overtaken and liberated by the swift Soviet thrusts across the Pomeranian countryside.

Moscow had no confirmation of German reports of the big new offensives in East Prussia and Silesia. Dispatches from the Soviet capital said, except in Pomerania, the Russians were engaged in a gigantic buildup for the next phase of their campaign.

These accounts pointed out that Marshal Gregory Zhukov's Berlin front along the Oder had been inactive for nearly a month, but that the Red Army must take into account that its next campaign likely must be conducted in the mud of spring and at the end of the longest communications lines of its history.

Izvestia, the official Soviet Government newspaper, said that swarms of Allied prisoners of war were being overtaken and liberated by the swift Russian thrusts across the Pomeranian countryside.

The Russian High Command said early today that German soldiers were deserting wholesale in the face of Rokossovsky's march through Pomerania and quoted a captured German order as saying that groups of cowards and deserters are roaming in the rear areas of the army and joining the long lines of civilians trekking to the German interior.

GERMANS ORDERED TO DESTROY TOWNS

Nazis Call for Scorched Earth Policy in Western Reich to Curb Allies' Advance

LONDON, March 2 (AP) — Nazi rulers ordered a scorched earth defense of western Germany today as enemy broadcasts declared the British Second Army had launched a new offensive on the Meuse (Maas) River that, they said, set 160 miles of the Western Front aflame.

There was no Allied confirmation of the enemy broadcast, which said that Lieut. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey had sent his British troops smashing across the Meuse between the onrushing United States Ninth Army and the Canadian First Army at the north end of the front.

In this darkening situation, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' spokesman, Wilfrid von Oven, called for "a holy rage which will not shrink from total destruction of our ancient towns in the west."

"If the enemy succeeds in continuing his advance in the west," he declared, "nothing will prevent us from defending town after town, house by house and ruin by ruin."

"What does it matter," Oven argued, "now since Allied bombing has already created many ruins, in Cologne, for example? We know that everything still left gets smashed to pieces.

"So why should we shrink from total destruction in street fighting? So, we have nothing to lose, and all we fight for is our bare life and freedom."

German military reports emphasized the overwhelming weight of Allied material.

Admits Might of Allies

Schulte Strathaus of the German news agency, DNB, asserted that "the Germans are fighting in the west a battle which sometimes seems to be hopeless."

"If the Americans succeeded in breaking through our lines on a wide front after a week of furious fighting," he went on, "it is not because of their better military leadership or because their troops are better fighters, but solely because of their three-to-one superiority in men and of a superiority in material which surpasses ours many times."

The military commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, called the British attack from the Meuse "powerful" and said it was part "of a great encircling movement" that Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery aimed to effect by linking up with the Americans and Canadians at the Rhine near Moers.

Moers is eight miles northeast of the Americans in Krefeld and sixteen miles southeast of Xanten, which the Canadians are approaching.

"The impression prevails," Sertorius said, "that Montgomery is out not only to gain ground, but wants to bring about a great encircling movement."

The British, he said, would "assume the task of tying down as many German forces as possible on the Meuse to prevent their being dispatched to the area of the Allied pincer operation."

'Holy Rage' Urged

MAR 3 1945

London, March 2 (AP)—Alarmed at Allied West front advances, a Berlin radio commentator called upon Germans today to carry out a scorched earth policy and to fight with holy rage "town by town, house by house, ruin by ruin."

"What does it matter now?" said the commentator, Wilfred von Oven. "In view of such ruins as those at Cologne, we know that everything still left gets smashed to pieces.

"We have come to realize that our enemies in the west are fighting with the same fanaticism and same determination to wipe us out as do the Russians in the east. We must meet them filled with holy rage."

AIRMEN DESTROY

109 NAZI PLANES IN BIG AIR FIGHT

British Heavy Bombers Pound Cologne in Massive Attack.

AIR ASSAULT CONTINUES

Luftwaffe Rises in Strength to Defend Targets in Reich.

LONDON, March 2 (AP) American airmen fought one of the biggest sky battles in weeks today, destroying at least 109 enemy planes, as more than 6,000 Allied aircraft hammered German targets in a series of attacks which included two by RAF heavy bombers against besieged Cologne.

The U. S. Eighth Air Force hurled 1,250 four-engined bombers and nearly 800 escorting fighters deep into the Reich during the day and incited the Luftwaffe into sending aloft its carefully hoarded interceptors. American fighters shot down 67 and wrecked an additional 36 on the ground. Gunners aboard the big bombers shot down six.

U. S. Losses Not Revealed

A communique from the Eighth Air Force said a tally of its own losses still was incomplete tonight.

The spectacular aerial battle involving the Americans was but one phase of the gigantic Allied air assault which carried through its 18th consecutive day. The operation marked the 12th straight day of attacks by the Eighth Air Force and the 11th during that period when the force has numbered more than 1,000 bombers.

Battered Cologne, next to Berlin the most bombed city in the world, was struck by 3,600 tons of bombs from nearly 1,000 British heavies even while artillery of the U. S. Ninth army continued its ceaseless shelling from little more than four miles away.

The bombers and artillerymen avoided the famous cathedral in the Rhine's first city, but found plenty of targets in the glaring sunlight which was softened only by pillars of smoke rising 8,000 feet into the air.

More than 750 RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes bombed Cologne during the morning and more than 150 RAF bombers returned during the afternoon to repeat the blow. Airmen said Cologne's famous cathedral was standing, but that most of the rest of the city "looked like a heap of rubble." The city now has been bombed 167 times with 50,000 tons of explosives since the war began.

CATHEDRAL STANDS

More than 750 R. A. F. Lancasters and Halifaxes bombed Cologne during the morning and more than 150 R. A. F. bombers returned during the afternoon to repeat the blow. Airmen said Cologne's famous cathedral was standing, but that most of the rest of the city "looked like a heap of rubble."

The non-stop Allied aerial blitz rolled on after dark. R. A. F. Mosquito bombers bombed Berlin for the 11th night in a row and also hit Kassel, 100 miles east of Cologne. The German "achtung" warning service said other bomber formations were over western Germany.

The big air battle came when 1,250 U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators with an escort of 800 fighters flew from their bases in Britain and attacked six oil, rail and armament centers extending from central Germany to the Czech border.

The stiff challenge suggested the enemy was throwing in his carefully hoarded reserves after enduring Allied bomber attacks for 17 consecutive days with little comeback.

Of the Nazis planes destroyed by Mustangs and Thunderbolts escorting the Eighth Air Force bombers, 67 were shot down in dogfights and 33 bagged by ground strafing.

Tactical air forces based on the continent sent fighter, medium and light bombers in relays at German communications all along the flaming battlefront. Reconnaissance disclosed the Germans were making especially strenuous efforts to supply troops east of the Rhine on the Ninth Army front. The continual air attacks, however, stranded many German trains on torn-up stretches of track.

Italy-based Fortresses and Liberators of the U. S. 15th Air Force blasted targets in the Linz area of Austria for the fourth time. Their escorting Mustangs and Lightnings carried out strafing missions in the same region. Targets in northern Italy also were hit.

Nazi Communications Hit

Allied fighters and medium and light bombers from forward bases in France and Belgium were being thrown at German communications on the blazing Western front in maximum strength.

By noon U. S. Ninth Air Force planes alone had flown 1,111 sorties gouging road and rail movement in the Krefeld area ahead of the Ninth army and attacking other traffic from Duesseldorf southward along both sides of the Rhine to near Bonn. Twin-engined Lightnings scored hits on the big Hohenzollern rail and road bridge, the main span over the Rhine between the eastern and western parts of Cologne.

Racing to within 31 miles of Berlin in a diversionary stab the U. S. Eighth Air Force heavy bombers broke into four separate teams and hit these targets:

1—Railyards in Dresden serving the Eastern front, hammered by 450 Flying Fortresses to support the Russians. These yards were badly mauled in a series of attacks last month.

2—A synthetic oil plant at Magdeburg and the big Krupp tank and self-propelled gun factory, bombed by 350 Liberators.

3—A synthetic oil plant at Bohlen, south of Leipzig, and the natural oil refinery at Rostiz, south of Bohlen, hit by 225 Flying Fortresses.

4—Railway yards at Chemnitz, 35 miles from the Czech border, bombed by 225 Flying Fortresses. This also is an important Eastern front defense hub and was hit in a string of raids last month.

All the oil targets were bombed visually but the rest were obscured by clouds.

62 NAZIS DOWNED IN AIR BATTLES OVER GERMANY

London, March 2 (A. P.).—Close to 2,500 heavy bombers battered Cologne and Dresden, immediately ahead of the American and Russian armies, and other targets in Germany and Austria today, the nineteenth consecutive day of the gigantic Allied aerial offensive, and for the first time since January 14 the German air force came up in strength to give violent battle. At least sixty-two enemy planes were shot down over Germany, and twenty more were destroyed on the ground.

A formation of from 750 to 1,000 Royal Air Force bombers attacked Cologne, immediately ahead of the American First Army, and more than 1,200 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators struck a series of vital railway and oil targets in southeast Germany, including Dresden and Chemnitz, in front of the Russian armies in Silesia, while other fortresses and Liberators from Italy battered targets in the Linz area of Austria.

The great American armada streamed across Germany in a 200-mile-long train. It first made a feint at Berlin, then broke into sections and winged southward. Berliners stayed in their shelters for more than an hour.

Dresden, Chemnitz Hit

Two strong forces attacked the huge freight yards at Dresden, just ahead of the Red Army, and Chemnitz, also a vital traffic artery to the Eastern front.

Others hit the large Krupp tank factory at Magdeburg, important synthetic oil works at Magdeburg and Bohlen and an oil refinery at Rositz, south of Leipzig.

Hundreds of fighters and light bombers mauled German battlelines in relays while the heavy bombers were carrying out their nineteenth straight day of operations.

Rhine crossings were under ceaseless patrol, and 1,700 fighters escorted the RAF and American heavy bombers on their missions.

Terrific Beating

With artillery already hammering it, the great armada of RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes roared in to give Cologne one of the worst aerial beatings of the war.

The object was to annihilate German troops and destroy armored units in the city, block roads and disrupt enemy communications.

Spitfires and Mustangs escorted the British bombers, which dropped their first bombs on Cologne about 10 A.M.

The Berlin radio said that one of two armadas of American bombers striking into the Reich stretched out over a distance of 200 miles in eastern Germany.

51,500 Tons In Month

The tremendous proportions of the sustained aerial offensive was reflected in official figures for February. They showed that Liberators and Flying Fortresses flew 20,700 sorties and dumped 51,500 tons of explosives and incendiaries.

[A sortie is a mission by a single plane. Some planes carry out several missions a day. The actual number of aircraft participating in the February operations was not disclosed.]

Fighters of the 8th Air Force also flew 12,800 sorties with a loss of 108 planes. They had a strafing spree, shooting up 1,200 locomotives, 4,166 railway cars and 882 motor vehicles. They also destroyed 275 enemy planes on the ground and damaged 154, in addition to shooting down 125 in air combat.

Highlighted By Berlin Blows

Highlights of the month were the massive attacks on Berlin on February 3 and 26, and the "buckshot blitz" on railway centers February 22-23, when the 8th hit 52 railway marshaling yards.

During thirteen of the last fourteen days, heavy bombers dropped 36,000 tons of bombs—more than the 8th dropped on Germany during the entire first year of its operations over Europe.

The only other month when the 8th's bomb tonnage exceeded this was last June in good weather, when most of the bombing was in France in support of the Allied invasion armies.

MUSTANG PILOT DOWNS 5 GERMANS

A U. S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER STATION, England, March 2.—(AP) Lt. Roscoe Allen of Dunlap, Ill., 27-year-old Mustang pilot flying alone in Germany's skies, attacked 15 Nazi planes and shot down five in a 120-mile running battle today.

Allen said he probably destroyed two more Messerschmitts, but that he would have to wait for the development of his gun camera film for confirmation.

"I was too busy chasing those birds 120 miles to see all the results," he said.

If his two probables are confirmed he will have an Eighth Air Force record of seven planes shot down in combat in a single day.

Allen had left his group and was winging for home because he was low on oxygen when he spotted the 15 enemy planes flying south over Dummer Lake, 8,000 feet below him.

"That was more meat in the soup than I'd seen in a long time," he said. "I peeled off and picked off the 'tailend Charlie' of the group and the one next to him. The Jerries knew I was there and broke in all directions. I chased one flight and saw a third plane blow up. The next Jerry attacked bailed out after I hit his plane all over. No. 5 was the guy who tried to make a headon pass, but he blew up right in my face."

Allen, a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, has been flying combat missions with the 355th fighter group less than six months. He had destroyed only one enemy plane which was caught on the ground until today.

Nutley Flyer Gets Silver Star

At an Eighth Air Force Bomber Station in England, March 2 (A. P.).—Sergt. Thomas Giordano of Nutley, N. J., was awarded the Silver Star yesterday for gallantry in action on a bombing raid on Germany.

Over Merseberg, Germany, Sergt. Giordano's Fortress was attacked by fifty Messerschmitts. A cannon shell ripped into the ball turret, wounding Sergt. Giordano and tearing the back from the turret. Held in his seat only by a thin safety strap, he continued firing and shot down one plane before the attack was beaten off.

Major Rosenthal Reported Safe

A UNITED STATES EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England, March 2 (AP)—Maj. Robert Rosenthal, a former lawyer of 1595 East Thirteenth Street, Brooklyn, has been reported safe in Russian territory. He was last seen by his Eighth Air Force comrades heading his flaming Flying Fortress over Berlin toward Red Army lines. It was his fifty-second mission.

KING PETER NAMES REGENCY

LONDON, March 2—(AP) King Peter of Yugoslavia named a regency council today to represent him in his homeland, choosing three names from six submitted by Premier Ivan Subasic under an agreement with Marshal Tito. A statement issued at the legation in London said the King had appointed Dr. Srdjan Budisavjevic (Serb), Dr. Ante Mandic (Croat) and Dushan Sernec (Slovene).

Coal Workers Say Move Is Needed to Modernize Industry

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—A plan for nationalization of Britain's coal industry is being drafted by the National Union of Mineworkers in co-operation with the Labor party. William Lawther, union president, said at a press conference today that only government ownership and management of the mines could solve the economic and social problems involved in modernizing the industry.

Strike on London Docks

LONDON, March 2 (A. P.).—Work on five London docks was crippled today by a strike of 3000 employes. The strike grew out of a dispute over the suspension of workers accused of absenteeism.

Romania May Fight Japan

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—A Moscow broadcast said tonight the Romanian government yesterday "decided to declare war on Japan."

London Papers Praise F. D. R.

London, March 2 (AP)—London editorial comment on President Roosevelt's report to Congress on the Crimea conference:

The Times—"The President spoke as one confident that his country is ready to undertake under his leadership what it declined to undertake under that of Woodrow Wilson—a share commensurate with its great power in responsibility for keeping the peace. . . . If his confidence proves well founded, the new league will start upon its tasks with two immeasurable advantages over the old. Instead of reposing in effect on the support of the powers of western Europe—and those ambiguously pledged—it will be sustained on either hand by the greatest power of the new world, which stood aloof in 1920, and by something that in those days did not exist—a stable federation of states stretching away from the Curzon Line to the Bering Strait."

Called "Blunt Challenge"

Daily Express—"President Roosevelt shows the full magnificence of his statesmanship in his uncompromising, blunt challenge to his own people. . . . Mr. Roosevelt's words need no embellishment from these lands. People here recognize the quality of this man and are happy that America should have such splendid representation in the counsels of the world."

Daily Sketch—"The President's whole theme was the attainment of victory and the achievement of a real world peace."

Daily Telegraph—"Mr. Roosevelt is taking great pains to insure that there shall be no repetition of President Wilson's mistakes which led to American abstention from the League of Nations."

NAZIS CALL REPORT 'EMPTY VERBIAGE'

By Associated Press.

The German news agency DNB today termed President Roosevelt's report to Congress on the Yalta conference "empty verbiage" and declared the German people would "radically eliminate Yalta and all the enemy's intoxication of hatred."

The Office of War Information said the enemy agency declared once again that the Yalta agreement was aimed simply at exterminating Germany "and failed again to report that the Yalta declaration itself and the President's speech yesterday had pointed out that unconditional surrender did not mean the destruction or the enslavement of the German people."

"Roosevelt confirmed that Yalta was dominated by blind hatred," DNB declared, "and that Morgenthau's plan to exterminate Germany was the core of the agreements reached on the Black Sea, clearly at Stalin's bidding.

"Germany is to surrender unconditionally to this national murder plan. In other words, she, herself, is to place this noose around her own neck."

Armed Russian Girls Guarded Big Three

Headquarters, United States Naval Forces in Europe, March 2 (A. P.).—Back from Yalta, where they served as interpreters and communications men for President Roosevelt, a party of naval officers and enlisted men told today how Russian girl machine gunners, some of them 17 and 18 years old, helped guard roads near the Big Three conference site.

Each man in the party has been awarded a letter of commendation.

Republicans Say F.D.R. Gave No News

Washington, March 2 (AP)—Republican criticism of President Roosevelt's Yalta report muffled somewhat today Democratic predictions the Senate is ready to go all-out on international peace plans.

While leading Republicans complained that Mr. Roosevelt gave them "no news" on Big Three agreements at a joint session of Congress yesterday, Democrats generally credited him with having scored heavily in his plea for nonpartisan consideration of world security proposals.

Mr. Roosevelt told the legislators that Congress must share the responsibility if there is to be a peace built on the principles of the Atlantic Charter.

Departs From Text

"The thing I don't want is to see another war," the Chief Executive declared.

This, like many other remarks, was a departure from his prepared text. He read and talked so slowly his address took 55 minutes.

Mr. Roosevelt explained the Big Three agreement, which he said would create "a strong, independent and prosperous" Poland.

He said France would have recognition in the future of Europe and the world.

Criticizes "Prima Donnas"

But a moment later he spoke extemporaneously of "the great many prima donnas in the world who want to be heard" and whose hearing, he said, might delay decisions. Almost universally, Congressmen thought he alluded to French Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who declined an invitation to meet the President in Algiers.

He drew applause when he said: "I think that Republicans want peace just as much as Democrats."

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) said he thought the President could count on the Senate "if the San Francisco conference works out any reasonable program based on the Dumbarton Oaks principles."

Wherry Critical

Senator Wherry, of Nebraska, the Republican whip, said there was "nothing new in it except that for the first time in history the United States has agreed to the cutting up of a nation, Poland, and to the dissemination of her people."

Senator Ball (R., Minn.) broke the minority line with the observation that he believes Mr. Roosevelt did "a good job of selling Congress on the idea that you can't have perfection—that progress toward world security must be obtained through compromises."

Representative Smith (R., Wis.) declared the Big Three agreement on Poland was a "mistake, which if not rectified, will lead to World War III."

"The determination by the conferees to settle the boundary lines of Poland before the question was submitted to the people of Poland constitutes a retreat from the high moral ground that we have steadily maintained throughout the war," Smith said in a speech prepared for House delivery.

"To say now that free elections are to be held, and that Poland will receive a 'long shoreline' carved out of Germany, is to rob Peter to pay Paul and is a feeble effort to fool the people," asserted Smith, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

STATE CONTROL URGED IN FRANCE

PARIS, March 2 — (AP) Gen. Charles DeGaulle declared today that France's key industries and finances should be state controlled at least for the duration of the war and urged Frenchmen to increase industrial and agricultural production.

Speaking before the consultative assembly on the provisional government's domestic policies, DeGaulle told the delegates that as much latitude as possible should be left to private initiative until a future constitutional convention defined the extent and conditions of state control. He mentioned coal, electricity, gas, transport, communications and heavy industries as subject to state operation.

Discussing labor-management relations, DeGaulle asserted a recent ordinance decreeing the formation of workers' committees in each business or factory would enable greater participation of workers in management and hence create a greater spirit of cooperation among labor, management and government.

He said he soon would appoint a national economic council to supervise the overall application of this principle.

Declaring his government had restored to France its exercise of traditional liberties, DeGaulle said French men and women soon would have an opportunity to elect municipal departmental councils. But he gave no details on the departmental vote, for which the assembly had hoped.

The general told of an unidentified representative of Marshal Petain who had contacted him August 25, 1944, shortly after his entry into Paris with a compromise proposal "to avoid civil war."

"I showed him to the door," DeGaulle related, amid applause, adding ironically: "gentlemen, where is that civil war?"

DeGaulle pointed to a newly signed Lend-Lease agreement as evidence of foreign confidence in his government.

Hillman Pledges Aid to France

Paris, March 2 (A. P.).—Sidney Hillman, head of the C. I. O. Political Action Committee, today pledged assistance in alleviating France's transportation and food situation.

In a radio speech to the French people he said: "The exigencies of war are primary, but I can give you assurance that on our return to America we will carry these resolutions of the London Labor Conference concerning increased aid to France to the American people and Government."

NEWARK MAN GUILTY IN PARIS

Counsel Calls Him a Victim of Capital's Charm.

Paris, March 2 (A. P.).—Arthur H. Lang 2d of Newark, N. J., a $350 a month accountant in the Army Exchange Service here, was convicted today of issuing fictitious Army documents by means of which a group of French civilians planned to obtain 600,000 bottles of cognac for resale in the black market. He was sentenced to ten years hard labor and was dismissed from the Government service. He was the first American civilian technician in this area to be tried and convicted by a military court.

The evidence introduced against Lang included allegedly fictitious Supreme Headquarters documents, including authorization to purchase and transport various amounts of Cognac aggregating 27,000 bottles, and signed statements in which Lang admitted drawing up the documents, signing them with fictitious names and equipping some of them with what purported to be the SHAEF seal.

Says He Drew Seal.

Referring to the seal, Lang said he "just drew it with pen and red ink," and that his intention was simply to help an Air Force lieutenant friend of his to obtain 500 bottles of cognac for a Christmas party at an officers' club.

He said he was a student in the New York University night school when he signed a contract with the Army to serve overseas.

Defense Counsel Lieut. William Reardon of Boston urged clemency, saying that Lang was an "example of those young Americans who come to Paris and become involved—who are too susceptible to the charms of Paris."

Private Forrest R. Scott, 21, inducted at Rochester, N. Y., was acquitted today of a charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States and wrongful disposition of Army property. He was the second enlisted man to be acquitted. Private Scott had been accused of wrongfully disposing of food, cigarettes and post exchange rations from supply trains.

GOULD DISAVOWS PART IN DEAL WITH GERMANS

NICE, France, March 2 (AP)—Frank Jay Gould, 67-year-old American millionaire who has lived in France for more than thirty years, said today that he did not know anything about his wife's financial transactions because he had not seen her accounts in years and because she handled her own money.

Two weeks ago in Paris his wife, the former Florence Lacaze, said that she had invested more than $100,000 in a Monte Carlo bank last July to keep the Germans from taking her husband to Germany. Mrs. Gould is under investigation by French authorities, who said that the bank was German-controlled.

Mr. Gould talked in the back basement of an apartment in an unfashionable section of Nice. During the interview a servant took a telephone call and informed him "Mrs. Gould has left." When he asked where she had gone the servant was unable to inform him. [At the Gould home in Paris it was said that she had gone to Fontainebleau to visit friends and would return to Paris next week.]

Mr. Gould said that the Germans blocked his funds when they entered Paris in 1940 and when the United States entered the war his funds were blocked in America. He explained that the Germans eventually took over his holdings in France with which he had opened an account in a German's name in the Chase bank in Paris.

The Germans, he said, regarded him as French because of his long residence in France. They questioned him at regular intervals but never molested him, he said. When they began fortifying the Riviera coast he was forced to leave his villa at Juan-les-Pins, near Cannes. He lived in the mountains for a time and then returned to Nice.

He indicated that he had read of the investigation into his wife's affairs but said he did not want to comment. When asked if he and his wife were separated, he said "no."

LONE GERMAN PLANE IN ATTACKS IN ITALY

ROME, March 2 (AP)—A lone German plane ventured over American lines in the Apennines today and bombed and strafed along the important Florence - Bologna highway to keep the legend of the German air force alive and that virtually summed up the news of the Italian front.

However, there were the usual brief patrol actions in scattered sectors and the periodic roar of opposing artillery and mortars. Weather over the front was improving somewhat, though troops still were hampered by occasional fogs and mist.

The Germans dropped some shells on advanced American and Brazilian positions in the Mount Belvedere area southwest of Bologna, but made no attempt to regain ground they had lost there in recent days.

The enemy continued to probe British Eighth Army positions along the Senio River, and there were a number of clashes on the east bank of the stream southwest of Cotignola in which German prisoners were taken. Artillery dispersed another German raiding party that crossed the Senio southeast of Biancanigo.

Yanks Raid Foe South Of Bologna

Rome, March 2 (AP)—Fifth Army troops made a large-scale raid yesterday on German positions east of the Castiglione-Sasso Bolognese highways south of Bologna and silenced several machine-guns in a two-hour fight, Allied Headquarters announced today.

In general, however, activities were limited to patrolling. The Germans continued to probe 8th Army positions along the Senio River on the Adriatic flank of the front and there was some skirmishing on the south bank near Contignola.

Prisoners were taken by 8th Army forces in the latter area.

Another German raiding party crossed the Senio southeast of Biancanigo but was dispersed by artillery while attacking an 8th Army strongpoint.

RAF Mustangs of the Balkan Air Force attacked a German convoy of 300 vehicles moving northward through Yugoslavia toward Maribor yesterday, set 6 afire, severely damaged 30 more and probably an additional 20, it was announced today.

United States 15th Air Force Lightnings destroyed 30 locomotives in strafing attacks on Austrian rail lines, and heavy bombers added to the confusion of German communications in Yugoslavia by smashing the main freight yards station at Maribor.

Convent Searched For Fascist Fugitives

Rome, March 2 (AP)—Rome police searched the general house of the Sisters of Charity last night in what they said was an effort to find Giuseppe Bottai and Edmundo Rossoni, former members of the Fascist Grand Council.

A Vatican spokesman said the institution did not enjoy extraterritorial rights, but that the search should have been made in the daytime by prior arrangement.

The newspaper Il Tempo, recalling the "times of Caruso," assailed the methods of the raid as dictatorial and appealed to the Ministry of the Interior to prevent a recurrence. Pietro Caruso, Rome police chief during Nazi occupation, once violated Vatican extraterritorial property by seizing refugees in a church.

Allied, Russian Military Staffs Met in Balkans

Meeting of Alexander and Tolbukhin Cordial; Red Mission on West Front

ROME, March 2 (AP).—In a meeting marked by the "utmost cordiality," Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, Allied commander in the Mediterranean, has conferred with Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin, commander of Russia's 3d Ukrainian Army group, during a tour of Yugoslavia and Hungary, Allied headquarters announced today.

In the course of the tour Alexander and his staff also held numerous conferences with Marshal Josep Broz (Tito) of the Yugoslav Army, flying from the latter's headquarters at Belgrade to meet Marshal Tolbukhin in Hungary.

The tour was "marked throughout by the utmost cordiality and concluded with agreement on all points of discussion" after consultations between the respective staffs, a communique said. Alexander now has returned to Italy.

General Lyman Lemnitzer, Mediterranean headquarters deputy chief of staff, and Colonel Charles Thayer, of the American mission in Yugoslavia.

Maurice Western, war correspondent for the Sifton Newspapers of Canada, was the only newspaper man who accompanied the party to Marshal Tolbukhin's headquarters. He quoted Alexander as having said after the meeting:

"Marshal Tolbukhin is near my front, and sooner or later we are bound to join hands. We have made friends, we have made excellent staff contacts. Henceforth we shall not be dealing with ciphers, but with people whose hospitality we have shared and whom we know and like."

Russ, British Army Chiefs Confer

Rome, March 2 (AP)—Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, Allied commander in the Mediterranean, has conferred with Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin, commander of Russia's 3d Ukrainian Army, during a visit to Yugoslavia and Hungary, Allied headquarters announced today.

Staffs of the two officers participated in the conferences, the announcement said.

Alexander flew to Tolbukhin's headquarters in Hungary from Belgrade, where he had previously conferred with Marshal Tito. He returned to Belgrade in the Russian commander's plane.

Headquarters here said that the talks with both Tito and Tolbukhin "concluded with agreement on all points under discussion."

DENY NAMING SFORZA

Rome, March 2 (A. P.).—The Foreign Office said tonight no Italian envoy to Paris had been named.

Earlier today a dispatch from Paris had stated that Count Sforza had been named envoy to France with the personal rank of ambassador. Count Sforza, former Italian Foreign Minister, was long in exile in New York while Benito Mussolini was in power.

Count Sforza Named Envoy To France

Paris, March 2 (AP)—Count Carlo Sforza was named Italian envoy to France today, with the personal rank of Ambassador.

The former Italian Foreign Minister, long an exile in New York while Mussolini was in power, was mentioned last year as a candidate for either the Premiership or the Foreign Ministry of Italy. The British Government opposed him, and United States Secretary of State Stettinius quickly announced that the United States wanted no influence in the formation of liberated countries' governments.

Both Britain and the United States subsequently bestowed their blessings upon the new Italian Government formed by Ivanoe Bonomi. In December Sforza declined Bonomi's offer to appoint him Ambassador to the United States.

Berlin Coffins Confiscated

Stockholm, March 2 (AP)—The German Government has confiscated all available coffins in the Berlin area and none is available to civilians except by special permit, the Berlin correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today.

CHINESE CAPTURE CHALING IN HUNAN

Fleeing Japanese Are Pursued Northward—Other Forces 11 Miles From Lashio

CHUNGKING, China, March 2 (AP)—Chinese forces have recaptured Chaling, important Japanese stronghold in Hunan Province, sixty miles east of Hengyang, and are pursuing enemy troops fleeing toward Yuhsien, twenty-five miles northward, the Chinese High Command announced tonight.

Chaling, a keypoint guarding the east flank of the Hengyang-Hong Kong corridor, was retaken Feb. 27.

Chinese troops also counter-attacked entrenched Japanese seven miles southwest of Paoking, a Japanese strongpoint sixty-three miles west of Hengyang, and killed 120 of the enemy at a cost of seventy-three casualties. Fighting in this sector continued.

Attacking Chinese reached the suburbs of Ichang, west of the Canton-Hankow railway and about 105 miles south of Hengyang, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy. The Japanese brought up reinforcements and counter-attacked. The fighting was last reported about four miles east and four and one-half miles south of Ichang, the High Command said.

CHINESE TROOPS DRIVE ON LASHIO

CALCUTTA, March 2 — (AP) Two columns of Chinese troops, pushing four miles through jungles on both sides of the old Burma road, have advanced to within 11 airline miles of the rail terminus of Lashio, 133 miles northeast of Mandalay in Burma, Allied headquarters announced today.

Japanese forces were reported offering only moderate opposition.

On the west coast of Burma troops of the 15th Indian corps together with giant black West African soldiers are mopping up isolated Japanese troops in the Arakan sector 60 miles southeast of Akyab.

Allied planes maintained their attacks against Japanese troops and installations on all sectors of the Burma front, losing two craft yesterday.

Hula Dancers' Wages Attract WLB's Price-Fixing Eye

By Rembert James

Honolulu, March 2 (AP) — The girls who swish through the hula dance, overlooked up to now in the Government's wage-fixing program, have at last caught the eye of the War Labor Board.

The WLB has undertaken the task of deciding who is a good dancer, who is only fair and setting the price per hour the girls should get for their convolutions.

Present Price Range

Right now wages range from a minimum of $1 an hour up to $10 for half an hour. That's tops. What the wage scale will look like after the WLB finishes its scientific studies of hip swinging is something which no member would hazard a guess.

The pay for hula dancers came before the WLB in the regular course of business. The board tackled the job with all the enthusiasm of fixing minimum wages for dock workers.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics took the first step in the field of determining the financial value of grass-skirted romance and submitted a job and wage analysis, just like it does for truck drivers or any other workers.

Class A And Class B

The bureau described a hula dancer, Class A, female, as:

"Usually a young but experienced worker who, through the medium of hula, attempts to portray portions of the early history of the Hawaiian people. The worker performs barefooted and usually scantily attired.

As To Apparel

"The most common apparel being the Ti leaf dress or sarong encircling her shapely trunk, with bare skin between the top of the garb and a band of six or more inches wide which, sometimes restricts the short migrations of the voluptuous pulchritudinous projections appended to the upper forward side of the worker."

The duties, performed to soft music, call for the dancer to do rhythmic knee bends and other movements which "noticeably assist in the revolving" and swinging of the hips and adjacent parts.

Hand Movements Nil

The description added that originally there was much stress on hand movements, but not so much any more.

The hula dancer, Class B, female, was described as "fully trained, experienced and possessed with intense desire, but, due to accumulated torso bulges, stiffened joints and many Hawaiian moons, speed has greatly moderated and the worker uses less of footwork and rotary movement of the hips" but instead "puts much emphasis on the straightforward and backward pull and push motion."

U.S. FORCES LAND ON LUBANG ISLAND IN PHILIPPINES

MacArthur Reveals Seizure of Island Near Entrance to Manila Bay.

RESISTANCE LIGHT

Yanks Complete Occupation of Vital Harbor on Palawan.

MANILA, Saturday, March 3 — (AP) Men of MacArthur, making their 18th island invasion in the Philippines—the fifth in a little over a week—have landed on Lubang island, 30 miles southwest of Manila bay's entrance and thus completed clearance of the shortest sea route through the Philippines from the United States.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today announced seizure of the 18-by-eight mile island at the west end of Verde passage just one day after he disclosed his forces further southwest had invaded Palawan island where a third airfield now is in American hands.

Meet Slight Resistance

Elements of Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving's 24th division who played a major role on Leyte island and also helped recapture Corregidor fortress landed on Lubang "against negligible resistance."

Today's communique said Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe's veteran 41st division Yanks on Palawan, westernmost of the Philippines, have completed occupation of Puerto Princesa harbor, midway along the island's 275-mile-long east coast, and seized the Iwahig penal colony airfield. Two other airfields were won the day of the landing. Wednesday.

MacArthur said the seizure of Lubang, the 18th Philippine island invaded by the Americans, "completes the capture of all key positions through San Bernardino straits and the Verde island passage designed to secure the main navigational channel through the islands for shipping from the United States."

In recent invasions the Yanks have invaded Verde island, just east of Lubang, and Capul and Biri islands at the eastern end of the main navigation route through the Central Philippines.

Bombers Support

East of Manila, in the important Marikina watershed area, First cavalry and Sixth division troops maintained their pressure against a strong Japanese defense force, while heavy bombers supported the ground drive with a 120-ton bombing of enemy positions.

MacArthur said Yanks forces to the north were gradually "enveloping and unhinging" successive Japanese positions covering the Balete pass area which leads to the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon.

A strong force of Liberators dropped 200 tons of bombs on airdromes on Mindanao island, in the Southern Philippines, cratering runways and starting numerous fires in the Davao and Zamboanga areas.

Heavy bombers swept the China sea as far north as Okinawa, north of Formosa, sinking five small freighters and leaving another five afire. Three other small freighters were sunk in the Hong Kong area of the South China sea.

Northern Borneo airdromes were hit with 95 tons of bombs.

The Stars and Stripes flew from northern Luzon to Palawan along almost the entire South China sea with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, in a symbolic return to Corregidor, declaring: "Let no enemy ever pull them down."

MacArthur Returns to "Rock"

MacArthur returned to the historic "rock" fortress at the entrance to Manila bay almost three years to the day after his torpedo boat escape from the invading Japanese.

The flag was placed on Palawan, most westerly of the Philippines, by veterans of the U. S. 41st infantry division Wednesday in the latest island invasion in the archipelago.

On Corregidor, MacArthur gave the flag raising order at the dramatic ceremony yesterday to Col. George Jones of Memphis, Tenn., whose American paratroopers helped recover the fortress.

The national emblem was hoisted to the same topside parade ground staff from which the Japanese tore it and trampled it in the dust in 1942.

Atop a battery, where 14-inch guns pointed out toward the China sea, MacArthur walked in silence the length of the gun positions.

American control of the South China sea flank of the islands now extends more than 600 miles, from Lingayen gulf on Luzon to the southern tip of Palawan.

American troops on Palawan were reported chasing the retreating enemy into the hills. The Yanks held the important Puerto Princesa harbor and nearby airfields—new bases from which to strike at Japan's South China sea lifeline to her stolen Dutch Indies riches.

capturing Puerto Princesa, the capital and principal harbor, and two nearby airfields midway along the 275-mile east coast.

Light Resistance Inland

Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe's infantrymen moved ashore after a cruiser and destroyer bombardment and a two-day aerial pounding. The landing was along beaches opening through swamps. Extremely light resistance developed inland.

American losses were officially termed "very light."

Puerto Princesa was blasted and deserted as the Yanks moved in. The harbor was in good condition, however, and landing craft soon were busy unloading their cargoes at the wharves. The airdromes were being put into shape.

Invasion of Palawan, a narrow island pointing like a finger from the Philippines toward Borneo, was the first important southward turn of the American forces. MacArthur has been driving steadily northward for nearly three years.

Dominates Sea Routes

In American hands, Palawan will dominate the South China Sea approaches to Japanese-held Thailand, Indo-China, Malaya, Singapore and the Netherlands East Indies.

Its seizure, MacArthur said "will not only help to insure the safe passage of our own sea transport, but render hazardous that of the enemy."

The 41st Division, now with the new 8th Army, is a veteran of 35 months in the Pacific during which it served in sixteen major assault invasions, including the Marshalls, the Admiralties, Saipan, Guam, Palau and Leyte.

Japanese Break "Truce"

WITH THE 14TH CORPS, in Manila, Saturday, March 3 (AP)—Japanese making a last stand in Manila's finance building hoisted a white flag late yesterday—and then fired into the American troops who had held their fire.

The "truce" ruse worked because two days ago 22 of the enemy surrendered and predicted others might do likewise. When the tank-supported Yanks of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's Thirty-seventh Division moved against the strongly defended building the Japanese waved a white flag from a window.

The Americans, hoping for continued Japanese surrenders, halted

U.S. Hold On Palawan Perils Jap Indies Line

Manila, March 2 (AP)—Veteran 41st Division Yanks have seized control of the westernmost Philippine Island of Palawan in a move to sever Japan's tenuous shipping lanes to her rich, stolen East Indies.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, announcing the invasion today, said the Americans landed virtually unopposed Wednesday on the fifth largest island of the Philippines, the advance and held their fire. Whereupon the enemy opened fire and wounded several Americans.

The advance was resumed after a temporary halt and seventy-one Japanese were killed in the building by nightfall. There were still a few of the enemy holding out in basement fortifications this morning.

Padula recalled "I just took off, straight ahead. Then a shell snapped the trunk of a tree ahead of me and I hit the dirt."

Soon he realized that he was out

Old Glory Over Corregidor

With General MacArthur on Corregidor, March 2 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned to Corregidor today and ordered the Stars and Stripes raised to the peak of the flagstaff from which the Japanese tore it down three years ago.

His officers surrounded him as he presided at a brief, impressive flag-raising ceremony as a color guard of the 503d Parachute Infantry Regiment stood at attention.

Turning to Col. George Jones, of Memphis, Tenn., commanding officer of the paratroopers, MacArthur said:

"Have your troops hoist the colors to its peak and let no enemy ever haul them down."

It was the same flagpole on the topside parade grounds where the Japanese tore down Old Glory and trod and ripped the colors to shreds.

ENDS CLOSE CALL TALK

With First United States Cavalry, Luzon, March 2 (A. P.).—Whenever "close call" stories become pretty tall, Sergt. John McCaughey of Brooklyn, N. Y., drags out a steel helmet with two bullet holes through it. "That usually stops 'em," he says, with a grin.

Sergt. McCaughey heads a platoon of military police with the First Cavalry and spends most of the day in a jeep making a round of the guard posts.

"I'd just posted three sentries in the hills east of Manila and returned to camp," he said, "when all at once something slammed into the side of my head.

"When my head cleared I saw three Japs and opened up. I don't know if I got any, but they didn't fire any more.

"Then I took off the helmet and turned cold all over. A bullet had entered at the yellow cavalry patch on the side and come through the 'P' printed on the back.

"There were two holes through the lining, too, but my head wasn't scratched."

As far as the punctured helmet goes, Sergt. McCaughey hopes to make a flower pot of it if his wife, Dorothy, will have it around the house. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCaughey, live at 38 Second street, Brooklyn.

"It turned out swell," Padula smiled, "some of the best pictures I got were of the advancing infantry—the way it looks to the Japs."

JAPS FACE MARINE TRAP ON IWO JIMA

Leathernecks Enter North End of Island, Threaten to Split Enemy.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Saturday, March 3—(AP) Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third Marine division lunged into the rugged north end of Iwo Friday to within 600 yards of cutting the Japanese garrison in two and sealing off the point of greatest enemy resistance.

Threaten to Trap Japs

The wedge threatened to trap Nipponese who have held Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' Fourth Marines, moving up the east side, to slow gains for the past five days.

The incomplete count of enemy dead rose more than 2,300 in four days to 7,127 by noon Friday.

Within a day or two, combat planes based on Iwo may be joining carrier-based aircraft for the first time in assaulting Nipponese holding out on the north tip, called "hell's suburbs" because of its treacherous terrain.

Engineers have the captured southern airfield, within fighter plane range of Tokyo, almost ready for use by fighters, bombers and transport planes.

Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth Marine division on the west coast, which previously had captured another hill 362—the hills on the island are named for their height in feet—beat off Japanese counterattacks.

Japs Battle Bitterly

The Japanese garrison, originally estimated at 20,000, fought back fiercely from the less than one-third northern part still in their hands.

Today's communique, announcing the latest successes, said the enemy employed "intense small arm, automatic weapons and mortar fire."

The advances of the Third division beyond captured Motoyama town put those Devildogs a half mile or less from the northeast tip, threatening to cut the Japanese in half. Front dispatches said the Third has scored a breakthrough which is bringing the campaign, 15-days-old today, into its closing stages.

The big bomber air base captured Feb. 20 on the second day of the invasion on the south part of the island is being restored swiftly for use by bombers and fighters, within 750 miles of Tokyo, today's communique noted. The field already is being used by light spotter planes serving Marine artillery for observation purposes.

Fifth Fleet warships, carrier-based planes and Marine artillery supplied the fire curtain for the Marines in Friday's gains.

"Destruction of enemy caves and strongpoints on Iwo is continuing," Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said.

Thursday both carrier-based and land-based planes made neutralization attacks on the Bonin islands north of Iwo, the bases in the best position to aid the Nipponese garrison on Iwo.

Navy search planes bombed Wake island the same day.

General Erskine's Third division scored its original breakthrough of main Japanese defenses Thursday.

After days of vicious fighting, the Leathernecks were in position for the final kill, said a dispatch from Morrie Landsberg, AP war correspondent aboard the expeditionary flagship.

Friday morning's communique reported this significant gain, made on Thursday, and also said the western end of the line moved forward. Smaller gains were scored on the eastern side of the island, where rugged and higher ground confronts the Fourth Marine division.

Jap Lines Crumble

An equally optimistic report on the situation on the western flank came from AP War Correspondent Hamilton Faron, with the Fifth Marine division. He said the Devildogs on that end of the line had broken through what was believed to be the last major line of enemy resistance.

Capture of a hill 362 feet high by the first battalion of the 28th regiment, Faron said, gave the Marines the dominating peak in a fortified ridge protecting the northern end of Iwo. It was expected that the remainder of the ridge would be cleared speedily. Beyond lies more open ground where tanks can blast the way.

The Third division meanwhile advanced within about 2,000 yards of the island's northern tip. Forward patrols penetrated beyond, catching glimpses of the ocean. To reach and seize the northern airfield, the third and last of the island to be captured, this division punched forward about 800 yards on its right and about 400 on the left.

Maj. Gen. Cate's Fourth Marine division on the right or eastern flank was assaulting a 362-foot peak less than a mile from the northeast shoreline. Beyond the hill are steep slopes leading down to the ocean, with rocky, precipitous bluffs at the far end.

Yanks Battle Hand-to-hand Near Northern Tip of Japanese Isle

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Saturday, March 3 (A. P.).—A definite breakthrough by the Third Marine Division at the center of the line on northern Iwo Jima brought definitely in sight today the end of the most costly invasion in United States Marine Corps history. In hand-to-hand fighting, veterans of this division commanded by Major-Gen. Graves B. Erskine surged over a rough terdain to occupy the western end of the uncompleted northern airfield.

This advance overran the main line of Japanese resistance in that area, Gen. Erskine reported, and an Associated Press dispatch from aboard the expeditionary flagship said that after days of vicious fighting, the Leathernecks of the Third Division were now in position for the final kill.

This division, forming the peak of the roughly triangular American line which bridges the island, moved to within several thousand yards of the northern extremity of Iwo. Its forward patrols penetrated far enough northward yesterday to see the blue, choppy waters of the ocean. Units of the Fourth and Fifth Assault divisions pushed ahead more slowly on the right and left. They discovered the wreckage of six Japanese tanks, the first so far found. The tanks had been smashed by the American artillery.

Japs Regrouping.

Aerial spotting among the supporting carrier aircraft reported the enemy regrouping—an ominous move which was, however, potentially advantageous to the Americans, because it would mean that the Japanese would have to give up central pillboxes that otherwise would have to be emptied by flame-throwers and machine-guns.

An Associated Press dispatch reported that the Japs had begun to fire at the warships offshore instead of saving their ammunition for land defense—an indication that they may be beginning to crack. Occasionally enemy mortars were also directed at Marine beachheads but Fleet Admiral Nimitz said that the unloading of supplies proceeded.

Carrier planes and the ships' anti-aircraft batteries drove off an enemy air raid, one of the few in these American-controlled waters. One Japanese bomber was shot down, and the enemy's bombs "caused no damage," the communique stated.

The Marines, fighting downhill after wresting most of the island's highlands, repulsed several night attacks. Gen. Erskine's Third Division captured seventeen more prisoners to bring the total since invasion day to twenty-seven. The Japanese dead numbered 4,784 up to Wednesday.

There has been no official American casualty report for more than a week, but a delayed dispatch from Iwo revealed that on the first day of the invasion Lieut. Frank J. Wright of Pittsburgh landed on the beach with a platoon of sixty men, and that when he had crossed the island an hour and a half later two men remained and instead of being a platoon leader, Lieut. Wright was a company commander.

Marine Divisions Set For The Kill On Iwo

Aboard Admiral Turner's Flagship, March 2 (AP)—A swift, hard-hitting breakthrough by the 3d Marine Division brought definitely in sight today the end of the bitter campaign for Iwo Jima's 8 square miles of the Japanese empire.

The sudden surge, accompanied by hand-to-hand fighting in the rough terrain of the north, placed the Marines in a position for the final kill as the battle for this volcanic island guarding the approaches to Japan entered its twelfth day.

Main Line Pierced

Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, whose 3d Division seized the western end of the uncompleted third airfield, informed Lieut. Gen. Holland M. Smith that his division passed through the main line of Japanese resistance in that area. There still was high ground ahead.

This division, forming the peak of the roughly triangular American line which bridges the island, moved to within several thousand yards of the northern extremity of Iwo. Its forward patrols penetrated far enough north yesterday to see the ocean.

General Erskine's men, in reaching the northern airfield, advanced about 800 yards on their right while gaining 400 on the left. They did not withdraw for the night.

Tank Hulks Found

Units of the 4th and 5th assault divisions pushed ahead more slowly on the right and left, respectively.

The Marines discovered six destroyed Japanese tanks, which were the first found. The tanks were smashed by artillery which gave support to the ground troops yesterday.

Several hundred of Japanese are being flushed out of Mount Suribachi, but front reports said they were not active.

Meanwhile, fleet headquarters said field dispatches reported the Japanese were regrouping to exact a bloody toll for every American advance.

Reported Cracking Up

Aerial spotters among the supporting carrier aircraft reported the enemy's regrouping. Associated Press Correspondent Morrie Landsberg, aboard Admiral Turner's flagship, wrote that the holed-up enemy had begun to lob shells at warships offshore instead of saving ammunition for land defense.

"They may be beginning to crack," he reported.

Occasionally enemy mortars were directed at Marine beachheads, but Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said the unloading of supplies for the Yanks proceeded.

Counterattacks Crushed

Carrier planes and ship's ack-ack drove off an enemy air-raid, one of the few in the United States-controlled waters.

The Marines, fighting downhill after wresting most of the island's highlands, repulsed several night counterattacks. Erskine's 3d captured 17 more prisoners to bring the bag since invasion day to 27.

Progress of Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' 4th Division on the east salient was slow because of fierce opposition. Its troops were deploying into enemy-held hills.

The Japanese, whose dead numbered 4,784 up to Wednesday, are entrenched in an arc of hill positions, some ranging over 300 feet in height.

No Banzai Charge Yet

There was no sign of an all-out Banzai charge. The enemy regrouping was both ominous and potentially advantageous to the Americans. It would mean the Japanese would have to give up certain pillboxes.

On the right in front of Cates' men is Furu Yama, 351 feet high and also Hill 362, both held by the Japanese. In the center before Erskine's troops is Mount Mote, 356 feet, while on the left the terrain graduates down from 300 feet to the coastline, with many ravines.

After two assaults the Marines won Hill 382, a vital observation peak, but the Japanese kept it under mortar fire.

No Casualty Report

There has been no official Yank casualty report for more than a week, but a delayed dispatch from a Marine Corps combat correspondent effectively told a story of the early cost of Iwo.

Tech. Sergt. Keyes Beech, with the 5th Division, related how Lieut. Frank J. Wright, of Pittsburgh, landed February 19 on the beach with a platoon of 60 men.

"By the time he had crossed the island an hour and a half later, 2 of the 60 remained, and instead of being a platoon leader, Wright was a company commander," Beech said.

Mexico Parley Ready to Vote Aggression Ban

U. S. Stipulations Accepted to Permit Action Without Congressional Approval

MEXICO CITY, March 2 (AP).—American stipulations which would permit the United States to join in hemisphere-wide guaranties against agression, without Congressional ratification, have been accepted by key South American nations, it was learned on highest authority tonight.

Brazil, Uruguay and Colombia, sponsors of the Declaration of Chapultepec which would pledge military force to assure existing frontiers against aggressors, have agreed to American modifications.

The American delegation previously had obtained the approval of Senator Tom Connally, Democrat, of Texas, it was learned, for a modified Declaration of Chapultepec. Latin-American countries, ready to approve a permanent commitment on this point, appear certain to pass the modified version.

The new declaration states that the American republics consider any aggression in this hemisphere as an attack on the United Nations war effort and will impose military sanctions, if necessary, under their executives' wartime powers. It also recommends negotiation of a treaty, which would then be submitted for ratification in the U. S. to make the guarantee lasting.

The conference also swept towards final agreement on the three other prime subjects under discussion:

1—Reorganization of the Pan-American union giving it political and economic powers as reported favorably by the commission on the inter-American system.

Several countries objected to the plan to bar ambassadors to Washington as delegates to the Pan-American union, but they were voted down. They can be expected to bring the matter up later, because many are incensed over what they say means "having two ambassadors in Washington."

2—Economic subcommittees agreed on three resolutions combining U. S. and Latin American plans to ease the inevitable break from war to peace-time business and help Latin America industrialize. In return for U. S. aid, the Latins agree to bear down against trade barriers and discrimination.

3—The commission on the war effort approved three resolutions providing for punishment of Axis war criminals who might sneak into the hemisphere, from Nazi bigwigs down to their menial agents.

At the same time, action was taken towards frustrating permanently any Axis attempt to get a foothold on the American continent by hiding money or property here and then using it to finance any subversive act.

Deputy foreign economics administrator Oscar Cox warned Latin Americans that the Nazis already have moved abroad to plant reserves for use when Germany is conquered. The United Nations must root these out, he said, "and we must make every effort to see to it that the neutral countries do likewise."

Mexico Proposal For Sanctions Gets Support

Mexico City, March 2 (AP)—A proposal that the American nations reserve to themselves the right to impose sanctions in this hemisphere when a world security council is formed in San Francisco in April was gaining support today at the Inter-American Conference.

As the Declaration of Chapultepec moved toward a final decision, it was indicated that the United States may take the lead at San Francisco in asking Britain and Russia to delegate such hemispheric powers.

Use Of Joint Force

The declaration, as drafted by Colombia, Uruguay and Brazil, provides for the use of joint force by American nations to stifle aggression wherever it may occur in the Americas. Brazil asked that action by a world security council be ruled out unless American disputes threaten the peace of nations overseas.

Main opposition to the stand that economic and military sanctions should be left solely in the hands of the American nations comes from delegates who fear that Russia and Britain then may demand the same privilege for eastern and western Europe, respectively.

To Be Sounded Out

It can be expected that both nations will be sounded out on this point before the San Francisco conference.

At any rate, it was said, if the Chapultepec Declaration, implemented by a plan to make the Pan-American Union a "Little Dumbarton Oaks," goes through, it would be difficult for the United States to move backward at San Francisco.

Don't Want To Tie Hands

The delegates from Washington have been trying to avoid making commitments here that would tie their hands in dealing with Russia and Britain. There is every indication, however, that the assurance of an enforced peace in the Western Hemisphere will be adopted before the end of this conference, expected about March 8.

The plan for strengthening the Pan-American Union fits into the security scheme, as it would of itself provide a council similar to the Dumbarton Oaks executive council but representing all American nations.

U. S. TO ASSIST LATIN AMERICA

Post-war Plan Drafted at Conference in Mexico.

Mexico City, March 2 (A. P.).—The United States delegation is preparing today to assure the Latin American republics that it will help them prevent a post-war depression and begin their industrialization.

The American group, it was learned has approved three draft proposals treating of the economic transition period, in which the American republics are given guarantes against the shock of United States purchasing cutbacks in return for a Latin American agreement to eliminate trade discrimination practices.

The three resolutions are a combination of at least eleven separate proposals on this subject thrown into the hopper at the beginning of the inter-American conference. Agreement was reached late last night after a continuous sixteen-hour session yesterday. The resolutions will be acted upon formally later today by the full committee on economic problems of the transition period.

Important features of the proposals are:

1. The United States "should make available" machinery, tools and manufactured goods to the Latin American countries on a "fair and equitable basis" to replace worn-out equipment and to continue agricultural, industrial and transport developments postponed during the war.

To Minimize Shock.

2. The United States will minimize the shock of purchasing cutbacks, giving advance notice of contract termination and will attempt to get congressional authority to bring this about where necessary. This evidently includes congressional permission to continue stockpiles for some time after the war to ortect United States stocks.

3. The Latin American countries will co-operate to eliminate present or future trade discrimination practices so all nations may have access on equal terms to the "trade and raw materials of the world."

4. The Latin American countries will continue to furnish the United States with strategic raw materials for the war effort and afterwards will undertake to develop their indunstrialization.

HARMON BELIEVED LOST IN PACIFIC

Intensive Search Underway for Air Force Commander.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, Commander of Army Air Forces in the Pacific Ocean area, was reported last night to be missing.

Reports current in Washington said a plane in which the general was a passenger was overdue. These accounts could not be confirmed immediately at the War department.

Lost in Plane Crash

The Blue network, in a broadcast from Washington, had said that Gen. Harmon had been lost in a plane crash in the Pacific.

It was presumed that an intensive search was underway for the missing plane, apparently more than 24 hours overdue by Friday night.

General Harmon, a native of San Francisco, commanded Army Forces in the South Pacific area during the Solomons campaign. In April, 1943, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for the action.

He was promoted to a Major General in February of that year. June 30, 1943, he narrowly escaped death on a torpedoed ship.

A fighter pilot in France in 1917, he assumed command of all Army Airforce units in the Pacific Ocean areas Aug. 31, 1944, exclusive of those in Alaska.

He was named to the command of the Strategic Air Force, Pacific Ocean areas, Dec. 8, 1944.

Believed Japs Strong

In a recent interview General Harmon sounded a cautionary note, expressing belief that Japan had tremendous airpower which it would unleash as the campaign nears its homeland.

Harmon said in the interview that the Pacific war would be long and that while the Superfortresses were doing good work Americans should not delude themselves into thinking Japan was getting a knockout blow.

As late as Jan. 23 he said that the Japanese were building 1,500 planes a month and "have been holding back their strength."

But this belief did not hold him back from hitting the enemy as often as he could and as hard as he could. As commander of U. S. Strategic Air Forces in the Pacific he declared:

"We expect to be the cause of Japan's desperation."

His planes were hitting Iwo Jima months before there was any attempt at landing ground forces.

His first major work against the Japanese was in the Solomons.

CREDIT TO CZECHOSLOVAKS

$15,000,000 Assigned by Canada in Pact for Purchases There

OTTAWA, March 2 (AP)—Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley announced today that an agreement had been signed to provide $15,000,000 in credits to the Czechoslovak Government. It was signed yesterday by Mr. Ilsley and Dr. Frantisek Paylasek, Czechoslovak Minister.

The credits are to be used for purchase in Canada of supplies for rehabilitation and reconstruction of Czechoslovak economy as soon as possible after liberation.

The loan will bear interest at the rate of 2½ per cent and is for five to nine years, repayable in five annual instalments.

Canada Jails Nazi as Thief

TORONTO, March 2 (AP)—Egbert Brosig, German paratrooper involved in four attempts to escape from a Canadian prisoner of war camp, is going to jail. The Ontario Court of Appeal decided yesterday that Brosig's theft of cigarettes, gum and perfume from a mail bag was not a justifiable act by a prisoner of war while attempting to escape. It pronounced a sentence of two months in jail.

3 More Japanese Admirals Die In War

San Francisco, March 2 (AP)—Three more Japanese admirals have "died in action," the Domei news agency reported today, bringing to 92 the number of Nipponese admirals who have died in the last ten months.

The Domei dispatch, intercepted here, named the officers as Rear Admirals Takeji Yamada, Shigetaka Amano and Kameshiro Takahashi. It gave no details of how or where they were killed.

Noted Jap Writer Killed in U. S. Raid

By Associated Press

Kinzo Satomura, prominent Japanese novelist, was killed in a bombing raid on the Philippines on Feb. 23, the Japanese Domei news agency said today in a dispatch broadcast from Tokio.

It added that he had been attached to the Japanese Army to make a special report.

ELECTRON BOMBS DAMAGE TOKYO

Tokyo radio told Japanese in the homeland last night that Superfortresses are dropping a phosphorous incendiary with "a high destructive power" and an "electron bomb" which spreads fire over an area of 30 to 46 feet.

The broadcast, intercepted by the FCC and reported by the Associated Press, went into great detail in instructions on how to combat the bombs.

The commentator said that the American bombers recently have begun to "use a large-size bomb so we should keep a very close watch on this phosphorous bomb."

He told the Japanese the electron incendiary, on exploding, shoots up a flame to a height of about nine feet and envelops an area twice the size of that covered by the oil incendiary.

He previously had described an oil incendiary bomb as one spreading out over an area of 15 to 18 feet.

Both the phosphorous and electron incendiaries were credited with power to continue burning for thirty minutes.

The electron incendiary was described as solid causing it to go right through the roof, ceiling and the mat and bores through the floor.

SUPERFORTS POUND SINGAPORE DOCK

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP) India-based Superfortresses pounded Singapore again today in an action obviously integrated with plans to cut Japan's stolen empire in two.

Twentieth Air force headquarters here said results of the daylight operation against the great naval base and supply bottleneck were "good." About 40 of the giant 29s took part, bombing visually.

It was the fifth daylight strike by Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey's 20th Bomber command, and the third since Feb. 1 against the stolen British base through which the enemy must funnel materials to and from his most valuable conquered areas.

The pattern of strategy was made clearer as General MacArthur's Philippine forces moved south and west on to the island of Palawan, just north of Borneo. That move will practically cut off the Japanese sea route to the East Indies.

The only identification of specific targets for the B-29s today came in the first bare announcement of the operation, which named them as major industrial installations and the naval base. The other strikes in the last 30 days had sunk a great floating drydock there and kindled fires that spouted smoke 20,000 feet high.

One of the sky giants was lost to enemy action today, and anti-aircraft opposition was reported "moderate to intense." One Japanese interceptor was downed and another damaged.

Other Tokyo broadcasts showed the jitters induced in the enemy capital by recent heavy strikes of carrier aircraft and B-29s from the other Superfortress bases in the Marianas islands. One B-29 over Kobe about 9 a. m. was enough to set off an air alert, and another alert was caused by "enemy planes" southwest of Tokyo around 7 p. m.

B-29 RESULTS 'GOOD' IN SINGAPORE BLOW

40 of India-Based Sky Group Bomb Naval Base Visually —One Attacker Is Lost

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—Amplifying earlier reports of the attack today by India-based Superfortresses against the great Singapore naval base, an attack obviously integrated with plans to cut Japan's stolen empire in two, Twentieth Air Force headquarters here said that results of the daylight operation were "good" and added that about forty of the giant B-29's taking part bombed visually.

It was the fifth daylight strike by Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey's Twentieth Bomber Command, and the third since Feb. 1 against the stolen British base through which the enemy must funnel materials to and from his most valuable conquered areas.

The only identification of specific targets for the B-29's today came in the first bare announcement of the operation, which named them as major industrial installations and the naval base. The other strikes in the last thirty days had sunk a great floating drydock there and kindled fires that spouted smoke 20,000 feet high.

One of the sky giants was lost to enemy action today, and anti-aircraft opposition was reported "moderate to intense." One Japanese interceptor was downed and another damaged.

Japanese broadcasts, counting the air invaders at precisely fifty-four, claimed one downed and three damaged.

Other Tokyo broadcasts showed the jitters induced in the enemy capital by recent heavy strikes of carrier aircraft and B-29's from the other Superfortress bases in the Marianas Islands. One B-29 over Kobe about 9 A. M. was enough to set off an air alert, and another alert was caused by "enemy planes" southwest of Tokyo around 7 P. M.

A Tokyo domestic broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission yesterday admitted that "slight damage" had been caused to Japanese installations at Singapore.

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Mar. 2 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today the names of 1,830 United States soldiers held as prisoners of war by the enemy.

Spain Asserts It Liberated 867 Allied Aviators

573 Americans Freed Since North Africa Landings, Franco's Envoy Reports

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP).—Franco's Spain, mindful of waning prestige with the Allies, let it be known today that 867 British and American aviators downed on Spanish soil had been freed since the North African landings.

It was understood that the flyers —573 Americans and 294 British —were taken to La Linea, Spanish frontier city in the south, and then permitted to proceed across a half-mile stretch known as "no man's land" into Gibraltar.

The information, received from the Spanish Air Ministry in Madrid, was given in reply to questions put by The Associated Press to the Spanish Ambassador here, Don Juan Francisco de Cardenas.

Referring to Allied ground troops who were also permitted to use Spain as an escape corridor, it was further disclosed:

"The same procedure was followed with thousands of civilians and military refugees from France who entered Spain without passport.

"This included more than 22,000 French citizens on their way to join the Allied forces in Algiers and about the same number of citizens of the other Allied countries.

"All in all, more than 44,000 young men of military age went through Spain to be incorporated into the Allied troops in North Africa."

According to the international rules of war, the Spanish government, technically a neutral, would be bound to intern all military personnel—Axis and Allied alike—coming within its boundaries.

Diplomats favorable to the turn of republican governmen Spain did not refute the infor tion. However, they charg great influx" into Spain of man soldiers occurred late ir the Allied campaign on French so

Patton Licked Nazis on Louisiana March

MAR 31945

By DON M. EWING.

Shreveport, La., March 2 (A. P.).—How an armored division night march during the 1941 Louisiana maneuvers was an important factor in turning the German south flank in the battle of the bulge was revealed by Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr., commander of the Third Army on the western front.

In a letter to me, Gen. Patton recalled a blackout march made by his Second Armored Division in the 1941 war games, a spectacular movement in which several men were killed and more injured.

Gen. Patton was severly criticized at the time for the costly march, I accompanied the Second Division on the maneuver and recently wrote Gen. Patton referring to the night movement.

Dated January 7, Gen. Patton's letter included these direct references to night movements of his Third Army overseas:

"I recall very well our trip through the night; and I can assure you that our success, particularly in the present operation, has been due to the ability of our people to move rapidly at night."

The present operation referred to by Gen. Patton was the operation of stopping and then turning the German breakthrough. At the height of the German gains, Gen. Patton and the Third Army were called on by Gen. Eisenhower to rescue retreating American forces by launching an armored attack on the Nazi southern flank.

At the same time, Gen. Patton was called on to move some of his armored forces up into areas covered by the American First Army. All of the movements were made at night and it was his ability to get places quickly in blackout and during actual battles with tanks, artillery and other fighting equipment, that enabled Gen. Patton and the Third to hit the German flank so hard that shortly the whole Nazi drive was stopped.

Participating in this operation were many divisions which had trained in 1941 in Louisiana.

Krueger Protested.

The particular "trip through the night" in 1941 to which the correspondence referred was a drive by the Second Armored Divisions from the vicinity of Jonesboro almost to Leesville in one night.

The division wound up on Peason Ridge, which theoretically gave the holder of it command over surrounding territory. When Gen. Patton got his tanks and mobile artillery there he claimed to have Leesville under siege, and in effect to have "won the war."

Lieut.-Gen. Walter Krueger, then a major-general in command of Gen. Patton's opposition and now field commander of the famous Sixth American Army under Gen. MacArthur, protested that Gen. Patton's forces lacked gasoline to take their tanks and vehicles the distance they had traveled. Gen. Eisenhower, then a colonel and chief of staff to Gen. Krueger, made the same protest.

The Tanks Were There.

Gen. Patton's reply was: "The tanks are there; What are you going to do about it?" The umpires, mystified at how gasless tanks had gotten to Peason Ridge —for Gen. Patton's vehicles actually did not have enough gas for the mileage covered—finally ruled for Gen. Krueger and Gen. Eisenhower, and Gen. Patton had to withdraw his forces.

It was not for a long time that it became known how the tanks made mileage that their original gas supply could not cover. Gen. Patton had gone ahead and left money at filling stations along the way, with orders to the attendants to "give any of my vehicles all the gas they want and keep the change."

After the mock war was ended, Gen. Patton replied to criticism of maneuvers that risked men's lives in peacetime by saying that if war came the men would have to know how to move rapidly at night and that "the only way to learn to drive in a blackout is to drive in a blackout."

Manila Consulate to Reopen

Steintorf To Be Consul General With Foreign Service Staff of 6

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP).—Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, announced today that the American Consulate at Manila would be reopened soon. The consul general will be Paul P. Steintorf, native of Chase City, Va. He is taking to the Philippines a staff of six foreign-service officers. Those with the rank of consul are W. Garland Richardson, of Fries, Va.; Monroe B. Hall, of Seabright, N. J.; J. Bartlett Richards, of Washington, and U. Alexis Johnson, of Falum, Kan.

The others are Vice-Consuls Jack J. H. Oldham, of Amarillo, Tex., and Paul J. Haldeman, of New York. Mr. Grew said there are more than 6,000 Americans in the liberated areas of the Philippines and consequently there is an urgent need at Manila for consular facilities.

GREW HITS 'NARROW' U. S. SHIP POLICY

Washington, March 2 (A. P.).—The State Department declared today against any "narrowly nationalistic policy" in America's "somewhat monopolistic position as the owner of the major portion" of the world's ocean-going ships. It suggested a preference to America's war allies in the peacetime sale of merchant ships.

The department made known its position in a communication to the House Merchant Marine Committee, considering legislation for the post-war use and the disposition of war-built merchant fleets. Signed by Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary, the statement said:

"If the United States were to attempt to take advantage of the war losses of other countries and of the wartime increase in its own merchant fleet to establish itself in a dominant shipping position, it would be acting contrary to its basic policy of promoting sound international economic relations and an increasing flow of commerce."

PROTEST IN HOUSE OVER BRITISH ACT

Washington, March 2 (A. P.).—A protest was voiced in the House today against the reported imprisonment by the British Government of a representative of the Emergency Committee to Save the Jewish People of Europe. Representative Somers (D.-N. Y.) told the members that Eri Jabotinsky had been sent to Turkey by the committee to organize the rescue of Jews in the Balkans, but had been "forced to leave" and "deported to British-controlled territory."

Mr. Somers also obtained consent to include in the Congressional Record a letter from Ben Hecht to Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, asking why "my friend Eri has been whisked off to a British concentration camp to be held incommunicado."

Mr. Somers, co-chairman of the committee, said that Mr. Jabotinsky, a citizen of Palestine who has filed application for American citizenship, went to Turkey with "full approval of the President's War Refugee Board" aboard an Army bomber arranged for by the State Department.

"It is with great indignation that I received this news and, as an American citizen, I demand that a stop be put to such brazen and open interference with our foreign policy by an outside Power," Mr. Somers declared.

Mr. Hecht asked in his letter whether Mr. Jabotinsky had been arrested "because he recently sent the news out of Turkey that certain officials of the British Government had persuaded the Turkish Government to refuse passage through that country to the refugee Hebrews from eastern Europe."

Friends Say Nelson Will Quit White House

Washington, March 2 (AP)—The working partnership between Donald M. Nelson and the New Deal may dissolve shortly.

Friends of the former War Production Board chairman today confirmed reports that he plans to resign soon as personal representative to President Roosevelt on international economic matters.

Nelson, who was called "the New Deal's favorite businessman" in depression days and then took leadership in mobilizing industry for war, was reported to feel that his present White House duties are too light to warrant his remaining in the Government.

The former executive vice president of Sears Roebuck and Company reportedly plans to reenter private industry. There was no indication, however, whether that means rejoining the mail order house.

3 Reparation Methods Now Appear Possible

Washington, March 2 (AP)—Development of a plan for taking reparations from defeated Germany emerged today as possibly the greatest problem left over from the Malta conference.

The way in which these repayments are taken will determine, more than any other postwar measure imposed on Germany, how that country develops after the war.

Three Possible Methods

Three methods appear pos in the opinion of authoritie who have been working v p war German controls f months:

1. Russia, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and other nations which have been more or less wrecked by Nazi destruction and thievery, as well as by the usual losses of war, could divide up Germany's existing plants and transportation equipment and, theoretically, cart it all off to their own cities.

2. At the other extreme, they could decide only to take the products of the factories for a certain number of years.

3. They could, and probably will, destroy such purely munitions works as the great Krupp industries; remove to their own countries the machinery of many other plants, along with such munitions machinery as they want, and leave some industry—more than the Morgenthau plan proposed—functioning to produce more goods for them within Germany.

Commission In Moscow

The reparations plan is to be worked out by a commission in Moscow. The expectation is that members will be appointed soon and will include initially representatives of the United States, Russia and Britain, and possibly France.

It is also expected here that the United States will get little or nothing. No one seems to know what the United States might find in Germany that she really needs.

Some authorities on German economy believe that the destruction wrought by Allied bombers may be so great that relatively little of real worth will be found.

ROOSEVELT HOLDS NEWS CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP) President Roosevelt was in a chuckling, chatty mood today as Washington reporters filed into his study for his first news conference since January 19.

The conference opened 47 minutes late. The President volunteered no important information but a drumfire of newsmen's questions uncorked some presidential news about Jesse Jones, about reparations, treaties—and little else.

Mr. Roosevelt, wearing a grey suit and customary maroon bow tie, fidgeted with papers on his desk while the reporters jammed into his office. The doorman's announcement — "all in" — set off questions from every cranny of the oval study.

Somebody wanted to know whether there will be many Senate treaties as a result of the Big Three's Yalta conference.

Treaties and legislation will be going to Congress like clockwork, said the President. He didn't grow specific but he said there'll be a need for things like money—an obvious reference to the Bretton Woods agreements—and for a host of things he wrapped up as small details.

There might be a treaty with Germany some day but talk about it now is pretty iffy: He's no crystal gazer, said the President. First he wants to win the war. But it might not be a bad idea, he observed, to send some ex-German soldiers into the Crimea to clean up the war mess he saw there.

With uninformative answers—or chuckles—Mr. Roosevelt deflated questions about rumors that Commerce Secretary Henry A. Wallace will take over the Foreign Economic administration, about former Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn's mission to Russia, about the reason for calling a United Nations conference in San Francisco. It seemed like a pretty good place to the President.

Then a newsman asked about "the present status of Jesse Jones," fired as secretary of commerce when Mr. Roosevelt picked Wallace for the job.

The President smiled and said he's been assuming right along that Jones is ex-secretary of commerce.

"Does he still hold his loan job (RFC head)?" the reporter pressed.

He had that as Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Roosevelt replied—then added an emphatic no when asked whether the Texan would stay with the lending agencies until his successor is named.

REPARATIONS TREATIES WILL GO TO SENATE

President Says They Will Be Coming Along Like Clockwork.

THINKS POLISH QUERY IS 'IFFY'

Declares It Might Be a Good Plan to Use German Soldiers to Clean Up Crimea Mess.

Washington, March 2 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt disclosed today that treaties on reparations and other matters affecting the peace will be submitted to the Senate, in addition to treaties relating to the world security organization.

At his first news conference since returning from the Big Three meeting at Yalta, the President said treaties and legislation probably will be coming along like clockwork. He described these, however, as small details and not important to the general picture.

Questioning also brought out that Mr. Roosevelt supposed there will have to be a treaty with Germany some day. This was in answer to queries whether ceding of land to Poland would require a treaty.

The President said he hated to use the word the first day home, but that sounded like an awful "iffy" question. He said he would like to win the war first.

Referring to a passage in Mr. Roosevelt's speech to Congress yesterday that this country does not want to make slaves out of the German people, a reporter wanted to know whether this would conflict with reports that Russia might use German labor to rebuild damaged areas.

Discusses Labor Suggestion.

While that does not come under general reparations, Mr. Roosevelt said, it might not be a bad idea to use some ex-German soldiers to clean up some of the mess he saw in the Crimea. He referred to the devastation which he mentioned in his speech to Congress.

The President said he did not know how long it would take to reorganize the Polish Provisional Government, as provided for in the Big Three Yalta agreement.

He also replied in the negative when asked whether he believed the Government might be set up in time for Poland to be represented at San Francisco.

The questioners were referred to the State Department on a query as to whether the United States has withdrawn recognition from the Baltic states of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania. He said that was not discussed in the Big Three conference.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had discussed the Palestine question with the Arab Kings while in the Middle East, but would not elaborate.

ence beginning April 25.

Besides saying he may have to do some more traveling, Mr. Roosevelt added that he really has not got a single plan at this time.

To a question as to why San Francisco was selected for the meeting, at which plans for a world security organization will be drafted, the President grinned and replied that it looked like a pretty good place. He had no further comment.

Hurley's Return From China Awaited

MAR 3 1945

Washington, March 2 (A. P.).—Major-Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, Ambassador to China, is due back in this country today or tomorrow.

President Roosevelt disclosed this at his news conference today and described as very interesting the news from Chungking that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had taken tentative steps toward giving China a long-promised constitutional government.

Mr. Roosevelt also said he knew about Brazilian President Vargas's announcement of an intention to hold a presidential election in Brazil, but would not say what he thought about it.

President Silent On Flynn's Trip

Washington, March 2 (A. P.).—Reports that Edward J. Flynn was sent to Moscow to explore the possibilities of a rapprochement between the Kremlin and the Vatican went unanswered, officially at least, at President Roosevelt's news conference today.

The President would not discuss, on the record, the reason for Mr. Flynn's trip. Mr. Flynn, a prominent Catholic layman, is a former Democratic National Committee man and Bronx political leader. He accompanied the President to the Yalta conference and proceeded from there to the Soviet capital.

President Is Not Planning New Trip

Washington, March 2 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt has no immediate plans for another trip abroad.

He made this statement to a news conference today when asked to confirm reports that he might visit London after the San Francisco United Nations conference.

Senate Gets Labor Bill Compromise

Washington, March 2 (AP)—The Senate gave right-of-way today to a compromise manpower proposal wrapping up both the work-or-jail doctrine and the employment ceiling system.

Senator Revercomb (R., W.Va.) offered it as a full substitute for the latter plan, which has been in debate all week. Senator Robertson (R., Wyo.) joined him as co-author, and some Democratic members were reported showing interest.

Policy Set Up

The compromise sets out as a policy that "every individual is obligated to serve the nation in the capacity for which he or she is best qualified."

So far as workers are concerned, the direct compulsion feature now incorporated in House-passed legislation would be confined to male draft registrants of 18 to 45, not specifically exempted from induction by law.

Each local draft board would make a survey to see if any of its registrants are "not performing substantial work in a lawful occupation" as determined by the board. Such men would be ordered to report for immediate induction.

Penalty Provided

If unacceptable for military service, the men would be certified to the War Manpower Commission chairman, who would designate where they should work.

A man who refused to take a work assignment, or quit a job to which he had been assigned, without permission of his draft board, would be subject to regular draft-dodging penalties—five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

The WMC chairman also would be authorized to set employment ceilings for individual plants, and to regulate or prohibit the hiring of new employés.

Limit To Cutback

Except for places of entertainment and amusement, however, the number of employers could not be ordered reduced by more than 50 per cent of the total employed when the law became effective.

An employer convicted of violating the ceiling or hiring restrictions would be subject to a year's imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Revercomb's proposal, like the pending Senate bill, provides for surveys to determine whether labor is being used efficiently.

WALLACE BEGINS JOB AS HEAD OF COMMERCE GROUP

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP) Henry A. Wallace marked out for himself today a big place in America's economic future, even though Congress has deprived him of financial power.

The former vice president was sworn into the cabinet in a gay ceremony. Then he promptly laid down these goals for his work in what Congress meant to be a close-cropped secretaryship of commerce:

"The Department of Commerce will continue to aid the war effort and it will likewise do its part to facilitate maximum cooperation between the nation's employes, investors, business, agriculture and government to the end that all America, our assets and our people may be busily and profitably employed."

How great a part the department can play, remained in doubt, now that the $40,000,000,000 realm of finance which ousted Jesse H. Jones ruled as secretary has been taken away.

"It will do what it can to help develop the fullest use of all manpower, womanpower, money, credit, ingenuity and science to produce even more for the peace than we have learned to produce for war so that the peacetime standard of living may be continually rising."

But it had been a long hard pull for Wallace to get that "you're in."

President Roosevelt, as soon as he was inaugurated for a fourth term, asked Jones to get out to make way for Wallace, saying that because of his services in the presidential campaign Wallace "deserves almost any service which he believes he can satisfactorily perform."

Jones expressed strong doubts of Wallace's ability to run the reconstruction finance corporation and other big lending agencies. A majority of Congress showed similar doubts. It was not until yesterday that Wallace was confirmed as secretary. Action was held up until the lending agencies had been taken away from the department.

Mr. Roosevelt is now casting about to find someone to run the loan agencies. He told his news conference today that Jones is not holding over in this post pending choice of a successor.

Jones had no comment. He turned over his duties to undersecretary Wayne C. Taylor on Jan. 24 and has since been winding up his affairs in the big RFC building built during his regime in Washington's banking district.

Wallace's first act as secretary followed the pattern in behalf of "the little fellow" which his backers say always has been his guide.

He appointed a committee of business men and bankers to report as soon as possible on "suggestions for enabling small business to do its full share" in furnishing post-war employment.

New Commerce Secretary, Sworn In, Says Aim Is Co-operation of All Economic Groups.

Washington, March 2 (A. P.).—Henry Wallace officially became Secretary of Commerce today with the words "You're in" spoken by Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black after Mr. Wallace had taken the oath of office.

The former Vice-President promptly announced that the Commerce Department will "do its full part to facilitate maximum co-operation between the nation's employees, investors, business, agriculture and Government to the end that all America, our assets and our people may be busily and profitably employed." He appointed a committee of business men to make suggestions for enabling small business to do its full share in providing maximum employment after the war.

Mr. Wallace took the oath in a room packed with Cabinet members, Senators, Government officials and reporters. His wife and daughter Jean stood near by while Justice Black asked if he solemnly swore to support and defend the Constitution and to well and faithfully discharge his duties.

"I do so solemnly swear," Mr. Wallace replied.

"You're in," said the Justice and everybody laughed.

Business Committee Named.

Mr. Wallace, in a short mimeographed statement, asked the business men's committee to give special attention to the problem of making available to small business "adequate supplies of equity financing" as well as long-term loans at reasonable rates. The men he appointed:

Eric A. Johnston, president, United States Chamber of Commerce; Edward E. Brown, board chairman, First National Bank of Chicago; Prentiss M. Brown, board chairman, Detroit Edison Company; Ralph Flanders, president, Jones & Lamson Machine Company, Springfield, Vt.; Thomas B. McCabe, president, Scott Paper Company, Chester, Pa.; John W. Snyder, vice-president, First National Bank, St. Louis; Ernest G. Draper, member, Federal Reserve Board, and Stacy May, McGraw-Hill Publishing Company.

Wallace's Statement.

Mr. Wallace said that as the work of the committee develops additional names may be added. His statement follows:

"The Department of Commerce will continue to aid the war effort and it will likewise do its part to facilitate maximum co-operation between the nation's employees, investors, business, agriculture and Government to the end that all America, our assets and our people may be busily and profitably employed. It will do what it can to help develop the fullest use of all man power, woman power, money, credit, ingenuity and science to produce even more for the peace than we have learned to produce for war so that the peacetime standard of living may be continually rising.

"To attain these objectives I propose to appoint a series of committees from the Business Advisory Council. "The first committee which I shall ask to report as soon as reasonably possible will be for the purpose of making suggestions for enabling small business to do its full share in furnishing maximum post-war employment.

"It is hoped that the committee will give especial attention to the problem of making available to small business adequate supplies of equity financing as well as long-term loans at reasonable rates."

Senate Leaders Urge Williams To Quit Battle for REA Post

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP) Senate leaders were reported tonight to have proposed to Aubrey Williams that he ask President Roosevelt to withdraw his nomination as Rural Electrification administrator.

They told him, the report went, that there appeared to be no chance for confirmation, but Williams replied that he would prefer to go down fighting.

The suggestion that Williams withdraw was made after canvasses showed a heavy Democratic defection from support of him. Opponents were claiming 44 to 48 assured votes — depending on whose poll was used—against confirmation with many Senators still uncommitted. The Senate membership is 96.

But Senator Ellender (D-La.), Williams supporter, told reporters: "We've got a fighting chance. If the Senate will read the printed record of the hearings, I do not see how it can turn down Aubrey Williams. I have never seen such bias and prejudice as has confused consideration of this issue."

Republicans and Southern Democrats fighting the nomination won the first round today with a 12-8 Senate Agriculture committee vote against confirmation.

A Senate vote is improbable before the last of next week at the earliest. The disposition of the leadership is to dispose the first of manpower legislation.

Senator Ellender (D-La.), who led an unsuccessful fight in the committee for Williams, said he thought consideration should await the outcome of the manpower debate. He and Senator Hoey (D-N. C.) were the only committeemen from the "Deep South" to vote for confirmation.

Talking with reporters afteward, Senator Shipstead (R-Minn.) made clear that his committee vote against Williams was primarily one of protest against committee failure to give clearance to his bill which would move the REA from the Agriculture department and re-establish it as an independent agency.

Williams is former social worker who was deputy administrator of the WPA under Harry Hopkins and later head of the National Youth administration. Now 54, he has been organization director for the National Farmers union since NYA was abolished in 1943.

His nomination is for a 10-year term. The post pays $12,000 a year.

RFC Helps Small Business.

To assure ample credit in the reconversion period for business and industry, particularly small business, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation said last night that it will co-operate with regional credit pools being organized by banks. At the request of pool managers, the RFC will take up to 75 per cent of such loans.

The deposed Secretary of Commerce was known to have given his counsel and advice in drafting the program. Mr. Jones's status as loan administrator in charge of the RFC and subsidiary lending agencies is not clear, although he continues daily visits to that office.

Directly and in co-operation with banks, RFC said, it already has authorized more than 22,000 industrial loans aggregating $2,650,000,000. Of these 10,300 have been from $500 to $10,000 and 9,400 from $10,000 to $100,000.

Jones No Longer Loan Chief

Roosevelt Says He Lost Place When He Was Ousted From Commerce Post.

Washington, March 2 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt said today that Jesse H. Jones no longer is Federal Loan Administrator. He ceased to head the big lending agencies, the President said, when he was ousted as Secretary of Commerce.

Mr. Jones announced at the time he was removed that he was turning over the secretaryship to Wayne C. Taylor, under-secretary. Since then, however, he has been going to his office regularly and winding up his affairs.

Asked about Mr. Jones's status at his news conference today, the President said the Texan was head of the loan agencies as Secretary of Commerce. He replied with a flat no to a question whether Mr. Jones remains as Loan Administrator until a successor is appointed.

"Does he know that?" a reporter asked. The President replied with a smile that he should have asked that at Yalta.

Says Jobs Went Together.

To the first question about Mr. Jones's status, the President said he had assumed all along that Mr. Jones was ex-Secretary of Commerce. He added that he thought it was rather plain that the two jobs went together.

The President said he expected to name a new Federal Loan Administrator soon and had a number of letters from persons applying for the post. He was uncertain whether the appointment would require Senate confirmation.

Says Jobs Went Together.

Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization chief, has been among those mentioned for the job.

A reporter reached Mr. Jones by telephone at his office in the RFC building and told him what the President had said. "Thank you" was his only comment. He

7th War Loan Goal Set at 14 Billions

WASHINGTON, March 2 (A. P.).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau announced today a $14,000,000,000 goal for the Seventh War Loan, divided evenly between individuals and corporations.

The $7,000,000,000 quota for individuals is the highest ever assigned them. The Series E quota is also more than Mr. and Mrs. America have been asked to dig up for that class of securities heretofore. The total quota is the same as that of the Sixth War Loan.

The formal drive will extend from May 14 to June 30—seven weeks as compared with four weeks in the Sixth War Loan.

$2,453,177,125 Navy Bill Passes House

Washington, March 2 (A. P.).—A $2,453,177,125 deficiency appropriation bill, most of it for the Navy, was passed by the House and sent to the Senate today after three days of listless debate.

The measure provides additional funds for miscellaneous agencies for the current fiscal year. The Navy's share is $1,875,047,488.

A Republican move to cut an $84,373,000 war housing fund in half failed by a standing vote of 76 to 47. Its sponsor, Representative Taber (R.-N. Y.), told the House the National Housing Agency, which operates the program, was handling it "very, very poorly."

The bill was the fourth big money measure passed by the House this year. The funds aggregate more than $7,000,000,000. The Senate has not acted on any of them.

LEWIS DEMANDS HIT BY OPERATORS

WASHINGTON, March 2 —(AP) Soft coal operators recoiled from John L. Lewis' contract demands today with the cry that they would cost at least $400,000,000 a year.

"This means a daily increase to each mine worker of $3.30 per day," said Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators who are negotiating with Lewis' United Mine workers.

"Some items are impossible of calculation and would further increase the cost of production," O'Neill's statement said.

Lewis' demands, including a one new to coal negotiations for a 10 cent royalty to the miners' union on every ton of coal mined, are so constructed that the UMW chief contends they would not disturb the Little Steel wage formula at all.

The miners admittedly have received all the pay raises they can get under this formula, which limits general pay increases to 15 per cent above the levels of January, 1941.

Under Lewis' royalty idea, a union fund would be built up to supply, as he explained it, "rainy day" insurance for miners. They would be given medical, insurance and rehabilitation service.

The operators, in a statement, contended such a fund would put Lewis in a position "to dispose of this sum politically."

They argued that another proposal, under which the UMW could forbid shipment of coal to a consumer involved in a strike, would make Lewis "a labor czar unparalleled in American history."

Lewis disputed operator estimates that the royalty plan would cost the operators $60,000,000 a year. He said tax adjustments would reduce it to $24,000,000.

"It won't cost the operators a single, solitary cent," the union chieftain argued, suggesting the $24,000,000 could be passed on to the consumer.

He argued that miners want "to have something to set aside for a rainy day that the United States Steel corporation is providing for." U. S. Steel is the largest producer and consumer of soft coal.

Lewis said U. S. Steel's special reserve account was $38,000,000 in 1939 and nows stands at $195,000,000.

"A man could stand a lot of rain with that much money," he said drily, as miners at the meeting laughed.

33,000 WORKERS IDLE IN DETROIT WAR INDUSTRIES

DETROIT, March 2.—(AP) More than 33,000 war workers, either on strike or laid off for lack of parts, were idle tonight in twelve Chrysler Corporation and Briggs Manufacturing Co. plants in the Detroit area.

Production in these factories of parts for tanks, for B-29 Superfortresses, for anti-aircraft guns, and heavy and light trucks and ambulances was at a virtual standstill.

The National War Labor board late today summoned management representatives and union leaders of the Chrysler strikers to a hearing at 11 a. m. tomorrow in Washington in an attempt to end the walkout.

The strikers, members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), had ignored an appeal from Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson to resume production of war material he said was "urgently needed" on the fighting fronts.

Defying warnings of disciplinary action by international officials of their union, the workers spread their work stoppage today to five Briggs factories and to the Chrysler DeSoto-Warren avenue plant.

An afternoon survey by company officials showed a total of 27,050 on strike and another 6,550 forced into idleness for lack of parts.

The situation in brief was:

Chrysler Corp.: Dodge main plant, 13,500 on strike; DeSoto Warren avenue plant, 2,800 on strike; idle for lack of parts were 3,000 at Dodge truck plant, 550 at Detroit (Chrysler) tank arsenal; 1,500 in Chrysler Highland Park plant and 1,500 in Windsor, Ont., plant and departments of other units.

Briggs: Mack avenue plant, 6,100; Milwaukee Ave., plant, 900; Vernon Highway plant, 2,100; Meldrum plant, 225; Eightmile road plant, 850; Hamtramck plant, 575, all on strike.

William H. Davis, National WLB chairman, summoned to the Washington hearing six UAW-CIO officials and Robert W. Condor, director of industrial relations for Chrysler Corp., and George Bowles, disputes director of the Regional WLB. In his telegram Davis termed the strike "a direct interference with our war effort."

On Monday the UAW-CIO international executive board is scheduled to meet in New York. George F. Addes, international secretary-treasurer and acting president of the union in absence abroad of R. J. Thomas, said today the Chrysler and Briggs situations will be discussed and "the whole attitude of employers" will be canvassed. Addes Thursday asserted there is "planned management provocation at work to bring about unauthorized walkouts."

A Chrysler spokesman said today charges that its management was provoking trouble "are only meant to mislead Chrysler employes and the public."

Immediate cause of the strikes in the Dodge main plant and the Briggs Mack avenue units was discharge of several employes. A dispute over rate of production on a machine job in the Dodge main plant led to discharge of seven workers and was followed by the strike. The Briggs Mack avenue strike followed discharge of seven minor union officials accused by the management of inciting previous walkouts. Picket lines at the other Briggs units, a company spokesman said, produced today's stoppages.

More Drafted for Cord Mills.

New Bedford, Mass., March 2 (A. P.).—Orders to proceed with the drafting of workers for employment in local tire cord plants were received from Washington today. Harold Redden, State director of the War Manpower Commission, announced from Boston that the WMC would call another ninety workers from their posts in fine goods mills to jobs in the tire cord factories.

"The program is still in force and will continue in force," Arthur C. Gernes, regional WMC director, emphasized.

Mr. Gernes said eighty-nine of the first ninety workers drafted under the involuntary transfer program had appealed. Hearings on their appeals by a special panel ended yesterday and the testimony taken has been sent to Washington for review by the National Management-Labor Committee and Manpower Commissioner McNutt.

STILWELL WARNS STRIKES IRK ARMY

Declares Soldier Will Wonder How Some Made Money While He Was Bombed

CLEVELAND, March 2 (AP)—Gen. Joseph Stilwell said tonight that when the American soldier returned he was going to wonder about a lot of things, especially why everybody could not have borne an equal share of the load.

Picturing the average G. I. as a "pretty intelligent" fellow who knows the score, General Stilwell said the G. I. is a realist and that his primary concern is typified by his daily prayer:

"'Oh, Lord, distribute the bullets as you do the pay: Let the officers get most of them.'"

Among other things the "grown up and developed" soldier will wonder about, he added, is how it was "that so and so could stay home and make money while he was being shelled and bombed" and how there could be strikes while he was fighting.

"We must get ready for him, he deserves all we can do for him," General Stilwell said.

Expressing the hope that more attention would be paid to "the lads who are carrying the ball," the slugging foot soldiers, the new Chief of Army Ground Forces said in an address before the Cleveland Ordnance Association:

"The location of the man on foot, struggling forward with the help of artillery, tanks, air, his own supporting weapons, and all the services, is still the gauge by which we measure success or failure. If he gets forward, we win; if he is forced back, we lose."

The veteran campaigner said he did not know how the writers were going to make a "glamorous hero out of the muddy and dilapidated G. I. with two weeks whiskers and a barnyard aroma on him." He added:

"That's their job and they had better work it out, or circulation is going to fall off."

There are going to be a lot of foot soldiers, General Stilwell said, who "won't cheer every time they read the magazine story about how the captain aviator made off with the gal."

SENATE TIGHTENS RESTRICTIONS ON FARMER DRAFT

MAR 31945

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP) The Senate voted today to tighten restrictions against drafting farm workers into the armed forces.

It was the first concrete step, after a week of debate, toward perfecting a manpower control bill.

The amendment, offered by Senator Tydings (D-Md), was approved by a voice vote. It would require local draft boards to base agricultural deferments solely on whether the registrant is regularly engaged in essential farm work and whether a satisfactory replacement can be obtained.

The local board could not compare his essentiality as a farmer with his essentiality in any other vocation, including military service.

A few minutes later, the Senate rejected an amendment by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) which would have provided that employment ceilings for newspapers or newsgathering organizations could not be set below the number employed in any month of 1944.

The Taft amendment lost on a standing vote, which from the gallery appeared to be 15 for, 16 against.

Despite the action on the two amendments, it is clear that the Senate has not determined the general course it will follow in attempting to channel the nation's manpower where it is most needed.

There are three principal proposals:

1. The May-Bailey bill, passed by the House Feb. 1, which would tell men of 18 to 45 they have to accept war work assignments from selective service, face immediate induction, go to jail for five years or pay a $10,000 fine.

2. The Senate military committee substitute, which would give the War Manpower Commission chairman authority to set employment ceilings by areas or for individual businesses, and to regulate or prohibit the hiring of new workers.

3. A compromise put forward by Senators Revercomb (R-W. Va) and Robertson (R-Wyo), combining features of the other two bills but forbidding the establishment of ceilings lower than 50 per cent of the level prevailing at the time the bill is enacted. The sole exception would be places of amusement and entertainment.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), an advocate of the military committee substitute, criticized the May-Bailey bill in a speech today as "the last step toward complete totalitarian and authoritarian government."

"When the history of this war is written," he said, "I want to be able to say that we did not find it necessary to apply canctions against the citizens of America.

"The legislation we pass should not be geared to the failure of recalcitrants, but rather should be geared to the willingness of the great majority of the people of this country to do whatever is necessary."

Bread, Water For Balking Nazi PW's

Camp Perry, Ohio, March 2 (AP)—Some 2,200 one-time members of Hitler's Wehrmacht held at Camp Perry persisted today in a no-work protest against what they described as too strict discipline at the camp.

The men were on a bread and water diet.

Lieut. Col. E. C. McCormick, Jr., commanding officer of the prison camp, announced the prisoners refused to work on assigned task yesterday and most of them declared they would not go to work because they believed camp discipline too rigid.

Complaints that the stockade officer was too exacting in his orders also were made, McCormick reported.

Started At Hospital

The trouble started Wednesday at Crile General Hospital, near Cleveland, the Camp Perry commanding officer said, when 189 German prisoners assigned to duties around the hospital grounds refused to work. They were immediately returned to Camp Perry and placed in solitary confinement on a bread-and-water diet.

The work refusal spread to the other German prisoners yesterday. Despite a warning by camp officials that they would be fed nothing but bread and water.

Col. McCormick declared "German prisoners of war are treated in strictest compliance with the Geneva Convention" (which governs the treatment of prisoners of war) in American prison camps.

ANOTHER GROUP OF MUSTANGS JUMPED 40 GERMAN PLANES FORMING UP OVER MAGDEBURG AND SHOT DOWN 13. FOUR OF THESE FELL BEFORE THE GUNS OF LT.DUNKIN MCDUFFIE OF AIKEN, S.C.

THE BOMBING AT LINZ, 180 MILES SOUTH OF DRESDEN, BY THE ITALY-BASED AMERICAN AIR FLEET WAS DONE BY INSTRUMENTS. THE RESULTS WERE NOT OBSERVED.

SEVERAL ENEMY PLANES WERE ENGAGED BY THE MUSTAGS AND A FEW WERE REPORTED DESTROYED. THE MUSTANGS ALSO STRAFED THE REGENSBURG AND PASSAU AREAS.

THE RAF BLOW ON COLOGNE WAS THE DAY'S MOST SPECTACULAR ATTACK. BRITISH LANCASTERS AND HALIFAXES GUARDED BY MUSTANGS AND SPITFIRES UNLOADED THEIR BOMBS AT 1,000 FEET IN CLEAR WEATHER.

THE AIMING POINTS WERE WITHIN 500 YARDS OF THE DEUTZ BRIDGE AND A HALF-MILE OF THE HOHENZOLLERN BRIDGE. BOTH SPANS PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN DAMAGED BUT STILL ARE USEABLE FOR CROSSING THE RHINE.

THE PILOTS SAID GERMAN TROOPS AND ARMOR WERE KNOWN TO BE IN THE CITY IN STRENGTH AND THE PURPOSE OF THE ATTACK WAS TO CRUSH THESE CONCENTRATIONS AND BLOCK ROADS RADIATING FROM THE TWO BRIDGES WITH CRATERS AND RUBBLE.

BOMB MARKERS LAID BY PATHFINDERS WERE ACCURATELY PLACED BY THE TIME THE MAIN FORCE WHEELED OVER THE CITY. SMOKE BILLOWED 8,000 FEET HIGH AFTER WHAT ONE RAF OFFICER DESCRIBED AS "SOME OF THE BEST DAYLIGHT BOMBING I'VE EVER SEEN."

IT WAS THE 166TH RAID OF THE WAR ON COLOGNE, DURING WHICH NEARLY 50,000 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES HAVE BEEN UNLOADED ON ITS VAST INDUSTRIAL AND TRAFFIC AREA.

U.S.EIGHTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, MARCH 2-(AP)-THE GREATEST WEIGHT OF BOMBS EVER DROPPED ON GERMANY IN A SINGLE MONTH BY THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE WAS LOOSED OVER THE REICH IN FEBRUARY, HEADQUARTERS DISCLOSED TODAY.

AN OFFICIAL SUMMARY OF THE MONTH'S OPERATION SHOWED THAT LIBERATORS AND FLYING FORTRESSES FLEW 20,700 SORTIES AND DUMPED 51,500 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES AND INCENDIARIES ON GERMAN TARGETS. ONLY ONCE HAS THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE DROPPED A GREATER TONNAGE OF BOMBS -- LAST JUNE WHEN MOST OF THE TARGETS WERE IN FRANCE.

THE CONCENTRATED DESTRUCTION ACHIEVED IN FEBRUARY WAS ACCOMPLISHED AT THE LOWEST COST IN THE EIGHTH'S HISTORY. A TOTAL OF 94 BOMBERS WERE LOST -- OR LESS THAN ONE-HALF OF ONE PER CENT OF THE SORTIES FLOWN.

(A SORTIE IS A MISSION BY A SINGLE PLANE. SOME PLANES CARRY OUT SEVERAL MISSIONS A DAY. THE ACTUAL NUMBER OF AIRCRAFT PARTICIPATING IN THE FEBRUARY OPERATIONS WAS NOT DISCLOSED.)

FIGHTERS OF THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE ALSO FLEW 12,800 SORTIES WITH A LOSS OF 108 PLANES. THEY HAD A STRAFING SPREE, SHOOTING UP 1,200 LOCOMOTIVES, 4,166 RAILWAY CARS AND 882 MOTOR VEHICLES. THEY ALSO DESTROYED 275 ENEMY PLANES ON THE GROUND AND DAMAGED 154 IN ADDITION TO SHOOTING DOWN 125 IN AIR COMBAT.

HIGH LIGHTS OF THE MONTH WERE THE MASSIVE ATTACKS ON BERLIN ON FEB.3 AND 26, AND THE "BUCKSHOT BLITZ" ON RAILWAY CENTERS FEB.22-23, WHEN THE EIGHTH HIT 52 RAILWAY MARSHALLING YARDS.

DURING 13 OF THE LAST 14 DAYS, HEAVY BOMBERS DROPPED 36,000 TONS OF BOMBS -- MORE THAN THE EIGHTH DROPPED ON GERMANY DURING THE ENTIRE FIRST YEAR OF ITS OPERATIONS OVER EUROPE.

"ONE OF THE CHIEF REASONS FOR THE SUCCESS OF ARGENTINE FASCISM AND ITS CONTINUED SURVIVAL IS ANGLO-AMERICAN COMMERCIAL RIVALRY," THE MAGAZINE SAID.

THE MAGAZINE SAID GEN. EDELMIRO FARRELL, "THE GUITAR PLAYING EL CAUDILLO OF ARGENTINA," HOPED TO SUCCEED IN FOOLING THE ALLIES WHERE GENERALISSIMO FRANCO OF SPAIN HAD FAILED.

LONDON, MARCH 2-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S GOVERNMENT--ITS FOREIGN POLICY SOLIDLY SUPPORTED BY COMMONS--MOVED TODAY TOWARD WELDING THE BRITISH EMPIRE INTO A SOLID BLOC WITH A SINGLE VOICE TO MATCH RUSSIA'S SPREADING EUROPEAN INFLUENCE AND THE U.S. LEADERSHIP IN THE AMERICAS.

THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE DISCLOSED THAT A LONDON PREVIEW OF THE WORLD SECURITY LEAGUE CONFERENCE AT SAN FRANCISCO RPOBABLY WOULD BE HELD IN EARLY APRIL AND THAT IT WOULD BRING TOGETHER REPRESENTATIVES OF BRITAIN, AUSTRALIA, SOUTH AFRICA, CANADA AND NEW ZEALAND.

BEHIND THE SCENES OF THE STRICTLY-EMPIRE CONFERENCE LIES INCREASING REALIZATION OF THE ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL INTER-DEPENDENCE BETWEEN ENGLAND AND THE DOMINIONS, TOGETHER WITH THE DETERMINATION TO MAINTAIN A POSITION OF EQUALITY WITH OTHER GREAT POWERS. THERE ALSO IS CONCERN OVER BRITAIN'S VOTING ROLE IN THE NEW SECURITY LEAGUE.

SIR ARTHUR SALTERS, ONE OF BRITAIN'S OUTSTANDING ECONOMIC-GOVERNMENTAL EXPERTS, HAS MAINTAINED IN COMMONS THAT EQUAL PARTNERSHIP WITH RUSSIA AND THE UNITED STATES WOULD BE POSSIBLE ONLY THROUGH PARTICIPATION OF THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH AS A WHOLE.

SOME SECTIONS OF THE BRITISH PRESS ARE UNEASY AT THE POSSIBILITY THAT SMALL, LONG-NEUTRAL COUNTRIES WHICH ONLY RECENTLY DECLARED WAR ON THE AXIS WILL HAVE A VOTE EQUAL TO BRITAIN IN THE SECURITY LEAGUE.

PINNED TO THESE FEARS IS THE ARGUMENT IN SOME QUARTERS HERE THAT BRITAIN'S POSITION IS DIFFERENT FROM THAT OF OTHER GREAT POWERS--THAT RUSSIA WILL BE ABLE TO COUNT UPON VOTES OF BALKAN NEIGHBORS AND THAT MOST OF THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE COUNTRIES PRESUMABLY WILL STRING ALONG WITH THE UNITED STATES.

D100

IT IS ANTICIPATED HERE THAT ANY REQUEST FOR AN INDIVIDUAL VOTE FOR EACH OF THE DOMINIONS WOULD BRING A CORRESPONDING REQUEST BY RUSSIA FOR THE SOVIET REPUBLICS, WHICH WOULD LEAVE THE UNITED STATES OUTNUMBERED.

THE PROBABLE COURSE AT THE BRITISH CONFERENCE WILL BE TO OBTAIN AGREEMENT ON A SINGLE EMPIRE SPOKESMAN UNDER A PLAN WHICH WOULD GIVE FIVE BIG POWERS--BRITAIN, CHINA, FRANCE, RUSSIA AND THE UNITED STATES--DOMINATION OF THE LEAGUE'S DECISIONS.

THE PRE-SAN FRANCISCO MEETING WILL BE THE SECOND IMPERIAL CONFERENCE OF THE WAR. THE FIVE EMPIRE PRIME MINISTERS IN LONDON LAST MAY AGREED ON THE NECESSITY FOR A WORLD ORGANIZATION TO MAINTAIN PEACE AND SECURITY, WITH "POWER AND AUTHORITY TO PREVENT AGGRESSION AND VIOLENCE."

LONDON, MARCH 1-(AP)-ROMANIA SMOLDERED IN A NEW POLITICAL CRISIS TODAY AS YOUNG KING MIHAI APPOINTED PRINCE BARBU STIRBEY TO FORM A NEW GOVERNMENT REPLACING THAT OF GEN.NICOLAE RADESCU, WHO RESIGNED AFTER STREET CLASHES IN BUCHAREST AND OTHER CITIES.

THE LEFTIST NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC FRONT SUGGESTED A BROAD PROGRAM TO CLEAN OUT ALL FASCIST ELEMENTS, ENSURE ROMANIA'S INDEPENDENCE AND SECURITY, AND BRING WAR CRIMINALS TO TRIAL.

PRINCE STIRBEY, A LEADER OF THE NATIONAL PEASANT PARTY, SERVED AS PREMIER IN 1927, SHORTLY AFTER THE DEATH OF KING FERDINAND. HE BROKE THE ICE FOR NEGOTIATIONS RESULTING IN ROMANIA'S ARMISTICE WITH THE ALLIES LAST YEAR WHEN HE SLIPPED OUT OF THE COUNTRY AND ENGAGED IN SECRET TALKS IN CAIRO.

LATER HE HEADED THE ROMANIAN DELEGATION WHICH WENT TO MOSCOW AND NEGOTIATED AN ARMISTICE WITH RUSSIA AFTER KING MIHAI THREW OUT THE PRO-AXIS GOVERNMENT.

ROMANIAN

LONDON, March 2-(AP)-Diplomatic circles in London took a gloomy view of the situation inR Romania today as Prince Barbu Stirbey struggled with the problem of forming a new government to replace that of Gen. Nicholae Radescu.

Advices from Bucharest described the situation as chaotic and there seemed to be a general feeling here that prospects were remote for establishment of a regime capable of dealing with the current crisis.

Prince Stirbey, who was commissioned by King Mihai to form a new government, is a leader of the National Peasant Party and served as premier in 1927 shortly after the death of King Ferdinand. He broke the ice for negotiations resulting in Romania's armistice with the Allies when he slipped out of Romania last year and engaged in secret talks in Egypt.

Later he headed the Romanian armistice delegation which went to Moscow after King Mihai ousted the pro-Axis government.

THE TENTH ARMORED AND 94TH INFANTRY DIVISIONS, WHICH TOOK TRIER, WERE GRINDING TO BITS A POCKET OF GERMANS CAUGHT SOUTHWEST OF THE OLD FORTRESS. AMONG THE TOWNS CAPTURED WAS KONZ, ONE OF THE FORT TOWNS GUARDING THE SOUTHERN APPROACHES TO THE CITY.

PRISONERS TOLD THEIR CAPTORS THAT THE TRIER AIRFIELD AND SOME OF THE STREETS OF THE CITY ITSELF WERE HEAVILY MINED.

OTHER ELEMENTS OF THE THIRD ARMY WERE MOVING UP BOTH NORTH AND SOUTH OF TRIER, WHICH IS 60 AIRLINE MILES FROM COBLENZ ON THE RHINE.

A FIELD DISPATCH SAID SIX LARGE FIRES BLAZED IN TRIER, BUT THE NORTHERN PART OF THE HISTORIC CITY HAD ESCAPED SEVERE DAMAGE.

A10 Add Paris W Front (Bealmear) xx to Cologne.

THE AMERICANS SPEARED THROUGH TRIER SO SWIFTLY THAT THE GERMANS DID NOT HAVE TIME TO TOUCH OFF THE DYNAMITE TO THE SOUTH BRIDGE. THEY MANAGED TO BLOW ONLY ONE SPAN FROM THE NORTH BRIDGE.

FIERCE FIGHTING ERUPTED AROUND MOEDRATH, BRIDGEHEAD TOWN ON THE COLOGNE-DUEREN HIGHWAY, WHERE THE GERMANS COUNTERATTACKED.

SEVEN MILES TO THE NORTH, TANKS FOUGHT INTO NEIDERAUSSEM IN AN ADVANCE OF NEARLY TWO MILES, AND FOUR MILES FARTHER ON THE AMERICANS WERE FIGHTING INSIDE BUCKHOLZ.

STRIKING OUT SOUTHEASTWARD, THE FIRST ARMY REGISTERED OVERNIGHT GAINS OF THREE AND A HALF MILES, CAPTURING ERP, 15 MILES FROM BONN ON THE RHINE.

THE STRATEGIC ROAD CENTER OF ZULPICH WEST OF BONN WAS ALL BUT ENCIRCLED WITH SOME AMERICAN FORCES A MILE AWAY.

EIGHT MILES SOUTHWEST OF ZULPICH, THE AMERICANS WERE ROLLING UP THE LAST VESTIGES OF A ROER RIVER LINE ON THE FIRST ARMY FRONT.

THEY CAPTURED HEIMBACH, WHICH IS JUST EAST OF SCHWAMMENAUEL

RESERVOIR ACROSS THE ROER RIVER. OTHER FORCES CROSSED THE NEARLY-DRAINED RESERVOIR FROM THE WEST.

FOUR MILES FARTHER SOUTH WAS GEMUEND, IN THE EASTERN FRINGE OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE, WHERE THE FIRST ARMY WAS HELD UP LAST MONTH AFTER IT HAD TAKEN CONTROL OF THE ROER DAMS, WHICH PAVED THE WAY FOR THE CURRENT OFFENSIVE.

THE GERMAN AIR FORCE BOMBED AND STRAFED THE FIRST ARMY POSITIONS, AND 26 OF THE ATTACKERS WERE SHOT DOWN.

THE ALLIED AIR FORCES SWARMED OUT TODAY, STRIKING AT CONVOYS FLEEING FOR THE RHINE, AND TRYING TO KNOCK OUT THE BRIDGES TO TRAP AND DESTROY AS MANY OF THE ENEMY AS POSSIBLE.

SHORTLY AFTER HE CROSSED THE TURBULENT ROER RIVER A NAZI JET-PROPELLED PLANE RACED OVER HIS FOUR JEEP CONVOY AND STRAFED A DIVISION COMMAND POST WHICH THE GENERAL REACHED A FEW MINUTES LATER. SQUADRONS OF THUNDERBOLTS QUICKLY DROVE OFF THE PLANE, THEN WENT ON TO BOMB AND STRAFE A CONCENTRATION OF ENEMY TANKS ON THE SHORES OF THE ERFT CANAL NEARBY. Had With the Supreme Commander East of the Roer (Grod) xx aides.

THE SUPREME COMMANDER AND HIS BRITISH MILITARY ASSISTANT COL. JAMES F. GAULT NARROWLY ESCAPED POSSIBLE INJURY WHEN THE AIRSTRIP FROM WHICH THEY LEFT FOR THEIR HEADQUARTERS WAS SHELLED A SECOND LATER. WHIZZING PAST SCENES REMINISCENT OF HIS NORMANDY CAMPAIGN LAST SUMMER, GEN. EISENHOWER SWEPT THROUGH SHELL-SHATTERED GERMAN TOWNS AND VILLAGES WHICH HIS FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES HAD CAPTURED DURING THE LAST SEVEN DAYS. HE GAVE EVERY INDICATION THAT HE WAS PLEASED WITH WHAT HE SAW. DURING THE GRUELLING INSPECTION HE VISITED THE 29TH AND 83RD INFANTRY AND SECOND ARMORED DIVISIONS AND 19TH CORPS.

MAR 3 1945

THIS WAS THE GERMAN FORTRESS WHICH THE 29TH DIVISION CAPTURED LESS THAN A WEEK AGO. JUELICH WILL BE SOMETHING FOR THE GERMANS TO THINK ABOUT IN THE FUTURE, HE QUIETLY TOLD GEN. SIMPSON.

THE SUPREME COMMANDER SHAVED 20 MINUTES OFF HIS SEVEN-HOUR SCHEDULE TO PIN SILVER STARS ON THE BREASTS OF TWO 19TH CORPS OFFICERS.

COL. HUBERT S. MILLER OF UPLAND, CALIF., PLANNED THE ENTIRE ENGINEERING OPERATION IN THE CROSSING OF THE ROER AND THE ASSAULT OF JUELICH.

UNDER DIRECT FIRE FROM GERMAN SMALL ARMS MORTARS AND ARTILLERY MILLER SUPERVISED THE CONSTRUCTION OF 13 BRIDGES. ENEMY FIRE DESTROYED MOST OF THEM BUT THEY WERE HASTILY REPAIRED AND THROWN ACROSS THE RIVER.

LT. COL. PAUL S. BELL OF OKLAHOMA CITY COORDINATED AND SUPERVISED THE FIRING OF HIS TANK DESTROYER UNITS ON GERMAN STRONG POINTS NEAR JUELICH. CREDITED WITH "SMOTHERING ENEMY DIRECT FIRE ON THE ROER CROSSINGS" BELL ENTERED THE CITY UNDER INTENSE SHELLING AND FOUND PLACES FOR HIS GUNS WHICH COVERED FURTHER 19TH CORPS ADVANCES.

ALTHOUGH THIS TRIP WAS NOT MUCH DIFFERENT IN LENGTH OR THE NUMBERS OF PLACES VISITED FROM OTHERS HE HAS MADE, THE SUPREME COMMANDER SEEMED TO ENJOY IT MORE THAN THOSE IN THE PAST FEW MONTHS. HE LOOKED FIT AND CONFIDENT.

HIS APPEARANCE AT DIVISIONS AND CORPS HEADQUARTERS BROUGHT A LIFT IN THE SPIRITS OF THE EXHAUSTED MUD-GRIMED MEN. THEY DID NOT SHOW ANY VISIBLE NERVOUSNESS OR FUMBLING. BUT PFC DONALD DIESCHEN OF TERRE HAUTE, IND., WAS PERHAPS THE MOST SURPRISED GI THE SUPREME COMMANDER SAW.

DIESCHEN, GUARDING THE ENTRANCE TO 19TH CORPS, CAME TO A SNAPPY PORT ARMS WHEN BRIG. GEN. H.E. MCGUIRE, THE CORPS CHIEF OF STAFF, WALKED TO THE DOOR. THEN CAME GENS. EISENHOWER, SIMPSON, MAJ. GENS. RAYMOND S. MCCLAIN, CORPS COMMANDER, AND LELAND S. JOBBS, COMMANDING THE 30TH DIVISION.

AFTER THESE STARS HAD SALUTED HIM THE MP WEARILY PUT HIS RIFLE DOWN AND SIGHED "MY GOSH THE WHOLE MILKY WAY."

NEUSS--THIRD ADD BRIDGES BATTLE (BY BOYLE) X X X THE RHINE.

THOSE DOUGHBOYS A FEW HOURS BEFORE HAD GIVEN EVEN A FINER EVIDENCE OF BRAVERY.

LED BY TWO LIEUTENANTS, WILLIAM C.SHAW, JR., 24, HUTCHINSON, KANS., AND WILLIAM GMARKS, JR., MUSKOGEE, OKLA., SOME 350 TROOPS STOOD UP IN A "MARCHING FIRE" ATTACK AND DROVE FORWARD ACROSS 1,000 YARDS OF ABSOLUTELY OPEN GROUND TO CAPTURE A FULLY-MANNED SERIES OF GERMAN TRENCHES.

THEIR BLANKET OF RIFLE AND MACHINEGUN FIRE KEPT THE NAZIS' NOSES DOWN FOR A HEART-BREAKING QUARTER-HOUR WALK ACROSS THIS UNPROTECTED TERRAIN. THEY FLUSHED OUT 269 PRISONERS FROM THE FRESHLY-DUG EARTH TRENCHES.

"AND THEY DIDN'T LOSE A SINGLE MAN," SAID THEIR REGIMENTAL COMMANDER, LITTLE COL.EDWIN B.CRABILL, GALAX, VA., WHO WAS A HERO IN THE CAPTURE OF ST.MALO IN BRITTANY AND THE SURRENDER OF THE LAST 20,000 GERMANS BELOW ORLEANS SOUTH OF THE RIVER LOIRE IN FRANCE.

DURING THE DAY THIS ONE REGIMENT TOOK 400 PRISONERS FROM "SUICIDE" TROOPS ASSIGNED TO DEFEND THE NEUSS-DUESSELDORF BRIDGE SITES WITH THEIR BLOOD AND LIVES. OTHER DISORGANIZED GERMAN UNITS PULLED NORTH TO TRY TO ESCAPE ACROSS THE RHINE NEAR KREFELD, CAPITAL OF GERMAN SILK MANUFACTURE, WHICH ALSO FELL DURING THE DAY TO ANOTHER NINTH ARMY DIVISION, THE 102ND INFANTRY.

AS DUSK FELL OVER TO NEUSS FLATLANDS AMERICAN MEDIUM TANKS MOVED UP TO SUPPORT THE WEARY DOUGHBOYS WHO ALL DAY HAD BEEN SUBJECTED TO INTENSE FIRE FROM THE GERMAN ACK-ACK GUNS DIRECTED AGAINST GROUND TARGETS.

SPANKING ECHOES CLIMBED SHARPLY TO THIS OBSERVATION POST AS THE TANKS BEGAN SENDING SHELL AFTER SHELL INTO HOUSES AND BUILDINGS SUSPECTED OF HARBORING THE CAMOUFLAGED NAZI GUNS. ONE STRUCTURE WENT UP IN A BURST OF FLAME. OTHERS CRUMBLED QUICKLY AFTER A SHELL SLUGGED THEM WITH AN ORANGE IMPACT.

GERMAN OFFICERS IN DUESSELDORF, AIDED BY PERFECT OBSERVATION FROM POSTS THERE, REPLIED WITH ANOTHER SUSTAINED ARTILLERY BARRAGE. THE AMERICAN TANKS HALTED BRIEFLY THEN BEGAN PLUGGING AWAY AGAIN SEEKING TO WIPE OUT THE LAST GERMAN DEFENDER ON THIS SIDE OF THE RHINE BEFORE NIGHT FELL.

THE "BATTLE OF THE BRIDGES" WAS STILL UNDERWAY SHORTLY BEFORE 6P.M., WHEN CY PETERMAN OF THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER AND I LEFT BY JEEP FOR A THREE-HOUR JOURNEY BACK TO THE BASE PRESS CAMP TO WRITE AND FILE OUR STORIES.

THERE HAS BEEN NOTHING LIKE THIS FIGHT ACROSS THE ROLLING WATERS OF THE RHINE SINCE THE ALLIES AND GERMANS CLASHED ACROSS THE THREE-MILE-WIDE STRAITS BETWEEN MESSINA AND ITALY AFTER THE FALL OF SICILY IN AUGUST, 1943. AND THE STAKE HERE IS MUCH GREATER--IT COULD MEAN A QUICK END TO THE WAR.

BEFORE THE BATTLE DEVELOPED A NUMBER OF RETREATING GERMAN U STREAMED IN CHAOTIC FLIGHT ACROSS THE RHINE.

"THEY TRIED TO DELAY US WITH AIRBURSTS FROM FLAK GUNS," SAID COL.CHARLES M.PACK, LIVE OAK, FLA., WHOSE WIFE LIVES AT 1215 WASHINGTON ST., FT. WORTH, TEX.

THE CENTRAL PART OF NEUSS WAS CLEARED BY A REGIMENT LED BY COL. ROBERT T.FOSTER, ANNISTON, ALA. RESISTANCE WAS LIGHT AND CHIEFLY CAME FROM ENEMY SMALL ARMS FIRE AND A FEW SNIPERS. FIRST REPORTS INDICATED THAT THE CITY WAS ABOUT 75 PER CENT POPULATED, MOST OF ITS CITIZENS HAVING REFUSED T TRY A MASS MIGRATION TO THE HEART OF THE REICH.

TRIER, MARCH 2-(AP)-TRIER, GERMANY'S OLDEST COMMUNITY, WAS A DEAD CITY, ABANDONED BY MOST OF ITS 88,000 PEACETIME INHABITANTS, WHEN IT FELL TO THE U.S. THIRD ARMY TODAY.

TRIER IS BADLY SCARRED FROM AERIAL BOMBARDMENT, BUT THE FAMOUS PORTA NIGRA STRUCTURE, BUILT BY THE ROMANS IN THE THIRD CENTURY, HARDLY WAS TOUCHED, AND THE CATHEDRAL, DATING BACK TO THE FOURTH CENTURY, WAS DAMAGED ONLY TO A REPAIRABLE EXTENT AT ONE END.

THE SOUTHERN PART OF TRIER IS THE MOST SEVERELY DAMAGED. THE SECTION NORTH OF THE PORTA NIGRA (THE BLACK GATE) IS IN RELATIVELY GOOD CONDITION. SIX LARGE FIRES AND SEVERAL SMALL ONES ARE BURNING IN SCATTERED AREAS TONIGHT, BUT ALL ARE UNDER CONTROL.

AMERICAN TROOPS ENTERED THE NARROW, CROOKED STREETS IN THE ANCIENT QUARTER OF THE CITY EARLIER TODAY. THE FIRST WERE MEMBERS OF A TASK FORCE LED BY LT.COL.JACK RICHARDSON OF ATHENS, TEX., AND THEY SEIZED INTACT THE SOUTH BRIDGE OVER THE MOSELLE. THIS ENABLED TANKS TO ROLL ACROSS AND ESTABLISH A BRIDGEHEAD ON THE WESTERN BANK.

"WE ACTED WITH SUCH SPEED THE GERMANS DID NOT HAVE A CHANCE TO BLOW UP THE SOUTH BRIDGE, ALTHOUGH IT WAS PREPARED FOR DEMOLITION," RICHARDSON SAID. "THE ENGINEERS SAID THERE WAS ENOUGH DYNAMITE PLANTED IN THE BRIDGE TO BLOW UP THE WHOLE CITY."

RICHARDSON'S TANKS DROVE TO THE EASTERN APPROACHES OF THE BRIDGE, FIRING AT THE GERMANS ON THE WESTERN SIDE, WHILE OTHER TANKS, FOLLOWED BY INFANTRY, SPED ACROSS THE SPAN.

MAR 31945

AS THE FIRST TANK REACHED THE WESTERN END A GERMAN WHO APPARENTLY WAS ASSIGNED TO SET OFF THE CHARGE SPRINTED AWAY. HOWEVER, THE GERMANS DID SUCCEED IN BLOWING UP THE CENTER SPAN OF THE NORTH BRIDGE.

BESIDES THE TURRETED PORTA NIGRA, TRIER HAS A LARGE AMPHITHEATER, THE PICTURESQUE RUINS OF A ROMAN PALACE AND REMAINS OF ANCIENT ROMAN BATHS.

B138

TRIER WAS FOUNDED IN 14 B.C., BY THE EMPEROR AUGUSTUS. UNDER THE ROMANS IT WAS KNOWN AS AUGUSTA TREVIRORUM. UNDER THE FRENCH EMPIRE IT WAS CALLED TREVES.

PICTURESQUELY LOCATED ON THE MOSELLE, THIS RHENISH PRUSSIAN CITY HAS FIGURED LARGELY IN EARLY CHURCH HISTORY. ARCHBISHOPS IN TREVES ROSE TO THE POSITION OF PRINCES AND WERE INFLUENTIAL IN THE AFFAIRS OF THE HOLY ROMAN EMPIRE.

IN MODERN TIMES THE CITY BECAME AN INDUSTRIAL CENTER, NOTED FOR TANNING, DYEING AND IRON FOUNDRIES.

AMONG THE FIRST AMERICAN TANK MEN TO ENTER THE CITY WAS CAPT. STEVE LANG, 514 WEST 117TH ST., CHICAGO. HE SAID THE GERMANS RESISTED FIERCELY IN THE OUTSKIRTS BUT FLED AS SOON AS THE TENTH ARMORED DIVISION, COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.WILLIAM H.H.MORRIS, JR., OF WASHINGTON, D.C., AND OCEAN GROVE, N.JAMN BROKE INTO THE CITY PROPER.

SO MANY PRISONERS WERE TAKEN THEY COULD NOT BE COUNTED IMMEDIATELY. THEY NUMBERED IN THE HUNDREDS. COLUMN AFTER COLUMN OF BEDRAGGLED CAPTIVES MARCHED THROUGH THE STREETS IN THE AFTERNOON.

WE ENTERED TRIER WITH "TASK FORCE NORRIS," COMMANDED BY LT.COL. NED NORRIS OF BLOOMFIELD, N.J.

WE EXPECTED RESISTANCE, ALTHOUGH OTHER TANKS AND INFANTRYMEN HAD BEEN IN THE CITY FOR SEVERAL HOURS. BUT THERE WAS NO RESISTANCE.

IN THE DISTANCE THERE WAS A SOUND OF SNIPER FIRE. WE COULD SEE SHELLS LANDING ON TOP OF A HILL ACROSS THE MOSELLE. BUT THAT WAS ALL.

PFCS.CLYDE MAYE, DREXEL, N.C., AND JOHN LOWE, ROYERSFORD, PA., WERE IN THE VEHICLE AHEAD OF US. ONE SAID: "IT'S TOO DAMNED QUIET HERE FOR US. SOMETHING LIKE THE CALM BEFORE THE STORM."

WHITE FLAGS WERE HANGING FROM MANY WINDOWS BUT NO CIVILIANS WERE IN SIGHT. AT THE VIADUCT OVER THE RAILROAD LEADING TO THE MAIN PART OF THE CITY THREE AMERICANS--SGT.LEM CRUTCHFIELD OF FRANKFORT, IND.; PVTS.FLOYD DUST OF HARVEY, ILL., AND FRED HOFFMAN OF REECE, KANS.--STOOD GUARD. NEARBY WAS A BURNED OUT AMERICAN HALFTRACK WITH A DEAD SOLDIER IN THE CHARRED WRECKAGE.

"WHERE IS EVERYONE?" WE ASKED.

MAR 31945

"THEY TOOK OFF I GUESS," SAID CRUTCHFIELD. "SOME MAY BE IN THE CELLARS BUT SURELY THERE ARE NOT 90,000 IN THE CELLARS."

"IT WAS PLENTY ROUGH HERE FOR AWHILE, BUT THE BASTARDS GIVE UP AWFUL EASY WHEN WE GET CLOSE TO THEM," SAID SGT.RAY KING OF WEST FRANKFORT, ILL.

NORRIS SAID PERSONNEL CASUALTIES WERE "SURPRISINGLY LOW" BUT THAT WE HAD LOST SEVERAL VEHICLES DUE TO THE MURDEROUS FIRE FROM GERMAN 88 MM. GUNS WHICH HAD RINGED THE OUTSKIRTS OF THE CITY.

MOST OF THE 88'S WERE KNOCKED OUT WHILE THE GERMANS WERE KILLED OR DRIVEN FROM OTHERS WHICH WERE SEIZED.

CAPT.MEARL MCCULBIN OF FORT SMITH, ARK., SAID WHEN THE FIRST TANKS ROLLED INTO THE VICINITY OF TRIER, THE GERMANS JUMPED OUT OF SOME PILLBOXES AND TRIED TO SURRENDER BUT THE TANKERS TOLD THEM TO GO BACK IN THEIR HOLES AND STAY THERE UNTIL SOMEONE WHO HAD TIME TO FOOL WITH THEM CAME ALONG.

AN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT OF CLEMENCY FOR THE MAJORITY OF THE CONVICTED OFFENDERS SAID THEY WOULD SERVE UNDER SUSPENDED SENTENCES IN A SPECIAL COMBAT COMPANY SCHEDULED TO BEGIN TRAINING MARCH 7.

TWENTY-SEVEN OTHER RAILWAY BATTALION SOLDIERS WHO WERE CONVICTED HAVE BEEN DENIED CLEMENCY AND 14 OTHERS "HAVE ELECTED TO SERVE THEIR SENTENCES" RATHER THAN JOIN THE FIGHTING UNIT.

THE CLEMENCY ORDER WAS ISSUED BY GEN. EISENHOWER. AT THE SAME TIME BRIG. GEN. PLEAS B.ROGERS, COMMANDER OF THE SEINE SECTION, IN A LETTER ADDRESSED TO EACH MAN GIVEN CLEMENCY STRESSED THAT IT'S UP TO HIM TO DEMONSTRATE THAT THE ACTION WAS JUSTIFIED.

SCATHINGLY ROGERS RECALLED THAT SUPPLY TRAINS ENROUTE TO THE FRONT WERE "RAVAGED AS THOUGH THEY HAD BEEN IN THE HANDS OF BANDITS RATHER THAN IN THE CARE OF LOYAL SOLDIERS." IT HAS BEEN SUGGESTED THAT THE AREA BE A ZONE OF OCCUPATION FOR FRENCH TROOPS.

COMMENTING ON REPORTS FROM LONDON THAT THE BIG THREE HAD AGREED ON THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A SEPARATE RHINELAND NATION, AN OFFICIAL SAID FRANCE HAD NO KNOWLEDGE OF SUCH A PROPOSAL.

THE NEWSPAPER LES NOUVELLES ASSERTED THAT THE REGION WOULD HAVE TO UNDERGO MILITARY OCCUPATION OF LONG DURATION "UNDER STRICT INTERNATIONAL CONTROL, PREDOMINATELY FRENCH," UNTIL THE PEACEFUL DISPOSITION OF THE POPULATION HAS BEEN PROVED.

WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARM ON THE ERFT RIVER, MARCH 2-(AP)-THE HASTY, UNPLANNED CHARACTER OF THE GERMAN RETREAT TOWARD THE RHINE FROM THE EAST BANKS OF THE ERFT RIVER WAS EMPHASIZED TODAY BY THE CONDITION OF A FURNISHED CHATEAU CAPTURED INTACT.

IT ALSO ILLUSTRATED HOW LUXURIOUSLY SOME OF THE PEOPLE IN THESE PARTS HAVE BEEN LIVING WHILE LESS IMPORTANT TOWNSMEN JUST EXISTED.

THE CHATEAU WAS IN THE TOWN OF HORREM ON THE ERFT. IT WAS COPIOUSLY STOCKED WITH FANCY FOOD, FINE WINE, PARIS PERFUMES, SILVER, CRYSTAL AND CHINA. THERE WERE AUTOMOBILES AND HORSES.

THE CHAUTEAU OBVIOUSLY HAD BEEN LIVED IN UNTIL THE AMERICANS WERE WITHIN GUNSHOT, WHEN TIME SUDDENLY RAN OUT AND EVERYTHING HAD TO BE LEFT BEHIND.

SUCH LUXURY MEANT THAT THE OWNER LIVED IN CLOSE CAHOOTS WITH THE NAZIS, AND SO IF THEY HAD MADE A PLANNED WITHDRAWAL HE WOULD HAVE HAD TIME TO PACK HIS FINERY AND HIS PAINTINGS.

HE WAS A BIG ONE, AND HE WENT EAST. LOTS OF GERMAN LITTLE ONES HAVE BEEN COMING WEST, INTO AMERICAN LINES BEFORE ARTILLERYMEN BLEW THEIR LITTLE BRICK HOUSES TO PIECES.

A HUNDRED AND FIFTY OF THEM STREAMED WEST FROM NEARBY NEIDERAUSSEM TODAY AND JUST AS THEY GOT WELL WITHIN THE AMERICAN LINES THEY WERE PLASTED BY A SALVO OF GERMAN ARTILLERY.

GERMAN SOLDIERS ARE WALKING WEST TOO. PFC BARRY LABOW, 1184 SOUTH HAYWORTH, LOS ANGELES, HAULED 20 OF THEM TO THE REAR ON HIS COMMAND CAR.

ON A SUNNY RIDGE OVERLOOKING NIEDERAUSSEM THIS AFTERNOON I WATCHED THE LAST PART OF THE BATTLE FOR THE TOWN. A FEW GERMAN TANKS HELD UP AMERICAN FORCES TEMPORARILY AND FIGHTERBOMBERS WERE CALLED IN.

THE PLANES DIVED WITH THEIR FAMILIAR, LONG-LASTING WHINE AND THEIR BOMBS MADE BIG MUSHROOMS OF SMOKE.

CAPT. SETH WORTHING, PROSPECTVILLE, PA., WAS IN DIRECT COMMAND OF THIS ASSAULT. HE REPORTED THAT IN A FEW MINUTES THE GERMAN TANKS WERE DISPOSED OF. TWO OTHERS WORKING WITH HIM WERE CAPT. FRED R. WYRSCH, SPRINGFIELD, MO., AND LT. JOHN J. O'NEILL, 2655 CEDAR ST., PHILADELPHIA.

THE GERMANS KNOCKED OUT ONE AMERICAN TANK JUST AHEAD OF US, AND ITS AMMUNITION WAS GOING OFF IN SMOKE AND FLAMES.

TWO ANTITANK MEN IN FOXHOLES ON THE RIDGE DID NOT SEEM MUCH IMPRESSED BY THE BATTLE SPECTACLE.

"THERE'S NOT MUCH GOING ON," SAID PFC LAWRENCE WATKINS, 154 WALNUT ST., WARREN, OHIO. "WE'VE GOT MORE AMMUNITION THAN WE'LL EVER SHOOT."

WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, MARCH 1-(DELAYED)-(AP)-GERMAN CIVILIANS, WHO NOW ARE BEING ENCOUNTERED IN GREATER AND GREATER NUMBERS BY OUR TROOPS, SEEM DOCILE AND SUBMISSIVE ENOUGH--BUT THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS DON'T LIKE THEM.

THEY ARE TOO MUCH TROUBLE. THEY HAVE TO BE FED, WATCHED AND KEPT OUT OF THE WAY--AND THAT IS A BIG EXTRA LOAD WHEN AN ARMY IS MOVING AS FAST AS THIS ONE IS.

THESE CIVILIANS SEEM POSITIVE THE AMERICANS WON'T HURT THEM. THEY DON'T ACT AFRAID AT ALL AS THEY GANG UP FOR FOOD IN THE DULL LITTLE TOWNS WHICH OUR FORCES HAVE SO QUICKLY TAKEN.

SOME EVEN HAVE THE NERVE TO ASK FOR CHOCOLATE AND CIGARETTES. BUT, AS FAR AS COULD BE SEEN OFFHAND, THEY WEREN'T GETTING ANY.

TWO HOURS AFTER THE MEN OF THE 104TH INFNTRY DIVISION FOUGHT INTO INCHENDORF, ENCOUNTERING LITTLE MORE THAN STRAGGLERS AND SNIPERS THE GERMANS PLASTERED THE TOWN WITH A HEAVY ARTILLERY BARRAGE. AN OLD MAN WHO SPOKE ENGLISH BERATED HITLER REPEATEDLY FOR "SHELLING HIS OWN TOWN."

THIS BATTLE FOR THE RHINELAND SLOWED UP SOME TODAY BUT IT IS STILL GOING SO FAST AND IN SO MANY DIRECTIONS IT IS HARD TO FOLLOW.

THE ERFT RIVER PROVED TO BE MUCH EASIER TO CROSS THAN THE LITTLE ROER. MOVING WITH FINE MOMENTUM OUR TROOPS ALMOST VAULTED THE ERFT.

A BRIDGEHEAD WAS ESTABLISHED ON THE EAST BANK BEFORE THE GERMANS COULD ORGANIZE A REAL DEFENSE. FOOTSOLDIERS IN THE BATTALION COMMANDED BY MAJ. FRANCIS L. JENKINS, 33 BEVERLY RD., WINDERMERE, CHARLESTON, S.C., WADED ACROSS EARLY YESTERDAY UNDER FIRE AND QUICKLY ESTABLISHED A SEMI-CIRCLE OF ABOUT 1,200 YARDS. TWO OF HIS COMPANY COMMANDERS WERE CAPT. GEORGE GARDNER, TULARE, CALIF., AND CAPT. SETH WORTHINGTON, PROSPECTVILLE, PA.

ENGINEERS OF THE PLATOON COMMANDED BY LT. LLOYD N. SMITH, 1819 NORTH BILLEN ST., OKLAHOMA CITY, THREW A BRIDGE ACROSS THE RIVER AND ANOTHER ACROSS THE CANAL--(COMPLETING THE JOB IN 5 1/2 HOURS UNDER HEAVY ARTILLERY FIRE.

CAPT. HUNT MAXWELL, FORMER MEMBER OF THE GEORGIA LEGISLATURE, WAS AMONG THOSE WHO FOUGHT CONSPICUOUSLY AT THE BRIDGEHEAD.

KLEINBLITTERSDORF, GERMANY, MARCH 1-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THIS LITTLE CITY ON THE EAST BANK OF THE SAAR RIVER IS PROVING A TEST TUBE FOR AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY MILITARY GOVERNMENT OFFICERS WHOSE LEGAL YARDSTICK IS A SET OF RULES DRAFTED FOR MUCH LARGER PLACES.

AS THE 63RD (BLOOD AND FIRE) DIVISION EXTENDS ITS HOLD ON GERMAN TERRITORY IN THE SAAR-BLIES RIVERS LOOP, A MILITARY GOVERNMENT TEAM HEADED BY MAJ. HALKEY ROSS OF 83 PEACE ST., PROVIDENCE, R.I., MOVED IN ON THE HEELS OF THE 253RD REGIMENT TO CONTROL THE 130 CITIZENS LEFT IN KLEINBLITTERSDORF, WHICH NORMALLY HAS A POPULATION OF 3,100 PEOPLE.

A SIZABLE FLOUR MILL WAS THE CITY'S CHIEF INDUSTRY.

THE RESIDENTS WHO REMAINED BEHIND--THE OLDEST 87, THE YOUNGEST 11 MONTHS--WERE LIVING IN CELLARS WHEN THE DOUGHBOYS MOPPED UP THE TOWN A WEEK AGO.

EVERY PERSON IN THE 15-20 YEAR OLD AGE GROUP WAS GONE. THE GERMANS ALSO HAD ORDERED EVERY MAN IN THE CITY TO MOVE BACK INTO GERMANY, BUT 29 REMAINED.

IN A FOUR-MILE THRUST UP THROUGH THE LOOP FROM SARREGUEMINES, OUR TROOPS FOUND HANWEILER, RILSCHINGE AND AUERSMACHER EMPTIED OF CIVILIANS. ABOUT 50 AUERSMACHER CITIZENS WERE DISCOVERED IN NEARBY QUARRY SHELTERS, WHERE THEY HAVE BEEN PERMITTED TO STAY.

THUS KLEINBLITTERSDORF FURNISHED THE FIRST PROVING GROUND FOR ROSS AND HIS MEN. AMONG THOSE AIDING ROSS ARE CAPT. CORNELIUS KOOPMAN OF 944 PARK AVE., ELIZABETH, N.J., WHO FORMERLY WAS IN THE OIL CONSTRUCTION BUSINESS; AND LT. AUGUST NEBERLE OF 3115 EAST GENESEE ST., SAGINAW, MICH., WHO RESIGNED AS SAGINAW COUNTY PROSECUTOR TO ENTER THE ARMY. ROSS FORMERLY WAS A CHEMICAL ENGINEER.

"OUR JOB IS NOT TOO COMPLEX," ROSS SAID. "WE HAVE TO GET IN THERE TO GET THE CIVILIANS TO STAY OUT OF THE WAY OF OUR TROOPS AND SEE THAT THEY HAVE ENOUGH FOOD TO LIVE SO THAT THEY WON'T BE A MILITARY MENACE."

MAR 31945

"SO FAR THEY HAVE REACTED ALL RIGHT. THIS IS FARMING COUNTRY AND THEY HAVE PLENTY OF FOOD IN THE CELLARS. THE PEOPLE WHO STAYED BEHIND FIGURE THE WAR IS OVER FOR THEM AND ARE ANXIOUS TO COOPERATE.

"THE RULES REALLY WERE DRAWN FOR GOVERNING MASSES OF PEOPLE IN LARGER TOWNS AND CITIES AND SO FAR WE HAVEN'T HAD A CHANCE TO DETERMINE WHETHER THEY'LL WORK."

NEBERLE SAID THAT AFTER THE ACTING MAYOR ON ARMY ORDERS OBTAINED A ROSTER OF EVERY PERSON IN TOWN THREE GERMAN SOLDIERS IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES SURRENDERED. AT THE SAME TIME, A 39-YEAR-OLD WOMAN AND HER 16-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER WERE ARRESTED, CHARGED WITH AIDING ENEMY SOLDIERS, AND NOW ARE AWAITING MILITARY COURT TRIAL. (THIRTY-SEVEN WORDS CENSORED). A 17-YEAR-OLD HITLER YOUTH WAS ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF HIDING GUNS AND OTHER MILITARY EQUIPMENT. HE WILL BE TRIED BY A MILITARY COURT.

ROSS AND THE MEN ON HIS TEAM ARE TOUGH MINDED. THEY HAVE TO BE. BUT THE NIGHT OF FEB.12 WHEN FRAUENBERG WAS EVACUATED OF CIVILIANS IN A HURRY UNDER MACHINEGUNE FIRE A DOZEN FRENCH CIVILIANS GAVE HIM CREDIT FOR BEING TOUGHER THAN HE REALLY IS.

THEY HUDDLED BEHIND HIM AND USED HIM AS A SHIELD WHEN THE GERMANS OPENED UP WITH A BARRAGE. HE WAS TOUGH ENOUGH. NOBODY WAS HURT.

MK350AEW

WITH THE U.S. NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, MARCH 2-(AP)-ONCE KNOWN AS THE AMERICAN ARMY'S "SHOW HORSE", THE EIGHTH ARMORED DIVISION NOW IS IN ITS FIRST MAJOR ACTION, SWEEPING FORWARD ON THE LEFT FLANK OF THE U.S. NINTH ARMY.

THE DIVISION, WEAVING IN AND OUT OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE DEFENSES LIKE A HALFBACK FOR FIVE MILES, CAPTURED LOBBERICH, SEVEN MILES SOUTHEAST OF THE MAAS STRONGPOINT OF VENLO.

THE EIGHTH CAME TO THE NINTH ARMY FROM THE U.S. THIRD ARMY, WHERE IT PARTICIPATED WITH THE 94TH INFANTRY DIVISION IN THE PRELIMINARY ATTACK AGAINST THE SAAR-MOSELLE SALIENT.

RUSHED SECRETLY TO THE NINTH ARMY, THE EIGHTH MADE A DIVERSIONARY ATTACK AGAINST THE ROERMOND AREA IN SUPPORT OF THE JUMP-OFF AGAINST THE ROER RIVER LINE, THEN MOVED SOUTH ACROSS THE ROER ITSELF AND SWEPT INSIDE AND THROUGH THE SIEGFRIED DEFENSES EAST OF VENLO AND ROERMOND.

ACTIVATED APRIL 1, 1942, THE EIGHTH ARMORED BECAME A TRAINING DIVISION AT FORT KNOX, KY. IT TRAINED MORE THAN 50,000 OFFICERS AND MEN, WHO WERE SIPHONED OFF TO FILL GAPS IN EIGHT OTHER ARMORED DIVISIONS.

BY DON WHITEHEAD

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY, MARCH 2-(AP)-"THE END CANNOT BE LONG NOW--FOR GERMANY IS A MADHOUSE."

THIS IS THE BELIEF OF A GERMAN PRISONER OF WAR WHO TRAVELLED RECENTLY ACROSS GERMANY FROM THE EAST AND SAW CONDITIONS WHICH, HE SAID, WERE BORDERING ON PANIC.

ON ALL TRAINS THROUGH THE REICH, SOLDIERS ARE TRAVELLING SINGLY AND IN SMALL GROUPS, DESPITE THE FACT THAT ALL EXCEPT EMERGENCY FURLOUGHS HAVE BEEN CANCELLED BY THE ARMY. APPARENTLY THESE GROUPS WHOM THE MILITARY POLICE ARE UNABLE TO CONTROL, OR DO NOT TRY TO CONTROL, ARE MERELY "MARKING TIME" UNTIL THE WAR ENDS AND HAVE NO INTENTION OF REJOINING THEIR UNITS.

TRAINS, TOO, ARE CROWDED WITH CIVILIAN REFUGEES FLEEING FROM THE ADVANCING RUSSIANS IN THE EAST AND THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS IN THE WEST, TRYING TO FIND HOMES.

THEORETICALLY, CIVILIANS ARE SUPPOSED TO PAY FARES BUT ALL TRAINS USUALLY STOP TWO OR THREE HOURS OUTSIDE OF STATIONS AND ANY CONTROL VIRTUALLY IS IMPOSSIBLE.

"WHEN REFUGEES ARRIVE FROM THE EAST, PANIC SPREADS BECAUSE THESE PEOPLE SAW THE CRUELTY OF THEIR OWN TROOPS," THE WAR PRISONER SAID.

CIVILIANS WHO REFUSED TO EVACUATE TOWNS IN THE PATH OF THE RUSSIAN ADVANCE WERE SHOT BY SS TROOPS AND IN BERLIN PEOPLE WHO TRIED TO LEAVE THE CITY AGAINST ORDERS ALSO WERE SHOT, THE PRISONER ASSERTED.

NIGHT LEAD RHINE

BY WES GALLAGHER

NEUSS, GERMANY, MARCH 2-(AP)-ADOLF HITLER'S PLEDGE THAT GERMANS WOULD FIGHT STREET-BY-STREET AND HOUSE-BY-HOUSE IN GUERRILLA WARFARE BECAME AN EMPTY PHRASE TODAY AS THE U.S. NINTH ARMY RAN COMPLETELY WILD AND REACHED THE RHINE AT TWO POINTS.

THE CIVILIANS AND A FEW SOLDIERS ENCOUNTERED IN THIS RHINE RIVER PORT DID NOT LIFT A FINGER TO HALT THE DOUGHBOYS.

GEN.EISENHOWER, ON THE HEELS OF THE FAST-MOVING NINTH, PERSONALLY INSPECTED THE BATTLE AREA TODAY WITH THE NINTH'S COMMANDER, LT. GEN.WILLIAM H.SIMPSON AND AT ONE POINT ON HIS TRIP FORWARD THE SUPREME COMMANDER CAME CLOSE TO BEING CAUGHT IN A GERMAN COUNTERATTACK.

IN THE NAZI ATTACK FROM THE SOUTHERN FLANK ALONG THE ERFT RIVER, A GERMAN TANK FORCE BROKE THROUGH A SCREEN OF DOUGHBOYS AND CAME WITHIN TWO MILES OF THE PLACE WHERE EISENHOWER THEN WAS VISITING. THERE WAS NOTHING SUBSTANTIAL ENOUGH TO STOP A TANK IN THE AREA AT THE TIME.

THUNDERBOLTS OF THE 29TH TACTICAL AIR COMMAND ROARED TO THE RESCUE, KNOCKED OUT FIVE GERMAN TANKS AND DROVE THE REST BACK ACROSS THE ERFT.

THIS CITY AND THE SILK AND INDUSTRIAL CITY OF KREFELD, 10 MILE NORTH FELL TO LIGHTNING ATTACKS. SIMPSON'S FORCES ROLLED UP THE ENTIRE FRONT NORTH OF COLOGNE.

FROM THIS BOMB-BLASTED CITY WITH ITS REMAINING 20,000 COWED CIVILIANS, THE NINTH'S ARTILLERY IS POURING AN ALMOST CONTINUOUS FIRE ON DUESSELDORF AND THE RUHR.

MAR 31945

THE 83RD INFANTRY DIVISION AND THE SECOND ARMORED DIVISION SHARED HONORS FOR REACHING THE WEST BANK OF THE RHINE ABOUT THE SAME TIME --- SHORTLY AFTER MIDNIGHT. THE 83RD HIT THE RIVER AT THIS CITY WHILE THE SECOND ARMORED REACHED IT FARTHER NORTH.

THE 83RD'S LT.ROBERT PACKER, 23, OF BROOKLYN, COMMANDED THE FIRST COMPANY TO REACH THE RHINE. HE SENT A PATROL OUT AFTER CLEARING THE NORTH END OF NEUSS. LATE IN THE DAY A LARGER FORCE OF THE 83RD DIVISION REACHED THE RIVER SOUTH OF THE CITY, STAYING ON THE RIVER BANK WHERE A GUN FIGHT DEVELOPED WITH BOTH SIDES FIRING ACROSS THE RIVER.

EVERYWHERE ELSE ON THE FRONT THE NINTH'S SURGE NORTHWARD PARALLEL TO THE RIVER REMAINED UNCHECKED WITH GAINS UP TO 15 MILES BEING REGISTERED.

THE 102ND PUSHED THROUGH KREFELD AND THE SECOND ARMORED DIVISION CAPTURED A POINT THREE MILES SOUTH OF UERDINGEN, WHERE THE GERMANS WERE POURING OVER ONE OF THE FEW LAST ESCAPE BRIDGES ACROSS THE RHINE EAST OF KREFELD.

CITY AFTER CITY WAS OVER-RUN BY ARMOR AND DOUGHBOYS WITHOUT THE LEAST SIGN OF HITLER'S OFTEN-PROMISED HOUSE-TO-HOUSE FIGHTING BY MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN. THE POPULATION OF THIS CITY WAS DOCILE AND EXTREMELY MEEK. THEIR MEEKNESS WAS MATCHED BY AN ODD ASSORTMENT OF TROOPS, INCLUDING EVERYTHING FROM RAILWAY WORKERS TO POLICEMEN.

SULLENESS AND GLUMNESS WERE PLENTIFUL BUT THE WILL TO FIGHT WAS GONE. CIVILIANS AND SOLDIERS ALIKE APPEAR CONVINCED THE WAR IS LOST. MANY DECLINED A CHANCE TO GET BACK ACROSS THE RHINE, PREFERRING TO STAY IN THEIR OWN HOMES AND CONFIDENT THAT ANY FLIGHT COULD ONLY BE A TEMPORARY MEASURE WITH THEM BEING OVERRUN AGAIN.

A13

A FEW GERMAN OFFICERS COMMANDING SMALL FORCES STILL ARE VIOLENT BUT THE MORALE OF THE MAIN BODY OF TROOPS IS AT ITS LOWEST EBB OF THE WAR.

THE NINTH, SWEEPING IN A WIDE ARC TOWARD THE RIVER ON BOTH SIDES OF KREFELD, LEFT GERMAN FORCES FACING CANADIANS IN THE MIDDLE OF A NUTCRACKER.

ANOTHER 24 HOURS IS LIKELY TO SEE THE COMPLETE ISOLATION OF ALL GERMAN FORCES FROM NEUSS NORTHWARD ALL THE WAY ALONG THE RHINE.

NEUSS, LIKE MUENCHEN GLADBACH, IS A BATTERED MONUMENT TO THE STRATEGIC BOMBING OF AMERICAN AND RAF AIR FORCES. VIRTUALLY ALL THE FACTORIES IN BOTH MANUFACTURING CITIES HAVE BEEN DESTROYED AND THE CIVILIANS LEFT IN THE CITY SAID THE FACTORIES HAVE BEEN OUT OF PRODUCTION FOR SOME MONTHS. LARGE SECTIONS OF THE TWO CITIES ALSO WERE LEVELLED.

THUNDERBOLTS WERE ALL OVER THE SKY THIS MORNING IN BRIGHT SUNSHINE, HAMMERING FLEEING COLUMNS OF GERMAN TRANSPORT WITH A DELUGE OF BOMBS, PARTICULARLY IN THE KREFELD-UERDINGEN AREA.

1ST LT. HAROLD C.NORMAN OF BENSON, ILL., WITH THE 29TH TACTICAL AIR COMMAND, SAID:

"IN THE KREFELD AREA THERE WERE ABOUT 2,000 MIXED RAIL CARS BUT NOT A SINGLE LOCOMOTIVE WAS SEEN. THERE WAS NO RAIL ACTIVITY IN THE AREA.

"OF SIX BRIDGES I SAW IN COLOGNE, ONLY ONE RAIL AND ONE ROAD BRIDGE WAS INTACT," SAID LT.EDWARD J.BREJ, OF BUFFALO, N.Y.

UNDER DASH

MRS.A.O.PACKER, MOTHER OF LT.ROBERT PACKER, 23, WHO COMMANDED THE FIRST COMPANY TO REACH THE RHINE OPPOSITE DUESSELDORF, SAID THAT HER OLDER SON RECEIVED HIS COMMISSION IN THE FALL OF 1943. TWO DAYS LATER THE YOUNG INFANTRYMAN MARRIED CARYL SCHNUGG, OF (710 MAIN STREET) HACKENSACK, N.J.

LT.PACKER, WENT OVERSEAS IN APRIL, 1944, TO BE FOLLOWED SHORTLY BY HIS YOUNGER BROTHER, S/SGT RICHARD PACKER. IT WAS APPARENT, THE MOTHER OF THE BOYS SAID, THEY WERE BOTH HEADED FOR GERMANY, "AND, DICKIE HOPED HE'S SEE BOBBY."

"THEY DID, TOO," SHE ADDED, "THEY MET ON CHRISTMAS EVE-IN A CELLAR IN GERMANY."

"I'M PROUD," SHE SAID, WHEN SHE HEARD OF HER SON'S EXPLOIT. "I'M PROUD OF BOTH MY BOYS. I'M GOING RIGHT AWAY AND PRAY THAT THEY'LL BOTH COME HOME SAFE."

WITH NINTH ARMY FORCES ON THE RHINE, MARCH 2-(AP)-AMERICAN SOLDIERS DUG THEIR FOXHOLES ON THE WEST BANKS OF THE RHINE TODAY.

POWERED BY TANKS AND ARMOR, ELEMENTS FROM MAJ.GEN.ROBERT C. MACON'S 83RD DIVISION DROVE TO THE RHINE IN A LIGHTNING BLOW THAT CARRIED THEM 10 MILES TODAY.

LONG BEFORE THEY REACHED THIS HISTORIC LANDMARK GUARDING THE HEART OF GREATER GERMANY, AN INTENSE ARTILLERY DUEL BEGAN RAGING FROM AHEAD AND BEHIND.

THE BIG GUNS, BELIEVED TO BE FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT'S REACHED OUT TRYING TO LOCATE THE AMERICAN COLUMNS WHILE MOBILE GUNS OF VETERAN AMERICAN ARMORED UNITS PULLED UP BEHIND THE DOUGHBOYS AND SENT THEIR SHELLS CRASHING ACROSS THE RHINE.

IN THE FIRST SIX HOURS THIS MORNING AMERICAN COLUMNS MAR 31945 PROVE AGAINST ONLY SCATTERED RESISTANCE.

TOWN AFTER TOWN WAS OVERRUN INTACT BY THE CONTINUOUS ARMORED ATTACK WHICH STARTED YESTERDAY MORNING AND CONTINUED ON THROUGH THE NIGHT.

THIS MORNING VETERAN INFANTRYMEN FROM THE 83RD DIVISION MOVED OUT IN FRONT AND REACHED THE FIRST POSITIONS ON THE RHINE.

THOUSANDS OF FRENCH AND POLISH PRISONER WERE BEING FREED BY THE ADVANCING ARMY AND THEY WERE EMBRACING THE MUD-SOAKED AMERICANS.

DURING THE MORNING THUNDERBOLT FIGHTERBOMBERS HAD A FIELD DAY ON THE CROWDED ROADS LEADING TO THE RHINE, BUT HEAVY RAIN SET IN THIS AFTERNOON AND GROUNDED MOST OF THE PLANES.

WHEN ELEMENTS OF THE 83RD REACHED THE RIVER TODAY A LIGHT PLANE USED FOR ARTILLERY SPOTTING SIGHTED A GERMAN BOAT MAKING A DASH FOR THE OTHER SHORE.

LT.CHARLES MOYER OF MUSICA, N.Y., (EDS: NOT IN POSTAL GUIDE) CALLED FOR FIRE AND AN ARTILLERY BATTERY COMMANDED BY MAJ.CARL L. SCHLICH OF LOXLEY, ALA., SCORED DIRECT HITS, SINKING THE 200-FOOT ENEMY CRAFT. THE FERRY HAD BEEN LOADED WITH MANY SOLDIERS EVACUATING TO THE EAST BANK OF THE RHINE.

IT MIGHT BECOME ONLY A MATTER OF HOURS BEFORE THE FATE OF FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT'S FORCES NORTH OF COLOGNE IS SEALED.

AMERICAN COLUMNS WERE POURING IN ALL DIRECTIONS, CATCHING ENEMY TROOPS AND REFUGEES PACKED ON THE ROADS LEADING EAST FROM MUENCHEN GLADBACH.

FRENCH PRISONERS WHO ESCAPED FROM DUESSELDORF LAST NIGHT SAID THAT CITY WAS IN GREAT CONFUSION AS THE AMERICANS ADVANCED.

ADVANCING FORCES REPORTED GERMAN ARTILLERY FIRE FROM ACROSS THE RHINE, AND IT WELL MAY BE THAT VON RUNDSTEDT, MARKING OFF THE FORCES WEST OF THE RIVER, ALREADY HAS SET UP A DEFENSE LINE TO THE EAST.

TOWNS WERE BEING BY-PASSED IN THE RUSH FORWARD, LEAVING THEM SURROUNDED BY INFANTRY. TENS OF THOUSANDS OF GERMAN CIVILIANS HAVE BEEN OVERRUN.

MANY SMALLER TOWNS UP THE RIVER VIRTUALLY ARE INTACT. THE AMERICANS ARE JUST KEEPING THE CIVILIANS INDOORS ALTHOUGH MANY HANG FROM WINDOWS WATCHING THE VAST FLOW OF MATERIAL WITH SULLEN FACES.

VILLAGERS HAVE HUNG OUT WHITE TOWELS, PILLOW CASES OR ANYTHING ELSE WHITE THEY COULD LAY THEIR HANDS ON TO INDICATE THEIR SURRENDER. THERE HAVE BEEN NO CASES OF SNIPING IN THE CAPTURED TOWNS THUS FAR.

THIS FORCE HAS OVERRUN A COMPANY OF ANTI-TANK GUNS AND CAPTURED IT INTACT WITHOUT FURING A SHOT. GERMAN SOLDIER MORALE SEEMS COMPLETELY SHOT, AND THE VOLKSSTURMERS, RAGGED CIVILIANS IMPRESSED INTO ARMY DUTY,

THE AMERICANS ARE BECOMING CONFUSED AT THE VAST VARIETY OF UNIFORMS AMONG THE PRISONERS. GAUDY POLICE UNIFORMS LED MANY SOLDIERS TO THINK THEY HAD CAPTURED GENERALS, AT LEAST. LATER THEY FOUND THE CAPTIVES WERE POLICEMEN OR OTHER MUNICIPAL EMPLOYES.

BY WES GALLAGHER
NEUSS, GERMANY, MARCH 2-(AP)-LT.ROBERT PACKER, A 23-YEAR-OLD FORMER COLLEGE STUDENT FROM 1240 EAST 28TH STREET, BROOKLYN.N.Y., COMMANDED THE FIRST AMERICAN COMPANY TO REACH THE RHINE OPPOSITE DUESSELDORF EARLY TODAY, SPLITTING FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT'S ARMIES IN THE WEST IN TWO.
AMERICAN GUNS NOW DOMINATE THE RHINE. IT WAS APPARENT THAT AMERICAN ARTILLERY FIRE ON A 24-HOUR-A-DAY BASIS WOULD MAKE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE GERMANS TO OPERATE THEIR WAR FACTORIES IN DUESSELDORF. FROM WRECKED HOUSES OVERLOOKING THE RHINE I WATCHED SCORES OF U.S. NINTH ARMY GUNS POUND SHELLS INTO DUESSELDORF AND THE RUHR AS GERMAN DIVISIONS FLED NORTH TO ESCAPE ACROSS A BRIDGE NEAR KREFELD.
ELEMENTS OF THE 83RD (OHIO) INFANTRY DIVISION REACHED THE RHINE AFTER FIGHTING THROUGH NEUSS. THE CITY HAS BEEN CLEARED EXCEPT FOR SPORADIC RESISTANCE ON THE OUTSKIRTS AS ENEMY STRAGGLERS TRIED TO CROSS THE RIVER. PACKER'S COMPANY E ENTERED NEUSS LAST NIGHT.
THE 83RD ATTACKED NEUSS AFTER THE SECOND ARMORED DIVISION HAD CLEARED THE WAY TO WITHIN THREE MILES OF THE CITY AND THEN TURNED NORTH, FIGHTING ITS WAY ACROSS THE NORD CANAL IN A THUNDEROUS PURSUIT OF THE GERMANS.
MORE THAN 20,000 CIVILIANS WERE HUDDLED IN AIR RAID SHELTERS HERE THIS MORNING. GERMAN SOLDIERS IN THE CITY GAVE UP EASILY, AS DID MOST OF THE OTHER UNIFORMED MEN. THE POLICE BATTALION WHICH WAS SUPPOSED TO FIGHT WAS WAITING TO SURRENDER WITH GRIPS ALL PACKED.
EVERY OTHER TOWN WEST OF THE RHINE IS SURRENDERING AS DOCILELY AS THIS ONE. WHITE FLAGS HANG EVERYWHERE FROM WINDOWS AND AIR RAID SHELTERS. MEN AND WOMEN STAND AROUND SULLENLY WITH HATRED IN THEIR EYES BUT WITHOUT THE SLIGHTEST TRUCULENCE.
IT IS APPARENT THAT WEST OF THE RHINE, AT LEAST, HITLER'S WILD EXHORTATIONS TO FIGHT TO THE LAST MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD, TO SNIPE, TO SABOTAGE, TO DEFEND THEIR TOWNS AND HOMES STREET BY STREET HAVE BEEN A COMPLETE FLOP.
THIS DESPITE THE FACT THAT EVERY STREET IN NEUSS HAS HUGE GOEBBELS-INSPIRED PAINTED SIGNS SUCH AS "AMERICAN FIGHTERBOMBERS ARE FIENDS FROM HELL," "THERE IS NO ROOM FOR TRAITORS IN GERMANY--FIGHT--ALL FOR VICTORY."

A185
EXCEPT FOR A FEW ENEMY SHELLS BEING TOSSED INTO THE TOWN FROM ACROSS THE RIVER THIS IS THE QUIETEST FRESHLY CAPTURED CITY I HAVE SEEN IN FRANCE, BELGIUM, HOLLAND OR GERMANY.
HOWEVER, LT.COL.JOHN A.NORRIS,JR., OF AUSTIN,TEX., COMMANDER OF THE BATTALION WHICH TOOK THE TOWN, GAVE THREE OTHER CORRESPONDENTS AND MYSELF A GUARD OF SIX RIFLEMEN AS WE MADE OUR WAY THROUGH THE SHATTERED HULKS OF BUILDINGS TO THE WATERFRONT HARBOR WHICH LEADS IN FROM THE RHINE 500 YARDS AWAY. OUR GUARD WAS IN CHARGE OF STAFF SGT.HARRY PERRIGO, A FORMER SPORTS WRITER FROM HARRISBURG,PA.
CORRESPONDENTS REACHED THIS RHINE CITY SHORTLY AFTER DAYLIGHT THIS MORNING.
THE STREETS WERE CROWDED WITH CIVILIANS EMERGING FROM CELLARS PARTICULARLY ALONG ADOLF HITLER STRASSE, WHICH IS ONE OF THE MAIN STREETS. THEY SAID THE GERMAN ARMY HAD STARTED FLEEING ACROSS THE RHINE FOUR DAYS AGO, LEAVING IT UP TO THE CIVILIANS TO DECIDE WHETHER THEY WANTED TO STAY.
ALMOST ALL OF THOSE LEFT AFTER THE BOMBINGS DID STAY, SAYING THE WAR WAS LOST AND THERE WAS NO POINT IN FLEEING TO BE OVERRUN AGAIN AT A LATER DATE, POSSIBLY BY THE RUSSIANS. THE GERMAN CIVILIANS AND SOLDIERS ALIKE SHOWED A GREAT FEAR THEY MIGHT FALL INTO THE HANDS OF THE RUSSIANS.
PACKER TOOK US UP TO THE ATTIC OF A SIX-STORY BUILDING WHERE DUESSELDORF CLEARLY WAS VISIBLE IN THE MORNING SUN WITH SMOKE RISING HIGH AND FLAK DOTTING THE SKY AS THUNDERBOLTS WORKED OVER THE WATERFRONT. ARTILLERY BEHIND US PUMPED SHELLS INTO THE CITY UNDER THE DIRECTION OF CAPT.DONALD DEY OF 312 CHRISTY AVE., LEON, N.Y., AN ARTILLERY LIAISON OFFICER. GERMAN RESISTANCE TO THE ARTILLERY AND THE INCESSANT STINGS OF DIVEBOMBERS WAS SPORADIC.
UP THE STREET I RAN INTO CAPT.THOMAS BROADFOOT OF BRADFORD, R.I., AND LT.WALTER CRANSTON OF 31 RUSSEL STREET, WORCESTER,MASS. LAST NIGHT BROADFOOT'S COMPANY CAPTURED 56 GERMANS WALKING DOWN THE STREET FOUR ABREAST.
"WE SAW THEM COMING AND HID IN DOORWAYS AND WHEN THEY GOT ABREAST WE CALLED OUT HANDS UP," HE SAID WITH A GRIN. "IT WAS LIKE A WESTERN HOLDUP. THEY JUST THREW UP THEIR HANDS AND RIFLES FELL IN ALL DIRECTIONS."

A186
THE CAPTAIN SAID ONE OF HIS MEN, ARMED ONLY WITH A PISTOL, CAPTURED A GERMAN 88-MILLIMETER GUN AND ITS CREW.
AS I CAME OUT OF THE CITY I SAW SMOKE COMING UP FROM FIELDS TO THE SOUTH AND LATER LEARNED THAT WHILE I WAS IN TOWN SEVERAL GERMAN TIGER TANKS COMING IN FROM THE SOUTHERN FLANK HAD BROKEN THROUGH INFANTRY DEFENSES FACING TOWARD COLOGNE. THE SITUATION WAS SAVED BY 29TH TACTICAL AIR FORCE THUNDERBOLTS, WHICH DESTROYED FIVE OF THE TANKS AND FORCED THE OTHERS BACK.
ANOTHER BIG TANK BATTLE WAS RAGING A FEW MILES TO THE NORTH SOUTHWEST OF KREFELD. AMONG THE AMERICANS ENGAGED IN THAT ATTACK WERE MAJ.NOLAND HIKEL OF CATONSVILLE,MD., AND M'.EDWARD S.ALLEN OF BURLINGTON,VT., BATTALION EXECUTIVE OFFICERS.
ALSO LT.WILLIAM DUN L

WITH THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, MARCH 2-(AP)-THE ALLIED CAMPAIGN TO CLEAR THE ENEMY FROM THE AREA WEST OF THE RHINE IS CAINING A GREAT TRIUMPH BY THROWING THE ORIGINAL PLANS IN REVERSE.
EARLY PLANS ALLOTTED TO THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY UNDER GEN. H.D.G. CRERAR--WHICH CONTAINS A LARGE PROPORTION OF BRITISH TROOPS--THE ROLE OF SWINGING EAST OF NIJMEGEN INTO GERMANY AND DRIVING ALONG THE BANKS OF THE RHINE AND MAAS.
IT WAS ASSUMED THAT THE AMERICAN NINTH ARMY UNDER LT. GEN. WILLIAM H.SIMPSON MEANWHILE WOULD BE BATTLING STRONGER ELEMENTS WHICH SHOULD HAVE BEEN POURED AGAINST IT BY FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT TO GUARD THE HUGE INDUSTRIAL CITIES OF COLOGNE, DUSSELDORF AND MUENCHEN GLADBACH.
GATHERED FOR THE PLANNED PARALYZING BLOW AT THE NORTHERN END OF THE ALLIED LINE WAS ONE OF THE STRONGEST FORCES FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY HAS PUT IN ONE SECTOR. IT WAS COMPOSED OF EXCELLENT INFANTRY, HUNDREDS OF TANKS, AN AWESOME NUMBER OF BIG GUNS. IT WAS PREPARED TO STREAM FORWARD AND NOT HALT UNTIL THE ENEMY HAD BEEN THROWN OUT OF THE AREA WEST OF THE RHINE BETWEEN ARNHEM AND THE NINTH ARMY.
WEATHER AND THE INGENIOUSNESS OF THE ENEMY KNOCKED OUT THIS PLAN OF CAMPAIGN. CRERAR RAN INTO RAIN AND MUD THAT BECAME WORSE INSTEAD OF BETTER. MEANWHILE THE NINTH ARMY HAD TO POSTPONE ITS STARTING DATE BECAUSE THE GERMANS, THEN CONTROLLING THE ROER RIVER DAMS, LOOSED ITS FLOODWATERS.
WHEN CRERAR'S ARMY ATTACKED VON RUNDSTEDT RUSHED ELEMENTS OF TEN DIVISIONS TO BOLSTER THE ONE DIVISION WHICH ORIGINALLY CONFRONTED THE CANADIAN FIRST IN THE FORMIDABLE REICH FOREST. WHEN THE WEATHER LIFTED SUFFICIENTLY FOR CRERAR TO MOVE AHEAD AT A FASTER PACE THIS ENEMY FORCE HAD SETTLED DOWN TO TURN THE NORTHERN BATTLEFRONT INTO A NEW "CAEN HINGE."
WHEN THE NINTH DID JUMP ACROSS THE ROER MUCH LATER THAN ITS ORIGINAL DATE VON RUNDSTEDT COULD NOT SUFFICIENTLY MAN THAT FRONT IN TIME. APPARENTLY HE DID NOT DARE THIN HIS FORCES OPPOSING CRERAR TO ANY GREAT EXTENT.

THE CAPTURE OF MUENCHEN GLADBACH RELEASED HUNDREDS OF FOREIGN WORKERS IMPRESSED FOR LABOR IN ITS VAST TEXTILE AND MOTOR FACTORIES.
EMPTY-HANDED BUT GLAD-HEARTED THEY SET OUT AT ONCE TO RETURN TO THEIR HOMELANDS.
IN THE FIRST GROUP I MET COMING OUT OF THE CITY WERE TWO POLISH WOMEN, ONE DUTCHMAN, ONE NORWEGIAN, AND ONE 22-YEAR-OLD FORMER BELGIAN AIR CADET, ANDRE LEINARD, WHO WAS THEIR LEADER.
"I HAVE BEEN HERE IN FORCED LABOR AS A FACTORY ELECTRICIAN FOR FOUR YEARS," SAID LIENARD. "I WAS A STUDENT IN BRUSSELS AND I AM GOING HOME IF I HAVE TO WALK ALL THE WAY."
HE HAD ONLY A COUPLE OF PIECES OF BREAD TO LAST HIM ON HIS LONG JOURNEY.
"THEY TREATED THE POLES LIKE DOGS BUT ACTED A LITTLE BETTER TOWARD BELGIANS, FRENCH AND NORWEGIANS," HE SAID. "THEY MADE POLISH GIRLS DIG TRENCHES AND SLEEP IN PLACES UNFIT EVEN FOR ANIMALS.

THE AMERICAN ARMY IS MOVING SO FAST ITS COMBAT TROOPS HAVEN'T TIME TO WORRY MUCH ABOUT THOUSANDS OF GERMAN CIVILIANS IN THE AREA IT IS PASSING THROUGH.
"WE TELL THEM TO STAY IN THE HOUSES--OTHERWISE THEY TAKE CHANCES OF BEING SHOT," SAID MAJ.JOHN C.LAWTON, 114 WEST UNIVERSITY PARKWAY, BALTIMORE, MD.
BUT MILITARY GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS SET UP OFFICES IN CAPTURED TOWNS WITHIN 24 HOURS TO HANDLE CIVIL AND REFUGEE PROBLEMS.
--DASH--

EVEN DURING A MAJOR ATTACK THE AMERICAN ARMY KEEPS UP ITS RECORD OF HAVING THE BEST CHOW.
ROLLING UP IN ONE AMMUNITION CONVOY WAS A TRUCK LOADED WITH FRESH ORANGES--AND PORK CHOPS AND ROAST BEEF WERE ON MENUS ONLY A FEW MILES BEHIND THE FRONT.

IN ONE SUBURB OF MUENCHEN GLADBACH THE GERMANS TRIED TO DELAY THE AMERICAN ADVANCE BY BLOWING A HUGE CRATER IN THE ROAD WITH 500-LB. BOMBS.
THE ENGINEERS WERE AFRAID TRAFFIC WOULD BE BLOCKED IF THEY HAD TO TRAVEL FAR TO GET MATERIALS TO FILL UP THE HUGE HOLES.
"THEY ARE BIG ENOUGH TO HOLD A COUPLE OF HOUSES," SOMEBODY SAID.
THAT GAVE THE ENGINEERS AN IDEA. THEY LOOKED ACROSS THE ROAD AND THERE WERE TWO GERMAN HOUSES BADLY BATTERED FROM THE EXPLOSION.
"SO THE ENGINEERS BLEW THEM DOWN AND FILLED THE CRATER IN THE ROAD WITH DEBRIS AND BRICKS FROM THE HOUSES," SAID LT.COL.ALFRED T. SHEPPE, OF SAUNTON, VA.
IN A COUPLE OF HOURS TWO-WAY TRAFFIC HAD BEEN RESTORED.

TWO GROUND OFFICERS HAD A SPECTACULAR ESCAPE FROM DEATH WHEN A

PILOTLESS AMERICAN THUNDERBOLT PLANE CRASHED DIRECTLY INTO A SHERMAN TANK BESIDE WHICH THEY WERE STANDING AT THE EDGE OF THE CITY. THE PILOT HAD BAILED OUT AFTER HIS PLANE WAS HIT DURING AN AERIAL BATTLE.

LT.COL.CLAUDE C.MELANCON, OF BATON ROUGE, LA., AND MAJ.EDWARD WOLF, DETROIT, MICH., WERE SINGED WHEN SHOWERING OIL FROM THE CRASH CAUGHT FIRE. FOUR MEN IN THE TANK WERE RESCUED BUT SEVERELY BURNED.

--DASH--

CAPT.JAMES H.WENTWORTH, WEST FRANKFORT, ILL., WENT OUT TO FIND A COMMAND POST--AND FOUND HIMSELF LEADING AN ATTACK INSTEAD.

HE MADE A WRONG TURN AND LOOKED UP TO SEE A JERRY SELF-PROPELLED GUN A FEW FEET AHEAD. IT CUT LOOSE WITH A SHELL THAT SHOWERED WENTWORTH WITH BRICK DEBRIS FROM AN OVERHEAD NEAR-MISS.

WENTWORTH SPUN HIS JEEP IN A CIRCLE AND WAS BACK AROUND THE CORNER BEFORE NAZI GUNNERS COULD CORRECT THEIR AIM.

VON RUNDSTEDT'S MARATHON BACKWARD-MARCHERS HAVE ELECTED TO SAVE THEIR LIVES RATHER THAN THEIR EQUIPMENT.

THEY HAVE BEEN UNSUCCESSFUL IN ATTEMPTS TO GET OUT THEIR ANTILLERY IN AN ORDERLY WITHDRAWAL.

"THEY'RE TRYING TO PULL OUT ARTILLERY BUT WE ARE OVERRUNNING IT BEFORE THEY HAVE TIME," SAID LT.COL.JAMES H.REEVES, JR., 307 SECOND AVE., SOUTHEAST, ATLANTA, GA. "WE ARE CATCHING THEM IN THEIR HOLES, BEFORE THEY EVEN GET A CHANCE TO DESTROY THEIR OWN GUNS--LET ALONE PULL THEM BACK."

WITH THE U.S.FOURTH INFANTRY DIVISION, GERMANY, MARCH 2-(AP)-RETURNING FROM A NIGHT PATROL WITH HIS FEET STINGING, PFC. ERNEST MILLIGAN, OF MORGANTOWN, N.C., ASKED PERMISSION TO GO TO THE REAR FOR TREATMENT OF TRENCH FOOT.

MAR 31945

"WHEN DID YOU BEGIN THE PATROL?" THE COMPANY COMMANDER ASKED, LOOKING AT MILLIGAN'S SHOES.

"ABOUT MIDNIGHT, SIR," WAS THE REPLY. "IT WAS AWFUL DARK."

"I THINK," HE SAID THE OFFICER, "THAT IF YOU WILL FIND YOUR FEET HURTING A LOT LESS IF YOU TAKE OFF YOUR SHOES AND REVERSE THEM."

30.24 - 23533

ALEXANDER, SUPREME ALLIED COMMANDER IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, HAS CONFERRED WITH MARSHAL FEODOR I.TOLBUKHIN, COMMANDER OF RUSSIA'S 3RD UKRAINIAN ARMY, AND OTHER HIGH RANKING SOVIET OFFICERS IN HUNGARY.

I TRAVELLED WITH THE FIELD MARSHAL'S PARTY AS SOLE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE WORLD PRESS AND THIS IS THE FIRST DESPATCH WRITTEN BY AN ANGLO-AMERICAN CORRESPONDENT ON LIBERATED HUNGARIAN SOIL.

THE MEETING WAS SHROUDED IN EXTREME SECRECY AND THE RUSSIANS WERE TIGHT-LIPPED, THOUGH OBVIOUSLY WELL PLEASED.

FIELD MARSHAL ALEXANDER REMARKED AFTERWARDS "WE ARE FIGHTING THE SAME ENEMY FOR HE SAME CAUSE. WE ARE NEIGHBORS. MARSHAL TOLBUKHIN IS NEAR MY FRONT AND SOONER OR LATER WE ARE BOUND TO JOIN HANDS.

"WE HAVE MADE FRIENDS AND WE HAVE MADE EXCELLENT STAFF CONTACTS. HENCEFORTH, WE SHALL NOT BE DEALING WITH CIPHERS, BUT WITH PEOPLE WHOSE HOSPITALITY WE HAVE SHARED, AND WHOM WE KNOW AND LIKE."

OF THE RUSSIANS, THE FIELD MARSHAL REMARKED: "THEY ARE EXTREMELY FRIENDLY WHEN YOU GAIN THEIR CONFIDENCE."

MAR 31945

ESCORTED BY YAKS AND FIERY LITTLE STORMOVIK FIGHTERS, THE BIG

CRAFT SWUNG NORTH OVER A COUNTRY AS LEVEL AND TREELESS AS THE PRAIRIES OF SASKATCHEWAN. FROM THE PLANE WINDOW WE COULD PICK OUT DOZENS OF SPIRES AT TIMES RISING ABOVE SMALL VILLAGES, PATTERNED IN VIVID SHADES OF BLUE, WHITE AND ORANGE.

LANDING AT A YUGOSLAV AIRPORT WE STARTED A LONG DRIVE ACROSS THE FRONTIER INTO HUNGARY, BUMPING INTO WRETCHED, DUSTY CENTRAL EUROPE ROADS. WE FOLLOWED A ROUNDABOUT ROUTE AND THE FEW MAGYAR PEASANTS WE MET--TALL, RUGGED MEN IN FUR CAPS AND SHEEPSKIN COATS--STARED IN BEWILDERMENT WHEN THEY SAW THE CONVOY.

MADRID, March 2-(AP)-Betting here gives the United Nations a three to two chance to bring Germany to unconditional surrender before the end of March.

Spaniards who as neutrals maintain personal relations with the German colony in Spain set the odds. The estimates are based on th personal observations of Germans who reach Spain by plane from Stuttgart and Munich.

"Like the wonderful one-horse shay, Germany is falling completely apart in all fields of endeavor at the same time," one arrival said.

They gave a gloomy ~~picture~~ picture of conditions inside the Reich, declaring that food has never been scarcer, ~~blackmarket~~ blackmarket prices never higher.

Parents who previously encouraged their young sons to participate in the Hitler Youth movement are now hiding them in cellars in the hope of keeping them out of the Nazi last-ditch forces.

German production, the travellers said, has dropped alarmingly due to Allied bombings and increased desertion of workers who prefer to lose themselves among the hordes of refugees and escape last minute-mobilization.

THE HARDEST FIGHTING IN THE PHILIPPINES WAS IN THE SIERRA MADRE FOOTHILLS, JUST EAST OF MANILA, WHERE THE JAPANESE WERE ENTRENCHED ALONG A 25-MILE LINE. Add Manila Philippines (McDaniel) xx inches.

FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION TROOPERS CAPTURED HILLS DOMINATING ANTIPOLO, SOUTHERN ANCHOR OF THE ENEMY LINE. THE SIXTH INFANTRY DIVISION REPULSED THREE COUNTERATTACKS EAST OF MONTALBAN, IN THE CENTER OF THE LINE.

MACARTHUR RETURNED TO CORREGIDOR, AS HE HAD LEFT, IN A NAVY PT BOAT. HIS PARTY INCLUDED 11 STAFF OFFICERS WHO ESCAPED WITH HIM IN 1942 TO AUSTRALIA.

"WELL, GENTLEMEN," HE SAID, "IT HAS BEEN A LONG WAY BACK."

THIN WISPS OF SMOKE STILL POURED FROM THE PORTALS OF MALINTA

TUNNEL. THE STENCH OF JAPANESE DEAD WAS STRONG.

A202KX

GLANCING AT THE BURNED CORPSE OF AN ENEMY SOLDIER, THE GENERAL REMARKED: "IT WAS BAD ENOUGH FOR US WHEN WE WERE HERE. BUT IT HAS BEEN WORSE FOR THEM."

AFTER DECORATING COLONEL JONES WITH THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS AT THE FLAG RAISING CEREMONY, MACARTHUR CLASPED HIM BY THE SHOULDERS AND SAID: "YOU HAVE TAKEN IT BACK. YOU AND YOUR MEN HAVE DONE WELL. AGAIN, MY DEEPEST THANKS."

THE 11 STAFF OFFICERS WHO ESCAPED WITH MACARTHUR MARCH 11, 1942, AND RETURNED TO SEE THE FLAG RAISED AGAIN WERE: LT.GEN. RICHARD SUTHERLAND, MAJ.GEN.SPENCER AIKEN, MAJ.GEN.HUGH CASEY, MAJ.GEN.WILLIAM MARQUAT, MAJ.GEN.RICHARD MARSHALL, MAJ. GEN.PAUL STIVERS, BRIG.GEN.LEGRANDE DILLER, BRIG.GEN. CHARLES WILLOUGHBY, COL.SIDNEY HUFF, LT.COL.JOE MC MICKING AND LT.PAUL ROGERS.

BRIG.GEN.CARLOS P.ROMULO, NOW RESIDENT COMMISSIONER TO THE UNITED STATES FOR THE PHILIPPINE COMMONWEALTH, WAS ALSO PRESENT AT THE CEREMONY.

HE HAD SERVED ON MACARTHUR'S STAFF DURING THE HISTORIC AMERICAN STAND IN 1942 AND DID THE "VOICE OF FREEDOM" BROADCASTS FROM MALINTA TUNNEL.

SIXTH DIVISION INFANTRYMEN UNDER MAJ.GEN.EDWIN PATRICK REPULSED THREE COUNTERATTACKS SUPPORTED BY HEAVY JAPANESE ROCKET AND ARTILLERY FIRE. FIGHTING ALONG THE ENTIRE ANTIPOLO-WAWA LINE ON THE MANILA WATERSHED WAS INCREASING IN INTENSITY.

FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION TROOPS UNDER MAJ.GEN.VERNE D.MUDGE CAPTURED HILLS DOMINATING ANTIPOLO FROM THE SOUTHWEST AFTER A SHARP FIGHT, AND SEIZED CARDONA ON THE NORTH SHORE OF LAGUNA DE BAY.

LIBERATORS DROPPED 78 TONS ON THE TAKAO AREA OF SOUTHWESTERN FORMOSA WHILE FIGHTERS SWEPT LOW TO DESTROY A PARKED PLANE AND SHOOT DOWN THREE INTERCEPTORS IN COMBAT.

JAPANESE COASTAL CRAFT NEAR HONG KONG, CHINA, WERE RAKED BY ESCORTED MEDIUM BOMBERS. ELEVEN SHIPS OF UNSPECIFIED TONNAGE WERE SUNK AND 15 OTHERS WERE DAMAGED.

GENERAL MACARTHUR SAID ONE REASON THE INVASION OF PALAWAN WENT SO EASILY WAS THAT THE ENEMY WAS "ENGROSSED IN OPERATIONS ELSEWHERE" AND "AGAIN FAILED TO DIAGNOSE OUR PLANS AND PROPERLY PREPARE HIS DEFENSE."

THE AMPHIBIOUS OPERATIONS WERE UNDER THE COMMAND OF REAR ADM. WILLIAM M.FECHTLER OF THE SEVENTH FLEET. REAR ADM.RALPH S.RIGGS COMMANDED THE CRUISER AND DESTROYER ESCORT AND COVERING FORCE.

MACARTHUR RETURNED TO CORREGIDOR AS HE LEFT--BY PT BOAT. AS HE STEPPED ONTO THE SHATTERED NAVAL DOCK HE COMMENTED, "WELL GENTLEMEN, IT HAS BEEN A LONG WAY BACK."

A FEW ROUNDS OF RIFLE FIRE RANG OUT--QUITE IN KEEPING WITH THE TERRIFIC DESTRUCTION THAT GREETED THE GENERAL'S PARTY. HARDLY A BUILDING WAS STANDING. GREAT ROCK LANDSLIDES DISFIGURED MALINTA, SEALING THE TUNNELS.

AT THE FLAG CEREMONY THE GENERAL DECORATED COLONEL JONES WITH THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS AND TOLD HIM "THE CAPTURE OF CORREGIDOR IS ONE OF THE MOST BRILLIANT OPERATIONS IN MILITARY HISTORY."

THE STENCH OF DEAD JAPANESE WAS TERRIFIC AT THE TUNNEL MOUTH.

LOOKING OVER THE BURNED CORPSE OF A DEAD ENEMY SOLDIER MACARTHUR SAID, "IT WAS BAD ENOUGH FOR US WHEN WE WERE HERE. BUT IT HAS BEEN WORSE FOR THEM."

MACARTHUR WALKED THROUGH ANKLE DEEP RUBBLE WHERE HIS HOME ONCE STOOD. "WELL," HE SAID, "I AM HOME AGAIN."

BY TECH.SGT.KEYES BEECH, A MARINE CORPS COMBAT CORRESPONDENT, FORMERLY OF THE AKRON BEACON JOURNAL, DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WITH THE FIFTH MARINE DIVISION, IWO JIMA, FEB.19-(DELAYED)--

OUT OF COUNTLESS TALES OF HEROISM THERE CAME TODAY THE STORY OF A MARINE LIEUTENANT AND TWO ENLISTED MEN WHO FOUGHT THEIR WAY THROUGH A MAZE OF PILLBOXES, BUNKERS, BLOCKHOUSES AND MACHINE GUN NESTS TO CROSS TO THE WESTERN SHORE OF THIS ISLAND ONLY 90 MINUTS AFTER THEY LANDED ON THE EAST.

WHEN HE HIT THE BEACH AT H-HOUR, FEB. 19, LT.FRANK J.WRIGHT, 25, (2324 PRIMROSE AVENUE,) PITTSBURGH, PA., HAD A PLATOON OF 60 MEN.

BY THE TIME HE HAD CROSSED THE ISLAND AN HOUR AND A HALF LATER TWO OF THE 60 REMAINED AND INSTEAD OF BEING A PLATOON LEADER WRIGHT WAS A COMPANY COMMANDER.

MAR 31945

THE COMPANY WAS PART OF A FIFTH MARINE DIVISION ASSAULT BATTALION WHICH WAS ASSIGNED TO CUT DIRECTLY ACROSS THE ISLAND TO THE WESTERN SHORE AND THEN PIVOT TOWARD MORTAR MOUNTAIN, AS IT NOW IS CALLED.

THE TWO MEN WITH WHOM WRIGHT BLAZED A TRAIL FOR 800 YARDS FROM SHORE TO SHORE WERE PFC.LEE H.ZUCK, 22, (ROUTE 2,) SCRANTON, ARK., AND PFC.REMO A.BECHELLI, 26, (9326 OSTEGO AVENUE,) DETROIT, MICH.

"WE WEREN'T TRYING TO RUN A FOOT RACE," SAID WRIGHT, "BUT OUR ORDERS WERE TO GET ACROSS THE ISLAND AS FAST AS POSSIBLE, AND THAT'S WHAT WE DID.

"THE GOING WAS ALMOST TOO EASY AT THE BEACH. IT WAS STILL EASY COMING UP THOSE TERRACES. BUT WHEN WE HIT THE CREST OF THE RIDGE EVERYTHING CHANGED.

"WHAT HAPPENED WAS THAT THE JAPS HAD WITHDRAWN FROM THE BEACH AND THE TERRACES AND TAKEN THEIR POSITIONS ON THE RIDGE.

B16PX (Q)

"I WOULD MOVE ALONG AHEAD WHILE BECHELLI AND ZUCK KEPT ME COVERED WITH THEIR BAR'S (BROWNING AUTOMATIC RIFLES,) AS SOON AS I COULD SEE WHERE WE WERE GOING NEXT I'D MOTION TO THEM TO COME ON UP.

"WE SAW SOME JAPS, SEVEN OR EIGHT OF THEM, RUNNING ALONG A HILL. I THINK WE GOT ALL OF THEM."

AT ONE POINT THE THREE MEN CAME TO AN ENEMY 20-MILLIMETER GUN EMPLACEMENT. THERE DIDN'T SEEM TO BE A WAY AROUND IT, SO ZUCK LEAPED

30. 24-23535

TO THE TOP OF THE EMPLACEMENT AND SPRAYED ITS OCCUPANTS WITH HIS BAR, KILLING OR WOUNDING ALL OF THEM.

MAR 31945

THIS IS THE FIRST TIME ANY OF THE THREE MEN HAVE BEEN IN COMBAT. WRIGHT, WHO ATTENDED DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY AND QUIT TO ENLIST IN THE MARINE CORPS IN 1941, IS THE SON OF MR. AND MRS.MARTIN WRIGHT OF THE PRIMROSE AVENUE ADDRESS.

"WE CAME TO WHAT LOOKED LIKE A JAP CP (COMMAND POST,") SAID PFC. JOHN H.HENNING, 20, SON OF MR.AND MRS.JOHN W.HENNING (902 WEST NOBLE AVENUE,) GUTHRIE, OKLA.

"THERE WASN'T ANY WAY AROUND IT SO WE WENT THROUGH IT. I WAS SCORED, BUT THE SQUAD LEADER JUST KEPT ON A-GOIN' AND THERE WAS NOTHIN' I COULD DO ABOUT IT," SAID HENNING.

THAT NIGHT HENNING KILLED TWO OR THREE MORE JAPS WHEN THEY STARTED MOVING AROUND HIS FOXHOLE.

PFC.KEITH O.BUNDY, 18, LANE, ILL. (NO STREET ADDRESS,) ALSO GOT HIS JAP.

MAR 31945

THE SQUAD LEADER TO WHOM HENNING REFERRED WAS SGT.J.D.DAWSON,25, OF ODESSA, TEX., (NO STREET ADDRESS,) WHO KILLED AT LEAST ONE JAP.

PFC.JAMES B.TREADWAY, 23, SON OF MRS.CLARA TREADWAY (BOX 282,) WALNUT CREEK, CALIF., KILLED A JAP LIEUTENANT.

THERE IS A HOLE ALMOST DEAD CENTER THROUGH EACH SIDE OF TREADWAY'S HELMET. HIS HEAD WAS IN THE HELMET WHEN THE BULLET, SHRAPNEL OR WHATEVER IT WAS, WENT THROUGH. BUT ALL TREADWAY HAS TO SHOW FOR IT IS A BUMP ON THE BACK OF HIS HEAD.

B17PX (Q)

ONE OF 11 MEN IN HIS PLATOON TO GET ACROSS THE ISLAND.

HIS FIELD JACKET IS SO FULL OF HOLES IT LOOKS LIKE A SIEVE. IT WAS IN HIS PACK WHEN HIS PACK WAS SHOT OFF HIS BACK.

BY JAMES LINDSLEY

WITH THE FOURTH MARINE DIVISION OBSERVATION POST SQUADRON ON IWO, MARCH 2-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-(AP)-THE FLIMSY LITTLE SLOW-MOVING PLANES OF THE FOURTH MARINE DIVISION OBSERVATION SQUADRON SKIM ONLY 500 FEET ABOVE JAPANESE POSITIONS ON IWO JIMA, TAKING GREAT CHANCES IN DIRECTING AMERICAN ARTILLERY FIRE AND SIZING UP ENEMY STRONGPOINTS.

THE SQUADRON IS INSTALLED ON MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO.1 WHICH ONLY A FEW DAYS AGO WAS WRESTED FROM THE NIPPONESE IN BLOODY FIGHTING.

OVER THE HEADQUARTERS' DOOR HANGS A CRUDELY SCRAWLED SIGN READING, "YOU NAME IT, WE'LL AIM IT," THE SQUADRON'S MOTTO. AND THE FLIERS OF THESE TINY PLANES MEAN IT.

I MADE A TRIP AS OBSERVER FOR MAJ.ARTHUR F.O'KEEFE, CORONADO, CALIF.

I DIDN'T OBSERVE ANYTHING OF VALUE TO THE MARINES, BUT WHAT I SAW CONVINCED ME THAT THE MEN WHO RIDE IN THESE HEDGE-HOPPERS ARE DOING A JOB OF UTMOST VALUE IN THE CONQUEST OF IWO, AND ARE NOT GETTING THE CREDIT THEY DESERVE.

THE PLANES ARE NOT ARMORED. THEY CRUISE SLOWLY AND ARE THEORETICALLY AT THE MERCY OF JAPANESE ANTIAIRCRAFT, MACHINEGUN AND SMALL ARMS FIRE.

STRANGELY ENOUGH, NONE OF THE FOURTH SQUADRON'S PLANES HAS BEEN SHOT DOWN, BUT MOST OF THEM BEAR THE MARKS OF GROUND FIRE.

WE REMAINED ALOFT 35 MINUTES, MOST OF IT SPENT 500 FEET OVER THE JAPANESE LINES. TWICE ACKACK FIRE ROCKED THE FRAIL CRAFT, BUT IT WAS FLYING TOO LOW FOR THE ENEMY TO DRAW A GOOD BEAD. ON ANOTHER OCCASION MACHINEGUN FIRE STREAMED PAST THE FUSELAGE AS O'KEEFE TOOK EVASIVE ACTION.

I SAW ANY NUMBER OF AMERICAN ARTILLERY BURSTS LAND NEAR JAPANESE GUN EMPLACEMENTS. IT WAS AN EFFECTIVE SHOT OF MORALE FOR ONE BADLY NEEDING IT TO SEE THE TINY FIGURES OF THE ENEMY DIVING INTO CRATERS, EVEN AS WE'VE BEEN DOING IN THE PAST 11 DAYS. THERE WAS SOMETHING HEARTENING IN SEEING THE ENEMY CATCHING MORE HELL THAN WE ARE.

THIS SQUADRON NOW HAS ON THE FIELD 12 PILOTS WITH FULL CREWS OF OBSERVERS AND MECHANICS. THE FIRST TWO PLANES LANDED LAST MONDAY AND WENT RIGHT TO WORK. THE PILOTS HAVE BEEN MAKING AN AVERAGE OF TWO FLIGHTS EACH DAILY, AVERAGING TWO AND ONE-HALF HOURS PER TRIP. FIVE HOURS FLYING TIME DAILY IS A HEAVY STINT UNDER THESE CONDITIONS.

"THERE IS A STANDING ORDER THAT WE ARE NOT TO FLY BEYOND THE JAP LINES," O'KEEFE SAID, "BUT WE CAN'T DO MUCH ON THIS SIDE AND SO---"

THIS WAS MY FIRST AIR VIEW OF THE JAPANESE END OF THE ISLAND AND I WAS SURPRISED TO FIND IT EVEN ROUGHER AND MORE FORBIDDING THAN THE SOUTHERN SECTOR.

B7OKX Q

IT SEEMS THERE MAY BE A SOUND BASIS FOR RECURRING RUMORS THAT THE JAPANESE ARE SHORT OF WATER. WE SAW SEVERAL CISTERNS WHICH HAD BEEN BLASTED APART BY AMERICAN SHELLS. THE NIPPONESE WERE REPORTED TO BE DEPENDING HEAVILY ON THESE GREAT VATS FOR THEIR SUPPLY.

THE SQUADRON'S PILOTS INCLUDE LT.HAROLD C.BLAIR, 176 FISHER AVE., TOTTENVILLE, STATEN ISLAND,N.Y.; 2ND LT.NED J. WITH IWO (380)
BY JAMES LINDSLEY
WITH THE 23RD MARINE REGIMENT, IWO JIMA, FEB.28-(DELAYED)
(AP)-IT'S AN UNREAL, FANTASTIC EXPERIENCE TO SIT ATOP A RIDGE IN AN OBSERVATION POST WATCHING THE BATTLE UNFOLD. IT'S LIKE WATCHING A MOVIE--A VERY BAD MOVIE, FOR THERE IS NO ROMANCE NOR GLAMOR IN WAR, AND NO HAPPY ENDINGS.

THIS POST OVERLOOKS A DISMAL VALLEY TOWARD THE NORTHERN END OF IWO--HELL'S PRINCIPAL SUBURB. ON THE OTHER SIDE AMERICAN MARINES IN TANKS AND AFOOT ARE FIGHTING THEIR BLOODY WAY TO THE TOP OF THE RIDGE RIMMING AIRFIELD NO.2.

YOU CAN SEE AMERICANS, BUT NO JAPANESE. THEY ARE ENTRENCHED BEHIND THE THICK CONCRETE OF THEIR UNBELIEVABLE PILLBOXES AND BLOCKHOUSES, HURLING LETHAL STEEL AT THE YANKS.

I AM SITTING HERE WITH COL.W.W.WENSINGER, FORMERLY OF FREEMONT, O., WHOSE WIFE, KATHER (CORRECT), LIVES AT 1010 SOUTH COAST BLVD., LA JOLLA, CALIF. HE IS THE COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE 23RD MARINE REGIMENT.

MAR 31945

IT'S RAINING, AS IT HAS BEEN MUCH OF THE TIME SINCE THE AMERICANS HAVE BEEN HERE. A CHILL WIND IS BLOWING AND ARTILLERY AND MORTAR SHELLS ARE FALLING REGULARLY IN THE VALLEY AND ON THE RIDGE HERE.

THERE IS SOMETHING INDESCRIBADLY TERRIFYING ABOUT THESE MORTAR SHELLS. SOMETIMES YOU HEAR THEM COMING FOR LONG SECONDS BEFORE THEY LAND WITH THEIR DISTINCT HOOSH-WHOOSH-THUD.

THE JAPANESE HAVE A PECULIAR WAY OF TOSSING THESE MISSELS. THEY "WALK THEM IN" TO THE TARGET AND IF THE FIRST ONE LANDS 100 YARDS FROM YOU IT'S A SAFE BET THE SECOND AND THIRD WILL BE CLOSER.

A128FX
ALL YOU CAN DO IS SIT TIGHT IN A HOLE A D PRAY THEY WILL BE EITHE
LONG OR SHORT OF YOU.

THE MARINES SEEM ACCUSTOMED TO SNIPER AND OTHER SMALL ARMS FIRE BUT IT IS DIFFICULT FOR THE TOUGHEST OF THESE TOUGH GUYS TO GET USED TO MORTARS.

A FEW AMERICAN TANKS CHUGGED LABORIOUSLY UP THE SIDE OF A SLOPE. SUDDENLY THEY WERE ENGULFED IN BILLOWING EXPLOSIVES COMING AT THEM FROM ALL ANGLES.

TO REACH THIS RIDGE WE TRAVERSED A LOW PLAIN OVER WHICH HEAVY FIGHTING HAD BEEN WAGED THE DAY BEFORE. MANY DEAD JAPANESE IN SHELL HOLES ATTEST TO THE DEADLINESS OF AMERICAN ARTILLERY.

FOR OBVIOUS REASONS WE ARE BURYING THESE NIPS AS SOON AS WE CAN, BUT OFTEN THEY LAY AROUND A DAY OR TWO BECAUSE THE MARINES JUST DON'T HAVE THE TIME TO DISPOSE OF THEM.

THERE STILL IS MUCH EVIDENCE THAT THE JAPANESE ARE TRYING TO CONCEAL THEIR LOSSES. PILES OF ENEMY DEAD ARE BEING FOUND IN KNOCKED OUT PILLBOXES. THEY EVIDENTLY HAD BEEN PLACED THERE AS THE JAPANESE RETIRED.

MEN OF THE FIRST HAD CARRIED ON THE DAYS OLD BATTLE STARTED BY THE 26TH AND 27TH REGIMENTS TO CONQUER HILL 362, THE DOMINATING PEAK IN A RIDGE FORTIFIED BY THE ENEMY TO PROTECT THE NORTHERN END OF THE ISLAND. (ANOTHER "HILL 362" STANDS IN THE PATH OF THE 4TH DIVISION ON THE OPPOSITE FLANK).

CAPTURE OF THE BILL COULD MEAN THAT CONQUEST OF THE ISLAND IS ONLY A MATTER OF TWO OR THREE DAYS FOR, WITH THE HIGH POINT IN MARINE HANDS, THE REMAINDER OF THE RIDGE IS EXPECTED TO BE SPEEDILY TAKEN.

FROM THE RIDGE TO THE NORTH OF THE ISLAND THERE IS PRINCIPALLY OPEN GROUND IN WHICH TANKS CAN BE USED MORE EXTENSIVELY RATHER THAN RELIANCE ON FLAME THROWERS, GRENADES AND ARTILLERY, TO BLAST THE WAY FORWARD.

THE "HILL CLIMBERS", AS THE 28TH HAS BEEN NICKNAMED, FOUGHT THROUGH A MAZE OF PILLBOXES, AND GUN EMPLACEMENTS TO A POSITION ATOP THE HIGHEST POINT AT THE NORTHERN END OF THE ISLAND 35 MINUTES AFTER STARTING THE DRIVE THIS MORNING.

THEN CAME A NONCHALANT MESSAGE FROM LT.COL.JACKSON B. BUTTERFIELD (804 MONUMENT AVE) FREDERICKSBURG, VA., FOLLOWED WITHIN MINUTES BY REPORTS TO COL.HARRY B.LIVERSEDGE, 50-YEAR-OLD REGIMENTAL COMMANDER, THAT OTHER BATTALIONS HAD SCALED THE HILL.

"SURE, WE'RE GOING TO KEEP IT AND WE ARE GOING AHEAD," LIVERSEDGE SAID WHEN ASKED WHETHER HIS REGIMENT COULD RETAIN THE POSITION WHICH PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN GAINED IN SORTIES BY OTHER MARINE UNITS.

FIGHTING BY THE OTHER REGIMENTS, THE 26TH UNDER COL.CHESTER B. GRAHAM (175 SUMMIT ST.) BATAVIA,N.Y., AND THE 27TH, COL. THOMAS A.WORNHAM, (709 SOUTH ADAMS ST.) ARLINGTON,VA., (MOTHER, MRS.THOMAS G.WORNHAM, 1540 THIRD ST., RENSSELAER, N.Y.,) MADE POSSIBLE TODAY'S FEAT OF REACHING THE CREST AND BREAKING THE LINE.

K SINCE INVASION OF THE ISLAND FEBRUARY 19, THE 26TH AND 27TH HAVE BEEN PLUGGING STEADILY AWAY AT ONE OF THE MOST HEAVILY DEFENDED SECTORS. SCORES OF PILLBOXES AND GUN EMPLACEMENTS HAVE BEEN WIPED OUT, MANY TIMES IN HAND TO HAND FIGHTING.

"DON'T FORGET THE 26TH AND 27TH," SAID BRIG.GEN.LEO D.HERMLE, LA MESA,CALIF., ASSISTANT DIVISION COMMANDER. "IT WAS THEIR WORK THAT GAVE THE 28TH ITS CHANCE."

THE TREK ACROSS THE SHELL PITTED BATTLEFIELD WHERE MEN OF THE 26TH AND 27TH BLASTED THEIR WAY FORWARD IN THE NORTH CENTRAL SECTION, AND THE FINAL FIGHT UP THE SHARP GRADES TO ATTAIN THEIR OBJECTIVE ON THE RIDGE DEFINITELY FIXED THE "HILL CLIMBERS" NICKNAME FOR THE 28TH. ON FEBRUARY 23 THEY LAID THE FOUNDATION OR SUCH A NAME BY SENDING THE FIRST UNITS UP MT.SURIBACHI VOLCANO, WHICH DOMINATES MOST OF THE ISLAND, AND PLANTING THE AMERICAN FLAG ON THE CREST. THEN THEY SECURED THE MOUNTAIN EXCEPT, OF COURSE, FOR CLEANING OUT THE JAPANESE REMAINING IN THE CAVES.

THE 28TH MOVED INTO THE NORTHERN BATTLE SECTOR A FEW DAYS AFTER THE SCALING OF MT.SURIBACHI. IN THE INTERVAL THEY "RESTED" IN FOXHOLES DUG IN THE RUGGED TERRAIN NEAR THE FOOT OF THE VOLCANO, AND REACHED THE NEW FIGHT COMPARACTIVELY FRESH TROOPS.

THE PRISONER, A 33-YEAR-OLD JAPANESE CIVILIAN AGRICULTURAL EXPERT, SURRENDERED IN PALO FEBRUARY 25, AFTER FLEEING FROM INTRAMUROS DURING THE RELENTLESS AMERICAN ARTILLERY BARRAGE. ARMY OFFICERS SAID HIS TESTIMONY WAS CONSIDERED RELIABLE AND HIS STORY OF THE LAST DAYS OF INTRAMUROS WAS CORROBORATED BY STATEMENTS FROM OTHER PRISONERS OF WAR.

THE SOLDIERS WERE IN A STATE OF FRENZIED CONFUSION AND DISCIPLINE WAS NOT MAINTAINED AS THE TROOPS REALIZED THEIR IMMINENT FATE. NO RANKING OFFICER REMAINED TO ENFORCE ORDER.

JAPANESE SOLDIERS PLACED HAND GRENADES IN A BUILDING, FILLED IT WITH FILIPINO MEN, POURED GASOLINE OVER THE STRUCTURE AND SET IT AFIRE. THE PRISONER REMONSTRATED WITH AN OFFICER FRIEND AND WAS TOLD THAT THE JAPANESE WERE OPPOSED BY GUERRILLAS AND THAT THE FILIPINOS IN INTRAMUROS COULD NOT BE TRUSTED, SO THEY MUST BE EXTERMINATED.

THE NIGHT OF FEB.23 HE BOARDED ONE OF THREE SMALL BOATS AT THE DOCKS BY VOLUNTEERING AS A GUIDE. THE BOAT WAS FILLED WITH MARINES, NAVY PEOPLE AND CIVILIANS WHO WERE PLANNING TO REACH OBANDO AND THEN DISPERSE INTO THE HILLS.

"COUNTLESS NUMBERS OF MARINES AND SOLDIERS CAME RUNNING TOWARD US AS THE BOATS WERE LEAVING AND GRASPED THE SIDES," HE SAID. "IGNORING THEIR PLEAS, THE OCCUPANTS BEAT THEM OFF WITH GUN BUTTS, CLUBS AND KNIVES, OFTEN CUTTING OFF THEIR HANDS AND FINGERS."

FORT CORREGIDOR, P.I., MARCH 2-(AP)-THERE WAS ICE WATER READY FOR GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR AND HIS STAFF DURING THEIR VISIT TO CORREGIDOR TODAY, THANKS TO HAROLD TEMPLEMAN, AN ENTERPRISING RED CROSS FIELD WORKER.

IT ALSO WAS TEMPLEMAN WHO HAD HOT COFFEE READY FOR PARATROOPERS THE NIGHT OF FEB. 16, A FEW HOURS AFTER THEY HAD FLOATED DOWN ON CORREGIDOR IN A SKY INVASION WHICH SURPRISED THE JAPANESE.

TEMPLEMAN, WHOSE HOME IS AT 420 18TH ST., NORTHEAST, CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA, REALLY TAKES GOOD CARE OF THE PARATROOPERS.

WHEN THE TOUGH SKY SOLDIERS PILED OUT OF THE TRANSPORTS FOR THEIR DESCENT ON CORREGIDOR, TEMPLEMAN WENT RIGHT WITH THEM. HE WAS IN THE FIFTH PLANE OVER THE TARGET AND HIT THE GROUND 45 SECONDS AFTER THE FIRST YANK LANDED.

WITH TEMPLEMAN CAME THREE TONS OF RED CROSS CANTEEN SUPPLIES WRAPPED IN 25 DROPPING BUNDLES. THESE INCLUDED 1200 CARTONS OF CIGARETS, 400 POUNDS OF COFFEE, 100 POUNDS OF TEA, 150 POUNDS OF COCOA, SOME GUM, A COMPLETE OUTLAY OF TOILET ARTICLES INCLUDING RAZORS, SOAP AND TOOTHBRUSHES.

THEN, WHEN THE CAVALRY SWUNG EAST INTO THE HILLS TO SECURE THE CITY'S WATER SUPPLY, PEDLEY'S TANK WAS ISOLATED.

A PLATOON OF JAPANESE ARMED WITH DYNAMITE AND "MOLOTOV COCKTAILS" SNEAKED TOWARD THE TANK DURING THE NIGHT. PEDLEY AND HIS CREW REPELLED THE ENEMY, AND WHEN CAVALRYMEN FOUGHT THEIR WAY UP TO PEDLEY'S TANK THEY FOUND 15 JAPANESE BODIES.

THAT'S WHY THE WHOLE TANK BATTALION AND MANY CAVALRYMEN LINED UP AND SALUTED PEDLEY WHEN HE WAS AWARDED A FIELD COMMISSION.

APPROVAL OF PLANS TODAY TO SET UP A NEW PANAMERICAN UNION GOVERNING BOARD ON MAY 1 OPENED THE WAY FOR ARGENTINA TO ATTEND UNION MEETINGS AGAIN WHETHER OR NOT THE OTHER AMERICAN NATIONS RECOGNIZE THAT GOVERNMENT.

BUENOS AIRES MAY NOW CHANGE HER MIND AND SEND A DELEGATE ALONG WITH THE OTHER COUNTRIES, SINCE THE REPRESENTATIVE WOULD BE ACCREDITED ONLY TO THE UNION AND NOT TO WASHINGTON UNDER THE NEW SYSTEM.

ALTHOUGH DELEGATES THUS FAR HAVE SETTLED VARIOUS ASPECTS OF THE ARGENTINE CASE WITHOUT MENTIONING IT DIRECTLY, IT SEEMS PROBABLE THAT SOME FLAT REFERENCE WILL BE MADE ON ARGENTINA BEFORE THE CONFERENCE CLOSES.

THE U.S. CHANGES, OFFICIALS POINTED OUT, ARE AIMED TO FIT THE CONSTITUTIONAL SYSTEM WHICH MAKES IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE PRESENT TO COMMIT THE USE OF ARMED MIGHT WITHOUT SENATE RATIFICATION IN PEACETIME.

THE WORDS "MANDATORY" AND "COMPULSORY" FORCE HAVE BEEN REMOVED TO THE DISAPPOINTMENT OF SOME U.S.OFFICIALS, BUT THEY FEEL THAT THE PRINCIPLE OF ENFORCED PEACE IN THE HEMISPHERE IS SO WELL ENTRENCHED IN THE DECLARATION THAT IN CASE OF AGGRESSION, ACTION WOULD BE IMMEDIATELY FORTHCOMING.

THE EXTENT TO WHICH THE AMERICAN NATIONS WILL BE ABLE TO IMPOSE SANCTIONS WITHOUT APPROVAL OF THE WORLD SECURITY ORGANIZATION, AS REQUIRED IN DUMBARTON OAKS, REMAINS TO BE SETTLED.

THIS POINT IS EXPECTED TO COME UP AT SAN FRANCISCO. THE UNITED STATES IS CONTEMPLATING ASKING RUSSIA AND BRITAIN THAT THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE BE ALLOWED TO SETTLE ITS OWN QUARRELS WITHOUT INTERFERENCE FROM ABROAD UNLESS WORLD PEACE IS MENACED IN THE AMERICAS.

MAIN DIFFICULTY IN TAKING THIS LINE IS THE FEAR BY SOME DIPLOMATS THAT IT WOULD OPEN A PATH FOR RUSSIAN AND BRITISH INSISTENCE ON A FREE HAND IN EUROPE.

WHATEVER TRADE CONTROLS MAY BE NECESSARY DURING THE TRANSITION PERIOD SHOULD BE MAINTAINED ONLY FOR THE BENEFIT OF AN ORDERLY TRANSITION TO PEACE-TIME TRADE PRACTICES.

6. THE UNITED STATES WILL FURNISH THE LATIN AMERICANS WITH AS MUCH MACHINERY AS POSSIBLE DURING THE TRANSITION PERIOD FOR THEIR INDUSTRIALIZATION, TRANSPORT IMPROVEMENT, AND CIVILIAN CONSUMPTION.

THE RESOLUTION REPRESENTS A COMPROMISE ON A RATHER WIDE DIVERGENCE OF VIEW ON THE PROBLEMS OF THE TRANSITION PERIOD BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND THE LATIN AMERICAN NATIONS.

IN GENERAL, THEY INDICATE AN AMERICAN AGREEMENT TO GIVE THE LATIN AMERICANS ASSISTANCE IN GOING OVER THE HUMP IN THE IMMEDIATE POST-WAR PERIOD IN RETURN FOC LATIN AMERICAN ASSURANCES TO ELIMINATE MANY OF THEIR TRADE CONTROLS.

THESE RESOLUTIONS WERE APPROVED BY ONE OF THE TWO SUB-COMMITTEES PREPARING FINAL DRAFTS FOR THE COMMITTEE ON TRANSITION PROBLEMS.

MEXICO'S FOREIGN MINISTER EQEQUIEL PADILLA, PERMANENT CHAIRMAN OF THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE, ANNOUNCED TODAY THAT IT WOULD CLOSE WITH A PLENARY SESSION MARCH 7.

THE SECOND GROUP ALSO FINISHED ITS WORK IN RECORD FASHION. IT TOOK STRONG MEASURES TO GUARD AGAINST THE TRANSFER OF AXIS-STOLEN FUNDS OR PROPERTIES TO THIS HEMISPHERE AND PROCLAIMED JOINT APPROVAL OF THE BRETTON WOODS AGREEMENT ON FINANCIAL AND MONETARY STABILIZATION.

ONE OF THE FOUR PROPOSALS ACCEPTED BY THIS SUBCOMMITTEE PROVIDES THAT AXIS FUNDS AND PROPERTIES TAKEN OVER BY THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS DURING THE WAR WILL REMAIN IN STATUS QUO UNTIL ALL THE COUNTRIES AGREE ON A COURSE OF ACTION.

A SECOND RESOLUTION CALLING FOR ADJUSTMENT OF PRICES ON AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL GOODS IU EVIDENTLY A REITERATION OF LATIN AMERICAN DEMANDS FOR HIGHER CEILING PRICES ON COFFEE, SUGAR AND OTHER COMMODITIES.

A THIRD MODIFIED A RESOLUTION ADOPTED AT THE RIO CONFERENCE IN 1942 IN WHICH ALL THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS BROKE OFF COMMERCIAL RELATIONS WITH THE AXIS AND ITS SATELLITES. THE CHANGE PROVIDES FOR THE RESUMPTION OF TRADE WITH LIBERATED COUNTRIES AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. THE LAST ONE CALLED FOR AN INTENSIFICATION OF THE WAR EFFORT THROUGHOUT THE HEMISPHERE.

MAR 31945

THE FULL COMMITTEE ON INTENSIFICATION OF THE WAR EFFORT ADOPTED A COMBINED AMERICAN-HAITIAN RESOLUTION AIMED AT PREVENTING AXIS WAR CRIMINALS FROM SEEKING REFUGE IN THIS HEMISPHERE.

THE RESOLUTION RECOMMENDS THAT NO AMERICAN REPUBLIC SHALL GIVE SANCTUARY TO ENEMY WAR CRIMINALS AND SHALL TURN THEM OVER TO ANY INDIVIDUAL UNITED NATION OR UNITED NATION ORGANIZATION DEMANDING THEIR CUSTODY.

THE INTER-AMERICA JURIDICIAL COMMITTEE IS REQUESTED TO DRAW UP THE NECESSARY MEASURES TO HANDLE THE LEGAL ASPECTS OF THIS PROBLEM.

THIS COMMITTEE ALSO TIGHTENED THE HEMISPHERE'S DRAGNET ON AXIS SUBVERSIVE ACTIVITIES AND RECOMMENDED MEASURES TO PREVENT ANY SUBVERSIVE GROUP FROM CONTINUING TO FUNCTION NOW AND AFTER THE WAR IN THS HEMISPHERE.

IT ADOPTED A RESOLUTION URGING THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS TO KEEP DEPORTED AXIS AGENTS FROM RETURNING TO THE COUNTRY FROM WHICH THEY WERE REJECTED AND TO PREVENT AGENTS OF "TOTALITARIAN STATES AND THER SATELLITES" FROM GAINING ENTRANCE IN ANY HEISPHERE COUNTRY.

THE INTER-AMERICAN COMMITTEE FOR THE POLITICAL DEFENSE OF THE HEMISPHERE WAS EMPOWERED TO DRAW UP SPECIFIC RECOMMENDATIONS FOR CARRYING OUT THESE OBJECTIVES.

THE COMMITTEE ALSO APPROVED A RESOLUTION AIMED AT SETTING UP A PERMANENT COMBINED GENERAL STAFF FOR THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS WHICH EVENTUALLY WOULD FUNCTION AS THE GENERAL STAFF OF THE INTER-AMERICAN SYSTEM WITHIN THE INTERNATIONAL SECURITY ORGANIZATION.

THE RESOLUTION RECOMMENDS THAT THE AMERICAN NATIONS CONSIDER A CONSTITUTION AS SOON AS POSSIBLE FOR A PERMAMENT MILITARY ORGANIZATION FORMED OF THE CHIEFS OF STAFF OF EACH COUNTRY.

THIS GROUP WOULD BE CHARGED WITH DRAWING UP PLANS FOR MILITARY COOPERATION AMONG THE COUNTRIES AND FOR THE DEFENSE OF THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE.

THIS INTER-AMERICAN GENERAL STAFF APPARENTLY WOULD BE AN ENLARGEMENT OF THE INTER-AMERICAN DEFENSE BOARD WHICH HAS BEEN CARRYING OUT SIMILAR DUTIES DURING THE WAR IN WASHINGTON.

MEXICO CITY, MARCH 2-(AP)APPROVAL OF PLANS TO SET UP A NEW PAN-AMERICAN UNION GOVERNING BOARD ON MAY 1 OPENED THE WAY TODAY FOR ARGENTINA TO ATTEND UNION MEETINGS AGAIN WHETHER OR NOT THE OTHER AMERICAN REPUBLICS RECOGNIZE THE GOVERNMENT IN BUENOS AIRES.

THE NEW BOARD WILL CONSIST OF SPECIAL DELEGATES INSTEAD OF AMBASSADORS TO WASHINGTON AND THE SECRETARY OF STATE AS AT PRESENT.

ARGENTINA HAS ALWAYS BEEN A MEMBER OF THE PANAMERICAN UNION BUT BUENOS AIRES ANNOUNCED SEVERAL MONTHS AGO THAT HER DELEGATES WOULD NOT PARTICIPATE IN MEETINGS OF THE GOVERNING BOARD. THE BUENOS AIRES MOVE CAME AFTER THE ARGENTINE REQUEST FOR A SPECIAL INTER-AMERICAN MEETING ON ARGENTINA'S CASE WAS TURNED DOWN.

ALTHOUGH ARGENTINA DID NOT VOTE ON THE REORGANIZATION OF THE PAN-AMERICAN UNION, BECAUSS SHE WAS NOT INVITED TO THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE HERE, THE BUENOS AIRES GOVERNMENT MAY DECIDE TO APPOINT A DELEGATE TO THE NEW BOARD ALONG WITH THE REST OF THE REPUBLICS.

AS A CONTINUING MEMBER IN THE UNION, THE ARGENTINES HAVE EVERY RIGHT TO TAKE THIS MOVE. THERE IS EVEN A POSSIBILITY THAT THE DIRECTOR-GENERAL OF THE UNION WILL INVITE ARGENTINA TO SEND A REPRESENTATIVE. THIS COULD NOT PREJUDICE THE REFUSAL OF MOST AMERICAN GOVERNMENTS TO RECOGNIZE ARGENTINA ONE WAY OR ANOTHER, ESPECIALLY SINCE THE REPRESENTATIVE WOULD NOT HAVE TO BE ACCREDITED TO THE U.S. OR ANY OTHER GOVERNMENT EXCEPT THE PANAMERICAN UNION ITSELF.

WHILE LACK OF RELATIONS BETWEEN THEIR COUNTRIES WOULD PROBABLY BE EMBARRASSING TO ANY ARGENTINE ENVOY AND THE REST OF THE DELEGATES, SIMILAR SITUATIONS HAVE OCCURRED FREQUENTLY IN DIPLOMATIC HISTORY. MEXICO CITY,MARCH 2 (AP)-OSCAR COX, DEPUTY U.S.FOREIGN ECONOMICS ADMINISTRATOR, ASKED LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES TODAY TO JOIN IN A DRIVE TO PREVENT THE NAZIS FROM HIDING MONEY OR WAR CRIMINALS IN NEUTRAL STATES.

"THERE IS EVERY EVIDENCE THAT OUR FASCIST ENEMIES ARE GOING UNDERGROUND--PERHAPS EVEN OVERGROUND--OUTSIDE OF GERMANY," HE DECLARED. COX SPOKE IN FAVOR OF A MEXICAN RESOLUTION TO SEEK OUT AND RETURN PROPERTY STOLEN BY THE AXIS.

WHILE HE DID NOT MENTION ANY COUNTRIES DIRECTLY, THERE WAS A CLEAR REFERENCE TO ARGENTINA IN HIS TALK. HE EMPHASIZED THAT "WE MUST DO EVERYTHING POSSIBLE AND PRACTICABLE TO SEE TO IT THAT THE NEUTRAL COUNTRIES" BAR THEIR DOORS TO NAZI MONEY AND INTRIGUE.

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THAT THE SAME STAND WILL BE TAKEN AT THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE IN SAN FRANCISCO, WHERE EUROPEAN NEUTRALS WILL PROBABLY RECEIVE MORE POINTED REFERENCE UNLESS THE ALLIES ARE SATISFIED BY THEN THAT THEY WILL REFUSE REFUGE TO THE NAZIS.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT HAS PREVIOUSLY STATED THAT IT IS NOT SATISFIED WITH THE PLEDGES GIVEN BY SPAIN, PORTUGAL, IRELAND, AND ARGENTINA.

COX SAID THAT "GERMANY AND JAPAN ARE UTILIZING EVERY SCHEME AND DEVICE TO BUILD UP THEIR RESERVES OUTSIDE OF THEIR BORDERS. THESE RESERVES WILL UNDOUBTEDLY BE USED TO FINANCE THE REFUGE OF WAR CRIMINALS, SUBVERSIVE AND INIMICAL ACTIVITIES, UNDERGROUND MOVEMENTS AND ULTIMATELY THE REBUILDING OF THE GERMAN AND JAPANESE MILITARY MACHINE."

IN A FIVE-POINT, 14-PAGE STATEMENT VARGAS DEFENDED THE "ESTADO NOVO" (NEW STATE) REGIME AND SAID THERE WILL BE "AMPLE LIBERTY TO DISCUSS AND CONSIDER POLITICAL MATTERS AND LIBERTY TO CRITICIZE ON A HIGH LEVEL" THE REGIME'S IDEAS.

DEFENDING THE COUP D'ETAT OF NOV. 10, 1937, VARGAS ASSERTED THAT BRAZIL THEN FACED AN INTERNAL SITUATION WHICH "WAS CAPABLE OF BREAKING OUT IN CIVIL WAR" AND THAT IT WAS "IMPERATIVE TO DO SOMETHING TO SAVE IT FROM CHAOS WHICH WOULD INEVITABLY HAVE COME."

THE PRIME MINISTER EXPRESSED THE HOPE THAT, IN VIEW OF THE SPECIAL CHARACTER OF THE SESSION, ALL PARTIES WOULD COOPERATE IN THE SPEEDY DISCHARGE OF ESSENTIAL BUSINESS, LEAVING OTHER ISSUES TO BE SETTLED BY THE ELECTORATE AND THE NEW PARLIAMENT.

HE WAS SURE THE PEOPLE DID NOT WANT AN ELECTION BEFORE THE EUROPEAN WAR IS OVER. UNTIL GERMANY SURRENDERS THERE WOULD BE HEAVY FIGHTING AND IT WAS CANADA'S FIRST DUTY TO GIVE THE FIGHTING MEN FULL SUPPORT. ONCE DECISIVE BATTLES HAD BEEN FOUGHT THE ELECTION SHOULD BE HELD AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

THE GOVERNMENT HAD CONSISTENTLY SOUGHT TO AVOID A WARTIME ELECTION AND TO AVOID PARTY STRIFE AND CONTROVERSY, FEELING THAT THE FIGHTING MEN SHOULD COMMAND A UNITED FRONT AT HOME.

NINTH ARMY LINKS WITH CANADIANS IN DRIVE ON RUHR

COLOGNE PERILED

Beelmeer

PARIS, Sunday, March 4.—(AP) The broken remnants of three German armies were fleeing across the Rhine last night strongly pursued by the newly-linked American Ninth and First armies.

It was announced at Allied headquarters that the enemy First Parachute army and 15th army had been destroyed as organized fighting forces.

Chaos was declared to exist along the approaches to the Wesel bridges where the battered survivors of these once-powerful armies were converging on the river and dragging with them the still-more bedraggled odds and ends of the wrecked Fifth Panzer army.

Nazis Blow Up Bridges

The Germans were blowing up all except their mined escape bridges and were yielding nearly all territory west of the great river barrier.

For the Allies it was a dramatic race to try to seize intact at least one of the five remaining bridges—three at Duisburg and two at Wesel.

The enemy, penned in a 23-mile stretch along the left bank, was believed ready to blow these bridges as quickly as he dared in an effort to gain time to reorganize his shattered defenses on the other side.

The Ninth and Canadians joined forces today and closed swiftly on the broken remnants of two German armies, boxed against 23 miles of the Rhine.

Simultaneously, two armored task forces broke from the U. S. First army's 20-mile wide Erft river bridgehead in a six-mile surge on the north that swept within four miles of Germany's fourth greatest city of Cologne, where the enemy was dug in for a last-ditch stand.

To the south, two First army columns fought to within less than 12 miles of the Rhine's road and railway city of Bonn, 13 miles southeast of Cologne, bent on cutting off all retreat.

Gen. Eisenhower's spokesman warned the German people by radio that "there is no security east of the Rhine," where the next phase in the final struggle to crush Germany will be fought.

Ruhr Industries Shelled

With the Ninth army in control of 13 miles of the Rhine's west bank northwestward from Duesseldorf, American shells were ripping into the factories of the Ruhr on the east bank and the question was whether the great offensive had enough momentum to cross the river.

A front dispatch said there was no confirmation of repeated broadcasts that patrols already had crossed the Rhine.

Certainly the Germans intended to make no stand west of the river and rearguards fought savagely only to hold back the Allied tide of troops and tanks while the bulk of the forces fled by bicycles, carts and every other kind of transport across the bridges and by boat.

On the southern end of the active Western front, the U. S. Third army advanced as much as three miles, moving its 45-mile assault line relentlessly eastward toward the Rhine through the rugged Eifel country.

In the Rhine battle the Germans foiled one river crossing attempt by blowing all three bridges at Duesseldorf, but 10 miles to the northwest the Second Armored division battled for possession of another inside Uerdingen.

Northward along the disintegrating front, the Germans had only five bridges intact, and these now were in artillery range.

Three of them were at Duisberg, only nine miles east of the 84th infantry diviston, which had severed the highway leading into the nearby crossing city of Homberg.

The other two were 15 miles farther northwest at Wesel, where the Canadian First army was only eight miles away, but one of these had been bombed and was believed to be virtually useless.

Canadians, Yanks Join

The junction of tanks and troops of the Canadian First and Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth army came after a six-mile push northward by the Americans from Geldern.

West of them, the once-powerful Maas river line was deserted by the Germans and to mop-up was expected to yield few prisoners.

The drive eastward to crush in the sides of the box was impeded by blown bridges and demolitions, and the Germans pulled out so quickly that the pursuers often lost contact.

There was no accurate estimate of the number of Germans west of the Rhine on this front. One front dispatch, asserting that the Germans had executed a successful withdrawal, said the enemy might have remnants of six divisions there, or less than 20,000 men.

In any event, the German First parachute and 15th armies already had taken a beating in the offensive, for it was announced that up to yesterday the Canadian First and the U. S. First and Ninth armies had taken nearly 50,000 prisoners in little more than a week.

Now that the Germans had been virtually written off on the northern end of the front, Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army was driving for another kill in the Cologne sector.

It was the Third Armored division which launched the surprise assault with two task forces northwest of Cologne.

In a dash around the end of the powerful defenses before the city, they captured Geyen and reached Poulheim, both only four miles from the outskirts of Cologne.

Germans Counterattack

The Germans threw in two counterattacks by the Ninth and Eleventh armored divisions, but they were unable to check the assault. The frontal attack on the city likewise was rising in tempo, with the Americans capturing a number of villages including Grefrath, four and a half miles west of Cologne.

Reconnaissance pilots said there was a general movement of German troops toward Cologne, indicating they were withdrawing from the perimeter into the shell-torn city proper.

The Germans reacted strongly to a new attack eight miles southwest of Cologne, where tanks captured Blessem and then forged across the Erft canal.

The enemy defenses before Bonn seemed to be coming apart, for tanks and infantry speared more than five miles southeast and captured Freisheim and Lommersum, both less than 12 miles from the city.

Six miles farther east, Euskirchen was in peril.

The Americans were from four to five miles away on the north and west of this city, whose three railways and eight highways fed German troops into the enemy's Ardennes offensive this winter.

Against this rising menace, the Germans were reported pulling out of the westwall anchor town of Schleiden, 16 miles southwest of Euskirchen.

Juncture of Canadians and Americans Forms Solid Front—Many Nazis Trapped—More Positions Won on River.

Paris, March 3 (A. P.).—American troops fought to a new Rhine position today at Uerdingen and joined forces with the Canadian First Army, forming a solid Allied front west of the river. Ten miles farther south the Germans blew all the Rhine bridges in the Duesseldorf area.

Americans entered Uerdingen, just northeast of fallen Krefeld, and were fighting on the approaches to the fine superhighway bridge there.

The Canadian-American juncture apparently trapped sizable portions of two German armies. R. A. F. pilots spotted Germans in headlong, disorderly flight eastward toward the Rhine.

The Uerdingen highway leads on to the big port of Duisburg. Farther north another American division was within eight miles of the Homberg bridge near Duisburg.

Farther south the United States 1st Army struck to within 4 miles of Cologne, fourth city of the Reich, by reaching Poulheim, and was within 12 miles of Bonn.

Two American armies and the Canadian Army now had a solid front from Xanten, near the lower Rhine bend, to Bonn, shoving Germans in pellmell retreat across the river.

The 9th Army pushed forward 6 miles today to link with the Canadian forces.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press correspondent, said the Germans had given up the entire western sector facing the Canadian Army front.

Hold 6-Mile Stretch Along Rhine

Ninth Army men held a 6-mile stretch of the Rhine's west bank at and near Neuss, opposite Duesseldorf, where the bridges were destroyed.

The German retreat in face of swift Allied advances lost all semblance of order, and enemy troops were frantically attempting to scurry across the Rhine by ferries, small boats and a few bridges in a life-or-death race to escape, a front dispatch said.

Armies Not Destroyed, Foe Says

One Berlin broadcast declared the Allies had not succeeded in destroying the two German armies—the 15th Army and 1st Parachute Army—between Xanten and Cologne.

Bridges in the Duesseldorf area were wrecked as the 9th Army swept up to the river.

Berlin broadcasts said this welded into a single operation the battle for the western bank of the Rhine north of Cologne.

The bridges, including the Neuss bridge, built with loans from Allied countries in 1929, were blown up to halt the American 9th Army surge at the Rhine, but their destruction also hampered escape of German remnants west of the river.

The bridges were demolished late last night and early today, Associated Press Correspondent J. W. Gallagher wirelessed.

Duesseldorf Guns Join Battle

Three bridges, including a railroad span, crossed the Rhine at Neuss, where the river is 1,180 feet wide. Americans who pushed into Neuss with comparative ease encountered bitter opposition as they drove toward the spans. German guns across the Rhine in Duesseldorf joined the battle.

In its advance northeast of Krefeld, the 9th captured the towns of Bruch, Wachtendonk, Sevelen and Nieukerk.

South of Krefeld, Fischeln fell as the 9th Army took 3,000 prisoners yesterday.

Earlier, Berlin declared 9th Army forces were attempting to span the Rhine, and unofficial reports reaching London said the doughboys already had crossed near Neuss. There was no confirmation of this report.

In the middle of the Western front, the American 3d Army, driving toward Coblenz, advanced up to 3½ miles on a 45-mile front, seized thirteen more towns and 4,600 prisoners.

At Least 40,000 Captured

Almost 40,000 Nazis have been captured in the Allied offensive toward the Rhine, but masterly retreat tactics have saved von Rundstedt from slaughter similar to the Falaise Gap.

But the Germans were pulling back to top speed between Uedem and the Maas (Meuse) River, with little or no attempt to stage even delaying actions. The Maas town of Bergen was taken and Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's troops seized Langstraat.

Before Cologne, the United States 1st Division dashed 3 miles northeast of Erp, capturing Lechnich, on the super highway 10 miles southeast of Germany's third largest city.

Six towns were taken in the area south of Lechenich.

Due east of Cologne, the Germans were quelled in Modrath after a stiff fight, and Americans pushed into the mining villages of Broittenbroich, Fuerstenberg and Grefarth, a mile and a half east.

More Villages Overrun

Tanks and infantry advanced 5,000 yards from Niederaussem, took Busdorf, and reached as far as Fliesteden, less than 7 miles northwest of Cologne. On the 1st Army's northern flank, Frimmersdorf and Neurath, 3 miles south of Grevenbroich, fell in a 4,000-yard gain. Three other villages were overrun.

The 1st Army took 2,500 prisoners yesterday. On the southern end, some troops walked across Schammenauel Dam, but found difficulty going on the opposite bank of the Roer due to mines and mud.

Snow flurries fell over part of the Western front today, but the weather still held favorable for assault, and bombing visibility was good.

U. S. SHELL SIGNALS JOINING OF ARMIES

Lands Close to British Troops, Who Are Unaware American Soldiers Are Near Them

MAR 41945

By NED NORDNESS
Associated Press Correspondent

WITH BRITISH AND AMERICAN TROOPS in Germany, March 3—Tanks and troops of the United States Ninth and Canadian First Armies joined up today in a burst of mortar fire from the retreating Germans between Geldern and Kevelaer.

So speedy was the American advance that British troops attached to the Canadian Army were unaware they were in the vicinity.

As a result, one American tank sent over a shell very close—too close—and the British hurried to effect the junction.

To warn them that there were Allies on this side, British Majors Bill Deeds and William Riley set off across the field with Correspondent Charles Lynch of St. John, N. B., and me.

We were met by Capt. Robert Grogbode, Los Angeles, Calif.; Capt. John Davis of Bismarck, N. D., and Sgt. Donald M. Ardenbrook of Lima, Ohio.

Advance to Rhine Together

Tonight American and British forces are advancing eastward toward the Rhine, shoulder to shoulder.

We had set out from Weeze, heading south, with no idea where or under what circumstances we would meet the Americans.

Outside another town, after working our way over badly cratered roads, we were met by walking infantry who were to make the link-up.

Progress was a series of cautious advances, interpersed with halts while infantry smoked out houses and patches of woods, ducking into roadside ditches occasionally when enemy machine guns or mortars opened up.

Just outside of a town in the Geldern-Kavelaer area we halted.

"Here we believed we would meet the American spearhead," said Major David MacIndoe. "We had better take it easy until we can patrol ahead."

We knew the Germans were ahead, for we could see them dashing across fields, discarding their gear as they fled.

U. S. Shell Hits Near By

After an hour's wait a shell burst near by and a tank man shouted: "That ain't German. There must be American tanks near by."

The patrol returned and reported that tanks, obviously Americans, were approaching the town from the south.

Soon we could see them outlined against the tree-lined road in the distance.

Carrying a red and white flag we cut through the fields to meet them.

We set out feeling very much surrounded. Hard but sporadic fighting was going on ahead, and many houses that had sheltered snipers were blazing furiously after they had been set afire by tank guns.

We got within forty feet of the nearest American tank when a German Spandau gun opened up ahead of us and a British officer almost broke my neck as he shoved me into a ditch.

We went on in a trench but had to cross a footbridge to reach the Americans. The British did it so nonchalantly that I stood up and walked across, too.

Just as we made contact with the Americans, at 3:30 P. M., the Germans laid down a barrage, so there wasn't any of that "hi, chum," stuff. When quiet descended, the officers got right to work discussing future operations.

Yanks Pick Off Snipers

After leaving the officers, I hid behind an American tank to escape a persistent sniper whose bullets kept digging the dirt in front of me.

"Don't worry, I'll get him," said a voice from the tank turret, suiting action to the words.

My savior was Pfc. John Coster of Cincinnati, Ohio, who said he hoped to return there "just as soon as possible."

Another soldier, Pvt. Warren Wiley of Statesboro, Ga., said he was sore because a sniper had almost hit a cheese sandwich he was eating.

"We saw you guys coming across the field," Corp. Selza Martin of Little Rock, Ark., told me, "and we didn't believe the enemy would come at us that way. But if you'd made a single false move, you just wouldn't be here, sir."

A couple of Germans who had been captured in a shelter about ten feet from us rode in our jeep to the rear.

Some snipers were found in civilian clothes. Tank fire brought their houses down on them.

NAZIS BLOW THREE SPANS

Duesseldorf Bridges Wrecked By German Engineers

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

Neuss, Germany, March 3 (AP)—Tons of dynamite, touched off by German demolition crews, blasted three great bridges spanning the Rhine into twisted wreckage early today as the last Nazi defenders on the river's western bank raced across one span into Duesseldorf.

The destruction of the bridges was in itself admission by the German high command that the battle for the Rhineland has been lost and that the legendary river which every Teuton loves again has become the western frontier of a rapidly shrinking Reich.

A small, mobile cordon of trusted troops fought fanatically for hours to hold up the 83rd United States Infantry Division units pressing to gain the one railroad and two highway bridges which are some of the chief gateways into Adolf Hitler's hinterland.

Not Enough For Yanks

They were armed with rifles, automatic weapons and 20-mm. ack-ack guns, converted into field pieces. Across the river German artillery emplaced in Düsseldorf gave the bridge defenders strong supporting fire.

But it wasn't enough to stay the crunching power of the onrushing Americans. Three doughboy regiments—the 329th, 330th and 331st—throttled opposition in this industrial suburb of 60,000 and took hundreds of prisoners as they fought toward the bridges.

One Italian, who said he had been forced to labor for the Nazis, said they had planned to destroy the main highway bridge at 5 o'clock this morning—or before that if the Americans started across it.

Engineers Got Jittery

But the German Army engineers got a little jittery. They were reported to have planted tons of explosive in concrete pier spaces left hollow for just such an emergency when the bridge was built in 1929. Wires to this dynamite cache were said to have been set beneath three feet of concrete so that no American artillery burst could cut them and thus forestall plans to destroy the bridge.

Two venturesome doughboys strolled across the bridge at night. They did not come back, but they apparently made the Germans fearful that the 9th Army might try a surprise attack, so the German engineers blew up a section of the bridge late yesterday.

"That was to make it impassable for vehicles," said Maj. George C. White of Toledo, Ohio.

Then at 1.30 o'clock this morning there was a great explosion near the western exit, and at 4 A.M. a final huge blast near the eastern side.

One Down—Two To Go

The great crash of sound and burst of flame signaling its destruction came just as a patrol led by Lieut. William C. Shaw, Jr., of Hutchinson, Kan., a company commander, reached and seized the approach on the Neuss side.

That was one down—and two to go.

The next objective in a street-by-street cleanup was a steel railroad bridge several blocks up the river. Company K, led by Lieut. Joseph W. Keenan, of Boston, Mass., jumped off in a night atack directed at this span.

"Resistance was fairly light," said Lieut. Col. John Speedie, of San Antonio, Texas. "They had to do a little bayonet work but they took 23 prisoners during the night and 50 more as soon as it was light enough to see. One sergeant bayonete dtwo Germans and captured another at the first outpost they ran into.

Two Down

"Just as the Americans reached the railway bridge the Germans blew it up. The last rear-guard troops ran across the bridge and it went up. The Jerries had tried to hold it with a paratroops outfit brought down from the Canadian front. Our boys thought at first they were GI's because they wore khaki-colored uniforms."

The third bridge—a smaller highway link—above the railway bridge was reached by a tank and doughboy task force from a battalion commanded by Lieut. Col. George M. Schuster, of Marbert, Pennsylvania.

Ten tanks, four tank destroyers and 100 infantrymen moved in a left hook around the arc of Neuss, thrusting closest to Dusseldorf. Only feeble resistance met them, except for shelling from the opposite river banks where the Germans already have set up strong ack-ack and artillery batteries.

A group of doughboys, led by Capt. Wilfred Barber, of Oklahoma City, Okla., reached the western entrance to the highway bridge. "Exactly five minutes later the Germans on the other side blew this last bridge," said Lieut. John Clevenger, son of a Perth Amboy (N.J.) newspaper man.

Tonight a new "Watch on the Rhine" had developed with the Americans in Neuss surveying the Germans across the river in Duesseldorf. Neither side momentarily is doing much, except tossing over an occasional artillery concentration to keep his enemy from sleeping.

Relaxing in their command post, Colonel Speedie and his staff drank a toast in fine Rhine wine.

"It was just another job," said Colonel Speedie. "Some have been easier—some harder—but we are mighty glad to be here on the Rhine at last. And we damn well want to be the first to go across."

GI's Take 1,069 Nazis Without A Casualty

By Harold V. Boyle

Neuss, Germany, March 3 (AP)—There across the flatlands a thousand yards away 1,069 Germans were waiting—ominously.

Three hundred Americans were getting ready to attack them.

The Germans were picked men—picked to prevent the Americans from breaking through to the railway and highway bridges which lead across the Rhine to Duesseldorf. They were crouched in serried trenches. Behind them, three 20-mm. ack-ack guns pointed across the field.

Ordered To Clear Trenches

Battle favors the defense. You should have three to one odds before attacking. That was the old theory.

But these Americans faced facts, not theory. Somebody just told them to get those trenches cleared so the fight could go on to fresher obstacles.

"Marching fire" was the answer. It looks like suicide. It feels like it will be suicide. But if it works—if it works you win.

Advance While Firing

You locate your enemy's position, open fire on them to pin him down and then work toward him, firing all the time to keep him pinned until you can reach him and destroy him.

There were two American companies. Twenty-four-year-old Lieut. William C. Shaw, Jr., of Hutchinson, Kan., led his men off first.

They opened up with every rifle, machine gun and tommygun they had as they stepped out in a long line into the wide, flat field.

Join Second Company

They pulled up even with a company commanded by Lieut. William G. Marks, Muskogee, Okla., and the second outfit stepped out and joined them, every man firing.

The two companies in action were stretched out in a long line, almost shoulder to shoulder. The noise up close was tremendous. To the watchers farther back it was like the continuous backfire of distant trucks.

No bullets came back from the trenches.

"Damndest Thing Ever"

"It was the damndest thing I ever saw," said Lieut. Col. John C. Speedie, of San Antonio, Texas, the battalion commander, who saw the engagement from a near-by observation post.

"It was an amazing dash—a beautiful example of marching fire," he said.

"There wasn't a Heinie who stuck his nose up, and we didn't have a casualty," said Col. Edwin B. Crabill, regimental commander, from Galax, Va.

"Yes, there they were. Out came 1,069 Germans with their hands up."

Germans In Headlong Flight Across Rhine

Field Marshal Montgomery's Headquarters, March 3 (AP)—Field Marshal von Rundstedt's battered German divisions were pulling back across the Rhine in headlong flight today.

Masterly handling of the withdrawal so far has saved him the terrible slaughter of the Falaise Gap, but almost 40,000 of his men have been captured in the Allied offensive.

In the eight tempestuous days since Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson's United States 9th Army began its big push, the issue of the battle of the western Rhine has clearly been decided.

Bulk Extricated

Less than 5 miles now separates the 9th Army from a junction with Gen. H.D.G. Crerar's Canadian 1st Army.

Von Rundstedt, however, apparently has succeeded in extricating the bulk of his forces imperiled by this pincers, a total of probably up to 100,000 men.

RAF pilots reported that the Germans were streaming across the Rhine chiefly under the cover of darkness. On the east bank of the Rhine Allied flyers spotted long columns of German road transport and heavy rail traffic moving south from the Duesseldorf area.

May Quit Duesseldorf

The significance of this movement is not clear unless it means that the German command has decided to abandon Duesseldorf and concentrate on the defense of Cologne.

On the northern front the enemy was pulling back at top speed from the western flank between Uedem and the Maas (Meuse) River making little or no attempt to stage even a delaying action.

Mass Of Supplies Backs Allied Offensive

By Louis P. Lochner

London, March 3 (AP)—Now that the Allied Western offensive is on full blast I can disclose what for security reasons could not be told at the time of my visits to the three armies at the end of January and early in February.

The vastness of our preparations, the precision planning of every unit's objective, the disposition of men as well as materials, the enormous quantities of our supplies—all of this left an indelible impression.

Compared With Blitz Days

I had been with Hitler's armies during their Blitzes into Poland, Scandinavia, the Lowlands, France, the Balkans, Russia, and had, I believe, seen much. It couldn't compare with what I now beheld.

Hitler's absence from the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of the Nazi party's founding shows the seriousness of the German situation. But even more significant is the inaneness of what was read as a product of the Führer's super mind. There was nothing constructive or hopeful about it—just a rehash of the platitudes uttered for a quarter of a century.

Rhine Sacred To Germans

That is probably no exaggeration, even though Berlin loves to deal in superlatives. The Rhine is almost sacred to the Germans. If German arms cannot prevent a crossing of the Rhine, this is likely to mean more than a smashing of the Siegfried defenses.

These, after all, are man-made, but there is a sort of mystical belief in Germany that God intended the Rhine to be an ageless barrier against Germany's enemies.

This doesn't mean that victory is just around the corner. A long bloody struggle lies ahead, and nothing would be more wrong than to assume Germany is ready to throw in the sponge.

NO RABBI THERE SO SOLDIERS ACT

Luxembourg, March 3 (A.P.).—Neither a rabbi nor a qualified Jewish physician was available today, so American military men performed the solemn Brith Meilah, traditional Jewish religious ceremony, for the first Jewish baby born in Luxembourg since its liberation.

Pfc. Henry Lasker of 94-01 64th Road, Forest Hills, N. Y., learned of the problem and notified Third Army Headquarters. Capt. Sidney Rose of Los Angeles performed the operation. Capt. Norman Feldheym of San Bernardino, Cal., recited the blessings. Lasker and Lieut. Irving Moschel, 1963 Ryer avenue, the Bronx, served as official witnesses.

Stay Put, Ike Tells Civilians

London, March 3 (AP)—General Eisenhower's radio spokesman warned German civilians west of the Rhine today to stay put because "there is no security east" of that river.

"The Ruhr already is under Allied artillery fire and heavy aerial bombardment," said the broadcast over the Luxembourg radio. "Every attempt to evacuate east means immediate danger of death.

"Women, children and the aged who try to flee east will not only be endangered by the Allied bombardment but also from German guns and the German armies in their panicky flight."

The broadcast urged civilians living in bridgehead areas to do everything in their power to convince German soldiers of the hopelessness of continuing the fight and to "make them lay down their arms."

Loss On Storied Rhine Held Nazi Morale Blow

By Louis P. Lochner

Marshal Montgomery's Headquarters, March 3 (AP)—The Germans have lost a strip along the left bank of their storied Rhine, and the psychological effect will be tremendous in Germany.

German morale is bound to suffer. Propaganda Minister Goebbels will be hard put to explain it.

Anthem Obsolete

One of the most cherished songs of the German people for decades, the famous "Die Wacht Am Rhein," probably will remain a memory for a long time. Certainly, its text is obsolete and it must sound ghastly to the Germans when one considers Allied plans for a defeated Reich.

Fervent German Maennerchors as well as mixed choruses for years have assured their compatriots:

"Dear fatherland, you may rest;

"Firm and faithful stands the watch on the Rhine."

The stream cannot much longer be what the song fondly calls the Deutscher Rhein (German Rhine).

The cherished anthem "Deutschland Ueber Alles" also has become obsolete.

Now In Allied Hands

In that national hymn, German boundaries are pictured as including large areas of the east and west now in United Nations hands.

There remains the air sacred to Nazidom, the song memorializing the infamous Horst Wessel. It is a Nazi hymn with sinister implications of Herrenvolk superority.

'Business As Usual' In Krefeld

By Robert Eunson

Krefeld, Germany, March 3 (AP).—This Rhine city's 120,000 civilians, gobbled up in the swift American attack, were going about their usual business today, with United States troops rounding up German soldiers.

Wide-eyed men and women stood on street corners in little groups, apparently surprised they weren't being massacred by their conquerors as their Nazi overlords had warned them they would be. Little children and some of their elders waved to Americans. If one of them was asked the direction to the railroad station, jail, or some other point, he insisted on coming along to show the way.

40,000 Residents Leave

There were about 160,000 civilians in the town Thursday, but some 40,000 left with the burgomaster, lord mayor, and Nazi chieftains when they heard approaching guns.

When the American attack began yesterday afternoon, Krefeld still had telephone communications with Berlin, a matter which was swiftly taken care of. Lights, water and food were abundant today.

COLOGNE TUMBLING, BERLIN RADIO SAYS

Reports Houses Are Collapsing Without Being Hit as U. S. Guns Bombard City

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—A German broadcast said tonight that American shells were exploding "in the heart of Cologne," while at the city's approaches artillery fire was so intense that "whole houses collapsed without having been hit."

The Cologne district leader declared over the radio: "It is very hard for us, as the enemy not only has a strong superiority in men and matériel, but he also uses his air force without mercy."

War Reporter Franz Westhoff declared that the "Watch on the Rhine" was now the "Battle of the Rhine" and said "the huge battle of matériel continues with unbroken deployment of tanks and air forces.

Walter Plato, commentator for the Transocean News Agency, said the battle had increased in ferocity during the past twenty-four hours.

Goebbels Says Peace Is Aim

"The German Command continues its elastic operations," he said, "and the attackers have to pay for every gain of ground with heavy losses. Despite all efforts of the Allied High Command, it has not succeeded in destroying the two German armies between Xanten and Cologne—and this would be a prerequisite to an attempted crossing of the Rhine and a sweep into the German Ruhr."

An article in the Reich, Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' magazine, quoted by the Berlin radio today, said the Germans "love and long for peace."

"What matters," the article said, "is only the way peace is to be achieved and what its contents are to be. It is here that opinions differ. * * * With the exception of a few depraved individuals in enemy countries who are profiting from the war, all men all over the world think and feel as we do on this point."

Germans 'Long for Peace'

LONDON, March 3 (AP).—Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels said today that the Germans "love and long for peace." "Why should we be ashamed of admitting it?" he asked in an article in the weekly "Das Reich," broadcast by the German radio. "What matters is only the way peace is to be achieved and what its contents are to be. It is here that opinions differ."

RUSSIANS LAUNCH ALL-OUT ASSAULT TOWARD STETTIN

MAR 4 1945

Berlin Reports Soviet Forces Enter Pyritz, Cut Highway to Danzig.

ADVANCE TO LABES

Moscow Clamps Security Blackout on Movements of Troops.

LONDON, Sunday, March 4—(AP) Red army forces toppled the key Pomeranian strongholds of Pollnow and Rummelsburg yesterday in their powerful Baltic breakthrough which Berlin said had reached the sea near Koeslin, thus splitting the German province and tightening a trap on numerous enemy divisions in the Stolp-Gdynia-Danzig areas to the northeast.

Simultaneously, Berlin said, elements of four other Soviet armies to the southwest opened an all-out assault toward the Pomeranian capital of Stettin at the mouth of the Oder river, driving one spearhead into Pyritz, 22 miles southeast of Berlin's main port city, and outflanking Stettin 45 miles on the northeast by cutting the trunk railway to Danzig at a new point near Labes.

Reds Smash to Labes

The reported Soviet advance to Labes, 42 miles southwest of imperilled Koeslin, represented a 26-mile advance from previous Russian positions and appeared aimed at Kolberg, site of an American prison camp on the Baltic 35 miles to the north.

Another probable target of the intermediate Red army sweep across Pomerania was Swinemuende, guardian city of the sea gate connecting the Baltic with Stettiner Haff, the big bay leading to Stettin's docks. Swinemuende is 58 miles northwest of Labes.

None of the German-reported Russian advances were yet confirmed by the Soviet high command which had clamped a security blackout on the movements of its troops. Moscow dispatches said German communications were hopelessly snarled in many areas by the swiftness of the Soviet drives.

Premier Stalin announced the fall of Pollnow and Rummelsburg in an order of the day. These two seven-way road hubs are at the base of the Baltic wedge which the Germans said had cut the Stettin-Danzig trunk railway yesterday northeast of Koeslin and reached the sea.

The Soviet communique announced the capture of 80 localities on a 36-mile arc on both sides of Pollnow and Rummelsburg, but named only five.

Drive Toward Prison Camp

One of these was Gross-Peterkau, seven miles east of Rummelsburg and another was Dargen, nine miles northwest of Bublitz and 14 miles southeast of Koeslin. At Dargen the Russians were 17 miles east of Belgard, an important German stronghold and eight and a half miles northeast of Gross-Tychow, site of another American prison camp.

Although no official estimate was yet available it was believed that elements of 20 Nazi divisions were sealed off in the great encirclement operation in middle Pomerania, in addition to the remnants of 20 German divisions already pocketed in East Prussia and 30 more in western Latvia.

The Soviet communique did not mention the East Prussian sector where the Germans, with their backs to the sea southwest of Koenigsberg, are being lashed from three sides by powerful Russian formations which the Nazi high command said totalled five armies.

Once this Nazi pocket is crushed the Third White Russian army can hurl its weight against Danzig's eastern approaches.

The only sector mentioned aside from Pomerania in Moscow's unusually brief bulletin was central Slovakia, where Col. Gen. Ivan Petrov's Fourth Ukraine army captured eight localities in slow three-mile gains through the mountains on a 40-mile front.

Among the places seized were Ocova, seven miles northeast of Zvolen and 16 miles southeast of Banska-Bystrica, former Czechoslovak patriot headquarters; Kalinka, seven miles southeast of Zvolen; and Prencov and Pocuvadlo, seven miles south of Banska Stiavnica.

Berlin said the Russians broke through to the sea northeast of Koeslin and were overrunning the highway and railway leading 23 miles northeast to Schlawe, which is 78 miles west of Danzig. At the same time the other Soviet units were engaged in a great wheeling movement around Stettin, the Germans said, gaining up to 26 miles from their previous positions.

German broadcasts called the situation "extremely critical" in announcing that Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's flying columns striking near Koeslin had cut the Stettin-Danzig Railway, last link connecting northeastern Pomerania, the Polish Corridor and Danzig, with the lower Oder River front.

The only sector mentioned aside from Pomerania in Moscow's brief bulletin was central Slovakia, where Col. Gen. Ivan Petrov's 4th Ukraine Army captured eight localities in slow 3-mile gains through the mountains on a 40-mile front.

Cavalry In Sight Of Baltic

Although the Soviet high command had not officially confirmed the breakthrough to the Baltic, Moscow dispatches said Lieut. Gen. N. S. Oslikovsky's cavalry had rolled within sight of the Baltic at three points as long ago as Thursday.

Tank columns under Col. Gen. Vasily T. Volsky and Lieut. Gen. T. T. Cherniavsky followed through and ahead of these mobile units. Stormovik planes under Col. Gen. K. A. Vershinin pounded the enemy, a large number of which were inferior Volkssturm units.

Traffic on the Stettin-Danzig trunk railway and highway was halted also on Thursday, Moscow dispatches said, and there was no reason to doubt Nazi reports that the Russians now are in the outskirts of Koeslin, communications bottleneck town midway between Stettin and Danzig.

Widening Corridor To Sea

The Soviet military authority, Col. Nikolai Akimov, said Rokossovsky's spearheads now were fanning out to the west and east to widen this corridor to the sea and called the situation "extremely acute" for the Germans. Berlin also told of fluid fighting on both sides of the corridor as the Germans tried to snap it off.

The fall of Pollnow and Rummelsburg, 14 miles to the southeast, at the base of the Baltic wedge, opened the way for direct drives toward a 40-mile Pomeranian coastal section between Koeslin and Stolp, big communications center 63 miles due west of Danzig.

Moscow dispatches said Koeslin was being bombarded by Russian artillery as the Red Army sought to smash that stronghold barring the westward coastal route to Kolberg, site of a large American prisoner of war camp, 24 miles away.

Other Breaches Reported

Enemy broadcasts told of other major Soviet breaches at three other points along the 275-mile northern front between the lower Oder River and the Vistula in the east. Forty-seven miles southwest of Koeslin the Germans said Red Army troops had cut the Stettin-Schlawe superhighway northwest of Dramburg, 50 miles east of Stettin.

Farther west the right wing of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army was fighting "inside Pyritz," only 22 miles southeast of Stettin. Other units were fighting on the eastern approaches to Stargard.

DNB also announced a new flare-up on Zhukov's Odor River front due east of Berlin, saying that the Russians had widened their west-bank bridgeheads below Kuestrin, notably one opposite Goeritz, 37 miles from Berlin.

capital that Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's wedge driven between Rummelsburg and Bublitz, southeast of Koeslin, "has broken the German's line as a line."

Severed Near Koeslin

By German account, Russian armored spearheads cut across the Danzig-Stettin communications east of Koeslin, 7 miles from the Baltic coast.

A German communiqué announcement that Soviet units had thrust northwest of Dramburg, indicated the Russians were making a new smash through Pomerania toward the Baltic. Dramburg is 47 miles southwest of Koeslin.

Three Russian spearheads were jabbing for Koeslin and the port of Kolberg, 24 miles to the west.

Stormoviks and medium bombers ranged ahead of these mobile units in good flying weather.

Railroad Shelled

Long range guns hammered the coastal railway running westward from Danzig.

Southwest of the East Prussian capital of Koenigsberg Russian units battled furiously-resisting German troops. The German high command said a Russian breakthrough attempt was stemmed in that area near Zinten.

Rummelsberg, Pollnow Taken By Russians

London, March 3 (AP)—Second White Russian Army troops have captured Rummelsburg and Pollnow in Eastern Pomerania, Premier Marshal Stalin announced today.

Both towns are at the base of the Russian wedge which the Germans say has cut off Eastern Pomerania, the Polish Corridor and the Territory of Danzig.

Pollnow is 16 miles south of Schlawe and 20 miles southeast of Koeslin, and Rummelsburg is 14 miles southeast of Pollnow. Pollnow is the farthest northwestward penetration officially announced by Moscow.

Communications Cut

Tanks of the same force have severed communications between Danzig and Stettin, isolating the German troops being backed against the Baltic, the German radio said.

The Russians were fighting within sight of the Baltic at three places.

AIR FLEETS POUND GERMAN RAILS, OIL

1,100 U. S. 'Heavies' Hit From Hanover to Dresden — RAF Bombs Berlin a 12th Night

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, March 3—Mosquito bombers of the Royal Air Force smashed at Berlin tonight in their twelfth successive night attack on the battered Nazi capital. The attack followed up massive daylight aerial assaults on Germany in which the heavy bombers of the United States Eighth Air Force in a 200-mile column struck at oil refineries and industrial and rail targets from the Hanover area eastward to Chemnitz and the Dresden region.

Joining the Eighth's heavies in the assault were hundreds of the United States Ninth Air Force's swift fighters and medium bombers, which raked the Nazis along the Rhine.

Several thousand American bombers and fighters kept the war's most sustained aerial offensive going full blast through its nineteenth day. The Eighth dispatched 1,100 Flying Fortresses and Liberators with an escort of more than 700 Mustangs and Thunderbolts. The continent-based Ninth Air Force had flown more than 850 sorties before noon.

The great striking force of "heavies" split over the Reich and attacked a dozen or more different targets, half of them refineries and synthetic oil plants still supplying a trickle of fuel to the enemy forces.

American officials estimated that Gesrman oil plants, prior to our heavy Friday-Saturday bombings of enemy motor fuel targets, were producing less than 25 per cent of the oil and 15 per cent of the gasoline they had delivered before the Allied strategic air offensive against these objectives began last April.

Chemnitz Blow Aids Red Army

In support of the Red Army on the Silesian front, the Eighth's "heavies" bombed the battered rail yards at Chemnitz for the second successive day, as well as German factories turning out tanks, trucks and oil refinery equipment.

The targets included synthetic plants at Magdeburg and at Ruhland, twenty-seven miles north of Dresden; a refinery at Misburg, east of Hanover, and small refineries at Dollbergen, Dedenhausen and Nienhagen in the Brunswick area.

An additional target of the big

American bombers was a rail bridge across the Weser River at Nienburg, northwest of Hanover —an objective of tactical interest to the Allied troops in the northern Rhineland.

Some Luftwaffe fighters were encountered, although nothing resembling Friday's air battle developed. Most of the German interceptors were kept well away from our bomber formations by the Mustang and Thunderbolt pilots.

[The Eighth Air Force fighter pilots shot down nine Nazi planes and destroyed twenty at German airfields, said a United States Strategic Air Forces communiqué. A gunner of one of the Eighth's bombers bagged one enemy plane.

[The escort fighter pilots in ground attacks in the Reich shot up forty-two locomotives, three trains, twenty trucks, a factory and other targets, the communiqué said.]

Misburg and Chemnitz were bombed through clouds, but clear weather over the other targets gave the bombers good views. The enemy's anti-aircraft fire was intense over Magdeburg and Brunswick, but meager elsewhere.

Nazi Jet Planes Encountered

Returning Eighth Air Force crewmen said they encountered a number of Nazi jet planes over Germany.

Staff Sgt. Clyde Yaegle of San Diego, Calif., a Fortress gunner, said five of the jets swept through his formation, but without firing consistently, in an apparent effort to break up the group so they could attack stragglers.

Staff Sgt. Warren Kramer of Darraugh, Pa., a tail-gunner, said he hit a Messerschmitt 262 jet plane at 500 yards and saw black smoke pouring from the jet's tail, but he was unable to say whether it crashed.

Excellent results were reported by bomber crews who made visual runs. Lieut. John Stack of East Lansing, Mich., co-pilot of a Fortress, said that at Brunswick he saw a "ring of red smoke which rose approximately 15,000 feet over the target area."

The Ninth Air Force sent its fighter-bombers against the six-span Ludendorf railroad bridge over the Rhine at Remagen, between Coblenz and Cologne, in the morning, but clouds prevented observation of results.

German military depots at Giessen, Wiesbaden and Bergischborn were hit by bombers of the Ninth. The Giessen depot had been reported to be the headquarters of the German Army quartermaster in the west.

Despite a heavy overcast and occasional showers, fighter-bombers attacked rail lines east of the Rhine, enemy strong points in the United States Ninth Army sector and railway yards and fortified towns in the path of the United States Third Army.

1,800 Planes Hit Nazis On Rhine, War Plants

London, March 3 (AP)—Several scheduled missions by Allied medium bombers had to be canceled yesterday because troops were rolling forward so fast they already had seized the targets. The big city of Krefeld was entered by American troops by the time bombers were supposed to hit there.

London, March 3 (AP)—While Allied divebombers were mauling the Germans along the Rhine, more than 1,800 United States 8th Air Force planes flew into Central and Southeastern Germany for the third straight day and battered more than a dozen raidroad, oil and industrial targets essential to the Nazi war machine.

The great fleet, including 1,100 heavy bombers, first gave Berlin another scare, then swung south over the Brunswick-Magdeburg region, where 103 Nazi planes were destroyed yesterday.

The targets included three factories at Brunswick, where Panther tanks, trucks and oil refinery equipment are produced; four small oil refineries northeast of Brunswick, large synthetic oil plants at Rothensee, a suburb of Magdeburg, Ruhland, 27 miles north of Dresden, and Misburg, near Hannover.

Marshaling Yards Raided

One of the task forces of heavy bombers went 50 miles beyond Leipzig and cracked the huge marshaling yards at Chemnitz for the second consecutive day.

The German radio reported at least three bomber formations over western and southwestern Germany before 10 A.M. An hour later the German news agency DNB hurriedly left the air after announcing that one formation was within 60 miles of Berlin.

Last night RAF Mosquitos attacked Berlin with blockbusters for the eleventh successive night and also bombed the railway center of Kassel, 110 miles east of Cologne, following up yesterday's hammering of the Reich by more than 6,000 Allied aircraft.

Italy-Based Forces Help

RAF Liberators and Halifaxes from Italy joined in last night's assault, attacking the Porto Vescovo railroad yards at Verona and leaving a number of fires in a follow-up to yesterday's blasting of German communications in northern Italy and Austria by heavy bombers and fighters of the Mediterranean Allied Air Force.

The German Air Force was mauled severely yesterday as it came up in strength for the first time since middle January in an effort to stop 1,200 United States 8th Air Force bombers and 700 fighters slashing at a half-dozen targets in southeastern Germany.

122 Nazi Planes Wrecked

Incomplete reports showed a total of 122 Nazi planes destroyed—86 in aerial combat and 36 on the ground, by the 8th and Tactical Air forces. Losses were still to be announced.

Reports indicated the RAF's two raids on Cologne by heavy bombers yesterday took a heavy toll of German troops and vehicles. While American artillery was blasting the historic Rhine city, the RAF scored bull's-eye hits on two important escape bridges, and a third crumbled as 100 Nazi motor vehicles were attempting to flee across.

13 Others Shot Down

Allied fighters from advanced bases on the Continent shot down nineteen Nazi planes—thirteen by the RAF and six by United States 9th Air Force pilots.

Shadowing German troop movements like bees over a honey bowl, they claimed the destruction of 265 motor vehicles, 21 tanks, 74 locomotives, 15 barges sunk and railways cut in 184 places.

Pilots reported that dozens of German trains were observed stalled by broken lines within a radius of 25 miles behind the battlefront.

Lone Nazi Plane Bombs London

London, Sunday, March 4 (AP)—A single German plane flew over the London area early today. An air-raid alert sounded and an explosion was heard. Later the all clear was given.

It was the first attack by an enemy plane on London in nearly a year.

V-1 Bombs Strike London, First Day Raid Since Fall

Spitfires Immediately Hit at Holland Launching Sites

LONDON, March 3 (AP).—German flying bombs were directed against Great Britain in daylight today for the first time since last fall, and Spitfire planes immediately attacked launching sites in the Netherlands.

The Royal Air Force reported direct bomb hits on V-bomb launching plants, portions of which were still blazing from a previous raid, and said transport in the zone was machine-gunned.

The daylight flight of the bombs, reported by watchers on the east coast of England, followed the first night assault in many weeks.

Although the ministry regularly reports "enemy air activity" over southern England (presumably referring to rocket bomb, or V-2, attacks), it has been some time since the V-1 flying bomb has been noted.

A communique said flying bombs were shot down into the sea off the east coast of England during the night. This recalled that Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels, in calling on the German people for a last-ditch fight four days ago, said that the V-bomb attacks would be intensified.

The sound of anti-aircraft guns, now rare in England, was heard during the action. Explosions suggested some winged bombs were hit in the air. Several times the sky was lit up with great flashes of light along the east coast. One bomb was shot down over a coast town, and there was property damage but no casualties.

Recently a hospital was blasted for the fourth time during the war and a Roman Catholic convent was damaged by V-bombs, it was permitted to be disclosed today. Another bomb fell in a heavily-populated area, causing a number of casualties.

Virtually every window in the hospital was smashed by the blast, but not a single person was injured.

Four priests were trapped under masonry and two were believed killed when a bomb fell on church grounds near the convent. None of 13 Sisters of Mercy in the convent were injured.

Brother Of Slain Ace Gets 2 Planes

London, March 3 (AP)—Lieut. William R. Preddy, 20, a fighter pilot from Greenboro, N.C., is off to a flying start in carrying on for his famous brother, Major George Preddy, who was the highest scoring ace in the United States 8th Air Force when he was killed in action last Christmas Day.

The lieutenant, on his seventh mission, made his first score against the Nazis a double-header by blasting two German planes to pieces in the air south of Berlin yesterday.

When Major Preddy was shot down he had to his credit 27½ German planes in the air and 5 destroyed on the ground.

"I don't hope to equal my brother's record," young Bill said. "I only aim to carry on."

Robots Shot Down

London, March 3 (AP)—For the first time in weeks the Air Ministry announced today that German flying bombs were shot down last night in the sea off the east coast of England.

Recent broadcasts by Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels summoning the Germans to last-ditch resistance had promised intensified V-bomb attacks.

One-Two Punch Blows Up Train

London, March 3 (AP)—A couple of train-strafing American Mustang pilots found pay dirt today on a line near Magdeburg, Germany.

Lieut. Col. Sydney S. Woods, of Somerton, Ariz., dropped his wing tanks on a train. Right behind him, Capt. George H. Davis, of Berlin, Md., set the gasoline afire with incendiary bullets.

U-BOATS SET FOR LAST FLING

Remnants Of Nazi Navy Assembled In Norway's Fjords

London, March 3 (AP)—Packs of swift new long-range U-boats are being concentrated in Norwegian waters for a last desperate campaign against Allied shipping in the Atlantic.

Norwegian officials have reported upward of 300 German submarines and a considerable number of light cruisers, destroyers and other smaller warships now based in Norway's sheltered fjords.

This fleet, practically the last of Germany's once-powerful navy, is protected by strongly constructed stations of concrete blocks 25 feet thick and built into cliffs, with ferro-concrete roofs and room for eight or nine U-boats in each.

Lairs All Along Coast

These stations, according to Norwegian sources, are distributed along the entire coastline.

There have been reports from inside Germany, reaching border listening posts, that only about 80 U-boats are operating in the present campaign but that if this "experimental operation" is successful the German high command will throw in its whole force for what might be a last fling against Allied shipping.

With this concentration of U-boats, light cruisers and destroyers the Germans are expected to launch Goebbels's recently promised sea campaign, which he declared would disrupt Allied shipping and stop the flow of men, guns and ammunition to the fighting fronts.

Might Start At Any Time

Naval observers have believed that German sea attacks on a fairly large scale might start at any time, although they would not compare with the U-boat campaign early in the war when Nazi undersea craft had practically a free run of the Atlantic.

In recent weeks there have been indications that Atlantic convoys, which for months made their long runs from America without interference, are once more being harassed by U-boats.

Despite repeated Allied air attacks against U-boat construction points in Germany, the Nazis have been able not only to turn out submarines, but to develop new long-range underwater craft that are capable of staying at sea for long periods.

There have been reports of new U-boats equipped with a device that makes them difficult to detect.

Nazis In Irish Camps

Belfast, March 3 (AP)—Plans are being made for detention of tens of thousands of German prisoners of war in Northern Ireland camps formerly used by British and American troops.

Date For India's Freedom Suggested

London, March 3 (AP)—Bertrand Russell called on Britain today to set a definite date for granting India independence and suggested that an appropriate time would be one year after cessation of hostilities with the Japanese.

The noted philosopher, in a letter to the Times, said such a declaration would speed agreement among different political factions in India as well as allay any suspicion in the United States concerning Britain's intentions.

Mihailovic Listed As A War Criminal

London, March 3 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that Yugoslav state commission has listed Gen. Draja Mihailovic, former Minister of War in King Peter's exile government, as a war criminal.

The commission's report as relayed by Moscow said it had "indisputable evidence" that the Chetnik leader through his subordinate commanders was "in close contact with the German and Italian invaders . . . and took part with them in extermination of the people struggling for liberty."

Mihailovic's present whereabouts are undetermined. The London Daily Mail said last November 27 that he had arrived in Foggia, Italy, in an American bomber.

British Ration Rise To Wait

London, March 3 (AP)—Food Minister J. J. Llewellin said in an address today that the claims of liberated peoples on available world food supplies would prevent any great increase in British rations within the near future, even if the war ended this year.

British Troops Work London Piers As Strike Continues

London, March 3 (AP)—British troops were sent into the port of London today to restore the flow of war supplies to the Western Front as a strike of 7,000 dock workers and stevedores continued to paralyze virtually the whole waterfront.

The War Office announced that 150 soldiers had been sent into the dock area and said 400 more would take over dock duties early next week if the strike continued.

Meanwhile, the National Labor Corporation said the strike had extended to cold-storage depots at Smithfield and Blackfriars, which might affect meat supplies.

The strike, now in its third day, was not sanctioned by the union. It began at the Royal Albert docks over the suspension of some workers accused of absenteeism.

decided today to advise the strikers to return to work on the promise of an immediate investigation by officials in London.

Former Stevedores Sent

It was announced that some of the soldiers assigned to handle cargoes on the docks were stevedores before they entered the Army.

One union official said he was confident there would be a resumption of work by the strikers by Tuesday.

The strike, which was not sanctioned by the union, began three days ago at the Royal Albert docks as a protest against suspension of some workers accused of absenteeism, and it spread throughout the waterfront.

An official of the National Dock Labor Corporation said that the causes of the strike and the strikers' grievances seemed to be changing constantly He said the most recent reason for the strike appeared to be wages and conditions of employment, although he said he had obtained nothing specific regarding such complaints.

Tommies Fill Jobs At Docks

London, March 3 (AP)—With the flow of war supplies to the Western front threatened by a strike of 7,000 dock workers and stevedores, the War Office sent British soldiers to the port of London today to load Continent-bound vessels.

Simultaneously, the strike spread to cold-storage depots at Smithfield and Blackfriars and on the riverside, a development which may affect the nation's meat supply.

Scot Miners Stay Out

The Scottish regional branch of the Ministry of Fuel and Power in Edinburgh, meanwhile, announced that 1,014 firemen and shotfirers had failed to appear for work at mines in Scotland today, resulting in loss of 21,000 tons of coal.

The War Office said 150 soldiers were assigned to loading duties in the port of London and promised 400 more if the strike was not settled by Monday.

There were rumors along the waterfront tonight that the strikers might be joined by lightermen who operate barges.

Officer Trying To Get Into Fight Held AWOL

Paris, March 3 (AP)—Major William H. Barret, holder of several decorations for heroism, was sentenced by a court-martial today to be reprimanded and to forfeit $300 pay for being absent without leave in an attempt to get back into the fighting.

The Los Angeles officer, former aeronautics writer, holds the British Distinguished Service Cross and the United States Air Medal and Purple Heart awards.

Testimony disclosed he had been in a replacement depot waiting reassignment and that, after several months of inaction, he left the depot and spent 34 days traveling from one front unit to another, trying to persuade commanders to put him to work.

BLACK MARKET DEALER JAILED

Frenchman Gets 4 Years For Selling American Gas

Paris, March 3 (AP)—A Frenchman convicted of black-market operations yielding about 5,000,000 francs ($100,000) profit from the sale of stolen United States Army gasoline and oil was sentenced to four years in prison and fined 200,000 francs ($4,000) by a French military tribunal today.

The Frenchman, Charles Lafaite, was charged with acting as an intermediary for deserters from the American Army in the sale of the stolen products to French buyers.

Prominent Buyers Listed

Listed as alleged purchasers among the 30 persons summoned to trial were directors of three Paris newspapers and a member of the Provisional Government consultative assembly. The defendants did not appear. Of the 30 only Lafaite and one other defendant, who was acquitted, appeared.

The government prosecutor said following Lafaite's trial that if the other defendants failed to appear voluntarily at the court's next session he would issue military warrants for their arrest.

Testimony brought out that the American deserters stole truckloads of gasoline and oil along the highways and drove them to Paris, where Lafaite acted as middleman in the disposal.

American Officers Silent

American officers, whose investigations of the disappearance of American Army gasoline and its subsequent discovery in the black market unearthed evidence of the 5,000,000 franc operation, maintained silence on Lafaite's case, his possible accomplices or customers.

Some officials of the French Government were reported to be anxious to have the case shelved, apparently fearing that a complete expose might show the black-market operations extending higher than newspaper directors or assemblymen

A Seine base public relations officer to whom the United States Provost Marshal's office referred correspondents said the case was purely a French matter.

Senio Front Fight Stepped Up

Rome, March 3 (AP)—Sharp fighting has flared up along the Senio River on the 8th Army front at the eastern end of the Italian battle line, where opposing forces are almost within conversational distance of each other on opposite sides of a high dike, the Allied command announced today.

But on the remainder of the Italian front, there was only routine patrol activity.

South of Bologna, 5th Army batteries placed German troops, vehicles and gun positions under fire, and farther west, there was some enemy fire directed against Allied forward positions west of Monte Rumici. A 5th Army battery reported a direct hit on a German dugout.

The close fighting along the Senio was costly to both sides. In the daytime, anyone lighting his head above the dike on either side becomes a target. Often German voices can be heard from the other side. There is a good deal of action with hand grenades and packets of explosives which can be rolled down the German side of the wall.

A deserter from the German front lines who said Benito Mussolini, wearing a gray uniform without rank or badges, recently visited the front, quoted him as saying the troops would "receive all the weapons necessary to your task of throwing the enemy out of our country."

Italy-U. S. Phones Opened

Envoy Here Talks With Bonomi to Start Limited Service

ROME, March 3 (AP).—Limited radio-telephone service between Italy and the United States was reopened yesterday.

The initial call, at 5 p. m., was a twelve-minute conversation between Premier Ivanoe Bonomi and Alberto Tarchiani, Italian Ambassador to the United States, who is in New York. The calls are limited to official business, members of the Allied Advisory Council, certain diplomatic missions, Ministers of the Italian government and accredited Allied correspondents.

FIERCE AND COSTLY FIGHTING IN ITALY

Rome, March 3 (A. P.).—Fierce fighting that has been costly to both sides raged today along the east bank of the Senio River in the Eighth Army sector of the Italian front, Allied Headquarters announced. Dispatches said that Germans had taken up positions on one side of a high concrete dike, with Allied forces fighting from the opposite side. The German communique yesterday reported heavy fighting along the Senio but said that Eighth Army attacks had been frustrated.

In the battle along the dike, the opposing forces at some places were only a few yards apart and engaged in hand grenade duels.

There was normal patrolling activity along most of the remainder of the front.

A deserter from the German lines said that Mussolini, wearing a gray uniform without rank, had visited the front.

Crew Leaves In B-24, Comes Back In B-17

Rome, March 3 (AP)—Lieut. Robert W. Locke, of Montgomery, Ala., and his crew took off on a bombing mission Thursday in a Liberator and returned yesterday in a Flying Fortress.

The Liberator's engines were damaged by flak over the Moosbierbaum oil refineries northwest of Vienna and by the time Locke and his crew got them to working again the big plane was out of fuel. He landed in Yugoslavia.

There the crew members found a Flying Fortress which had landed three weeks before for repair, so, after a night's rest, they climbed aboard and took off. Arriving at the home base, they found the Fortress's brakes were not working and they wound up in a ditch at the end of the runway.

ROMANIA HELD TEST OF YALTA

Writer Sees Grab For Power Before Pact Takes Effect

By FRANK O'BRIEN

Ankara, March 3 (AP)—Disorders in Romania which preceded the resignation of Premier Nicolae Radescu this week apparently were led by Leftists in the hope of seizing power before the Crimea conference decisions could be put into effect.

Romania definitely is a test case by which the Crimea conference decisions on the problems of liberated former Axis satellite nations may stand or fall.

No Sign Of Russian Action

There is no indication here that any Russians are taking a hand in settlement of the important problems raised by the bid for power by Romania's Communists in the name of "the National Democratic Front."

I have information that as late as Wednesday of this week no new instructions based on the Yalta conference had reached American quarters in Romania, and my informant said he believed that similarly none had reached the British or the Russians.

Appearances are that the Left Wing in Romania forced the crisis to a head with all possible speed after the Yalta agreement, hoping that concerted action would enable them to seize power before the conference decisions could filter down in the form of executive orders to the relatively lower levels represented by Soviet authorities ordinarily in charge of Romania.

Communist Claim Small

It remains to be seen whether an impartial advisory or control board would hand the Romanian Government over to the Communists. I asked the supposed head of the Communist party, Lucretiu Patrascanu, in September how many party members he had, and was surprised by the answer—2,000. (Patrascanu was made Minister of Justice in November.)

This would indicate that a Communist government in Romania would mean rule by a small minority and could survive only with outside help, either direct or indirect.

According to information available here, Gheorgiu Dej, Minister of Communications in the Radescu Government, went to Moscow early in January with one of the two real heads of the Romanian Communist party, Anna Pauker, a Romanian-born radical who during the '30s gave up her Romanian citizenship and became a Soviet citizen.

Four Points Reported

They returned late the same month and Dej and Anna Pauker are said to have spread word that:

1. Peasant leader, Juliu Maniu, must be eliminated.
2. An effort must be made to win the peasants by forcing land reforms.
3. The workers must stay at their benches in factories.
4. Romania would get United Nations standing if a National Democratic Front government came to power.

Splinter Groups Formed

The National Democratic Front was formed last October by Left Wingers who grouped themselves into six parties, giving them a claim to six Cabinet seats, instead of the one or two that the Communist party alone might claim and get.

In a platform published after the formation of the front it was announced immediately that only control of the government by the Front would satisfy the Left, and since then agitation against all other elements has been steady.

Shortly after the Front's formation I witnessed a National Peasant party demonstration in front of the Royal Palace in Bucharest, at which King Michael and M. Maniu were cheered. The demonstration was broken up by Communist intervention with shouts of "Down with the King," "Down with the army" and "Let's get the Red Army to protect us."

The Soviet censor refused to pass my eye-witness account or any account at all.

The following day Communist papers in Bucharest declared that the Peasant party demonstrators had shouted slogans in favor of Horia Sima, former leader of the Rumanian fascist Iron Guard. The papers also accused M. Maniu of being a Fascist.

Maniu Forced Out

Shortly afterward M. Maniu, who was Minister of State, was forced out of the government, and the Leftists insisted on General Dadescu as Premier. Now he is attacked as a Fascist.

M. Maniu was generally regarded as among the stanchest of Rumanian fighters against Rumanian and German fascism. General Radescu spent two years in a concentration camp for having written a denunciatory letter to the German Minister-Dictator in Rumania, Baron Manfred von Killinger, protesting

Rumania's treatment.

General Radescu in a recent speech blamed the Left for the first of the current disorders, particularly Anna Pauker and her co-leader of the Communist party, the Hungarian Laszlo Luca. This was followed by an abrupt end to his career as Premier.

M. Dej, speaking recently for the democratic front, recognized the importance of the King's role in having ousted the Germans and declared that the Front's policy was to collaborate with Michael.

Finland Declares War on Germany

HELSINKI, March 3 — (AP) The Finnish government declared formally tonight that a state of war exists between Finland and Germany.

The announcement said that on March 1 the government had unanimously adopted a statement proposed by Premier Juho Paasikivi, reviewing the struggle between the Finns and Germans since the Nazi government was advised last Sept. 2 that its troops must leave the country by Sept. 15 under terms of Finland's armistice with Russia.

The statement said the Germans instead of complying had opened "enemy action" against Finns in the Gulf of Finland and in the northern part of the country, "where fighting still continues."

Therefore, the statement said, Finland declares that a state of war has existed with Germany since last Sept. 15.

West Virginia Major Gets Legion Of Merit

Tehran, Iran [AP —Delayed]— Outstanding service in aiding in establishment of radio communication between the Persian Gulf Command, vital supply line to the Soviet Union, the United States and other overseas theaters has brought Major Glenn G. Boundy, of Wheeling, W.Va., the Legion of Merit.

The award, announced by PGC headquarters here, was for services performed by Major Boundy from December 10, 1942, to November 20, 1944. Presentation of the medal was made by Brig. Gen. Donald P. Booth, commander, at special ceremonies.

1,500 Liberated Allied Soldiers Reach Odessa

Moscow, March 3 (AP)—More than 1,500 American, British and Canadian soldiers liberated from German prison camps by the Russian army have arrived at a repatriation camp in Odessa, it was announced here tonight.

British and American military missions in Moscow expressed appreciation over Russian co-operation in moving the officers and soldiers to a base for transfer home.

New Stalin Tank Leading Red Drive

Moscow, March 3 (AP)—Pravda gave the Russian public the first information today on the new Stalin tank, announcing that the "perfect 34" is spearheading the Soviet offensive.

The article said the 34 had passed victoriously through all stages of the war and asserted the Germans had attempted to copy it.

Liberated American prisoners describe the tank as being of tremendous size with heavy fire power and heavy armor. All stress its speed and Pravda said the tanks advanced 50 miles from the Vistula in one day.

"The day is not far distant," Pravda declared, "when Soviet tanks will roll over the streets of Berlin."

Ghetto Survivors From Ukraine to Receive Gifts of Clothing

BUCHAREST, March 3 (AP).—The Romanian section of the World Jewish Congress, the Jewish party and the Union of Romanian Jews finished preparations today for meeting 17,000 Jews coming back from that portion of the Russian Ukraine across the Dnestr River formerly occupied by Romania.

These people, survivors from former ghettos in that area, will enter Romania at five points, where they will receive clothes and other necessities.

CHINESE ARMY TAKES YUNGSIN

Jap Contact With Kwangsi Cities Reported Cut

Chungking, March 3 (AP)—Chinese troops surging forward from three directions have recaptured Yungsin, 120 miles east of Hengyang, and severed Japanese contact with the Kwangsi province cities of Suichwan and Kanhsien, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

Yungsin fell on March 1 before a Chinese counterattack launched at dawn the day before. Defeated Japanese troops escaped through the south gate and were being pursued by the Chinese. Japanese snipers left in the city on suicide missions were being rounded up.

Also Reoccupy Lienhwa

The high command also announced that Chinese troops had reoccupied Lienhwa, 30 miles farther east.

Chinese regulars and local militia operating behind the Japanese lines recaptured Pingkiang on February 25, the high command communiqué said. Pingkiang is a highway center 50 miles northeast of Changsha.

In the maritime province of Chekiang the Japanese have extended the area which they are fortifying against a possible American landing from the Pacific. Japanese troops based at Wenchow, Chekiang seaport 225 miles south of Shanghai, moved up the Wha River toward Thintien, 20 miles to the north. Fighting developed as Chinese forces intercepted the invaders.

Grew Looks To China

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, today forecast military developments of "decisive importance" in China this year.

This prospect, he told a news conference, intensifies the need for unity of the National Government and the Chinese Communist in their fight against the Japanese. There is a "trend toward such unity," Grew said.

He discussed the Chinese situation in response to a question about the announcement of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek that a Chinese constitutional convention may be convened November 12.

In the intervening time, "we may hope," Grew said, that the Chinese may reach agreement "for unified military effort to meet the crucial situation in the months to come."

Lashio Under Siege By Land And Air

Calcutta, March 3 (AP)—The enemy's big Burma Road base of Lashio was brought under siege by land and air today and the Chinese 1st Army began assaulting the outer defenses 6½ miles north of the city.

Bombers attacked in waves so close they had to wait their turn in the sky, and the railheads, earthworks and warehouses of explosives went up in smoke and flames.

Three columns were closing on the city.

Dozen Villages Occupied

The frontal assault came from the north. Twelve miles east a flanking force broke a tough enemy stand, and the beaten Japanese fled for the dubious safety of the city.

A third column swung in about 8 miles west of the city. In all, a dozen Burma villages were occupied.

Precision bombing knocked out the last of six major bridges in the area, making retreat out of Lashio difficult. The Allied announcement said bombs hit both ends of the bridge, dropping it into the river.

Sheets Of Fire

Pilots over the stronghold said sheets of fire and explosions began outlining the entire marshaling area. Warehouses went up in spectacular flashes. Spreading fires were so bright that one pilot said his crew was virtually blinded.

United States and British bombers of the Eastern Air Command last night struck Thailand's port of Bangkok with the heaviest raid ever launched against that target.

The Makasan railway workshops were singled out in the moonlight by the bombers, who flew 1,100 miles from their bases in India and dumped 200 tons of explosives on the communications center.

Pagan Bridgehead Cleared

Aground, the British cleared the Pagan bridgehead 90 miles southwest of Mandalay in heavy fighting, but were checked at their Irrawaddy crossings north and west of the city.

On the western Burma coast, the British made slow gains against stiff opposition.

9 FLYERS RESCUED AS B-29 EXPLODES

Calcutta, March 3 (A. P.).—Nine Superfortress flyers bailed out 3,000 feet above the Indian Ocean thirty seconds before the giant bomber exploded and have been saved by a submarine and two R. A. F. Catalina flying boats.

The men were scattered over ten square miles of ocean 800 miles from India when they were picked up in their life jackets. A flying boat taxied for hours and gathered in five of the men. A British submarine cruising in the neighborhood picked up the four other survivors. Neither rescue crew knew of the other's action until the next day.

The Superfortress got into trouble over Singapore when a Japanese fighter shot out an engine and started a fire in a wing. A few minutes later the fighter made a second pass at the crippled bomber, destroying the plane's hydraulic system. Two more fires broke out, but the plane kept flying for three hours before pilot Capt. James E. Lyons of Stockton, Cal., ordered his crew to bail out. Distress signals were sent. Thirty seconds after the last man dropped the plane exploded and scattered debris. The Eastern Air Command base in India had received the distress signals and dispatched a Catalina 800 miles to reach the scene just before dawn.

The crewmen rescued by the Catalina were Capt. Lyons, co-pilot Lieut. Mills L. Bale of Lisbon, N. D.; Lieut. Frank W. Thorp, Detroit; Sergt. Louis L. Sanderick of Jeannette, Pa., and Sergt. Anthony Peleckis of Philadelphia. The men rescued by the submarine were Lieut. Nathan Teplick of Philadelphia, Vernon Lester of South Aberdeen, Chicago; Joseph M. Dimock Jr., of San Jose, Cal., and Sergt. John Topolski of Milwaukee.

Some Aiding Japs, Bengal Premier Says

Calcutta, March 3 (AP)—Premier Sir Kwaja Nazimuddin of Bengal charged before the Provincial Assembly today that there are still a number of people "actually trying to assist" emissaries of Japan.

The Premier made the statement during a debate on the Congress party resolution urging immediate release of all political prisoners in India.

Yank Forces Invade Ticao, Burias Islands

Americans Complete 19th, 20th Landings of Philippine Campaign.

MANILA, Sunday, March 4—(AP) Gen. Douglas MacArthur made his opening bid Saturday for the major port of Legaspi and air bases on southeastern Luzon by sending troops ashore at dawn on two nearby islands—the 19th and 20th invasion of the Philippines campaign.

Protected by warships and planes, Yanks of the veteran American division seized Ticao and Burias in the Sibuyan sea in a move to force the Japanese either to quit Luzon's Bicol peninsula or face destruction there.

Dominate Shipping Route

Forty-five-mile long Burias and 25-mile-long Ticao, both narrow in width, also further dominate the short shipping route through San Bernardino strait and Verde passage to Manila from the United States. They are on the west side of Bicol peninsula. [illegible] with its fine port, is on the [illegible] side.

MacArthur, announcing the new moves in today's communique, said Bicol peninsula constituted the eastern anchor of the Japanese hold on south Luzon and the two invasions threaten it with envelopment.

Burias is 175 miles southeast of Manila, Ticao 250 miles.

They constituted the third and fourth invasions announced by MacArthur in three straight days and the 10th and 11th since Feb. 21.

The new landings were made by elements of the Americal division, veterans of the Solomons campaign, from Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger's Eighth army. Other elements of this same division landed last week on little Capul island between Luzon and Samar to help open a short shipping route through the Philippines to Manila.

Seize Airfield On Luzon

Today's communique reported capture of one of the biggest airfields on Luzon island, at Iba along the west coast, midway between the western arm of Lingayen gulf and the tip of Bataan peninsula. The former American air base, which is on Zambales province, and the town of Iba were seized by troops of the U. S. 38th division. Eighteen damaged Japanese planes were captured.

Along the south arm of Manila bay, the 11th Airborne division took the town of Ternate, 18 miles southwest of Cavite.

The rarely mentioned Japanese airforce sent four bombers against Lingayen, scene of the Luzon landings last Jan. 9. The communique said the raiders caused "some damage and casualties" and that anti-aircraft gunners bagged one bomber.

Two other enemy planes attacked Tacloban airdrome on American-held Leyte.

The American airforce was active over the enemy-held islands of the Archipelago and patrol torpedo boats wrecked 13 Nipponese Q-boats in hideouts in Batangas bay, southern Luzon.

Heavy bombers from the Philippines which have been daily attacking war plants on Formosa dropped 170 tons in a new raid. The targets included the Nippon Aluminum company. Low-flying fighters went after storage tanks and railway yards. They also raided the nearby Pescadores islands, leaving barracks in flames.

Patrol planes sank five small cargo vessels in Formosa strait and a sixth in the Sakishima islands.

Others ranging over the China sea sank a 2,000-ton freighter and left a 1,000 ton ship in a sinking condition. They encountered four enemy planes, shooting down three and probably bagging the other.

On Dutch Borneo, which is menaced with possible invasion by American seizure of Palawan island, Liberators spilled 197 tons of bombs among three airdromes, leaving runways unusable. Other bombers attacked two more airdromes and the shipyards and drydocks at Sandakan.

MAR 4 1945

18th Philippine Island Invaded; Sea Lane Clear

Manila, March 3 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed today the fourth in a series of rapid-fire invasions—a landing on Lubang Island, 35 miles southwest of Manila Bay—giving his forces complete control of the shortest sea route through the heart of the Philippines to Manila.

The western end of a 300-mile passage, through which Manila can be supplied and Luzon transformed into a huge military base facing Asia, was opened by veteran 24th Division troops which seized Lubang Thursday.

Negligible Resistance

Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving's Yanks overwhelmed "negligible resistance" on the 18-by-8-mile island at the western exit of Verde Passage, the eighteenth Philippine island MacArthur has invaded.

Within a little over a week the sea route was cleared by invasions of Verde Island, east of Lubang, and Capul and Biri islands guarding the eastern end of the sea route in San Bernardino Strait between Luzon and Samar.

Lubang was the second island invasion in as many days. Yanks of Maj. Gen. Jens A. Doe's 41st Division swarmed ashore on Palawan, 250 miles southwest of Manila, Wednesday. Today MacArthur said the 41st had completed occupation of Puerto Princesa Harbor, midway along Palawan's 275-mile-long east coast and had occupied a third airfield.

The invasion of Palawan extending American control of the South China Sea's eastern shores, was aimed at cutting Japan's sea connections with the East Indies.

There are other islands along the San Bernardino-Verde route to war-ravaged Manila but presumably they either are not occupied by the Japanese or the enemy on them lacks strength to menace shipping.

Cuts Distance In Half

Hitherto, supplies sent through the Philippines to the South China Sea coast of Luzon have had to follow a circuitous course past enemy-held islands of the southern Philippines, more than double the distance of the new route.

Far to the north, Yanks infiltrating into the Caraballo Mountains are enveloping and unhinging enemy positions covering the Balete Pass area.

Today's communiqué told of bombings by Liberators in the Davao-Zamboanga area of Mindanao Island and effective attacks on shipping by patrol planes off Formosa, Okinawa and the China coast.

Invasion Of Borneo Believed Indicated

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's landing on Palawan Island points to the possibility of a landing on Borneo to get access to rich oil resources.

Bornea, lying only a short distance south of the southern top of Palawan, has been effectively cut off from the Japanese home islands by the Navy's severance of the enemy's supply lines through the South China Sea.

On the island are some of the world's purest oil deposits.

That supply, a naval spokesman said, would be helpful for the Navy. At the same time he reiterated the Navy's boast that it is capable of effecting a landing anywhere it chooses, including Borneo.

"If the Allies feel the need of a closer source of supply for oil for its fleets than is now available," he said, "it will be taken care of."

Gen. MacArthur On Radio Today

New York, March 3 (AP)—NBC announced tonight that Gen. Douglas MacArthur would be heard from Corregidor on the Army Hour program Sunday between 3.30 and 4.30 P.M., Eastern War Time.

U.S. Shell Fired on Luzon Showers Men With Silver

Scores Direct Hit on Filipino Cache of Pre-War Coins

MANILA, March 3 (AP).—A 25th Division artillery battery firing on suspected Japanese positions near Rizal the other day hit the jackpot with a 105-mm. shell. A veritable geyser of silver spouted up as the shell exploded. Silver coins showered down on troops several hundred yards away.

The shell had struck a cache of Filipino pre-war silver including some American currency. The cash, scooped up into sandbags after Americans captured the area, required two trucks to haul it to the 6th Army finance officer, who began a hunt for the owners.

This was one of several such caches uncovered by advancing Americans, said Captain Francis Brannan, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. Brannan hesitated to estimate the amount finally raked up from holes in the countryside, but said it would certainly run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. Most of the coins were of small denominations.

Filipinos buried a great deal of money during the Japanese occupation lest it be taken from them in exchange for worthless Japanese currency.

Romulo and His Family Reunited by Plane Rescue

Artillery Flyers Pick Up His Kin Behind Foe's Lines

MANILA, March 3 (AP).—Brigadier General Carlos Romulo, Philippine Resident Commissioner in the United States and now with General Douglas MacArthur in the Philippines, was reunited with his wife, two sons and brother-in-law last night after four 14th Corps artillery planes landed behind Japanese planes and picked up Romulo's family.

The Romulos had not seen each other since the general left Bataan with MacArthur in 1942. The reunion occurred in front of the tent of Major General O. W. Griswold, 14th Corps commander, at a field command post on the edge of Manila. Two other sons are with the Philippine forces.

First Lieutenant Lloyd Sheetz, of Topeka, Kans., flew the plane that brought Mrs. Romulo from a refuge in Laguna Province, on Luzon Island, where she had eluded the Japanese for three years. First Lieutenant William Dorn, of London, Ohio, flew one son out.

The pilots learned of the whereabout of the Romulos from guerrillas. Then they flew into the area and landed on a roadway.

150 U. S. Prisoners Massacred By Japs on Palawan Island

By RICHARD BERGHOLZ

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, March 3—(AP) The massacre of 150 American war prisoners by the Japanese constabulary at Puerto Princessa, Palawan island, was officially announced tonight by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In a special press release the general said "additional evidence" had been uncovered by the Yank 41st infantry division at the Puerto Princessa prison camp substantiating stories that the Japanese threw gasoline in on the helpless Americans, ignited it and then machine-gunned or bayonetted any who tried to flee.

At least five of the Americans escaped and reached Yank lines.

The press release said "human bones and bits of charred clothing covered by a layer of dirt and rubble were found in one of the air-raid shelters near the barracks, mute testimony of the wholesale slaughter."

Corp. Elmo D. Deal, of Yuba City Calif., who was captured on Bataan in 1942 and taken to the Palawan prison camp, told this story:

"There were about 150 soldiers, sailors and Marines at Palawan. In December the Japs got word that there was a big convoy at sea. They thought the convoy, which was going to Mindoro island, was headed their way and became crazed with fear.

"They herded us into a string of underground shelters in a compound near the barracks. I don't know which Jap officer gave the word but they threw gasoline in on us and ignited it. We tried to get out the other end of the dugout but they mowed us down with machineguns."

MARINES PUSHING JAPS BACK TO SEA

Threaten to Sever Stubborn Enemy Defense Line on Iwo.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Sunday, Mar. 4 — (AP) Hard-hitting American Marines fighting the bloody battle of Iwo Jima slowly pushed the Japanese back toward the sea on the northern end of the island today and threatened to sever the last interconnecting Nipponese line of strong pillboxes.

Although slowed by a desperate enemy, the Marines drove to within 300 yards of the cliff's edge on northeastern Iwo Saturday in a move to cut the tightly compressed Japanese garrison in two.

Near Iwo Cliffs

This gain was scored by Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third division in the center which halved in the day's hard fighting the distance between them and the point where the cliffs drop down toward the sea.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' communique today, reporting Leatherneck gains of 200 to 400 yards, also reported advances on the west side but Marines on the east still were stymied by an enemy pocket at Minami, southeast of captured Motoyama town.

The Japanese are compressed into a gourd-shaped area around Iwo's northeastern and northern rim. The area is 1,500 yards wide at the widest point on the east and 1,400 yards at the widest point on the north.

From the northwest coast, the line runs almost straight across from a point 1,400 yards south of Kitano point, the island's northern tip, until it reaches within 300 yards of the cliff's edge on the northeast. At that point, the line is 700 yards from the broad northeastern beach below the cliffs.

The line then runs almost straight north and south for 3,900 yards to the bottom of the bulge of Iwo's east coast.

Supply ships, which first unloaded on the eastern beaches, where the original invasion took place Feb. 19, are using both the eastern and western beaches to speed up the operation.

The communique said all divisions met heavy fire from mortars and small arms.

Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth is moving beyond a hard-won 362-foot promontory on the left flank of Erskine's Leathernecks.

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' Fourth has been held to a virtual stalemate on the right flank for six days but the progress of Erskine's Third threatens to seal off the hard-fighting enemy group before the Fourth.

Transports Use Airfield

The southern airfield on Iwo, captured by the Marines on the second day of the invasion and since put into use for artillery spotter planes, now is being used by larger transport to evacuate the wounded.

As the Japanese were crowded into a narrowing area, which is well protected by pillboxes and blockhouses, their resistance mounted and the Marines yesterday had to be content largely with straightening their lines.

Artillery and carrier-based planes supported the limited advances.

Carrier planes also made a rocket attack on Chichi Jima and Haha Jima in the Bonin islands, north of Iwo, sinking one enemy vessel.

Other air attacks were reported against Wake and enemy-held islands in the Palau and Marshall groups.

The gains Saturday were on a considerably smaller scale than those of Friday when Erskine's 3d sent a 700-yard wedge north which extended to within 600 yards of the cliff's edge on the northeast coast.

Half-buried enemy defense works lay between the 3d Marines and the cliff, and the fight in that area promises to be tough. The Japanese defenders are showing signs of desperation. When they are driven beyond the cliff they will be in the open, their backs to the sea.

Marines Near Last Defense Line On Iwo

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 3 (AP)—Only 600 yards of terrain stood today between the 3d United States Marines and the point at which they may cut the last interconnecting Japanese pillbox line, along blood-soaked Iwo Island's northern end.

But it was a rugged stretch, by anybody's definition. It sloped irregularly downward to a cliff which probably will serve as the last stand of the Japanese.

Line Of Defense Works

Between the Marine outpost and the cliff runs a system of half-underground enemy defense works which, like others the Marines have faced in the last ten days, must be taken the hard way. And the Japanese are beginning to show signs of desperation.

The 3d Division leathernecks, under Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, lunged forward 700 yards Friday to seize a 362-foot hill in the northern part of the island, within rifle range of the cliff, and in position to cut the Nipponese line, shaped like a boomerang, in two.

The American advance formed a salient pointing toward the inside of the bend in the line. The cliff, running along the northeastern shore about 500 yards in from the waterline, is one outside edge of the boomerang.

Between Marines And Sea

Once the Japanese back up beyond the cliff they will be in the open, between the Devildogs and the sea, and they no longer will have the advantage of connecting strongpoints.

The 4th Marines, on the right flank of the 3d, also inched forward a little after having been stopped for five days by ferocious enemy fire. To the left of the 3d Division, the 5th Marines also advanced, but met the largest-scale counterattack the Japanese have offered in several days. It had some aspects of a Banzai attack such as the enemy has staged elsewhere when his position became hopeless. The enemy also was believed to be running short of water.

Cargo Parachute Dropped

Regimental staff officers report that Japanese planes have dropped cargo parachutes to the enemy garrison. Relaying the reports of the action, Second Lieutenant Jim G. Lucas said:

"It is believed they are attempting to get water to the thirst-crazed troops."

Capture of the 362-foot hill by the 3d Division left the enemy with only one remaining similar height near the steep cliffs. It also brought the Yanks to within 1,400 yards of the northernmost tip of the island.

The advance of the 5th Division also took in another 362-foot hill dominating a fortified ridge protecting the northern side of the island. The clearing of the enemy from this ridge would put him back on sloping ground along the northern outside edge of the boomerang, and make him an open target for tanks.

Artillery Thought Out

A significant feature of today's fleet communiqué was the absence of any reference to enemy artillery fire. This suggested that the Japanese field guns had been knocked out.

The communiqué today reported a count of 7,127 enemy dead as of noon March 2, an increase of 2,343 in four days. There have been no American reports on Yank losses since February 23, when a communiqué said the American casualties as of 6 P.M. February 21 were 644 killed, 4,168 wounded and 560 missing—a total of 5,372. Tokyo has claimed the United States casualties on Iwo exceed 13,500.

Airfield Almost Ready

The Leathernecks soon may have the aid of land-based combat planes. Engineers have Iwo's southern airfield, which was captured in the early stage of the invasion, almost ready for bombers and fighters. Artillery spotter planes have been using it for several days.

Both carrier and land planes, the latter from the Marianas, made neutralization attacks on the Bonin Islands, north of Iwo, Thursday, and Navy search planes bombed Japanese-held Wake Island, in the mid-Pacific, the same day.

He Knew The Jap Hadn't Got Out

Iwo Jima [AP—Delayed]—Questioned by an officer as to why he was poking around a Jap earth-covered bunker which had been by-passed a day and a half before a Marine replied, "There's a Jap in there."

The officer then asked, "How do you know he's in there?"

The Marine, still busy poking and snooping about loopholes in the bunker, made the laconic reply, "Because I threw a grenade in there and he threw it back."

Beer Descends On Iwo—Can Of It By Parachute

Iwo Jima, March 3 [AP—via Navy Radio]—Good American beer appeared on this volcanic, battle-beaten island today—one can of it.

A supply transport plane swept over a platoon of Marines and dropped a green parachute bearing a small package.

Mast. Tech. Sergt. John H. Baldwin, of Columbus, Ohio, and Los Angeles, was the first to reach it.

"There were too many Marines around," said Baldwin. "All we got was a sip apiece."

PLANES TAKE MAIL TO FIGHTERS ON IWO

GUAM, March 3 (AP)—The Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps all passed out jubilant press releases today—the American forces on Iwo are getting mail from home while under fire.

Approximately 4,000 pounds of mail are being parachuted daily and a backlog of almost 5,000,000 pounds is still to be forwarded by either plane or ship. The TAG—the Transport Air Group—is carrying the mail; it started on March 1. That is the reason for the three press releases: the TAG is composed of Army, Navy and Marine personnel.

Capt. D. M. Peterson, a marine of Pomona, Calif., piloted the first plane to drop mail. The Navy Postal Service is also forwarding mail to men on ships at Iwo. This marks the first time in the Pacific that mail service has been attempted during an operation.

Lieut. Col. Thomas Hagood of the Army and Abbeville, Ala., commanding the United States Seventh Air Force troop-carrier squadron that dropped 100,000 letters on Iwo on March 2, said:

"The marines in bomb craters near an airstrip ran out to get the parachute packs. Then we'd see packs and marines disappear into shell holes. We flew under an arc of mortar and artillery fire to make drops."

Planes skimmed the island at 150 feet to make the drops.

Island 350 Miles Off Japan Shelled By U.S. Warships

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 3 (AP)—Guns of American warships thundered their closest challenge yet to Japan's homeland Thursday night after carrier planes had again raided the Ryukyu Islands.

The all-night bombardment battered little Okino Daito, an island only 350 miles south of the Nippon mainland.

Carrier planes hit the Ryukyu (Nansei Shoto) chain by daylight preceding the bombardment and Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's communiqué said they destroyed or damaged 55 enemy ships and 91 aircraft.

East Of Ryukyus

Okino Daito lies some 210 miles east of the Ryukyus and about 700 miles west of Iwo Jima.

The communiqué did not name the surface or carrier force commanders. It was presumed that both forces were from Admiral Raymond A. Spruance's 5th Fleet, which has been operating in Japanese waters in connection with the Iwo invasion.

The communqué said the bombardment started large fires in the target area of Okino Daito.

Lumber Yards Targets

Planes of the carrier force struck at airfields, barracks, warehouses, radio stations, mills and lumber yards in the Okinawa group of six islands in the center of the Ryukyus.

Okinawa, largest island of the Ryukyus, has been attacked repeatedly since the first carrier raid October 9. The chain was raided again by carriers January 2-3, January 8 and January 21. Land-based army bombers from the Philippines recently made Okinawa and enemy shipping in that area almost daily targets.

Nimitz reported the Thursday raid was carried out "without enemy air opposition" and with the loss of eight American flyers and thirteen planes.

Only four of the 41 Japanese planes definitely destroyed were caught in the air. The rest and the 50 listed as probably demolished or damaged were on the ground.

Of the 55 enemy ships bombed and strafed thirteen were sunk and thirteen others probably sunk.

Okinawa, about 60 miles long and 2 to 18 miles wide, is an important military and airbase between Japan and Formosa. The Okinawa group has a dozen communities of more than 5,000 population. The largest, Naha, on the southwest coast of Okinawa, has a population of 65,000, living in flimsy homes.

Ryukyus Raided From Carriers; 55 Ships Hit

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 3 (AP)—American carrier planes swept across the Ryukyu Islands virtually unopposed Thursday, destroying or damaging 55 Japanese ships and 91 planes, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

That night a task force from Admiral Raymond A. Spruance's 5th Fleet followed up the daylight raid with a night-long bombardment of Okino Daito, 210 miles east of the main Ryukyu chain which guards the approaches to southern Japan and the China coast.

Bombarding warships were only 350 miles south of Japan, the closest announced approach to the enemy mainland in a nav[illegible] attack on shore objectives.

Nimitz said thirteen enemy vessels were sunk, thirteen probably sunk and 29 damaged.

41 Jap Planes Destroyed

Forty-one Japanese planes were definitely destroyed and 50 others either demolished or damaged on the ground.

Four of the total were shot down in the air and American pilots had to chase Japanese planes to bring them down. Not a single interceptor ventured to oppose the American planes, which Tokyo broadcasts previously said swarmed over the islands 600 strong.

Okinawa Center

The attack cost the raiders eight airmen and thirteen planes.

Airfields, barracks, warehouses, radio and radar installations, mills and lumber yards were destroyed in the sweep over six islands in the center of the chain.

The attack centered around Okinawa, frequently hit by Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's fast carrier forces and now almost a daily target of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's land-based bombers from the Philippines.

MacArthur's Saturday communiqué told of sinking five small freighters off Okinawa and leaving another five in flames.

Destruction of lumber mills by Spruance's airmen not only provided billowing bonfires to guide the flyers but constituted an indirect blow at Japanese shipping, as the enemy radio has made frequent mention of being forced to resort to wooden cargo ships because of a shortage of steel.

Lumber Saving Urged

Repeatedly the citizens of Nippon have been asked to save lumber, and forests considered hitherto untouchable have been drawn upon to supply timbers for the fast-dwindling merchant fleet.

Okinawa, the central island of the long chain between Japan and Formosa, is 60 miles long and 2 to 18 miles wide. It ranges from rugged uplands in the northern section to lowlands in the south, where most of its 435,000 inhabitants live.

Failure of the Japanese to send up intercepting planes was surprising as Okinawa has a number of airfields valuable to the Japanese.

First Attack In October

The communiqué phrase "without enemy air opposition" was unique in announcements thus far of strikes against Japan itself, or against such innermost defense bastions.

American carrier planes attacked the Ryukyus (or Nansei Shoto—name for the islands used in the communiqué) for the first time last October 9. That attack accounted for 46 Japanese ships and 41 small craft sunk and 82 Japanese planes destroyed, at a cost of eight American aircraft.

Subsequent raids on January 2-3, 8 and 21 destroyed a total of 223 enemy planes and sank 87 ships and small craft.

The Okinawa Island group of the Ryukyus, although militarily important, has little economic value. The standard of living is low among the inhabitants. It has half a dozen cities of more than 5,000 population, of which Naha, on the southwest coast, is the largest. It is a crowded community of flimsy buildings, with a population of 65,000.

Commanders Not Named

Unlike most previous carrier strike announcements, the communiqué did not name the commanders of the attacking force.

The Japanese inner empire has been hammered repeatedly by B-29 Superfortresses and the Tokyo area was pounded by carrier planes February 16, 17 and 25, severely crippling plane production.

The lack of airborne opposition over the Ryukyus would seem to indicate the enemy is running out of planes or pilots, or both.

PACIFIC HUNT ON FOR HARMON

AAF Commander And 9 Others Missing On Flight

United States Army Headquarters, Pacific Ocean Areas, Honolulu, March 3 (AP)—The Pacific's greatest aerial and surface-ship search was on today for Lieut. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander of Army Air Forces in the Pacific, and nine other officers and men reported missing on a transocean flight.

The announcement that Harmon's plane was overdue and that the search had been ordered was made here by Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., army commander of the Pacific Ocean areas.

Maj. Gen. R. J. Breene, deputy commander for administration to Harmon, said today: "A complete and thorough search for the missing plane has been made and is being continued.

Largest Yet Made

"This is the largest search operation yet made. Already army and navy search craft have covered an enormous area of the Pacific Ocean and every incident having any bearing on the lost airplane has been thoroughly investigated. The Navy is in direct charge of the search operation."

A statement from army headquarters says that the plane was en route from a forward base to Hickam Field in Hawaii.

No information was given as to time, but it was disclosed that the last heard from the converted bomber used by Harmon was a radio report saying the plane had plenty of fuel and was traveling in good weather over calm seas.

Fellow Passengers Listed

The others aboard were:

Brig. Gen. James B. Andersen, Washington, D.C., Harmon's chief of staff.

Col. William Ball, Washington, D.C., executive officer for the deputy commander of operations, Army Air Forces, Pacific Ocean Areas.

Major Francis E. Savage, Tioga, Texas, pilot.

Major Archibald D. Anderson, Brookings, S.D., navigator.

Lieut. Jack M. West, Chicago, copilot.

Mast. Sergt. Douglas Anderson, La Center, Wash., engineer.

Tech. Sergt. Steve Geist, Brooklyn, N.Y., radio operator.

Pfc. Arthur Oscar, Kansas City, Mo., assistant engineer.

Technical Sergeant McInerney (first name and home not available) was a passenger.

Won DSM In Last War

Harmon, 57, a native of San Francisco, also is a deputy commander of the 20th Air Force, which is making the B-29 raids against Japan.

He has been in the Pacific since the early days of the war and was commander of the army air and ground forces in the South Pacific during the Solomons campaign. A West Pointer, he won the Distinguished Service Medal as a fighter pilot in the last war.

The search recalled one made in 1942 south of Hawaii for Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, whose plane was forced down in the sea while he was on a tour of the war fronts as a representative of the War Department. He and most of the plane's crew were rescued from rafts after being lost three weeks.

Pacific Is Searched For Gen. Harmon

Army Headquarters, Pacific Ocean Areas, Honolulu, March 3 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander of Army Air Forces operating in the Pacific, is missing with nine other officers and men in a transocean flight.

Early today the Army announced that the 57-year-old general's plane was missing on a routine flight and the greatest air and naval search ever launched in the Pacific was under way.

The brief announcement by Lieut. Gen. Richard C. Richardson, Jr., commander of army forces in the Pacific Ocean area, did not disclose when or where the plane was lost.

Attack Possibility

When last heard from, the general's big converted bomber had ample fuel to complete its flight and was traveling through good weather over calm seas.

There was no indication whether the plane—presumably the four-engined Liberator that Harmon normally uses—was flying through a combat zone and might have been attacked by Japanese aircraft or whether it may have crashed because of operational difficulties.

Harmon, as deputy commander of the 20th Air Force, played a leading role in the Superfortress attacks on Tokyo.

Great Seach Is On.

Lieut.-Gen. Richard C. Richardson Jr., the Army commander in the Pacific, said that all available naval ships and planes had been dispatched to join in the search for Gen. Harmon and the others.

Rickenbacker Rescue Gives Hope

The search undoubtedly exceeds the quests in the Pacific for Amelia Earhart and Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker. In 1937 a United States naval task force combed 250,000 square miles of the Pacific in a search for Miss Earhart and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan. They were not found.

The rescue of Rickenbacker, America's World War I flying ace, after being lost south of Hawaii for three weeks in 1942, gave hope to the hunt for Harmon.

General Harmon, 57, is a native of San Francisco. A West Pointer, he was a fighter pilot in France in the first World War. Harmon commanded army forces in the Solomon Islands fighting, winning the Distinguished Service Medal.

He had a narrow escape from death on a torpedoed ship in June, 1943, and since has traveled the Pacific principally by plane.

Others Missing

Those missing in addition to General Harmon are:

Brig. Gen. James R. Andersen, Washington, D.C., chief of staff to General Harmon.

Col. William Ball, Washington, D.C., executive officer for the deputy commander of operations, Army Air Forces, Pacific Ocean area.

Major Francis E. Savage, Tioga, Texas, the pilot.

Major Archibald D. Anderson, Brookings, S.D., navigator.

First Lieutenant Jack M. West, Chicago, copilot.

Master Sergeant Douglas Anderson, La Center, Wash., engineer.

Tech. Sergt. Steve Geist, Brooklyn, N.Y., radio operator.

Pfc. Arthur Oscar, Kansas City, Mo., assistant engineer.

Technical Sergeant McInerney, whose full name was not available, was a passenger.

Next of kin have all been notified.

day.

Indications are that it will be made without any heated debate. The statement is expected to look toward return of Argentina to the American system now perfected, but leave action in that direction to Buenos Aires.

Called New Monroe Doctrine

Senator Connally described the act as "one of the greatest state papers in the world." The Senator's speech was incorporated in the act as official interpretation.

Connally said that the Act of Chapultepec is a new Monroe Doctrine backed by all the Americas instead of just the United States.

It states specifically that "the security and solidarity of the continent are affected to the same extent by an act of aggression," against an American state by a non-American country as by one within the hemisphere.

To Be Adjusted To World Plan

However, the provisions for using force to quell disputes in this hemisphere are to be geared to the world-security organization. Precise definition of how much power

Act Of Chapultepec Adopted Unanimously At Mexico City

Mexico City, March 3 (AP)—Twenty American republics unanimously adopted the Act of Chapultepec today, forming an historic alliance to keep the peace of this continent by force if necessary.

Senator Tom Connally, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate, declared that the act, which guarantees frontiers and independence during the war and provides for a lasting treaty afterward, was "a forerunner of what we hope will happen at San Francisco," where the world security conference meets next month.

"This conference gives unity of purpose so that all republics of this hemisphere are united to resist interference from abroad in the Western Hemisphere," he told the Inter-American Conference now drawing to a close.

"Equality Of States"

"But it goes beyond that. No ambitious power in this hemisphere can contemplate the conquest of another republic in this hemisphere. The act recognizes the equality of states—it protects both the weak and the strong."

The unity established by the republics in their mutual pledge paved the way for a statement on Argentina, which may come Monthe regional system will have remains to be taken up at the United Nations meeting at San Francisco.

The act is carefully worded so as to meet the countries' constitutional requirements, especially those of the United States.

It takes effect immediately, based on the President's war powers to order United States armed forces anywhere they may be needed to promote the United Nations war effort.

The Chapultepec Act also recommends that its provisions be made into a lasting treaty when the emergency is over.

Ready For Rest Of Program

With the act completed, the conference prepared to fill in the other parts of a hemisphere-wide union for peace and prosperity.

The new American system is scheduled to reinforce its core of security guarantees with:

1. A strengthened Pan-American Union enabled to act as a regional security council similar to the Dumbarton Oaks world organization.

2. A permanent board representing the American chiefs of staff to plan hemisphere defense and military sanctions if they are needed.

3. Concrete economic agreements to smooth the road from war to peace. These revolve about United States assurances that raw materials purchases will be tapered off rather than sheared suddenly at the end of hostilities.

There was considerable argument on this point, as the Latins wanted the United States to continue stockpiling after the war, but a formula was finally reached which would continue temporarily the purchase of strategic materials.

4. A pledge to remove trade barriers as quickly as possible and acceptance of the principle of unhampered, private international commerce. Temporary restrictions were accepted, however, to protect infant industry in developing Latin-American countries until it can stand on its own feet.

Conference On Military Law

Washington, March 3 (AP)—A five-week conference on military laws in American republics will begin March 15 in Chicago, the War Department announced today.

Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Mexico, Paraguay, Peru and Uruguay as well as the United States will be represented by military legal offices.

The first ten days of the conference will be devoted to lectures and discussions at Northwestern University and the remainder of the time to visits to military establishments and Washington.

GUARANTIES VOTED AT MEXICO PARLEY

MAR 4 1945

Inter-American Conference Agreement Protects Territory of Every Nation in Hemisphere.

Mexico City, March 3 (A. P.).—The Inter-American Conference here today guaranteed the territorial integrity and the independence of each American republic, backed by the armed power of the hemisphere.

The Act of Chapultepec, modified by the United States from the original document combining proposals from Colombia, Uruguay and Brazil, was approved by the Commission on Inter-American Affairs. Passage by the conference in plenary session is now a formality, as the twenty nations participating are all represented on the commission.

The pledge will take effect immediately when the act is signed, probably at the last meeting of the conference on Wednesday.

Delegates considered the document historic in two ways. The act of Chapultepec is the most far-reaching pact ever reached in this hemisphere to enforce peace and it sets a precedent for the United Nations conference in San Francisco of combining security agreements with boundary assurances.

The act obliges each American State to contribute to a joint action against any aggression in this hemisphere or invasion from beyond the seas.

The main change from the original declaration was to base the obligation on the United Nations' war effort at present and to provide for a permanent treaty later.

Change Fits U. S. Needs.

This was done primarily to fit constitutional needs of the United States, since a p[illegible]anent commitment would [illegible]ire Senate ratification. The [illegible]sident, under the special [illegible]powers act, has the authorit[illegible]ect United States armed might during the emergency.

The declaration also states the right of American nations to settle their own disputes without interference from overseas, within the Dumbarton Oaks blueprint.

The Dumbarton Oaks plan provides that sanctions can only be taken upon approval of the World Security Council.

It is understood that the United States is contemplating a request to Britain and Russia that this clause be modified to allow the Western Hemisphere to proceed on its own, except when an American quarrel threatens world peace.

The Chapultepec document is to take effect as soon as it is signed. It thus would become the first definite multilateral pledge to keep the peace since this war began.

Many delegates expressed belief that it might ease tension in connection with the Argentine problem.

One clause, introduced late, made a special point of guaranteeing boundaries established by treaty.

It provided that "in any case, invasion by armed forces of one state into the territory of another, trespassing boundaries established by treaty and marked in accordance therewith, shall constitute an act of aggression.

Threat to One Affects All.

Thus defining the final act of aggression, the declaration binds each American nation to consider a threat to any one a threat to itself.

A long series of sanctions are provided, from the withdrawal of Ambassadors through severance of diplomatic, economic and communications ties down to military action.

Other Resolutions

Although the act is considered the most important result of the conference, the delegates are supplementing it with a number of other resolutions to maintain military vigilance for self-defense.

These proposals, in varying stages of final acceptance, comprise:

The setting up of a permanent inter-American general staff to draw up plans for hemispheric defense.

Effective use of methods to prevent the growth of subversive activities.

Complete outlawing of totalitarian agents.

To bolster these, the conference is also drawing up its final master plan to strengthen the internal economics of the American republics with the purpose of bringing about political and social security.

Text of the Act of Chapultepec

MEXICO CITY, March 3 (AP).—The text of the Act of Chapultepec:

Declaration on reciprocal assistance and American solidarity by the governments represented at the Inter-American Conference on War and Peace:

Whereas:

1. The peoples of the Americas, animated by a profound love of justice, remain sincerely devoted to the principles of international law;

2. It is their desire that such principles, notwithstanding the present difficult circumstances, may prevail with greater force in future international relations;

3. The Inter-American Conferences have repeatedly proclaimed certain fundamental principles, but these must be reaffirmed and proclaimed at a time when the juridical bases of the community of nations are being established;

4. The new situation in the world makes more imperative than ever the union and solidarity of the American peoples, for the defense of their rights and the maintenance of international peace;

5. The American states have been incorporating in their international law, since 1890, by means of conventions, resolutions and declarations, the following principles:

(a) The proscription of territorial conquest and the non-recognition of all acquisitions made by force. (First International Conference of American States, 1890.)

(b) The condemnation of intervention by a state in the internal or external affairs of another. (Seventh International Conference of American States, 1933, and Inter-American conference for the Maintenance of Peace, 1936.)

(c) The recognition that every war or threat of war affects directly or indirectly all civilized peoples, and endangers the great principles of liberty and justice which constitute the American ideal and the standard of its international policy. (Inter-American Conference for the Maintenance of Peace, 1936.)

(d) The procedure of mutual consultation in order to find means of peaceful co-operation in the event of war or threat of war between American countries. (Inter-American Conference for the Maintenance of Peace, 1936.)

(e) The recognition that every act susceptible of disturbing the peace of America affects each and every one of them and justifies the initiation of the procedure of consultation. (Inter-American Conference for the Maintenance of Peace, 1936.)

(f) That any difference or dispute between the American nations, whatever its nature or origin, shall be settled by the methods of conciliation, or unrestricted arbitration, or through the operation of international justice. (Inter-American Conference for the Maintenance of Peace, 1936.)

(G) The recognition that respect for the personality, sovereignty and independence of each American state constitutes the essence of international order sustained by continental solidarity, which historically has been expressed and sustained by declarations and treaties in force. (Ninth International Conference of American States, 1938.)

(H) The affirmation that respect for and the faithful observance of treaties constitutes the indispensable rule for the development of peaceful relations between states, and treaties can only be revised by agreement of the contracting parties. (Declaration of American Principles, Eighth International Conference of American States, 1938.)

(I) That in case the peace, security or territorial [illegible]grity of any American republ[illegible] threatened by acts of any nature that may impair them, they proclaim their common concern and their determination to make effective their solidarity, co-ordinating their respective sovereign will by means of the procedure of consultation, using the measures which in each case the circumstances may make advisable. (Declaration of Lima, Eighth International Conference of American States, 1938.)

(J) That any attempt on the part of a non-American state against the integrity or inviolability of the territory, the sovereignty or the political independence of an American state shall be considered as an act of aggression against all the American states. (Declaration XV of the second meeting of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Havana, 1940.)

6. The furtherance of these principles, which the American states have practiced in order to secure peace and solidarity between the nations of the continent, constitutes an effective means of contributing to the general system of world security and of facilitating its establishment;

7. The security and solidarity of the continent are affected to the same extent by an act of aggression against any of the American states by a non-American state, as by an American state against one or more American states.

PART I
DECLARATION

First. That all sovereign states are juridically equal amongst themselves.

Second. That every state has the right to the respect of its individuality and independence, on the part of the other members of the international community.

Third. That every attack of a state against the integrity or the inviolability of territory, or against the sovereignty or political independence of an American state, shall, conformably to Part III hereof, be considered as an act of aggression against the other states which sign this declaration.

In any case, invasion by armed forces of one state into the territory of another, trespassing boundaries established by treaty and marked in accordance therewith, shall constitute an act of aggression.

Fourth. That in case that acts of aggression occur or there may be reasons to believe that an aggression is being prepared by any other state against the integrity or political independence of an American state, the states signatory to this declaration will consult amongst themselves in order to agree upon measures they think that it may be advisable to take.

Fifth. That during the war and until treaty arrangements recommended in Part II hereof, the signatories of this declaration recognize such threats and acts of aggression as indicated in paragraphs third and fourth above, constitute an interference with the war effort of the United Nation's calling for such procedures, within the scope of their general constitutional and war powers, as may be found necessary, including:

Recall of chiefs of diplomatic missions;

Breaking of diplomatic relations;

Breaking of consular relations;

Breaking of postal, telegraphic, telephonic, radio-telephonic relations;

Interruption of economic, commercial and financial relations;

Use of armed force to prevent or repel aggression.

Sixth. That the principles and procedure contained in this declaration shall become effective immediately, inasmuch as any act of aggression or threat of aggression during the present state of war interferes with the war effort of the United Nations to obtain victory. Henceforth, and with the view that the principles and procedure herein stipulated shall conform with the constitutional principles of each republic, the respective governments shall take the necessary steps to perfect this instrument in order that it shall be in force at all times.

PART II
RECOMMENDATION

The Inter-American Conference on Problems of War and Peace recommends:

That for the purpose of meeting threats of acts of aggression against any American republic following the establishment of peace, the governments of the American republics should consider the conclusion, in accordance with their constitutional processes, of a treaty establishing procedures whereby such threats or acts may be met by:

The use, by all or some of the signatories of said treaty thereto, of any one or more of the following measures:

Recall of chiefs of diplomatic missions.

Breaking of diplomatic relations.

Breaking of consular relations.

Breaking of postal, telegraphic, telephonic, radio-telephonic relations.

Interruption of economic, commercial and financial relations.

Use of armed force to prevent or repel aggression.

PART III

This declaration and recommendation provide for a regional arrangement for dealing with matters relating to the maintenance of international peace and security as are appropriate for regional action in the Western Hemisphere and said arrangements and the activities and procedures referred to therein shall be consistent with the purposes and principles of the general international organization when formed.

This declaration and recommendation shall be known by the name of Act of Chapultepec.

New Jap Admiral.

A new commander, replacing Vice-Admiral Kakusaburo Makita, has been appointed for the Maizuru naval station on the west coast of Honshu, main Japanese home island, the Tokyo radio said today.

The name of the new commander was unintelligible in the broadcast recorded by the FCC. Admiral Makita has been transferred to the naval staff board.

Japs To 'Streamline' Departmental System

San Francisco, March 3 (AP)—The imperial Japanese cabinet has adopted a program of streamlining Japan's departmental system of government "in line with the decisive war," radio Tokyo announced today.

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, reported the departmental plans will be "materialized speedily and resolutely after conferring with the cabinet."

Radio Tokyo also said Premier Kuniaki Koiso presided over a "heated" meeting of the new wartime commodity price council and that "basic problems of the price policy, as well as its execution, were threshed out."

Duce's Aide Arrested For Conspiracy, Report

New York, March 3 (AP)—The Geneva newspaper La Suisse reports that Guido Buffarini-Guidi, until recently Interior Minister in Benito Mussolini's puppet Cabinet in north Italy, is held by the Germans on suspicion of having "started negotiations in order to surrender the Duce to the Partisans, or even to the Allies."

The Swiss newspaper Popolo E Liberta said the former head of the north Italian Fascist militia and police, Tullio Tamburini, had been arrested and accused of smuggling French money.

Both dispatches were reported today by the OWI.

'SUPERFORTS' POUND TOKYO 11TH TIME

150 Giant Bombers Smash at Strategic Targets in Urban Areas of Capital

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—More than 150 Superfortresses struck Tokyo today for the eleventh time.

The huge force attacked in daylight against targets described as strategic in the urban areas of the Japanese capital, an announcement from Twentieth Air Force Headquarters said.

The group flew up from the Marianas Island bases of the Twenty-first Bomber Command, headed by Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay.

The announcement did not specify the size of the attacking group, which it described as very large. Operational reports were awaited before release of additional information.

The tenth B-29 blow at Tokyo was staged by more than 200 B-29's.

Morning Attack Reported

Superfortresses opened an attack on Tokyo and surrounding areas at 7:30 A. M. today (Japanese time), the Tokyo radio said, and more than an hour later the attack was continuing.

"Our air forces are presently in the process of enemy interception," said the enemy broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

The blow occurred one week to a day after more than 200 B-29's had burned out 240 city blocks in the heart of Tokyo, including business and factory sectors. The enemy said that targets today included the Kanto area, comprising the Tokyo-Yokohama metropolitan area.

The broadcast, beamed in English to the United States, said that the "Superforts" were "carrying out indiscriminate bombings at various points."

The Tokai area, south of Kanto, including the industrial cities of Nagoya and Shizuoka, also was spicified as a target.

The enemy announcer said that the big bombers appeared in "formations comprised of two to ten and several planes respectively."

The B-29 strikes are now aided by the Marines' invasion of Iwo Island, 750 miles south of Tokyo, hampering what had been a warning station for the enemy.

Night attacks on two areas of the Japanese homeland by single Superfortresses were reported by the Tokyo radio yesterday.

In a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission Tokyo said that one B-29 had bombed the vicinity of Matsumoto, Nagano Prefecture on Honshu Island, while another attacked the Tosa Bay area of Shikoku Island.

Meanwhile, the Japanese Domei Agency, in a broadcast beamed to the United States, quoted an unsubstantiated claim by the Tokyo newspaper Asahi that the United States had lost 1,090 Superfortresses and about 6,200 crewmen during the last nine months.

Asahi further claimed that during February approximately 200 "Superforts" and 1,000 crewmen had been lost—forty-three planes shot down, 136 damaged and "the remainder put out of commission through accident, engine trouble and other causes."

President May Send 6 Treaties To Senate

Washington, March 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt as a result of Crimean conference decisions will submit to the Senate six or more treaties relating to the general problems of shaping and preserving the peace.

Three principal treaties will deal with establishing the postwar world security organization. At least three more will concern the liquidation of the European and Pacific wars.

Mentions Treaties In Report

The subject of treaties was prominently projected by Mr. Roosevelt in his report to Congress on the Yalta meeting. The Chief Executive said various treaties will be submitted for ratification, but he specifically mentioned only one—that dealing with the world security organization.

At his news conference yesterday the President was asked several questions about what further proposals the Big Three had in mind. He avoided categorical replies.

Treaty On World Organization

Here are some of the treaties foreseen by diplomatic officials as inevitable in establishing the peace:

1. The United Nations Charter which would commit the United States to full and active membership in a world organization, prepared to use force when necessary to prevent war or to meet the threats of war.

2. A separate treaty or possibly a series of treaties with other countries in the proposed United Nations organization stating in detail the amount of force—land, sea and air—which the United States is prepared to use in fulfilling its part of the bargain to co-operate under the United Nations Charter in maintaining security.

Agreement On Armaments

3. A special treaty, probably among the leading military powers only, providing for control of armaments and the scaling down of the armament burden. This probably will not come along for many months, although it is contemplated under the United Nations organization plan as worked out at Dumbarton Oaks.

4. A general treaty among the victor powers in Europe and later a general treaty among the victor powers in the Pacific war concretely affixing the terms of the peace and probably also settling boundary problems stemming from the war.

This may cover such territorial changes or modifications in the world organization system as worked out in the Dumbarton Oaks meeting last fall.

France has insisted on this point being made clear. Consultations among the other four governments on the French proposal delayed final action on the invitations until this time.

As the United Nations membership list now stands, a total of forty other countries will get the Big Five bids to join the San Francisco meeting. It has not been decided by the Big Five whether Syria and Lebanon shall be included, although they have declared war on the Axis.

If they are included, forty-seven countries would be represented at San Francisco. Saudi Arabia, one of the latest belligerents, is counted in the United Nations roster.

The invitations stem directly from the Big Three meeting at Yalta. Gen. Charles de Gaulle insisted on having various points of the Yalta decisions fully clarified to his French Government before he formally agreed to participate.

It was understood that in sponsoring the invitations the Big Five originally would have expressed their support for the Dumbarton Oaks plan in the making of which France had no part. The French, therefore, evidently desired to be left free to propose changes.

France May Seek Changes

Possibly involved also is their concern over their colonial possessions. Reports emanating from Paris have discussed the possibility that the Big Three agreed on

IG FIVE TO ISSUE WORLD PARLEY BIDS

vitations to 40 Other Nations Are Expected to Go Out This Week

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—nvitations to the World Security onference at San Francisco are xpected to be sent to at least orty-five United Nations next eek.

They will be sponsored by the ig Five Allied countries, the nited States, Britain, Russia, hina and France.

It is understood that they will eave the way open for any of these owers, as well as any of the other untries invited, to propose ents as the cessions to Po- d Russia and possibly other erman neighbors of enemy areas.

Control Of Enemy Nations

5. A separate treaty may be made among the victorious powers providing for the internal control of the enemy countries from the war's end until those countries establish recognized governments and regain an independent status.

6. There is some speculation that it lso might be necessary to make treaties growing out of joint intervention by the Big Three in the affairs of any European country where such action is required to guarantee the independence of that country. This speculation arises from the fact that diplomats here are uncertain exactly what situations may be encountered in liberated areas in the forthcoming months. They can foresee the possibility of complications so great that formal treaty settlements in some instances may be necessary.

Two Conferences Expected

The general impression of diplomatic officials is that there will be two major conferences dealing with the organization of peace. The first is the San Francisco meeting beginning April 25. The second will be a general peace conference.

The exact scope of the peace conference, however, evidently has not yet been decided. One of its main problems is considered certain to be the fixing of boundaries of enemy states.

international trusteeships for former mandated League of Nations territories, and also for some enemy territories.

Paris expressed apprehension less some question be raised about placing certain French overseas possessions under these trusteeships, or otherwise modifying the power and resources of the French Empire.

So far as can be learned here these apprehensions are without foundation.

No announcement has yet been made on French agreement to the peace council voting formula worked out at the Crimean Conference.

Eaton Accepts Parley Post

Representative Charles A. Eaton, Republican, of New Jersey, ranking minority member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, wrote to President Roosevelt today that he would accept the "profound responsibility" of his invitation to be a delegate to the San Francisco conference.

In his letter to the Chief Executive, Mr. Eaton said:

"As you know, for many years I have been in complete accord with your statement in your address before Congress Thursday that 'there can be no middle ground here. We shall have to take the responsibility for world collaboration or we shall have to bear the responsibility for another world conflict.'"

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP).—Representative Charles A. Eaton, Republican, of New Jersey, ranking minority member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, wrote President Roosevelt today that he would accept the "profound responsibility" of his invitation to be a delegate to the United Nations world conference at San Francisco.

In his letter of acceptance to the Chief Executive, Eaton said:

"As you know, for many years I have been in complete accord with your statement in your address before Congress Thursday that 'there can be no middle ground here. 5 More Ships Assigned To Take Goods to France

26 Others Scheduled to Sail by End of This Month

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP).—The Foreign Economic Administration announced tonight that five more ships have been assigned to carry supplies and food to France, in addition to the twenty-six already promised for sailing by March 31.

The action, which follows criticism of this government's slowness in sending civilian relief to the liberated French, means that twenty-two ships must sail this month to make good on F. E. A.'s commitments for this quarter. Nine which have sailed since the start of the year, and six which are reported "ready to go," will deliver 115,000 long tons of food, industrial equipment, war supplies and materials, value at $26,000,000.

Supplies purchased henceforth will go under the $2,575,000,000 lend-lease agreement signed with the French Provisional government on Feb. 28. Supplies transferred to the French prior to that agreement will be paid for by the French in cash, under the arrangement made last September by Leo Crowley, F. E. A. Administrator, and Jean Monnet, head of the French supply mission.

BALTIC [illegible] STATUS

Grew Says [illegible]esentatives Are Still Accredited Here

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The Baltic States of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania still are officially regarded by the United States as independent states even though they were absorbed into the Soviet Union early in the war.

This was made known by Acting Secretary of State Grew today at a news conference. President Roosevelt had tossed the question to the State Department when reporters put it up to him yesterday.

Mr. Grew said there was no change in the situation with respect to the three states, that their representatives were still accredited here and still recognized.

VOLUNTEERS FOR GARRISON

Service Journal Sees No Draftees in Occupation Army

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The Army and Navy Journal said today that the American troops garrisoning the United States-controlled portion of defeated Germany might be regular enlisted volunteers instead of draftees.

The Journal said that "thought is being given" to this idea, but it did not specify what agencies were considering it.

The Provinces of Baden, Wuerttemberg and Bavaria, with a corridor to Bremen, assigned for American control, have an area of 44,324 square miles, the unofficial service publication said. This compares with about 12,000 square miles occupied by American forces at the end of the first World War. That much smaller area was garrisoned by approximately 7,000 troops.

Best Of Jap Army In Manchuria: Stilwell

Cleveland, March 3 (AP)—The best of the Japanese Army will be met in Manchuria, according to Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, United States Army ground forces commander, who says two thirds of Nippon's warriors are in China now.

The former commander of American and Chinese troops in China and Burma made the predictions last night in a question period following his address to the Cleveland Ordnance Association here.

Stilwell was asked if it will be necessary to defeat Japan in China. He replied: "Two thirds of the Japanese Army is in China right now. It is as strong as it was when the war started."

Asked if the Japs have used their best troops in China, he answered: "The Jap divisions there are heavy in numbers—23,000 to a division instead of the usual 12,000. The best of the Japanese Army will be met in Manchuria."

The veteran officer parried a query concerning his withdrawal from China by saying: "I don't speak English."

Hurley Home From Chungking

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley arrived in Washington today from Chungking to report to President Roosevelt on efforts to strengthen China's part in the war against Japan.

Dr. Shen-yen Chen's Dream Is Coming True

Washington, March 4 (AP)—A Chinese doctor who risked his life and refused all compensation to care for wounded American flyers who crashed in China after the first raid on Tokyo, is to see his life's ambition come true.

The young medico, Shen-yen Chen, who treated Capt. Ted Lawson and four companions, is coming to this country to study surgery at the expense of the American Government.

Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, announced today the State Department plan to help Shen-yen Chen fulfill his ambition.

Radio Tubes Smuggled To Argentina, 2 Men Held

New Orleans, March 3 (AP)—An Argentine seaman and a German-born American citizen were held by the FBI today on charges of smuggling powerful radio tubes to Argentina.

The two, booked as Fernando Bruno-Palacios, 37, of Buenos Aires, radio operator on an Argentine ship, and Henry W. Pisters, 42, New Orleans radio dealer, were ordered held under bonds of $10,000 each following arraignment before R. H. Arter, Jr., United States Commissioner.

They were specifically charged with conspiracy to violate the Federal Export Control Act.

Chrysler Union Agrees to End Strike Monday

Leaders Pledge Return of 24,000 Detroit Workers Blocking War Production

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Union leaders agreed today to order resumption of work Monday by Detroit strikers whose week-long walkout has stopped some war production and imperiled more.

The pledge came on an agreement with officials of the Chrysler Corporation, whose plants are principally affected, to this effect:

1. The men go back to their benches on the Monday morning shift.

2. There will be no company reprisals against the strikers.

3. The eight men whose discharge for allegedly failing to meet production rate requirements set off the strike will go through grievance machinery to see if they shall have their jobs back.

4. The production rate requirements themselves will be submitted to arbitration.

Mike Novak, president of the United Automobile Workers Local No. 3, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, telephoned Detroit, calling a meeting of strikers for 7:30 p. m., Sunday in Cass Technical High School. He said he would "do everything within my power" to get the men back to work.

A total of more than 24,000 are affected by the Chrysler strikes—18,743 strikers and 5,750 laid off or idle at Briggs Manufacturing Company.

Other Production Threatened

The War Labor Board, during the day, heard company testimony that the Chrysler strikes have "completely stopped production" of such vital war items as tanks, trucks and B-29 assemblies, and unless the strikes are stopped, which international union officers of the C. I. O.-U. A. W. said they already had been trying their hardest to do, still other war necessities will be hit.

Richard T. Frankensteen, U. A. W. president, told the board that the international union intends "to live up to the no-strike pledge to the best of our ability." But while saying the union heads are "unalterably opposed" to the strike, Frankensteen laid much of the blame on the Chrysler management.

The board held hearings, as Chairman William H. Davis put it: "To find out why this production of vital war material was interrupted and to get that production started again." The W. L. B., failing this, could fall back on the White House for an order for government seizure.

Chrysler, Frankensteen said, "spent thousands of dollars on labor spies" and flagrantly caused strikes to prevent maintenance of membership in the C. I. O.-U. A. W. He said persons high in the management have said "we should look forward to the time when Federal labor laws will be repealed."

Charges War-Time Slow-Down

The company's side of the case was presented by Herman L. Weckler, general manager, who said:

"The cause of these strikes is an attempt by union employees to lower the rates of war production and to produce at a lower speed during the war than they did on similar work during peace time.

"This strike is an excellent example of the lack of discipline and responsibility within the union and between the union and the international."

Production already stopped, Mr. Weckler said, includes Sherman tanks, Dodge army trucks and B-29 assemblies. Threatened, he said, was production of B-29 engines, anti-aircraft guns, rockets and other war products.

Frankensteen told the W. L. B. that John W. Scoville, Chrysler economist, had told the Detroit Kiwanis Club on Aug. 1: "It is probable that the public sentiment will change in regard to collective bargaining. As industrial turmoil increases, more and more people will see the evils generated by collective bargaining and we should look forward to the time when all Federal labor laws will be repealed."

W. L. B. Chairman Davis criticized Mr. Scoville's remarks, bringing from Chrysler attorneys a statement that Mr. Scoville was not speaking for the company and was not a company official.

UMW, OWNERS END HEARINGS

Arguments On Soft-Coal Contract To Continue In Private

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Soft-coal miners and operators, sharply disputing one another's figures, wound up open hearings on a new contract today and arranged to argue further in private.

Eight representatives of John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers and eight from the operators were picked to carry on the fight. They begin negotiations Monday.

Today's brief hearings were taken up largely with argument by Thomas Kennedy, UMW secretary-treasurer, that the operators are 80 per cent wrong in figuring the cost of union demands at $400,000,000 a year.

"Fringe" Demands Assailed

Kennedy said the operators were proved 65 per cent off in a similar situation in 1941.

The operators, through Charles O'Neill of the Central Pennsylvania group, estimated the per-ton cost of Lewis's demands at 65 cents. He added they are "as full of fringes as a Hawaiian dancer's skirt."

Fringe demands are those outside basic wage increases.

The UMW has come up this year with a proposal that the operators pay 10 cents a ton royalty into the union treasury as a "rainy-day" fund for men who dig the coal, in addition to such things as shift differentials, more vacation money and company-provided safety equipment.

Contract Expires March 31

The current two-year contract expires March 31. Lewis has served technical notice of a possible strike if a contract is not negotiated.

The subcommittee which will continue the arguments is made up of sixteen members. Besides Lewis and Kennedy, the union members are John Jones, Cumberland, Md.; John O'Leary, Pittsburgh; J. R. Mark, Clearfield, Pa.; George Titler, Beckley, W. Va.; Hugh White, Springfield, Ill., and Frank Hefferly, Denver.

More Nazi Prison Labor Coming Over

Washington, March 3 (AP)—The War Department said today an additional 100,000 German prisoners will be transferred to the United States. This will bring the total of Nazis now in camps in this country to more than 400,000.

The purpose is twofold, the Army said: to ease the burden of guarding the prisoners in Europe and to help the acute labor shortage in the United States.

A previous announcement had placed the total of German prisoners in the United States on Febru-

The prisoners, in accordince with War Department policy, will be employed only on essential work for which no civilian labor is available based on certificates issued by the War Manpower Commission, or the War Food Administration.

Canvass Shows Williams Loser; He Won't Quit

Gives a Defiant 'Hell, No' as Senate Poll Reveals 42 Oppose, 31 Support Him

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Aubrey Williams flung a defiant "Hell, no" today to those who have been suggesting that he ask President Roosevelt to withdraw his nomination to be Rural Electrification Administrator.

His emphatic refusal to pull out came in the face of a Senate poll indicating rejection of the appointment.

"I intend to carry this fight through, win or lose," Mr. Williams said in an interview. "Besides, there is quite a list of Senators who haven't been heard from."

The fifty-four-year-old Mr. Williams, whose nomination was given a 12-to-8 adverse vote in the Senate Agriculture Committee, said Vice-President Harry S. Truman had told him: "I admire your stand very much and I agree with you. When you get into a fight, stay in it. I think you are far from beaten."

An Associated Press canvass of Senators showed that among those willing to state their position there are forty-two opposition votes to thirty-one favoring the former head of the National Youth Administration.

Nevertheless, Williams said he felt "very much encouraged," and added: "Irrespective of the outcome, I want the record to show how the Senators vote on the issues involved in this fight."

He said Senators voting against him would find themselves in "the unhappy position" of voting against "putting a man in charge of the R. E. A. who has shown sympathy with its work . . . a man who believes that opportunity should be equitably enjoyed in America."

In the Senate head-counting, twenty-two Senators, including eleven Democrats and as many Republicans, either declined to say how they would vote or could not be reached. Mr. Williams lost a potential supporting vote when Senator John Moses, Democrat, of North Dakota, died today.

Because no more than eighty-five votes are expected to be cast, Mr. Williams's chances of picking up winning support from among Senators who are uncommitted were regarded as slender, even by Administration lieutenants.

Even before Mr. Williams stated his own position, however, Senator Allen J. Ellender, Democrat, of Louisiana, who has been leading the fight for the appointment, told reporters that Mr. Williams would not ask the President to withdraw his name.

What Senate Poll Showed

The Associated Press poll showed twenty-eight Democrats supporting Mr. Williams, with only two Republicans and Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, the lone Progressive, publicly on his side. In the opposition were sixteen Democrats and twenty-six Republicans. The line-up follows:

Operators '80 P.C. Off' On Cost Of UMW Plan

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Coal miners leaving their jobs would be subject to selective service reclassification for immediate military service under a bill introduced by Representative Lewis (R., Ohio). The measure also specified that as long as the miner remains on the job he shall be deferred from service.

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Operator contentions that miner demands would cost $400,000,000 a year were called 80 per cent wrong today by Thomas B. Kennedy, secretary treasurer of the United Mine Workers.

Kennedy said the figure, presented yesterday by Charles O'Neill, head of the central Pennsylvania soft coal producers' group, was "too ridiculous" to consider.

Says True Figure Was 18

Later, Kennedy added, the actual cost turned out to be 18 cents, which he said made O'Neill 65 per cent wrong then.

On this basis, the union leader argued, "he's 80 per cent wrong now."

Kennedy added that cost figures, "available to all," speak for themselves. He suggested that "we can negotiate without charges and countercharges."

After listening to Kennedy, the conference set up a joint subcommittee which will meet Monday to begin contract negotiations.

Members Of Subcommittee

The subcommittee is made up of sixteen members, eight for the operators and eight for the union. Besides John L. Lewis, UMW president, and Kennedy, the union members are John Jones, Cumberland, Md.; John O'Leary, Pittsburgh; J. R. Mark, Clearfield, Pa.; George Tittler, Beckley, W.Va.; Hugh White, Springfield, Ill., and Frank Hefferly, Denver.

Lewis also challenged the operators' figures.

O'Neill said the eighteen demands presented by Lewis would cost more than 65 cents a ton, and asserted that the proposals are "as full of fringes as a Hawaiian dancer's skirt."

Regarded As Secondary

"Fringe" demands are those regarded by the War Labor Board as secondary or auxiliary, as contrasted to general wage increases directly challenging the Little Steel wage formula.

One operator said Lewis's demands are so extensive that "it looks as though Mr. Lewis is throwing the book and laughing at the War Labor Board."

The operators say the demands would net the average miner $3.33 a day more.

The chief item, however, was the 10-cent royalty which Lewis asked on each ton produced. Operators estimate this would run to $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 and said it would make Lewis "a labor czar" with unprecedented power and funds at his disposal.

The fifty-four-year-old Mr. Williams, whose nomination was given a 12-to-8 adverse vote in the Senate Agriculture Committee, said Vice-President Harry S. Truman had told him: "I admire your stand very much and I agree with you. When you get into a fight, stay in it. I think you are far from beaten."

An Associated Press canvass of Senators showed that among those willing to state their position there ...e forty-two opposition votes to thirty-one favoring the former head of the National Youth Administration.

Nevertheless, Williams said he felt "very much encouraged," and added: "Irrespective of the outcome, I want the record to show how the Senators vote on the issues involved in this fight."

He said Senators voting against him would find themselves in "the unhappy position" of voting against "putting a man in charge of the R. E. A. who has shown sympathy with its work . . . a man who believes that opportunity should be equitably enjoyed in America."

In the Senate head-counting, twenty-two Senators, including eleven Democrats and as many Republicans, either declined to say how they would vote or could not be reached. Mr. Williams lost a potential supporting vote when Senator John Moses, Democrat, of North Dakota, died today.

Because no more than eighty-five votes are expected to be cast, Mr. Williams's chances of picking up winning support from among Senators who are uncommitted were regarded as slender, even by Administration lieutenants.

Even before Mr. Williams stated his own position, however, Senator Allen J. Ellender, Democrat, of Louisiana, who has been leading the fight for the appointment, told reporters that Mr. Williams would not ask the President to withdraw his name.

What Senate Poll Showed

The Associated Press poll showed twenty-eight Democrats supporting Mr. Williams, with only two Republicans and Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, the lone Progressive, publicly on his side. In the opposition were sixteen Democrats and twenty-six Republicans. The line-up follows:

Operators '80 P.C. Off' On Cost Of UMW Plan

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Coal miners leaving their jobs would be subject to selective service reclassification for immediate military service under a bill introduced by Representative Lewis (R., Ohio). The measure also specified that as long as the miner remains on the job he shall be deferred from service.

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Operator contentions that miner demands would cost $400,000,000 a year were called 80 per cent wrong today by Thomas B. Kennedy, secretary treasurer of the United Mine Workers.

Kennedy said the figure, presented yesterday by Charles O'Neill, head of the central Pennsylvania soft coal producers' group, was "too ridiculous" to consider.

Says True Figure Was 18

Later, Kennedy added, the actual cost turned out to be 18 cents, which he said made O'Neill 65 per cent wrong then.

On this basis, the union leader argued, "he's 80 per cent wrong now."

Kennedy added that cost figures, "available to all," speak for themselves. He suggested that "we can negotiate without charges and countercharges."

After listening to Kennedy, the conference set up a joint subcommittee which will meet Monday to begin contract negotiations.

Members Of Subcommittee

The subcommittee is made up of sixteen members, eight for the operators and eight for the union. Besides John L. Lewis, UMW president, and Kennedy, the union members are John Jones, G...land, Md.; John O'Leary, Pittsburgh; J. R. Mark, Clearfield, Pa.; George Tittler, Beckley, W.Va.; Hugh White, Springfield, Ill., and Frank Hefferly, Denver.

Lewis also challenged the operators' figures.

O'Neill said the eighteen demands presented by Lewis would cost more than 65 cents a ton, and asserted that the proposals are "as full of fringes as a Hawaiian dancer's skirt."

Regarded As Secondary

"Fringe" demands are those regarded by the War Labor Board as secondary or auxiliary, as contrasted to general wage increases directly challenging the Little Steel wage formula.

One operator said Lewis's demands are so extensive that "it looks as though Mr. Lewis is throwing the book and laughing at the War Labor Board."

The operators say the demands would net the average miner $3.33 a day more.

The chief item, however, was the 10-cent royalty which Lewis asked on each ton produced. Operators estimate this would run to $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 and said it would make Lewis "a labor czar" with unprecedented power and funds at his disposal.

GERMAN BROADCASTS SAID BETWEEN THE JAWS OF THIS PINCER THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY HAD SMASHED ACROSS THE MAAS RIVER IN A NEW OFFENSIVE.

THERE ARE TWO BRIDGES ACROSS THE RHINE AT DUESSELDORF, ONE A HIGHWAY SPAN AND THE OTHER A DOUBLE TRACK RAIL STRUCTURE. ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT HAL BOYLE, WITH THE AMERICANS IN NEUSS, SAID A SAVAGE BATTLE WAS RAGING LAST NIGHT AS THE GERMANS SOUGHT TO HOLD THE BRIDGES.

BOYLE SAID NO TRAFFIC COULD BE SEEN ON EITHER SPAN, AND THAT BOTH HAVE BEEN UNDER AMERICAN ARTILLERY RANGE FOR SEVERAL DAYS. THE FIERCE NAZI RESISTANCE WAS IN CONTRAST TO THE LACK OF OPPOSITION THAT MARKED THE SWEEP TO THE RHINE.

A TOUR OF THE FRONT YESTERDAY BY GEN.EISENHOWER BROUGHT HIM WITHIN FIVE MILES OF DUESSELDORF, BUT NO WITHOUT DANGER TO THE SUPREME COMMANDER.

AT ONE POINT HE CAME CLOSE TO BEING CAUGHT IN A GERMAN COUNTER-ATTACK WHEN A NAZI TANK FORCE SMASHED THROUGH A SCREEN OF DOUGHBOYS TO WITHIN TWO MILES OF THE PLACE HE WAS VISITING. THUNDERBOLTS DISPERSED THE ENEMY TANKS, DESTROYING FIVE.

THE BOX SCORE:

MUENCHEN GLADBACH FELL THURSDAY TO THE U.S. 29TH INFANTRY DIVISION. IT WAS A CENTER OF THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY WITH A POPULATION OF 200,000, WAS KNOWN FOR ITS IRON, STEEL AND ELECTRIC PLANTS, AND WAS AN IMPORTANT RAILROAD JUNCTION BETWEEN COLOGNE AND HOLLAND.

KREFELD, CHIEF SEAT OF GERMAN SILK MANUFACTURE, WAS TAKEN BY THE 102ND INFANTRY. THE CITY AND ITS SUBURBS HAVE A POPULATION OF 175,000. THERE ARE CONSIDERABLE ENGINEERING WORKS IN THE AREA.

NEUSS WAS CAPTURED AND DUESSELDORF NEUTR[illegible] BY THE 83RD INFANTRY FARTHER SOUTH ALONG THE RHINE. NE[illegible] POCKET-SIZED EDITION OF MUENCHEN GLADBACH, HAS A POPULATION OF 60,000 AND PRODUCES AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS MACHINE TOOLS, SCREWS, RADIATORS, AS WELL AS FLOUR, MARGARINE, SOAP AND CHOCOLATE.

DUESSELDORF, MOST IMPORTANT CITY ON THE RHINE'S EAST BANK, IS THE BIRTHPLACE OF THE POET HEINRICH HEINE, AND A FAMED ART CENTER. IT HAS A METROPOLITAN POPULATION OF [illegible]ROXIMATELY 500,000. AND IN THE CITY ARE LOCATED THE HOME OFFICES OF [illegible]NY OF GERMANY'S LEADING RUHR FIRMS. IT HAD A BUSY HARBOR AND GREAT COTTON FACTORIES AND STEEL PLANTS.

AMERICAN ARTILLERY FIRE ALSO CONTROLS A FIFTH GREAT RHINELAND CITY--COLOGNE--WHICH WITH A 750,000 POPULATION IS THE LARGEST GERMAN CITY WEST OF THE RHINE. WITH VARIED INDUSTRIES, IT WAS ONE OF THE GREATEST PEACETIME AIR AND RAILWAY CENTERS OF EUROPE.

LT.GEN.COURTNEY HODGES' FIRST ARMY HAD ENLARGED ITS ERFT RIVER BRIDGEHEAD TO A WIDTH OF 11 MILES. IN ADDITION TO REACHING WITHIN FOUR AND A HALF MILES OF COLOGNE ONE COLUMN SPEARING SOUTHEAST WAS WITHIN 15 MILES OF THE INDUSTRIAL CITY OF BONN WITH THE CAPTURE OF ERP.

LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY TROOPS FARTHER SOUTH WERE TAKING SO MANY PRISONERS THEY WERE HAVING TROUBLE TAKING CARE OF THEM. THEY WERE LASHING OUT ALL ALONG A 50-MILE FRONT, AND WITH THE CAPTURE OF TRIER WERE ONLY 60 AIRLINE MILES FROM THE RHINE CITY OF COBLENZ.

A U.S. AIRBASE IN FRANCE, MARCH 3-(AP)-HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN AIRMEN HAVE GRATEFULLY KISSED THE CONCRETE LANDING STRIP AT THIS EMERGENCY LANDING FIELD BECAUSE IT HAS MEANT SAFETY FOR THE CREWS OF WARPLANES CRIPPLED BY FLAK OVER GERMANY.

THE STRIP OFFERS REFUGE FOR THE FLIERS WHO CAN'T MAKE IT BACK ACROSS THE CHANNEL TO THEIR BRITISH BASES.

"I'VE SEEN THEM STAGGER DOWN WITH HUNKS OF WINGS CHEWED AWAY, TAILS BITTEN OFF, TURRETS BASHED, NOSES SPLIT OPEN AND ENGINES SPURTING FLAMES," SAID LT.RUDI STEFFENHAGEN OF PORT ARTHUR, TEX., FLYING CONTROL OFFICER FOR THE BASE.

"I'VE SEEN THEM COME PANTING DOWN OUT OF THE SKY, MAKE A GRACEFUL LANDING AND THEN HEAR THEIR ENGINES SPLUTTER TO A STOP--THEIR LAST DROP OF GASOLINE GONE.

"I'VE SEEN OUR LITTLE HOSPITAL, A CONVERTED STABLE, CRAMMED FULL OF SHOT-UP YOUNGSTERS WHO BROUGHT THEIR CRIPPLED PLANES DOWN ON THIS AIRDROME OF MERCY.

"OF COURSE, THE RADIO GUIDED THEM HERE, BUT THE ANGELES HAD A LOT TO DO WITH IT, TOO. WE TAKE OVER WHERE THE ANGELS LEAVE OFF. IT'S QUITE A SIGHT TO SEE THOSE FELLOWS JUMP OUT OF THEIR PLANES, FALL ON THEIR KNEES AND KISS THE GROUND. IT'S ENOUGH TO MAKE OLD MOTHER EARTH BLUSH, BUT SHE KNOWS THOSE KIDS REALLY MEAN IT."

IN THE LAST SEVEN MONTHS, THIS EMERGENCY FIELD WHICH THE GERMANS ONCE USED HAS BEENN THE HAVEN FOR MORE THAN 600 ALLIED PLANES, MOST OF THEM IN-NEED OF BATTLE DAMAGE REPAIR. THEY WERE OVERHAULED AND RETURNED TO COMBAT DUTY THROUGH CONTINENTAL OPERATIONS OF THE EIGHTH AIRFORCE SERVICE COMMAND.

MOBILE CREWS OF MECHANICS RACE THROUGHOUT FRANCE TO SPOTS WHERE PLANES UNABLE TO REACH THE EMERGENCY FIELD HAVE CRASH-LANDED. IF THEY ARE NOT TOO BADLY SMASHED, THEY ARE PATCHED UP. AIRMEN, MOST OF WHOM HAVE COMPLETED THEIR COMBAT TOURS AND HAVE VOLUNTEERED FOR THIS SERVICE, ARE THEN DISPATCHED FROM THE EMERGENCY FIELD TO FLY THE PLANES BACK FOR PERMANENT REPAIR JOBS BEFORE THEY ARE RETURNED TO ENGLAND FOR ACTION. IF THE DAMAGE IS SEVERE, THE PLANES ARE STRIPPED SO THEIR PARTS CAN BE USED ON OTHER CASUALTIES.

SINCE THE SERVICE COMMAND BEGAN THIS PROGRAM IN AUGUST, 1943, WARPLANES VALUED AT MORE THAN $120,000,000 HAVE BEEN RETURNED TO COMBAT.

PARTS OF THE CONCRETE RUNWAY HAVE CAVED IN UNDER THE WEIGHT OF THE BIG FOUR-ENGINED BOMBERS. FRENCH WORKERS WHO BUILT THE FIELD FOR THE GERMANS DELIBERATELY LEFT HOLLOW PLACES BENEATH THE STRIP. EVERY RAIN LEAVES THE FIELD COVERED WITH WATER, FOR, ALTHOUGH THERE IS A DRAINAGE SYSTEM, THE WORKERS CLOGGED UP THE UNDERGROUUND TILES WITH DIRT AND STONE.

BUT THE FIELD OF MERCY GRADUALLY IS BEING PUT IN FIRST CLASS COND ION AND ITS MAT OF WELCOME ALWAYS WILL BE PUT OUT.

Paris, March 3-(AP)-Gen. Charles de Gaulle advocates state control over France's key industries and finances at least for the duration of the war.

Speaking on domestic problems before the Consultative Assembly yesterday, deGaulle also urged Frenchmen to increase industrial and agricultural production.

At the same time, he told the delegates that as much latitude as possible should be left to private initiative while a future consitutional convention defined the extenet and conditions of state control.

Discussing labor-management relations, de Gaulle said a recent ordinance decreeing formation of workers' committees would enable greater participation of workers in management and create a greater spirit of cooperation among labor, management, and government.

BRUSSELS, MARCH 3, (AP)-- FORBIDDING, FORTRESSLIKE SAINT GILES PRISON, ON THE SOUTHERN FRINGE OF THIS BELGIAN METROPOLIS, HAS BECOME A FAMILIAR HABITAT FOR HARVARD-BRED JULIEN VERPLAETSE. THE GERMANS CONFINED HIM THERE BECAUSE THEY FOUND HIS WRITINGS TO ANTI-NAZI. NOW THE BELGIAN AUTHORITIES HOLD THIS FORMER DIPLOMAT ON CHARGES OF COLLABORATING WITH THE GERMANS.

VERPLAETSE, 37, WAS GRADUATED FROM GHENT UNIVERSITY, THEN WENT TO HARVARD, WHERE HE OBTAINED THE DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF JURIDICAL SCIENCE. AFTER TEACHING FOR AWHILE, HE BECAME PRESS RELATIONS MAN FOR THE BELGIAN EMBASSY IN BERLIN. ACCORDING TO THE TESTIMONY OF TWO RANKING BELGIAN DIPLOMATS, ON HIS BERLIN MISSION HE NEVER CONCEALED HIS ANTIPATHY TO NAZISM, REPORTED EXPERTLY ON NAZI REARMAMENT AND SAID THAT GERMANY WOULD LOSE THE WAR BECAUSE OF THE UNITED STATES' ENTRY INTO THE CONFLICT, A DEVELOPMENT WHICH HE CORRECTLY FORESAW.

BY WES GALLAGHER

JUELICH, GERMANY, MARCH 3-(AP)-THE U.S. NINTH ARMY'S EIGHT-DAY DASH TO THE RHINE, ROLLING UP FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT'S WESTERN FRONT, LEFT THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND FACING THE SAME TASK IT HAD LAST OCTOBER--THAT OF COMPLETELY REBUILDING ITS WESTERN DEFENSES.

TONIGHT THE GERMAN ARMIES HAD ONLY A BRIDGEHEAD LEFT WEST OF THE RHINE ABOVE DUESSELDORF. APPROXIMATELY 20,000 GERMAN TROOPS ARE TRYING TO KEEP THE NINTH ARMY AND THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY AT BAY LONG ENOUGH TO RETREAT ACROSS THE BRIDGES AT DUISBERG, WESEL, RHEINBERG AND HOMBERG.

ALTHOUGH THE GERMANS STILL ARE WEST OF THE RHINE IN FRONT OF THE AMERICAN FIRST AND THIRD ARMIES, IT IS ONLY A QUESTION OF TIME BEFORE THEY HAVE TO RETREAT ACROSS THE RIVER OR LOSE ALL THEIR TROOPS IN THE WEST.

THE GERMANS ARE IN THE SAME POSITION THEY WERE IN OCTOBER WHEN THE ALLIES SEEMED BOUND FOR THE RHINE BUT OUTRAN THEIR OWN SUPPLY LINES.

THIS TIME, HOWEVER, THERE ARE SOME IMPORTANT DIFFERENCES. THE ALLIES SPENT THE WINTER BUILDING UP THEIR SUPPLIES AND MEN AND ARE FRESH AND READY TO GO WITH ALL THE MATERIALS AND EQUIPMENT REQUIRED.

AND THE GERMANS HAVE LESS OF EVERYTHING AND CERTAINLY APPEAR TO BE AT THE END OF THEIR MAOL
VQUCSW

AND THE GERMANS HAVE LESS OF EVERYTHING AND CERTAINLY APPEAR TO BE AT THE END OF THEIR MANPOWER RESOURCES, LEAVING LITTLE WITH WHICH VON RUNDSTEDT CAN BUILD NEW DEFENSES ON THE RHINE.

THE CAPTURE OF ONE BRIDGE OVER THE RHINE NOW WOULD BE WORTH MORE TO THE AMERICAN ARMIES THAN THE CAPTURE OF COLOGNE AND COBLENZ AND ALL THE REST OF THE TERRITORY WEST OF THE RHINE PUT TOGETHER.

THE SHATTERED GERMAN FORCES ARE IN A STATE OF DISORGANIZATION AND

30.24-23563

CONFUSION AND DESPERATELY NEED TIME. THEY HOPE TO GET IT BY BLOWING UP ALL THE RHINE BRIDGES.

THE RHINE IS NO ORDINARTY RIVER AND AN AMPHIBIOUS OPERATION WOULD BE REQUIRED TO CROSS IT WITHOUT BRIDGES. THE RIVER IS SO WIDE THAT ORDINARY PONTOON AND TREADWAY BRIDGES WOULD NOT SUPPORT PASSAGE OF A VAST AMOUNT OF HEAVY EQUIPMENT. IT HAS TAKEN THE GERMANS DECADES TO BUILD SPANS LIKE THOSE DESTROYED AT DUESSELDORF TODAY.

THE CHANCE OF CAPTURING ANY OF THE BRIDGES BEFORE THE GERMANS CAN DESTROY THEM APPEARS TO BE SLIM, HOWEVER.

BY DRIVING TO THE RHINE IN EIGHT DAYS AND THEREBY ACCOMPLISHING WHAT THE FIRST AND THIRD ARMIES TRIED TO DO ALL WINTER WITHOUT SUCCESS, THE NINTH ARMY WAS ESTABLISHED IN THE FRONT RANK OF AMERICAN FORCES AND THE SOFT-SPOKEN TEXAN WHO COMMANDS IT, LT.GEN.WILLIAM H. IN ALL FAIRNESS, HOWEVER, IT MUST BE POINTED OUT THAT RUSSIAN SUCCESSES WHICHDRAINED THE WESTERN FRONT AND AN UNPRECEDENTED BREAK IN THE WEATHER CONTRIBUTED TO THE SUCCESSFUL DRIVE.

THERE WERE NONE OF THE TERRIBLE RAINS AND SNOWS THAT THIS PART OF THE WORLD EXPECTS AT THIS TIME OF THE YEAR. THIS PERMITTED THE NINTH ARMY TO USE ITS ARMOR AND AIRPOWER TO GREATEST ADVANTAGE.

SUCCESSFUL GENERALS USUALLY HAVE WEATHER "LUCK." THERE WAS GENERAL EISENHOWER'S GOOD WEATHER LUCK IN THE LANDINGS IN AFRICA, SICILY AND ITALY AND VON RUNDSTEDT'S STORM COVER FOR THE ARDENNES OPERATION LAST DECEMBER WHICH KEPT OFF THE ALLIED PLANES FOR THE FIRST FIVE DAYS.

CROSSING THE ROER AND SWINGING NORTH TO ROLL UP THE WESTERN FRONT WAS ONE OF THE WAR'S ODDEST AND MOST DIFFICULT OPERATIONS.

FIRST THERE WAS A THREAT OF FLOODS FROM THE OPENING OF THE GREAT DAMS. THEN THERE WAS THE ACTUAL FLOODING WHICH MADE BOTH BANKS OF THE ROER MORASSES AND PUT THE CURRENT ABOVE FIVE MILES AN HOUR, SUPPOSEDLY THE LIMIT AT WHICH PONTOON BRIDGES CAN BE USED SUCCESSFULLY.

ALL THESE DIFFICULTIES WERE OVERCOME BY AMERICAN ENGINEERING SKILL.

THEN THERE WAS THE DIRECTION OF THE ATTACK. THE RHINE WAS 23 MILES TO THE EAST, BUT SIMPSON'S JOB WAS MORE THAN MERELY REACHING THE RHINE. HE HAD TO SWING NORTH, LINK UP WITH THE CANADIANS AND OPEN THE GATES TO THE RUHR.

TO DO THIS, THE NINTH ARMY, INSTEAD OF ATTACKING DUE EAST, HAD TO EXECUTE TWO DIFFICULT WHEELING OPERATIONS WHICH, WHEN COMPLETED, LOOKED LIKE A LETTER "E."

MAR

IN THIS OPERATION SIMPSON USED FOUR INFANTRY DIVISIONS, THE 30TH, 29TH, 104TH AND 84TH TO PLUNGE THROUGH THE FIRST LINES OF THE GERMAN DEFENSES EAST OF THE ROER.

ONCE THEY WERE THROUGH THESE DEFENSES, SIMPSON PUT HIS ARMORED DIVISIONS, THE SECOND AND FIFTH, IN AND TURNED HIS ARMY NORTHEAST "BEHIND" THE REST OF THE GERMAN DEFENSES FACING HIS AND THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY.

AS THE INFANTRY AND ARMORED DIVISIONS MOVED NORTH, THEY ROLLED UP THE FRONT LIKE A CARPET, CATCHING ALL THE DEFENSES FROM THE REAR.

ON THE INNER SIDE OF THE WHEELING MOVEMENT, SIMPSON PUT IN THE 35TH INFANTRY AND THE EIGHTH ARMORED DIVISION TO CLEAN UP ANY ENEMY TROOPS CAUGHT BY THE RIGHT WING FORCES.

THUS, THE RIGHT WING OF SIMPSON'S FORCES WHICH WERE THE FIRST TO REACH THE RHINE TRAVELED MORE THAN 30 MILES INSTEAD OF 23.

ONCE IT LEFT MUENCHEN GLADBACH, THE ARMY STARTED WHEELING AGAIN, LEAVING THE 35TH INFANTRY AND EIGHTH ARMORED DIVISIONS ON THE "OUTSIDE" INSTEAD OF THE "INSIDE."

THIS MANEUVER CAUGHT THE GERMANS BY SURPRISE. THEY EXPECTED AN ATTACK DUE EAST AND PREPARED FOR IT, APPARENTLY ANTICIPATING THE MAIN EFFORT TO BE AGAINST COLOGNE. INSTEAD, THE FIRST ARMY WAS GIVEN THE TASK OF PROTECTING THE NINTH'S SOUTHERN FLANK.

AS IT DEVELOPED, THE FIRST ARMY WAS HELD UP EARLY IN THE OFFENSIVE AND NEVER WAS ABLE TO FULFILL THIS MISSION. SIMPSON'S ARMY THUS ATTACKED WITH BOTH ITS FLANKS OPEN.

THE SWIFT ADVANCE COMPLETELY PARALYZED THE GERMANS, HOWEVER, AND THEY COULD NOT MUSTER FULL STRENGTH FOR A COUNTERTHRUST.

THUS, THE GERMANS LOST THEIR MOST VITAL GROUND WEST OF THE RHINE. NOWHERE ELSE WOULD LOSS OF GROUND HURT THEM AS MUCH AS BEFORE THE INDUSTRY-PACKED RUHR, AN AREA WITHOUT WHICH THE GERMAN WAR MACHING CANNOT LONG FUNCTION.

AT THE PRESENT PACE, THE GERMAN BRIDGEHEAD WEST OF THE RHINE IN THE DUISBERG-WESEL AREA SHOULD BE WIPED OUT WITHIN THE NEXT TWO OR THREE DAYS.

WHAT HAPPENS TO GERMAN TROOPS IS OF LITTLE IMPORTANCE. WHAT HAPPENS TO THE BRIDGES IS OF MAJOR IMPORTANCE.

PARIS, MARCH 3-(AP)-THE GERMAN FIRST PARACHUTE ARMY AND THE GERMAN 15TH ARMY HAVE BEEN DESTROYED AS ORGANIZED FIGHTING FORCES AS A RESULT OF THE AMERICAN OFFENSIVE, AND THEIR REMNANTS ARE WITHDRAWING OVER THE RHINE, IT WAS ANNOUNCED AT SUPREME HEADUARTERS TONIGHT.

..BZ635PEW

BY EDWARD KENNEDY

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, PARIS, MARCH 3-(AP)-THE CHARACTER OF GERMAN RESISTANCE TO THE SWIFT ATTACK OF ALLIED ARMIES TONIGHT SHOWED PLAINLY THE ENEMY HAD GIVEN UP TERRITORY WEST OF THE RHINE AS DOOMED, AND THE QUESTION WAS WHETHER GEN. EISENHOWER'S OFFENSIVE HAD THE MOMENTUM TO CARRY ACROSS THE RIVER.

IF THE ALLIES CAN SWEEP OVER THE GREAT WATER BARRIER WITHOUT DELAY, THE END OF THE WAR IN EUROPE MAY NOT BE FAR OFF. IF THE GERMAN ARMY CAN MAKE A STAND ON THE EASTERN BANK OF THE RHINE, ANOTHER FULL-SCALE OFFENSIVE UNDOUBTEDLY WILL HAVE TO BE PREPARED, CARRYING THE WAR INTO THE SUMMER.

BEFORE THE LIGHTNING BLOWS OF LT. GEN. WILLIAM H. SIMPSON'S U.S. NINTH ARMY AND THE RELENTLESS BEATING OF THE CANADIAN FIRST AND THE U.S. FIRST AND THIRD ARMIES, THE GERMANS ARE DESPERATELY HOLDING PROTECTIVE ARCS AROUND THE WESEL-DUISBERG AND COLOGNE-BONN AREAS.

THESE ARE BUT BARRIERS COVERING THE WITHDRAWAL OVER THE REMAINING BRIDGES ACROSS THE RHINE.

ALONG THE RIMS OF THESE ARCS, THE GERMANS ARE FIGHTING STUBBORNLY AND IN ORGANIZED MANNER, BUT ELSEWHERE THEY ARE FOLDING UP BEFORE THE ALLIED ATTACKS OR RETREATING SOME TIMES IN DISORDER.

THE WHOLE RHINELAND WEST OF THE RIVER ALREADY IS RENDERED USELESS TO THE GERMANS AS A WAR POTENTIAL, FOR IT IS VIRTUALLY CUT IN TWO, MOST OF ITS COMMUNICATIONS ARE WRECKED AND UNDER FIRE OF ALLIED ARTILLERY WHICH IS ALSO LOBBING SHELLS ACROSS THE RHINE INTO THE EVEN MORE VITAL RUHR VALLEY.

THE GERMANS STILL WEST OF THE RHINE ALREADY ARE UNDER ALLIED ARTILLERY FIRE OR WITHIN RANGE.

ROUTES TO THE RHINE BRIDGES ARE CRATERED AND ENCUMBERED WITH MATERIAL WRECKED BY SHELLING AND BOMBING.

RECONNAISSANCE PILOTS REPORTED AN ABSENCE OF RAIL TRAFFIC ON THE EASTERN BANK OF THE RHINE DUE TO CUTS IN THE RAILWAYS.

A NEW MENACE FACING THE ALLIES AS THEY ADVANCE ON THE RUHR IS THAT THE REGION HAS PERHAPS THE WORLD'S GREATEST CONCENTRATION OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS. MANY OF THESE ARE DUAL PURPOSE AND CAN BE TURNED ON TROOPS.

MILITARY AUTHORITIES SAY THE NINTH ARMY'S THREE-DAY NEWS BLACKOUT SERVED ITS PURPOSE, THAT THE GERMANS APPARENTLY WERE SURPRISED BY THE NORTHWARD DIRECTION OF SIMPSON'S DRIVE, EXPECTING HIM TO STRIKE MORE IN AN EASTERLY DIRECTION.

NIGHT LEAD KREFELD
BY ROBERT EUNSON

KREFELD,GERMANY, MARCH 3-(AP)-PVT.ANTONE VIERA OF 739 BELLVILLE AVE., NEW BEDFORD, MASS., HAS DEVISED A NEW METHOD OF CAPTURING GERMAN PRISONERS.

WHILE SERVING AS A MILITARY POLICEMAN ON DUTY IN THE CENTER OF THIS RHINELAND CITY VIERA TOLD ALL THE WOMEN HE SAW: "IF YOUR HUSBAND IS A SOLDIER, GO HOME AND GET HIM. OTHERWISE HE'LL BE KILLED."

VIERA CAPTURED PRISONERS BY THE TRUCKLOAD, MOST OF THEM UNMILITARY LOOKING MEMBERS OF THE VOLKSSTURM WHO LIVED RIGHT IN TOWN.

THEIR CITY OVERRUN IN A SWIFT AMERICAN ATTACK, KREFELD RESIDENTS WERE GOING ABOUT THEIR USUAL BUSINESS TODAY WHILE U.S. TROOPS ROUNDED UP THE REMAINING GERMAN SOLDIERS. ABOUT 160,000 CIVILIANS WERE IN THE TOWN THURSDAY BUT SOME 40,000 LEFT WITH THE LORD MAYOR AND NAZI CHIEFTAINS WHEN THEY HEARD THE APPROACHING GUNS.

WHEN THE U.S. ATTACK BEGAN YESTERDAY AFTERNOON, KREFELD STILL HAD TELEPHONE CONNECTION WITH BERLIN AND RAILROAD SERVICE.

LITTLE CHILDREN AND SOME OF THEIR ELDERS WAVED TO THE AMERICANS TODAY. IF ONE OF THE CIVILIANS WAS ASKED THE DIRECTION TO THE RAILROAD STATION, JAIL OR SOME OTHER POINT, HE SINSISTED ON GOING ALONG TO SHOW THE WAY.

MOST OF THE STORES NOT BEEN WRECKED BY ALLIED AIR RAIDS WERE OPEN. GERMAN WOMEN IN OVERCOATS RODE THEIR BICYCLES AROUND AND CARRIED SHOPPING BAGS. BUSINESSMEN WALKED DOWNTOWN CARRYING BRIEF CASES. AN ELDERLY MAN WITH A CAN OF WHITEWASH PAINTED OVER ALL THE "HEIL HITLER" SIGNS HE COULD FIND.

MAR 41945

ALTHOUGH KREFELD WAS ANNOUNCED AS TAKEN AT 5 P.M. YESTERDAY, ACTUALLY IT WAS NOT EVEN ATTACKED UNTIL A HALF HOUR LATER. THE RESISTANCE THE 102ND INFANTRY DIVISION MET OUTSIDE THE TOWN WAS VERY BITTER. MAJ. GEN. FRANK A.KEATING POURED 10 MINUTES OF ARTILLERY FIRE ON ENEMY POSITIONS. THEN THE GERMAN TROOPS BROKE AND RAN BACK INTO THE TOWN.

MANY AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS WERE KILLED OUTSIDE KREFELD. THEIR BOOTS CARRIED MUD GATHERED IN 35 MILES OF FIGHTING FROM THE ROER TO KREFELD IN ONE WEEK.

LAST NIGHT THE CRACK 406TH REGIMENT, COMMANDED BY COL.BERNARD F. HURLESS OF ATLANTA, GA., HAD REACHED THE HEART OF THIS GERMAN TEXTILE CITY. MEANWHILE, MAJ.GEN.ALEXANDER ~~BOLLING~~'S 84TH INFANTRY DIVISION HAD PULLED INTO TOWN ON THE 102ND'S LEFT FLANK.

THESE TWO COMPARATIVELY NEW DIVISIONS BROKE ACROSS THE ROER RIVER SIDE BY SIDE ON FEB. 23. A TREMENDOUS RIVALRY HAS DEVELOPED BETWEEN THEM. THE 102ND HAS SPENT 130 CONSECUTIVE DAYS IN COMBAT.

HUNDREDS OF CAPTIVE DUTCH, RUSSIAN AND POLISH WORKERS WERE LIBERATED. THEY STOOD AROUND IN AN OPEN YARD WHILE AMERICAN MILITARY-GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS STARTED THE FIRST STEPS TO SEND THESE FORMER PRISONERS BACK TO THEIR HOMELANDS.

"WE COULD HEAR THE AMERICAN GUNS FOR SEVERAL DAYS AND THOSE NAZI BLOKES WERE ALL PACKING TO LEAVE," SAID ANTHONY JOHN BRUGES, A 19-YEAR-

OLD NEW ZEALANDER WHOSE STEP-FATHER IS A GERMAN BUSINESS MAN.

"THE WIVES OF THE SS (ELITE GUARD) ALL HAD CARS AND OTHER THINGS WHEN THE REST OF US COULDN'T GET PETROL BECAUSE WE WERE AFRAID," HE SAID. "WE WERE EVEN AFRAID TO DIAL OUR RADIOS TOO FAR TO THE LEFT OR RIGHT FOR FEAR WE MIGHT GET AN ALLIED STATION AND BE SHOT.

"BUT WHEN WE KNEW THE AMERICANS WERE COMING AND SAW THE PARTY MEMBERS ALL GET IN THEIR CARS AND LEAVE WE STOOD ON STREET CORNERS AND CALLED THEM NAMES LIKE 'YOU DEVILS.'"

EVERYTHING IN KREFELD HAD STOPPED WHEN BRIG.GEN.ALONZO FOX OF SAN ANTONIO, TEX., ASSISTANT DIVISION COMMANDER OF THE 102ND, BROUGHT HIS TWO REGIMENTS ABREAST AND OPENED THE ATTACK.

IN HIS COMMAND POST IN A FAMILY FLAT, HURLESS LAUGHED WHEN MEMBERS OF HIS STAFF KIDDED HIM ABOUT THE 19 NAZIS HE HAD CAPTURED YESTERDAY. BENT ON WATCHING HIS REGIMENT ATTACK, HURLESS DASHED INTO A TWO STORY HOUSE AND CAME FACE-TO-FACE WITH A GROUP OF ARMED GERMANS IN THE HALL.

"WHEN THEY PUT UP THEIR HANDS I THOUGHT FOR A MINUTE MAYBE I WAS SUPPOSED TO DO THE SAME THING," HURLESS SAID, LAUGHING.

DOWNSTAIRS LT.PAUL E.POTTS OF 951 PATRICIAWAY, SAN JOSE, CALIF., LOOKED AT A MAP AND SHOOK HIS HEAD. "THIRTY-FIVE MILES AS THE CROW FLIES," HE SAID. "WE MADE AT LEAST 50 COUNTING THE ROAD MILES."

MAJ.HAMILTON WILLIAMS OF ATLANTA, GA., SAID THE AMERICANS HAD FOUND A BASEMENT FILLED WITH SUITCASES, REFRIGERATORS AND HOUSEHOLD BELONGINGS WHICH HAD BEEN SENT HERE FROM BERLIN FOR SAFEKEEPING.

COL.CECIL R.EVERETT OF HUNTINGTON, IND., THE REGIMENTS' EXECUTIVE OFFICER, SAID THE REGIMENT HAD TAKEN MORE THAN 2,000 PRISONERS IN ITS DRIVE NORTH ACROSS THE ROER.

IN THE FRONT YARD SGT.WILLIAM VOGT OF MARSHALLTOWN, IOWA, AND SGT.RICHARD WOLF OF 623 36TH ST., LOS ANGELES, INTERVIEWED PRISONERS.

CAPT.C.T.ISENSEY OF CARNES CITY, TEX., (EDS: NOT IN POSTAL GUIDE), SAID IT WAS PLANNED TO MAKE THE CIVILIANS STAY INSIDE OUT OF THE WAY BUT NONE OF THEM SEEMED TO BE DOING ANY HARM.

ONE OF THE REGIMENT'S PLATOONS WAS OUT CLEANING UP SMALL ENEMY POCKETS. IT WAS LED BY LT.RUSSELL SACKMAN OF 1108 EIGHTH ST., HUNTINGTON BEACH, CALIF., AND INCLUDED TECHNICAL SGT.VINCENT SONZAGNI OF 2422 BROWN STREET, PHILADELPHIA; PFC. RICHARD PINCUS OF 175 SEELEY ST., BROOKLYN, N.Y.; PFC. MAX HENDERSON OF OAKLAND, IOWA; SGT.WILLIAM KAUCH, ROUTE 7, DAYTON, OHIO, AND PVT.HARLYN HACKRIDE OF ROUTE 3, ST.JOSEPH, MO.

ONE OF THE INFANTRYMEN TO HIT KREFELD TODAY WAS SGT.WILMER BLAUSER OF 1816 BRIGG STREET, HARRISBURG, PA. ON THE WAY ACROSS THE ROER IN THE THIRD WAVE HIS BOAT WAS CAUGHT IN A CROSSFIRE AND 11 MEN WITH HIM WERE KILLED. HE JUMPED INTO THE WATER AND STAYED THERE FOR AN HOUR.

MOSCOW, MARCH 3-(AP)-RED ARMY CAVALRY AND TANKS REACHED POSITIONS OVERLOOKING THE BALTIC TODAY IN NUMEROUS SECTORS ALONG THE 250-MILE SALIENT FROM THE KOENIGSBERG AREA TO KOESLIN, MIDWAY BETWEEN DANZIG AND STETTIN.

MARSHAL KONSTANTIN ROKOSSOVSKY'S HARD-HITTING SECOND WHITE RUSSIAN UNITS WERE CUTTING THEIR WAY THROUGH GREAT NUMBERS OF GERMAN VOLKSSTURMERS ATTEMPTING VAINLY TO CHECK THE SOVIET DRIVE TO THE SEA THROUGH POMERANIA, DANZIG TERRITORY AND EAST PRUSSIA.

THE RUSSIAN PLAN APPEARS TO BE TO CUT THROUGH THE AREAS BETWEEN MAJOR CITIES AND PORTS AND ISOLATE ONE FROM THE OTHER AS WELL AS CUTTING OFF ALL ESCAPE FOR THE NAZIS BY OVERLAND ROUTES.

THIS OPERATION HAS BEEN SO SUCCESSFUL THE NAZIS HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO USE THE MAIN COASTAL RAILWAY FOR THREE DAYS.

MAR 41945

THE RUSSIAN COMMUNIQUE YESTERDAY TOLD OF THE CAPTURE OF 30 VILLAGES ON THE WESTERN SIDE OF THE BALTIC SALIENT, BUT DID NOT DIRECTLY CONFIRM GERMAN REPORTS THAT RED ARMY SPEARHEADS HAD ROLLED WITHIN FOUR MILES OF THE BALTIC POMERANIAN COAST.

A MIDNIGHT SOVIET COMMUNIQUE SAID THE GERMANS HURLED 60 COUNTER-ATTACKS ON THE 16-MILE FRONT SOUTHWEST OF KOENIGSBERG. THREE THOUSAND GERMANS WERE KILLED IN THE ACTION, MOSCOW ASSERTED, AND SAID THE RUSSIANS GAINED UP TO A MILE IN THE AREA.

THE NEAREST THE RUSSIANS WERE PLACED OFFICIALLY TO KOESLIN BY MOSCOW WAS AT CAPTURED DUBBERTECH, FIVE MILES NORTHWEST OF BUBLITZ AND 18 MILES SOUTHEAST OF KOESLIN.

THE SOVIET BULLETIN ALSO ANNOUNCED THE CAPTURE OF JUCHOW, NINE MILES SOUTHWEST OF TOPPLED NEUSTETTIN, IN POMERANIA.

THE ENCIRCLED WESTERN POLISH CITADEL OF GRUDZIADZ HAS BEEN FURTHER CLEARED OF THE ENEMY, DISPATCHES SAID.

MOSCOW, MARCH 3-(AP)-THE ENGLISH-LANGUAGE NEWSPAPER, THE MOSCOW NEWS, DENIED TODAY FOREIGN NEWSPAPER CHARGES THAT THE DEMANDS OF THE LEFT-WING NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC FRONT PARTY IN ROMANIA WOULD "SOVIETIZE" THE COUNTRY.

"WHAT IS STRANGE IS THAT THE CORRESPONDENT OF SUCH A SUBSTANTIAL NEWSPAPER AS THE NEW YORK TIMES SHOULD BE CREDULOUS ENOUGH TO BELIEVE THE PROVOCATIVE FICTION INVENTED BY RADESCU AND SHOULD BE NOW ATTEMPTING TO ASSURE THE AMERICAN READER THAT CARRYING OUT THE DEMANDS OF THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC FRONT WOULD MEAN 'SOVIETIZING' ROMANIA."

THE NEWS FURTHER SAID THAT "EVERY UNPREJUDICED OBJECTIVE OBSERVER WHO STUDIES THE 10 POINTS OF THE PROGRAM OF THE ROMANIAN NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC FRONT WILL HAVE NO DIFFICULTY SEEING THAT NOT ONE OF THEM EXTENDS BEYOND THE FRAMEWORK OF THE ARMISTICE TERMS PRESENTED ROMANIA BY THE THREE ALLIED POWERS."

"IT JUST GOES TO SHOW," SAID A YOUNG FACTORY SUPERINTENDENT, "WHAT CAN HAPPEN WHEN OUR THREE LEADERS GET TOGETHER. THEY SHOULD DO IT OFTEN AND, IF THE REST OF THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE THINK LIKE I DO, THEY WILL GET TOGETHER OFTEN."

THE RUSSIANS ALSO ARE BEGINNING TO SHOW GREATER APPRECIATION FOR THE ALLIED AERIAL BLOWS BEHIND THE GERMAN LINES ON THE EASTERN FRONT NOW THAT THEY UNDERSTAND THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS DO NOT PLAN TO SUBSTITUTE AN AIR OFFENSIVE FOR A LAND OFFENSIVE. THE FRATERNIZING AMONG RUSSIAN SOLDIERS AND AMERICAN FLIERS WHO HAVE LANDED IN THE SOVIET UNION HAS DONE MUCH TO CEMENT FRIENDLY RELATIONS.

ON THE RED ARMY FRONT, INTEREST IS CURRENTLY FOCUSED ON POMERANIA, WHERE OPERATIONS HAVE BEEN SHIFTED WESTWARD FOR A CLEANUP OF THE BALTIC COAST.

THERE IS GOOD REASON TO ANTICIPATE THAT THE SOVIETS SOON WILL CONTROL THE COAST FROM DANZIG WESTWARD TO THE EASTERN BANK OF THE ODER RIVER. IT IS FAIRLY CLEAR NOW THAT MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV'S WIDENED BASE ON HIS FRONT EAST OF BERLIN WAS HELD UNSUITABLE FOR THE BIG OVER-ALL PLANS FOR OPERATIONS AGAINST THE REICH AND, HCE, THE CURRENT PUSH TO THE BALTIC WAS ORDERED.

ZHUKOV EVIDENTLY FELT THAT HE NEEDED MORE SPACE TO THE NORTH OR FELT THAT THOUSANDS OF THE VOLKSSTURM (HOME GUARD) LED BY SEASONED GERMAN OFFICERS ON HIS NORTHERN FLANK WERE TOO GREAT A MENACE.

A186

SOVIET RECONNAISSANCE HAS REVEALED THAT THE GERMANS HAVE BUILT AN INTRICATE SERIES OF ENTRENCHED AND PROTECTED ARTILLERY POSITIONS FROM STETTIN ON THE BALTIC TO A MOUNTAIN RANGE SOUTHEAST OF DRESDEN. TROOPS HAVE BEEN POURED INTO THIS LINE FROM EVERY SECTOR OF GERMANY AND FROM THE ITALIAN FRONT.

KEEPING WATCH ALONG THE RIVERS PROTECTING BERLIN ARE STORMTROOPERS, THE PICK OF THE NAZI PARATROOPERS AND THOUSANDS OF VOLKSSTURM AND EVEN LARGE NUMBERS OF POLICEMEN FROM GERMANY'S LARGER CITIES.

GESTAPO CHIEF HEINRICH HIMMLER IS IN FULL CONTROL WITH HIS AGENTS STRATEGICALLY PLACED THROUGHOUT THE FRONT LINES.

RECENTLY CAPTURED PRISONERS WHO HEARD PROPAGANDA MINISTER JOSEPH GOEBBERS' SPEECH THIS WEEK FRANKLY TOLD THE RUSSIANS THAT IT WAS A PLAIN CASE OF "WHISTLING IN THE DARK" SO FAR AS MOST GERMAN SOLDIERS WERE CONCERNED.

THE CAPTIVES, MANY OF THEM OFFICERS, SAID GERMANY GENERALLY REALIZES THE JIG IS UP AND IT NOW IS A QUESTION OF HOW FAR THE NAZIS WILL GO IN SACRIFICING THE LIVES OF THE GERMAN PEOPLE.

HOWEVER, THERE STILL IS NOT A SIGN OF THE GERMANS QUITTING. NAZI PROPAGANDA AND THE PRUSSIAN MILITARY SPIRIT STILL IS DRIVING THEM, IT APPEARS.

MANILA, SUNDAY, MARCH 4-(AP)-FIVE AMERICAN DIVISIONS TODAY PRESSED THEIR EXTERMINATION FIGHT AGAINST JAPANESE FORCES IN THE MOUNTAINS OF LUZON, PRINCIPAL ISLAND OF THE PHILIPPINES.

WHILE THE SPOTLIGHT IN THE PHILIPPINE LIBERATION CAMPAIGN SWUNG TO YANK INVASIONS OF LUBANG AND PALAWAN ISLANDS, AND RECENTLY-WON MANILA STRUGGLED TOWARD NORMAL LIVING, 70,000 OR MORE TROOPS OF THE U.S. SIXTH ARMY STILL WERE FIGHTING ON LUZON.

(IN WASHINGTON THERE WAS SPECULATION THAT THE YANKS LANDING ON PALAWAN, A WESTERNMOST MAIN ISLAND OF THE PHILIPPINES, MIGHT PRESAGE AN AMERICAN INVASION OF BORNEO, OIL RICH EAST INDIES ISLAND 500 MILES AWAY.

MAR 4 1945

(REPEATING THE NAVY'S BOAST THAT IS CAPABLE OF MAKING A LANDING WHEREVER IT CHOOSES, A NAVAL SPOKESMAN SAID THAT "IF THE ALLIES FEEL THE NEED OF A CLOSER SUPPLY FOR OIL FOR ITS FLEETS THAN IS NOW AVAILABLE, IT WILL BE TAKEN CARE OF.")

THE FIRST CAVALRY AND SIXTH INFANTRY DIVISIONS PRESSED THE ENEMY IN THE RUGGED WATERSHED FROM ANTIPOLO TO WAWA, EAST OF MANILA, WHILE THE 40TH DIVISION MOPPED UP IN THE ZAMBALES MOUNTAINS NORTH OF BATAAN.

NORTH AND EAST OF THE CENTRAL LUZON PLAIN, DOWN WHICH THE AMERICANS SWEPT TO MANILA AFTER THE INVASION LANDING IN THE LINGAYEN GULF AREA JAN.9, THE 33RD, 32ND AND 25TH DIVISIONS OF THE FIRST CORPS PUSHED DEEPER INTO JUNGLE-MATTED HEIGHTS.

THE 33RD FOUGHT NORTH OF RO

CARIO IN THE BENGUET MOUNTAINS TOWARD BAGUIO, WHERE THE JAPANESE WERE REPORTED TO BE INSTALLED IN FORCE; THE 32ND BATTLED UP THE VILLA VERDE TRAIL IN THE CARABALLO MOUNTAINS, AND THE 25TH PROGRESSED NORTHWARD IN CAGAYAN VALLEY TOWARD STRATEGIC BALETA PASS.

THE INVASION OF PALAWAN ISLAND WEDNESDAY STRENGTHENED THE AMERICAN POSITION TO CUT JAPAN'S SOUTH CHINA SEA LIFELINE, WHILE THE SEIZURE OF LUBANG THURSDAY COMPLETED THE CAPTURE OF KEY POSITIONS IN THE CENTRAL PHILIPPINES WATER PASSAGE AND SECURED THE ROUTE FOR ALLIED SHIPPING, HEADQUARTERS SAID.

THE 41ST DIVISION HAS GAINED "PRACTICAL CONTROL" OF PALAWAN, GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR SAID IN YESTERDAY'S COMMUNIQUE. THE YANKS HAD OCCUPIED PUERTO PRINCESA, PALAWAN'S CAPITAL, AND TAKEN THREE AIRFIELDS.

WITH U.S. FOURTH MARINE DIVISION, IWO JIMA, (VIA NAVY RADIO), MARCH 2-(DELAYED)-(AP)-TRAPPED BESIDE THE BODY OF A DEAD COMPANION, ONE JAPANESE SOLDIER HID FOR 11 DAYS WITHIN REACHING DISTANCE OF U.S. MARINES BEFORE HE FINALLY KILLED HIMSELF.

THE STORY WAS TOLD TODAY BY MAJ.JOHN B.EDGAR OF MEMPHIS, TENN., COMMANDING THE FIRST BATTALION OF THE 14TH MARINE REGIMENT.

ON D DAY, THE FIRST BATTALION CAPTURED AN ENEMY BLOCKHOUSE. THE INTERIOR WAS VERY UNTIDY BUT A BARRAGE FORCED THE AMERICANS TO TAKE COVER AND THE CAPTURED POSITION WAS THEN USED AS AN ARTILLERY DIRECTION CENTER.

ONE DEAD JAPANESE WAS STUCK IN A SMALL COMPARTMENT. THE MARINES SEALED THE PLACE OFF AND LET IT GO AT THAT.

"SEVERAL DAYS LATER ONE OF THE BOYS SAID HE SAW A FACE AT A LOOKOUT PEEPHOLE," EDGAR RECOUNTED, "BUT WE THOUGHT HE HAD THE MEEMIES. BUT EARLY THE 11TH MORNING AFTER D DAY, THERE WAS A SHARP EXPLOSION. THE COMPARTMENT WAS OPENED AND THE NEWLY DEAD JAP WAS FOUND ALONG WITH THE BODY OF HIS COMPANION."

EDGAR SAID HE COULDN'T EXPLAIN WHY THE ENEMY SOLDIER MADE NO EFFORT TO BREAK OUT, WHICH HE COULD EASILY HAVE DONE, OR WHY, IF HE PLANNED SUICIDE, HE WAITED SO LONG.

IWO JIMA, FEB. 26-(DELAYED)-THIS ROCKY ISLAND BASTION, ON THE FRINGE OF THE JAPANESE HOMELAND, ALREADY IS BEING WHIPPED INTO SHAPE BY NAVY SEABEES FOR AMERICAN USE WHILE MARINES CONTINUE THEIR MARCH AGAINST FANATICAL JAPANESE DEFENDERS.

THE SEABEES, WHO LANDED WITHIN 60 MINUTES OF THE FIRST ASSAULT WAVE, HAVE REPAIRED THE BIG SOUTHERN AIRFIELD, AND MARINE PLANES ARE TAKING OFF TO GIVE GROUND FORCES LAND-BASED TACTICAL SUPPORT.

IT IS ONLY THREE DAYS SINCE THE SEABEES WENT TO WORK ON THE CONCRETE STRIP, WHICH HAD BEEN SEVERELY DAMAGED BY THE RETREATING ENEMY'S MORTAR FIRE. THE SEABEES FOUND THE SURFACE LITTERED WITH SHRAPNEL, AND HAVE CLEARED HUNDREDS OF THE JAGGED FRAGMENTS OF IRON AND STEEL, SOME OF THEMAS BIG AS A MAN'S HEAD.

ONE SEABEE OFFICER, CHIEF CARPENTER GEORGE E. HERMANSEN, 44, OF CHICAGO, RELATED THAT TWICE WITHIN AN HOUR SIX COMPANIONS WERE HIT BY DIRECT SHELL HITS FROM WHICH HE ESCAPED UNSCATHED. HE SAID HE HAD LANDED SHORTLY AFTER H-HOUR TO DIRECT A SEABEE MAPPING TEAM, AND THAT HE BECAME SEPARATED FROM HIS MEN ON THE BEACH, THEN UNDER A HEAVY MORTAR BARRAGE.

"I CRAWLED INTO A SHELL HOLE WITH FOUR MARINE STAFF OFFICERS AND THREE OTHER MEN," HE SAID. "TWENTY MINUTES LATER, WE WERE HIT BY THREE SHELLS AT ONCE. I WAS UNCONSCIOUS, I THINK, FOR ALMOST AN HOUR. AND WHEN I CAME TO, I SAW THAT FOUR OF THE OTHERS HAD BEEN KILLED."

THE JAPANESE APPARENTLY SPOTTED THE FIRST PLANE FROM THE HIGH POINTS STILL IN THEIR HANDS, FOR SHORTLY AFTER IT LANDED THEY LOBBED IN THREE MORTAR SHELLS. THE SHOTS FELL WIDE OF THE MARK AND NO HARM WAS DONE.

TRANSPORT PLANES FROM SAIPAN HAVE BEEN FLYING OVER THE FIELD REGULARLY THE LAST THREE DAYS, DROPPING MAIL BY PARACHUTE. TODAY'S MAIL-DROP TOTALED 8,000 POUNDS.

IWO JIMA (VIA NAVY RADIO), MARCH 3-(AP)-THE MARINE BOMB DISPOSAL PLATOON ON IWO JIMA, WHILE PERFORMING WHAT APPEARS TO BE ONE OF THE MOST HAZARDOUS JOBS OF THE INVASION, HASN'T HAD A CASUALTY TO DATE.

MAR 4 1945

IT'S THE DUTY OF THE PLATOON, COMMANDED BY LT.WILLIAM BELLANE, OF (1528 N. NINTH ST.) READING, PA., TO CLEAR OUT LAND MINE FIELDS AND PULL THE "FANGS" FROM DUD JAPANESE BOMBS AND SHELLS.

"THERE'S NOT MUCH DANGER IF YOU KNOW WHAT YOU'RE DOING," SAID BELLANE, IN CIVILIAN LIFE A MINING ENGINEER. HE WAS EDUCATED AT PENNSYLVANIA STATE AND NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY.

LT. (JG) TILMON KREILING, OF (2122 WEST MC CLURE ST.) PEORIA, ILL., A NAVY BOMB DISPOSAL OFFICER WORKING WITH BELLANE'S PLATOON, SHARED THE MARINE OFFICER'S OPINION.

THEY SAID ONE OF THE MOST COMMON TYPE OF MINES FOUND HERE IS KNOWN A THE "YARDSTICK" BECAUSE OF ITS LENGTH. THIS MINE, CHARGED WITH PICRIC ACID, IS LAID JUST UNDERNEATH THE SURFACE OF ROADS. IT IS DISCHARGED BY THE PRESSURE OF TRUCK TIRES OR TANK TREADS. A MAN'S WEIGHT IS NOT SUFFICIENT.

THE NUMBER OF MINES DISPOSED OF ON IWO THUS FAR WAS NOT DISCLOSED BUT THE OFFICERS SAID THEY EXTENDED 200 YARDS INLAND ALL ALONG THE LANDING BEACHES. THE THREE AIRFIELDS WERE ALSO HEAVILY MINED

AMONG MEMBERS OF THE PLATOON ARE: GUNNERY SGT.GORDON L.SCHUMAT, OF (1745 NORTH DORGENOIS ST.) NEW ORLEANS, LA.; PVT.P.L. MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO.1, IWO JIMA, MARCH 3 (AP)-I WAS ABOARD THE FIRST HOSPITAL SUPPLY TRANSPORT PLANE LANDING TODAY ON THIS PITTED, BLACK-SANDED ISLAND, WHERE THOUSANDS OF AMERICAN MARINES HAVE FOUGHT AND DIED TO GAIN AN ESSENTIAL FOOTHOLD IN JAPAN'S "FRONT YARD."

THE PLANE WAS STRICTLY A MERCY SHIP--CARRYING DOCTORS, HOSPITAL CORPSMEN, MEDICAL SUPPLIES AND 2,000 POUNDS OF MAIL. WE ALSO CARRIED TENTS AND EQUIPMENT FOR A FRONT LINE CLEARING HOSPITAL, FROM WHICH WOUNDED WILL BE EVACUATED BY PLANE.

OUR RECEPTION COULD NOT HAVE BEEN WARMER. THOUGH MY FIRST GLIMPSE OF IWO REMINDED ME OF A PASTEL-COLORED JAPANESE PRINT, DOMINATED BY THE CONVENTIONAL VOLCANO, THE NIPPONESE MANNING MORTARS QUICKLY JARRED ME OUT OF THAT IMPRESSION. THEY ALMOST GOT OUR RANGE AND JUST ABOUT SHOT US ONTO THE AIRFIELD.

OUR PILOT,COMDR.CLARENCE A.KELLER, OF WICHITA,KAS., COMMANDER OF THE AIR EVACUATION SQUADRON, SAT THE PLANE DOWN SMOOTHLY. OTHERS ABOARD THE HOSPITAL PLANE "PEG O'MY HEART" INCLUDED TWO DOCTORS: LT.COMDR.JOHN B.MACGREGOR, O

OTHERS ABOARD THE HOSPITAL PLANE "PEG O'MY HEART" INCLUDED TWO DOCTORS: LT.COMDR.JOHN B.MACGREGOR, OF AFTON, VA., SENIOR SURGEON OF THE NAVAL EVACUATION UNIT, AND CAPT.B.S. BAKER, OF CAMDEN, N.J., ARMY FLIGHT SURGEON.

THEY WILL DIRECT THE SCREENING OF THE WOUNDED, TO DETERMINE WHICH CAN SAFELY STAND THE AIR TRIP TO SAIPAN OR GUAM HOSPITALS.

TWO CORPSMEN ASSIGNED TO THE CLEARING HOSPITAL ARE PHARMACIST 1/C RICHARD SCANLON, OF DEARBORN, MICH., OF ALTOONA, PA., VETERAN OF GUADALCANAL, WHO PLANS TO BECOME A MISSIONARY IN CHINA AFTER THE WAR.

ATTACHED TO THE HOSPITAL SHIP IS CHIEF PHARMACIST'S MATE GROVER C.JENNINGS, OF MYRTLE, MISS., WHO HAS A CIPPLED HAND FROM SOLOMONS SERVICE, AND A BRUSQUE TENDERNESS THAT ENDEARS HIM TO THE FIERCEST WARRIOR.

I CRAWLED FROM THE PLANE, TOTTERING UNDER THE COMBINED WEIGHT OF A TIN HAT, TRENCH KNIFE, CANTEEN AND TYPEWRITER.

THE FIRST MARINE TO SEE ME SHOUTED: "HOW THE HELL DID YOU GET HERE?"

HE WAS CORP.JOE PURCELL, OF BOSTON, MASS., HIS FACE COVERED WITH A BLACK STUBBLE, LIKE THE OTHERS WHO HAVE BEEN ON IWO SINCE D DAY. THE BARBER SHORTAGE IS TERRIFIC.

JOE TOOK ME OVER TO THE FIRST AID TENT. TWO LIMP YOUNGSTERS, WITH HORRIBLY BLOODY HEAD BANDAGES, WERE RECEIVING PLASMA. DR. LEO L.THELAN, OF ELGIN, ILL., OF THE FIGHTING THIRD MARINES--THE UNIT WHICH ACCOUNTED FOR SUCH MAGNIFICENT GAINS DURING THE PAST FEW DAYS--WAS IN CHARGE OF THE FIRST AID STATION.

HE AND HIS STAFF TAKE THE WOUNDED FROM THE FIELD, GIVE THEM FIRST AID AND DISPATCH THEM TO THE WHITE HOSPITAL SHIP OFF SHORE. IT USUALLY TAKES LESS THAN HALF AN HOUR. INCRDIBLE BUT HEARTENING, ISN'T IT?

B95KX

BACK AT THE PLANE, I WAS STILL AMAZED AT THE ENDLESS MILITARY INSTALLATIONS THAT HAVE MUSHROOMED ON THE BEACHHEAD.

THE MORTAR FIRE INCREASED.

"THAT'S IT!" ONE LAD SHOUTED AND VANISHED IN THIN AIR.

30.24-2357 1

MY MOUTH OPENED AND I REACHED FOR MY TYPEWRITER
A HUGE MARINE COLONEL GRABBED MY ARM AND PROPELLED ME SWIFTLY A FEW YARDS TO A SPOT WHERE TWO JEEPS WERE PARKED.
"DOWN ON YOUR FACE," HE ORDERED, "AND STAY THERE;" HE GAVE INQUISITIVE HEAD A FIRE PUSH. OBEYED, MUTTERING WEAKLY "WHERE IS THE FIRE COMING FROM?"
SUFFY EXPECTED ANOTHER PUSH BUT INSTEAD MY GUARDIAN RELENTED AND PULLED OUT A MAP. HE SHOWED ME WHERE THE MORTAR FIRE WAS COMING FROM.
I SUBSIDIED INTO THE BLACK DUST OF THE BEACH. MORTAR SHELLS FALLING A HUNDRED YARDS AWAY, ACROSS THE OPEN AIRSTRIP, WERE DISTINCTLY UNPLEASANT TO CONTEMPLATE.
THE SHELLING STOPPED AND WE TOOK OFF SMOOTHLY--OUT OVER THE ARMADA OF AMERICAN SHIPS RIDING IN THE BLUE WATER; UP THROUGH THE FROSTY AIR UNTIL IWO JIMA--AN ISLAND OF BLOOD AND COURAGE AND DEATH--WAS A MEMORY.

(ADVANCE FOR AMS OF SUNDAY, MARCH 4) MAR 1945
BY SECOND LIEUTENANT JIM G. LUCAS, FORMERLY OF THE TULSA TRIBUNE, A MARINE CORPS PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER
-DISTRIBUTED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-
(ADVANCE) (WX) IWO JIMA (DELAYED)--THIS NAVY TRANSPORT LAY LESS THAN 1,000 YARDS OFF THE BLAZING BEACHES LAST NIGHT WHILE FOUR GALLANT NAVY DOCTORS AND TWO DENTISTS FOUGHT TO SAVE THE LIVES OF 74 MANGLED MARINES.
IT WAS A GRIPPING BATTLE, ONE WHICH BEGAN LESS THAN TWO HOURS AFTER THE FIRST ASSAULT WAVES HAD GONE ASHORE YESTERDAY.
AT THE HEIGHT OF THIS FIGHT TO SAVE LIFE, ENEMY SHELLS LANDED BETWEEN THIS TRANSPORT AND ONE 100 YARDS TO THE LEFT. FOR THREE HOURS, GUN CREWS STOOD AT THEIR STATIONS TO FIGHT OFF ENEMY PLANES WHILE THE SILENT BATTLE WENT ON INSIDE.
THIS MORNING, TIRED LIEUT. COMMANDER J.H. MCCAULEY OF LOS ANGELES, CALIF., SAID HE HADN'T DONE ENOUGH. FOUR MARINES WERE DEAD.
BUT 70 WERE ALIVE AND 68 HAVE A GOOD CHANCE TO SURVIVE.
THE FIRST WOUNDED WERE BROUGHT ABOARD EVEN BEFORE THIS TRANSPORT HAD DISCHARGED ITS COMBAT TROOPS.
LIEUT. COMMANDER MCCAULEY, E.S. GROSECLOSE OF LYNCHBURG, VA., AND E.B. FRAZIER OF MOBILE, ALA., AND LIEUT. R.A. HAMILTON OF SPRINGFIELD, KY., NAVY DOCTORS, WENT INTO ACTION AS SOON AS THE CASUALTY BOAT CAME ALONG SIDE.
THE WARDROOM WAS CLEARED, AND THE TABLES TOOK THEIR FIRST PATIENTS. OFFICERS QUARTERS WERE EVACUATED, AND BECAME HOSPITAL WARDS. BY MID-AFTERNOON, THREE BOATLOADS OF CASUALTIES HAD ARRIVED.
ASSISTING THE DOCTORS WERE TWO NAVY DENTISTS, LIEUT. W.J. MCGILL OF HOMESTEAD, PA., AND LIEUT. WILLIAM KING OF LUVERNE, ALA., AND THE SHIP'S CHAPLAIN, LIEUT. W.E. WRIGHT OF FORT WORTH, TEXAS, FORMER PASTOR OF THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH AT SMITHVILLE, TEXAS.
ONE MAN DIED EARLY IN THE AFTERNOON. DOCTOR MCCAULEY FOUGHT DESPERATELY TO SAVE HIS LIFE, BUT THE MAN WAS ALL BUT DEAD WHEN HE REACHED THE SHIP.
UNBELIEVABLE MEDICAL FEATS WERE ACCOMPLISHED IN THOSE BRIEF HOURS. BRAIN SURGERY WAS PERFORMED ON THE ROLLING SEA. DOCTOR MCCAULEY SAVED THE SHATTERED ARM OF A MARINE RATHER THAN AMPUTATE.
AN ATTEMPT TO SERVE THE EVENING MEAL WAS INTERRUPTED BY THE ARRIVAL OF MORE WOUNDED.
THE BATTLE TO SAVE LIFE CONTINUED THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT AND INTO THE NEXT MORNING.
CHAPLAIN WRIGHT MOVED CONSTANTLY AMONG THE WOUNDED. HE WAS WITH ALL OF THE FOUR WHO DIED WHEN THE END CAME.
THE FIRST PHASE OF THE BATTLE ON THIS IMPROVISED HOSPITAL SHIP WAS TO KEEP THE WOUNDED ALIVE. TODAY, DOCTORS BEGAN THE FIGHT TO REPAIR THE WRECKED BODIES.
MARINE COLONEL ORIN H.WHEELER OF 3028 PORTER STREET, N.W., WASHINGTON,D.C., SAID THE NIGHT'S WORK WAS "THE FINEST THING I HAVE EVER SEEN."

U.S.PACIFIC ELEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, MARCH 3-(AP)-AIRPLANES FROM THE FAMOUS CARRIER "FIGHTING LADY" SHOT DOWN 62 JAPANESE AIRCRAFT IN 2 1/2 DAYS OF ATTACKS UPON TOKYO WITHOUT THE LOSS OF AN AMERICAN FLIER.
FOUR PLANES FROM THE "FIGHTING LADY" WERE LOST BUT EVERY AIRMAN WAS PICKED UP.
FOUR FLIERS FROM THE CARRIER TOLD OF A PARTICULARLY BITTER 30-MINUTE FIGHT OVER THE TACHIKAWA AREA, 15 MILES NORTHWEST OF TOKYO, WHEN FOUR FIGHTERS ESCORTING A FORMATION OF TORPEDO PLANES FOUGHT OFF 15 TO 18 INTERCEPTORS. AT LEAST TWO OF THE JAPANESE WERE SHOT DOWN.
IN THEIR FIRST LOOK AT THE TOKYO AREA, THE PILOTS COUNTED MORE THAN 1,000 ENEMY PLANES, CLOSE-PACKED ON THEIR FIELDS. MANY AIRDROMES WERE ONLY A MILE AND A HALF APART. MOST OF THE PLANES WERE IN LYING

1,000 ENEMY PLANES, CLOSE-PACKED ON THEIR FIELDS. MANY AIRDROMES WERE ONLY A MILE AND A HALF APART. MOST OF THE PLANES WERE IN OUTLYING AREAS.
AMERICAN PILOTS ALSO FOUND MANY BRAND NEW, MODERN-LOOKING FACTORY BUILDINGS IN TOKYO'S NORTHWESTERN SUBURBS--THEIR PARTICULAR TARGET--EVIDENTLY DERIVING POWER FROM THE TONE RIVER. THIS INDICATED, THEY SAID, THAT THE JAPANESE HAVE BEEN MOVING FACTORY PRODUCTION AWAY FROM CENTRALIZED INDUSTRIAL AREAS.
"HEAVIEST ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE CAME, NOT FROM THE AIRFIELDS WITH THEIR NUMEROUS PLANES AND ELABORATE HANGARS, BUT FROM THESE FACTORY AREAS," SAID LT. CMDR. EDWARD H. BAYERS, (8041 CHURCH ROAD, ST.LOUIS, MO. MAR 4 1945
BAYERS, WHOSE WIFE LIVES AT COMPTON, CALIF., WAS HERO OF THE MIDWAY BATTLE AND SKIPPER OF THE "FIGHTING LADY'S" FIGHTER SQUADRON.
LT. CMDR. FRITZ EMIL WOLF, SKIPPER OF THE BOMBING SQUADRON FROM SHAWANO, WIS., (HIS WIFE LIVES AT SAN DIEGO, CALIF.) SAID THE JAPANESE HAD A FULL-SIZE PLASTIC DUMMY OF A B-29 AT TSUKUBA FIELD. HE SAID THE PLASTIC B-29 WAS APPARENTLY USED FOR BOMBING PRACTICE.
HE SAID A SIMILAR DUMMY WAS SEEN INFORMOSA.
WOLF ALSO TOLD OF SEEING A TONY FIGHTER DROP A DUMMY IN A PARACHUTE AND A BLACK BOX AFTER A HEAD-ON ATTACK. THE DUMMY WAS INTENDED TO DECEIVE HIS OPPONENT, BUT THE PURPOSE OF THE BOX WAS A MYSTERY.
"JAPANESE TACTICS ARE VERY POOR," WOLF SAID SCORNFULLY, "ALTHOUGH THEY HAD A NUMBER OF THE NEWEST TYPE FIGHTERS--SOME FRANKS, A BIG ARMY PLANE; SOME GEORGES, A NEW NAVY PLANE, SOME JACKS--THEY WERE THE DUMBEST PILOTS I HAVE EVER RUN INTO AND I'VE MET SOME DUMB ONES AS WELL AS SOME VERY GOOD ONES IN CHINA.

B33KX Q13
"WE DIVIDE JAP FLIERS INTO STUDENTS AND INSTRUCTORS.

OCCASIONALLY YOU HIT INSTRUCTORS. THAT'S THE WAY IT'S BEEN ALL ALONG."

FIGHTING LADY PLANES FOUND HUNDREDS OF AIRCRAFT ON TACHIKAWA FIELD. THEY KNOCKED OUT MANY AND ALSO DESTROYED 50 PER CENT OF AN IMPORTANT ENGINE PLANT ADJOINING THE FIELD, PICTURES SHOWED.

LT. FREDERICK JOHNSON, WESTFIELD, N.Y., TORPEDO PLANE PILOT, SAID "APPARENTLY MANY OF THOSE PLANES WERE NEW AND NOT YET FLYABLE.

"THEY WERE CROWDED AROUND THE FACTORY FIELD LIKE OUR PLANES ON FORD ISLAND."

ENS. FRANK ONION, EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL., FLEW HIS BADLY SHOT UP FIGHTER BACK FROM THE ATTACK AND LANDED ON THE WATER NEAR THE FIGHTING LADY, AND WAS RESCUED.

THE CARRIER'S AIRCRAFT FLEW THROUGH A SQUARE MILE OF THE MOST HEAVILY DEFENDED AREA TO HIT THE KASIMAGURA SUPPLY BASE WHICH "COMPARES WITH A NAVY DEPOT LIKE PENSACOLA."

BAYERS, WHO SHOT DOWN TWO PLANES AND GOT THREE PROBABLES, SAID JAPANESE PILOTS "HAVE A HELLUVA LOT OF RESPECT FOR THE HELLCAT." WOLF SHOT DOWN ONE.

BAYERS SAID THE NEW ENEMY PLANES ARE MORE HEAVILY ARMORED THAN THEIR PREDECESSORS, BUT STILL BURN READILY.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, LUZON, MARCH 3-(AP)-DISCOVERY OF "HUMAN BONES AND BITS OF CHARRED CLOTHING" AT A JAPANESE PRISON CAMP ON NEWLY INVADED PALAWAN ISLAND HAS CORROBORATED STORIES OF FIVE ESCAPEES THAT 150 AMERICANS WERE BURNED TO DEATH IN GASOLINE-FED FIRES OR SHOT OR BAYONETTED, GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR SAID TODAY.

HIS SPECIAL PRESS RELEASE SAID 41ST DIVISION YANKS AT PALAWAN, WESTERNMOST OF THE PHILIPPINES, SUBSTANTIATED EARLIER REPORTS THAT THE MASSACRE TOOK PLACE LAST DECEMBER WHEN THE JAPANESE GUARDS BECAME CRAZED WITH FEAR AT THE APPROACH OF A MINDORO-BOUND CONVOY.

"THEY HERDED US INTO A STRING OF UNDERGROUND SHELTERS IN A COMPOUND NEAR THE BARRACKS," SAID CPL. ELMO D. DEAL, OF YUBA, CALIF., WHO WAS CAPTURED ON BATAAN IN 1942 AND WAS ONE OF THE FIVE WHO ESCAPED.

"I DON'T KNOW WHICH JAP OFFICER GAVE THE WORD BUT THEY THREW GASOLINE IN ON US AND IGNITED IT. WE TRIED TO GET OUT THE OTHER END OF THE DUGOUT BUT THEY MOWED US DOWN WITH MACHINEGUNS."

DEAL AND ABOUT 40 OTHERS AT THE FAR END OF THE LINE SMELLED THE GASOLINE, HEARD SHOOTING AND MADE A BREAK FOR A HIGH WIRE FENCE AROUND THE COMPOUND.

THE JAPANESE RACED AFTER THEM, SHOOTING AND BAYONETTING.

A FEW AMERICANS IN THE BREAK GOT THROUGH A WIRE FENCE AND SCRAMBLED DOWN CLIFFS TO THE BEACH.

DEAL SAID THE JAPANESE SCOURED THE AREA, LOCATING AMERICANS WHO HAD BEEN INJURED SLIDING DOWN THE CLIFFS. THE MEN WERE SHOT OR BAYONETTED.

THE CALIFORNIAN, WEAK AND EXHAUSTED, ESCAPED DETECTION, THEN MADE HIS WAY TO FILIPINOS.

OTHERS WHO FOUGHT THEIR WAY THROUGH THE FENCE TO FREEDOM INCLUDED MARINE SGT. DOUGLAS W. BOGUE, MARINE PFC GLEN W. MCDOLE AND NAVY RADIOMAN, FIRST CLASS, FERN J. BARTA. (HOME TOWNS NOT AVAILABLE).

21ST BOMBER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, SUNDAY, MARCH 4-(AP)-SUPERFORTRESSES FROM MARIANAS BASES BOMBED TOKYO THIS MORNING IN THEIR FIRST EARLY MORNING RAID ON THE JAPANESE CAPITAL AND THEIR SECOND CONSECUTIVE SUNDAY STRIKE THERE.

IN TEN PREVIOUS RAIDS, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF A NIGHT STRIKE LAST NOVEMBER 29, THE SUPERFORTRESSES FROM THE MARIANAS BASES HAVE STRUCK TOKYO IN MIDAFTERNOON.

SUNDAY'S BOMBING WAS THROUGH AN OVERCAST WHICH PREVENTED OBSERVATION OF RESULTS. TARGETS WERE THE CITY'S INDUSTRIAL AREA.

IN THE PREVIOUS SUNDAY RAID, MADE WHILE A SNOWSTORM RAGED OVER TOKYO, 240 BLOCKS OF THE CONGESTED BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL SECTION WERE HARD HIT.

TODAY'S RAID, THIRD CONSECUTIVE ATTACK OF THE B-29S FLYING FROM BOTH TINIAN AND SAIPAN, WAS MADE BY A VERY LARGE FORCE--PRESUMABLY NEARLY 200 PLANES--WHICH TOOK OFF IN THE EARLY MORNING DARKNESS AND RETURNED AND LANDED IN DAYLIG T.

TOKYO TO THE RYUKYU ISLANDS AND BEYOND.

STRIKING AS SWIFTLY AND AUDACIOUSLY AS THEY DID AT TOKYO, HUNDREDS OF CARRIER PLANES BOMBED TWO OF THE MOST IMPORTANT DEFENSE CENTERS OF THE RYUKYU HOMELAND ISLANDS THURSDAY--PART OF THE LAST LINE DEFENSE TO TOKYO AND TO THE CHINA COAST.

THEY RAIDED OKINAWA WITH A POPULATION OF 440,000 AND WITH IMPORTANT NAVAL AND AIR BASES THAT EXTENDED ALMOST TO THE MAIN HOME-LAND ISLAND OF KYUSHU.

THEN THEY STRUCK AMAMI, THE SECOND LARGEST OF THE NANSEI SHOTO GROUP WITH NAVAL AND SEAPLANE BASES, RADIO AND CABLE STATIONS. ITS POPULATION IS 180,000.

A JAPANESE DESTROYER WAS SUNK IN THE OKINAWA BAY MAR 4 1945 WHERE JAPAN HAS CENTERED MUCH OF ITS DEFENSE NAVAL ACTIVITY.

THROUGH THESE SOUTHERN NAVAL AND AIR CENTERS, JAPAN HAS DOMINATED THE SEA APPROACHES TO THE CHINA COAST FROM FOOCHOW TO SHANGHAI. THEY ALSO ARE FORTIFICATIONS BEHIND WHICH THE JAPANESE FLEET HAS SOUGHT PROTECTION IN THE CHINA SEA WHICH THE NIPPONESE CONSIDER A JAPANESE LAKE.

THIS IS THE THIRD POUNDING THESE ISLANDS HAVE RECEIVED FROM CARRIERS. OTHER STRIKES WERE IN OCTOBER AND JANUARY. THE RAIDS, THURSDAY, MARCH 1, FAILED TO PRODUCE MORE THAN MEAGER RETALIATION FROM OKINAWA AND ONLY A FEW PLANES WERE OBSERVED ON AIRFIELDS WHICH ONCE WERE IMPORTANT LINKS IN THE JAPANESE AIR CHAIN TO FORMOSA AND THE PHILIPPINES. FOUR PLANES WERE DESTROYED IN THE AIR AND 37 ON THE GROUND AND 57 WERE REPORTED PROBABLY DESTROYED. TWO 6,000 TON TANKERS WERE SUNK AND FIVE DESTROYER ESCORTS WERE DAMAGED. AIRFIELD AND INSTALLATIONS, BARRACKS AND THE AIR ADMINISTRATION BUILDING WERE FIRED. TWO 2,000 TON TRANSPORTS WERE SUNK IN A NEARBY BAY.

AT THE TOWN OF NAHA TWO SUGAR MILLS, A LUMBER PLANT, RADIO STATION AND LIGHTHOUSE WERE BOMBED.

ATTACKING AMAMI, BOMBERS HIT TWO AIRFIELDS, TWO SEAPLANE BASES, A SMALL NAVAL BASE, RADIO AND CABLE STATION. THEY BOMBED THE RADIO STATION AT MINAMI IN DAITO SHOTO AND TOKUNO IN AMAMI GROUP.

CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS SHELLED OKINO DAITO, AN IMPORTANT JAPANESE SOURCE OF PHOSPHATES USED AS FERTILIZER AND IN EXPLOSIVES.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY TONS OF EXPLOSIVES WERE FIRED AT CLOSE RANGE WHICH SET FIRE TO THE PHOSPHATE PLANT, RADIO AND WEATHER STATION AND OIL STORAGE PLANTS.

EARLIER, CARRIERS STRUCK AT HACHIGO, 175 MILES SOUTHEAST OF TOKYO, DAMAGING ITS IMPORTANT AIRFIELDS AND INSTALLATIONS.

EARLY TODAY THE FLEET MADE A DRAMATIC RESCUE OF SEVEN OR EIGHT MEN FROM TWO LIFE RAFTS DRIFTING TOWARD AN ENEMY HELD ISLAND.

THE DETAILS OF THE RESCUE ARE MEAGER BUT ADMIRAL MITSCHER SAID THEY WERE BELIEVED TO BE PART OF A B-29 CREW FORCED DOWN IN THE WATER AFTER A RAID ON THE JAPANESE HOMELAND.

CARRIER PILOTS FIRST SAW THEM AND MITSCHER DISPATCHED DESTROYERS TO THEIR RESCUE. CARRIER PILOTS SAID THE RAFTS WERE DRIFTING FAST TOWARD A JAPANESE OCCUPIED ISLAND AND WOULD HAVE REACHED THERE IN A FEW HOURS IF THE DESTROYERS HAD NOT ARRIVED IN THE NICK OF TIME.

IN STRIKES ON THE SOUTHERN ISLANDS, 10 AMERICAN FIGHTER PLANES WERE LOST BUT SEVEN PILOTS WERE RECOVERED FROM THE OCEAN.

LT.ALBERT C.SIMKUNAS OF (2116 FORBES ST.) PITTSBURG,PA., WAS RESCUED AFTER HIS HELLCAT WAS HIT BY FLAK OVER NAHA AND HE LANDED SEVEN MILES OFFSHORE. OTHER PILOTS TOSSED HIM A LIFERAFT AND SUMMONED A SEAPLANE FROM A BATTLESHIP TO THE RESCUE. THE SEAPLANE GOT HIM BEFORE THE JAPANESE WERE ABLE TO SEND OUT A CAPTURE PARTY.

LT.FREDERICK BRIGGS OF CORVALLIS,ORE., SPLASHED HIS PLANE INTO THE SEA AFTER IT CAUGHT FIRE FROM FLAK. CAPT.JACK SWETT OF SAN MATEO,CALIF., A FAMED CARRIER PILOT HOLDING A CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR, SAW BRIGGS' PLANE PLUNGE INTO THE WATER NEAR THE FLEET AND GAVE A DESTROYER THE LOCATION. BRIGGS WAS RESCUED 15 MINUTES LATER FROM HIS LIFE RAFT.

X X X OWN FEET. Lewis

5. AGREEMENT THAT THE AMERICAN NATIONS SHOULD HAVE AN EQUITABLE SHARE OF UNITED STATES' CAPITAL GOODS PRODUCTION SO THEY CAN INDUSTRIALIZE AND RAISE THEIR LIVING STANDARDS.

6. ADOPTION OF CERTAIN ESSENTIAL FREEDOMS, INCLUDING THE RIGHT OF FREE ACCESS TO INFORMATION, AS A PASIS FOR PEACE.

7. RECOMMENDATIONS FOR EXTENDING SOCIAL SECURITY PLANS, IMPROVING CONDITIONS OF LABOR, AND PROTECTING FAMILY LIFE.

8. SPECIFIC MEASURES TO UPROOT THE LAST VESTIGES OF NAZI INFLUENCE ON THIS CONTINENT, ASSURE PUNISHMENT OF WAR CRIMINALS, RETURN NAZI LOOT TO RIGHTFUL OWNERS, AND PREVENT THE USE OF THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE AS A HIDDING-PLACE FOR NAZI FUNDS OR ACTIVITIES PREPARING FOR ANOTHER WARD.

9. TIES WITH A WORLD SECURITY ORGANIZATION, IN WHICH EACH AMERICAN NATION WOULD PARTICIPATE ON ITS OWN, BUT AS A CONCURRENT MEMBER OF A CONTINENTAL PEACE SYSTEM.

A LONG DOCUMENT CONTAINING THE IDEAS OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS ON DUMBARTON OAKS IS EXPECTED TO BE APPROVED MONDAY, TO BE FOREWARDED TO THE OTHER UNITED NATIONS IN ADVANCE OF THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE.

THE ONLY TOPIC WHICH REMAINS TO BE BROUGHT UP HERE IS THAT OF ARGENTINA. A STATEMENT IS EXPECTED PROVIDING FOR ARGENTINE ADHERENCE TO THE CONFERENCE DECISIONS ONCE ARGENTINA HAS GIVEN PROOF SHE INTENDS TO COOPERATE FULLY IN THE STRONG ARRANGEMENTS FOR HEMISPHERE SECURITY.

RW1018PEW

MEXICO, MAR.3-(AP)-THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE IS EXPECTED TO PASS UNANIMOUSLY MONDAY THE UNITED STATES RESOLUTION ON FREEDOM OF ACCESS TO NEWS.

MAR 4 1945

ONLY LIKELY CHANGE, DELEGATES SAID, IS THAT IT WILL COME AS A RESOLUTION BY ALL THE NATIONS INSTEAD OF BEING BACKED PRIMARILY BY THE UNITED STATES.

THIS MOVE TO SHARE IN SUPPORT OF THE PLEDGE FOR TRAMPLING DOWN BARRIERS TO THE GATHERING AND EXCHANGE OF NEWS IS TAKEN AS AN INDICATION OF THE ENTHUSIASM WITH WHICH LATIN AMERICANS RECEIVED THE PROPOSAL.

THE RESOLUTION DECLARES THAT TRUTH IS THE ENEMY OF TYRANNY, AND THAT THERE CAN BE NO "LIBERTY, PEACE, OR SECURITY WHERE MEN ARE NOT ASSURED OF FREE ACCESS TO THE TRUTH THROUGH THE VARIOUS MEDIA OF PUBLIC INFORMATION."

IT LAYS DOWN FOUR BASIC RECOMMENDATIONS:

1. CONTINENTAL RECOGNITION OF "THE ESSENTIAL OBLIGATION OF DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENTS TO ASSURE TO THEIR PEOPLE FREE AND IMPARTIAL ACCESS TO INFORMATION."

2. EARLIEST POSSIBLE ABANDONMENT OF WAR-TIME CENSORSHIP AND CONTROLS.

MAR 41945

3. JOINT AND INDIVIDUAL MEASURES BY THE AMERICAN NATIONS "TO PROMOTE A FREE EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION AMONG THEIR PEOPLES."

4. "EVERY EFFORT" BY THE AMERICAN NATIONS TO OBTAIN WORLD-WIDE ACCEPTANCE "OF THE PRINCIPLE OF FREE ACCESS TO INFORMATION FOR ALL PEOPLE, TO THE END THAT FREEDOM, PEACE AND CONFIDENCE MAY BE ESTABLISHED IN AND AMONG NATIONS."

RIO DE JANEIRO, MARCH 3-(AP)-FRANCISCO CAMPOS, TWICE MINISTER OF JUSTICE IN PRESIDENT GETULIO VARGAS' CABINET AND AUTHOR OF THE 1937 CONSTITUTION, SAID TODAY THAT RESTRICTIONS ON THE PRESS IN RECENT YEARS "CONTRIBUTED TO THE CIVIC, INTELLECTUAL AND MORAL DEGRADATION" OF BRAZIL.

"IT IS NOT CONCEIVABLE THAT A COUNTRY LIKE BRAZIL COULD HAVE LIVED SO MANY YEARS WITH A DEPRIVATION OF THE LIBERTY OF OPINION WITHOUT SERIOUS DAMAGES TO ITS CIVILIZATION AND CULTURE," HE SAID.

SINCE THE CABINET'S RECENT RECOMMENDATION FOR AN EARLY PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION BY DIRECT VOTE, THE BRAZILIAN PRESS HAS BEEN ABLE OPENLY TO CRITICIZE THE VARGAS' GOVERNMENT AND ITS ACTIVITIES FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE "NEW STATE" WAS ESTABLISHED AND PARLIAMENT WAS DISSOLVED IN 1937.

UNDATED RHINE (360)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AMERICAN FORCES DRAWN UP TODAY IN INCREASING STRENGTH ALONG THE RHINE ARE CONFRONTED BY THE LAST AND GREATEST NATURAL BARRIER TO BERLIN.

STEEP-BANKED, SWIFT-FLOWING AND WIDE ALONG MOST OF ITS 600-MILE WINDING COURSE FROM THE SWISS FRONTIER TO THE NORTH SEA, THE RHINE IS INDEED A FORMIDABLE DEFENSIVE CHALLENGE. IT DROPS 800 FEET IN ITS COURSE FROM SWITZERLAND TO THE SEA.

GEN. EISENHOWER, HIMSELF, ONCE SAID THAT CROSSING IT WOULD REPRESENT A BIG NAVAL OPERATION, BUT THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT ALLIED ENGINEERS AND ALLIED FORTITUDE ARE READY FOR THE JOB -- PERHAPS THEIR BIGGEST SINCE D-DAY.

THE WIDTH OF THE RIVER RANGES FROM 200 YARDS AT BASEL TO OVER 1,000 YARDS AT ANMERICH. IN THE AREA BETWEEN COLOGNE AND DUESSELDORF, WHERE AMERICAN FORCES HAVE REACHED THE RIVER, THE WIDTH IS ALMOST 400 YARDS.

THERE ARE NUMEROUS BRIDGES, MOST OF THEM INTACT, BUT ALL UNDOUBTEDLY ARE WIRED FOR DEMOLITION. THE GERMANS PROBABLY CAN DESTROY THEM SINGLY OR IN GROUPS FROM ANY NUMBER OF PLACES.

AT DUESSELDORF THERE ARE TWOBRIDGES -- ONE A HIGHWAY SPAN, THE OTHER A DOUBLE-TRACK RAIL STRUCTURE. BOTH WERE USABLE AT LAST REPORTS BUT THERE WAS NO INFORMATION ON THEM SINCE THE U.S. NINTH ARMY CAPTURED NEUSS.

BETWEEN DUESSELDORF AND THE DUTCH FRONTIER THERE ARE SEVEN SPANS, FIVE OF THEM AT DUISBURG AND TWO AT WESEL. ONE RAIL AND ONE ROAD BRIDGE HAVE BEEN KNOCKED OUT BY ALLIED BOMBING, BUT AT LEAST TWO ROAD BRIDGES AND A DOUBLE TRACK RAIL BRIDGE STILL ARE IN USE.

THE RAIL BRIDGE IS THE ONLY PASSABLE STRUCTURE AT WESEL.

COLOGNE, MOST OF WHICH LIES ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE RHINE, HAS FIVE BRIDGES. BUT THREE HAVE BEEN KNOCKED OUT AND A FOURTH SUFFERED TWO DIRECT HITS FROM AMERICAN FIGHTERBOMBERS YESTERDAY.

THE LONE ROAD AND TRAMWAY BRIDGE AT BONN IS STILL INTACT, WHILE AT LEAST THREE OTHERS BETWEEN BONN AND COBLENZ ARE STILL INTACT, BY LATEST REPORT.

IN FAVOR OF THE ALLIES IS THE FACT THEY HAVE FIRST REACHED THE RIVER AT A POINT WHERE IT FLOWS RELATIVELY SLOWLY THROUGH AN ALMOST LEVEL PLAIN. ALSO ON THE CREDIT SIDE IS THEIR OVERWHELMING AIR SUPERIORITY.

ON THE DEBIT SIDE IS THE FACT THAT SPRING FLOOD TIME IS APPROACHING.

ALLIED COMMANDERS KNOW HOW AND WHEN AND BY WHAT MEANS THE RIDDLE OF THE RIVER WILL BE SOLVED. THEY ARE GIVING NO DETAILS. THEY PLAN TO EXPLODE THE ANSWER IN THE NAZIS' FACES.

UNDATED-RYUKYU (180)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOKYO RADIO REPORTED TODAY THAT AMERICAN WARSHIPS SHELLED THE OKINAWA GROUP OF THE RYUKYU ISLANDS THROUGHOUT THURSDAY NIGHT ON THE HEELS OF A DAYLIGHT CARRIER PLANE RAID.

THIS IS THE CLOSEST BOMBARDING U.S. WARSHIPS HAVE EVER BEEN REPORTED TO JAPAN OR THE CHINA COAST.

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, SAID SEVERAL U.S. WARSHIPS "MASSED" OFF DAITO ISLAND IN THE OKINAWA CHAIN.

THE BOMBARDMENT OPENED AT NIGHTFALL AND LASTED UNTIL FRIDAY MORNING, TOKYO SAID, BUT INSISTED "THERE WERE NO DAMAGES CAUSED BY THE NAVAL GUN BARRAGES".

THERE HAS BEEN NO AMERICAN CONFIRMATION OF EITHER THE PREVIOUSLY REPORTED AIR RAID BY 600 SEA-BORNE PLANES OR THE NAVAL BOMBARDMENT.

TODAY'S TOKYO BROADCAST MADE NO REFERENCE TO THE PREVIOUS STORIES OF THE CARRIER ATTACK WHICH THE GOVERNMENT-CONTROLLED DOMEI NEWS AGENCY HAD SAID WAS "BELIEVED TO BE FROM THE SAME TASK FORCE" THAT RAIDED TOKYO SUNDAY.

OKINAWA, LARGEST ISLAND IN THE GROUP OF THE SAME NAME, IS APPROXIMATELY 300 MILES SOUTHWEST OF JAPAN AND 400 MILES EAST OF THE CHINA COAST. OKINAWA IS THE LARGEST ISLAND IN THE RYUKYUS, LINKING JAPAN TO ITS FORMOSA BASTION, AND STANDS ABOUT MIDWAY BETWEEN THE ENEMY HOMELAND AND FORMOSA.

TWO ISLANDS BEARING THE NAME OF DAITO LIE 210 MILES EAST OF OKINAWA AND 350 MILES SOUTH OF JAPAN. THEY ARE MINAMI (SOUTH) DAITO AND KITA (NORTH) DAITO. THESE TINY ISLANDS ARE ALSO KNOWN AS NORTH AND SOUTH OAGARI.

SHELLFIRE WAS APPARENTLY CONCENTRATED ON ONLY ONE ISLAND, PROBABLY MINAMI DAITO.

"OUR AIR FORCES ARE PRESENTLY IN THE PROCESS OF ENEMY INTERCEPTION," SAID THE ENEMY BROADCAST, INTERCEPTED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION.
THE RAID OCCURRED ONE WEEK TO A DAY AFTER MORE THAN 200 B-29S BURNED OUT 240 CITY BLOCKS IN THE HEART OF TOKYO, INCLUDING BUSINESS AND FACTORY SECTORS.
THE ENEMY SAID TARGETS OF TODAY'S ATTACK INCLUDED THE KANTO AREA, COMPRISING THE TOKYO-YOKOHAMA METROPOLITAN SECTOR.
THE BROADCAST, BEAMED IN ENGLISH TO THE UNITED STATES, CLAIMED THE SUPERFORTS WERE "CARRYING OUT INDISCRIMINATE BOMBINGS AT VARIOUS IOINTS."
THE TOKAI AREA, SOUTH OF KANTO, INCLUDING THE INDUSTRIAL CITIES OF NAGOYA AND SHIZUOKA, ALSO WAS SPECIFIED AS A TARGET.
THE ENEMY ANNOUNCER SAID THE BIG BOMBERS APPEARED IN "FORMATIONS COMPRISED OF TWO TO 10 AND SEVERAL PLANES RESPECTIVELY."
THE RAIDS OF THE B-29S NOW ARE AIDED BY MARINE INVASION OF IWO ISLAND, 750 MILES SOUTH OF TOKYO, THUS BLOTTING OUT WHAT HAD BEEN A WARNING STATION FOR THE ENEMY.

1st 2 Miles From City, 9th Hits Homberg

By EDWARD KENNEDY

MAR 5 1945

PARIS, Monday, March 5 (AP).—The U. S. 1st Army drove within two miles of the Rhineland capital of Cologne early today, splitting its defenders, as the Germans claimed they smashed a full-scale assault by 9th Army tanks and infantry trying to plant a bridgehead on the Rhine's east bank near Duesseldorf and Krefeld.

Berlin broadcasts, without allied confirmation, told of tanks attempting to cross the Rhine on Duesseldorf's "south bridge"—previously blown up—and in the area of Krefeld, where the Germans destroyed the famed Adolf Hitler superhighway bridge at Uerdingen.

AP correspondent Hal Boyle reported that Yank patrols last night got across the Rhine over the 1,400-foot bridge at Uerdingen and then returned shortly before the enemy touched off thousands of pounds of dynamite and blasted the structure into the Rhine. This could be the source of the German Krefeld reports.

Front dispatches yesterday said all bridges in the Duesseldorf area had been blasted by the Germans Friday night and early Saturday to prevent their seizure by Americans.

Report 6 Breaks

[International News Service said 1st Army troops penetrated Cologne's defenses at six places.

[United Press said the 9th Army, smashing to the Rhine at Homberg, brought the great Essen Krupp arsenal within artillery range.]

The 1st Army sent tanks plunging to the Rhine a few miles north of Cologne, splitting the defenders. Those south of the armored column were falling back into the city, so choked with rubble that enemy columns had trouble reaching the only bridge still intact across the Rhine.

One American force was but a few hundred yards from Cologne's suburb of Loevenich, a mile and a half from the city proper. As one division after another drew up to the city's approaches, a dispatch from that front declared that Cologne "is ours when we want it." (Pnited Press said Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's famed 104th Division was fighting the Germans in the streets of Lovenich.)

Hitler's "Peoples' Army," on whom he had relied for an epic stand comparable to Stalingrad, was surrendering with hardly a shot being fired as infantry crept closer, and tanks and bulldozers crunched through debris-strewn villages near the outskirts.

The 9th Army and Canadian 1st Army were crushing the [illegible]d remnants of three Ger[illegible]mies fleeing across the [illegible]The enemy [illegible]d on the west bank of the Rhine there had shrunk to an area only 10 miles long and six miles wide.

The 9th, battling nine miles northward in a bid to smash thousands of crack parachute troops, stormed into Duisburg's cross-Rhine suburb of Homberg in an attempt to seize its bridge and break into that great Ruhr basin port.

Other forces swung around Homberg, a manufacturing city of 35,000 population, and reached the Rhine in an effort to capture the railroad bridge just to the north.

Berlin said U. S. troops were rushing up rubber boats northwest of Duesseldorf, apparently intending "to cross the Rhine as speedily as possible."

Shell Ruhr Factories

This same broadcast added the German high command, for reasons which must "remain secret," had ordered its troops to disengage as soon as the Americans lanuched their offensive, but that nevertheless "Germar losses are considerable."

Gen. Eisenhower's offensive had rolled to the Rhine's west bank in such strength for most of its 75 miles from Nijmegen to Duesseldorf that antitank guns were blasting German pillboxes on the east bank while heavy artillery shelled the war factories in the Ruhr.

The 1st Army was likewise striking for Bonn, forging across the Erft River at two points 10 and 11 miles from that communications city lying 15 miles south of Cologne on the Rhine.

The U. S. 3d Army on the south drove across the Kyll River, last big water hurdle before the Rhine, and entered Hosten, eight miles north of Trier and 45 miles from Coblenz. Other forces fighting northeast of Pruem were 40 miles from the Rhine.

The Germans were falling back to Cologne's inner defenses before Lt. Gen. Hodges 1st Army, and resistance appeared to be crumbling, judging from reports of gains of six miles or so all along the front.

The exact point where the 3d Armored Division reached the Rhine was not disclosed, but presumably it was about six miles north of Cologne, where tanks were in action and overrunning several towns in that vicinity.

The Germans deployed between Cologne and Duesseldorf were thus cut in two, and forces on the north were hemmed into the flatlands on the west bank of the Rhine 11 miles deep and from five to nine miles wide, with no bridges over which to escape.

Maj. Gen. Allen's 104th Infantry Division was closest to Cologne. After seizing Koenigsdorf in a night assault, these hard-hitting troops battled into Widdersdorf, two miles from the city's western outskirts. But the 8th Infantry was only two and a half miles west of the city after seizing Frechen.

MAR 5 1945

A siege arc was drawn up from a point six miles north of Cologne to a point two and a half miles west of the city, and along this arc five other towns from three and a half to five miles from the outskirts were captured.

On the north flank, one column was digging straight into the Germans caught between the Rhine and the Erft River south of Duesseldorf. In this drive the Americans captured Ramrath, six miles south of the confluence of the Erft and Rhine.

The attack was rolling all along the front. On the south, the 1st Army crossed the Erft and captured Weilerswist, a scant 10 miles from Bonn, and Derkum, also across the Erft five miles farther south.

Twenty miles to the southwest, the Americans captured Schleiden, a Siegfried Line strongpoint which held up the 1st Army advance in the campaign for control of the Roer River dams preceding the current offensive.

AMERICANS MAKE ATTEMPT TO CROSS RHINE, NAZIS SAY

Claim U.S. Tanks, Troops Beaten Back in Duesseldorf, Krefeld Areas.

ENEMY REELS BACK

Doughboys Control 20 Miles of River, Maul German Forces.

MAR 5 1945

PARIS, Monday, March 5.—(AP) The U. S. First army was closing on Cologne from less than two miles away today and other Allied armies were grinding up remaining German opposition along a 75-mile front of the Rhine river, which the Nazis said the Americans tried to cross with strong tank and infantry forces.

Heavy, pointblank American artillery fire was being hurled in constant streams across to the east bank of the river, and the Germans broadcast that the U. S. Ninth army already had attempted to send tanks across Duesseldorf's "south bridge" and in the area of Krefeld but had been repulsed.

There was nothing to confirm at Supreme headquarters here the German assertions, but Gen. Eisenhower has announced his intention to miss no oportunitpy to get across the great river, and the Allied command certainly will do its utmost to take advantage of the enemy's confusion growing out of the gigantic defeat inflicted upon the Germans west of the Rhine.

Nazis Blow Up Bridge

The Duesseldorf bridge which the Germans mentioned is known already to have been blown up, and all others in that zone are impassable, while in the Krefeld area early Sunday the Germans dynamited the Adolf Hitler super-highway bridge at Uerdingen.

Associated Press Correspondent Hal Boyle reported that American patrols got across the 1,400-foot Uerdingen bridge and then returned 20 minutes before the enemy touched off thousands of pounds of explosives and blasted the structure into the Rhine. This could be the source of the German reports of an American crossing.

The First army sent tanks plunging to the Rhine a few miles north of Cologne, splitting the defenders. Those south of the armored column were falling back into the city, so choked with rubble that enemy columns had trouble reaching the only bridge still intact across the Rhine.

Reach City's Approaches

One American force was but a few hundred yards from Cologne's suburb of Loevenich, which is a mile and a half from the city proper. As one division after another drew up to the city's approaches, a dispatch from that front declared that Cologne "is ours when we want it."

Hitler's "peoples' army," on whom he had relied for an epic stand comparable to Stalingrad, was surrendering with hardly a shot being fired as infantry crept closer, and tanks and bulldozers crunched through debris-strewn villages near the outskirts.

The U. S. Ninth and Canadian First army were crushing the mauled remnants of three German armies fleeing across the Rhine. The enemy's hold on the west bank of the Rhine there had shrunk to an area only ten miles long and six miles wide.

The Ninth army, battling nine miles northward in a bid to smash thousands of crack parachute troops, stormed into Duisberg's cross-Rhine suburb of Homberg in an attempt to seize its bridge and break into that great Ruhr basin port.

Other forces swung around Homberg, a manufacturing city of 35,000 population, and reached the Rhine in an effort to capture the railroad bridge just to the north.

The Americans held almost unbroken control of 20 miles of the Rhine's west bank along its winding course from Duesseldorf to Homberg, and German broadcasts declared that Duisberg, Duesseldorf and Cologne had become "front line cities" with all three under artillery fire.

Battle Into Homberg

The Ninth army's 84th division has fought a half mile into Homberg and to the south was close to the Rhine directly opposite Duisberg.

Antitank guns were wheeled up along the Rhine and were blasting German pillboxes on the east bank, while heavy guns farther back kept up a relentless cannonading.

The magnitude of the German collapse and the disorder of the retreating troops was such that the next few days were expected to determine whether the enemy can rally on the east bank of the Rhine and prevent an Allied sweep across the river.

The Canadians and Americans were driving in rapidly from the west. The Canadians also reached the Rhine by capturing Vynem north of the German anchor city of Xanten and were pressing southward along the river only eight miles from the Ruhr crossings at Wesel.

...ng towns captured on the ... Issum, seven miles from ... bridge at Rheinberg. ...lso was imperiled by ...ghting only five miles ...south.

...berg's bridge was one of ...l standing in the area where ...ermans were being pinned ...st the river.

... others are one battered high-... bridge at Wesel, one railway ...idge decked for highway traffic at Homberg, which the Americans now are trying to capture, and one railway, one highway and one temporary bridge at Duisberg.

The Germans were getting no rest anywhere along the Western front.

Yanks Besiege Cologne

While laying siege to Cologne, the First army also was striking for Bonn, forging across the Erft river at two points 10 and 11 miles west of that communications city lying 15 miles southeast of Cologne on the Rhine.

The U. S. Third army to the south drove across the Kyll river, last big water hurdle before the Rhine, and established a bridgehead at Hosten, 45 miles from the Rhineland city of Coblenz, where Americans of another generation stood watch on the Rhine in World War I.

Other Third army troops battering northeast of Pruem were 40 miles from the Rhine.

The U. S. Seventh army seized control of a five-mile stretch of high ground two to three miles south of Saarbruecken and was raining shells on that capital of the Saar basin.

Berlin said U. S. troops were rushing up rubber boats northwest of Duesseldorf, apparently intending to "cross the Rhine as speedily as possible."

This same broadcast added the German high command, for reasons which must "remain secret," had ordered its troops to disengage as soon as the Americans launched their offensive, but that nevertheless "German losses are considerable."

Berlin 35 Miles Off, Stettin Within 14

700 German Towns Taken in Twin Strokes; 20 Nazi Divisions Are Encircled

WHEELER

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 5 (Monday).—The Red Army, in a new, sixty-two-mile break-through, reached the Baltic coast near Kolberg yesterday, slicing eastern Pomerania into three segments and trapping perhaps 200,000 German troops in one of the war's greatest double encirclement operations.

Attacking simultaneously on an arc south and east of Stettin, Berlin's main port, other Soviet forces drove to within fourteen miles of Stettin, to within two miles of its eastern bastion of Stargard, and also advanced up to the lower Oder River on a ten-mile front on both sides of the crossing town of Schwedt. The lower wing of this drive reached to within thirty-five miles northeast of Berlin.

As these armored formations virtually destroyed Germany's Pomeranian flank front, other units far to the east drove to within thirty miles south of the former free city of Danzig, while in East Prussia the remnants of twenty Nazi divisions were driven into a 275-square-mile Baltic pocket southwest of Koenigsberg.

Koeslin Captured

Overwhelming 600 localities, including ten German strongholds, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army in a four-day advance reached the Pomeranian coast in the area of Kolberg, fifty-five miles east of the fortified German port of Swinemuende, while Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army also reached the coast and captured Koeslin, twenty-four miles east of Kolberg.

The twin thrusts to the Baltic coast doomed the chance of a Nazi flanking attack against the central forces of the Berlin-bound Red Army.

Locking and double-bolting the door to an 8,280-square-mile area to the east, including Danzig territory, the Russians had isolated the elements of twenty or more Nazi divisions. Moscow dispatches said the bag of German troops was expected to be as large as in East Prussia.

A total of more than 700 towns and villages were swept up by the two Russian armies in their latest Pomeranian advances, a Moscow communique said.

The Germans previously had reported Rokossovsky's break-through to the Baltic at Koeslin, but the advance of Zhukov's army to the sea west of the other Soviet force, had been masked by Berlin, suggesting an almost complete break-down in Nazi communications.

Advancing sixty-two miles north from Reetz, forty-one miles southeast of Stettin, at the mouth of the Oder River, Zhukov's army overran four military highways connecting western and eastern Pomerania and also cut the Stettin-Danzig and Swinemuende-Danzig trunk railways feeding German garrisons based around Stolp, in eastern Pomerania; Gdynia, naval base in the Polish "corridor," and Danzig.

The two strokes came as both Berlin and Moscow dispatches said the eastern front was astir all the way from the Baltic to the approaches to Vienna, Austrian capital. Major Red Army assaults toward Berlin, Dresden, and Vienna were believed to be imminent, German reports said.

In East Prussia another Russian army was slowly cruhing the remnants of twenty Nazi divisions long pinned against the Baltic near Koenigsberg. Remnants of thirty other enemy divisions were isolated in western Latvia farther along the Baltic coast.

The base of Zhukov's drive to the Baltic in the sector adjoining Rokossovsky's break-through was a forty-mile sector extending from Reetz northeastward to Templeburg. The latter is twenty-two miles southwest of Neustettin, which was captured Wednesday by Rokossovsky's men.

In their drive northward Zhukov's troops captured the strongholds of Dramburg, Labes, Regenwalde, Freienwalde, Wangerin, Schivelbein, Koerlin, Falkenburg and Tempelburg.

Berlin said that Rokossovsky's troops had fanned out twenty-three miles eastward from Koeslin toward Danzig, reaching Schlame, seventy-eight miles west of the free city, whose Nazi garrison was digging in for a protracted siege now that it was caught in a double trap.

In the race northward from the Reetz-Falkenburg-Tempelburg line Zhukov's army drove to within thirteen miles northeast of Stargard, outer defense basion of Stettin, with the capture of Freienwalde.

Twenty-two miles farther north it seized Regenwalde, connected by direct rail and highway routes to Hagen on the road to Swinemuende, forty-seven miles away. At Hagen the routes cross the Dievenow River to Wollin, on the island of the same name. This island and the adjoining one of Usedom, on which Swinemuende is situated, form the top of Stettiner Haff, the great inland bay leading southward to Stettin.

In reaching the sea near Kolberg, ancient fortress city, the Russians were astride a coastal highway and railway also leading to Swinemuende, fifty-five miles to the southwest. The rail line crosses to Wollin Island at Camminn, thirty-five miles from Kolberg.

Thus, all along a sixty-two-mile front east and northeast of Stettin the Russians were now in a position to hurl the Germans back onto a network of waterways including the mouth of the Oder River, Stettiner Haff and Dievenow River.

Kolberg is the site of a large American prisoner-of-war camp, and another American camp is situated at Gross-Tychow, thirty-three miles to the southeast. Gross-Tychow now is surrounded by the double Russian break-throughs, and if the Germans have not moved the men in these two camps their freedom seemed assured.

With the capture of Koerlin, Zhukov's troops were eighteen miles northwest of Gross-Tychow, and Rokossovsky's men already were near the eastern gates of that town.

MAR 5 1945

Over the churning area of Pomerania, from the Reetz-Kolberg line eastward, thousands of Russian planes were hammering the confused knots of Germans, Moscow dispatches said, and the Soviet radio, meanwhile, proclaimed that the forthcoming Red Army blow at Berlin "will be a stunning one."

An Associated Press dispatch from Moscow said "all unofficial reports reaching Moscow from the Oder-Neisse line east of Berlin confirmed a gigantic build-up by the Red Army for the coming all-out attack against Adolf Hitler's capital."

Soviet railways were crammed with supplies pouring forward to Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army and Marshal Ivan Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army, the dispatch added, and Russian engineers have virtually completed several through broad-gauge tracks to new bases in Brandenburg (Berlin) Province and western Silesia.

Closing in on Stettin, the Russians plunged into the outskirts of Stargard, its eastern defense bastion, nineteen miles from the port. They seized Schwedt, two miles southeast of Stargard; Wulkow, three miles to the east, and Dalow and Uchtenhagen, five and eight miles on the northeast.

Striking between Stargard and the lower Oder River to the southwest, other units seized Kluetzow, three miles outside Stargard, and also Werben on the east bank of Lake Madue.

On the west bank of Lake Madue the Russians took Giesenthal and six miles to the west captured Babbin, putting one Russian column within fourteen miles southeast of Stettin and eleven miles of Alt-Damm, crossing town on the east bank of the Vistula opposite Stettin.

Attacking on a thirty-five-mile front between Lake Madue and the Vistula, the Russians captured Liebenow, twelve miles west of the major stronghold of Pyritz, which fell after a long struggle. The Germans lost thousands of troops trying to hold Pyritz, a junction town whose fall released the flood of Red Army forces toward Stettin.

The Russians reached the lower Oder on a new ten-mile front southwest of Pyritz, and on both sides of the west-bank town of Schwedt. They took Nieder-Kraenig, two miles southeast of Schwedt in the middle of this section; Nipperwiese, twenty-four miles southwest of Stettin, and on the lower end, Petzig, thirty-five miles northeast of Berlin.

Farther upstream, the Russians hold positions along the river thirty-one miles from Greater Berlin. The thrust downstream toward Stettin is part of the Russian pattern of securing the flanks of Marshal Zhukoff's salient pointed toward Berlin.

British by Night Bomb Banks of Dortmund-Ems Canal—15th's 'Heavies' Attack

CHAMBERLIN

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—American and British heavy bombers, guarded by hundreds of fighter planes, delivered a double punch at Germany from the west today, striking Ruhr transportation facilities and a variety of targets throughout southwest Germany. It was the twentieth consecutive day of heavy air attacks on the Reich.

At the same time United States Fifteenth Air Force Flying Fortresses and Liberators from Italy attacked Nazi rail lines in Austria and Hungary serving German troops on the Hungarian front.

More than 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators of the United States Eighth Air Force escorted by 500 fighter planes went out for attacks on Ulm and other communications and industrial centers in the Munich area. Formations of about 400 of the "heavies" were forced to return to their bases in Britain without reaching their targets because of the weather, a United States Stragetic Air Forces communiqué said.

Most of the bombers, however, broke through and battered freight yards, Nazi ordnance depots and industries in southwest Germany. The attackers encountered only weak flak and no Luftwaffe fighter opposition.

A fleet of 600 Lancasters of the Royal Air Force struck the Wanne-Eickel freight yards, largest in the Ruhr, in an attack described as "heavy." Polish and RAF Mustang squadrons escorted the big British bombers [Wanne-Eickel, near Gelsenkirchen, is about twenty miles east of the American Ninth Army front at Homberg on the Rhine, and the RAF blow gave tactical support to the Americans in the Homberg-Duisburg fighting.]

Dortmund-Ems Canal a Target

Over Saturday night RAF heavy bombers carried out a powerful assault on the embankments of the Dortmund-Ems Canal and also attacked a synthetic oil plant at Kamen, near Dortmund. Berlin and the rail center of Wurzburg were bombed by Mosquitos. The Saturday night attacks cost the RAF nine bombers.

The British Air Ministry said the Germans had made repairs on the Dortmund-Ems Canal, main link between the Ruhr and the North Sea and central Germany, and that it was navigable again after its banks had been breached by RAF attacks last fall.

"With the railways between central and western Germany under continuous air attacks and with a shortage of oil keeping transport off the road, this bottleneck in the whole of Germany's waterways system has become extremely important," the Air Ministry said.

RAF bomber crews said the defenses along the canal were stronger than in previous attacks, with light and heavy guns in action. Nazi night fighter planes also swarmed up over the area and along the sky-path leading to the target.

The American air communiqué said three of the Eighth's bombers and two fighters were missing. Out of a total of more than 4,800 planes dispatched in the last three days' operations, the Eighth had lost thirty-six bombers and eighteen fighters, the communiqué stated.

Snow and a thick overcast cloaking most of the Western Front restricted operations of tactical planes supporting the Allied offensive. The United States Ninth Air Force was able to make only four sorties.

The Ninth made 1,303 fighter-bomber and 625 medium and light bomber flights Saturday with the loss of three planes. Ninth Air Force pilots reported they destroyed or damaged forty-two Nazi armored vehicles, 371 motor transport vehicles, 1,200 freight cars, fifty-six locomotives and fifty barges on the Rhine.

NAZIS RESUME BOMBING RAIDS UPON BRITAIN

MAR 5 1945

Attack Costs Number Of Lives—Schools Fired, Pedestrians Strafed

FRYE

London, March 4 (AP)—Piloted German planes struck at Britain early today and again tonight in the first such blows since last June 13.

The raids apparently were in response to Reichsminister Goebbels's plea for the Reich to summon the last scrap of its staying power to hold off disaster.

Tonight explosions were heard in the coastal region. Coastal anti-aircraft guns fired at raiders racing in from the North sea over the coast of East Anglia. Some planes dropped flares which were quickly shot down.

Six Planes Shot Down

Six German planes were shot down early this morning out of the force—not considered large—which hit at widely separated places in northern and eastern England. One raider penetrated to the London area.

The attack cost Britain the lives of a number of people and injuries to others. Persons of all ages were included in the casualties. Village streets were wrecked and homes and public buildings damaged.

Reports indicated more gunning of people and of villages and towns than bombing, although high explosives were dropped on scattered communities.

Pedestrians Shot Up

Eyewitnesses told of German planes roaring down to rooftop level and opening fire on rows of dwellings and any pedestrians abroad in the early Sunday morning hours.

Schools and parish halls were set afire by incendiary bullets. Cottages were knocked down on top of sleeping women and children. Quiet market towns were raked with large-caliber bullets.

In one town an American soldier was injured. In another a 17-year-old girl was hit by a bullet which tore through the roof of her home. A freight train was attacked and a signalman killed. A chief of police and a lawyer on duty as an air-raid warden were hurt.

While the Germans were resuming their old method of bombardment they continued to send their V-missiles into southern England, the Air Ministry reported. Damage and casualties were caused, the ministry communiqué said.

OVERWHELM NAZI GARRISON

22 NAZI SUB EXPERTS ARE REPORTED KILLED

LONDON, March 4—(AP) Twenty-two of the highest German experts on submarine warfare, including the chief of the 11th flotilla, died two weeks ago when their experimental U-boat was sunk during maneuvers in a Fjord near Bergen, Norway, a BBC Stockholm correspondent said today.

The experts were experimenting with a new submarine technique, he added, and sabotage is suspected.

London, March 4 (AP)—A full-scale assau[illegible] by massed American tanks and infantry in attempt[illegible] cross the Rhine in the vicinity of Duesseldorf and Krefeld was reported tonight in Berlin broadcasts, which claimed the German defenders had smashed all efforts to establish a bridgehead on the river's eastern bank.

broadcast tonight asserted United States forces northwest of Düsseldorf were "hastily bringing up rubber boats to the front under cover of thick smoke screens," and "this seems to indicate they intend to cross the Rhine as speedily as possible."

Berlin admitted the Allies had reached the Rhine on a broad front on both sides of Düsseldorf and had reached the last line of defenses around Cologne.

Evacuation of women, children and the aged from Cologne was begun Friday, one war reporter's broadcast from the Reich capital said.

Düsseldorf, Cologne and Duisburg, "already destroyed by the Allied air forces," now have become frontline cities. Shells are bursting within them, and Allied tanks "frantically are preparing to storm into the towns," the Berlin radio said.

"Battle Of Ruins" Planned

Specialist troops are preparing for a last-man "battle of ruins" in the three key cities, a dispatch to Stockholm said.

Berlin admitted "German losses are considerable" in the battle west of the Rhine, where it said that, for reasons which must "remain secret," the German high command had ordered its troops to disengage as soon as the Americans uncorked their offensive.

German reserves thrown into battle between Krefeld and Geldern "wiped out the greater part of a 9th Army tank brigade," one broadcast continued, and Nazi units one cut off in Muenchen Gladbach and Rheydt succeeded in fighting out to other Germans holding east of the two towns.

Street Battles Reported

Another German announcer already was speaking of German positions west of the Rhine as "bridgeheads." He said the bridgehead at Uerdingen, northeast of Krefeld, was defended successfully despite heavy tank fighting.

Fierce street battles were reported in the western section of Geldern and in parts of Krefeld. An orderly disengagement between Goch and Venlo was claimed by one announcer, although he said "American tank spearheads have broken through German lines."

Britain's Princess Second Subaltern

London, March 4 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth has joined the ATS, British version of the WAC, Buckingham Palace announced tonight.

The 18-year-old heiress presumptive to the throne has been commissioned to the honorary rank of second subaltern in the Auxiliary Territorial Service and has entered training in southern England.

By the King's order she is to be treated exactly the same as any other student officer with no special privileges because of personal rank.

Elizabeth is the first woman member of the royal family to join as a full-time active member in the women's service.

RAF Photos Show Hohenzollern, Deutz Spans Out of Use

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—Reconnaissance photographs of Cologne show that the western entrance to the Hohenzollern road and railway bridge has been blocked by collapse of the superstructure after the attack by more than 850 RAF heavy bombers Friday, the British Air Ministry reported today.

The photos show the Deutz suspension road bridge upstream destroyed and blocking the Rhine River.

A great concentration of bombs was shown in freight yards and there was evidence of new damage to buildings around the main railway station.

Berlin Radio Reports Kurusu's Son Killed

LONDON, March 4—(AP) Berlin's Transocean agency several times today broadcast an announcement of the death of Saburo Kurusu, who talked peace in Washington while Japan struck at Pearl Harbor, but later said this was erroneous.

MAR 5 19[illegible]

Transocean corrected the announcement to say that it was Kurusu's son, Capt. Makoto Kurusu, who had been killed, dying in air combat Feb. 16 against American carrier-based planes attacking Tokyo.

Son Reported Killed

Direct Tokyo broadcasts heard earlier by the U. S. Federal Communications commission had announced the death of the son, who was born in the United States in 1919, and was an engineer pilot attached to the Japanese Army Aerial Navigation Research institute.

Transocean thrice broadcast the report about Kurusu senior before making the correction. The initial announcement had said:

"An official announcement from Tokyo today says that the former Japanese ambassador in Berlin and ambassador extraordinary in Washington during the autumn of 1941, Saburo Kurusu, was killed in the course of his air raid precaution duty during an American air attack on Tokyo in February. He was 59."

Kurusu and the Japanese ambassador to Washington, Kichisaburo Nomura, called on Secretary Hull shortly after the Japanese assault on Pearl Harbor to present Japan's reply to a United States formula for peace in the Pacific. Indignantly, Secretary of State Hull termed it a document "crowded with infamous falsehoods and distortions."

Retired as Diplomat

A Tokyo broadcast Feb. 8 said Kurusu had retired from the diplomatic service and accepted an offer to "act in an advisory capacity for the Japanese Foreign Office."

Kurusu married an American woman, the former Miss Alice Little of New York, and his two children attended schools in the United States and the American school in Tokyo.

He was the Japanese signer of the Axis three-power alliance proclaimed in Berlin. During his career he was consul at New York and Manila, charge d'affairs in Santiago, Chile, and ambassador to Belgium.

LONDON UNIONS ORDER END OF DOCK STRIKE

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—The danger of a serious curtailment of supplies for the Western Front and Britain apparently was averted tonight as the leaders of dock workers' unions expressed confidence that 7,000 strikers would return to work immediately on London's docks.

Representatives of the Transport and General Workers Union and the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers said the bulk of the strikers would be on the job Monday and the rest would go back Tuesday. The union representatives recommended a return to work at a joint meeting today.

The British War Office is expected to call off an estimated 1,000 soldiers detailed over the week-end to handle top priority supplies for the Western Front.

While these troops took charge of loading vessels bound for the Continent the strike spread to cold storage depots, and it was feared Britain's meat supply might be seriously affected. The Ministry of Food said it was not "unduly perturbed," however, as sufficient measures were being taken to meet public requirements.

The strike, described as unauthorized, started at the Royal Albert dock Thursday when the men resented the moving of a hut a distance of about seventy-five yards from outside the dock gates to just inside them. The men sign on for work at the hut. The original grievance broadened to include numerous aspects of the entire dock labor scheme.

"I know nothing at all about it," he said.

COLOGNE 'OURS FOR TAKING'

Division After Division Closes On City; Home Guards Give Up

SOWAN

With the United States 1st Army Before Cologne, March 4 (AP)—The city of Cologne, sprawling ahead behind the blue-gray fog which hugs the ground, is ours when we want it.

This was apparent—beyond a shadow of a doubt—as division after division drew up on the approaches to the bomb-wracked metropolis.

The civilians in Cologne's little suburbs waited patiently in cellars, basements and shelters until American tanks, jeeps and bulldozers began to rumble through. Then they would crawl over the rubble with babies and bundles and give up.

Volkssturmers, who a few weeks ago were civilians themselves, surrendered on the same day—only they would go through the motions of waiting for a shot to be fired in their direction first. Then it was all over for them.

'Commended' By U.S. Colonel

"It is ridiculous to think that we could stop the Americans if the regular army couldn't," said a spokesman for some newly surrendered German home guards this afternoon.

"A very sensible point of view," replied Lieut. Col. A. D. Baer, of Urbana, Ill., as he handed the wet and bedraggled prisoners over to MP's to be taken back to stockades.

The German Army itself is backtracking so fast that many of the trenches which community diggers provided had not been used.

Battalions 'Leap-Frogged'

Many German rear positions are being overrun. In Stommeln, Task Force "R" of the 3d Armored Division, led by Lieut. Col. Walter Richardson, of Beaumont, Texas, seized a tractor-drawn, four-gun artillery battery and all its gun crews.

The Americans have been able to maintain their rapid pace by leapfrogging their battalions, so that each gets some rest. This didn't work in one case, however.

AMERICAN TROOPS CLEARING FORBACH

MAR 5 1945

By LEWIS HAWKINS

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY, WESTERN FRONT, March 4—(AP) Seventh army Doughboys virtually cleared Forbach of last-ditch German defenders and lunged a mile northward today as other units fought a bitter engagement inside Stiring-Wendel.

This stubbornly defended town is a mile and a quarter east of Forbach and 2 1-2 miles southwest of Saarbrucken.

Meanwhile, Volkssturm forces appeared in the village of Marienau, a mile and a half south of Forbach, and offered stout resistance in house fighting.

Striving desperately to defend Saarbrucken, the key city of the Saar region, the Nazis fought stubbornly along all of its menaced approaches from the G'dingen area, two miles southeast along the Saar valley, to Marienau.

In Stiring-Wendel, the Doughboys encountered artillery fire from steel casemates.

At many other points along the Seventh's long front, aggressive American patrolling met violent reaction in smallarms fire from the enemy. This discounted any idea that the enemy might be making large scale withdrawals toward the Rhine and Siegfried defenses under pressure of the grave situation to the north.

Allies Battering Nazis On 75-Mile Rhine Front

Paris, Monday, March 5 (AP)—Allied armies were grinding up remaining opposition today along a 75-mile front of the Rhine River.

Heavy, point-blank American artillery fire was being hurled in constant streams across to the east bank of the river.

General Eisenhower has announced his intention to miss no opportunity to get across the great river, and the Allied command certainly will do its utmost to take advantage of the enemy's confusion growing out of the gigantic defeat inflicted upon the Germans west of the Rhine.

The 1st Army sent tanks plunging to the Rhine a few miles north of Cologne, splitting the defenders. Those south of the armored column were falling back into the city, so choked with rubble that enemy columns had trouble reaching the only bridge still intact across the Rhine.

One American force was but a few hundred yards from Cologne's suburb of Lovenich, which is 1½ miles from the city proper.

Member of Congress A Front-Line Private

Gore of Tennessee Volunteered to Survey War on Nazis

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, March 4 (AP).—For the last three months Representative Albert Gore, Democrat, of Tennessee, has been on active duty as a private, learning at first hand how the Allied Military Government operates in occupied Germany, Supreme Headquarters disclosed tonight.

More than thirty-seven, Mr. Gore entered active duty at his ing ocers knew he was a memtraining at Fort Meade, Md., and was ordered to Europe as a replacement. Only a few high-ranking officers knew he was a Member of Congress. The disclosure of the nature of his service came today after he had been called to confer with Lieutenant General W. B. Smith, chief of staff to General Dwight D. Eisenhower, and other staff officers.

Mr. Gore worked as a prosecutor in a military government court during his tour of service. He reviewed cases and gained inside information on how military justice was administered. He also was attached to a spearhead detachment of military government personnel which accompanied regimental combat teams into the thick of the fight.

He frequently was under fire and in the course of an offensive crossed the Ruhr River on a footbridge with infantry troops.

One-Millionth German Captive Awaited Hourly

Allied Headquarters, Paris, March 4 (AP)—The 1,000,000th German prisoner to be taken on the Western front may fall into Allied hands some time within the next few hours.

The official prisoner count from the time of the Normandy invasion to February 28 was 954,377. Since then between 7,000 to 10,000 Germans have been captured daily and, with the collapse of enemy pockets west of the Rhine, the number undoubtedly will swell.

No special ceremony is planned when Prisoner No. 1,000,000 is taken.

SOVIET 'SLAVES' WIN LIBERTY IN REVOLT

1,000 Captives in Reich Flee During RAF Attack, Help Red Army Span River

DE LUCE

MOSCOW, March 4 (AP)—While RAF bombers attacked Dresden early in January, more than 1,000 Russian labor slaves revolted, stoned and clubbed their German guards to death, and escaped into the woods of Saxony.

A Pravda correspondent, Boris Polevoy, related today the story of the men who formed the "U. S. S. R." guerrilla unit and of their four weeks' fight to freedom.

In the one-month campaign the guerrillas scored several victories behind the German lines.

The existence of the U. S. S. R. unit was disclosed during the fight for a bridgehead over a river that cannot yet be named.

A sapper captain, Alexis Kustoff, who had already spanned thirteen rivers during the war, described the bridgehead battle.

"My boys and I got across on boats and planks at night under very critical conditions," he related. "When Maj. Sergei Naumoff's motorized infantry joined us, German artillery and machine guns raked our positions. It was touch and go. Naumoff's tanks were not yet across, but they aided us from the opposite bank. We were pinned down but we were determined to hold on until daylight, when reinforcements might arrive.

"Suddenly I saw mortar shell exploding over the German positions. I had no mortars of my own. I was mystified, but so were the Germans. The mortars were firing from their rear. Then I crawled up a little hill and saw a crowd of men dressed in every imaginable kind of clothing running toward us from a grove. They were brandishing rifles in the air and shouting.

"We held our fire and soon these men were hugging us. Around their arms were red bands with the inscription U. S. S. R. Red ribbons were stuck in their caps.

"'We are Soviet men. We want to fight with the Red Army,' they told us."

Pravda said that the guerrilla leader, Serafim Shamilin, gave this account of his brigade's brief but brilliant history:

"I was once employed in the Mariupol Metallurgical Works. After my capture by the Germans, I was taken to the Farben chemical plant near Dresden with other Soviet citizens. We were treated as slaves. The Germans beat us daily. My lungs bled from my injuries.

"In January we knew the Red Army was coming to our relief and as we saw thousands of fugitives pouring into Dresden, we decided to make a break.

"We chose a moment when British planes were raiding the city at night to overpower our guards and kill them. We used pieces of bricks and sticks. In the woods we collected and organized our brigade. We had eighteen rifles and three submachine guns. That same night we attacked a small freight depot where the Germans kept a supply of food. We charged under the cover of darkness and frightened away the entire battalion of German railway troops, who left their arms behind.

"We started to fight our way forward, getting more arms as we went along, and our brigade grew like a snowball because new people liberated from German enslavement continually joined us.

"All the roads were clogged with streams of refugees and each village and railway station was swarming with mobs of people, which enabled us to move without attracting notice.

"We took time out for military exploits—burning up ammunition dumps near Calau, fifty miles southeast of Berlin, demolishing one of the bridges over the Spree, wrecking a train on the Dresden-Cottbus line and scattering a convoy evacuating machinery from Guben."

Red Calls Nazis Weak in West

MOSCOW, March 4 (AP).—Only "insignificant reserves" are available to the German high command in the west, and the Nazis must count on the Rhine for their defensive effort against General Dwight D. Eisenhow, Colonel A. Kononenko, military analyst for the government newspaper "Izvestia," declared today. "The Hitlerites have shifted their main forces to the east," Kononenko said.

POPE RECEIVES EX-RABBI

Zolli Has Audience With Pius, Talks With American Attache

MAR 5 1945

ROME, March 4 (AP)—Israele Zolli, former chief rabbi of Rome, who was converted to Catholicism, was received by Pope Pius in a thirty-minute audience today. Later Signor Zolli introduced his wife, who has also become a Catholic.

Signor Zolli, who is taking the Pope's name, Eugenio Maria, previously had been received by the Pontiff after Rome fell to the Allies to express his gratitude on behalf of the Jewish community for aid offered during the German occupation.

He also talked today with Msgr. Joseph F. McGeough, American attaché to the Vatican State Secretariat, and reportedly discussed the possibility of translation in the United States of some of his works.

Roman Jews Mark Purim Again

ROME, March 4 (AP)—The first Purim festival observed in Italy for five years was celebrated by 1,500 Jewish children in a theatre here today. It was organized by Allied soldiers and officers under the sponsorship of the Rome area Allied command.

ITALIAN TROOPS PUSH NAZIS BACK IN COASTAL AREA

ROME, March 4.—(AP) Italian troops attached to the British Eighth army have driven the enemy from the entire coastal area south of the Po Di Primaro river and have taken nearly 200 prisoners, Allied headquarters announced today.

Official reports did not specify whether the prisoners captured were Germans or members of Italian Fascist divisions which have been bolstering Nazi defenses in Italy.

Yanks Stop Enemy

Near Casaglia, 16 miles south-southwest of Bologna, U. S. Fifth army units drove off a German party attempting to infiltrate their lines and then moved forward several hundred yards.

Additional hilltops were seized by Fifth army troops in the rough country north of Monte d'Ella Torraccia and Monte Castello, both of which were captured in recent attacks by the U. S. 10th Mountain division and Brazilian troops.

Launched after a heavy artillery preparation, the Italian attack on the Adriatic end of the Italian front was given strong air and tank support. The Po Di Primaro is a canalized river leading from the big Valli Di Comacchio lagoon into the Adriatic and is only seven miles south of Porto Garibaldi, the seaport entry to the lagoon.

The Italians made their first attack northward in the coastal woods two days ago. Eighth army headquarters reported that they "achieved initial surprise," overrunning enemy outposts and capturing enemy maps.

Enemy Attacks Repulsed

Facing strong opposition and many mines the Italians pushed on during the first night and repulsed enemy counterattacks. The advance was resumed yesterday when the last enemy forces were driven from a spit of land separating the Po Di Primaro from the sea. The Italians were declared to have inflicted severe casualties on the enemy. Their bag of prisoners included several officers.

RAF and South African Liberators and Halifaxes bombed the Pola naval works and Porto Marchera oil storage tanks at the head of the Adriatic last night.

South African Marauders and escorting Spitfires encountered a dozen Messerschmitt 109s when they bombed the Conegliano railway yards in northern Italy.

Yanks Force Nazis to Blow Up Vital Adolf Hitler Bridge

BOYLE

UERDINGEN, Germany, March 4—(AP) U. S. Ninth army tanks and artillery forced the Nazis today to blow up the great Adolf Hitler highway bridge over the Rhine 11 miles northwest of Duesseldorf to prevent it from falling into American hands.

The bridge offered speedy road access to Berlin.

In the last three days American ground batteries, firing on directions radioed from light planes overhead, have sunk two ferryboats, one of which was loaded heavily with German troops. These boats were trying to reach the eastern bank. Staff officers believed most of the enemy troops were drowned.

Fast charging tanks of the Second armored "Hell on Wheels" division, working with the Doughboys, broke up another attempt by the German high command to rescue with a force of 84 assault boats thousands of Nazi soldiers caught on the western side of the river by the American advance.

Some of these were two regiments of parachute troopers, brought secretly from the Canadian front to keep an escape channel open and now many were stranded when the Adolf Hitler bridge was blown.

It was obvious the German command did not plan it that way, but was no other choice after the hard-charging Americans won control of the bridge's approaches after a two-day battle.

Two patrols of the 19th American engineers with infantrymen probed most of the way over the bridge under artillery fire during the night and were stopped only by blazing mortar fire. One patrol of six men got back only 20 minutes before the bridge was blown.

Since these 19th men had penetrated across the river—although they never got quite off the bridge—they gained the honor of being the first in the Ninth army to make their way across the Rhine and return.

The engineering patrol cut half a dozen wires as heavy shells rocked the bridge at two-minute intervals trying vainly to find and destroy the demolition network.

The patrol was led by Capt. George L. Youngblood, 31, from Charleston, N. C. The last six-man infantry patrol to leave the bridge was commanded by Lt. Guy E. Amspoker, Macon, Ga.

The bridge was blown at 7 o'clock this morning, and as tons of dynamite exploded in the peace-built chambers of the great 50-foot wide, 1,400-foot long structure, the noise was heard up and down this side of the river by hundreds of German troops who knew the sound meant for them capture and prison camps.

Receive Silver Stars

Late today, the young Yank patrol heroes were promptly rewarded with Silver Stars, pinned on their combat jackets in a drizzling rain with Brig. Gen. Isaac D. White, Des Moines, Ia., new commander of the Second Armored division.

It was veteran tankmen of this veteran division who drove through savage resistance and took the western end of the vital Adolf Hitler bridge, while another "Hell on Wheels" armored prong smashed the escape road from Krefeld, seat of the German silk industry, and swung north, crushing German pockets in bitter fighting.

The twin blows destroyed enemy hopes of making a German Dunkerque of Krefeld harbor.

The combat command which drove to the bridge was led by Col Sidney R. Hinds, Nashville, Tenn., a four-time hero who was surprised by receiving a third Oak Leaf cluster to his Silver Star from White at the same ceremony at which the patrols were honored.

Some of the fiercest fighting since the Roer assault began has taken place around Uerdingen in the last three days, with fanatic young men paratroopers bearing the brunt of the defense, supported by roving self-propelled guns, a few tanks, antiaircraft guns turned against ground targets, and strong artillery fire from the other side of the Rhine.

A high-ranking Second Armored division staff officer said proudly:

"We have destroyed any number of enemy vehicles and guns, and have taken 2,400 prisoners from 50 to 60 different German units. We took 150 paratroops prisoner and we killed at least that many more who fought to death."

One task force from this famed division knocked out eleven 88-MM guns, several 20-MM flak guns and three Nebelwerfers — six-barreled mortar launchers.

Among prisoners taken was a member of a German patrol boat company of three platoons of assault boats. These boats came from south of Duesseldorf along the east side of the river to attempt to rescue German troops pinned against the Rhine by the fast-moving American offensive.

"The Germans had 28 boats in each platoon, 84 in all, but they couldn't find a way through our artillery to get ashore and ferry their troops over," said Lt. Col. Eugene A. Traham, Lafayette, La. "We didn't get any of their boats."

Although the Germans were able to get much of their heavy equipment across the Rhine before they blew the Adolf Hitler bridge and other spans along the river, the remaining pockets appeared hopelessly trapped.

20,000 Nazis Trapped

Arrival of American divisions at other points up and down the Rhine made more remote any possibility of a waterborne escape for an estimated 20,000 Germans who "missed the boat."

Sinking of two ferryboats, each about 200 feet long, as a result of Cub plane and artillery liaison was a spectacular demonstration of air-ground teamwork.

When a Cub pilot sighted the first ferry boat in the river three days ago he radioed its location doubtfully and asked: "'Is this a good enough target for you?"

Hell, yes, sink it," replied Maj. Carl L. Schlish, Loxley, Ala., artillery operations officer.

The pilot called down a round of 50 105-MM shells on the floating target, invisible to the gunners themselves. The barrage crippled it and another barrage of 50 shells sent it under.

It was sunk by the 72nd field artillery battalion, and yesterday the 82nd field artillery battalion duplicated that by sinking a loaded ferryboat.

"The ferry boat carrying German troops was sunk three miles above Duesseldorf near the river crossing," said Capt. Harry Volk, former Cleveland, Ohio, newspaperman.

Attempt to Save Rhine Bridge Wins 19 Silver Stars Same Day

Gen. White Rounds Up Heroic Riflemen for Decoration Within 12 Hours; They Braved Death Trying to Cut Wires on Adolf Hitler Span

BOYLE

By The Associated Press

MAR 5 1945

NEAR UERDINGEN, Germany, March 4—Nineteen American soldier volunteers who had risked their lives less than twelve hours earlier in trying to keep the Germans from blowing up the big Adolf Hitler Highway bridge across the Rhine received silver star hero awards today.

It was one of the promptest group awards on record. It was made for one of the bravest feats of the war—crawling out on the shell-raked suspension bridge in the darkness and trying to find and cut the wires leading to tons of hidden dynamite which might explode at any moment.

It was a glorious failure. The men were driven back by flames from burning tar on the bridge roadway which had been ignited by grenades and which silhouetted them to enemy gunners. One patrol got back at daylight, only twenty minutes before the Nazis blew up the bridge, one of the chief highway links between Berlin and the western Rhineland.

As soon as the commander of the 2d Armored Division, Brigadier General Isaac D. White, heard the details of the feat he rounded up the men and pinned silver stars on them and on their commander, Colonel Sidney R. Hinds, of Nashville, Tenn., whose tanks and men also captured Uerdingen, a suburb of the German industrial city of Krefeld.

Four of the men could not be located immediately, but fifteen of the young herbes stood at attention in a drizzling rain in a muddy German farmyard while General White pinned the medals on them and told them the whole "hell on wheels" division was proud of them.

Afterward, Captain George L. Youngblood, a former Charleston, S. C., civil engineer, told of the exploit while his men, still wearing dirty battle clothing and weary for lack of sleep, sat stiffly uncomfortable on the edges of chairs in a German family's neat living room.

"We hoped to locate the wires leading to the dynamite charges on the bridge and keep them from blowing it," said Youngblood, who previously had been decorated for heroism in clearing a minefield under fire.

"We started out well after dark and finally got on the bridge, although small-arms fire kept us down for a while. It was pretty black. The moon wasn't up yet, but there was a big fire on the other edge of the bridge."

Because the doughboys did not rendezvous promptly with the engineers, Youngblood detached three of his engineers to act as guides. They were Private Einar O. Waldahl, of Sentinel Butte, N. D.; Sergeant Herbert Stube, of Pass Christian, Miss., and Private First Class George Soules, of Horton, N. Y. Just as they started across the span the three doughboys arrived, and they moved slowly across the bridge toward the flames.

"We checked each column," said Youngblood, "and other critical points on the superstructure. The bridge is 1,420 feet long, with steel girders on top. It had car tracks and room for two lanes of motor traffic.

"We all were looking for krauts and demolition material at the same time. Sometimes a bullet whizzed by us from the small-arms fight going on north of the bridge on our side of the river, but it was that fire on the bridge and the other big fire in a three-story building across the Rhine that worried us most."

The young engineer looked about at his men, they nodded and he continued, slowly: "You see, those flames silhouetted us to anyone on either shore, and a big gun was banging away at the bridge at two-minute intervals. Every time it fired we had to duck to get away from shrapnel. Every time one of those big shells hit you could feel the bridge rock and sway."

Dodging every time a shell hit, the engineers managed to locate and cut about six wires, but those apparently were not attached to the demolition charges. They worked their way across the river until they were above German soil, and got within seventy-five yards of the burning tar.

"Then we had to turn back, although we hadn't found the dynamite charges, because artillery fire was too intense there," said Youngblood.

A few hours later Lieutenant Guy E. Amspoker, of Georgia, set out with five other men on a second patrol to see if it were possible to get infantry with equipment over the bridge.

"The bridge was still being shelled intermittently, and we got over German soil on the other side before we saw it was impossible for our infantry to cross while the roadway was burning. It was still in flames," he said. "Our mission was accomplished, so we came back."

The men with Lieutenant Amspoker included Private First Class Alfred Steahle, of 310 Central Avenue, Brooklyn.

With Lieutenant Amspoker were Staff Sgt. Thomas Haley of Hillsboro, Ill.; Pvt. August Greco of Chicago, Pvt. Joseph Hann of Boston, Pvt. Joseph Hula and Pvt. Alfred Richards of Texas.

Cut-Off Negro Tank Force Mauls Nazis For 18 Hours

GALLAGHER

Sevelen, Germany, March 4 (AP). With a bridge blown behind them, a Negro tank battalion task force staged a miniature "Bastogne" in Sevelen today, mauling Nazi parachute units in savage street fighting while cut off for eighteen hours.

The 784th Tank Battalion was fighting its first offensive action beside the 35th Infantry Division.

The battalion won a place in the hearts of the men of the battle-hardened 35th Division, who had fought from St. Lo to Venlo and beyond, by the battle it put up here and the spearhead fighting it did to get here.

GI, 47, Bags Nazi Gun

Sergt. Walter (Pop) Half, 47, World War I veteran, of Little York, Ill., who came back in this war as the commander of a tank bulldozer, was called out under fire to fill craters in a road. He went on to knock out a German 88-millimeter anti-tank gun.

Sergt. Ambrose Hicks, of Mount Vernon, N.Y., an artillery mechanic, was sent back to help bring a supply convoy through. He saved three trucks parked near a burning ammunition truck loaded with 2,300 pounds of T.N.T.

There were Negro tank men who climbed out of the shelter of their tanks under mortar and shellfire to refuel.

When .30-caliber ammunition inside their tanks was exhausted, the tank men came out from behind their steel protection and used .50-caliber flak machine guns in the open on top.

The battalion was part of "Task Force Byrne," named after Col. Bernard Byrne, of Bradenton, Fla.

"These colored tankers really have given a good account of themselves and our doughboys say they can fight with them anytime," Byrne said. "They stay right up with the doughboys, and foot soldiers like that."

The tank battalion's "Bastogne" occurred when Major Gustav J. Durandt, of Shreveport, La., led a small tank force in a night attack on Sevelen.

Fired On By Bazookas

"We came across the bridge and into the town in the dark," he said. "We had a couple of bazookas fired at us on the way in, but it was not until we got to the town that all hell broke loose. Bazookas and shells came in from the sides. There must have been a bazooka shell every minute all night."

In the midst of the melee, with street fighting going on all over town, the Germans blew a bridge behind the tank force. That was when the tank men climbed on top of their tanks and cut loose with their .50-caliber machine guns.

BELGIANS DOOM 3 SPIES

MAR 5 1945

Couple Specialized in Betraying Fleeing Allied Captives

BRUSSELS, March 4 (AP)—Three Belgian spies, including a couple who specialized in delivering escaped Allied war prisoners back to their German captors, have been sentenced to death, it was announced today.

They are Jules Renauart, 38 years old; his mistress, Marie Simoens, 29, and Jan-Josef Schmidt, 23, who was charged with planning to send information to the enemy and carry out sabotage.

Dresden Dead Reported Buried Unidentified

Stockholm, March 4 (AP)—Tens of thousands of Germans, killed in the last massive Allied air strike against Dresden, were buried unidentified, a Berlin correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported today.

The casualties were said to have been the greatest ever for an attack on a city of Dresden's size—about 625,000 before the war.

Radio to Brussels Reopens

Direct Service Resumed for First Time Since 1940

For the first time since the German occupation of Belgium early in 1940, direct radiotelegraph service between New York and Brussels was reopened yesterday by the Radio Corporation of America Communications, Inc., 66 Broad Street, for government and press messages.

Lieutenant Colonel Thompson H. Mitchell, vice-president and general manager of R. C. A. communications, said the service later will be offered to individuals seeking to contact friends, relatives and business associates in Belgium. The third restored line to be completed with liberated countries in eight months by R. C. A., the circuit is operated at the Brussels terminus by the Belgian Telegraph Administration.

U.S. Planes Kill Flyer-Son Of Tokyo's Envoy Kurusu

Father Was With Hull When Japan Hit Pearl Harbor

Captain Makato Kurusu, a flyer in the Japanese Army and the son of Saburo Kurusu, Japanese special envoy to the United States at the time of the attack on Pearl Harbor, was killed during an air battle with American carrier planes over Tokyo on Feb. 16, the Tokyo radio reported yesterday.

Kurusu was born in the United States in 1919. His mother, Mrs. Alice Kurusu, was an American citizen. He was educated in Japan and became a pilot attached to the Army Aerial Navigation Research Institute, according to a dispatch by the Domei news agency. The broadcast was picked up by the Federal Communications Commission.

It was Kurusu's father, and the Japanese Ambassador at Washington, Kichisaburo Nomuro, who conducted negotiations at Washington prior to Pearl Harbor and who were with Secretary of State Cordell Hull at the time of the Japanese attack.

CABINET RESHUFFLED

Arabs to Defend Viewpoint

CAIRO, March 4 (AP).—The Arab Federation will establish offices of information at Washington and London "to defend the Arab point of view," Azzam Bey, Minister of Arab Affairs, said today. The federation is an organization of Arab states in the Middle East.

Eri Jabotinsky Released By Palestine Authorities

Member of Hebrew Liberation Group Ordered to Haifa

JERUSALEM, March 4 (AP).—Eri Jabotinsky, who has been representative in Turkey of the Hebrew Committee of National Liberation, with headquarters at Washington, has been released by authorities in Palestine and ordered to reside in the northern Palestine city of Haifa. Several days ago, he was arrested by Turkish police, allowed to wind up his affairs at Istanbul and deported. He was then seized at the Palestine frontier.

Jabotinsky, a Palestine national, is a son of the late Vladimir Jabotinsky, Zionist Revisionist leader, who frequently was in conflict with the British government over problems concerning the Jewish homeland.

During the week end, a fire in the Revisionists' Club, at Haifa, Palestine, destroyed important letters and manuscripts of the elder Jabotinsky, who died in August, 1940.

JAP RESISTANCE STIFFENS ON IWO

Marines Register Small Local Gains, Enemy Attack Beaten Back.

HAVELAND

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Monday, March 5—(AP) Stiffened Japanese resistance held American gains to local advances of 50 to 100 yards on Iwo Ima yesterday but several hundred more enemy troops were killed in a fanatical counter-attack.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, announcing "small local advances" in his communique today, reported that 12,864 Japanese dead had been counted up to 6 p.m. Saturday—13 days of the fiercest fight of the Pacific war.

This toll was 8,080 higher than his count up to 6 p.m. last Monday, the eighth day of the battle.

Enemy Attack Repulsed

The Japanese counter-attack was thrown against Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth division on the northwest end of the crooked battle line across the upper third of Iwo.

This was "repulsed with the loss of several hundred men," the communique said, adding that hand-to-hand fighting was in progress on rough ground "naturally suited to defense operations."

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' Fourth Marines, on the east flank, overcame a strong center of resistance as they inched forward over rocky ground.

Nimitz made no mention of the progress of Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third division, holding down the center of the American line and shoving the Japanese toward cliffs fringing the little island's north and northeast shoreline.

In rear areas the Marines continued sealing caves in which some fanatical defenders were taking refuge and from which they refused to emerge. Nevertheless an increasing number were surrendering, and the prisoner list now numbers 45 Koreans and 36 Japanese.

Naval guns covered the ground advances.

American hospital planes continued to use the southern Iwo bomber field although it was under enemy fire during the day.

Carrier planes bombed Chichi Jima in the Bonin islands immediately north of Iwo while Marine fighters and medium bombers swept Ponape in the western Carolines and Navy search planes bombed enemy targets in the Marshall islands.

Japs Given No Rest

The battle-weary Japanese defenders of gory Iwo, given no respite by American Marines in 14 days of furious fighting on the tiny island, are being compressed between Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith's hard-hitting Leathernecks and the deep sea off the steep northern shoreline.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported in a communique yesterday that the Marines gained from 200 to 400 yards against the fiercely-fighting Japanese who were battling to stave off liquidation.

As the battle of Iwo raged without letup more than 150 American Superfortresses roared northward from the Marianas to smash Tokyo again. It was from Iwo that the Japanese mounted air raids on the B-29 bases at Saipan and Tinian.

Marines of Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third Division slugged their way to within 300 yards of Iwo's northern cliffs where the Japanese are expected to make a suicide stand. This advance came close to cutting the Japanese line in two. Beyond the cliffs the Japanese will find themselves in open terrain that ends abruptly at the shoreline.

On the west flank of the battle-line the Fifth Division Marines gained up to 400 yards. But on the east the Fourth Division was stalemated by strong positions and heavy resistance.

BATTLESHIP OREGON SAVED FROM DEATH

Navy Finds Old Ship Not Even Good Breakwater Material

WAITE

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 4 [AP—via Navy Radio]—The glamor ship of the Spanish-American War—the gallant old battleship Oregon—came out to the Western Pacific to die in this modern new war. But she is still afloat.

Navy men who had planned to sink her to help build a breakwater concede now she wouldn't even make good breakwater material.

Crewless and denuded, the Oregon lies at anchor in a hastily blasted little inlet through coral reefs on an island base.

Battleship Made History

One of the hero ships of the Spanish-American conflict, the Oregon made history when she steamed from the West Coast around the tip of South America up to Cuba in the nick of time to join in the battle against the Spanish fleet at Santiago just before the turn of the century.

When towed out to the West Pacific to be sunk the Oregon was loaded with 1,400 tons of dynamite—since unloaded—and a false rumor spread like wildfire that she was going to be towed right into Tokyo harbor and blown up.

B-29'S BOMB TOKYO BY DAY

Attack Through Snow—All But One Return Safely

HAVELAND

Headquarters 21st Bomber Command, Guam, March 4 (AP)—Superfortresses flying in force bombed Tokyo heavily today and all returned safely except one which was forced to ditch en route home. The crew was picked up.

Another sky giant returned after landing on embattled Iwo Jima to repair its gasoline lines.

Extreme cold over the target caused at least one plane to report that one of its engines were "frozen." This may have accounted for the ditched plane's trouble.

Attack Through Snow

The planes (Tokyo Radio said there were 150) were guided to the target by precision instruments through snow and overcast described by returning pilots as worse than the pea soup encountered on the last previous strike on the enemy capital.

The big planes, making their first night takeoff in order to reach Tokyo in the early morning, encountered visual bombing weather until only three minutes from the target—the urban industrial area of the city—when solid clouds closed in.

Some pilots reported they could see snowcapped Mount Fuji and the coast of Honshu as they roared inland, but almost immediately heavy layers of clouds forced the pilots to resort to instruments. If they had been over the target fifteen minutes sooner, one pilot said, they probably could have bombed visually.

MAR 5 1945

No Fighter Opposition

The Superforts battled ice and sleet through subzero temperature but there was no fighter opposition and little anti-aircraft fire.

While the official announcement of the raid said only that the attacking air fleet was "very large," Tokyo radio reported the capital area was hit by "about 150 planes," which started fires at several places.

It was the eleventh B-29 raid on Tokyo and the first one to be made in the early morning. Previous visits had been in midafternoon.

Last Sunday's attack by more than 200 of the Superfortresses set fires which burned out 240 blocks, stretching from the fringe of the Emperor's palace to the water front.

Reports Nagoya Hit

Tokyo Radio said that other Superforts bombed Nagoya, industrial city about 170 miles southwest of the capital, and Toyohashi and Hamamatsu, cities along the coast between Nagoya and Tokyo.

An earlier enemy broadcast said single B-29's made five attacks on the Nagoya area Saturday night and other individual raiders hit the Osaka and Kobe district and in northern Kyushu Island.

Large Superfort Fleet Hammers Tokyo Targets

Japs Claim 150 Bombers Take Part, Opposition Termed Weak.

21ST BOMBER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Guam, March 4—(AP) American Superfortress bombers spanned the 1,500-mile Marianas to Tokyo route today for their second consecutive Sunday attack on the Nipponese capital in great strength.

While the official announcement of the raid said only that the attacking air fleet was "very large," Tokyo radio reported the capital area was hit by "about 150 planes" which started fires at several places.

No Bombers Lost

The 20th Air force communique said crewmen of the bombers reported no enemy fighters opposed them and anti-aircraft fire was meager to heavy. None of the big planes was lost to enemy action, headquarters said.

It was the 11th B-29 raid on Tokyo and the first one to be made in the early morning. Previous visits had been in mid-afternoon.

Last Sunday's attack by more than 200 of the sky giants set fires which burned out 240 blocks stretching from the fringe of the Emperor's palace to the waterfront.

The Yank fliers dropped their bombs today through an overcast and results of the attack were not immediately observed.

Tokyo radio said that other Superforts bombed Nagoya, industrial city about 170 miles southwest of the capital, and Toyohashi and Hamamatsu, cities along the coast between Nagoya and Tokyo.

An earlier enemy broadcast said single B-29s made five attacks on the Nagoya area Saturday night and other individual raiders hit the Osaka and Kobe district and in northern Kyushu island.

HALE COMMANDING PACIFIC AIR FORCE

Former Deputy Takes Over Posts Held By Harmon

MAR 5 1945

Army Air Force Headquarters, Advance Area, Guam, March 4 [AP—By Navy Radio]—Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale has been named to succeed the missing Lieut. Gen. Millard F. Harmon as commander of Army Air Forces, Pacific Ocean Areas, a headquarters spokesman announced today.

General Harmon, native of San Francisco, is mysteriously missing with nine other officers and men on a trans-Pacific flight. An extended air and naval search for the plane and its occupants is continuing.

Deputy In B-29 Force

General Hale, in addition to commanding army air forces in Pacific Ocean areas and Pacific strategic air forces, also assumes Harmon's duties as deputy commander of the Superfortress 20th Air Force.

The headquarters spokesman said Hale "will function in these capacities pending formal action by the War Department."

The newly formed Strategic Air Force in the Pacific is generally regarded as the framework upon which would be grafted all aircraft and personnel suitable for the strategic destruction of Japan as rapidly as the end of the European war would release them from action there.

Strategic bombing means, roughly, destroying the enemy's war machine rather than hitting tactical targets.

Formerly Operations Deputy

Kansas-born General Hale, 52, was appointed last January 13 as deputy commander for operations of the Army Air Forces in the Pacific Ocean Areas. Before that he was commanding general of shore-based aircraft, Central Pacific Forward Area.

General Hale holds the Distinguished Service Medal for heading the bombing command of the Army Air Force in Hawaii which participated in the battle of Midway in June, 1942.

Tokyo Raids Set Flyer On Way To Record Bag

Aboard Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's Flagship Off Japan, March 1 [AP— Delayed]—Using the Tokyo raids as a springboard, Lieut. Patrick D. Fleming, of Jamestown, R. I., is making a strong bid to become the Navy's ace of aces.

Fleming shot down nine Japanese planes in two days of the first Tokyo strike, getting five February 16 and four on the 17th. This raises his total to nineteen, which is still far below Commander David McCampbell, Los Angeles, and other top aces, but a good start toward serious challenge.

Fleming was an enlisted man serving on the carrier Saratoga in 1941, but he took a competitive examination and entered the Naval Academy and later attended flight school at Pensacola.

COSTLY FIGHT FOR IWO WON

Marines Have Tough Little Isle Firmly In Hand

By JAMES LINDSLEY

Atop Hill 382, Iwo Jima, March 4 [AP—Via Navy Radio]—This rubble heap of nature rising 382 feet above Iwo Jima is firmly in the hands of American Marines after a battle costly in blood and material, ending Japanese hopes of holding this island.

Surveying the terrain, the natural advantages of which the Nipponese cunningly utilized to the full, one wonders not why it took the Marines so long to secure it, but how they were able to gain a foothold here at all.

The ridge, of which Hill 382 is the summit, is studded with pillboxes, blockhouses and assorted positions of security. The enemy observation post atop the hill commanded a sweeping view of fully 75 per cent of the island, and Japanese guns were able to cover every inch of it.

Japs Held On Bitterly

The Nipponese defended it with the ferocity for which they are noted. On every hand are seen their dead beside the guns they manned to the end.

Alongside one gun, which was knocked out by Marine artillery, there lay a dead Japanese with a grenade clutched in his right hand and perhaps a dozen more piled beside him. He had been hurling grenades at Leathernecks who were doggedly moving up the slope, and had another ready to toss when he was cut down.

The sight and stench of war reaches a climax here, with the sound of battle raging on the other side of the hill not more than 100 yards away. Conditions are still too hot to permit the Americans to dispose of enemy bodies. Abandoned Japanese equipment is everywhere.

Cigarette Case Shot Through

I saw on the ground a silver cigarette case inscribed with Nipponese characters and with a bullet hole squarely through the center.

Southward toward Mount Suribachi can be seen the broad plain and at the farther edge some wrecked American tanks. They apparently were knocked out by Japanese 20, 47 and 75-mm. guns, which could cover the flat area with steel as you'd squirt water on a lawn with a garden hose.

This explains why the Devildogs had to take the ridge in old-style warfare, storming up the slope with rifles, machine guns and grenades, and finishing off the grim business with flame throwers.

Hill Taken Friday

The hill was finally secured Friday by elements of the 23d and 24th regiments, 4th Marine Division, commanded, respectively, by Col. Walter W. Wensinger, of La Jolla, Cal., and Col. Walter I. Jordan, of Virginia Beach, Va.

Near-by were three Japanese tanks set in reinforced concrete emplacements with their 75-mm. guns trained over the valley.

The Japanese are still keeping the ridge under mortar fire, but Marine officers say there is no chance of a successful enemy counterattack.

Leathernecks manning a machine gun in a crater said several Marines were killed or wounded last night by a direct hit on an adjacent foxhole.

"But the Japs are on the run now," said Corporal H. E. Bilbert, of Greenville, Ohio. "We'll be out of here soon."

MARINES COOKING WITH 'GAS' ON IWO

Volcano Acts Up And Leathernecks Get Hot Rations

Iwo Jima, March 4 [AP—Via Navy Radio]—Suribachi Volcano, on the southern tip of Iwo Jima, acted up a bit today and as a result American Marines in the sector had hot rations for the first time in several days.

During the night the 560-foot cone began erupting hot sulphurous steam from hundreds of little fissures on the northern slope.

"It didn't take the boys long to get wise," said Capt. E. R. McCarthy, of Medford, Mass., commanding officer of a weapons company. "They began shoving cans of rations into the cracks and in fifteen minutes took them out piping hot."

Japs Scuttling From Caves

McCarthy said an unusual number of Japanese were observed scuttling out of volcano caves in the early morning and he speculated that sulphur fumes might have driven them into the open.

A huge gray cloud envelops the summit of Suribachi on which the American flag was planted February 24, after a frontal assault by Marines.

Lieut. Harold C. Blair, of Tottenville Station, Staten Island, N.Y., observation pilot, reported after a dawn flight that "smoke is billowing from the crater and from smaller holes around the summit. The crater itself, which has been a gray-brown, has taken on a greenish tinge and the edges are rimmed in black. I couldn't detect flame or lava flow."

Rain Quenches Jap Thirst

There is still a force of the 5th Marine Division on the mountain. These Leathernecks have been flushing Japanese die-hards out of caves since the Yanks took control of the sector.

On the other side of the ledger, nature gave the Nipponese a lift today when heavy rain fell during the morning. The Japanese apparently were short of water as several cisterns and storage basins were wrecked by American shells.

One marine officer said that rain which has fallen thus far today has given the enemy enough water for three days.

First Transport Planes Land

IOWA JIMA, March 3 (Delayed) (AP).—The first transport planes landed today on the American-won southern airfield while a marine engineer battalion was still putting it into shape.

The planes were carrying supplies from Guam. Plenty of supplies are coming in to the beach, but these consignments were sent for speed.

The first to land was a Douglas R4D-1, piloted by Navy Commander C. A. Keller, of Topeka, Kan. He came in about 11:30 a. m. and shortly afterward a Marine Curtiss Commando came in with Lieutenant Colonel M. S. MacKay.

The Japanese apparently spotted the first plane from the high points still in their hands, for soon after it landed they lobbed in three mortar shells. The shots fell wide of the mark.

Transport planes from Saipan have been flying over the field regularly the last three days, dropping mail by parachute. Today's mail-drop totaled 8,000 pounds. A V-mail laboratory now is in full operation and homebound mail is going out daily via seaplane.

[A delayed dispatch by a seabee combat correspondent, distributed by The Associated Press, said that members of a Navy Construction Battalion landed on Iwo Jima within sixty minutes after the first assault wave of marines had landed and began work on the southern airfield. Several of the seabees were wounded, the dispatch stated.]

FILIPINOS HIT BLOW AT JAPS

Guerrillas Clear Foe From Ilocos Norte Province

Manila, Monday, March 5 (AP)—While three Yank divisions pushed steadily against Japanese troops in mountainous northern Luzon, Filipino guerrillas have struck a heavy blow in the enemy's rear, clearing the Nipponese from Ilocos Norte province, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The campaign to clean the Japanese off Luzon also was implemented by the American division's seizure Saturday of Ticao and Burias islands in the Sibuyan Sea.

Will Reduce Peninsula

The occupation of Ticao and Burias will result in the evacuation or destruction of the Nipponese on near-by Bicol peninsula of Luzon Island, MacArthur said.

Possession of Bicol peninsula would give the Americans the key port of Legaspi, on the east side, and additional airbases.

In Manila units of the 37th Division cleaned out the last of Japanese resistance in the downtown district with capture of the finance building, one of the structures where the Nipponese made suicide stands after the fall of the old walled city to the Yanks.

MacArthur disclosed that guerrillas under Col. R. W. Volckman cleared the Japanese from Ilocos Norte, in the extreme northwest corner of Luzon, inflicting thousands of casualties while suffering only minor losses themselves.

Have American Arms

He described the fighting as of "irregular type which the enemy has been unable to fathom," but gave no further details. A spokesman said the guerrillas were supplied with American arms and, since the Yanks arrived in Luzon, have been receiving effective air support.

MAR 5 1945

The announcement is the first of a major blow struck by the guerrillas since mid-December when MacArthur reported they had seized control of many areas in the central and southern Philippines.

Volckman was a regular army officer when the Japanese invaded Luzon, and after Bataan fell he started training a well-knit Filipino organization in the north.

MacArthur awarded him the Distinguished Service Cross February 27. His home is at Clinton, Iowa.

Jap Losses Heavy

Severe enemy losses were reported in attacks made against the 6th Infantry and 1st Cavalry divisions near Montalban, 13 miles northeast of Manila. The attacks were described as aggressive and were made by a strong force striking from high ground along a powerful defense line.

Heavy air strikes were reported in support of ground forces against Japanese strong points on Luzon.

American bombers continued their daily attacks on Formosa, destroying 30 enemy planes on the ground and sinking a 7,000-ton freighter-transport.

Mitchell medium bombers hit a Nipponese airfield on the Babuyan islands north of Luzon.

MANILA SCALES POPULAR

Santo Tomas Internees Line Up Daily to Weigh Themselves

MANILA, March 4 (AP)—One of the longest queues in Manila is at the Santo Tomas scales.

As liberated internees and prisoners of war await transportation home they are eager to restore as much of weight as possible now that good food is plentiful.

There is only one scale and every day they wait in line—persons who lost as much as 100 pounds under Japanese captivity—to see how many ounces they have put on daily. All have gained appreciably in the last couple of weeks, some enormously.

132 Allied Ships Salvaged

Victims of Japanese and Wrecks Refloated by Australians

CANBERRA, Australia, March 4 (AP).—Between 1942 and the end of last January, 132 Australian and Allied ships aggregating 660,000 tons were salvaged by the Australian Marine Salvage Board, the Commonwealth Supply Minister announced today. The ships were victims of attacks by Japanese submarines, surface raiders and aircraft or had been wrecked in Australian or New Guinea waters.

Many of the vessels refloated were Liberty ships, and about 500,000 tons of valuable war equipment was recovered.

CHINESE COLUMNS PUSH ON SUICHWAN

CHUNGKING, March 4—(AP) Chinese units which recaptured Yungsin have pushed toward Suichwan, one of the lost Kiangsi province air base cities 45 miles to the south, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

The Japanese supply line to Suichwan and the air base city of Kanhsien was severed by the recent Chinese reoccupation of Chaling, Lienhwa and Yungsin, respectively 60, 90 and 120 miles east of Hengyang.

The Chinese who retook Chaling have pursued retreating Japanese units 12 miles northwestward. Now the Chinese are only nine miles from Yuhsien, an enemy-held Hunan province highway town 45 miles east-northeast of Hengyang, the high command said.

In the maritime province of Chekiang, the Japanese column which struck toward Tsingtien, about 20 miles up the Wu river from Yungkia (Wenchow) sustained heavy losses and was forced to retreat, the high command said.

ALLIED FORCES DRIVE TOWARD MANDALAY

KANDY, Ceylon, March 4—(AP) Nineteenth Indian division troops, driving on Mandalay from the north, have occupied a village 30 miles above that Burmese city and 10 miles south of the Singu bridgehead over the Irrawaddy river, Allied headquarters announced today.

British 14th army troops continued expanding their Irrawaddy bridgehead 30 miles wast of Mandalay against stubborn opposition. Other 14th army units which advanced down the Gangaw valley have made progress southeast of Saw, approximately 130 miles southwest of Mandalay. The communique said that "in all sectors the enemy is sustaining severe casualties."

In northern Burma Chinese First army troops, who now have placed the communication center of Lashio under siege, captured several villages east of the old Burma road.

Parley Reaches Final Three Tasks

Mexico City, March 4 (AP)—The inter-American conference moved today to fill in the last remaining blanks in a new and mutual good-neighbor policy—supported by the force of twenty nations.

The three important subjects on which delegates have yet to express their final views are Argentina, Dumbarton Oaks, and an economic charter for the Americas. Indications are that all three will be disposed of smoothly.

It now appears that the conference will come out with a statement on Argentina tomorrow, although there is a small possibility that official silence will be maintained on this subject.

The statement is expected to provide for eventual Argentine signature of the Mexico City resolutions. Several delegates have said informally, however, that they would not permit Argentine adherence until Buenos Aires gives proof it would be much more than an empty gesture.

Caution As To Argentina

One official said he would ask that the American republics agree to consult together before a definite invitation to sign the resolutions of the conference is given Argentina.

Sincere adoption of the principles and pledges laid down here, it is felt, would mean Argentina's return to the hemisphere family. They provide for the complete cooperation from within and without the continent that Buenos Aires has refused so far.

Delay In Announcement

Little has been done on Dumbarton Oaks until now, because the United States Secretary of State, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., hopes to be able to announce the Yalta formula for voting in the projected security council before open discussions are held.

Last word was that the announcement would come from Washington, London, Moscow, Paris and Chungking tomorrow, and Stettinius has scheduled an important speech before the committee on Dumbarton Oaks. French delay in agreeing fully to sponsor the United Nations conference in San Francisco has held up the announcement.

Fifteen of the Latin-American countries here have turned in observations on the plan for a world security organization. However, there seems to be general agreement that it would be fruitless to do more than subscribe to the general principles of the peace plan here, since detailed changes can only be made at San Francisco.

A compilation of the Latin-American views shows they would like the world organization to contain guarantees similar to the act of Chapultepec. Several countries stated specifically that the peace agency should guarantee the "territorial integrity and political independence" of its members.

Compromise On Purchases

Clearance of the economic charter for the Americas was held up by debate over a formula for United States purchases of Latin-American raw materials during the transition from war to peace.

Latin-American countries had asked that the United States promise to keep on buying at current rates and prices for two years. A compromise was finally worked out whereby the United States agreed to purchase what it could, and assure the Latin-American countries adequate protection against economic collapse with Export-Import Bank loans and help in getting European and UNRRA markets.

Chapultepec Vs. Dumbarton

Washington, March 4 (AP)—A critical test of United States leadership toward organized world peace appears certain to grow out of the inter-American security system created at Mexico City.

As between Mexico City and the United Nations plan as conceived here, something will have to give way. The test is likely to come at the United Nations meeting opening April 25 in San Francisco. It could well be the most critical issue there. This is the conviction of officials here who are intimately familiar with the Dumbarton Oaks plans for a world league.

Any development from the "Act of Chapultepec" in the direction of a breakdown of the world into blocs organized around the five great powers would be utterly contrary to United States hopes and plans as expounded by President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Stettinius.

Provisions Compared

The critical provisions of the Act of Chapultepec and the proposed Dumbarton Oaks security plan are these:

1. The Act of Chapultepec recommends that the American nations set up guarantees of the territorial integrity of the countries in this hemisphere and automatically use force as necessary to make the guarantees good.

2. The Dumbarton Oaks plan, while it provides full recognition for regional organizations, specifically states that no regional group of nations may use measures to enforce peace or prevent aggression except upon the authority of the world security council.

What may prove to be the saving clause of the Act of Chapultepec was written in upon the urgings of the United States delegation. It says that hemispheric arrangements shall be consistent with the purposes and principles of the general international organization.

U.S. Commitment In Europe

The question how forces shall be used and by whom is of vital importance. The object of President Roosevelt's commitment to joint action now in the affairs of liberated Europe was to prevent unilateral actions in those areas by Britain and Russia.

What is feared here is that while a bloc takes the form of a hemisphere security system in the Americas, it might take the form of rival groups around conflicting powers in Europe.

This is not to say that some form of regionalism cannot be attained. In fact, the Dumbarton Oaks plan specifically allows for the development of such systems, and one provision would permit the World Security Council itself to use force on a regional basis, for example, employing only American troops to put down the threat of aggression in this hemisphere.

Authorities here believe that the conflict was inadvertent and probably can be settled without too much difficulty.

Yalta Formula Will Be Bared

MEXICO CITY, March 4 (AP)—Little has been done here on the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, because Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr., hopes to be able to announce the Yalta formula for voting in the projected security council before open discussions are held.

It was reported that the announcement would come tomorrow, and Mr. Stettinius has scheduled an important speech before the Committee on Dumbarton Oaks.

Toronto Plans Subway

TORONTO, March 4 (AP)—Toronto Transportation Commission officials disclosed today plans for a $51,000,000 rapid-transit system for Toronto that would include a high-speed subway and open-cut lines along Yonge and Queen Streets. It would be Canada's first subway. No construction work will start until after the war.

Chapultepec Creates Test Of U.S. Leadership in Peace

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP) A critical test of United States leadership toward organized world peace appears certain to grow out of the inter-American security system created at Mexico City.

As between Mexico City and the United Nations plan as conceived here, something will have to give way. The test is likely to come at the United Nations meeting opening April 25 in San Francisco. Authorities here believe that the conflict was inadvertent and probably can be settled without too much difficulty.

The Latin American nations which sponsored the act at Mexico City were primarily concerned with (1) protecting themselves against potential aggression by Argentina (2) providing a regional system of security regardless of what happens internationally. The concern of neighbors of Argentina is at most only temporary and the long-range desire of the other countries for permanent security may be fully satisfied by the San Francisco conference.

Members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee who were available and prepared to comment on the Mexico City results took the position that they amounted to an actual contribution to the Dumbarton Oaks plan. Republicans in general kept silence.

Senator Hill (D-Ala) called the Chapultepec Act "a very definite step forward and one that points toward successful action at San Francisco."

Other comment:

Senator Barkley (D-Ky)—"It seems to me to be a constructive act of cooperation between the American republics and I see no difficulty in its being integrated into the work of the San Francisco conference."

Senator Guffey (D-Pa)—"I am delighted beyond measure at what they have done down there. It is very constructive and bodes well for the future."

BUILDING OF LEDO ROAD COST MANY U. S. LIVES

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP) For every mile on the 1,044-mile Ledo road from India to China, there's a grave of an American soldier.

Disclosure of the cost of lives of building the strategic route was made by the War department today in a report that Negro troops formed 65 per cent of more than 15,000 soldiers in the construction forces.

Only 42 miles of the road—which took two years to build—lay across friendly territory—and even there malaria and other diseases took their toll. Further on, the Japanese were a still greater menace.

LT. COL. VANDEGRIFT WOUNDED ON IWO JIMA

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP) Lt. Col. A. A. Vandegrift, Jr., son of the Marine corps commandant, was wounded on the sixth day of the Iwo Jima invasion, the Marine corps announced today.

The colonel, son of Lieut. Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, was hit in both legs by Japanese mortar fire on D-day plus five.

Col. Vandegrift had been wounded previously in the leg in Saipan.

B-29s Meet No Fighters Over Tokyo

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP).—The "very large" force of Superfortresses which struck Tokyo's war industries for the first time in an early morning raid today encountered no enemy fighters.

A 20th Air Force communique, reporting this, said flak varied from meagre to heavy. No American bombers were lost to enemy action.

The attackers and the attacked exchanged their missiles without seeing each other because of a cloud cover.

Today's was the 11th attack by B-29s based in the Marianas on the Jap capital.

RYTER CRITICAL OF POLISH ISSUE

Congressman Says Yalta Decision Not in Accord with Atlantic Charter.

HARTFORD, March 4 — (AP) Representative-at-Large Joseph F. Ryter (D) of Hartford declared in a talk over WDRC today that "the unity achieved at Yalta was achieved at a price "that was not negligible." The solution of the Polish problem "by no stretch of the imagination can be said to accord with the Atlantic Charter", he said.

Representative Ryter spoke from Washington on the "Report to Connecticut" program. "Some may claim minor concessions on the part of Russia to American and British differences since there are to be digressions of three to five miles in Poland's favor in some regions east of the so-called Curzon line," he said.

"As a further alleged concession the base of the Soviet sponsored government is to be broadened by the inclusion of democratic leaders from Poland itself and from Poles from abroad. But who are to be these democratic leaders and whose lexicon will be consulted to determine whether they are 'democratic' leaders?

"A gratifying and encouraging aspect is the provision that after creation of the Polish Provisional Government of National Unity, there is secured the pledge of 'holding free, unfettered elections as soon as possible on the basis of universal suffrage and secret ballot.'

"This is indeed at least a recognition of the fundamental right of a free people and one is forced to wonder why similar provision was not made to determine the wishes of the inhabitants of the territory east of the Curzon line and was never under Russian rule prior to the Ribbentrop-Molotoff pact. But even here the test is yet to come and future events have yet to determine the final results of this provision.

"The disappointments of the conference are better and can be offset only by the guarantee that the new Poland will be a great nation and that in the future the United States as well as Great Britain and Russia will join in defending the new borders.

"For more than five years this great nation has expended all its treasures and manhood in resisting the Nazi hordes. It was the first nation to have called a halt to Hitler's demands and stood its ground and gave battle to a vastly superior enemy. For this, the freedom-loving nations must be eternally grateful.

"Once more this great nation has been called upon to make an equally great sacrifice in order to contribute of herself to the peace of the world. We must not fail her again for if we do the future peace of the world, now already precariously in the balance, will be a mocking failure."

Settlement Reported Near In WLB-Vinson Wage Row

Expected 'Fringe' Pay Adjustments May Affect Miners' Demands.

MAR 5 1945

WASHINGTON, March 4 — (AP) A break in the deadlock between the War Labor Board and Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson over granting of "fringe" wage adjustments is expected momentarily.

The prospective settlement was disclosed today by a source in the know, but how soon it actually would come, Chairman William H. Davis of the WLB declined to predict.

Vinson said "the whole question still is under consideration," and that he did not care to comment further now on the reported solution.

Outline Submitted to Vinson

The War Labor board has submitted to Vinson an outline of standards for "limits" for the most frequently granted of these "fringe" demands.

They include items, not directly touching on basic wage rates, such as shift differentials, vacations, intra-plant rate inequities, furnishing of work clothes and tools, and even "portal to portal" pay for traveling on company premises to the place of work, as in the case of coal miners.

The "Little Steel" formula holding general wage increases to 15 percent above the levels of January, 1941, operates as much the same sort of brake on base pay rises.

Davis said the "fringe" standards which the board has presented to Vinson were based on "past practice."

This recommendation was made by the board when the economic stabilizer had demanded that no further adjustments be announced by the board until it had first determined from the OPA that no price increase would be required for affected products.

The effect of this was to tie up every major case before the board, including those involving the major part of the textile and meat packing industries. The board balked at giving the OPA veto power over its decisions, contending that in effect employers, by showing that prices would have to go up to meet workers' demands, could block almost any wage adjustment.

Would Restore Relations

Acceptance of the board's "fringe" standards as a solution to the log-jam would restore the relations between Vinson and the board to something like the status existing in the steel case and prior to that decision, Nov. 25. It was that decision, embracing 14 "fringe" demands, which prompted Vinson to ask for stronger price strings on pay boosts.

Vinson would be able to reject wage adjustments requiring price increases, or he could approve them if he saw fit, but the board would not necessarily have to get OPA approval.

Early settlement of the stalemate would clear the way for disposing of whatever of John L. Lewis' "fringe" demands for the United Mine workers may be negotiated favorably. The present bituminous contract expires March 31.

Expeditious handling of these demands might cut down the risk of a work stoppage.

WARNS OF STRIKES' EFFECT AT FRONT

Patterson's Broadcast Directed To Detroit Workers

Washington, March 4 (AP)—Robert P. Patterson, Under Secretary of War, asserted today that if strikes continue "the paralysis which now grips part of Detroit's great arsenal will make its effects felt on the very field of battle."

In an address from here carried over a radio station at Detroit, Patterson said he was "heartened by the news that leaders of the local union involved in one of the present stoppages are urging an immediate return to work."

"Never—A Greater Need"

Asserting that "no man can stay idle with a clear conscience," the Under Secretary added:

"Let this be plain: There never has been a greater need for the products of the Detroit arsenal than there is today."

Allied forces are driving ahead in Germany, Patterson said, and "another great victory is in the making, like the victory we won last summer in France."

New Tank Being Built

While the German drive into Belgium was taking place last December, he continued, "no one thought of stopping work" but "now the news is better and at such a time the idea gets around that a work stoppage will do no great amount of harm."

As an example of what is being produced in the Michigan arsenal, Patterson said:

"One of the strongest weapons of the war—a new tank—is being built in Detroit. That tank is America's answer to the German Tiger. It is the most powerful tank we have ever built. Its wide tracks give it power and flotation in mud. It carries heavier fire power than any tank we have built before."

VANDENBERG SET TO ACCEPT PLACE AT PEACE PARLEY

Senator's Action on FDR Bid Expected Today or Tomorrow.

HE WINS 'FREE HAND'

Michigan Legislator Won't Be Bound by Any Prior Commitments.

By JACK BELL
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON, March 4—President Roosevelt has assured Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) of freedom of action at the world security conference and Vandenberg is expected to accept an invitation to become a delegate.

An authoritative source said today the President's assurances that there are no strings attached to services on the American delegation to the San Francisco meeting, were conveyed in a letter to the chairman of the Senate Republican Conference.

Vandenberg, who has declined comment, reportedly told friends he will make an announcement of his position early this week. That announcement is expected to signal his acceptance of a place on the United States delegation of eight.

The San Francisco meeting, beginning April 25, is intended to complete, and formally set up, the world peace machinery outlined in the Dumbarton Oaks conferences here.

May Speak In Senate

Vandenberg's statement may come in the form of comment by the 60-year old Michigan senator in the Senate. It may, however, be delayed until Tuesday because of scheduled adjournment tomorrow without the transaction of business due to the death Saturday of Senator Moses of North Dakota.

Representative Eaton (R-NJ) already has officially accepted the invitation to become a delegate. Commander Harold E. Stassen, another Republican chosen, also has said he will attend the conference.

Up to now Vandenberg has withheld any comment despite receipt of an official invitation from the President. Mr. Roosevelt said in it he was confident the eight chosen "would effectively contribute to the realization of the hopes and aspirations of the American people for an international organization through which the nation may play its full part in the maintenance of international peace and security."

Demands Free Hand

The Michigan senator is understood to have communicated to Administration leaders his desire to have assurances that he will have a free hand as a delegate and not be bound to support commitments about which he knows nothing. He is reported to have signified willingness to back the broad principles agreed upon in the Dumbarton Oaks conference.

Some congressional delegates to international conferences have complained in the past that they were expected to support a preconceived American plan. The Bretton Woods monetary meeting last year has been cited as such a case.

To Review Agreements

Vandenberg has made it a cardinal principle of his stand on international security matters that the United Nations organization which is expected to be formed at San Francisco shall have the right to review prior political agreements in subsequent years, in the light of their effect on the peace of the world.

In other words, he has told friends that while he expects a separate peace conference to settle such matters as boundary questions, he feels that the league should be empowered to recommend and enforce changes if those agreements threaten to breach the peace in later years.

President Roosevelt made it plain in his talk to Congress last week that the western boundary of Poland, for instance, will be fixed at the peace table. It apparently will not be a subject for immediate discussion by the international organization, once it comes into being.

Vandenberg's views on this and other international questions apparently have been recorded carefully at the State department, where much hope for Senate minority support of forthcoming treaties, is placed in the Michigan senator's leadership.

8-DAY STRIKE VOTED TO END

Chrysler Workers Decide After Pleas; 24,000 Idle

MAR 5 1945

Detroit, March 4 (AP)—Striking employés of Chrysler Corporation, ordered by the National War Labor Board to return to work, voted tonight to terminate an eight-day strike which has paralyzed war production in six plants and kept more than 24,000 workers away from their jobs.

Chrysler strikers, whose work stoppage was one of two major Detroit-area strikes which have halted war-equipment output in thirteen plants and immobilized nearly 37,000 employés, agreed to return to their benches tomorrow morning.

The other strike involved more than 11,000 Briggs Manufacturing Company workers.

Vote Followed Pleas

Chrysler spokesmen said previously that plants would begin producing within a few hours following a work resumption by employés.

The return-to-work vote, taken at a meeting of Local 3, United Automobile Workers (CIO), followed pleas for conclusion of the strike by union officials.

Mike Novak, Local 3 president, who previously insisted that the workers not return to their jobs until Chrysler management reinstated eight discharged employés, fulfilled his promise to the National WLB that he would "do everything within my power" to get the workers back on their jobs.

The return-to-work vote was described by unionists as "overwhelming." The few strikers who voted to reject the proposal to end the work stoppage were booed by other unionists.

A union spokesman said that a meeting has been arranged for 2 P.M. tomorrow between representatives of management, the local and the international union.

On strike in Chrysler and Briggs Manufacturing Company plants, where production of tanks, trucks and B-29 assemblies has been halted, were 29,884 employés, including 18,734 in Chrysler's main Dodge and De Soto plants and 11,150 in seven Briggs plants. In addition, 5,750 workers in four other Chrysler plants were laid off because of lack of parts.

Meet After WLB Session

Tonight's meeting was called following a National War Labor Board hearing at Washington Saturday at which union and Chrysler officials agreed there would be no company reprisals against employés if they returned to work; that grievance procedure would be used to determine whether eight men, whose discharge in a dispute over production rates caused the strike, would be taken back; and that production rate requirements would be arbitrated.

The Briggs walkout started last Tuesday after the company discharged seven minor union officials, accusing them of fomenting previous strikes. Eight more employés have been fired for inciting the current walkout, company spokesmen reported.

Stops Off in San Diego on Way to Report to President

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 4 (AP), —Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal has arrived in the United States from his Pacific war zones trip which took him to the shores of embattled Iwo Jima.

The Navy Secretary, en route to report to the President, arrived in San Diego yesterday and conferred with flag officers and inspected major naval developments here. At the Naval Hospital he visited with sailors and marines wounded in action in the Pacific and gave them first hand news of latest victories.

"Your buddies in the 4th Marine Division are doing a great job," he told Jimmie R. Burton, pharmacist's mate 3/c, from Chattanooga, Tenn., in a greeting which typified the words he spoke to the wounded fighting men.

NEGRO BATTALION ENDS HUNGER STRIKE

LOS ANGELES, March 4—(AP) The two-day hunger strike of a negro navy construction battalion at Port Hueneme, near Oxnard, Calif., ended today when the men reported for breakfast, Naval officials said.

The Navy public relations office here reported that no known change had occurred in the conditions of which the men complained, but added that "apparently they just got good and hungry."

The number affected was estimated at approximately 1,000 men by Norman O. Houston, member of the Los Angeles directorate, National Assocation for the Advancement of Colored People.

Houston said practically the entire personnel of the 34th construction battalion, veterans of 21 months' service in the South Pacific, participated. Their complaint, he declared, was against the alleged addition of white enlisted men to the battalion for ultimate rating as chief petty officers, whereas the negroes feel entitled to these ratings because of their experience overseas.

Bridgeporter Tells of Turning From Camera to Shoot Down Jap

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 4—(AP) Finding work as a clerk with a Netherlands East Indies bombardment group too prosaic, Staff Sergeant Elias Mirsky, of 513 Lindley street, Bridgeport, Conn., sought action as a flying photographer-gunner. This proved to be the sergeant's true element. Within eight months he was cited twice and shot down a Jap plane while completing 37 long range bombing missions. His final job was to obtain valuable photos used by the Philippine invasion forces on Cebu and Leyte.

"I transferred to flying status in time to make the first daylight raids on the Balikapapan oil fields in Borneo, which is still the longest flight made by a Liberator type bomber," the sergeant pointed out at the A.A.F. Redistribution Station No. 1, "and after that I made the trip again. For these two out of three daylight missions on those fields I was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross."

Sgt. Mirsky was awarded a cluster to the Air Medal when he was forced to abandon his camera for his guns to shoot down an attacking Zero.

"That also happened over Balikapapan. We were flying at 12,500 feet when the Jap came up underneath. I saw him in my camera and by the time I swung my guns into action he had come within 100 yards of the Liberator.

"I blew off part of his right wing then he started to spin and burst into flame," said the returnee. "Although I got a Zero and an Air Medal cluster on this mission I failed to get a picture. All of them I snapped were blacked out by the ack-ack fire. All that showed up on the prints were large black flak puffs."

The sergeant wears four oak leaf clusters on his air medal and also has the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with seven campaign stars. He spent 23 months in the southwest Pacific before returning for reassignment.

"I don't know where I'll be going from here, but I do know that I'll be in excellent condition. Every detail of this set-up is contributing toward putting me in top form," said the sergeant.

The photo-gunner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mirsky, of Bridgeport. He entered the service on May 19, 1939 and was sent overseas in February, 1943.

LEWIS ACCUSED OF STRIKE PLOT AGAINST NATION

New York CIO Calls On Roosevelt To Take Over Coal Mines

New York, March 4 (AP)—Declaring that John L. Lewis was formulating a "strike plot against the nation," representatives of 600,000 CIO workers called upon President Roosevelt today to proclaim a national emergency, "and take over the (coal) mines of America."

At a conference on "political action for 60,000,000 jobs," sponsored by the greater New York CIO Council, 1,800 shop stewards asserted in a resolution that an interruption of coal mining at this point of the war "cannot and must not be tolerated."

Seizure Of Mines Urged

The grievances of the United Mine Workers "like those of other workers are real" but their solution "cannot be achieved by disarming our fighting forces of the weapons of victory," the resolution said, adding:

"We, therefore, call upon President Roosevelt to invoke his wartime powers as Commander in Chief to declare a national emergency before this plot can be gotten under way and to take over the mines of America in order to guarantee a continuous flow of coal for the winning of the war.

"The CIO in New York declares that a strike, in the mind of America, is a weapon made in Germany to stab our fighting men in the back while they and our Allies are mounting the final offensive to crush fascism in its German lair."

Parley To Be Private

Lewis and the bituminous operators, negotiating for a new contract concluded hearings in Washington yesterday and decided to argue further in private. Chief among Lewis's eighteen demands was one for a royalty of 10 cents a ton.

The conference also called upon the President for revision of the Little Steel formula to establish minimum wages of 72 cents an hour, requested conferences between Government, labor and industry to effect voluntary agreements on wage classifications in the white-collar service and professional field, and asked the appointment of a Government, industry and labor group to devise "a broadened wage policy" for the postwar reconversion period.

Lee Pressman, general counsel for the CIO, told the conference the War Labor Board was "not keeping good faith with the workers on the home front and the soldiers" in its decision refusing to modify the Little Steel formula.

Would Strengthen WLB

Pressman said that after V-E Day approximately $16,000,000,000 in wages would be lost through reduction in working hours and other adjustments, adding that the WLB had mentioned wage rates would be increased then.

"We maintain," he said, "that it is sheer lunacy to talk about increasing rates in a time of unemployment."

Pressman added, however, "We should aim to strengthen the WLB," rather than destroy it.

At Washington, Lewis, informed of the action taken at New York, said he had no comment.

London - Mar. 4 - (AP) - xxx labor scheme

MAR 5 1945

AS THE STRIKE SPREAD IT BECAME EVIDENT THAT THE ORIGINAL GRIEVANCE HAD BEEN BROADENED TO INCLUDE NUMEROUS ASPECTS OF THE ENTIRE DOCK LABOR SCHEME. THE MEN'S GRIEVANCES ARE WITH THE NATIONAL DOCK LABOR CORPORATION, A BODY SET UP BY THE MINISTRY OF LABOR TO DEAL WITH WORKING CONDITIONS IN THE PORT.

HIGH AMONG THE GRIEVANCES IS THE "CONTINUITY SYSTEM" UNDER WHICH A DOCK LABOR POOL CAN DIRECT A MAN TO ANY JOB REGARDLESS OF THE LABOR CLASSIFICATION OR THE UNION [redacted] TO WHICH HE BELONGS.

OTHER ISSUES CONCERN PAY RATES, ESPECIALLY PIECE RATES WHICH DOCK WORKERS SAY IN SOME INSTANCES DATE BACK BEFORE 1914, WORKING CONDITIONS

GENERALLY AND AN ALLEGATION BY THE DOCK WORKERS THAT ABSENTEES WERE BEING TREATED TOO SEVERELY.

"THE PUBLIC SHOULD REALIZE THAT THE DOCKERS ARE PHYSICALLY TIRED,' SAID ARTHUR DEAKIN, GENERAL SECRETARY OF THE TRANSPORT UNION. "THEY HAVE WORKED SEVEN DAYS A WEEK WITH OVERTIME AS WELL, AND WHEN MEN ARE OVERSTRAINED INCIDENTS LIKE THIS ARE LIABLE TO HAPPEN."

ANOTHER IMPORTANT STRONGHOLD TAKEN IN [redacted] ZHUKOV'S THRUST TO THE BALTIC WAS DABER, 33 MILES NORTHEAST OF STETTIN. THIS PUT THE RUSSIANS 20 MILES WEST OF GOLLNOW, A 10-WAY JUNCTION TOWN CONTROLLING ALL NORTH-SOUTH COMMUNICATIONS OF THE GERMAN FORCES NOW FIGHTING WITH THEIR BACKS TO THE [redacted] WATERWAY SYSTEM BETWEEN STETTIN AND SWINEMUENDE.

MOSCOW DID NOT DISCLOSE HOW CLOSE ZHUKOV'S TROOPS WERE TO KOLBERG, NOR THE EXACT POINT AT WHICH THEY REACHED THE BALTIC COAST. IN ADDITION TO THE MAJOR STRONGHOLDS TAKEN THE COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED THE CAPTURE OF THESE OTHER POINTS:

MANY OTHER LOCALITIES, INCLUDING SCHOENWALDE, 16 MILES SOUTHEAST OF GOLLNOW, AND LECKOW, FIVE MILES NORTHWEST OF SCHIVELBEIN.

MAR 5 1945

ROKOSSOVSKY'S TROOPS TO THE EAST CAPTURED 50 MORE LOCALITIES DURING THE DAY, AND HIS MEN WERE CREDITED WITH FIRST SEVERANCE OF EASTERN AND WESTERN POMERANIA. AMONG THE POINTS ON AN ARC BELOW FALLEN KOLBLIN WERE: NAMED AS CAPTURED GRUENWALDE, SEVEN MILES SOUTHEAST OF GROSS-TYCHOW, THE PRISON CAMP SITE; GRAMPE, 10 MILES NORTHWEST OF BUBLITZ; VELLIN, 14 SOUTH OF SCHLAWE; PRITZIG, 25 MILES SOUTH OF STOLP; AND REINWASSER, EIGHT MILES EASTX OF RUMMELSBURG.

THE SECOND WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY'S EASTERN WING ALSO GAINED UP TO 12 MILES IN A NEW OFFENSIVE BETWEEN OMERANIA AND THE LOWER VISTULA RIVER. ATTACKING ON A 35-MILE FRONT THEY TOOK THE FIVE-WAY JUNCTION TOWN OF SKOROZ AND PUSHED ON THROUGH BOBOWO, 30 MILES SOUTH OF DANZIG CITY AND ONLY SIX MILES FROM STARGARD, A 10-WAY JUNCTION ON THE BERLIN-DANZIG RAILWAY.

THIS FIGHTING ADVANCE WAS MADE 27 MILES NORTHWEST OF THE ENCIRCLED VISTULA RIVER STRONGHOLD OF GRUDZIADZ, WHOSE NAZI GARRISON APPEARED ABOUT TO BE OVERWHELMED.

MAR 5 1945

TO THE WEST THE RUSSIANS TOOK ODRI AND LUBNIA, 41 AND 48 MILES SOUTHWEST OF DANZIG AS THEY BIT DEEPER INTO THE BIG POCKET WHICH THE WESTERN FORCES OF ZHUKOV AND ROKOSSOVSKY HAD CREATED WITH THEIR BALTIC BREAKTHROUGH.

PARIS MAR 4— [illegible] ARE CONSIDERABLE

GEN. EISENHOWER'S OFFENSIVE HAD ROLLED TO THE RHINE'S WEST BANK IN SUCH STRENGTH FOR MOST OF ITS 75 MILES FROM NIJMEGEN TO DUESSELDORF THAT ANTITANK GUNS WERE BLASTING GERMAN PILLBOXES ON THE EAST BANK WHILE HEAVY ARTILLERY SHELLED THE WAR FACTORIES IN THE RUHR.

THE FIRST ARMY WAS LIKEWISE STRIKING FOR BONN, FORGING ACROSS THE ERFT RIVER AT TWO POINTS 10 AND 11 MILES FROM THAT COMMUNICATIONS CITY LYING 15 MILES SOUTH OF COLOGNE ON THE RHINE.

A40

THE U.S. THIRD ARMY ON THE SOUTH DROVE ACROSS THE KYLL RIVER, LAST BIG WATER HURDLE BEFORE THE RHINE, AND ENTERED HOSTEN, EIGHT MILES NORTH OF TRIER AND 45 MILES FROM COBLENZ. OTHER FORCES FIGHTING NORTHEAST OF PRUEM WERE 40 MILES FROM THE RHINE.

THE GERMANS WERE FALLING BACK TO COLOGNE'S INNER DEFENSES BEFORE LT. GEN. COURTNEY H.HODGES' FIRST ARMY, AND RESISTANCE APPEARED TO BE CRUMBLING, JUDGING FROM REPORTS OF GAINS OF SIX MILES OR SO ALL ALONG THE FRONT.

THE EXACT POINT WHERE THE THIRD ARMORED DIVISION REACHED THE RHINE WAS NOT DISCLOSED, BUT PRESUMABLY IT WAS ABOUT SIX MILES NORTH OF COLOGNE WHERE TANKS WERE IN ACTION AND OVERRUNNING SEVERAL TOWNS IN THAT VICINITY.

MAR 5 1945

THE GERMANS DEPLOYED BETWEEN COLOGNE AND DUESSELDORF WERE THUS CUT IN TWO, AND FORCES ON THE NORTH WERE HEMMED INTO THE FLATLANDS ON THE WEST BANK OF THE RHINE 11 MILES DEEP AND FROM FIVE TO NINE MILES WIDE, WITH NO BRIDGES OVER WHICH TO ESCAPE.

MAJ. GEN. TERRY ALLEN'S 104TH INFANTRY DIVISION WAS CLOSEST TO COLOGNE. AFTER SEIZING KOENIGSDORF IN A NIGHT ASSAULT, THESE HARD-HITTING TROOPS BATTLED INTO WIDDERSDORF, TWO MILES FROM THE CITY'S WESTERN OUTSKIRTS.

BUT THE EIGHTH INFANTRY WAS ONLY TWO AND A HALF MILES WEST OF THE CITY AFTER SEIZING FRECHEN.

IN ALL, 19 RHINELAND VILLAGES FELL TO NIGHT ATTACKS AND FIVE MORE WERE CAPTURED DURING THE AFTERNOON.

A SIEGE ARC WAS DRAWN UP FROM A POINT SIX MILES NORTH OF COLOGNE TO A POINT TWO AND A HALF MILEES WEST OF THE CITY, AND ALONG THIS ARC FIVE OTHER TOWNS FROM THREE AND A HALF TO FIVE MILES FROM THE OUTSKIRTS WERE CAPTURED.

ON THE NORTH FLANK, ONE COLUMN WAS DIGGING STRAIGHT INTO THE GERMANS CAUGHT BETWEEN THE RHINE AND THE ERFT RIVER SOUTH OF DUESSELDORF. IN THIS DRIVE THE AMERICANS CAPTURED RAMRATH, SIX MILES SOUTH OF THE CONFLUENCE OF THE ERFT AND RHINE.

THE ATTACK WAS ROLLING ALL ALONG THE FRONT. ON THE SOUTH, THE FIRST ARMY CROSSED THE ERFT AND CAPTURED WEILERSWIST, A SCANT 10 MILES FROM BONN, AND DERKUM, ALSO ACROSS THE ERFT FIVA MILES FARTHER SOUTH.

TWENTY MILES TO THE SOUTHWEST, THE AMERICANS CAPTURED SCHLEIDEN,

A SIEGFRIED LINE STRONGPOINT WHICH HELD UP THE FIRST ARMY ADVANCE IN THE CAMPAIGN FOR CONTROL OF THE ROER RIVER DAMS PRECEDING THE CURRENT OFFENSIVE.

OTHER FORCES FOUGHT THEIR WAY INTO GEMUEND AFTER FIGHTING SIX MILES THROUGH PILLBOX-STUDDED GEMUEND FOREST.

A MISTY RAIN, TURNING TO SNOW AND SLEET, DESCENDED UPON THE ENTIRE BATTLEFIELD, SPARING THE GERMANS AN AERIAL SCOURGING.

LT. GEN. WILLIAM H.SIMPSON SENT HIS COLUMNS STRIKING AT THE GERMAN RHINE POCKET LIKE A SUCCESSION OF THUNDERBOLTS--THE SAME TACTICS THAT HAVE KILLED, WOUNDED OR CAPTURED 45,000 GERMANS SINCE THE OFFENSIVE BEGAN NINE DAYS AGO.

THE 84TH INFANTRY DIVISION FOUGHT INTO HOMBERG, WHERE ONE BRIDGE LEADS INTO DUISBERG.

MAR 5 1945

ONE FORCE DRIVING FROM THE WEST, DESTROYED AN ENTIRE GERMAN COLUMN AND TOOK 1,000 PRISONERS.

ONE COLUMN CUT NORTH OF HOMBERG AND REACHED THE RHINE IN AN ATTEMPT TO SEIZE A RAIILROAD BRIDGE.

THE GERMANS STILL FOUGHT TO HOLD THE PIVOTAL TOWN OF MOERS, FOUR MILES EAST OF HOMBERG, BUT THE 35TH INFANTRY DIVISION NULLIFIED THIS STAND BY CIRCLING FOUR MILES TO THE NORTHWEST INTO LINTFORT, WHERE IT WAS BUT FOUR MILES FROM ANOTHER BRIDGE AT RHEINBERG.

FIELD MARSHAL KARL VON RUNDSTEDT THREW IN MOTLEY BATTLE GROUPS OF ALL TYPES IN AN ATTEMPT TO PROTECT THE RETREAT OF THOUSANDS OF HIS CRACK PARACHUTE TROOPS, A FIELD DISPATCH SAID.

THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMY ON THE NORTH CAUGHT THE FULL FURY OF THIS DESPERATE STAND AND WAS CHECKED BEFORE XANTEN, THE HINGE WHICH THE GERMANS ARE USING TO PROTECT THE APPROACHES TO TWO OTHER ESCAPE BRIDGES AT WESEL.

FARTHER WEST, WHERE THE CANADIAN AND AMERICAN FORCES JOINED YESTERDAY, PROGRESS WAS SLOWED ONLY BY MINES AND DEMOLITIONS, AND IN THE LINK-UP AREA OF GELDERN ALL CONTACT WITH THE ENEMY WAS LOST.

AMONG THE TOWNS CAPTURED BY THE BRITISH AS THEY JOINED THE AMERICANS IN THE PUSH EAST AGAINST THE RHINE BOX WAS KAPPELEN, FOUR MILES NORTHEAST OF GELDERN.

MOST OF THE HOCHWALD, A FIR FOREST WHICH WAS MADE A STRONGPOINT OF THE GERMAN DEFENSES, WAS CLEARED.

WEST OF THE LINE OF JUNCTION, ALONG THE MAAS, BRITISH TROOPS ENTERED A NUMBER OF TOWNS UNOPPOSED.

MAR 5 1945

LT. GEN. GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY, FIGHTING ALONG THE HARD ROAD TO THE RHINE, DROVE EASTWARD TWO AND A HALF MILES ALONG ITS MOUNTAINOUS 45-MILE FRONT, CAPTURING NINE MORE GERMAN TOWNS AND ENTERING TWO OTHERS.

THE 76TH DIVISION QUICKLY CONSOLIDATED ITS KYLL RIVER BRIDGEHEAD NORTH OF TRIER IN UNFAVORABLE WEATHER.

THE ARMY WAS ADVANCING ALL THE WAY FROM NORTHEAST OF PRUEM TO SAARBURG, IRONING OUT TWO ENEMY SALIENTS. ONE WAS IN THE FOURTH DIVISION'S PRUEM SECTOR AND THE OTHER WAS IN THE 80TH DIVISION'S SECTOR FARTHER SOUTH.

THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY IN NORTHERN FRANCE ATTACKED AGAINST BRISK RESISTANCE AT FORBACH, FRENCH CITY AT THE GATEWAY TO THE SAAR BASIN, AND IN THE AREA OF BUBINGEN, SIX MILES EAST INSIDE THE BASIN.

A RECAPITULATION SHOWED THE U.S. FIRST AND NINTH AND THE CANADIAN FIRST ARMIES HAD TAKEN A TOTAL OF 52,000 PRISONERS SINCE THE OPENING OF THE CURRENT OFFENSIVE.

WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARMY BEFORE COLOGNE, MARCH 4-(AP)-THE CITY OF COLOGNE, SPRAWLING AHEAD BEHIND THE BLUE-GRAY FOG WHICH HUGS THE GROUND, IS OURS WHEN WE WANT IT.

THIS WAS APPARENT--BEYOND A SHADOW OF A DOUBT--AS DIVISION AFTER DIVISION DREW UP ON THE APPROACHES TO THE BOMB WRACKED METROPOLIS.

THE CIVILIANS IN COLOGNE'S LITTLE SUBURBS WAITED PATIENTLY IN CELLARS, BASEMENTS AND SHELTERS UNTIL AMERICAN TANKS, JEEPS AND BULLDOZERS BEGAN TO RUMBLE THROUGH. THEN THEY WOULD CRAWL OVER THE RUBBLE WITH BABIES AND BUNDLES AND GIVE UP.

VOLKSSTURMERS, WHO A FEW WEEKS AGO WERE CIVILIANS THEMSELVES, SURRENDERED IN THE SAME DAY--ONLY THEY WOULD GO THROUGH THE MOTIONS OF WAITING FOR A SHOT TO BE FIRED IN THEIR DIRECTION FIRST. THEN IT WAS ALL OVER FOR THEM.

"IT IS RIDICULOUS TO THINK THAT WE COULD STOP THE AMERICANS IF THE REGULAR ARMY COULDN'T," SAID A SPOKESMAN FOR SOME NEWLY-SURRENDERED GERMAN HOME GUARDS THIS AFTERNOON.

"A VERY SENSIBLE POINT OF VIEW," REPLIED LT.COL.A.D.BAER OF URBANA, ILL., AS HE HANDED THE WET AND BEDRAGGLED PRISONERS OVER TO MP'S TO BE TAKEN BACK TO STOCKADES.

THE GERMAN ARMY ITSELF IS BACK-TRACKING SO FAST THAT MANY OF THE TRENCHES WHICH COMMUNITY DIGGERS PROVIDED HAD NOT BEEN USED.

MANY GERMAN REAR POSITIONS ARE BEING OVERRUN. IN STOMMELN, TASK FORCE "R" OF THE THIRD ARMORED DIVISION, LED BY LT.COL. WALTER RICHARDSON OF BEAUMONT, TEXAS, SEIZED A TRACTOR-DRAWN, FOUR-GUN ARTILLERY BATTERY AND ALL ITS GUN CREWS.

THE AMERICANS HAVE BEEN ABLE TO MAINTAIN THEIR RAPID PACE BY LEAP-FROGGING THEIR BATTALIONS, SO THAT EACH GETS SOME REST. THIS DIDN'T WORK IN ONE CASE, HOWEVER.

POINTING AT A MAP WITH A BAYONET, ONE COMMANDER INDICATED A NEWLY-CAPTURED TOWN TWO MILES FROM COLOGNE AND SAID, "WE HAD PLANNED TO LET ANOTHER OUTFIT COME IN AND TAKE OVER THAT JOB, BUT THE FELLOWS ALREADY THERE WOULDN'T HEAR TO IT; THEY WANT TO GET INTO COLOGNE, SO WE DIDN'T HAVE THE HEART TO TAKE THEM OUT OF THE LINE."

THAT IS THE PICTURE TONIGHT AS NEEDLES OF RAIN PRICK THE MUD-BROWN FACES OF TRUCK DRIVERS HAULING UP ENDLESS LOADS OF AMMUNITION, GASOLINE, WIRE AND BRIDGING EQUIPMENT TO KEEP THE ADVANCE GOING.

OCCASIONALLY THERE IS A SLOW-MOVING AMBULANCE, CAUTIOUSLY EDGING OUT TO THE MUDDY SHOULDERS OF THE NARROW SLAB OF PAVEMENT AND EASING IN AND OUT OF MUD-HOLES ENROUTE TO A HOSPITAL. BUT AMBULANCES ARE NOT NEARLY AS NUMEROUS AS MIGHT BE EXPECTED. THE AMERICANS' NEW NIGHT BLITZ TACTICS ARE PAYING OFF IN LIGHT CASUALTIES AS WELL AS IN BIG BAGS OF SLEEPY GERMAN PRISONERS AND LOTS OF GROUND GAINED.

OUTSIDE NOMBERG, GERMANY, MARCH 4-(AP)-EIGHTY-FOURTH DIVISION DOUGHBOYS RODE THEIR TRUCKS AND TANKS TODAY TO THE OUTSKIRTS OF NOMBERG, 35 AIRLINE MILES FROM WHERE THEY JUMPED ACROSS THE ROER RIVER NINE DAYS AGO.
WHILE THE 334TH REGIMENT ROARED INTO THE ANCIENT GERMAN MANUFACTURING CITY OF 30,000 POPULATION ANOTHER REGIMENT FROM THE NINTH ARMY'S "RAIL SPLITTING" DIVISION VEERED OFF TO THE NORTH AND REACHED THE RHINE, FIGHTING ON THE APPROACHES OF A RAILROAD BRIDGE.
TRAFFIC STILL WAS GOING OVER TWO RAILROAD BRIDGES ACROSS THE RIVER, ABOUT 400 YARDS WIDE HERE, WHEN THE SECOND BATTALION, COMMANDED BY CAPT. CHARLES HIATT OF SWAYZEE, IND., STARTED INTO TOWN. A DRIZZLY RAIN INCREASED IN TEMPO AND PLINKED ON THE SOLDIERS' HELMETS AS THEY SHOVED OFF ON THE LAST LAP TO THE RHINE.
THE COLUMN HAD BEEN UNDER MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE ALL DAY SINCE SHOVING OFF NORTH OF KREFELD THIS MORNING AND NOMBERG WAS NO BETTER, BUT EVERYONE SEEMED TO FEEL THAT THEY WOULD CAPTURE THE CITY SOMETIME TONIGHT OR EARLY IN THE MORNING.
THE 334TH REGIMENT IS THE NUCLEUS OF OLD "TASK FORCE CHURCH," COMMANDED BY BRIG.GEN.JOHN CHURCH, ASSISTANT DIVISION COMMANDER OF 17 EAST PATRICK STREET, FREDERICK, MD. IT LOADED UP ITS TRUCKS WITH FOOD, AMMUNITION AND SOLDIERS AND RACED 12 MILES THE FIRST DAY. THE BOYS ARE TIRED NOW BUT THEY STILL ARE PUSHING ON.

OUTSIDE NOMBERG, GERMANY, MARCH 4-(AP)-A COMPANY OF FASTMOVING DOUGHBOYS WHICH BROKE THROUGH GERMAN DEFENSES TO THE RHINE ON THE NORTH SIDE OF NOMBERG EARLY THIS AFTERNOON CLAIMED FOR THE 84TH DIVISION THE HONOR OF BEING THE FIRST DIVISION OF THE 13TH CORPS TO REACH THE RIVER.

MAR 5 1945

THE RAILSPLITTER DIVISION TRAVELED FARTHER THAN ANY OTHER OUTFIT TO REACH THE RHINE. WHEN ITS DOUGHBOYS RODE THEIR TANKS AND TRUCKS INTO THE OUTSKIRTS OF NOMBERG TODAY, THEY WERE 35 AIRLINE MILES FROM THE POINT AT WHICH THEY BEGAN THEIR ATTACK ACROSS THE ROER RIVER NINE DAYS AGO, BUT WHEELING OPERATIONS HAD CARRIED THEM A MUCH LONGER DISTANCE.

COMPANY E OF THE 334TH REGIMENT REACHED THE RHINE GOAL WHEN CAPT. WILLIAM P. THOMPSON, CARROLTON, KY., PULLED HIS HARD-MARCHING DOUGHBOYS PAST MEERBECK AND HIT THE RIVER'S WEST BANK JUST SOUTH OF THE RAILROAD BRIDGE LEADING TO DUISBERG.

COL. HUGH E. PARKER'S 335TH INFANTRY REGIMENT JUMPED OFF NORTH OF KREFELD THIS MORNING AND HIT OPPOSITION AT ROER, ABOUT TWO MILES WEST OF NOMBERG, AN ANCIENT GERMAN MANUFACTURING CITY OF 30,000 POPULATION.

THE GERMANS, DUG IN WITH BAZOOKAS, ANTI-TANK GUNS AND ARTILLERY AND WITH TANKS IN RESERVE, HIT PARKER'S COLUMN WITH THREE COUNTERATTACKS. THE 771ST TANK BATTALION ROLLED INTO THE THICK OF THE FIGHT AND EVENTUALLY OVERCAME THE HEAVIER GUNS THE GERMANS WERE USING.

MAR 5 1945

FROM THAT POINT, LT. COL. BIDSEY L. LERMAN, 1720 WELLESLEY DRIVE, SANTA MONICA, CALIF., PUT THE SECOND BATTALION IN THE LEAD AND IT REMAINED THERE ALL THE WAY TO THE RHINE.

TRAFFIC STILL WAS MOVING OVER THE TWO RAILROAD BRIDGES ACROSS THE RIVER, [illegible] 200 YARDS WIDE AT NOMBERG, WHEN THE SECOND BATTALION OF THE 334TH, COMMANDED BY CAPT. CHARLES HIATT OF SWAYZEE, IND., STARTED INTO THE TOWN. A DRIZZLY RAIN INCREASED IN TEMPO AND PLINKED ON THE SOLIDERS' HELMETS AS THEY SHOV

VENLO, HOLLAND, MARCH 4-(AP)-THIS FORGOTTEN DUTCH CITY TODAY IS THE MOST NEWS-HUNGRY AND DELIRIOUSLY HAPPY COMMUNITY IN EUROPE.

VENLO WAS FREED THREE DAYS AGO BY THE 35TH INFANTRY DIVISION, BUT STILL IS SUFFERING FROM A CELEBRATION HANGOVER.

THE WELCOME GIVEN THE DOUGHBOYS OF THE 35TH WAS THE MOST TUMULTUOUS EVER GIVEN AN AMERICAN FORCE BY A LIBERATED CITY, ACCORDING TO THE OFFICERS AND MEN OF THIS DIVISION--AND THEY HAVE FOUGHT ACROSS FRANCE FROM ST.LO TO NANCY AND HAVE KNOWN HOW LIBERATED CITIES REACT.

"EVERYBODY IN THE TOWN WAS WEARING ORANGE CAPS OR CARRYING ORANGE FLAGS AND THEY JUST SORT OF WENT CRAZY WHEN WE ENTERED," ONE OFFICER SAID. "THEY YELLED AND HELD UP FIVE FINGERS, INDICATING THE GERMANS HAD BEEN ON THEIR BACKS FOR FIVE YEARS."

SEVENTY PER CENT OF THE ONCE TIDY CITY HAS BEEN DESTROYED. ONLY 14,000 OF ITS CUSTOMARY 60,000 POPULATION REMAIN.

FOR TWO YEARS, VENLO HAS BEEN WITHOUT NEWSPAPERS. UNDER SEIGE, ITS ELECTRICITY WAS KNOCKED OUT AND RADIOS WERE USELESS. ALTHOUGH IN THE VERY FRONT OF THE FIGHTING, IT HAS HAD LITTLE IDEA OF WHAT HAS BEEN GOING ON.

THE AMERICANS BROUGHT IN NINE TRUCKLOADS OF FOOD WITH THEM, SO THERE WAS ENOUGH TO EAT EVEN THOUGH NEARLY EVERYTHING ELSE WAS LACKING FOR COMFORTABLE LIVING.

BOTH ROERMOND AND VENLO SUFFERED HEAVILY IN THE FIGHTING. IN CONTRAST, THE QUICK FLIGHT OF THE GERMANS LEFT GERMAN TOWNS JUST ACROSS THE BORDER UNTOUCHED. THIS HAS CAUSED SOME TROUBLE BECAUSE THE DUTCH HAVE BEEN GOING ACROSS THE BORDER TO TRY TO RECOVER SOME OF THE THINGS STOLEN FROM THEM BY THE NAZIS.

GERMAN HOUSES ARE WELL STOCKED WITH FOOD. EACH HOME HAS ITS PRIVATE HOARD AND THE WOMEN HAVE CLOTHES BEARING LABELS FROM EVERY COUNTRY IN EUROPE.

AMERICAN MILITARY AUTHORITIES ESTIMATE THAT AT LEAST 70 PER CENT OF THE GERMANS BEING OVERRUN HAVE BEEN OR ARE NAZI PARTY MEMBERS. THERE ARE SO MANY THAT THE AMERICANS WOULD HAVE TROUBLE FINDING AND IMPRISONING ALL OF THEM.

THE NINTH ARMY HAS OVERRUN AT LEAST HALF A MILLION CIVILIANS IN THE PAST 10 DAYS. HOW THIS VAST NUMBER IS GOING TO BE SCREENED TO ELIMINATE SPIES AND NAZIS AND OTHER UNDESIRABLES IS PRESENTING A TREMENDOUS PROBLEM.

THUS FAR, THE GERMAN POPULATION HAS BEEN REMARKABLY DOCILE, BUT HOW MANY SPIES ARE HIDING AMONG CIVILIANS NO ONE CAN SAY. IT IS SIGNIFICANT THAT NAZI PARTY RECORDS HAVE BEEN REMOVED FROM ALMOST EVERY TOWN IN GERMANY THAT HAS BEEN CAPTURED SO FAR.

STOCKHOLM, MARCH 4-(AP)-TENS OF THOUSANDS OF GERMANS, KILLED IN THE LAST MASSIVE ALLIED AIR STRIKE AGAINST DRESDEN, WERE BURIED UNIDENTIFIED, A BERLIN CORRESPONDENT OF THE SWEDISH NEWSPAPER DAS REICH DAGENS NYHETER REPORTED TODAY.

THE CASUALTIES WERE SAID TO HAVE BEEN THE GREATEST EVER FOR AN ATTACK ON A CITY OF DRESDEN'S SIZE--ABOUT 625,000 BEFORE THE WAR.

"MANY DIED FROM A LACK OF OXYGEN CREATED BY TREMENDOUS FIRES SET BY BOMBS AND INCENDIARIES," THE NEWSPAPER SAID.

Renuart was described as a highly successful agent of the German secret service "who, with his mistress, penentrated resistance organizations during three and one half years and delivered patriots and escaped Allied prisoners of war into German hands. Even after the Germans were driven out of Belgium Renuart wirelessed military information to them through a secret transmitter."

BERN, MARCH 4-(AP)-FOREIGN PLANES BOMBED THE SUBURBS OF ZURICH, SWITZERLAND'S BIGGEST CITY, AND BASEL AT THE FRONTIER TODAY. AMERICAN BOMBERS ATTACKED IN NEARBY SOUTHWEST GERMANY TODAY.

TWENTY-FIVE BOMB CRATERS WERE COUNTED IN THE BASEL FREIGHT YARDS, WAREHOUSES WERE WRECKED, AND A CRASHING BOMBER STARTED NUMEROUS FIRES.

A NUMBER OF PERSONS WERE INJURED IN BASEL AND IN ZURICH, WHERE THE SUBURBAN AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL WAS WRECKED.

14TH CORPS COMMAND POST, MANILA, MARCH 4-(AP)-JAPANESE RESISTANCE IN DOWNTOWN MANILA ENDED LAST NIGHT AS TROOPS OF THE 37TH U.S. ARMY DIVISION CLEANED OUT THE LAST OF THE NIPPONESE FROM THE FINANCE BUILDING.

THE FINAL CLEANUP CAME ONE MONTH TO THE DAY AFTER THE FIRST YANK DOUGHBOYS ENTERED MANILA, A MONTH IN WHICH THE METROPOLIS WAS ALMOST DESTROYED AND THE BITTEREST OF THE PACIFIC WAR'S CITY FIGHTING TOOK PLACE.

BATTLING CONTINUED ALL ALONG THE SHIMBU LINE NORTHEAST OF MANILA, BUT THE JAPANESE TRIED ONLY ONE COUNTER ATTACK YESTERDAY NEAR MOUNT PACAWAGAN. COMPANY F OF THE 63D REGIMENT BEAT OFF A BANZAI CHARGE, KILLING 29 JAPANESE, INCLUDING TWO CAPTAINS AND THREE SECOND LIEUTENANTS.

MAR 5 1945

DETE PETTERSON, OF MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., A PLATOON SERGEANT OF THE 63D REGIMENT, CAUGHT BEHIND ENEMY LINES FOR FIVE DAYS WITHOUT FOOD, MADE HIS WAY SAFELY INTO THE AMERICAN LINES LAST NIGHT. HE SAID ALL THE HIGH GROUND CONTAINED JAPANESE DEFENSES.

ON BATAAN 41 JAPANESE WERE KILLED AND ONE CAPTURED IN A SERIES OF PATROL ACTIONS. SCATTERED ELEMENTS OF NIPPONESE REMAINING ON CORREGIDOR ARE BEING CLEANED UP.

U.S. 21ST BOMBER COMMAND, GUAM, MONDAY, MARCH 5-(AP)-THE FIRST B-29 LANDED ON THE SOUTHERN AIRFIELD OF EMBATTLED LITTLE IWO JIMA SUNDAY ENROUTE TO ITS MARIANAS BASE FROM THE BOMBING OF TOKYO

THE SUPERFORTRESS CAME DOWN ON IWO WHEN ITS GASOLINE SUPPLY BECAME DANGEROUSLY LOW. IT WAS PILOTED BY LT.RAYMOND F. MALO OF 12 EAST BLUFF ST., DANVILLE, ILL. THE BIG PLANE'S BOMB BAY DOORS STUCK OPEN OVER THE TARGET AND THE ADDITIONAL DRAG INCREASED GASOLINE CONSUMPTION.

WITH THE CREW ALERTED FOR A CRASH LANDING AT SEA, MALO HEADED FOR IWO. ON THE THIRD LANDING ATTEMPT THE SUPERFORTRESS SETTLED, BRAKED AND SLID DOWN THE 3,00-FOOT RUNWAY LINED WITH MARINE SPECTATORS.

OCCASIONAL JAPANESE MORTAR SHELLS BURST NEARBY.

THE SUPERFORT'S RESERVE GASOLINE TANK LINES WERE REPAIRED AT IWO AND THE PLANE RETURNED SAFELY TO ITS TINIAN BASE.

"LET ME TELL YOU MALO MADE THE SWEETEST LANDING AND TAKEOFF ON IWO JIMA THAT HE'S EVER MADE IN HIS LIFE," SAID LT.LEO R. ESCHMAN OF (646 PAIGE AVE.,) WARREN, O., THE BOMBARDIER.

MM752PPW

LT.BERNARD S.BENNISON OF SAUSALITO, CALIF., THE NAVIGATOR, HAD PLOTTED A COURSE FOR TINIAN WHEN THE FUEL SITUATION WAS DISCOVERED.

"IWO JIMA," WAS THE THOUGHT THAT STRUCK EVERYONE ABOARD IMMEDIATELY. THE NAVIGATOR PROMPTLY CHANGED THE COURSE.

CPL.JAMES G.COX MERRIAM, KAS., RADIO OPERATOR, INFORMED THE IWO TOWER AND FROM THAT MOMENT FIGHTING JAPANESE BECAME A SECONDARY MATTER AROUND THE NEWLY CAPTURED AIRSTRIP.

MAR 5 1945

AS MALO SET THE HUGE BOMBER DOWN ON THE TINY ISLAND'S ONLY OPERATIVE FIELD, LT.EDWIN MOCKLER OF (3 ATWOOD AVE.) PARK FALLS, WISC., THE COPILOT, BRAKED THE PLANE HEAVILY. IT PRACTICALLY SLID THE LENGTH OF THE RUNWAY AS THE PILOT DODGED SIGNAL CORPS TELEPHONE POLES. ONLY ONE POLE WAS KNOCKED DOWN BY A WING TIP.

7TH AAF BASE IN THE MARIANAS, MARCH 3-(DELAYED)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-(AP)-TEN C47 CONVERTED AIRLINERS DROPPED 3,300 POUNDS OF MORTAR SHELLS BY PARAPACK TO MARINES ON IWO JIMA TODAY IN THE LARGEST DELIVERY OF THAT KIND YET MADE BY TROOP CARRIER PLANES IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC.

THE JAPANESE ATTEMPTED UNSUCCESSFULLY TO INTERFERE WITH THE DELIVERY BY KEEPING THE LANDING STRIP UNDER FIRE, SAID LIEUT. PETER BOOK, OF PRTH AMBOY, N.J., NAVIGATOR OF THE FIRST PLANE OVER.

"WE FLEW LOW OVER THE LANDING STRIP AND DROPPED A MESSAGE WHICH FLOATED DOWN IN A STREAMER LIKE A YELLOW KITE TAIL," SAID BOOK. "WE COULDN'T RADIO FOR FEAR OF TIPPING OFF THE JAPS ON THE NATURE OF OUR CARGO.

"AS THE MESSAGE STREAMER HIT THE GROUND THE WHOLE LANDING STRIP WAS STRUCK BY JAP FIRE. THE JAPS WERE FIRING ROCKETS.

"GROUND RADIO TOLD US TO GET OUT AND STAND BY. WE CIRCLED FOR 20 MINUTES AT A DISTANCE AND THEN OUR PILOT, CAPT. FREDERICK WILKES OF ATHENS, GA., SAID WE WERE RUNNING SHORT OF GAS. WE FLEW OVER THE FIELD AGAIN AND DROPPED OUR LOAD OF MORTAR SHELLS. THE MARINES RAN OUT AND HUSTLED THE BUNDLES OFF AND I DON'T THINK JAP FIRE HIT ANY OF THEM."

THE JAPANESE ARE HOLED UP IN WHAT APPEARS TO BE A SUNKEN CRATER. TO THE WEST IS A HIGH CLIFF ON WHICH THE JAGGED TERRAIN PROVIDES MANY CAVES AND CONCEALED POSITIONS FROM WHICH THE NIPPONESE CAN FIGHT BACK SAVAGELY WITH SMALL ARMS, MORTARS AND GUNS OF BURIED TANKS.

THE FLOOR OF THE CRATER HAS DOZENS OF GUN POSITIONS. TO THE EAST, TOWARD THE OCEAN IS HIGH GROUND KNOWN AS TURKEY KNOB WHICH, TOO, DEFIED THE ADVANCING MARINES. IN SUCH A CONSTRUCTED AREA THE LEATHERNECKS MUST WIPE OUT THE ENEMY WITHOUT THE SUPPORT OF ARTILLERY AND SEA AND AIR BOMBARDMENT.

THE PACE-SETTING THIRD DIVISION REPORTED TOUGHER GOING AS IT ENCOUNTERED A SEEMINGLY ENDLESS CHAIN OF UNDERGROUND AND CONCRETE EMPLACEMENTS.

BOTH MAJ.GEN.GRAVES B.ERSKINE'S THIRD DIVISION AND MAJ.GEN. KELLER E.ROCKEY'S FIFTH DIVISION ON THE LEFT GAINED 200 TO 400 YARDS YESTERDAY. THE THIRD IS LESS THAN 2,000 YARDS FROM THE NORTHERN TIP OF THE ISLAND.

A LINE BEGINNING IN THE NORTH CENTRAL SECTOR AND SWINGING OBLIQUELY DOWN TO A POINT EAST OF MOTOYAMA TOWN IS HELD BY THE THIRD. ELBOW OF THE ROUGHLY TRIANGULAR LINE IS WITHIN SIGHT OF THE ROCKY EASTERN SHORELINE. THE JAPANESE REMAINING IN THE APPROXIMATELY 3,000 YARD AREA ARE BEING SQUEEZED BY A PINCERS FORMED BY THE THIRD AND FOURTH MARINES.

IN THIS SECTOR THE FOURTH DIVISION REPORTED FINDING AN 800-FOOT LONG TUNNEL CONNECTING WITH A CLIFF TO THE WEST. HOW MANY OF THE ENEMY ARE DUG INTO THIS HARD-TO-APPROACH POSITION WAS NOT MENTIONED.

THE LAST OFFICIAL REPORT OF ENEMY DEAD EXCEEDED 1,000. ORIGINALLY THERE WERE AN ESTIMATED 20,000 JAPANESE ON THE ISLAND. AMERICAN CASUALTIES--LAST ANNOUNCED AS OF FEB.21 AND TOTALLING 5372, BESPEAK THE SEVERITY OF THE CAMPAIGN WHICH BEGAN TWO WEEKS AGO.

FIFTH DIVISION MARINES CAUGHT A GROUP OF JAPANESE TRYING TO INFILTRATE INTO THE AMERICAN LINES FROM SOME CAVES AND KILLED THEM ALL.

THE FIRST C47 EVACUATION PLANES LANDED ON IWO'S SOUTHERN FIELD YESTERDAY TO TAKE SERIOUSLY WOUNDED MARINES BACK TO HOSPITALS IN THE MARIANAS.

THE JAPANESE CONTINUE TO SHELL AIR INSTALLATIONS.

WITH 23D MARINES AT FRONT, IWO, FEB.28-(DELAYED)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-(AP)-IT IS AN UNREAL AND FANTASTIC EXPERIENCE TO SIT ATOP A RIDGE IN AN OBSERVATION POST WATCHING A BATTLE UNFOLD. IT IS LIKE WATCHING A MOVIE--A VERY BAD MOVIE--BECAUSE THERE IS NO LOVE ROMANCE OR GLAMOR IN BATTLE AND NO HAPPY ENDINGS.

THIS POST OVERLOOKED A DISMAL VALLEY TOWARD THE NORTHERN END OF IWO--HELLS PRINCIPAL SUBURB--AND ON THE OTHER SIDE AMERICAN MARINES IN TANKS AND ON FOOT WERE FIGHTING THEIR BLOODY WAY TO THE TOP OF A RIDGE RIMMING MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO.2. YOU COULD SEE AMERICANS BUT NOT JAPANESE--THEY WERE ENTRENCHED BEHIND THE THICK CONCRETE OF THEIR UNBELIEVABLE BLOCKHOUSES HURLING LETHAL STEEL AT THE YANKS.

I SAT THERE WITH COL. W.W.WENSINGER, FORMERLY OF FREMONT, O., (WIFE KATHERINE LIVES AT 1010 SOUTH COAST BLVD., LA JOLLA, CALIF.) COMMANDING OFFICER OF THE 23D MARINES; HIS EXECUTIVE OFFICER, COL. EDWARD J.DILLON OF NEWBURGH, N.Y., (WIFE LIVES AT 258 REDONDO BLVD., LONG BEACH, CALIF.); AIR OBSERVER CAPT. GEORGE FRANCK OF THE ARMY AIR FORCES, AND TOM MORROW, WAR CORRESPONDENT FOR THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. MAR 5 1945

IT WAS RAINING AS IT HAS DONE MUCH OF THE TIME SINCE WE HAVE BEEN HERE. A CHILL WIND WAS BLOWING AND ARTILLERY AND MORTAR SHELLS WERE FALLING REGULARLY IN THE VALLEY AND ON OUR RIDGE. THERE IS SOMETHING TERRIFYING ABOUT THESE MORTAR SHELLS. SOMETIMES YOU HEAR THEM COMING LONG SECONDS BEFORE THEY LAND WITH THEIR DISTINCT WHOOSH AND THUD. THE JAPANESE HAVE A PECULIAR WAY OF TOSSING THESE MISSILES.

IF THE FIRST ONE LANDS 100 YARDS FROM YOU IT IS A SAFE BET THE SECOND AND THIRD ONES WILL BE CLOSER. ALL YOU CAN DO IS SIT TIGHT IN A HOLE AND PRAY THEY WILL EITHER BE SHORT OR TOO LONG.

THE MARINES SEEM ACCUSTOMED TO SNIPER AND OTHER SMALL ARMS FIRE, BUT IT IS HARD FOR THE TOUGHEST OF THESE TOUGH GUYS TO GET USED TO THESE MORTARS.

AS WE WATCHED AMERICAN TANKS CHUGGED LABORIOUSLY UP THE SIDE OF THE SLOPE. THEY WERE ENGULFED BY BILLOWING EXPLOSIVES COMING AT THEM FROM ALL ANGLES.

TO REACH THIS RIDGE WE TRAVERSED A LOW PLAIN OVER WHICH HEAVY FIGHTING HAD RAGED A DAY PREVIOUS. MANY DEAD JAPANESE IN SHELL HOLES ATTESTED TO THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THE MARINE ARTILLERY. FOR OBVIOUS REASONS THE AMERICANS ARE BURYING THESE JAPANESE AS SOON AS THEY CAN, BUT OFTEN THEY LIE AROUND FOR A DAY OR TWO BECAUSE THE MARINES JUST HAVEN'T THE TIME TO DISPOSE OF THEM. THERE IS MUCH EVIDENCE THAT THE NIPPONESE ARE TRYING TO CONCEAL THE EXTENT OF THEIR LOSSES AS PILES OF ENEMY DEAD WERE FOUND IN PILLBOXES WHERE THEY EVIDENTLY HAD BEEN PLACED AS THE JAPANESE RETIRED.

WE SPENT ABOUT TWO HOURS IN THIS OBSERVATION POST BEFORE RETIRING TO THE REAR, TWICE DIVING INTO CRATERS AS MORTAR SHELLS SCREAMED A WARNING APPROACH.

CANBERRA MAR 4 — WAS RECOVERED

THE MINISTRY TOLD THE STORY OF THE RUFUS KING, AMERICAN VESSEL WHICH WENT ASHORE OFF THE QUEENSLAND COAST LATE IN 1943, BREAKING IN TWO. THE TWO HALVES WERE FOUND A MILE APART. MUCH EQUIPMENT WAS SALVAGED FROM EACH SECTION AND THEN ONE HALF, WITH ENGINES INTACT, WAS TOWED TO BRISBANE.

SALVAGE OFFICERS HAD A HEARTBREAKING EXPERIFCE WITH A BIG AMERICAN TROOPSHIP ON A REEF IN NEW GUINEA WATERS. AFTER MONTHS OF CAREFUL PREPARATION, EVERYTHING WAS READY FOR REFLOATING THE SHIP WHEN A GALE STRUCK, BREAKING THE VESSEL'S BACK AND IT BECAME A TOTAL LOSS.

WHILE TRYING UNSUCCESSFULLY TO RAISE A MOTOR BOAT FROM BESIDE THE TROOPSHIP TO PREVENT SOLDIERS IN IT FROM BEING DASHED TO DEATH AGAINST THE SIDES OF THE BIG CARRIER, TWO AMERICAN SOLDIERS ON DECK WERE KILLED BY THE BREAKING OF A LIFEBOAT DAVIT.

KANDY, CEYLON--FIRST ADD BURMA X X X BURMA ROAD.

BRITISH TROOPS STEADILY HAVE EXPANDED THEIR BRIDGEHEAD 30 MILES WEST OF MANDALAY IN THE FACE OF VIOLENT JAPANESE RESISTANCE, A FRONT DISPATCH SAID.

THIS SIXTH CROSSING OF THE IRRAWADDY WAS MADE THE NIGHT OF FEB.

24. THE IRRAWADDY THERE FLOWS WESTWARD. SINCE THE INITIAL LANDING BRITISH TROOPS HAVE HUNTED ROVING JAPANESE MACHINEGUN UNITS THROUGH THE 15-FOOT ELEPHANT GRASS THAT COVERS THE RIVER'S SOUTH BANK.

ATTEMPTING TO DISRUPT THE MOVEMENT OF TROOPS AND COMMUNICATIONS INSIDE THE BRIDGEHEAD, THE JAPANESE SENT RAIDING PARTIES THROUGHOUT THE AREA.

SOME LANDING CRAFT WERE LOST BECAUSE OF ENEMY FIRE AND THE SWIFT CURRENT IN THE INITIAL PHASE OF THE OPERATION. MANY SOLDIERS REACHED THE SOUTH BANK HANGING ON THE SIDES OF BOATS.

AFTER SEVERAL HOURS THE BRIDGEHEAD FINALLY WAS MADE SECURE. THE MAIN BODY OF BRITISH TROOPS PASSED THROUGH JAPANESE MORTAR AND MACHINEGUN FIRE BEFORE REACHING THE SOUTH BANK.

THE FIRST OBJECTIVE, THE TINY VILLAGE OF NAGAZUN, WAS CLEARED OF THE ENEMY ONLY AFTER ARTILLERY HAD SET ALL THE HUTS AFIRE. THE SECOND OBJECTIVE WAS THE VILLAGE OF NGALUN ON A JUNGLE TRACK JUNCTION.

BRITISH HEAVY GUNS, BROUGHT ACROSS THE RIVER LATER, NOW HAVE ENGAGED JAPANESE UNITS RUSHED FROM MANDALAY TO THE BATTLE AREA.

MEXICO, MARCH 4-(AP)-THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE MOVED TODAY TO FILL IN THE LAST REMAINING BLANKS IN A NEW AND MUTUAL GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY--SUPPORTED BY THE FORCE OF TWENTY NATIONS.

THE THREE IMPORTANT SUBJECTS ON WHICH DELEGATES HAVE YET TO EXPRESS THEIR FINAL VIEWS ARE ARGENTINA, DUMBARTON OAKS, AND AN ECONOMIC CHARTER FOR THE AMERICAS. INDICATIONS ARE THAT ALL THREE WILL BE DISPOSED OF SMOOTHLY.

IT NOW APPEARS THAT THE CONFERENCE WILL COME OUT WITH A STATEMENT ON ARGENTINA TOMORROW, ALTHOUGH THERE IS A SMALL POSSIBILITY THAT OFFICIAL SILENCE WILL BE MAINTAINED ON THIS SUBJECT.

THE STATEMENT IS EXPECTED TO PROVIDE FOR EVENTUAL ARGENTINE SIGNATURE OF THE MEXICO CITY RESOLUTIONS. SEVERAL DELEGATES HAVE SAID INFORMALLY, HOWEVER, THAT THEY WOULD NOT PERMIT ARGENTINE ADHERENCE UNTIL BUENOS AIRES GIVES PROOF IT WOULD BE MUCH MORE THAN AN EMPTY GESTURE.

ONE OFFICIAL SAID HE WOULD ASK THAT THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS AGREE TO CONSULT TOGETHER BEFORE A DEFINITE INVITATION TO SIGN THE RESOLUTIONS OF THE CONFERENCE IS GIVEN ARGENTINA.

SINCERE ADOPTION OF THE PRINCIPLES AND PLEDGES LAID DOWN HERE, IT IS FELT, WOULD MEAN ARGENTINA'S RETURN TO THE HEMISPHERE FAMILY. THEY PROVIDE FOR THE COMPLETE COOPERATION FROM WITHIN AND WITHOUT THE CONTINENT THAT BUENOS AIRES HAS REFUSED SO FAR.

LITTLE HAS BEEN DONE ON DUMBARTON OAKS UNTIL NOW, BECAUSE SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS HOPES TO BE ABLE TO ANNOUNCE THE YALTA FORMULA FOR VOTING IN THE PROJECTED SECURITY COUNCIL BEFORE OPEN DISCUSSIONS ARE HELD.

LAST WORD WAS THAT THE ANNOUNCEMENT WOULD COME FROM WASHINGTON, LONDON, MOSCOW, PARIS AND CHUNGKING TOMORROW, AND STETTINIUS HAS SCHEDULED AN IMPORTANT SPEECH BEFORE THE COMMITTEE ON DUMBARTON OAKS. FRENCH DELAY IN AGREEING FULLY TO SPONSOR THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE IN SAN FRANCISCO HAS HELD UP THE ANNOUNCEMENT.

FIFTEEN OF THE LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES HERE HAVE TURNED IN OBSERVATIONS ON THE PLAN FOR A WORLD SECURITY ORGANIZATION. HOWEVER, THERE SEEMS TO BE GENERAL AGREEMENT THAT IT WOULD BE FRUITLESS TO DO MORE THAN SUBSCRIBE TO THE GENERAL PRINCIPLES OF THE PEACE PLAN HERE, SINCE DETAILED CHANGES CAN ONLY BE MADE AT SAN FRANCISCO.

A98 MAR 5 1945

A COMPILATION OF THE LATIN AMERICAN VIEWS SHOWS THEY WOULD LIKE THE WORLD ORGANIZATION TO CONTAIN GUARANTEES SIMILAR TO THE ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC. SEVERAL COUNTRIES STATED SPECIFICALLY THAT THE PEACE AGENCY SHOULD GUARANTEE THE "TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY AND POLITICAL INDEPENDENCE" OF ITS MEMBERS.

CLEARANCE OF THE ECONOMIC CHARTER FOR THE AMERICAS WAS HELD UP BY DEBATE OVER A FORMULA FOR U.S.PURCHASES OF LATIN AMERICAN RAW MATERIALS DURING THE TRANSITION FROM WAR TO PEACE.

LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES HAD ASKED THAT THE UNITED STATES PROMISE TO KEEP ON BUYING AT CURRENT RATES AND PRICES FOR TWO YEARS. A COMPROMISE WAS FINALLY WORKED OUT WHEREBY THE U.S. AGREED TO PURCHASE WHAT IT COULD, AND ASSURE THE LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES ADEQUATE PROTECTION AGAINST ECONOMIC COLLAPSE WITH EXPORT-IMPORT BANK LOANS AND HELP IN GETTING EUROPEAN AND UNRRA MARKETS.

(500) BUDGET-BLOCS

BY JOHN M.HIGHTOWER
ASSOCIATED PRESS DIPLOMATIC NEWS EDITOR

WASHINGTON,MARCH 4-(AP)-A CRITICAL TEST OF UNITED STATES LEADERSHIP TOWARD ORGANIZED WORLD PEACE APPEARS CERTAIN TO GROW OUT OF THE INTER-AMERICAN SECURITY SYSTEM CREATED AT MEXICO CITY.

AS BETWEEN MEXICO CITY AND THE UNITED NATIONS PLAN AS CONCEIVED HERE, SOMETHING WILL HAVE TO GIVE WAY. THE TEST IS LIKELY TO COME AT THE UNITED NATIONS MEETING OPENING APRIL 25 IN SAN FRANCISCO. IT COULD WELL BE THE MOST CRITICAL ISSUE THERE. THIS IS THE CONVICTION OF OFFICIALS HERE WHO ARE INTIMATELY FAMILIAR WITH THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLANS FOR A WORLD LEAGUE.

ANY DEVELOPMENT FROM THE "ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC" IN THE DIRECTION OF A BREAKDOWN OF THE WORLD INTO BLOCS ORGANIZED AROUND THE FIVE GREAT POWERS WOULD BE UTTERLY CONTRARY TO UNITED STATES HOPES AND PLANS AS EXPOUNDED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND SECRETARY OF STATE STETTIN-

30.24-23601

IUS.
THE CRITICAL PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC AND THE PROPOSED DUMBARTON OAKS SECURITY PLAN ARE THESE:
1. THE ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC RECOMMENDS THAT THE AMERICAN NATIONS SET UP GUARANTEES OF THE TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY OF THE COUNTRIES IN THIS HEMISPHERE AND AUTOMATICALLY USE FORCE AS NECESSARY TO MAKE THE GUARANTEES GOOD.
2. THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN, WHILE IT PROVIDES FULL RECOGNITION FOR REGIONAL ORGANIZATIONS, SPECIFICALLY STATES THAT NO REGIONAL GROUP OF NATIONS MAY USE MEASURES TO ENFORCE PEACE OR PREVENT AGGRESSION EXCEPT UPON THE AUTHORITY OF THE WORLD SECURITY COUNCIL.
WHAT MAY PROVE TO BE THE SAVING CLAUSE OF THE ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC WAS WRITTEN IN UPON THE URGINGS OF THE UNITED STATES DELEGATION. IT SAYS THAT HEMISPHERIC ARRANGEMENTS SHALL BE CONSISTENT WITH THE PURPOSES AND PRINCIPLES OF GENERAL INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION.
THE QUESTION HOW FORCES SHALL BE USED AND BY WHOM IS OF VITAL IMPORTANCE. THE OBJECT OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S COMMITMENT TO JOINT ACTION NOW IN THE AFFAIRS OF LIBERATED EUROPE WAS TO PREVENT UNILATERAL ACTIONS IN THOSE AREAS BY BRITAIN AND RUSSIA.
WHAT IS FEARED HERE IS THAT WHILE A BLOC TAKES THE FORM OF A HEMISPHERE SECURITY SYSTEM IN THE AMERICAS, IT MIGHT TAKE THE FORM OF RIVAL GROUPS AROUND CONFLICTING POWERS IN EUROPE.

A58WX MAR 5 1945

THIS IS NOT TO SAY THAT SOME SORT OF REGIONALISM CANNOT BE ATTAINED. IN FACT THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN SPECIFICALLY ALLOWS FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF SUCH SYSTEMS AND ONE PROVISION WOULD PERMIT THE WORLD SECURITY COUNCIL ITSELF TO USE FORCE ON A REGIONAL BASIS, FOR EXAMPLE EMPLOYING ONLY AMERICAN TROOPS TOPUT DOWN THE THREAT OF AGGRESSION IN THIS HEMISPHERE.
AUTHORITIES HERE BELIEVE THAT THE CONFLICT WAS INADVERTENT AND PROBABLY CAN BE SETTLED WITHOUT TOO MUCH DIFFICULTY.
THE LATIN AMERICAN NATIONS WHICH SPONSORED THE ACT AT MEXICO CITY WERE PRIMARILY CONCERNED WITH (1) PROTECTING THEMSELVES AGAINST POTENTIAL AGGRESSION BY ARGENTINA (2) PROVIDING A REGIONAL SYSTEM OF SECURITY REGARDLESS OF WHAT HAPPENS INTERNATIONALLY. THE CONCERN OF NEIGHBORS OF ARGENTINA IS AT MOST ONLY TEMPORARY AND THE LONG-RANGE DESIRE OF THE OTHER COUNTRIES FOR PERMANENT SECURITY MAY BE FULLY SATISFIED BY THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE.

(600) FRENCH SUPPLY
WASHINGTON,MARCH 4-(AP)-WHAT WAS THE GENESIS OF THE PROGRAM OF ALLIED RELIEF AID TO FRANCE, THE SUBJECT OF RECENT CONTROVERSIAL DISCUSSION?
DETAILS, INCLUDING THE MUCH-RUMORED "PLAN A" COVERING THE CIVIL AFFAIRS SUPPLY PLANNING OF THE ALLIES PRIOR TO THE INVASION OF NORMANDY, WERE OBTAINED TODAY FROM OFFICIALS AT THE WAR DEPARTMENT.
THERE HAVE BEEN REPORTS THAT THIS PLAN CONVEYED PROMISES TO THE FRENCH OF LARGE QUANTITIES OF CIVILIAN SUPPLIES, AND THAT THESE WERE NOT CARRIED OUT. IT HAS BEEN SUGGESTED THAT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAD ISSUED DIRECTIVES TO THE ARMY TO GIVE GREATER AID TO THE FRENCH, AND THAT HIS INSTRUCTIONS WERE LIKEWISE UNFULFILLED.
AS DESCRIBED BY THOSE FAMILIAR WITH THE PLAN'S FORMULATION, THE SITUATION WAS THIS:
BEFORE THE TROOPS STORMED THE BEACHHEADS OF NORMANDY LAST JUNE THE ALLIES MADE ALTERNATIVE PLANS BASED ON A SERIES OF ASSUMPTIONS AS TO HOW SUCCESSFUL THE INVASION MIGHT BE, AND HOW RAPIDLY IT MIGHT DEVELOP. ONE OF THESE PLANS--PLAN A--WAS CONFIDED TO THE FRENCH AUTHORITIES IN WASHINGTON LAST JUNE, A FEW DAYS BEFORE D-DAY, AND IS SAID TO HAVE SINCE LED TO SOME MISUNDERSTANDING OF THE PROBLEM.
PLAN A, IT WAS STATED, WAS BASED PURELY FOR PLANNING PURPOSES ON THE SUPPOSITION THAT A COLLAPSE OF ALL GERMAN RESISTANCE MIGHT OCCUR SOON AFTER THE ALLIES HAD EFFECTED SUCCESSFUL LANDINGS IN FRANCE; THAT THE AXIS-OCCUPIED COUNTRIES OF EUROPE WOULD BE LIBERATED, AND THAT THE GERMANS WOULD NOT PURSUE A "SCORCHED EARTH" POLICY IN THEIR WITHDRAWAL.
ON THAT SUPPOSITION, AN ESTIMATE WAS MADE IN PLAN A THAT THE WHOLE OF CONTINENTAL FRANCE WOULD REQUIRE FOR CIVILIAN RELIEF IN A SIX MONTH PERIOD A TOTAL OF APPROXIMATELY 2,225,000 TONS OF IMPORTED SUPPLIES. THIS INCLUDED SOME 700,000 TONS OF FOOD, 150,000 TONS OF PETROLEUM, 40,000 TONS OF SOAP, 400,000 TONS OF AGRICULTURAL REHABILITATION MATERIALS, AND 900,000 TONS OF COAL.

A60WX
FOOD REQUIREMENTS INCLUDED ESTIMATES OF 420,000 TONS OF WHEAT, 70,000 TONS OF CANNED MEATS AND STEW, 50,000 TONS OF EVAPORATED MILK, 45,000 TONS OF DEHYDRATED SOUP, AND SMALLER QUANTITIES OF CHEESE, LARD, SUGAR, COFFEE AND SALT.
IN TURNING OVER THESE ESTIMATES TO THE FRENCH AUTHORITIES IN WASHINGTON, THE WAR DEPARTMENT STATED EXPLICITLY AND IN WRITING THAT THEY COULD NOT IN ANY SENSE BE REGARDED AS COMMITMENTS; THAT THEY WERE BASED ON CERTAIN STATED ASSUMPTIONS, AND THAT THE ESTIMATES DID NOT DEAL WITH WHETHER THE SUPPLIES WOULD BE PROCURABLE, NOR WHETHER THERE WOULD BE SHIPPING AVAILABLE FOR THEIR DELIVERY.
WHEN THE INVASION ACTUALLY BEGAN, THE ALLIED ARMIES WERE OPERATING ON A BASIS OF 90-DAY PROGRAMS OF CIVILIAN SUPPLIES, SUBJECT ALWAYS TO OPERATIONAL CHANGES, AND PREDICATED ON THE MILITARY REQUIREMENT THAT THERE MUST ALWAYS BE SUFFICIENT CIVILIAN SUPPLY TO ASSURE THE PREVENTION OF SERIOUS DISEASE OR CIVIL UNREST.
THE ASSUMPTIONS OF PLAN A, OF COURSE, NEVER MATERIALIZED. INSTEAD OF A COLLAPSE OF RESISTANCE, THE ALLIED ENCOUNTERED STIFF OPPOSITION AND A GERMAN POLICY OF SABOTAGE WHICH WRECKED HARBOR INSTALLATIONS, DESTROYED BRIDGES, DAMAGED LOCOMOTIVES AND RAILWAY ROLLING STOCK, REMOVED ALL MOTOR VEHICLES, AND IN GENERAL BEQUEATHED TO THE ALLIES, AT LEAST SO FAR AS TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES WERE CONCERNED, A TRULY "SCORCHED" FRANCE.
ALSO, ONLY A PART OF FRANCE WAS LIBERATED. PORTIONS OF IT EVEN TODAY ARE IN GERMAN HANDS, INCLUDING SOME OF THE VITAL SEAPORTS. OBVIOUSLY, THE ESTIMATES OF PLAN A WERE OF NO SIGNIFICANCE, AND IN ANY CASE DELIVERIES OF MATERIALS IN THE QUANTITIES INDICATED WOULD HAVE BEEN IMPOSSIBLE EXCEPT AT THE COST OF DELAYING MILITARY OPERATIONS. THE LATER SWIFT ADVANCE OF GENERAL PATTON'S THIRD ARMY LAID HEAVY MILITARY SUPPLY REQUIREMENTS ON THE ALLIES, AND IT WAS NOT CONSIDERED THAT GENERAL PATTON COULD BE INSTRUCTED TO HALT HIS ONSLAUGHTS AGAINST THE GERMANS.

A61WX

THE ALLIES CONTINUED THEIR MONTH-TO-MONTH DELIVERIES OF CIVILIAN SUPPLIES TO FRANCE, THEREBY PREVENTING EPIDEMIC DISEASE, STARVATION OR CIVIL UNREST. MILITARY ASSISTANCE WAS GIVEN ALSO IN THE RESTORATION OF DOCKS AND TRANSPORTATION SYSTEMS, THUS AIDING DIRECTLY IN THE FULLEST DEVELOPMENT OF FRANCE'S SELF-SUPPLY.

IT WAS DISCLOSED AT THE WAR DEPARTMENT THAT DURING THE FIRST SIX MONTHS AFTER D-DAY THE ALLIES DELIVERED IN THAT PART OF FRANCE WHICH WAS LIBERATED 262,150 TONS OF CIVILIAN RELIEF SUPPLIES. THIS INCLUDED 194,000 TONS OF FOOD, 64,000 TONS OF PETROLEUM, 640 TONS OF MEDICAL SUPPLIES, 250 TONS OF CLOTHING, 2,500 TONS OF SOAP, AND 300 TONS OF BLANKETS.

WORKING WITH FRENCH GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS, THE ALLIES HAVE BEEN STEPPING UP DELIVERIES, AND ACCORDING TO AN UNOFFICIAL WAR DEPARTMENT ESTIMATE, THE CIVILIAN SUPPLY IMPORT PROGRAM FOR FRANCE FOR THE FIRST QUARTER OF 1945 IS 380,000 TONS.

ARMY OFFICIALS SAID THAT EVERY EFFORT IS BEING MADE TO RELIEVE CONDITIONS IN FRANCE, AND THAT AT NO TIME HAD THE ARMY RUN COUNTER TO WHITE HOUSE DIRECTIVES, OR MADE PROMISES WHICH WERE UNFULFILLED.

Americans in Cologne, Drive for Its Heart; Fifth of City Won, Foe Fleeing Over Rhine; Main Bridge Blown Up; 9th Cuts Nazi Pocket

City Is Doomed As Nazis Flee, Blow Up Bridge

BEALMEAR NIGHT

PARIS, March 5.—(AP) The U. S. First army sent tanks plunging more than a mile into Cologne today, seized more than one-fifth of the city in assaults from the north, south and west, and the fall of the largest German metropolis ever stormed by the Allies seemed near at hand.

The Germans apparently wrote off the fourth largest city in the Reich, for they blew the big Hohenzollern bridge and began shelling it from the east bank.

Field dispatches said the Germans were fleeing across the Rhine by boats, and one staff officer estimated that only 1,000 enemy soldiers remained to garrison the city.

Germans Fall Back

Prisoners said these forces were falling back into the old part of the city, which represents only one-fourth of Cologne's area of 25 square miles.

The Third Armored division, now within two miles or less of the heart of the city, was the first to enter at 7:10 and the 104th infantry division came in from the west at 9:23 a. m.

The Eighth infantry division, hard on the 104th's right flank, pushed into the city from the south. Cologne was shrouded in a pall of smoke from the fire of massed artillery laying down a terrific drum fire.

All three divisions were meeting half-hearted resistance, indicating the German army had no intention of obeying Hitler's orders to make a Stalingrad - like stand inside Cologne.

Cologne is the largest city in Rhenish Prussia with a normal population of 768,000 and is loaded with factories which once turned out weapons for the German war machine. Now the civilians cowered in cellars while the battle swirled about them, or they streamed back to the American lines carrying their household possessions.

Besides blowing the bridge at Duesseldorf, the Germans destroyed three bridges at Duisberg before the charge of the U. S. Ninth army, which overran the coal and synthetic oil city of Homberg and smashed into Rheinberg in gains of as much as six miles.

By blowing all the serviceable bridges between Bonn and the Dutch border except the road and rail bridges at Wesel and a makeshift structure at Rheinberg, the Germans sealed the fate of many of the more than 50,000 troops still on the Rhine's west bank.

Seize Ferry Crossings

The Canadian First army captured one ferry crossing at Rees, 11 miles northwest of the western Ruhr city of Wesel, and the Ninth captured another at Orsoy, five miles north of Homberg.

The Canadian First and the U. S. Ninth pressed the Germans back into an area 10 miles long and six miles wide, and with the U. S. First army held sway over 70 of the 90 miles of the Rhine's west bank between Cologne and the Dutch border.

Supreme headquarters estimated the Germans had lost 100,000 troops in the battle of the Rhine, sapping enemy strength so severely that he will be hard put to repulse Rhine crossings without weakening some other front.

The battle of the Ruhr basin—last important resource of the once-mighty German war machine—had in effect begun with its biggest munitions cities now within artillery range. Some of them already shook to American shells bursting in their factory districts.

Trouble was brewing for the Germans on the south where two other American armies were on the attack.

The U. S. Third army was ripping through defenses along the Pruem-Coblenz highway, where it long has been held in check, and now was at least eight miles east of Pruem and within 47 miles of Coblenz on the Rhine.

The Third was moving under a partial news blackout — often invoked when an army is traveling fast and the enemy is bewildered —but it was known that it had breached the Kyll river on a 25-mile front, fought east at least three and a half miles and captured eight towns.

The U. S. Seventh army was a mile and a half from the Saar basin's capital of Saarbruecken after driving the last German from the French gateway town of Forbach, and was pounding the city with artillery.

Defenders Cut Off

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army broke into Cologne so swiftly, in an attack beginning at the cold, pre-dawn hour of 4 a. m., that 4,000 Germans defenders were cut off outside the city.

The final rush of the Third Armored division from the north and the 104th infantry division from the west engulfed 40 suburban villages, and the first Americans edged into the city at 7:10 a. m.

The tanks were two and a half miles from the heart of the city after spearing through Cologne's Bickendorf district. This was the deepest penetration of the city.

A vast pall of smoke and dust hung over Cologne as massed artillery crunched into its ruins, seeking out the six tank and Volksgrenadier divisions, which by prisoner report had pulled back into the inner core behind Cologne's ancient wall.

The only way out was by way of Hohenzollern bridge, and its approaches were heaped with the debris of bombings and shellings. The two spires of Cologne's 14th century cathedral in the center of the city loomed up through the battle haze.

The veteran 104th division swept through the western suburban towns of Weiden, Widdersdorf and Lovernich and then drove on east into the city on the main highway from Dueren.

The Eighth infantry was moving in on the 104th's south flank and the attackers were met by anti-tank guns and high-velocity anti-aircraft guns, depressed to meet the ground assault.

On the north, troops were fighting in the edge of Cologne's railway yards, among the greatest in Europe, and were striking for the west bank of the Rhine just north of the city.

Hodges troops were on the attack along a front of more than 55 miles, with Cologne roughly in the center.

The north wing was driving a German force of undetermined size back against the bridgeless Rhine between Duesseldorf and Cologne. The Americans were on the Rhine at Grimlinghausen, just south of Duesseldorf, and at Worringen, nine miles farther south. The German hold on the Rhine between these points was three miles wide or less.

Tanks Take Euskirchen

On the south flank, the Americans captured Euskirchen, a city of 14,500 with a network of three railways and eight highways through which the Germans funneled troops and tanks for the Ardennes breakthrough.

East of Euskirchen, other forces were less than 10 miles from the Rhine transit city of Bonn after forging across the Erft river and capturing Grosvernich.

To the southwest, troops captured Gemuend, an eastern anchor of the Siegfried line on the Roer river front.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth army was stamping out the biggest of the Rhine pockets in cooperation with the Canadian First army with such speed that a front dispatch predicted the entire area would be liquidated within two days.

The Germans balked pursuit at Homberg by blowing all the Duisburg bridges, stranding a force of undetermined size in a four by two-mile pocket to the south.

The Fifth Armored division speared on five miles north of Homberg into Orsoy, on the Rhine, and began shelling German troops trying to escape to the east bank by ferry.

The Eighth Armored division and the 35th infantry division lunged on north to within two miles of Rheinberg, site of a temporary bridge.

MAR 6 1945

American and Canadian artillery fire raked the evaporating German bridgehead, now 10 miles long and six miles wide, and Canadians on the north fought up to the edge of bitterly-defended Xanten.

U.S. Tanks Get Mile Into City; Fighting House To House

DAY

Paris, March 5 (AP)—Tanks of the 3d Armored Division fought a mile into Cologne tonight, driving through the northern Bickendorf section within 2½ miles of the cathedral at the heart of the Rhineland metropolis.

Infantry of the 104th Division also moved in from the west. House-to-house fighting was under way.

The capture of Cologne, Germany's fourth largest city, was expected by Thursday morning at the latest.

The 1st Army tanks and infantry, advancing through acrid smoke that curled up from ruins created by a wheel-to-wheel artillery barrage, slowly closed in on the old part of the city, leaving behind railroad yards and some of the vast array of factories.

Germans Blow Up Rhine Bridges

The Germans, hard pressed by the 9th Army to the north, had blown up all bridges across the river from Neuss to Homberg, suburbs of Duesseldorf and Duisburg, and left only one railroad crossing at Wesel in operation.

Ninth Army tanks fought into Orsoy, 10 miles south of Wesel, and shelled Germans trying to ferry the river. Other Americans moved within 2 miles of Rheinberg, capturing Lintfort. The Germans were leaving the Wesel pocket, which is expected to be erased within two days.

A news blackout like the one that shrouded the 9th Army breakthrough to the Rhine was clamped on the United States 3d Army's drive toward the middle Rhine and Coblenz, 45 miles away.

Whole 1st Army Front Moves Up 1 To 4 Miles

The 1st Army moved forward 1 to 4 miles along its whole front, from just south of Duesseldorf to the spurs of the Eifel Mountains on approaches to the middle Rhine.

It reached the Rhine for a new stand just south of Duesseldorf, capturing Grimlinghausen. There it was fired upon by men in civilian clothes—a group including 19 Poles, 18 Russians, 3 Yugoslavs and 16 Germans. All were carted to prison cages and uncertain fates.

The final push on Cologne began at 4 A.M. and Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose's tanks entered the city at 7.10.

Cologne lay under a pall of smoke. The thunder of battle was rolling across the city in increasing fury as the Americans closed in for the kill on the eleventh day of their great drive from the Roer River, 21 miles behind.

West-Bank Suburb Of Duisburg Captured

To the north, the American 9th Army captured Homberg, a west-bank suburb of Duisburg, and the approaches to two Rhine bridges.

The Germans blew up the two bridges today, however. One of them, north of Homberg, was a railroad structure 60 feet wide and would have been superb for tanks. The other, south of the town, was a combined railroad and motor bridge.

MAR 6 1945

The Nazi garrison in Homberg, a manufacturing city of 35,000, surrendered three hours after midnight. Hundreds of retreating Nazis were captured; many officers were caught trying to escape in civilian clothes.

Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson's men were at the Rhine for 15 miles, and Canadians to the north held another 52-mile stretch to the west bank.

A great artillery duel raged across the Rhine and the German broadcast unsubstantiated reports that the Americans had already won their first crossing. At supreme headquarters this was regarded as unlikely but as a sign of how the Nazis were thinking.

News Curb Hints 3d Army Breakthrough Is Near

To the south, the American 3d Army advanced up to 3½ miles on a 30-mile front between Pruem and Trier, capturing eight towns, including Kopp, 47 miles west of Coblenz. A partial blackout was imposed on this army's movements, suggesting that Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton was fashioning another imposing breakthrough.

The 70th Division of the 7th Army had all the French city of Forbach cleared except a cluster of university buildings on the western edge, which the Volkssturm was trying to hold. Other 7th Army troops pushed a mile north through disappearing gun turret outer works of the Siegfried Line, cutting the Forbach-Saarbruecken road. Saarbruecken was being shelled from a distance of a mile and a half.

The destruction of Germans west of the Rhine continued apace. The 9th, 1st and 3d Armies took 7,733 prisoners yesterday. This raised the campaign total above 60,000. Uncounted thousands have been killed or severely wounded.

At supreme headquarters it was estimated the Germans had lost 100,000 troops on the Rhine front in a week and a half, making it doubtful whether they would be able to smash an Allied bridgehead once it was established.

Last Three Nazi Pockets West Of Rhine Collapsing

The last three German pockets west of the Rhine were collapsing swiftly.

The Germans had no bridges in their 8-mile-long pocket from Worringen to just south of Neuss.

There was another west-bank box not more than 4 miles long and 2 wide just south of Homberg, but the Germans had no bridges for retreat there, either.

The American 35th Division and the 5th Armored Division were biting into the southern edge of the Wesel pocket, where resistance still was stiff. Canadians were driving down from the north. Up to 50,000 Germans remained in that sack early today, but they had the Wesel bridge for retreat.

MAR 6 1945

Gunners Told To Avoid Famous Cathedral

American guns, wheel to wheel outside Cologne, were firing massed salvos into the city. Smoke rolled up from the fires and explosions set. The doughboys inside Cologne caught glimpses through the pall of the 512-foot tower of the 13th century Cathedral. Artillery and troops had been ordered to hold their fire away from the famous structure.

At 9 A.M., Lieut. Col. John Welborn, of Southern Pines, N.C., had his troops fighting at Longerich, on the northern end of the sprawling railway yards of Cologne, one of the greatest rail centers in Europe and the chief traffic center for all western Germany.

The first column to cross the city line from the north was a task force of armor and infantry commanded by Lieut. Col. L. L. Doan, of Houston, Texas.

Resistance Light On Fringe Of City

Resistance from remnants of six tank and Volksgrenadier divisions on the fringe of the city was comparatively light. The Germans had pulled most of their men deeper into the ruins, leaving anti-tank and flak guns to guard the approaches.

Infantrymen went in to clean out factories and houses in which the Germans were holed up. Tanks moved up and opened fire at point-blank range into houses that were strongpoints.

Prisoners taken in the first thrust said most Nazis had pulled back to a line of defense on the Lingstrasse, which circles Cologne roughly on the line of walls that protected the city in ancient times.

Resistance was expected to increase deeper in Cologne.

4,000 Nazis Cut Off Outside Cologne

Some 4,000 desperately fighting Germans were trapped outside the city when the 3d Armored Division cut the last road leading to the Hohenzollern Bridge across the Rhine. The river is 1,300 to 1,700 feet wide at Cologne.

The main escape highway for Germans seeking passage over the Rhine was cut by the 3d Armored Division at Worringen and Roggendorf. Both of those places north of Cologne were captured. The tanks beat off two attempts of German armored and infantry forces to break through to Cologne and its still-standing bridge. Then the Americans swung south for 2 miles.

Frechen Captured

On the right flank of the 3d Armored, Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's 104th Division smashed through Lovenich and Weiden, western suburbs of Cologne a little more than four miles from the heart of the city.

Wedging in from the southwest, the 8th Division took the large town of Frechen, 2 miles from Cologne.

Southwest of Cologne, the 1st Army captured Euskirchen, on the Erft River, the junction of eight military roads and thre railways and the site of many foundries and metal factories.

Euskirchen surrendered to the 9th Armored Division at 10.15 o'clock last night. Though repeatedly bombed, 40 per cent of the buildings in the center of the town were intact. The Yanks found 300 to 400 Germans roving the streets looking for someone to capture them. Only 3,000 to 4,000 civilians remained.

Bonn In Sight

The large Rhine city of Bonn was within sight and no less than 10-mile artillery range.

Gemuend, at the extreme eastern fringe of the Siegfried Line, was taken and troops pressed 1,000 yards beyond.

North of the Roer River dams, the 9th Infantry Division took Grossvernich in a 1-mile push.

Northwest of Cologne, several American tanks were lost in clearing the Benrath Forest.

GUNS POUND ALTDAMM

Soviet Armies Strike Within 30 Miles of Danzig Fortress.

WHEELER

30.24—2360 s

LONDON, Tuesday, March 6—(AP) Russian troops, anchoring their Pomeranian flank securely on the Baltic coast, yesterday wheeled toward Stettin and captured that port's outer bastions of Stargard and Naugard, while other Soviet forces to the northeast cut deeper into two pockets where possibly 200,000 Germans were trapped.

Overwhelming Stargard in a vicious street battle that cost the Germans 4,000 killed, the Russians pushed on toward Altdamm, east bank Oder river crossing town just opposite Stettin and 15 miles west of Stargard. Altdamm and other localities ringing Stettin, Pomeranian capital and Berlin's main port, were reported under Soviet artillery fire.

Reds Capture Naugard

Naugard, 22 miles north of Stargard, also fell as the Russians folded back the Germans into an 1,800-square-mile pocket in which the enemy was battling with his back to a 45-mile waterline formed by the lower Oder, Stettin bay, and the Dievenow river.

Kolberg, on the Baltic 65 miles northeast of Stettin, also was being stormed by Soviet troops "under cover of a blizzard," Berlin said. The enemy broadcast claimed that the Russians had been held in the fringes of the town, site of a large American prisoner of war camp.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army and the adjoining Second White Russian group under Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky captured a total of 230 towns and villages yesterday in 10-mile gains, Moscow announced. A third major stronghold toppled by Zhukov's men was Polzin, 52 miles northeast of Stargard. It had been by-passed earlier in the race to the Baltic coast.

Rokossovsky's troops seized Gross-Tychow, site of a large American prisoner of war camp 18 miles south of captured Koeslin on the Baltic, but the fate of the Americans was not immediately determined. It was possible they had been moved westward before the twin Russian breagthroughs to the Baltic, although the American military mission in Moscow believed some of them would be rescued.

East of Pomerania in the Polish "corridor" below Danzig the eastern wing of Rokossovsky's army seized eight localities on a 50-mile front, smashing into the southern rim of the pocket created by the Pomeranian advance to the Baltic. These troops were within 30 miles of Danzig.

Reds Gain 18 Miles

Farther east the Russians also gained up to two miles on an 18-mile front southwest of Koenigsberg in East Prussia, capturing five localities in one of the fiercest struggles of the war. The Third White Russian army group in this area was striving to annihilate the remnants of 20 well-fortified Nazi divisions so it could turn its weight against the southeastern approaches to Danzig.

In Pomerania the Russians had split the Germans into three different segments and mobile Red army tank columns and infantrymen were fanning out in many directions as they sliced up the enemy into small fragments. Moscow dispatches said five Nazi divisions had been shattered already, including Elite SS formations; thousands of Germans were being rounded up in forest hideouts, many of them physically deficient home army recruits.

Rokossovsky's troops captured eight localities during the day on a curving 50-mile front northeast and south of fallen Koeslin. One spearhead seized Weisenthal, seven miles south of Schlawe, stronghold on the railway and highway to Danzig, 78 miles to the east, and also took Zuchen, six miles northeast of Kieslin and two miles from the Baltic sea.

South of Koeslin the Russians took Nedlin, eight miles northeast of Belgard, another stronghold which was surrounded. Belgard is at the top of a sack drawn around German troops fighting to the south between Russian-held Schivelbein and newly-captured Polzin.

Capture Prison Camp

The captured American prison camp site at Gross-Tychow is 13 miles southeast of Belgard, and six miles south of there Rokossovsky's lower wing took Gross Kroessin, linking up in this area with Zhukov's troops which seized Klotzen, five miles to the southwest.

Zhukov's troops captured 150 localities, including Neu-Wurow and Teschendorf, south of Polzin on the road to Falkenburg, and also seized Briesen, five miles south of Schivelbein.

But these were all rear-guard actions fought against hopelessly surrounded enemy units, and Moscow did not disclose, for security reasons, the northernmost thrusts of its forces around Kolberg on the northern road to Swinemuende. The Red army high command also apparently was withholding the full extent of the break-through toward Stettin because dispatches from Moscow said some Soviet spearheads were within sight of Stettin bay, 24 miles west of captured Naugard.

By German account the two Russian armies now have widened their Baltic foothold in Pomerania to nearly 50 miles between Schlawe and Kolberg in the west.

The fall of Stargard, a 15-way road and rail junction 19 miles east of Stettin, knocked out the southern hinge of Nazi forces strung out along the Dammscher lake, the lower Oder, Stettin bay and Dievenow river.

With the seizure of Naugard the Russians were within thirteen miles northeast of Gollnow, big communications hub astride the north-south German communications in this vulnerable corner of Pomerania. They also were less than ten miles from the railway linking both ends of this pocket.

Striking northwest of Naugard, junction town on the Stettin-Koeslin military superhighway, the Russians were less than twenty-four miles from Hagen on the east bank of the Dievenow River opposite Wollin Island, along the road to Swinemuende.

The port of Swinemuende, fifteen miles beyond Hagen, controls the sea gate between the Baltic and Stettin, but there was no indication that the Russians intended to fight their way frontally toward Stettin.

Once the Russians reach the Dievenow River they will have destroyed the chances of any effective German flanking thrust against the Russian salient pointed toward Berlin and will have straightened their north-south lines on a 210-mile front from the Baltic to the Silesian-Czechoslovak frontier.

Germans Driven To Gates Of Stettin

DAY

KASISCHKE

London, March 5 (AP)—Marshal Gregory Zhukov's forces threw the Germans back upon the gates of Stettin today. They captured Stargard, fortress junction 19 miles to the east, and began shelling the suburbs of Berlin's chief Baltic port.

Marshal Stalin and the Germans announced the fall of Stargard. Stalin said a string of other strong points "in the Stettin direction," including Naugard, had been occupied in a 9-mile advance from Daber.

Russian penetrations to the Baltic had snapped a triple lock of an estimated 200,000 Germans caught in three coastal pockets extending 150 miles from Kolberg to Danzig. Powerful new drives threatened to sweep the Germans out of all Pomerania in short order.

Advanced units already were in sight of Stettin Bay.

Third Spearhead

Two Russian spearheads on the Baltic near Kolberg and at Koeslin have been supplemented by a third farther east between Koeslin and Schlawe, the Germans reported.

Stargard, one of the more important outer defenses of Stettin, was taken after a brief street fight, Berlin announced, by Marshal Zhukov's forces.

Capture of the city of 35,000 knocked down one of the chief obstacles to a direct Russian attack upon Stettin, under threat from Russian forces which had approached to within 14 miles on the south and were now in position to push upon the city from the northeast.

MAR 6 1945

At Baltic In Two Places

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army, overrunning 600 localities in a four-day 62-mile advance, which left piles of Volkssturm dead in its wake, reached the Baltic at two places.

The cutting of the land communications of perhaps 200,000 German troops in eastern Pomerania, Danzig and the Polish corridor in one of the biggest encirclement operations of the Eastern front, was announced by Moscow last night. Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore in Moscow had reported last Thursday that Rokossovsky had cut Danzig off by land and had thrust in between several cities on the Baltic coast.

The Russians were striking toward two stepping stone islands which would give them control of Stettin Bay and permit them to deny Stettin's port facilities to the enemy even if Stettin itself held out. It is on the west side of the Oder.

The islands are Wollin and Usedom, which separate Stettin Bay, north of Stettin, from Thehsea. The heavily fortified U-boat and seaplane base of Swinemuende is on Usedom, westernmost of the two islands.

Trying To Form Line

Gilmore said survivors of two German motorized divisions and three infantry divisions were struggling back toward the bay and the Oder and attempting to improvise a line extending southward from Cammin through Gollnow to Altdamm.

Cammin is on the Drievenow Strom, a water passage separating the mainland from Wollin Island. Gollnow is 13 miles northeast of Stettin and Altdamm is just across the Oder from Stettin.

Volkssturm Grenadiers were said to have been dealt a terrible beating in this offensive.

Old And Young Dead

Several thousands of these—clerks, farmers and workers ordinarily considered too old or too young to fight, veterans of the last war and invalided veterans of this war—were in the piled up dead on the outskirts of Koeslin, and several thousand more were reported wandering in the woods of the lake country. Many were attempting to pose as civilians who had taken no part in the fight.

West of Danzig, the Germans said, the Russians opened a fresh drive on Danzig today, "with the greatest deployment of material."

Moscow disclosed that units of Zhukov's forces plunging toward Stettin had reached the lower Oder River on a 10-mile front on both sides of Schwedt, at one point within 35 miles of the German capital.

Other Russian forces far to the east battled within 30 miles of the former free city of Danzig, while in East Prussia the last of 20 trapped Nazi divisions were being wiped out in a pocket southwest of Koenigsberg by Soviet artillery.

CHEMNITZ BOMBED BY DAY AND NIGHT

Heavy RAF Blow Follows Hit by 'Forts' at Saxon Rail Hub —Reich Oil, Berlin Targets

NIGHT

LONDON, Tuesday, March 6 (AP)—Royal Air Force bombers were over Germany last night in "very great strength," with Chemnitz, a Saxon city thirty-five miles from the Czechoslovakian border, as the main target and with Berlin also an objective, the British Air Ministry announced following a day in which nearly 700 American and British "heavies" from Britain bored through adverse weather to continue the aerial offensive against the Reich.

Chemnitz, whose important freight yards were bombed during the day by about 250 United States Flying Fortresses, is a supply base for the Nazis' eastern front against the Red Army. It has been hit frequently day and night by Allied bombers for the last three weeks. During this period an estimated 8,000 tons of explosives have been dropped on the city.

More than 400 Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the Eighth Air Force, guarded by 600 fighters, struck at two natural oil refineries at Harburg, near Hamburg, as well as at the yards at Chemnitz. Four bombers and three fighters were lost by the Eighth during the day.

RAF Hits Ruhr Benzol by Day

In the afternoon upward of 250 RAF Lancasters, escorted by Mustangs, bombed the Ruhr benzol plant near Gelsenkirchen.

It was the RAF Bomber Command's eighth successive daylight operation against the Ruhr, now menaced by onsweeping Allied armies, and the twenty-first consecutive day of assaults by United States "heavies" from Britain on the Nazis' inner fortress.

This was the first time in fifteen days the Eighth Air Force had sent out less than 1,000 bombers, and one of the few times that more of the Eighth's fighters than bombers have flown on a strategic mission.

"The force was reduced because of bad weather over the continent, and not for any other reason," said an Eighth Air Force staff officer.

The Eighth's bombers split into three packs. About 150 Liberators went after the Rhenania and Ebano oil refineries at Harburg—described as the two most important active producers in the Reich—and two waves of Fortresses attacked the Chemnitz yards.

All objectives were bombed through clouds by instruments.

Meanwhile it was disclosed officially that our Italy-based bombers, carrying on a prolonged campaign against enemy rail lines, had caused serious disruption to transportation facilities on vital segments of the Austrian communications system" serving the German Army.

Ninth Attacks Nazi Depots

The United States Ninth Air Force made nearly 400 flights during the morning despite heavy clouds and bad icing conditions, attacking enemy ordnance depots at Unna, eleven miles east of Dortmund, with firebombs and striking at three railyards and other communications targets from the Ruhr to Bonn.

Unna is believed to be one of three depots from which the Germans are drawing equipment for use on the Western Front. The Germans are said to have been losing a great deal of matériel in withdrawing across the Rhine and to have been counting on these depots to replace supplies.

The RAF's Second Tactical Air Force flew 400 sorties before 3:30 P. M. in attacks on Nazi rocket sites and on enemy rolling stock in the immediate battle area of the Western Front. The operations were curtailed by bad weather.

day of the sustained aerial offensive. They were escorted by 600 Mustangs and Thunderbolts which fanned out seeking German trains and road convoys.

At the same time about 250 British heavy bombers made a concentrated daylight attack on the benzol plant at Gelsenkirchen, just behind the German Rhineland front.

The Royal Air Force carried on during the night. While one force of Mosquitoes hit Berlin, another group attacked Essen, important railway hub at the north end of the Ruhr. The Air Ministry said no planes were lost in either operation.

The round-the-clock air offensive was kept in high gear yesterday despite bad weather that brought snow and rain to a large part of Europe. Roughly 1,600 American and British heavy bombers concentrated on railroad yards at Ulm, fifty miles

1000 U. S. Planes Over Reich

DAY

400 Bombers and 600 Fighters Join in Blasting and Strafing Railways.

London, March 5 (A. P.)—Four hundred heavy bombers of the British-based Eighth United States Air Force assaulted the railway network at Chemnitz and oil refineries at Harburg today, the twenty-first consecutive southeast of Stuttgart, and Wanneeickel, one of the largest rail centers in the Ruhr. Italian-based American heavy bombers blasted the railway networks in Austria and Hungary that serve the eastern front.

The German rocket-launching zone along the Dutch coast was bombed and strafed in shuttle attacks. Hits on V-bomb dumps caused explosions that nearly threw the Spitfire pilots out of their cockpits. Railways leading to the area were cut at a number of places.

Three bombers and two fighters were lost by the American Eighth Air Force yesterday, bringing losses in the last eight days to seventy-four bombers and forty-nine fighters out of 14,000 planes employed in the missions.

ALLIES ACT TO SPEED UNITED POLISH REGIME

NIGHT

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—Allied moves to facilitate the formation of a Polish provisional government of national unity were speeded up tonight in an effort to assure Poland a place at the San Francisco world security conference, as the London Poles faced the probability of surviving not more than five or six weeks as a legally recognized regime.

Diplomatic quarters here understood that the Big Three commission in Moscow had agreed on a list of Poles to be invited to a conference of Polish leaders that would be held in Moscow in connection with the formation of the new Government. Last week's debate on Poland in the House of Commons apparently speeded preparation.

NAZI PILOTS STRAFE BRITISH VILLAGES

DAY

London, March 5 (A. P.).—German war planes with pilots attacked Britain last night after a similar assault early yesterday morning—the first such blows since last June 13, when the pilotless buzz-bomb offensive began.

Last night's raids were not as heavy as the morning attacks, which cost the Germans six of their raiders.

Dipping low over one east coast town, a Luftwaffe pilot unloaded a number of small bombs, two of which burst over the roof of a nursery building. The only casualty was a woman attendant, who was cut by splinters.

One of the morning Nazi raiders penetrated to the London area. The rest of the force, not considered large, hit at widely separated places in northern and eastern England.

The attacks killed and injured a number of persons and caused considerable damage in some villages. The planes roared down to roof-top level, machine-gunning rows of dwellings and pedestrians.

BRITISH STRIKES GO ON

NIGHT

More Troops Sent to Docks to Aid in Unloading War Cargoes

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—Hundreds more British soldiers, bringing the total to 3,000, moved into London's waterfront today to handle priority cargoes from meat to war equipment as Britain's worst dock strike since 1926 went into its fifth day.

MAR 6 1945

There was yet no sign of any return by 7,000 strikers whose spokesmen have voiced a series of grievances from the charge that their part in the war effort had not been appreciated to a demand for reinstatement of workers suspended because of absenteeism.

A strike of Scottish coal miners also continued, and Abe Moffat, president of the Miners Union, Scottish District, estimated 8,000 to 10,000 men were out today. He placed loss of coal since the start of the dispute last week at between 50,000 and 60,000 tons.

J. Donovan, secretary of the dock section, Transport and General Workers Union, expressed hope the strikers would return tomorrow, and called a special mass meeting tonight to iron out the differences.

Raid Alerts Please Hausfraus

LONDON, March 5 (AP).—Berlin's housewives look forward to an air-raid alert these days because electricity has to be turned on for the warning sirens and this gives housekeepers a chance to cook, the German radio said tonight.

Nazi Chicken Slaughter

DAY

London, March 5 (AP)—The Nazis decreed drastic slaughtering programs for domestic fowl today in an effort to conserve the maximum amounts of grain for human consumption.

All persons living in towns must dispose of their poultry, establishment of new chicken ranches was forbidden, limitations placed on the number of brood hens that may be retained by farmers, and only peasants and poultry farmers will be allowed to raise chickens at all after April 1.

Previously the slaughtering of pigs and cattle to save grain for bread was ordered.

DAY

Englishman Pleads Guilty to Writing Script for Nazis in Paris

LONDON, March 5 (AP).—Gerald Percy Sandys Hewitt, forty-four years old, an Englishman who broadcast for the Nazis during the occupation of France, was sentenced to twelve years in prison today for acts likely to assist the enemy.

Hewitt, who lived twenty-three years in Paris, where he gave English lessons, pleaded guilty to writing propaganda scripts for the Nazis, but he argued they were anti-Bolshevik and not anti-British or anti-French.

When German military fortunes began to turn, the prosecutor alleged, Hewitt tried to escape to Switzerland, but failed.

U.S. SOLDIER SENTENCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT

BRISTOL, Eng., March 5—(AP) An American soldier's "gangster-like existence" in the British cities of Bristol, Bath and Cardiff for four months last year culminated today in a U. S. Army court-martial sentencing him to life imprisonment.

Army authorities said the soldier, Pvt. Malcom Thornley, 22, of Providence, R. I., was convicted of desertion, theft of Army motor vehicles, theft of 39,000 francs, refusing to surrender a weapon to an officer, twice breaking out of military confinement, and a morals charge. He was acquitted of a rape charge.

Testimony showed that Thornley, posing as a military police staff sergeant, rented flats, lived in hotels and drove girls around in a stolen jeep, with the girls disguised as U. S. Army nurses.

The prosecution said Thornley twice escaped fro mmilitary prison and that once when military police were searching him, an innocent soldier was shot by mistake.

It was charged further that he asked a garage owner to exchange 39,000 francs—funds stolen from a transport command mess.

Monty's Mother Sees War's End This Month

London, March 5 (AP) — Marshal Montgomery, always an obedient son, has been told to wind up the European war by March 23.

Lady Montgomery, mother of Monty, has predicted that the war will be over by that date, the Evening Standard said today, adding:

"And she says she has written to the field marshal to make sure her forecast is fulfilled."

Shaw Predicts Euthenasia

DAY

London, March 5 (AP) — George Bernard Shaw expressed belief today that society eventually must sanction some form of "state-contrived euthenasia" for dangerous lunatics, idiots and intolerable nuisances," but said he thought present methods of execution horrifying and disgusting.

Shaw expressed his views in a letter to the Times commenting on the death sentence imposed on Elizabeth Maude Jones, British strip-tease dancer, who was convicted with Private Karl Gustav Hulten, of Cambridge, Mass., on January 23 of the robbery-slaying of a London taxi driver. The two are to be hanged Thursday.

"Less Unpleasant Way"

Shaw suggested the girl should be executed in some less "unpleasant way."

"If the strip-tease girl had been told simply that her case was under consideration and she were presently to be found dead in her bed some morning in a quite comfortable lethal chamber not known to her to be such, the relief to the public conscience would be enormous," Shaw wrote.

Observing that the present method of executing criminals was the same as that used 2,000 years ago Shaw asked: "Is it not time to reconsider it?"

Discusses Girl's Case

"We have before us the case of a girl whose mental condition unfits her to live in a civilized community, he continued. "She has been guilty of theft and murder and apparently her highest ambition is to be what she calls a gun moll, meaning a woman who thinks that robbery and murder are romantically delightful professions.

"Clearly we have either to put such a character to death or re-educate her. Having no technique of re-education immediately available we have decided to put her to death. The decision is a very sensible one, as the alternative is to waste useful lives in caging and watching her as a tigress in a zoo must be caged and watched."

Mexico Plan Seen As Frisco Issue

NIGHT

London, March 5 (AP)—Britons, sensitive to accusations from some American quarters that they were moving toward spheres of influence in Europe, saw a possibility today the Inter-American security set-up in Mexico City might raise some touchy issues at the San Francisco conference.

Asserting the Act of Chapultepec "may prove an awkward precedent," the Manchester Guardian said: "Admirable though this (the Mexico City) decision is in principle, one cannot help feeling that it is rather more than 'a forerunner' of San Francisco."

Relationship Questioned

Raising the question of the relation between regional agreements and the general world organization, the newspaper asked if the Mexico City decision ruled out intervention by the Security Council in the Western Hemisphere.

The Washington correspondent of the London Times recalled that the Dumbarton Oaks proposals declared that "no enforcement action should be taken under regional arrangements or by regional agencies without authorization of the security council."

Pointing out that the voting procedure within the Security Council, as effected by the Crimea Conference, has not yet been made known, the Times said this procedure might be such as to give non-American great powers "the right to veto an action by American states against one of themselves."

If such were the case, the newspaper added, it would represent the "re-entry of European influence into the Western Hemisphere as the Monroe Doctrine was proclaimed to deny and the Act of Chapultepec is designed to make unnecessary."

NAZI CIVILIANS WARNED

LONDON, March 5—(AP) German civilians were warned tonight by Gen. Eisenhower's radio spokesman to disobey Nazi orders to dig trench works around Rhine towns because such work "is a deathtrap under Allied artillery fire and bombing which will increase."

GERMANS DESTROY ALL RHINE BRIDGES

NIGHT

KASISCHKE

LONDON, March 5—(AP) The Germans declared tonight they had wrecked all the Rhine bridges from Cologne to Wesel—55 miles to the north, and that the bulk of the German army has withdrawn across the Rhine to fight the decisive battle of the war.

Admitting that Americans had broken into Cologne and reached the Rhine on a wide front north of the city, Berlin broadcasts maintained that the Germans had avoided large-scale entrapment.

Berlin also reported the U. S. Seventh army on the lower end of the front had been heavily reinforced and was increasing its attacks toward Saarbruecken.

In the east, the German people were told of the virtual collapse of their Baltic-Pomeranian front, and of a Russian four-army push on Stettin.

The Goebbels-paid Dr. Rudolf Semmler declared that "never in our history have we been in such a grave situation. Never have so many enemies assailed us at once. Never have we stood so totally alone."

Semmler asserted the Allied bag of prisoners in the battle west of the Rhine was low, which "shows that the German command is preserving the highest possible number of troops for the decisive battle of this war which will and must come."

The Nazis decreed a drastic slaughtering of poultry to conserve grains for human consumption.

Four Bombers Lost

Four bombers and three fighters were lost by the eighth today.

In the afternoon upward of 250 R.A.F. Lancasters, protected by Mustangs, raided the Ruhr benzol plant near Gelsenkirchen.

It was the R.A.F.'s eighth successive daylight operation against the Ruhr, now menaced by onsweeping Allied armies, and the 21st consecutive day of assaults by U. S. heavies on the Nazis' inner fortresses. This was the first time in 15 days the U. S. Eighth air force had sent out less than 1,000 bombers, and one of the few times more fighters than bombers flew on a strategic mission.

"The force was reduced because of bad weather over the continent, and not for any other reason," said an Eighth air force staff officer.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed officially that Italy-based bombers, carrying on a prolonged campaign against enemy rail lines, had caused "serious disruption to transportation facilities on vital segments of the Austrian communications system."

The Italian phase of the aerial campaign was climaxed yesterday by tremendous raids on rail targets serving German forces on the Hungarian and Yugoslav fronts.

Oil Targets Hit

In today's raids from Britain, a column of 400 American bombers split into three packs. About 150 Liberators went after the Rhenania and Ebano oil refineries at Harburg in northwest Germany—described as the two most important active producers in the Reich—while two waves of Fortresses totalling about 250 planes struck the Chemnitz yards already hammered repeatedly in recent weeks.

All objectives were bombed through clouds by instruments. The German air force offered no opposition and ground fire was minor, being directed mainly from radar-controlled guns that probed through a solid covering of clouds.

The U. S. Ninth Air force made nearly 400 trips during the morning despite heavy clouds and bad icing conditions, attacking ordnance depots at Unna, 11 miles east of Dortmund, with firebombs and striking at three railyards and other communications targets from the Ruhr to Bonn.

Unna is believed to be one of three depots from which the enemy is drawing equipment for use in western France. The Germans were said to have lost a great deal of materiel in withdrawing across the Rhine and were counting on these supplies for replacements.

Wide Bombing Devastation

LONDON, March 5 (AP).—In Cologne 60 per cent of the main built-up area, or about 2,000 acres, has been razed by the 55,000 tons of explosives dropped on the city in repeated Allied air attacks. Fifteen thousand tons were unloaded by heavy bombers of the United States 8th Air Force and the remainder by the Royal Air Force, which in June, 1942, selected Cologne for its first 1,000-bomber raid on a large German city.

British Shipowners Prepare

LONDON, March 5 (AP)—British shipowners are looking forward to entering the field of airlines themselves and are watching closely the American Government's attitude toward joint sea-air routes.

Already eighty-five British companies have filed applications changing their articles of incorporation to enable them to run air lines. The British Government view has not yet been announced.

A spokesman for the British shipowners said they were prepared to fight any attempt to create a monopoly through restricting steamship lines from the air.

EISENHOWER HAILS DANISH SABOTEURS

Communique Reveals German Trains Are Delayed — Help Called Aid to All Fronts

PARIS, March 5 (AP)—A special Supreme Headquarters communiqué today said that the Danish underground was attacking German troop movements so effectively that not a single train was able to reach Germany without having been delayed.

"This action by Danish saboteurs is an effective contribution to current military operations on both the Western and Eastern Fronts," the communiqué said.

The troop movements presumably were related to the withdrawal of German divisions from Norway for defense of the Reich.

France Rejects Sponsorship Of San Francisco Conference

PARIS, March 5—(AP) France has informed the United States, Great Britain and Russia that she will not attend the San Francisco United Nations conference as a sponsor, but merely as an invited nation.

The decision to reject sponsorship of the meeting was made by the cabinet after the return of Foreign Minister Georges Bidault from conferences with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in London, it was disclosed.

The reason given for the decision was that acceptance of a sponsoring role would place France in the position of accepting Dumbarton Oaks conference decisions which she had no part in making and there was not sufficient time for study of "such important matter."

It was said that the formal invitation to France to participate as a sponsor at San Francisco arrived only yesterday.

The first word of the official French attitude toward the United Nations meeting reached Paris through dispatches from Washington today and the first reaction among members of the consultative assembly was one of extreme disappointment.

Many members of the assembly traced the government's attitude to General de Gaulle's refusal to meet with President Roosevelt in the Mediterranean and reiterated their view that this was no time for France to stand on ceremony and that she should join wholeheartedly with the Big Three.

News of the rejection of sponsorship of the San Francisco meeting tended to widen the differences between the assembly and the government which have been becoming more pronounced in recent weeks.

United States Admits Error

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, March 5 (AP)—American Liberators bombed Basel, Switzerland, by mistake through heavy cloud yesterday, the United States Strategic Air Forces announced. A communique said bombardiers of eight Liberators mistakenly identified Basel, adjacent to the German border, as a target in Germany.

Nazis Ask Cash For Refugees

With U.S. 1st Army, March 5 (AP). German commanders have asked their soldiers to donate their March pay to the relief of refugees from eastern Germany, it was learned today. The commanders ordered that any soldiers who refused should be reported to headquarters

French Position Explained.

Paris, March 5 (A. P.).—Foreign Office spokesmen said today that France had declined to become a sponsor of the San Francisco conference because the other sponsoring countries objected to France's offering of reservations. Spokesmen announced last week that France had accepted sponsorship but reserved the right to present amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks and Yalta decisions. Later, they said, they found that sponsoring powers will not be permitted to offer amendments.

"We cannot subscribe to all that has been done without our participation," one official commented. "At least we cannot do this without adequate study and preparation. This would perhaps take a month or so. Hence we cannot consider ourselves bound by Yalta."

He added that France intends to participate in the San Francisco Conference and to propose several amendments. An announcement on the French position will be issued later, it was asserted.

3d and 7th on the Move

PARIS, March 5 (AP). — The United States 3d Army today was pushing along the Pruem-Coblenz highway, where it long had been held in check, and was at least eight miles east of Pruem and within forty-seven miles of Coblenz. The 3d was moving under a partial news blackout—often invoked when an Allied army is traveling fast and the enemy is bewildered—but it was known that it had breached the Kyll River on a twenty-five-mile front, fought eastward at least three and a half miles and captured eight towns.

The United States 7th Army was a mile and a half from the Saar Basin capital, Saarbruecken, after driving the last German from the French gateway town of Forbach, and was pounding Saarbruecken with artillery.

The 7th Army, after clearing Forbach, liberated 1,250 Allied prisoners of war in the near-by town of Stiring-Vendel. Russians, French, Poles and Czechs were among those freed by the 70th Infantry Division.

Fliers With Seventh Army Score

WITH UNITED STATES SEVENTH ARMY, March 5 (AP)—Thunderbolts led by Lieut. John P. Botten of Cleveland, Ohio, attacked a concentration of Nazi troops and vehicles, including tanks, at Schoeneck, three miles northeast of Forbach, today. They scored repeated hits, Lieut. Botten said, adding that the town was "practically destroyed."

The First Tactical Air Force flew more than 200 sorties in bad weather without loss and claimed one locomotive, thirty-four cars, sixteen trucks and four tanks disabled.

Nazi Soldiers' Pay Drafted

WITH UNITED STATES 1ST ARMY, March 5 (AP).—German commanders have asked their soldiers to donate their March pay to the relief of refugees from eastern Germany, it was learned today. The commanders ordered that any soldier who refused should be reported to headquarters.

COLOGNE CATHEDRAL HIT

COLOGNE SUBURBS, Germany, March 5—(AP) One spire of the famous 13th century Cologne cathedral appears from here to have a small chunk knocked from one of its sides. A German sergeant, just captured, said the cathedral received a direct hit about three weeks ago.

NEW HAVEN FLIER VIEWS COLOGNE CATHEDRAL

AN AMERICAN AIR BASE IN BELGIUM, March 5—(AP) Fighter-bomber pilots who flew over Cologne repeatedly before fighting broke out in the city's streets said today the famous cathedral apparently had suffered no major damage.

"Both spires still were there and they looked all right," said Capt. William E. Rodgers of Hartselle, Ala., whose report was supported by Lt. Robert Tracey, 75 Third street, New Haven, Conn., and Lt. Robert S. Hagan, Kansas City, Mo.

'OLD' COLOGNE NAZI REFUGE

Germans Falling Back Into Ancient Part Of City

NIGHT

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

With U.S. Troops at Cologne, March 5 (AP)—American tanks and infantry tonight had broken through the outer defense belts into Cologne and one staff officer estimated that only 1,000 German defenders remained in the great industrial city on the Rhine.

Surrounded by Yank armor and doughboys, who during the day had worked their way through the suburbs toward the modern section of Cologne, these last-ditch battlers were slowly withdrawing into the "Altstadt" or "old town" section of the historic city bordering the river.

Fifth In U.S. Hands

One fifth of the sprawling 25 square miles of the city actually was in American hands. As a result of the spearhead driven through the main defense belts to within 2½ miles of the river, the enemy garrison was compelled to pull back to escape being chopped to pieces.

The old city, which contains the world-famous cathedral and many important and picturesque medieval buildings, makes up only about one fourth of the entire city. It is within this compressed area that the German Army is making its final stand for the Reich's fourth largest city.

Foe Saves Heavy Equipment

Most of the German heavy equipment already has been trundled to the east bank to deliver supporting fire, and only a relatively few self-propelled guns remain.

German foot soldiers were reported making their way to the east bank in small boats and across the damaged Hohenzollern bridge.

The forces assigned to the sacrificial role of impeding the American seizure of the city as long as possible were fighting with mortars, machine guns and rifles and a few 88-mm. anti-aircraft guns.

Citizens Stream Out

While the German Army continues its hollow pretense of carrying out Hitler's order to make Cologne a "fortress city," its citizens have tacitly conceded its surrender.

They have no wish to be caught in a hopeless struggle and are streaming out toward the American lines in the hundreds.

"It looks like the German Army is trying to clog our roads with their own people," said Lieut. Col. Mark Plaisted, former Springfield (Ill.) advertising executive, recalling similar tactics the Nazis used in filling roads ahead of them with terror-stricken refugees during their Blitzkrieg through France.

Of All Ages, In Long Lines

German refugees, men and women of all ages, some carrying babies or leading children by the hand, are moving out in long lines.

Their household valuables are piled in carts or on cream-colored perambulators. Most carts are piled high with blankets and bedding to protect the families against the March cold.

Many housewives have loaded jars of preserved fruits and food of all kinds into perambulators beside their babies.

In these long lines of distress, their faces showed neither hate nor fear. They were either fawningly polite or completely stolid with the fixed look of despair worn by all homeless fugitives.

Volkssturm's Failure

Many officers commented on the failure of the Volkssturm — the civilian army which Hitler predicted would defend every inch of the Reich—to take an effective role in the defense of Cologne.

"In the little village of Loevenich, just outside Cologne, which we finished taking this morning, the German Army called up 121 Volkssturm troops—and only three showed up," said Plaisted. "These men weren't regular army troops, but they knew the war was lost—even if the Nazi party doesn't—and they wanted no part of it. They stayed at home with their families.

"One of the most significant things we have noticed showing the change in the civilians' sentiment is the fact that factory owners in the sections we pass through now leave maintenance staffs behind to take care of their property.

'Save What They Can'

"They want to keep their factories going even if we control the territories. They have given up any idea Germany can win through and their only thought now is to save as much of their property as possible from destruction."

Hard pressed to maintain any kind of sustained resistance, German military leaders have thrown into the line stragglers and a hodgepodge of units including walking wounded.

"Our bombers have destroyed all but one of the bridges across the Rhine here, and our last report is that the last one collapsed from bomb damage but is still usable by foot troops," said Plaisted.

Third Armored Division tankmen under Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose, of Denver, won the race to reach the city by a couple of hours over Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's 104th Division doughboys, but both divisions are teamed up to clear the city.

Rough At Loevenich

One of the roughest fights on the perimeter of the city was at Loevenich, which was cleared by troops under Col. John H. Cochran, of Coloma, Mich.

His men destroyed twelve enemy 40-mm. anti-aircraft guns within a small area. The Germans had depressed them to fire vicious bursts at the advancing infantry.

A battalion commanded by Lieut. Col. Fred E. Needham, 941 Sonoma way, Sacramento, Cal., finally captured Loevenich after one company attacked and relieved another company that was pinned down by ack-ack fire.

Troops led by Lieut. Col. Caspar Clough, Oak Ledge Park, Saugerties, N.Y., meanwhile captured Widdersdorf to the north, thus opening a lane for an attack into Cologne proper.

Nazi Refugees Trudge Along In Deep Mud Outside Cologne

Barred From Roads Used by American Forces, They Keep to Ditches and Fields on Way Back to Broken Homes.

DAY

By DON WHITEHEAD.

Niederaussen, Germany, March 5 (A. P.).—In deep brown mud along the roads outside Cologne trudged straggling lines of men, women and children today, bearing their little bundles of food and clothing—and the misery of defeat.

They were returning to their homes; in most cases to piles of rubble and debris that once had been home. They could not get on the roads, for the roads were jammed with tanks, trucks, jeeps and guns moving forward. So they walked in the fields and ditches soaked by a cold dismal rain.

These were the people who such a little while ago listened to and believed the tales of world power the Nazis told them. Now they were paying the price of defeat. Their bubble had burst. Now they were merely trying to exist until some order came out of chaos.

Animals Wander About.

Looking into their faces it was difficult to tell what these people were thinking. There was no fear apparent. In most stolid countenances there seemed to be a worried resignation and acceptance of catastrophe which had come so swiftly.

Along the road, too, were horses wandering aimlessly or running frantically from the thunder of many motors. Cows with milk-swollen udders walked painfully across the fields. No one had taken the trouble to milk them as the battle passed this way. Chickens and geese fluttered foolishly about deserted farm houses and the Americans looked at them with interest.

In a weather-stained old church in this village were crowded 500 civilians. It was a foolish place to take refuge in war, for churches are not exempt from shelling—their steeples almost always make excellent observation posts for the enemy.

The church would seat perhaps 150 people comfortably, but these refugees jammed into every nook of it, and their voices make a harsh hum that [illegible] and fell like the sound of [illegible]ming bees. They had lived [illegible]e for days and there was the strong stench of sweating and unwashed bodies, of straw and the odor of food.

A few candles burned in the church to illuminate the weird scene, and high in the wavering shadows above the altar hung the crucifix.

MAR 6 1945

Potatoes and Preserves.

Out in the muddy courtyard some people stood in the rain to get a breath of fresh air. Children baked potatoes in the hot ashes of an open fire, and an elderly woman doled out preserved fruits and vegetables from a collection of jars salvaged from a shelled house.

Major Charles Kapes of Hazelton, Pa., provost marshal for the Third Armored Division, walked into the churchyard, and a babble of voices rose. A doctor wanted to know if there was medicine for sick people in the church. A woman wanted permission to go to her home and get food from her basement. Another wanted to open up a kitchen to feed her family.

Major Kapes said wearily: "The Military Government will take care of all these things. My job is to see that these people stay off the roads, and do not interfere with the war."

But he granted as many requests as he could, and said that others would have to wait until the Military Government took over.

Has Kin in New York.

The interpreter was a middle-aged woman who said she had two brothers and two sisters living in New York and a brother-in-law who owned a fox ranch in Wyoming. She said her husband had taught French and English in Duesseldorf until two years ago when he entered the army. He is now fighting in Italy, she added.

Then the woman leaned forward and whispered: "Many people were forced to go into the party who did not want to join. If you didn't join, you couldn't get bread. My husband was forced to join, and he always said that Germany could not win the war. Five years ago he said it was hopeless because the Americans would come in on the side of England, and we could not fight against such masses of material as you could produce."

The woman said that people had been living in basements and in the church for the past week, afraid to go out because of the shelling and fighting which came nearer and nearer, passed through the town, and moved on to the east.

1st Army Proves Mettle In Fight For Cologne

DAY

By Don Whitehead

On the outskirts of Cologne, March 5 (AP)—The surge of 1st Army infantry and tanks into battered Cologne today proved the American soldiers' ability to take a lot of punishment and come back slugging.

And the triumphal American march to the Rhine likewise underlined the fact that Field Marshal von Rundstedt's great counter-offensive failed to wreck General Eisenhower's plans for a winter offensive. The recuperative power of the American armies which were pounded in the battle of the bulge is one of the highlights of the invasion.

Yanks On The Rhine

Sixty days ago the 1st Army was locked in a bitter struggle with powerful enemy forces trying to smash their way to Liege and north to Brussels and Antwerp. Today American doughboys are on the Rhine.

After driving von Rundstedt's offensive back, the Americans went on the offensive themselves. Their push was the greatest drive yet mounted by Eisenhower.

Even while von Rundstedt's push was being halted, supplies were pouring onto the Continent for the present American drive. Many believed that the German commander had thrown Eisenhower's plans awry until next spring. But the Americans came back strong.

Supplies Better

The abundance of supplies for the American drive was evident in many ways, even in little luxury items for front-line troops, such as candy and cigarettes.

Recently at a front-line command post, soldiers were distributing cigarettes, toilet articles, candy and post-exchange items.

"Our supplies are better now than they have ever been," said Lieut. Joseph Daly, of Yonkers, N.Y. "We are getting plenty of stuff."

Eleventh Day Of Offensive

Once they were set, the 9th and 1st armies made their moves and the Germans did not have enough men and guns to halt the advance. In just ten days the 1st Army reached the Rhine and wiped out the Germans' defenses before Cologne. Today is the 11th day of the offensive.

The 1st Army's drive to the Rhine was spearheaded by Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's 104th "Timberwolf" Infantry Division and Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose's 3d Armored Division, which was the first into Belgium and the first into Germany.

Men of the 104th crossed the flooded Roer River and beat back the Germans until the engineers could get bridges over the stream. Behind them came Rose's armored columns. Working as a team, the two divisions then pushed to the Erft River. There Rose's columns accomplished an unusual feat for armor—they grabbed bridgeheads across the Erft before the infantry.

Rose's orders did not call for that. However, he saw a chance while the enemy was disorganized and spurred his tank leaders with the offer of a case of scotch for the first task force commander to establish a bridgehead. It was a race between Lieut. Col. Samuel Hogan of Pharr, Texas, and Lieut. Col. Walter Richardson, of Beaumont, Texas. Hogan won.

Dash For Cologne

Once they had bridges across the Erft and a canal these two divisions gathered their strength and began the dash for Cologne, battering their way through a series of mining communities, which were enemy strongpoints.

The 3d Armored Division crushed resistance in Stommeln and Poulheim which formed the enemy's last line of resistance, and reconnaissance troops under Lieut. Col. Prentice (Iron Mike) Yeomans, of Syracuse, N.Y., pushed on to the edge of the Rhine north of Cologne.

Armored columns followed, sealing off the north side of the city and Rose was in position to send his tanks toward Cologne at 4 A.M., today while Allen's men were pushing in from the west.

Artillery Does Job

Two anti-tank guns were giving the troops trouble at Bocklemuend when they called for artillery.

"The shells landed squarely on the German position and the crews ran away," said Major Stanley Hidalgo, of Port Arthur, Texas. "We had no more trouble from those guns."

Everyone wondered what sort of opposition would be met inside Cologne.

"I believe they (the Germans) only have got bits and pieces of units left in town," said Lieut. Col. Andrew Barr, of Urbana, Ill.

DRIVE PROVES FOE FAILED IN BULGE

NIGHT

On the outskirts of Cologne, March 5 (A. P.).—The advance of First Army infantry and tanks into Cologne today proved the American soldiers' ability to take a lot of punishment and come back slugging.

The whole Allied march to the Rhine underlined the fact that Field Marshal von Rundstedt's counter-offensive failed to wreck Gen. Eisenhower's plans for a winter offensive.

Even while Von Rundstedt's push was being halted, supplies were pouring onto the continent for the present drive. The abundance of supplies and material for the drive was evident in many ways, even in little luxury items for frontier troops such as candy, cigarettes, toilet articles, and post exchange items.

"Our supplies are better now than they have ever been," said Lieut. Joseph Daly of 105 Waring Place, Yonkers, N. Y. "We are getting plenty of stuff."

GOT HIS SCOTCH— NOW FOR COLOGNE

On the Outskirts of Cologne, March 5 (A. P.).—Major-Gen. Maurice Rose's Third Armored Division, which was the first into Belgium and the first into Germany, accomplished an unusual feat for armor in the breakthrough to Cologne—grabbed bridgeheads across the Erft River before the infantry.

Gen. Rose's orders did not call for that. However, he saw a chance while the enemy was disorganized and spurred his tank leaders with the offer of a case of Scotch for the first task force commander to establish a bridgehead. It was a race between Lieut.-Col. Samuel Hogan of Pharr, Tex., and Lieut.-Col. Walter Richardson of Beaumont, Tex. Lieut.-Col. Hogan won. Then the two divisions gathered their strength and dashed for Cologne.

Roechling, Industrialist Of Saar, Reported Killed

Nazis Say They Executed Two Russian Soldiers for Deed

AACHEN, Germany, March 5 (AP).—The death of Hermann Roechling, biggest industrialist of the Saar, has been announced by the Germans in reports that said he had been killed "by two Russian soldiers," who have been executed at Saarbruecken.

It is possible that Roechling was one of the industrialists sent by the Nazis to reopen war industries in Russia and Poland during the German occupation, and that he was caught by the steamroller advance of the Red Army.

If this were the case, the execution of two Russians at Saarbruecken would be one of those theatrical moves of which Adolf Hitler is so fond—bringing Roechling's alleged murderers back to the city where his (principal) holdings are located.

Foe Reported Reinforced

ROME, March 5 (AP)—Front dispatches reported unusually heavy artillery actions and Allied air attacks today north of Mount Della Torraccia. One dispatch said that the Germans had rushed elements of two divisions to help defend the rugged country.

Where the additional enemy forces came from was not known, but they presumably were shifted from other sectors of the Italian front.

Marquis Visconti Venosta

NIGHT

Wounded In Last War, He Was Killed on 8th Army Front

ROME, March 5 (AP).—Major Marquis Enrico Visconti Venosta, great-nephew of Count Camillo Benso Cavour, Italian statesman of the last century, was killed in action with the Italian Army on the 8th Army front yesterday, it was announced today. He was sixty-one years old.

Visconti Venosta was the son of Emilio Visconti Venosta, former Italian Minister and brother of Giovanni Visconti Venosta, who was Foreign Undersecretary in the first Bonomi government.

Visconti Venosta was wounded many times in the World War. After the Allied landings and the armistice with Italy in this war, he engaged first as an interpreter in an Allied unit and later was granted permission by the War Ministry to join Italian combat forces.

ROATTA ESCAPES FROM HOSPITAL

DAY

BRIA

ROME, March 5—(AP) Gen. Mario Roatta, former army chief of staff and head of the Fascist Secret Service, whose trial by a high court of justice on many charges of supporting Fascism was drawing to a close, escaped from a military hospital last night in what the Carabinieri commander described is an "obviously well-organized break." ($10,000)

As an intensive search began through liberated Italy, the ministry of the interior offered a 1,000,000 lire ($5,000) reward for information leading to the apprehension of Rottta, for whom the prosecution had demanded life imprisonment. Roatta also is wanted by Yugoslavia as a war criminal.

Roatta's wife, who visited him shortly before the escape, was held for questioning. All Carabinieri connected with the custody of Roatta, together with an army medical officer, a fellow patient named Major Rossi and Lt. Col. Ferrazzi, Roatta's aide, also were held for questioning.

The presiding judge, meanwhile, ordered the trial to continue as though Roatta were present.

It was learned that all lights in the hospital went out at 9:30 p. m. and remained out about an hour. Roatta's escape was discovered some time later during an inspection tour.

Allies Improve Positions in 2 Areas in Italy

5th Takes Hill Southwest ofBologna; ItaliansHeroic in 8th's Adriatic Advance

HEINZERLING

ROME, March 5 (AP).—American 5th Army troops have captured another dominating hill position, Monte della Croce, and further improved their position west of the Bologna-Pistoia highway with the capture of several small villages, Allied headquarters announced today.

On the Adriatic sector of the Italian front, 8th Army units comprised of Italian infantry and British artillery and tanks have further cleared the forests south of the Po di Primaro River, taking another 200 prisoners.

The American advances were made in the sector southwest of Bologna, adjacent to Monte Belvedere, which was taken ten days ago by the United States 10th Mountain Division. The Americans pounded away at enemy winter-line positions in the area, inflicting casualties and taking several prisoners yesterday.

The fighting along the Po di Primaro, which is an extension of the Reno River to the Adriatic, was marked by a number of heroic exploits by Italian "Cremona Group" troops, headquarters announced. In one instance an Italian officer armed only with two grenades crossed to the north bank of the stream, made his way through a mine field and captured eighteen Germans. He also rescued an Italian soldier who lay wounded in the mine field.

Three French cruisers bombarded an enemy railroad tunnel and an armed train near the French-Italian border town of Bordighera on Saturday, Navy headquarters announced.

REDS RESCUE MORE ALLIED PRISONERS

MAY

Moscow, March 5 (A. P.).—New groups of British, French and Dutch prisoners of war have been liberated by the Russian Army's advance through Pomerania, front-line dispatches to Pravda said today. No Americans were mentioned, but the American Military Mission in Moscow said it was probable that some were among them. They are believed to have been rescued from a column of 200,000 prisoners being driven westward before the Russian advance.

A total of 1,200 American officers and soldiers are now in Odessa awaiting transportation, after being rescued by the Russians, the mission said. Wright Bryan, war correspondent of the Atlanta Journal, is among them, and, the mission said, has requested permission to visit Moscow.

Panic spread among the Pomeranian landowners who had been working their farms with slave labor, including Russian and Polish girls, Pravda said, and added that on the estate of Johann Walbe the workers revolted as the Red Army approached, and hanged Walbe on a century-old tree in front of his mansion.

RIOTS REPORTED INSIDE BUCHAREST

NIGHT

MOSCOW, March 5—(AP) A Tass news dispatch reported today that pro-Fascist bands were rioting in the streets of Bucharest and tearing pictures of United Nations leaders from buildings in the Romanian capital, which has been without a government since that of Prime Minister Radescu resigned a week ago.

The Tass report quoting the Romanian newspaper Momentul said that bands of legionnaires, protected by Radescu's ministry of the interior, were racing through the streets in automobiles, shooting up the homes of democratic leaders and spreading panic among the population.

(A delayed Associated Press dispatch from Budapest, filed Saturday, made no mention of disturbances at that time. It said young King Mihai had asked Petre Groza, vice president of the fallen Radescu government, to form a new government. Goza is a member of the National Democratic front).

Tass said 174 dangerous criminals escaped from Bucharest prison Saturday despite the fact that the warden had been warned three hours before the break occurred. The rioters were said to be trying to stir up anti-Semitic disturbances among university students, and one Jewish student was reported seriously wounded.

The Russian press did not comment, though the situation appeared worse than at any time since the Russian-Romanian armistice was signed.

Six Jap Divisions Destroyed On Luzon, MacArthur Says

McDANIEL NIGHT

Manila, Tuesday, March 6 (AP)—Six Japanese divisons—perhaps 90,000 troops—of the ten divisions defending Luzon have been destroyed together with considerable war materials, and the remaining forces bottled up in the mountains are under continuous attack by ground and air.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's forces still on Luzon were "spilt into a number of divergent groups," and "their position is critical."

Only yesterday MacArthur announced that thousands of Japanese hed been cleaned out of Ilocos Norte province, on Luzon's northwest corner, by guerrillas operating under an American army officer, Col. R. W. Volckmann.

MAR 6 1945

125,000 Killed On Leyte

On Leyte Island, south of Luzon, more than 125,000 Japanese have been killed. This makes a total for these two islands alone of more than 215,000 Japanese troops killed, including some of the empire's best.

MacArthur announced:

"The remaining enemy forces are split up into a number of divergent groups which are bottled up in the mountains where supply is difficult, movements restricted and control and communications present insuperable obstacles.

"These forces are being subjected to continuous attack by our air force, while the pressure of our ground forces compresses them into a smaller and smaller maneuver space."

Harrassed By Guerrillas

"Our guerrilla forces constantly harass their lines of supply with our naval and air forces blocking their route of evacuation.

"Their position is critical."

Luzon was invaded January 9. The largest single engagement in which the enemy sustained heavy losses was in the three-week-old battle for Manila.

Slow enveloping movements against Japanese mountain positions north and east of Manila and progress of other Yanks moving toward the Cagayan Valley were reported today.

Close On Zambales Groups

North of Manila, the 38th and 43rd Division closed on Nipponese in the Zambales mountains. East of Manila, troops of the 14th corps enveloped enemy positions along the Antipolo-wawa line. This line, in the Marakina watershed, has been well-prepared defensively by the enemy and considerable resistance has been encountered.

Other Yanks advanced along the Villa Verde trail and the Ambiayabang river in the eastern extremity of Pangasian province toward the Cagayan valley. This is at the northeast end of the central Luzon plain and duse east of the Lingayen bay sector where the Luzon invasion opened.

Played Into U.S. Hands

Further detailing accomplishments against Yamashita's army, General MacArthur said the supply depots destroyed held "great quantities of ordnance, munitions, trucks, food, clothing and miscellaneous items."

MacArthur's report followed an analysis of the campaign by a general, whose identity was not disclosed, which pointed out Yamasita's scattered tactics played right into American hands. The general said Yamashita employed "stupid" tactics, including his use of an armored division in groups as artillery rather than committing it as a formidable unit.

The airforce was active over the whole Philippines, with 122 tons of explosives dropped on Jolo Island.

Formosa Raids Continue

Enemy shipping, railroad yards and air bases on Formosa took another in a daily series of poundings, with the American raiders attacking despite adverse weather.

Three small enemy freighters, one carrying oil, were sunk off the China coast by patrol planes which ranged to the vicinity of Shanwhai and Swatow.

In British New Guinea, long since bypassed in leapfrog operations, the communiqué said "our ground forces pushing eastward toward Wewak have advanced to within 7 miles of the But airfield."

MacArthur did not identify "our fround forces," but he announced several weeks ago that British New Guinea is one of the by-passed areas where Australians have relieved American troops.

MANILA TRAGIC IN LIBERATION

The Mark Of The Jap Still Evident In Ruins Of City

NIGHT

By RUSSELL BRINES

Manila, P.I., March 5 (AP)—The dead are gone from the streets and the debris has been swept into neat piles alongside ruined buildings, but the tragedy of Manila's liberation still lies heavy over the city.

There are sad souvenirs everywhere of the most bestial fight of the Pacific war. Stark ruins of one of Asia's most comfortable cities matched the stark horror still alive in many eyes, and in the individual tragedies betrayed by long lines of black-clad widows attending services in the charred and shell-pocked churches.

The little man already has begun his form of reconstruction. He is building little hovels with antlike activity from the rubble of crumbled bricks and collapsed sheet-iron roofs. Others are maintaining tiny sidewalk shops and cafes along the dismal slum streets which the fires spared, or even within the gaunt hollow ruins of once famous buildings.

The Problem Of Food

Meanwhile, Commonwealth Government officials and American advisers wrestled with the problem of supplying enough food to maintain life among the thousands of homeless who are without money or jobs.

The rape of Manila was doubly brutal because it was absolutely unnecessary and served no legitimate military purpose. It bore marks of the same senseless sadistic orgy as Nanking, but, if anything, was far more vicious. Behind it was a plan to rip out Manila's heart because its people were courageous enough to resist the comprehensive Japanese attempts to intimidate them through force and win them with soft-spoken propaganda.

Filipino refugees brought the first indication of the capital's prospective fate when they streamed northward late in January as two American columns were racing toward the city. Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th Infantry Division was driving with forced marches along Highway No. 3. A few miles northward Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge's 1st Cavalry rumbled in mechanized strength along parallel Highway No. 5.

Refugees' Reports

Refugees told of mined buildings, extensive fortifications and long preparations to convert the Intramuros into a last-ditch fortress, using forced labor.

Refugees also described rampant starvation among American internees as well as Filipinos in the city which the Japanese had virtually stripped of all foodstuff.

So, aside from the understandable competition between two powerful and confident divisions to reach the capital first, the southward push also developed into a rescue mission.

Brig. Gen. William C. Chase's 1st Cavalry Division discovered that when they whipped into the city the night of February 3, surprising the Japanese sufficiently to prevent any immediate concentrated fire. Artillery and automatic weapons roared angrily, however, when one column captured Malacanan and another drove into Santo Tomas and Bilibid prisons.

Japs Recovered

The Japanese recovered quickly and these two forces became strong isolated pockets within the still strong enemy-held city.

The Japanese then began their orgy of madness while American troops within the city were pinned down and unable to help. As internees within Santo Tomas celebrated their freedom, with choked emotions, patrols outside the camp fought machine-gun battles. At Bilibid, a half mile distant, war prisoners and Baguio internees watched mortar shells fall within the prison. The Malacanan garrison was raked by artillery.

Throughout Manila that night and many succeeding days, Japanese demolitions ripped through bridges and buildings and bloodied the sky with flames. Chinese and Filipino civilians ran screaming into the streets to escape the flames, then fell in bloody death before Japanese machine guns.

Infantrymen Enter City

Sweaty, bearded infantrymen sloughed into Manila February 4, fighting all along the way against Japanese barricaded in homes and pillboxes.

Advance columns of the main body of the 1st Cavalry roared past Grace Park February 5 against heavy fire from positions in cemeteries and long-range guns in Intramuros, and aboard sunken ships in the bay.

The battle lost for the moment, American columns hit the outskirts, but it was a long, slow road to the Pasig River through Japanese nests and past charred ruins of the business section, and adjacent jumbled residential areas.

About a week after the initial occupation 11th Airborne forces reached the vicinity of Nichols Field. They joined elements of the 1st Cavalry in a bitter drive against Japanese pillboxes around the airfield.

Push Toward Hotel

These forces pushed onward toward the Manila Hotel, the main piers and the seaward edge of Intramuros. They compressed the Japanese back into the rat trap of the walled city which Yank artillery was pounding ceaselessly. In the center, 37th Division infantrymen also were closing the trap.

Every residence and apartment house familiar to Americans, every cultural monument known to travelers, was engulfed in the room-to-room and house-to-house battles or ripped by shellfire.

All the while Japanese brutality became more frenzied against civilians. The Japanese killed numerous Germans and Spanish, even some collaborationist French, while murdering uncounted numbers of Filipinos.

Sanctuary Sought

Rich and poor sought sanctuary in the Philippine General Hospital, then waited in misery through the week-long artillery duel while the Japanese machine-gunned all who left the fortified building. Others in De La Salle College, were murdered in one mad afternoon. Women were raped and bayonetted.

Tight-lipped doughboys, untrained for such vicious street fighting, pushed onward, their combat death rate low but their wounded rate high.

The American high command, making a difficult decision, refrained from bombing Intramuros after a surrender offer had been refused because, as Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold said, "we feel we can't be responsible for the deaths of all those civilians in there."

MAR 6 1945

A Suicide Defense

Mainly it was a fight against a hodgepodge suicide defense garrison composed of all manner of soldiers, sailors, Marines and merchant seamen. Intramuros was taken after its historic walls were breached with point-blank artillery fire. The battle finally ended when adjacent government buildings were reduced.

It ended a month after the first American column entered the city. In accumulated misery during that awful month, the Japanese set a pattern for the rest of the Pacific war. They left Manila a wrecked city whose gutted main buildings form an empty, ghostly skyline. They sowed venomous hatred among Filipinos.

ENTIRE JAP STAND IN BURMA PERILED BY ALLIED DRIVE

CALCUTTA, March 5—(AP) British armored units, cutting across the Irrawaddy river valley in an 85-mile dash, have severed the main Japanese land, air and water links between Mandalay and Rangoon and have seriously threatened the entire enemy position in Burma, Allied headquarters said today.

With the aid of British airborne infantry, flown in at the climax of the operation, the armored column seized fight airdromes intact, killed more than 1,600 Japanese, captured 40 guns and destroyed enough enemy supplies to feed a Japanese division for 10 days. The important communications center of Meiktila, 70 miles south of Mandalay, was captured.

Planes Support Troops

In a long sweep through central Burma American fighter pilots gave the ground units support from the air and the column, which was partially self-sustaining, received some supplies from cargo planes.

The main Japanese forces defending Burma now are virtually cut off from the south. Their only clear escape roads run generally southeast through mountainous country into Thailand (Siam). It is believed, however, that the Japanese will put up a desperate fight for Mandalay before beginning a retreat.

The drive across the valley began Feb. 23 when the powerful British armored column broke out of the Pakokku bridgehead, on the east bank of the Irrawaddy near the Burma oil fields, and drove directly east on a fairly good road. Pakokku is 70 miles southwest of Mandalay.

In its first clash at Taungtha, 23 miles east of Pakokku, the column killed eight of the enemy. With its armor pushing on two abreast to save time the column smashed southeast to Mahlaing, where 70 more Japanese were killed.

Four hundred Japanese were killed when the column drove through an enemy supply dump near Mahlaing and destroyed thousands of artillery shells.

Continuing down the road to Meiktila the guns of the armored vehicles literally blew to bits a Japanese column of supply trucks heading toward the Mandalay front.

2 Airstrips Captured

On Feb. 27 the British column took two Japanese airstrips near Meiktila, on which hand-picked airborne infantry units later were landed. Six other airdromes and nearby strategic positions then were seized. The airfields were littered with 41 wrecked enemy planes.

In the few hours of fighting before Meiktila fell the British killed 1,200 Japanese of an estimated original defending force of 2,500.

American pilots of the 10th air force helped the British 36th division chase Japanese south from their positions near Mogok, 68 miles northeast of Mandalay. Five waves of American P-47's pressed home the attack as the Japanese evacuated troops, gasoline supplies and ammunition toward Mandalay.

American authorities with the Chinese First army in northern Burma said the rich Baldwin lead and silver mines near Lashio on the old Burma road have sustained only slight damage but cannot be operated for the present because the Japanese took some machinery from the area. The mines were captured recently by Chinese troops.

CHINESE ATTACKING

Chungking, March 5 (A. P.).—Two Chinese columns are attacking the Kwangtung province town of Pingshek, 165 miles north of Canton, in an effort to break the Japanese hold on the Canton-Hankow railway, the Chinese High Command announced today.

Other attacks carried to within three miles of the nearby Hunan province town of Ichang, west of the railroad, and within twelve miles of Izehing, east of the railroad.

ROME, March 5 (AP)—Capt. Leo C. Brooks of Fort Huachuca, Ariz., a Flying Fortress pilot and squadron leader, has received the Legion of Merit for organizing a plan by which almost 300 Allied fliers were evacuated from enemy-held territory in France.

northern and northeastern cliffs made no major attack Monday, but broke up a number of enemy attempts to infiltrate American positions.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said in his communiqué today the battle lines remained substantially unchanged as the three divisions of Marines, who hold two thirds or more of Iwo, consolidated their holdings elsewhere on the island where fighting is now in its sixteenth day.

Second Straight Day

Thus, for the second straight day, Nimitz reported little change in position in the bitter fighting.

"The enemy made a number of attempts to infiltrate and subjected the Marines to heavy small-arms and artillery fire," Nimitz said. "All efforts were broken up."

Japanese infiltrating the American lines even wore American uniforms.

Five In Disguise Killed

Five Japanese, wearing full American Marine battle dress, were killed by 24th Regiment patrols, a field dispatch said.

Lieut. Col. G. L. McCormick, of Huntington Valley, Pa., assistant chief of staff at Iwo headquarters, said that the Nipponese apparently were disguising themselves in an effort to sneak within the American lines.

Nimitz reported yesterday that 12,864 Japanese dead had been counted up to 6 P.M. Saturday and 81 prisoners taken—36 Japanese and 45 Koreans.

Improved weather conditions facilitated unloading operations in Iwo's beaches.

Liberators Bomb Chichi

Chichi Jima in the Bonin Islands immediately to the north was bombed Sunday by Liberators of the 7th Army Air Force, while torpedo planes hit the Palau islands with the loss of two aircraft. Navy fighters swept Ponape in the Carolines.

The main Japanese force now is in the most rugged portion of the island. There are countless gulches and gullies which make good defensive positions. The Japanese are taking full advantage of them.

The Marines saw a Tokyo-raiding B-29 Superfortress use the southern Iwo airfield yesterday, demonstrating that their blood was not being shed in vain. The B-29, returning from Tokyo, landed long enough to make emergency repairs and then continued on to its Saipan base. Iwo cuts the 1,500 miles from Saipan to Tokyo in half.

Hundreds Of Nip Troops Die In Iwo Charge

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 5 (AP)—United States Marines made limited gains in northern Iwo Jima Sunday and hurled back a Japanese counterattack in which hundreds of screaming Japanese were killed, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Enemy dead numbered 12,864 as of 6 P.M. Saturday, out of an estimated garrison of 20,000. There were 81 prisoners, the majority Korean laborers.

In bloody hand-to-hand fighting the leathernecks of Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' 4th Division continued their advance over terrain which Nimitz described as "naturally suited to defensive operations."

Drive To Split Enemy

The 4th Division is on the east flank of the irregular battle line. There Japanese resistance has been exceptionally stiff. The 5th Division is on the west flank. In the center of the line, driving a wedge toward Iwo's northern tip—a wedge that would split the Japanese in two and isolate them on the northwest and northeast coasts—is the 3rd Division of Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine.

Compressed into an ever-tightening area on Iwo's northern end, the cornered Japanese are fighting with untamed fury. Marines capturing a gun or a pillbox or block house find the garrison resisting to the death, reported Associated Press War Correspondent James Lindsley.

5th Hurls Back Foe

The 5th Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, hurled back the Japanese counterattack.

Meanwhile, Suribachi volcano is all steamed up. And it has become an unexpected boon to 5th Division clearing Japanese out of the conquered volcanic fortress on the southern tip of Iwo.

30.24—2361 14

The volcano is pouring sulphur fumes through its caves, flushing out Nipponese soldiers.

It is gushing hot steam from hundreds of fissures, where Marines stuffed cans of "C" rations and 15 minutes later pulled out their first hot meals in days.

The volcano began acting up yesterday.

[Earlier Lindsley, in a front line dispatch said that Marine artillery and naval guns poured unceasing fire into the Jap positions throughout Saturday night in the belief the the harassed Japanese were moving to new positions.

["We figured the Nips had to be on the move last night," said General Cates. "We figured we would help them along a little, so we covered all enemy territory with fire."]

4th Division Lauded

Marine Commander Lieut. Gen. Holland M. Smith sent a message to the gallant 4th Division to be read to the troops congratulating them for "exemplary conduct and slashing attacks against enemy positions" on Iwo since landing on February 21.

It was disclosed that Lieut. Col. A. A. Vandegrift, Jr., son of Guadalcanal's commander in 1942, was wounded in both legs by mortar fire on February 24. Previously he was wounded in the leg on Saipan.

Airfield Shelled

Despite the concentrated hail of surface ship shelling, combined with aircraft strafing and artillery fire, the enemy was still able to lob heavy shells into the southern Iwo airfield today as evacuation planes landed and took off with wounded.

Carrier aircraft joined with heavy bombers to attack Chichi Jima in the Bonins Saturday, while Marine aircraft hit enemy-held islands in the Palaus, Ponape in the eastern Carolines and Yap.

Thomas and his men went after the Japs while two Marines stayed behind to protect the flag. The flag-raising continued after the grenade-throwing Japs were cleaned out.

And in the four-day battle that ended when the flag was planted on Mount Suribachi, these things happened:

A lone Marine charged an enemy pillbox and was met by a saber-swinging Jap lieutenant. The Marine grabbed the saber with his bare hands, took it away from the Jap and cut off his head.

Two companies of Marines engaged in a grenade-throwing contest with the Japs, not daring to use rifles for fear of hitting their own men. When daylight came, they counted 77 dead Japs in the area.

One Marine alone stormed a pillbox and killed ten Japs before he himself was killed.

Two squads of Marines were isolated by enemy fire at the base of Suribachi, 200 yards ahead of their lines. Two of the Marines were killed, eight wounded. The rest fought their way back in the darkness, dragging the eight wounded with them.

Moved Demolition Charge

The Jap mortars are good, but so are ours. So good, in fact, that one night a Jap ran up to a marine mortar emplacement and shouted, "Cease firing."

Marine demolition crews planted a 180-pound charge in a cave at the foot of Suribachi. A Jap picked it up and set it outside the cave, then turned around and started back in. The Marines shot him and put the charge back where it belonged.

Sergt. Edward D. Jones, 30, of Stanwood, Wash., spoke enough Japanese to urge a wounded Jap to come out of a pillbox. The Jap refused, until Jones threatened to turn a flame thrower on the pillbox. The Jap, second prisoner to be taken, on this island, told Jones his father runs a grocery store in Hawaii.

First Lieutenant Harold H. Stirling, 23, of Drexel Hill, Pa., and his platoon met a dawn attack by 40 or 50 Japs. Just 60 minutes later the platoon had wiped out all of them with a loss of two Marines killed and several wounded.

Praises Flag Picture

Washington, March 5 (AP)—Associated Press Photographer Joe Rosenthal's picture of the Marine flag raising over Mount Suribachi on Iwo Jima was "almost unbelievably gallant" as the Marines' fight up the mountain side, said Secretary Forrestal today.

Seizure of Mount Suribachi may become "fairly historic," Forrestal said, as the result of Rosenthal's picture depicting the placing of the American flag atop the mountain, largest on Iwo.

Forrestal also complimented newsmen at Iwo and newspapers and wire services at home for their coverage of the fighting on the island, terming it "an outstanding contribution to accurate reporting of the war."

Iwo Jima [AP—Delayed]—The raising of the Stars and Stripes on the crest of Mount Suribachi here was one of the hottest flag raisings ever staged anywhere.

Even as Marine Platoon Sergeant Ernest I. Thomas, 20, of Tallahassee, Fla., and his men began to set up the flagpole a Jap popped out of a cave to hurl a grenade at them.

Marines on Iwo Repel Attempts At Infiltration

Lines Remain Unchanged; Dog Platoon Ashore to Flush Foe From Caves

GUAM, Marsh 6 (Tuesday) (AP).—A number of Japanese attempts to infiltrate the lines of the United States Marines on Iwo Jima yesderday were broken up and the battle positions remained substantially unchanged, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Thus, for the second straight day, Nimitz reported little change in position in the bitter fighting, now in its sixteenth day, for the strategic little island 750 miles south of Tokyo.

"The enemy made a number of attempts to infiltrate, and subjected the marines to heavy small arms and artillery fire," Nimitz said in his communique. "All efforts were broken up. There was no appreciable change in the lines on March 5."

No mention was made of the positions of the 3d, 4th and 5th Marine Divisions, last reported pressing the Japanese toward cliffs on the north and northwest edge of Iwo.

Desperate Japanese infiltrating the American lines even wore American uniforms. An Associated Press correspondent reported that five Japanese wearing complete marine clothing had been killed.

The field dispatch also said the northern terrain minimized the of tanks and that the Japse were being routed from caves and pillboxes with grenades and flame throwers.

Dogs also were used to hunt down the enemy. The 3d Marine Dog Platoon went ashore Sunday and within a short time the sharp-nosed dogs had flushed their first victim from a cave.

The main Japanese force now is in the most rugged portion of the island. There are countless gulches and gullies which make good defensive positions. The Japanese are taking full advantage of them.

How The First Superfort Came To Iwo

By Elmont Waite

Twenty-First Bomber Command, Guam, March 5 (AP—Via Navy Radio)—"Can you give us a bearing to Iwo Jima?" Sergt. James G. Cox asked over the B-29 radio. "Can you give us a bearing to Iwo?"

A sudden clear reply reached the sweating radioman who hails from Merriam, Kan.:

"This is Iwo. What is your trouble?"

The crew of the Superfortress limping home from Sunday's Tokyo raid drew a relieved breath as Cox answered, "Iwo, this is nine bakecable. We are running low on gasoline. Can you give us a bearing to Iwo?"

Island Sighted

"Roger, this is Iwo. What is your altitude?"

"Roger, altitude 350."

"This is Iwo. We do not receive your signal. Have you sighted Iwo yet?"

"Roger, we have sighted Iwo."

"Roger. Course 167 (degrees) for 28 miles. Do you prefer to ditch offshore or try to land on the strip?"

"We prefer to land."

"Roger. We will have the field cleared for you to land."

And that's the way the first B-29 came to Iwo.

Field Circled Twice

The pilot, Lieut. Raymond F. Malo, Danville, Ill., twice circled the field on the smoking, flashing little island. Each time the narrow runway slipped from his field of vision as the huge bomber swung in its necessary wide circle.

The third time around he hit the runway square and as soon as the wheels touched the brakes were slapped on. Skidding down the runway 3,000 feet and knocking over a telephone pole with only a minor dent in a wing edge, the Superfortress stopped safely—in front of an unexpectedly large audience of grinning Marines.

Flyers Surprised

"I figured the war was going on up at the other end of the island and nobody would pay any attention to us landing on the southern airfield," Malo said, explaining the crew's surprise at the long lines of spectators down either side of the runway.

The emergency stop was the only alternative to ditching the B-29. The reserve gasoline lines weren't working. Their failure, Malo said, would have cut out the engines within another 150 miles—fully 500 miles from home base at Tinian.

The fuel line was repaired on Iwo and the B-29 came home safely.

It was the first Tokyo run for the crew.

Secrecy Of Fortifying Iwo Revealed By Sign

San Francisco, March 5 (AP)—The Japanese people "are being prepared for the possibility of invasion and at the same time being convinced that invasion does not mean defeat," Domei News Agency said a Nazi correspondent in Tokyo reported to Germany. The writer was identified as Dr. Lily Abegg, of the Transocean agency. The Japanese broadcast was recorded here.

By Morrie Landsberg

Iwo Jima, March 5 (AP)—A sign posted on the central Motoyama airfield on Iwo Island written in both Japanese and English, warned:

"Notice—Trespassing, surveying, photographing, sketching, modeling, etc., upon or of these premises without previous official permission are prohibited by the Military Secrets Protection Law. Any offender in this regard will be punished with this law."

It was signed "Ministry of the Navy, October, 1937."

Japan plainly didn't want the world to know what she had done and was doing on Iwo Jima—building its eight square miles of volcanic bleakness into one of the most heavily fortified bases in the world.

The island is small; deceptively small. It has a predominant ugliness in bareness of the dry irregular terrain and expanse of dark lava sands. Only the fat mountain of Suribachi relieves the picture of hostile desolation.

Few Tourists In 55 Years

But Iwo was no tourist retreat in the 55 years of Japanese control. It had a few—a thousand or so—civilians who raised sugar and refined sulphur which the colonists contributed to the bounty of the empire.

It also had 20,000 crack troops, several thousand pillboxes, thousands of feet of trenches and a seemingly indomitable will befitting a Pacific rampart of that empire.

For Iwo was a fortress, nothing more. Iwo was a pivotal point in the outer defense line Japan had in Nanpo Shoto, a chain of southern islands running from the very mouth of Tokyo Bay (Oshima) to within 300 miles of the Marianas at [illegible]ami Iwo Jima, and Japan built it well.

Bonin Link In Defenses

Iwo was convenient for the Japanese scheme or throwing up a formidable barrier to the mainland approaches. It is only 750 miles south of Tokyo. The Bonin Islands, where Commodore Perry once raised the American flag, form another link in the defense chain 150 miles northeast of Iwo Jima. Saipan, a former key Japanese base in the Marianas, is 720 miles southeast.

Iwo was convenient for the Japa- Volcano group with enough flat ground for airfields. Kita (north) Iwo Jima, 45 miles to the north of Iwo Jima, is rugged and mountainous, with two volcanic peaks rising 2,630 and 2,181 feet. Minami (south) Iwo Jima is 40 miles south of Iwo Jima and a mere mile square with a 3,181-foot volcanic peak.

From Iwo Jima's two airfields—a third was under construction—the Japanese sent bombers to attack the B-29 base at Saipan in a hopeless effort to thwart raids on the homeland. These same runways, enlarged and improved by Seabees, will offer fighter escort for the Superfortresses.

Now as to the island of Iwo Jima itself and to give an idea why the battle is so tough:

It is 5 miles from the rugged northern tip to the southern end, where the volcano of Suribachi comes sloping down. At the broadest point the island is 2½ miles wide. At the narrow southern neck it is 700 yards wide. The north half, roughly circular in shape, forms a broad dome with a maximum elevation of 387 feet. A ridge extends 2½ miles southwest, sloping gently and tapering off at 554-foot-high Suribachi.

A plateau about 1 mile in diameter makes up the central area of the north where the defenders were driven after the Marines landed on the southeast coast. The northern shores are rough, rocky and steep. The southeast beach, however, has no natural obstructions in its 2¼-mile length.

Terrain Good For Defenses

The nature of the coastal terrain suited the Japanese defenses. Enemy landings were out of the question in the north unless the invaders preferred to scale its serrated rock cliffs. The southern beaches offered no cover whatsoever and the Japanese could train their guns on hostile troops.

The approachable shore line was guarded by 50,000 yards of trenches which the Japanese were forced to relinquish under tremendous naval gunfire. It showed, however, they were fully prepared to fight on the beaches, but their commander realized his men couldn't challenge bombarding warships.

Altogether the beach defenses were considered better than Tarawa. Tarawa's coconut log emplacements were primitive compared to the huge pillboxes on Iwo, some with reinforced concrete five feet thick.

Mostly Military Stands

Iwo had little other than military installations. There are several villages and a so-called town—Motoyama—which lay in broken splinters even before the Marines reached it. A narrow gauge railroad along the west coast carried both sugar for export and ammunition to be stored in the Suribachi caverns. There was an experimental agricultural station, a weather station, sulphur works and a sugar mill.

This was the island discovered by a Spaniard in 1543, visited by an Englishman in 1784, looked over by a Russian in 1805, claimed vaguely by Spain and finally in 1891 absorbed by the Japanese into the Ogasawara branch administration.

YANKS PRESS JAPS IN NORTHERN LUZON

[Manila, March 5 (AP)]

Manila, March 5 (A. P.).—American troops pushed deeper today into the mountains of northern Luzon, stronghold of Jap Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, as Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed that Filipino guerrillas cleared one entire northern province of Nipponese troops.

Other Americans overcame the last Jap resistance in Manila, continued their eastward pressure to secure the city's water supply area and occupied two more Philippine Islands.

The guerrillas, under Col. R. W. Volckman, struck in the north coast province of Ilocos Norte. Their irregular type of fighting baffled the Japs, who suffered losses, running into the thousands. Col. Volckman, a regular Army officer, became a guerrilla leader in 1942. He is a West Point graduate of the class of 1934.

Fighting in downtown Manila ended Saturday night. The final action came a month to the day after Americans broke into the city.

The new landings on the Sibuyan Sea islands of Ticao and Burias, announced by Gen. MacArthur Saturday, flanked the Jap positions on Luzon's southern Bicol peninsula.

American planes raided enemy positions on the Babuyan Islands, just north of Luzon.

Bombers concentrated attacks on airdromes along the west coast of Formosa. Preliminary reports indicated destruction of thirty enemy planes. A 7,000-ton freighter-transport was sunk offshore.

er dropped all her bombs into the sea.

Bombed Yesterday, Too.

Headquarters, Twenty-first Bomber Command, Guam, March 5 (A. P.).—A large force of Superfortresses—Tokyo said that there were 150—bombed the Japanese capital by precision instruments through ice and sleet early yesterday, finding no enemy fighters and only a light anti-aircraft fire.

Not a plane was lost to enemy action, but one was ditched en route home and the crew was rescued. Extreme cold over the target caused at least one plane to report her engines frozen. This may have been what forced the one plane down at sea.

The Superfortress flight, taking off at night in order to reach Tokyo in the early morning, had visual bombing weather until only three minutes from the target—the urban industrial area. Then solid clouds closed in. One pilot said that if they had been over Tokyo fifteen minutes sooner they could probably have bombed visually.

MAR 6 1945

It was the second consecutive Sunday attack on Tokyo in great strength. Last week more than 200 Superfortresses devastated 240 blocks, stretching from the edge of the Imperial Palace grounds to the water front.

The Tokyo radio said that other Superfortresses yesterday bombed Nagoya, industrial city about 170 miles southwest of the capital, and Tokyo-Hashi and Hamamatsu, coastal cities between Nagoya and Tokyo.

Midnight Raiders Hit Tokyo

Ten Superfortresses Reported Following Up Yesterday's Heavy Pounding.

Ten American Superfortresses raided Tokyo again today with fire bombs and explosives, the Tokyo radio declared, and added that last night a single Superfortress raided southern Kyushu.

In broadcasts recorded by the FCC and distributed by the Associated Press, Tokyo said as usual that practically no damage was caused in the capital—which was attacked between 12:30 and 2:30 A. M.—and that last night's raid-

Stettinius Reveals Accord On Veto

Mexico City, March 5 (AP)—Secretary of State Stettinius revealed otday that the Yalta decision provided for a big-power veto on use of force by the future world peace organization.

Speaking before the Foreign Ministers of the American Republics here, Stettinius said the Yalta communiqué provided for publication of the voting formula worked out by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin only after French and Chinese approval.

It was necessary to reveal the voting solution to the American Foreign Ministers conferring here before the end of their meeting, scheduled for Wednesday, so that they could discuss the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

Hopes For French Backing

Announcement was held back to the last possible minute in the hope that France would sponsor the meeting on terms acceptable to the other four powers.

As soon as Stettinius finished speaking in a narrow, portrait-lined room of Chapultepec castle, Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequeil Padilla stood up to respond.

Padilla said that the Latin American republics realized they could not participate in settling the peace on an equal level with the major powers which have fought the war but that they were glad to have a voice in the organization of a new world system.

"Extraordinary Advance"

He declared that Stettinius's explanation of the voting procedure decided upon "represents an extraordinary advance in making the Dumbarton Oaks plan more democratic, as all small nations will be heard hereafter."

He expressed his conviction that all the Latin American nations will support a world peace organization at San Francisco, and that the burden of armaments will be reduced as a result.

STETTINIUS OFFERS GUIDE TO AMERICAS

Talk at Mexico City Gives Foreign Ministers Basis for Discussing World Plan

MEXICO CITY, March 5 (AP)—Secretary of State Stettinius, speaking before the Foreign Ministers of the American republics here today, revealed the voting solution prepared for the world security organization.

It was necessary to reveal it to the American Foreign Ministers conferring here before the end of their meeting, scheduled for Wednesday, so that they could discuss the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

Announcement was held back to the last possible minute in the hope that France would sponsor the meeting on terms acceptable to the other four powers.

As soon as Mr. Stettinius finished speaking, Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequeil Padilla stood up to respond.

Mr. Padilla said that the Latin-American republics realized they could not participate in settling the peace on an equal level with the major powers which have fought the war but that they were glad to have a voice in the organization of a new world system.

He declared that Stettinius' explanation of the voting procedure decided upon "represents an extraordinary advance in making the Dumbarton Oaks plan more democratic, as all small nations will be heard hereafter."

He expressed his conviction that all the Latin-American nations will support a world peace organization at San Francisco, and that the burden of armaments will be reduced as a result.

Views by Stettinius

The text of the statement by Mr. Stettinius, except for that part of it which was also given out in Washington to cover the invitations to the San Francisco conference and the explanation of the proposed security voting procedure and which is published elsewhere in today's paper, is as follows:

I am happy to be able to make a most significant announcement, here in Mexico City, concerning the future world organization for peace and security.

As I arise to speak, the Government of the United States, acting on behalf of the sponsoring Governments—the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and China—is transmitting invitations to the United Nations Conference to be held at San Francisco on April 25.

I regret exceedingly that the Provisional Government of France has not accepted our invitation to become one of the sponsoring countries for the San Francisco conference.

Issuance of the formal invitation to meet only seven weeks from now in San Francisco is another step toward a goal which is in the minds, and in the hearts, of all of us—establishment of an enduring peace after victory in this war.

In October, 1943, the signatories of the Moscow Declaration pledged themselves to cooperate with each other and with the other nations devoted to peace in creating a general international organization for the maintenance of peace and security.

Bases of Mexico City Study

The Dumbarton Oaks conference was the next step necessary in the carrying out of this vast program. From that conference there emerged the proposals which we are studying here in Mexico City.

The conversations at Dumbarton Oaks left open the question of voting procedure in the Security Council. A proposal on this subject has now been agreed upon in the manner stated in the text of the invitation to the San Francisco conference, which I shall read to you in a moment. This was one of the great accomplishments under President Roosevelt's leadership at the Crimea conference.

In Mexico City the twenty countries here represented are taking another important step toward the establishment of a world organization. Our task here has been to exchange views and clarify our thoughts on the essential features of the world organization of the future and on the relationship to it of our own inter-American system, and thus to prepare ourselves more fully for the work to be undertaken at San Francisco.

The proposed provisions for voting in the security council are those which were presented by the President of the United States at the Crimea conference; they were there agreed to by Great Britain and by the Soviet Union and have since been approved by China.

I wish at this time to comment to you briefly on the significance of the proposal on voting procedure. This procedure means that whenever any member of the council—including any permanent member—is a party to a dispute, that member cannot vote in any decision of the council involving peaceful settlement of that dispute.

Provides Full Examination

Consequently, the council can examine the dispute thoroughly and the remaining members can make recommendations to all the parties to the dispute as to methods and procedures for settling it. They can refer the legal aspects of the dispute to the international court for advice. They can refer the dispute to the general assembly if the wish; and they can take any other appropriate steps short of enforcement measures to obtain a settlement of that dispute without the vote of the member of the security council involved in the dispute.

This means that all members of the security council when they are parties to a dispute will be on the same footing before this council. It means that no nation in the world will be denied the right to have a fair hearing of its case in the security council, and that the equal, democratic rights of all nations will be respected.

If the dispute is not settled by such means, the major question before the council is whether force needs to be employed. In that event it is necessary that the vote of the permanent members of the council be unanimous. They are the nations which possess in sufficient degree the industrial and military strength to prevent aggression.

However, the decision of the council can be reached in such a case only by a majority of seven members, which means that the permanent members cannot alone decide to take action. It also means that the non-permanent members can prevent action.

I am happy to say that I have here to hand to each of you a more detailed memorandum on the voting procedure which I am sure you will wish to study.

All Views Are Invited

The invitation to the San Francisco conference suggests that the Dumbarton Oaks proposals be considered as affording a basis for the charter of the world organization. It is the wish of the United States, as it is, I am confident, of the other sponsoring nations, that there should also be the fullest opportunity at that conference for consideraion of the views and suggestions of all the participating Governments. I know that the contributions of the distinguished statesmen of the American republics will be most valuable in the writing of the charter.

The responsibility for the establishment and maintenance of a peaceful world order is the common responsibility of all the United Nations. It is on them that the duty has now fallen to write a charter for the international organization so firmly rooted in the realities of the world as it is, and so clearly expressing the free and democratic ideals for which the United Nations stand, that it will truly represent both the will of the peoples of the world for lasting peace and their capacity actually to build and to maintain such a peace together.

We have the opportunity. We have the will. May God grant us the vision and the strength to sustain us. It is my faith that together we will build this world of freedom and security—a world at peace at last.

LATIN AMERICA SEEKS CHANGES IN OAKS PLAN

Offers Resolution Asking United Nations to Weigh Revisions Proposed.

AT SAN FRANCISCO MEETING

Stettinius Discloses Security Council Voting Formula—Padilla Praises It.

Mexico City, March 5 (A. P.).—The American republics prepared today to ask the rest of the United Nations to consider changes in the Dumbarton Oaks plan when they convene at San Francisco. A resolution put before the Inter-American Conference expressed the support of the hemisphere for a world security organization, and provided that the revision felt necessary by Latin American republics be called to the attention of the United Nations.

The resolution presented the consensus of the Latin countries that Dumbarton Oaks should be changed on the following important points:

1. Extension of the powers of the assembly representing all United Nations and a consequent change in the powers of the Security Council.

2. Extension of the jurisdiction of the International Court.

3. Creation of an intellectual and moral organization, to parallel the Economic and Social Council.

4. Inter-American priorities on solving disputes in this hemisphere. This would mean strengthening the regional system proclaimed under the Act of Chapultepec in its relation to the world organization.

5. "Adequate" representation for Latin America in the Security Council.

Freedom of Expression Reserved.

The other United Nations were

30.24 - 23613

invited to send their ideas to the Latin American republics before San Francisco.

The resolution expressly reserved to signatory nations "full freedom to present and defend at the San Francisco conference, as representatives of sovereign States, all the points of view which they consider pertinent."

The resolution, introduced by a subcommittee headed by the Venezuelan Foreign Minister, Caracoolo Parra Perez, carefully avoided action on any changes in the Dumbarton Oaks plan here. Although many Latin American nations were anxious to put in their revisions, it was pointed out in the document that these could only be made mutually with the rest of the Allied world.

The resolution was presented shortly after Secretary of State Stettinius announced that invitations have been sent out to the San Francisco conference and revealed the security council voting procedure decided at Yalta.

A Big Power Can Veto Force.

Mr. Stettinius revealed that the Yalta decision provided for a big Power veto on the use of force by the future world peace organization. He also said that France has refused to join the United States, Great Britain, China and Russia in sponsoring the United Nations meetings in San Francisco.

The Yalta communique provided for publication of the voting formula worked out by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin only after French and Chinese approval. The voting solution withholds a veto on pacific settlement of disputes, but requires a unanimous decision by the big Powers, even if one is directly involved, in determining when peace is menaced and upholding it by force.

As soon as Mr. Stettinius finished speaking the Mexican Foreign Minister, Ezequeil Padilla, said that the Latin American republics realized they could not participate in settling the peace on an equal level with the major Powers which have fought the war but that they were glad to have a voice in the organization of a new world system.

He declared that Mr. Stettinius's explanation of the voting procedure decided upon "represents an extraordinary advance in making the Dumbarton Oaks plan more democratic, as all small nations will be heard hereafter."

INTER-AMERICAN PARLEY SPLITS ON ARGENTINE ISSUE

MEXICO CITY, March 5—(AP) Leading delegates to the Inter-American conference have split over two ideas on what to do about Argentina.

A small group has been working informally on the Argentine problem, and it was learned authoritatively that they agreed on the basic approach towards Argentina but are floundering for a method of handling it.

Seek to Name Commission

One side wants to appoint a commission here to study Argentina's diplomatic isolation after this conference ends.

The other side believes that the matter should be referred back to the Pan-American union as a whole, and debated there more leisurely.

A decision is hoped for tonight or tomorrow, but at any event, the discussion means that the conference cannot end before Thursday, because it seems unlikely that the Argentine matter will be put before all the delegates until the small group has reached agreement.

They have decided to put out a statement on Argentina, which will make it clear that the American republics await a solution to come from Buenos Aires and do not intend to compromise with the government of General Edelmiro Farrell.

The two important difficulties in writing an Argentine declaration are:

1. Deciding how specific the statement can be on Argentina without endangering a solid front against Argentina's present stand.

2. Deciding what measures to take towards geting Argentina back into the American system after his conference is over.

There appears almost complete agreement among the delegates that a firm position should be taken towards Argentina until that country gives concrete proof of its intention to cooperate for hemisphere defense.

Chile Opposes Strong Statement

At the moment, the only possibility of opposition to a strong statement seems to come from Chile, but it is in such a nebulous stage that smooth and unanimous acceptance may be reached.

However, many statesmen are worried that when delegates go back home, the enthusian of Mexico may give way to other pressures. Therefore, they are anxious to work out a declaration which will receive continued support from the 20 republics represented here.

It was definitely ascertained that although the Act of Chapultepec goes into effect immediately, there is no plan to base an Argentine statement on its provision for hemisphere action when the threat of aggression occurs.

It seems unlikely, however, that any concrete steps will be taken on Argentina until the conference has agreed on the rest of its business.

The final meeting is now expected Thursday, although if a hitch develops in the Argentina case, the conference may have to drag a little longer.

It seems likely that some special measures will be taken to continue detailed economic discussions once the principles are laid down in the economic charter.

There appears general agreement on policies, but many of the Latin Americans want specific U. S. guarantees, especially against export subsidies.

Resolution On Hemisphere Priorities

Mexico City, March 5 (AP)—The Inter-American Conference committee on world security adopted a resolution today requesting changes in the Dumbarton Oaks world security plan that would allow American nations to solve their own disputes.

The request will be laid before the United Nations Conference at San Francisco.

The resolution came just after Secretary of State Stettinius announced that invitations have been sent out for the conference, sponsored by Britain, Russia, the United States and China.

Burst Of Enthusiasm

The Latins reacted to the Crimean solution for voting in the security council with a quick burst of enthusiasm.

They pointed out immediately, however, that the requirement for big power unanimity when force is used to keep peace would take the teeth out of the Act of Chapultepec unless special arrangements are worked out for the Western Hemisphere.

Nelson Rockefeller, Assistant Secretary of State, declared in a press conference that "there is no conflict between the two programs for world and continental security.

Meanwhile drafting of a statement on Argentina remained the top job for the conferees.

Haven't Worked Out Wording

It was ascertained that representatives of twenty republics will definitely make a formal declaration on Argentina, but they still are trying to agree on what to say.

Only other major topic still being debated is the economic charter for the Americas. Officials expressed hope a compromise decision could be reached tonight.

Some Latin Americans have been holding back approval on the charter, which establishes a policy of free trade in this hemisphere. They are attempting to include specific commodity provisions, especially on cotton and copper.

Two Important Difficulties

The two important difficulties in writing an Argentine declaration are:

1. Deciding how specific the statement can be on Argentina without endangering a solid front against Argentina's present stand.

2. Deciding what measures to take toward getting Argentina back into the American system after this conference is over.

Opinion among a selected group of delegates working on Argentina is about evenly divided.

Some hold that a commission should be set up by the Inter-American Conference to study the problem here, after the meeting closes. The other view favors turning the hot Argentine potato back to the Pan-American Union for discussion by all the republics at a more leisurely pace.

Firm Position Favored

There appears almost complete agreement among the delegates that a firm position should be taken toward Argentina until that country gives concrete proof of its intention to co-operate for hemisphere defense.

At the moment, the only possibility of opposition to a strong statement seems to come from Chile, but it is in such a nebulous stage that smooth and unanimous acceptance may be reached.

However, many statesmen are worried that when delegates go back home the enthusiasm of Mexico may give way to other pressures. Therefore, they are anxious to work out a declaration which will receive continued support from the twenty republics represented here.

It was definitely ascertained that although the Act of Chapultepec goes into effect immediately, there is no plan to base an Argentine statement on its provision for hemisphere action when the threat of aggression occurs.

It seems unlikely, however, that any concrete steps will be taken on Argentina until the conference has agreed on the rest of its business.

The final meeting is now expected Thursday, although if a hitch develops in the Argentina case, the conference may have to drag a little longer.

It seems likely that some special measures will be taken to continue detailed economic discussions once the principles are laid down in the economic charter.

There appears general agreement on policies, but many of the Latin Americans want specific United States guarantees, especially against export subsidies.

Mexico City Announcement

MEXICO CITY, March 5 (AP).—Text of statement made today by United States Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius jr. at the Inter-American Conference:

I am happy to be able to make a most significant announcement here in Mexico City concerning the future world organization for peace and security.

As I arise to speak, the government of the United States acting on behalf of the sponsoring governments — the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and China—is transmitting invitations to the United Nations Conference to be held at San Francisco on April 25.

I regret exceedingly that the provisional government of France has not accepted our invitation to become one of the sponsoring countries for the San Francisco conference.

Issuance of the formal invitation to meet only seven weeks from now in San Francisco is another step toward a goal which is in the minds and in the hearts of all of us—establishment of an enduring peace after victory in this war.

Pledge to Co-operate Cited

In October, 1943, the signatories of the Moscow Declaration pledged themselves to cooperate with each other and with the other nations devoted to peace in creating a general international organization for the maintenance of peace and security.

MAR 6 1945

The Dumbarton Oaks conference was the next step necessary in the carrying out of this vast program. From that conference there emerged the proposals which we are studying here in Mexico City.

The conversations at Dumbarton Oaks left open the question of voting procedure in the security council. A proposal on this subject has now been agreed upon in the manner stated in the text of the invitation to the San Francisco conference, which I shall read to you in a moment. This was one of the great accomplishments under President Roosevelt's leadership at the Crimea Conference.

In Mexico City the twenty countries here represented are taking another important step toward the establishment of a world organization. Our task here has been to exchange views, and to clarify our thoughts, on the essential features of the world organization of the future and on the relationship to it of our own inter-American system, and thus to prepare ourselves more fully for the work to be undertaken at San Francisco.

It is my great pleasure now to read to you the text of the invitation to the conference, which includes the proposed provisions for voting in the security council.

Mr. Stettinius here presented the text of the invitation appearing in the column to the left.

Roosevelt's Proposals

The proposed provisions for voting in the security council are those which were presented by the President of the United States at the Crimea Conference; they were there agreed to by Great Britain and by the Soviet Union and have since been approved by China.

I wish at this time to comment to you briefly on the significance of the proposal on voting procedure. This procedure means that whenever any member of the council—including any permanent member—is a party to a dispute, that member cannot vote in any decision of the council involving peaceful settlement of that dispute. Consequently, the council can examine the dispute thoroughly, and the remaining members can make recommendations to all the parties to the dispute as to methods and procedures for settling it. They can refer the legal aspects of the dispute to the international court for advice. They can refer the dispute to the general assembly if they wish; and they can take any other appropriate steps short of enforcement measures to obtain a settlement of that dispute without the vote of the member of the security council involved in the dispute.

This means that all members of the security council when they are parties to a dispute will be on the same footing before this council. It means that no nation in the world will be denied the right to have a fair hearing of its case in the security council, and that the equal, democratic rights of all nations will be respected.

If the dispute is not settled by such means, the major question before the council is whether force needs to be employed. In that event it is necessary that the vote of the permanent members of the council be unanimous. They are the nations which possess in sufficient degree the industrial and military strength to prevent aggression. However, the decision of the council can be reached in such a case only by a majority of seven members, which means that the permanent members cannot alone decide to take action. It also means that the non-permanent members can prevent action.

Invites Other Suggestions

I am happy to say that I have here to hand to each of you a more detailed memorandum on the voting procedure which I am sure you will wish to study.

The invitation to the San Francisco conference suggests that the Dumbarton Oaks proposals be considered as affording a basis for the charter of the world organization. It is the wish of the United States, as it is, I am confident, of the other sponsoring nations, that there should also be the fullest opportunity at that conference for consideration of the views and suggestions of all the participating governments. I know that the contributions of the distinguished statesmen of the American republics will be most valuable in the writing of the charter.

The responsibility for the establishment and maintenance of a peaceful world order is the common responsibility of all the United Nations. It is on them that the duty has now fallen to write a charter for the international organization so firmly rooted in the realities of the world as it is, and so clearly expressing the free and democratic ideals for which the United Nations stand, that it will truly represent both the will of the peoples of the world for lasting peace and their capacity actually to build and to maintain such a peace together.

We have the opportunity. We have the will. May God grant us the vision and the strength to sustain us. It is my faith that together we will build this world of freedom and security—a world at peace at last.

Dieppe Leader to Quit Army.

Ottawa, March 5 (A. P.).—The Canadian commander at Dieppe, Major-Gen. J. H. Roberts, is being released from the army to become Central European administrator for the Imperial War Graves Commission, Gen. Roberts, 53 years old, comes from Kingston, Ont.

35% War-Order Drop Seen For Canada

Ottawa, March 5 (AP)—Reconstruction Minister Howe today announced a reduction of 35 per cent in war orders is anticipated in the intervals between the collapse of Germany and the end of the war against Japan.

"During this stage we anticipate no problem of unemployment, said Mr. Howe at a press conference.

Howe said a program had been worked out to meet problems of that period which are expected to be largely local, resulting from war contract cancellations in communities where there is an abnormal wartime population and heavy concentration of war orders.

EISENHOWER URGES NAZIS SURRENDER

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An appeal from General Eisenhower's headquarters, addressed to German army officers Monday via the American Broadcasting station in Europe, urged that they "reconsider the situation of Germany, the situation of their men and their personal situation" and surrender to the Allies.

"Germany has lost the Westwall, her most powerful defense in the west. The Allies have reached the Rhine and the Ruhr," said the broadcast as reported by the OWI. "In the east the Red army is standing before Berlin. The industrial areas of Upper Silesia, East Prussia, Posen (Poznan) and parts of Saxony, Brandenburg and Pomerania are in Russian hands. The end is merely a question of time.

"The responsibility for the outcome of the war no longer rests with the German officer. But the responsibility for his men remains—and this responsibility will indubitably be taken into account by postwar Germany. Germany's future will be hard, but there will be a possibility for reconstruction. The Allies do not intend to destroy Germany—only the politicians know that their number is up.

"Many German officers whose names must remain unknown have sent parliamentaries to the Allies in a hopeless situation and surrendered their troops. Other officers who could not take his course of action ordered their men to cease fire when the attack caught up with them.

"We cannot expect the German officer to do anything that would be contrary to his honor or to his country's interest. It is in Germany's interest to put an end to this useless bloodshed. The decision is up to the German officer."

KURUSU'S SON DIES OF BATTLE WOUNDS

By Associated Press.

Saburo Kurusu, Japan's peace envoy to the United States at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, was quoted today as saying he felt he had fulfilled his "mission to the Emperor and the Japanese people" when his American-born son was fatally injured intercepting a United States carrier attack on Tokyo last month.

A Japanese Domei news agency dispatch, intercepted by the Federal Communications Commission, quoted Kurusu as saying "I have always felt deeply about my inability to avoid war."

The ex-envoy's son, Capt. Makoto Kurusu, Domei said, was fatally injured February 16 when he met thirty Grumman planes over Tokyo. He brought his plane back to his base, Japanese reports said, but died shortly afterward.

Captain Kurusu was born in the United States in 1919. His mother was an American citizen.

New Nazi Envoy to Portugal

Von Halem Served in London Embassy and in Italy

The Nazi Transocean Agency last night announced the appointment of Dr. Gustav Adolf von Halem as new German Minister to Lisbon, succeeding Baron Oswald von Hoyningen-Huene.

The dispatch, reported by the Federal Communications Commission, said Von Halem is forty-six years old and has been active in the German diplomatic service since 1936, having at one time served as an attache to the German Embassy in London. In 1942, it said, he was in charge of the consulate general in Milan, and the following year, in the capacity of Consul General first class with the title of Minister, he was posted to the German Embassy in the puppet Italian Fascist Republic.

44 Countries to Attend San Francisco Conference

WASHINGTON, March 5.—(AP) Invitations to the World Security conference went out today amid signs that smaller nations will strive to limit the authority of the big powers.

All the United Nations, except Poland, were invited to the conference beginning April 25 in San Francisco. The meeting has been called to form a world organization and to set up international machinery to enforce peace.

Reveal Yalta Formula

The State department announced the long-awaited Yalta formula on how the great powers should vote in the proposed world council. It would allow a great power to be formally accused and tried before world public opinion on a charge of threatening aggression but any one of the powers, including the accused, could veto the use of force against it.

France passed up the opportunity to serve as a sponsor of the San Francisco conference, although her attendance is assured. She wants to have a free hand in trying to alter the basic Dumbarton Oaks plan for world organization.

A number of other, smaller nations have already proposed changes, seeking either to limit the powers of the greater nations or to gain the same end by increasing the voice of smaller ones.

Several developments sped arrangements for the San Francisco gathering. Here are the day's high spots:

1. The United States formally invited 39 United Nations to attend. This country acted in the name of Russia, China and Britain. These four together with France and 39 others will make at least 44 countries at San Francisco.

2. The failure to invite Poland was attributed to the Big Three's Crimean agreement to organize a new Polish government of national unity. If that regime is set up in time Poland will be represented.

3. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to serve on the eight-man American delegation. He said the President had assured him of his 'right of free action," and he served notice that he would seek a stronger mandate than the Dumbarton Oaks plan contains for maintaining justice in the world.

4. The White House asked Vice President Truman to serve as Senate-White House go-between on the world security organization charter and other great treaties which will be coming along.

Explain Veto Proposal

The State department, in explaining the voting formula, sought to show a real compromise between the original Russian view that a great power should be able to veto any accusations against itself and the American view that it should have no control at all over the council once an accusation has been brought against it.

Secretary of State Stettinius, speaking from the inter-American conference in Mexico City, said that under this arrangement an accused nation, large or small, would be excluded from the decisions of the security council on all problems involving the investigation and peaceful settlement of disputes.

However, when it came to deciding whether a country, large or small, was guilty of aggression and whether action should be taken against it, the big five permanent members of the 11 nation council would have to agree unanimously.

All decisions of the council would be made by a majority of seven. This evidently was decided upon to prevent the natural majority of six from making decisions in such a way as to split the large and small states. Under the seven vote rule the smaller six would have to be joined by at least one of the big five on any issue of small versus large states.

The failure of France to come through as a sponsoring power provided something of a minor mystery. As late as Saturday it was reported that the French would definitely be one of the sponsors. Previously the French foreign office had put out word to that effect.

However, a spokesman for the foreign office said at Paris today that the other sponsoring countries objected to France's offering of reservations. The spokesman said France could not consider herself bound by Yalta, where she was not present.

All Allies Except Poland Invited To Frisco

Washington, March 5 (AP)—Plans for the United Nations conference at San Francisco began to take final shape today with these developments:

1. The State Department announced that invitations had gone out to all the United Nations except Poland for the conference opening April 25, with the aim of forming a World Security Organization. If all accept as expected, 44 nations will be represented.

2. Senator Arthur A. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) announced he had accepted appointment as a delegate. This rounds out the United States group, all seven others having accepted previously.

France Won't Be Sponsor

3. It was made known that France had declined to join Russia, Great Britain and the United States in sponsoring the San Francisco conference. Reason given: France was not a party to the Dumbarton Oaks conversations at which a preliminary outline for a world security organization was drafted, hence declined to join in sponsoring the conference called to consider the Dumbarton Oaks proposals.

4. The voting procedure in the World Security Organization envisaged in the Dumbarton Oaks plan was made public. The matter of procedure was left undecided at Dumbarton Oaks. President Roosevelt, Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill worked out an agreement on the subject at Yalta, but held up announcement until today.

Right Of Small Nation

In substance it provides that a small nation may have the right to bring charges against a great power and get them heard by the proposed World Security Council even though the great power itself may object.

However, on any vote to decide that a great power was threatening the peace, or to take action against that power, each of the five great nations would have, in effect, a veto.

Stettinius Explains Voting

Secretary of State Stettinius issued a statement seeking to explain the voting agreement. Next at Mexico City, Stettinius attended the Yalta conference. He said:

"The practical effect of these provisions, taken together is that a difference is made so far as voting is concerned, between the quasi-judicial function of the security council in promoting the specific settlement of disputes and the political function of the council in taking action for the maintenance of peace and security."

Seven For Majority

The voting proposal requires that a majority of the council should always be seven members. Since there are six small and five great powers on the council this means that even on the simplest questions at least one great power would have to vote affirmatively.

The text of the voting procedure was made public in the text of the invitation itself.

The inviting powers also suggested "that the conference consider as affording a basis for such a charter the proposals for the establishment of a general international organization which were made public last October as the result of the Dumbarton Oaks conference and which have now been supplemented by" the voting procedure.

No Comment On Poland

There was no direct comment on the omission of Poland from the list. Officials here expressed the hope that the new Polish "provisional Government of national unity" which the Big Three proposed at Yalta may be created and recognized in time for an invitation to be sent.

At the moment the Polish Exiled Government at London is the Polish member of the United Nations even though it is not recognized by Russia. Russia supports the Warsaw Provisional Government which is to provide the basis for a new government of national unity.

No Explanation On France

Events leading to France's rejection of sponsorship were not immediately explained here.

[In Paris, Foreign Office spokesmen said France had declined to become a sponsor because the other sponsoring countries objected to France's offering of reservations.

[Spokesmen announced last week that France had accepted sponsorship but reserved the right to present amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks and Yalta decisions. Later, they said, they found that sponsoring powers would not be permitted to offer amendments.]

All May Criticize

Actually the invitation left the way open for any countries to criticize or try to alter the Dumbarton Oaks plan. Even the four sponsoring powers merely proposed it as a basis for a World Security League and they advised the other governments that they might "present views or comments concerning the proposals" to the United States.

The invitation list was fixed by the Big Three at the Crimean Conference. They agreed that two kinds of nations would be asked to attend:

1. Those which had signed the United Nations declaration by February 8, 1945 (while the Crimea conference was in progress.)

2. Those so-called associated nations and Turkey which declared war and adhered to the United Nations declaration by March 1, 1945. Subsequently Saudi Arabia was added to this category and it was the only country for which exception was made.

30.24-23615

Iceland, Syria, Lebanon Out

Iceland, which was one of the associated nations, never got around to declaring war. Syria and Lebanon, which declared war, were not covered since they were not considered associated nations because they attained their independence only recently.

The voting procedure was the great gap in the Dumbarton Oaks plan up to the time of the Crimean Conference. Russia contended that a great power should retain a veto over any charges brought against it in the security council. The United States contended that an accused power should be under the same restrictions as any smaller country in that it should have no voice in determining what should be done about itself.

Two Kinds Of Disputes

As Stettinius explained it this formula divides questions of disputes into two classes. Whenever Pacific settlement of disputes is concerned the eleven-member security council would decide its course by an affirmative vote of seven members, except that a party to the dispute would refrain from voting.

As explained here, if a great power were a party to a dispute, unanimity of the other four great powers would be required. This would allow the council in effect to put one of its five permanent members on trial before the world through a process of hearings and investigation.

But when making a formal finding of a threat to or breach of the peace and when enforcement measures of any kind were to be employed, the council would have to reach its decision with unanimity among all the five great powers. Each consequently would have the right of vetoing action against itself.

It was emphasized that the decision of France not to join as a sponsor for the conference would not in any way affect France's prospects of becoming one of the permanent members of the World Secuity Council.

Statement on Voting Procedure

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP).—The text of the statement by Secretary of State Stettinius in connection with the issuance of invitations to the United Nations conference at San Francisco, April 25, which was released by the State Department today, follows:

Today, with the issuance of the invitations to the San Francisco Conference, there have been made public the provisions of the text on voting procedure in the security council of the general international organization proposed at Dumbarton Oaks.

The practical effect of these provisions, taken together, is that a difference is made, so far as voting is concerned, between the quasi-judicial function of the security council in promoting the pacific settlement of disputes and the political function of the council in taking action for the maintenance of peace and security.

Where the council is engaged in performing its quasi-judicial function of promoting pacific settlement of disputes, no nation, large or small, should be above the law. This means that no nation, large or small, if a party to a dispute, would participate in the decisions of the security council on questions like the following:

(A) Whether a matter should be investigated;

(B) Whether the dispute or situation is of such a nature that its continuation is likely to threaten the peace;

(C) Whether the council should call on the parties to settle a dispute by means of their own choice;

(D) Whether, if the dispute is referred to the council, a recommendation should be made as to methods and procedures of settlement;

(E) Whether the council should make such recommendations before the dispute is referred to it;

(F) What should be the nature of this recommendation;

(G) Whether the legal aspect of the dispute should be referred to the court for advice;

(H) Whether a regional agency should be asked to concern itself with the dispute, and

(I) Whether the dispute should be referred to the general assembly.

Where the council is engaged in performing its political functions of action for maintenance of peace and security, a difference is made between the permanent members of the council and other nations for the practical reason that the permanent members of the council must, as a matter of necessity, bear the principal responsibility for action. Unanimous agreement among the permanent members of the council is therefore requisite. In such matters, therefore, the concurrence of all the permanent members would be required. Examples are:

(A) Determination of the existence of a threat or breach of the peace;

(B) Use of force or other enforcement measures;

(C) Approval of agreements for supply of armed forces;

(D) Matters relating to the regulation of armaments, and

(E) Matters concerning the suspension and expulsion of members and the admission of new members.

Text of Invitation to San Francisco Parley

MAR 6 1945

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP).—Following is the text of the invitation to participate in the United Nations conference at San Francisco April 25, which was released by the State Department today:

At the Crimea Conference the government of the United States of America was authorized, on behalf of the three governments there represented, to consult the government of the Republic of China and the Provisional Government of the French Republic in order to invite them to sponsor invitations jointly with the governments of the United States of America, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to a conference of United Nations called to meet at San Francisco on April 25, 1945.

Those consultations have now been held. The government of the Republic of China has agreed to join in sponsoring invitations to the San Francisco Conference. The Provisional Government of the French Republic has agreed to participate in the conference but, after consultation with the sponsoring governments, the provisional government—which did not participate in the Dumbarton Oaks conversations—is not joining in sponsoring the invitations.

Text of Invitations

Today at noon, Washington time, representatives of the government of the United States of America stationed at various capitals throughout the world are presenting to the governments of thirty-nine different United Nations the following invitation:

The government of the United States of America, on behalf of itself and of the governments of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the Republic of China, invites the government of (name of government invited was inserted here) to send representatives to a conference of the United Nations to be held on April 25, 1945, at San Francisco in the United States of America to prepare a charter for a general international organization for the maintenance of international peace and security.

The above named governments suggest that the conference consider as affording a basis for such a charter the proposals for the establishment of a general international organization, which were made public last October as a result of the Dumbarton Oaks Conference, and which have now been supplemented by the following provisions for Section C of Chapter VI:

"C. Voting:

"1. Each member of the security council should have one vote.

"2. Decisions of the security council on procedural matters should be made by an affirmative vote of seven members.

"3. Decisions of the security council on all other matters should be made by an affirmative vote of seven members including the concurring votes of the permanent members; provided that, in decisions under Chapter VIII, Section A, and under the second sentence of Paragraph 1 of Chapter VII, Section C, a party to a dispute should abstain from voting."

Nations That Received Bids

Further information as to arrangements will be transmitted subsequently. In the event that the government of (name of government invited was inserted here) desires inadvance of the conference to present views or comments concerning the proposals, the government of the United States of America will be pleased to transmit such views and comments to the other participating governments.

The invitation has been presented to the governments of the following United Nations:

Commonwealth of Australia, Kingdom of Belgium, Republic of Bolivia, United States of Brazil, Canada,

Republic of Chile, Republic of Colombia, Republic of Costa Rica, Republic of Cuba, Czechoslovak Republic, Dominican Republic, Republic of Ecuador,

Kingdom of Egypt, Empire of Ethiopia, Kingdom of Greece, Republic of Guatemala, Republic of Haiti,

Republic of Honduras, India, Empire of Iran, Kingdom of Iraq, the Republic of Liberia, the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, United Mexican States, the Kingdom of the Netherlands, Dominion of New Zealand, Republic of Nicaragua, Kingdom of Norway, Republic of Panama, Republic of Paraguay, Republic of Peru, Commonwealth of the Philippines, Republic of El Salvador, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the Republic of Turkey, Union of South Africa, Oriental Republic of Uruguay, United States of Venezuela, Kingdom of Yugoslavia.

Voting Procedure Explained

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP).—Here is a curbstone interpretation of how the proposed United Nations security council voting procedure would work in event of a charge of aggression against one of the great powers:

Take a case like Italy's annexation of Ethiopia, assuming for purposes of the example that Italy is one of the big five powers. (It actually is not.)

Ethiopia, whether or not it is a member of the organization, could bring its complaint against Italy to the attention of the security council. The council would decide by vote of seven of the eleven members, including all the big power nations, except Italy, whether to investigate the complaint. In that matter Italy would be placed more or less on trial.

After investigating, the council would by the same sort of vote decide whether Italy's action against Ethiopia, or its threat of action, was of such a nature as eventually to threaten world peace.

If this decision was affirmative, Italy still not voting, the council could then go to work to try to settle the trouble by peaceful means such as friendly suggestions to both sides or outright arbitration.

Assuming peaceful means completely failed it would then be up to the council to decide whether or not political or economic sanctions or even military force should be called into use against Italy. The first issue would be whether a real and immediate threat to world peace existed.

At this point the so-called big-power veto would come into play. In voting a majority of seven would still be necessary to take an affirmative decision, but in this case a majority would have to include all five permanent big-power members. In other words, at this point Italy could, if it desired, veto a decision unfavorable to itself. That would effectively stop further action against Italy by the council. But even assuming that Italy agreed to the charge of threatening the peace, it would then have a further vote on the use of force against itself.

The argument for the voting formula put up by those who regard the arrangement as acceptable is that if a dispute involving a great power ever gets to the point of using force, the world will have another full-sized war on its hands and no voting arrangement could prevent the conflict. It is also argued that the opportunity to put any nation, large or small, on trial before the security council probably would be an effective deterrent to aggressive action by one of the big powers.

SAN FRANCISCO INVITATIONS OMIT POLAND

All Other United Nations Get Bids for a Total of Forty-four.

FRANCE AGREES TO ATTEND

World Security Council Voting Procedure, as Adopted at Yalta, Is Revealed

MAR 6 1945

Washington, March 5 (A. P.).—The Government announced today that all United Nations except Poland are being asked to attend the World Security Conference at San Francisco. If all accept as expected this will mean an attendance of forty-four nations.

By a last minute hitch France refrained from joining in sponsoring the conference. This leaves sponsorship to the United States, Russia, China and Great Britain. France, the official announcement said, has agreed to participate in the conference but felt that, partly because she had not helped work out the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, she should not join in sponsoring the invitations.

The voting procedure agreed on by Messrs. Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill at Yalta to fill the last big gap in the Dumbarton Oaks plan also was announced. In substance it provides that a small nation may have the right to bring charges against a great Power and get them heard by the proposed World Security Council even though the great Power itself may object. However, on any vote to decide that a great Power was threatening the peace, or to take action against that Power, each of the five great nations would have, in effect, a veto.

Stettinius on Voting Procedure.

Secretary of State Stettinius issued a statement seeking to explain the voting agreement. Now at Mexico City, Mr. Stettinius attended the Yalta conference. He said:

"The practical effect of these provisions, taken together is that a difference is made so far as voting is concerned, between the quasi-judicial function of the Security council in promoting the specific settlement of disputes and the political function of the council in taking action for the maintenance of peace and security."

The voting proposal requires that a majority of the council should always be seven members. Since there are six small and five great Powers on the council this means that even on the simplest questions at least one great Power would have to vote affirmatively.

The text of voting procedure was made public in the text of the invitation itself. This invitation said that the four great Powers were asking the thirty-nine other States and France to the San Francisco meeting "to prepare a charter for a general international organization for the maintenance of international peace and security."

The inviting Powers also suggested "that the conference consider as affording a basis for such a charter the proposals for the establishment of a general international organization which were made public last October as the result of the Dumbarton Oaks conference and which have now been supplemented by" the voting procedure.

There was no direct comment on the omission of Poland from the list. Officials here expressed the hope that the new Polish "Provisional Government of National Unity" which the Big Three proposed at Yalta may be created and recognized in time for an invitation to be sent. In that case there will be forty-five nations at San Francisco.

At the moment the Polish exiled government at London is the Polish member of the United Nations even though it is not recognized by Russia. Russia supports the Warsaw provisional government which is to provide the basis for a new government of national unity.

Events leading to France's rejection of sponsorship were not immediately explained. As late as Saturday it was understood that negotiations in London and Paris had succeeded in working out a formula for the invitation which would be acceptable to the French and that it would leave them free to propose changes in the Dumbarton Oaks plan at San Francisco. At one point, the United States, Great Britain and China agreed to an arrangement. The implication was that Russia possibly had not found it acceptable, although this report lacked official confirmation.

Actually the invitation left the way open for any countries to critisize or try to alter the Dumbarton Oaks plan. Even the four sponsoring Powers merely proposed it as a basis for a world security league and they advised the other governments that they might "present views or comments concerning the proposal" to the United States.

The invitation list was fixed by the Big Three at the Crimea Conference. They agreed that two kinds of nations would be asked to attend:

1. Those which had signed the United Nations Declaration by February 8, 1945 (while the Crimea Conference was in progress).

2. Those so-called associated nations and Turkey which declared war and adhered to the United Nations Declaration by March 1, 1945. Subsequently Saudi Arabia was added to this category and it was the only country for which exception was made.

Iceland, which was one of the associated nations, never got around to declaring war. Syria and Lebanon, which declared war, were not covered since they were not considered associated nations because they attained their independence only recently.

The voting procedure was the great gap in the Dumbarton Oaks plan up to the time of the Crimea Conference. Russia contended that a great Power should retain a veto over any charges brought against it in the security council. The United States contended that an accused Power should be under the same restrictions as any smaller country in that it should have no voice in determining what should be done about itself. In the opinion of American officials the Yalta formula represents a compromise between these two extremes.

Two Categories of Disputes.

As Mr. Stettinius explained it, this formula divides questions of disputes into two classes. Whenever pacific settlement of disputes is concerned, the eleven-member Security Council would decide its course by an affirmative vote of seven members—except that a party to the dispute would refrain from voting.

As explained here, if a great Power were a party to a dispute, unanimity of the other four great Powers would be required. This would allow the council in effect to put one of its five permanent members on trial before the world through a process of hearings and investigation. But when making a formal finding of a threat to or breach of the peace and when enforcement measures of any kind were to be employed, the council would have to reach its decision with unanimity among all the five great Powers. Each consequently would have the right of vetoing action against itself.

It was emphasized that the decision of France not to join as a sponsor for the conference would not in any way effect France's prospects of becoming one of the permanent members of the World Security Council along with the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China.

VANDENBERG SAYS HE HAS ACCEPTED

MAR 6 1945

Washington, March 5 (A. P.).—Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) announced today he had accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to become a delegate to the World Security Conference in San Francisco. The Michigan Senator said that he had made his decision after "an exchange of cordial and satisfactory personal letters with the President." This exchange clarified "my right of free action," he said.

As a delegate, Sentator Vandenberg said "I wish to do everything within my power to establish a practical system of collective security as a basis for effective peace."

"I am frank to say," Mr. Vandenberg said in a formal statement, "that my chief anxiety about the tentative Dumbarton Oaks formula is that, except in its brief world court chapter, it does not once mention 'justice' as a guiding objective or a rule of conduct. In my opinion, no permanent peace is possible without a constant, conscious mandate to seek and to maintain 'justice' as the basis of peace. I shall have concrete proposals to submit to my colleagues along these lines. It will be my prayer that the San Francisco conference may be successful in promoting dependable peace, with organized justice, in a free world of free men. Civilization cannot survive world war number three."

The letter exchange between Vandenberg and Mr. Roosevelt coincided with word that the White House has asked Vice-President Truman to serve as a liaison with the Senate to clear the way for favorable action on the forthcoming treaties.

World Parley Participants

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, March 5—Scheduled to participate in the San Francisco security conference are forty-four nations. This includes all the United Nations except Poland and includes Saudi Arabia, which has not signed the United Nations declaration. Poland may receive an invitation later.

The conference of nations, as thus far scheduled, with the dates of adhesion of those which are formal members of the United Nations, is as follows:

2,050 MARINES DIE IN IWO FIGHTING

No Major Gains Revealed in Battle, Jap Attacks Repulsed.

WASHINGTON, March 5—(AP) Navy Secretary Forrestal said today 2,050 Marines had been killed on Iwo Jima but that the loss was not out of proportion to the importance of taking the island.

Just back from a Pacific tour which included a visit to Iwo, Forrestal told a news conference that the Japanese defense of the island was the "most thorough and skillful" the Marines had yet encountered in the Pacific.

Stronger Than Expected

Forrestal said that although the joint chiefs of staff and the Navy had no illusions on the difficulty of taking Iwo, the Japanese were stronger than had been expected. In addition he said they made very good use of their weapons.

He termed the Marine fighting "highly successful," pointing out that more than 12,500 Japanese dead had been counted and that more bodies probably had been removed from the battle fields by the enemy.

The Secretary described Iwo as a vital sea and air gate to the inner defenses of Japan. Its capture he added, would afford a base from which fighter planes could protect B-29's in raids against Japan. Moreover, he said, the base will put the B-24's Liberators within range of the Japanese empire.

Despite the American progress in the Pacific, Forrestal declared "we have got to face the fact that the Japanese still have an army" which he estimated at 70 combat divisions. These divisions added to service troops and similar forces, he said, give the enemy upwards of 5,000,000 fighting men. To defeat Japan, he added, the United States and its Allies will have to defeat that force.

NAVY CASUALTIES

The Navy Department announced today sixty casualties in the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard which makes a total of 90,536 casualties reported by the Navy since Pearl Harbor. Of this total 34,376 are reported dead, 41,012 wounded, 10,672 missing and 4,476 prisoners of war. Included in the list are the names of 1,808 United States soldiers killed in action in the European and Mediterranean areas and the names of 1,947 wounded in action in the European area. In all cases next of kin have been notified by the War Department and, in the case of the wounded, have been kept informed of any change in status.

Former Baltimore Newsman Wounded In Action On Iwo

Washington, March 5 (AP)—Second Lieutenant Cyril P. (Pete) Zurlinden, Jr., a Marine public relations officer and former Associated Press correspondent in Baltimore and Annapolis, was wounded in the invasion of Iwo Jima.

Marine headquarters announced today that Zurlinden, who landed on the Japanese island stronghold on D-day, was wounded in the left leg when a mortar shell landed in his foxhole that night.

His self-administered first aid before help reached him next morning was expected to save his life.

Parents From Ohio

Zurlinden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril P. Zurlinden, of Rocky River, Ohio, worked as a newspaper man in Dayton and Columbus, Ohio, before joining the Associated Press in January, 1942. He was Associated Press correspondent at Annapolis when he enlisted to become a Marine Corps combat correspondent in December, 1942. A brother, J. Richard Zurlinden, lives at 7402 Kenleigh avenue here.

Iwo Jima was Zurlinden's third invasion. His stories of Tarawa and the Marianas won for him a promotion to second lieutenant from the rank of technical sargeant.

Marine headquarters related what happened to him at Iwo Jima as follows:

"Zurlinden landed on Iwo the afternoon of D-day, February 19, as assistant public relations officer of the 5th Marine Amphibious Corps. He dug in for the night near the beach. At 10.30 o'clock that night, a mortar shell landed in his foxhole, wounding his left leg above the knee.

"Bleeding profusely from the gash, he remained in his foxhole until 8 A.M. the next day, when help finally could reach him. He was evacuated to a hospital ship and later taken to Pearl Harbor. Doctors said Zurlinden's self-administered first aid in the foxhole probably will save his leg."

At Pearl Harbor, Zurlinden gave newsmen a graphic picture of the beach at Iwo.

"All the time," he said, "mortars were coming down. They were falling at the rate of three a minute. That's just mortars. There was plenty of artillery and other types of fire.

"The Japs were shooting at anything moving. They were going after the corpsmen who were helping the wounded. But those corpsmen would keep right on going."

Former Football Ace Killed in Action

Atlanta, March 5 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Commander Mack Tharpe, 41, Navy combat pilot and former football ace and line coach at Georgia Tech, has been killed in action.

Tharpe entered the Navy soon after Pearl Harbor and was stationed at Georgia Naval Preflight School at Athens for a year. Last year he was executive officer at the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., air station.

STASSEN REVEALS VIEWS WEDNESDAY

St. Paul, Minn., March 5 (A. P.).—Commander Harold E. Stassen, named as a delegate to the United Nations Conference at San Francisco, indicated today that he would disclose his views of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals in an address Wednesday night at the University of Minnesota.

Home on leave, the former Minnesota Governor said that he had a full report on the Dumbarton Oaks proposals and has made a study of them but would not disclose his views until Wednesday night's talk. The address will be broadcast over the CBS network at 9:30, Central war time. He will speak on "American World Policy for Peace and Progress" under the auspices of the Minnesota United Nations Committee.

Commander Stassen told a press conference today that he favored passage of a national service act.

"Looking over the whole man power picture," he said, "Chief of Staff Marshall and Commander of the Fleet King have said some type of service act at home is necessary. I feel therefore that it should be passed."

TRADE PACTS HELD ILLEGAL

Highest Bench Hands Down Several Decisions.

Washington, March 5 (A. P.).—The Supreme Court ruled today that "fair trade" contracts affecting retail prices on liquor and wine shipped into Colorado violate the Sherman anti-trust act. Justice Black delivered the court's 8 to 0 decision. Chief Justice Stone took no part in the case.

Seven prominent distillers were charged by the Government with having combined with certain Colorado wholesalers and retailers in the adoption of "high and non-competitive retail prices, markups and margins of profit." The Tenth Federal Circuit decided, however, that there was no showing of restraint of interstate commerce or violation of the Sherman act.

The Justice Department in appealing to the Supreme Court contended that agreements in interstate sales which provide for contract price maintenance in later intrastate sales are illegal under the Sherman act.

Seven Firms Charged.

The Government charge was made against Frankfort Distillers, Inc., National Distillers Products Corporation, Brown Forman Distillers Corporation, Hiram Walker, Inc., Schenley Distillers Corporation, Seagram-Distillers Corporation and McKesson & Robbins, Inc.

Justice Black said that "the fact that the ultimate object of the conspiracy charged was the fixing or maintenance of local retail prices, does not of itself remove it from the scope of the Sherman act; retail outlets have ordinarily been the object of illegal price maintenance. Whatever was the ultimate object of this Conspiracy, the means adopted for its accomplishment reached beyond the boundaries of Colorado."

The court found that the Sherman act in this case "is not being enforced in such manner as to conflict with the law of Colorado."

Refuses to Review Complaint.

The court refused to review a complaint that a group of large corporations had improperly confiscated rights of an estate in the use of tetraethyl lead in gasoline.

The review was asked by J. D. Driscoll and W. D. Noland, trustees of the Howard Trust Estate, Ltd.

The court held invalid for want of invention a Dow Chemical Company patent covering a process of treatment of deep oil and gas wells to increase their production. Justice Murphy delivered the court's unanimous decision.

The court denied Otis & Co., of Cleveland, a re-hearing on a decision which affirmed a plan of reorganization for the United Light and Power Company.

Other Decisions.

The court refused to review a Court of Claims finding that Mrs. Nancy Perkins Field Tree must pay taxes on an annuity received under an agreement with Marshall Field, Chicago.

The court agreed to consider whether a United States District Court may try a Sherman anti-trust suit brought against an export trade association which is registered with the Federal Trade Commission.

United States Alkali Export Association, Inc., and eleven large chemical firms asked the high tribunal to review action of the Southern New York Federal District Court. The District Court denied their motion for dismissal of the suit for lack of jurisdiction.

Among other actions today, the court:

Divided five to four to hold that a Federal gift tax must be paid by a husband who set up a $300,000 trust in an agreement by which his wife gave up her dower rights.

Ruled eight to one that a $149,456 stock transfer, made to a prospective wife to win her consent to marriage, is subject to the Federal gift tax.

VINSON APPOINTED U. S. LOAN CHIEF TO SUCCEED JONES

Choice Pleases Senators —Quick Confirmation Is Forecast.

MAR 6 1945

Washington, March 5 (A. P.).—Fred M. Vinson, Economic Stabilization Director, was nominated today by President Roosevelt to be Federal Loan Administrator. Mr. Vinson thus succeeds Jesse Jones as head of the loan agencies handling billions of dollars. They were severed from the Department of Commerce so they would not come under the jurisdiction of Henry A. Wallace. Before the Senate confirmed Mr. Wallace for Secretary of Commerce, special legislation returned the Federal Loan Administration to an independent status.

Speedy Confirmation Expected.

Immediate Senate reaction to Mr. Vinson's nomination indicated quick confirmation. Senator Bailey (D.-Mo.), chairman of the Commerce Committee, who had opposed giving Mr. Wallace the loan agencies, said: "Judge Vinson is a very fine and able man, and I shall vote for his confirmation."

Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.), who for a time led a Senate fight against President Roosevelt's recent State Department nominations, commented: "I think the President has made a splendid choice. The appointment will meet with great satisfaction in Congress and in the country generally."

Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) said he was pleased that Mr. Roosevelt had selected Mr. Vinson. Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) said, "I think it is a good nomination."

Jesse Jones, whom Mr. Vinson replaces, said: "I regard Judge Fred Vinson an excellent appointment for the position of Federal Loan Administrator. He is a man of sound judgment, and I am sure will make a good administrator."

Secretary Wallace also praised the appointment. Mr. Vinson, he said, "has had a most distinguished public record, and I am confident that in his new position he will render the people of the United States a great service."

A former member of Congress from Kentucky and a former Justice of the United States Circuit Court for the District of Columbia, Mr. Vinson has been Stabilization Director since James F. Byrnes gave up the post. Mr. Byrnes moved into the position of War Mobilization Director.

The White House said President Roosevelt had a successor in mind for Mr. Vinson but that the appointment of a new stabilization director will be withheld until the Senate acts on Mr. Vinson's nomination to the lending job.

Mr. Vinson, 55 years old, served seven terms in the House of Representatives before being appointed in May, 1938, to the Circuit Court. He is best remembered as a Congressman for his work as chairman of the House Ways and Means taxation subcommittee, when he was one of the first pay-as-you-go tax collection sponsors.

Born at Louisa, Ky., January 22, 1890, he was graduated from the Kentucky Normal College and took his law degree at Centre College. He began his law practice at Louisa in 1911 and was city attorney and commonwealth attorney before his election to Congress in 1922. He was chief judge of the United States Emergency Court of Appeals when he resigned in May, 1943, to become director of the Office of Economic Stabilization.

He is married and has two sons. His Kentucky home is at Ashland.

100,000 Prisoners Coming From Europe

Washington, March 5 (A. P.).—An additional 100,000 German war prisoners will be brought to this country to ease the labor shortage here and the burden of guarding them abroad.

Their arrival will swell the total in the United States to more than 400,000. A War Department announcement said they will be used only for essential work for which no civilian labor is available.

125 Disloyal Japanese Moved

NEWELL, Calif., March 5 (AP).—A special-train load of 125 disloyal and alien Japanese were removed yesterday from the Tule Lake segregation center of the War Relocation Authority to a Department of Justice internment camp. This brings to 1,016 the number of segregated Japanese removed from Tule Lake to Department of Justice camps which are located in New Mexico, Texas and Minnesota.

CROWLEY SAYS LEND-LEASE NOT FOR POST-WAR

FEA Chief Avers Peacetime Rehabilitation Is a Separate Problem.

HOLDS FRANCE RECIPROCATES

Her Factories Make War Material, He Tells Congress Group at Renewal Hearing.

Washington, March 5 (A. P.).—Leo T. Crowley, head of the Foreign Economic Administration, emphasized to a congressional committee today that lend-lease "will not be used for the purpose of post-war rehabilitation and reconstruction."

Mr. Crowley, who handles the lend-lease program, testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee as it reopened hearings on legislation to extend the program for an additional year beyond next June 30. He was recalled to testify specifically about provisions of the lend-lease agreement with France.

The post-war reconstruction problem abroad, Mr. Crowley said, "is a separate subject for the consideration of the Congress."

Through lend-lease, he said, the United States had undertaken to furnish arms for an additional eight French Army divisions to supplement eight already on the western front. Mr. Crowley asserted that reverse lend-lease from the French is substantial, with tires, tents and other war supplies being produced by French factories.

Sees Greater French Aid.

"With the help of lend-lease aid," he added, France "can furnish us a far greater volume of reverse lend-lease which can help to shorten the war."

Items included in the supplies sent to France under lend-lease, Mr. Crowley told the committee, include locomotives, freight cars, machinery and other equipment which "may have a residual peacetime use." The agreement with France, he stated, provides for payment to the United States for equipment that will be put to peacetime use.

"Our financial liabilities in liquidating the lend-lease program will be minimized and our surplus problem after the war reduced," he said. "The French taxpayers will assume a burden which otherwise would be borne by American taxpayers.

"When the war has been won," Mr. Crowley concluded, "lend-lease will end and be liquidated in accordance with the intention of Congress and the provisions of the lend-lease act."

Democrats on the committee have been trying for more than a week to have the bill approved and on the way to passage.

U. S. Treasury Ends Ban On Business With Greece

Postal and Cable Service Restored Beginning Today

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP).—Another door in war-locked Europe was opened today when the Treasury ended its ban on commercial and business communications with Greece. Postal and cable communication service is restored, effective Tuesday. Greece is removed from the category of "enemy territory."

Treasury licenses will no longer be required for exchange of financial and commercial information and establishment of business contacts.

In addition, as soon as necessary banking arrangements can be made, support remittances may be sent to individuals in Greece through banking channels.

Treasury licenses will still be required to send instructions or authorizations to effect financial or property transactions.

The action does not affect the status of Greek assets in the United States.

Treasury officials said they are considering resumption of communications with other Balkan areas. Business communications have already been restored with liberated Italy, France, Belgium, Poland, Finland and the Baltic region stretching between Poland and Finland.

U. S. Still Recognizes Baltics

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP).—The United States still officially regards Estonia, Lativa and Lithuania as independent states. These three Baltic states were absorbed by the Soviet Union early in the war. Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew disclosed this country's attitude toward them at a week-end news conference after President Roosevelt passed a reporter's question along to the State Department.

Civilians Leaving Philippines

MAR 6 1945

Washington, March 5 (AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur has begun evacuating civilians from the Philippine Islands.

This was announced today by State and War departments, which said that the removal of these people from the islands would "take place as rapidly as the military situation there permits and as space becomes available for transport.

Relatives of repatriates will be notified as they reach this country but no advance information will be given as to time or place of arrival.

Red Cross To Aid

"The American Red Cross will meet the repatriates as they arrive," the announcement said, "and with the co-operation of other appropriate agencies will undertake to give any needed emergency assistance as well as assistance in putting persons promptly in touch with their relatives."

There are more than 6,000 Americans in the liberated areas of the Philippines. The State Department was unable to say exactly how many intended to return home and how many would remain in the islands.

More From N.Y. Area Freed in Philippines

Additional names of American civilians from the New York area released from internment camps in the Philippines were released yesterday by the War Department through The Associated Press as follows:

BERGAMINI, JOHN V. W., CLARA H., DAVID H. and ELIZABETH M.; Rev. Alex Hawke, care St. John Rectory, Southampton, L. I.

HUTCHINSON, CATHERINE GRACE; brother, Louis Young, 87 Fulton av., Rochester, N. Y.

RICHARDSON, ARTHUR H.; wife, Mrs. Arthur H. Richardson, Route 1, Rockville, Conn.

ANDREW, SISTER MARY (MARY SMITH); friend, Mother General, Maryknoll Sisters Motherhouse, Maryknoll, N. Y.

SMITH, VIOLA R.; son, Stephen Ellsworth Smith, Presbyterian Board Foreign Missions, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York.

WILLIAMS, GERTRUDE A. and RICHARD A.; mother and grandmother, Mrs. W. C. Wenning, 6623 Ridge Boulevard, Brooklyn.

Lack of Plane Space Limits Overseas Mail

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP).—The Army postal service said today that the volume of airmail service to troops overseas has been curtailed because of insufficient cargo space on aircraft. The use of an airmail stamp, therefore, will not guarantee that letters will go by air, the Army said. Only V-mail will be assured of air transportation.

MRS. LUCE FLIES TO LONDON

She will Survey What British Women Did in the War

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—Representative Clare Boothe Luce, Republican of Connecticut, has flown to London on the invitation of the British Embassy to survey the work of British women in the war.

Her office, said Mrs. Luce, considered the subject "very important to a fuller understanding between the women of our two nations and one on which she intends to bring back considerable data."

Another London visitor is movie producer Sam Goldwyn, reportedly there to turn out a film dramatizing reverse lend-lease and sent there by the Foreign Economic Administration in an effort to convince Americans that lend-lease is not a one-way proposition.

There was no word here or in London whether he will finance the movie personally or with Government aid.

Mrs. Luce's itinerary is to be decided after her arrival in London.

Albert P. Morano, her secretary, said that she probably will remain overseas "three or four weeks, depending on transportation." Mr. Morano said her plane took off from Baltimore, but that he did not know when. Mrs. Luce was present for a House quorum call last Friday.

FIRST LADY GETS CRESTED MINK COAT

Representatives of the Government of the Province of Quebec and of the Quebec Fur Breeders Co-operative Association today presented Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, "as a token of good neighborliness," the first crested mink coat to be manufactured under the trade alliance agreement recently consummated with Ritter Brothers, furriers, of 224 West 30th street. According to the alliance, the details of which were announced at a luncheon held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Plaza, a facsimile of the crest of the Province of Quebec will be sealed by the Department of Agriculture of the province, on top grades of Quebec mink to be sold here. These minks will be known as Quebec crested mink and with Ritter Brothers as sole United States distributor, will be sold in one store only in each of this country.

MAR 6 1945

Mrs. Roosevelt, who said that she was accepting the coat as a symbol, "because we know that peace will be founded on economic co-operation—and this between two countries that have been long-time friends," added that it seems to be the symbol "of what we hope will happen all over the world—what will bring us a happier world in which to live."

"I am deeply honored by your wish to commemorate this occasion," she continued, "and I thank you in your own language —'Je vous remercie beaucoup.'" Mrs. Roosevelt, who told reporters later that she would keep it "because it's a gift," wore the coat when she left the hotel.

Importance of Trade.

The importance of trade in international friendship was stressed by Dr. J. E. La Forest, president of the Quebec Fur Breeders Co-operative Association, a group of more than 2,300 independent mink breeders sponsored by the Department of Agriculture of the Province of Quebec. Dr. La Forest cited the miles of unfortified border between the United States and Canada as indicative of the mutual trust fostered by good will in international trade.

Louis Ritter, of Ritter Brothers, presented an additional first-crop "crested mink" to Mrs. David Bandler, vice-president of the Citizens Committee for the Army and Navy, Second Region Council. Mrs. Bandler, in accepting the coat, said that the committee would auction it off later for the benefit of the men and women of the armed forces.

Biddle Opposes U.S. Overseas Air Monopoly

Justice Department Report Would Also Bar Shipping Lines From Plane Routes

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP).—The Justice Department gave a thumbs-down opinion today on single-company operation of America's international air transportation.

The department said it is opposed also to surface carriers, such as steamship companies, owning or controling international air-line companies.

A 105-page report by Attorney General Francis Biddle on what the Justice Department believes should be America's international air transportation policy recommended:

1. That this country adopt a policy of controlled competition.

2. That it seek an understanding with other countries to define and limit the amount of governmental financial assistance to be given to international air lines.

3. That an international organization be formed to analyze information on air carrier operations, laws, regulations, traffic and safety rules, and to serve as a medium for solving world air-line problems.

4. That economic and legal conditions be of a nature to encourage continued private operation of America's international air carriers. The department added, however, that government operation of an international air line might be advisable when absence of profit opportunities made private-company operation impossible.

The aviation survey recommended that the right of a carrier to land in a foreign country for refueling, repairs or other services be established as an international principle. It called for direct government negotiation of rights to engage in air commerce. It urged negotiation of agreements with other countries which would lead to a sound and progressive international air service.

The report said this country should see to it that United States air lines "will carry a volume of world traffic commensurate with the importance of the United States as a market for air transport services."

In opposing the frequently repeated suggestion that American international air transportation be operated by a single company, the department suggested a medium somewhere between monopoly and all-out unrestricted competition. Two alternatives appear possible, it said:

"First, different companies may be given the American-flag operations in different geographic zones: One American company might operate the Atlantic service to Europe, a second might operate the services to Latin America, and a third might operate the Pacific services to Asia and the Indies. These three regional monopolies would be non-competitive, but their independent operation would provide scope for competitive emulation and would stimulate experimentation with new equipment and new operating techniques.

"A second alternative would be to provide indirect competition on alternative routes. For example, one company might operate the trans-Atlantic route to northern Europe, while the second operated to southern Europe. In Latin America, a separation of Pan American Airways and Pan American-Grace would provide direct competition to Colombia and Panama, and indirect competition between the east-coast routes and west-coast routes to Buenos Aires. In the Pacific, one carrier could operate by way of the Hawaiian Islands to Australia, the Indies and China, while another could operate the northern route by way of Alaska."

25,000 Chrysler Workers Back After Strike

Detroit, March 5 (AP)—Production of bomber plane and tank parts was resumed in six Chrysler Corporation plants today as an eight-day strike at the corporation's Dodge main plant was ended. The union decision to end the strike called approximately 25,000 workers back to their jobs.

Direct appeals from the War Labor Board and Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson preceded the action of Local 3, United Auto Workers (CIO), in calling off the strike. Union and company spokesmen agreed the action would result in resumption of full production at all six plants "within a few hours."

Peace Near At Briggs

A second major Detroit labor dispute—involving 11,150 workers at the Detroit and Evansville (Ind.) plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Company — continued, but union officials forecast an early end to the trouble. The union spokesmen pointed out that the strike-bound Local 212, UAW-CIO, apex of the dispute, had empowered its executive committee to meet with the management today to discuss the situation.

The Briggs strike began Tuesday, following company discharge of seven union members for allegedly "inciting" previous strikes at the concern.

War Official Appeals

Strikers at both concerns received a warning from Under Secretary Patterson when he said, "If this strike continues, the paralysis that now grips part of Detroit's great arsenal will make its effects felt on the very field of battle."

"In war, just one thing matters—keeping the flow of production to the fighting fronts and delivering the goods on time," Patterson said in a broadcast from Washington. He continued, "The finest tank in the world is of no use delivered to a dead soldier the day after a battle."

Patterson's plea came less than 24 hours after WLB Chairman William H. Davis told union and company officials to end the Chrysler dispute immediately.

A union-estimated crowd of 2,000 workers attended the meeting yesterday. Mike Novak, president of Local 3, quoted Chairman Davis as promising the WLB would see that no strikers would be punished for his part in the Chrysler walkout; that the company agreed to abide by a WLB directive that an impartial umpire study production schedules in the department from which eight men were discharged.

JUDGE DISMISSES THE PETITION OF TEXTILE UNION

BOSTON, March 5—(AP) A Federal judge ruled today that his court had no jurisdiction over a War Manpower commission order which attempts to force New Bedford textile employes into the tire cord producing factories of Fisk and Firestone.

Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., dismissed the petition of the Textile Workers union (C.I.O.), which asked that the WMC be restrained from carrying out its orders.

Manufacture Tire Cord

Fisk and Firestone are manufacturing tire fabrics for military vehicles and for the past several days WMC has attempted to transfer workers involuntarily from other plants, with almost no success.

Even as the court was hearing testimony, Mayor Arthur E. Harriman of New Bedford, appealed to the heads of the War Production board, the WMC, the Secretary of Navy and Massachusetts Senators and Congressmen to have WMC taken out of New Bedford and allow voluntary transfer of workers from other plants into Fisk and Firestone.

Judge Wyzanski, in a long written opinion, declared:

"The directive of the War Manpower commission is not, in the legal sense, an order which deprives anyone of any property. Essentially it is an official recommendation, not an enforceable command.

"It represents the informed judgment of officials whom the President has charged with responsibility in time of war. It is addressed to the patriotism and the good will of employers and employes, but it carries no penal sanctions."

He added, however, that if an employer chose to disregard the directive, "some executive agency might seize the mill, curtail its supplies or alter its priorities."

Should an employe disregard the directive, he said, "some executive agency might induce other employers not to hire him or might induct him into the armed service."

No Civil Rights Created

"The directive itself creates no civil rights," the opinion continued, "it is, therefore, not an order impinging upon a constitutional right, and a complaint that the order is invalid does not create a case arising under the Constitution so as to be within the jurisdiction of this court."

Judge Wyzanski said the New Bedford case "is indistinguishable from the challenge of the company directed to the War Labor board in the first Montgomery Ward case."

MAR 6 1945

"To guard against misunderstanding," he went on, "let me add that the first Montgomery Ward case just cited is not to be confused with the second Montgomery Ward case x x x."

Judge Wyzanski pointed out that Federal Judge Sullivan ruled in favor of Montgomery Ward only after the seizure.

The petition specifically asked the court to enjoin Paul N. Devine, area director of WMC from carrying out the directive which lowered ceilings for employers in some non-essential factories.

Sidney Grant, attorney for the union, contended the WMC had asserted a right to interfere with contractural relations between employers and employes and that he considered WMC's action was one step short of involuntary servitude.

Alfred S. Berg, a department of justice attorney and one of several Government lawyers present, told the court that of 81 men interviewed last week for referral to Fisk and Firestone, only one finally had gone to work. Sixty-six failed to report for interviews.

Task Fulfilled, Kurusu Says

San Francisco, March 5 (AP)—Saburo Kurusu, Japan's peace envoy to the United States at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, was quoted today as saying he felt he had fulfilled his "mission to the Emperor and the Japanese people" when his American-born son was fatally injured intercepting a United States carrier attack on Tokyo last month.

A Japanese Domei news agency dispatch, intercepted here, quoted Kurusu as saying, "I have always felt deeply about my inability to avoid war."

The ex-envoy's son, Capt. Makoto Kurusu, Domei said, was fatally injured February 16, when he met 30 Grumman planes over Tokyo. He brought his plane back to his base, Japanese reports said, but died shortly afterward.

Captain Kurusu was born in the United States in 1919. His mother was an American citizen.

Raids Closing Japanese Schools

San Francisco, March 5 (AP)—All primary high schools have been closed in Formosa because of the "increasing tempo" of American air-raids, and in Tokyo students have been organized into special full-time fire department brigades.

These Tokyo radio reports, recorded here, said that lower grades in girls' middle schools have also been suspended in Formosa. The full-time use of student firemen in Tokyo replaces a former fire-alarm only service.

B-29's Bomb Tokyo Again, Japanese Say

San Francisco, March 5 (AP)—Ten American Superfortresses raided Tokyo again today, dropping bombs and incendiaries, with "practically no damage," the Tokyo radio reported in an unconfirmed broadcast.

A single B-29 raided southern Kyushu last night, but dropped its bombs into the sea and fled, the report said. Today's Tokyo raids occurred between 12.30 A.M. and 2.30 A.M.

Famous Flyer Now Commands At Kirkland

Albuquerque, N.M., March 5 (AP). Col. Frank Kurtz, 33, famed as the pilot of the B-17, the Swoose, is back at Kirtland Field, where he trained, but this time he's commanding officer.

The Swoose was the only B-17 to escape destruction when the Japanese raided Clark Field at Manila at the start of the war.

Pope Sends Word To Americans

New York, March 5 (AP) — Pope Pius XII has virtually recovered from influenza and is cheerful and full of vitality, says Henry J. Taylor in a copyrighted article in the New York World-Telegram, in which Taylor gives a special message from the Pope to the American people.

The message, which, Taylor said, was written by the Holiness in his own hand, follows:

"With paternal affection we send our blessing to the people of the United States of America, as a token of our deep sympathy with those from whom the war has asked and will still ask the heavy sacrifices of loved and cherished dear ones; and as a pledge of our prayer for all, that with peace God may grant them also faith and courage and charity in solving their problems of the future, and in safeguarding and defending those inalienable rights that an allwise and loving creator has granted to every man and every people. (Signed): "PIUS XII."

MAR 6 1945

Composes Summary

As a summary of his spiritual purposes, the Pope composed for Taylor the following:

"We are happy in our purpose to devote all the energies of our heart and mind, to spend ourself day and night in striving to bring alleviation to suffering humanity, and to lead all men to God humbly and unreservedly, whose all-holy will the world can find stability, security and peace. In this loving solicitude for man and man's best interests that imposes on us the duty, we are not shrinking, of proclaiming the truth, and of pointing out error, from whatever quarter it raises its proud head, to whatsoever goal it would promise to bring its unhappy votaries."

The Pope, Taylor said, spoke to him of various matters involving the Holy See in the problems of the hour, but told him he did not wish to be repeated regarding any matter which might be misunderstood. He told Taylor his attack of influenza had carried no touch of pneumonia and that he had for a period cancelled all audiences only at his doctor's insistence.

NIGHT LEAD AERIAL (510)
BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, MARCH 5-(AP)-NEARLY 700 AMERICAN AND BRITISH BOMBERS, STRIKING IN TWO SEPARATE FORCES AT FOUR-HOUR INTERVALS, CARRIED ON THEIR CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE GERMANS' DWINDLING MOTOR FUEL SUPPLIES TODAY WITH ATTACKS IN ADVERSE WEATHER ON THREE REFINERIES.

MORE THAN 400 FLYING FORTRESSES AND LIBERATORS OF THE EIGHTH AIRFORCE, GUARDED BY 600 FIGHTERS, STRUCK TWO NATURAL OIL REFINERIES AT HARBURG NEAR HAMBURG, AND GOUGED FREIGHTYARDS SERVING THE EASTERN FRONT FROM CHEMNITZ, 35 MILES FROM THE CZECHOSLOVAKIA BORDER.

FOUR BOMBERS AND THREE FIGHTERS WERE LOST BY THE EIGHTH TODAY.

IN THE AFTERNOON UPWARD OF 250 RAF LANCASTERS, PROTECTED BY MUSTANGS, RAIDED THE RUHR BENZOL PLANT NEAR GELSENKIRCHEN.

IT WAS THE RAF'S EIGHTH SUCCESSIVE DAYLIGHT OPERATION AGAINST THE RUHR, NOW MENACED BY ON-SWEEPING ALLIED ARMIES, AND THE 21ST CONSECUTIVE DAY OF ASSAULTS BY U.S. HEAVIES ON THE NAZIS' INNER FORTREES. THIS WAS THE FIRST TIME IN 15 DAYS THE U.S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE HAD SENT OUT LESS THAN 1,000 BOMBERS, AND ONE OF THE FEW TIMES MORE FIGHTERS THAN BOMBERS FLEW ON A STRATEGIC MISSION.

"THE FORCE WAS REDUCED BECAUSE OF BAD WEATHER OVER THE CONTINENT, AND NOT FOR ANY OTHER REASON," SAID AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE STAFF OFFICER.

MEANWHILE, IT WAS DISCLOSED OFFICIALLY THAT ITALY-BASED BOMBERS, CARRYING ON A PROLONGED CAMPAIGN AGAINST ENEMY RAIL LINES, HAD CAUSED "SERIOUS DISRUPTION TO TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES ON VITAL SEGMENTS OF THE AUSTRIAN COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEM."

THE ITALIAN PHASE OF THE AERIAL CAMPAIGN WAS CLIMAXED YESTERDAY BY TREMENDOUS RAIDS ON RAIL TARGETS SERVING GERMAN FORCES ON THE HUNGARIAN AND YUGOSLAV FRONTS.

IN TODAY'S RAIDS FROM BRITAIN, A COLUMN OF 400 AMERICAN BOMBERS SPLIT INTO THREE PACKS. ABOUT 150 LIBERATORS WENT AFTER THE RHENANIA AND EBANO OIL REFINERIES AT HARBURG IN NORTHWEST GERMANY--DESCRIBED AS THE TWO MOST IMPORTANT ACTIVE PRODUCERS IN THE REICH--WHILE TWO WAVES FOR FORTRESSES TOTALLING ABOUT 250 PLANES STRUCK THE CHEMNITZ YARDS ALREADY HAMMERED REPEATEDLY IN RECENT WEEKS.

B10

ALL OBJECTIVES WERE BOMBED THROUGH CLOUDS BY INSTRUMENTS. THE GERMAN AIR FORCE OFFERED NO OPPOSITION AND GROUND FIRE WAS MINOR, BEING DIRECTED MAINLY FROM RADAR-CONTROLLED GUNS THAT PROBED THROUGH A SOLID COVERING OF CLOUDS.

THE U.S. NINTH AIRFORCE MADE NEARLY 400 TRIPS DURING THE MORNING DESPITE HEAVY CLOUDS AND BAD ICING CONDITIONS, ATTACKING ORDNANCE DEPOTS AT UNNA, 11 MILES EAST OF DORTMUND, WITH FIREBOMBS AND STRIKING AT THREE RAILYARDS AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS TARGETS FROM THE RUHR TO BONN.

UNNA IS BELIEVED TO BE ONE OF THREE DEPOTS FROM WHICH THE ENEMY IS DRAWING EQUIPMENT FOR USE IN WESTERN FRANCE. THE GERMANS WERE SAID TO HAVE LOST A GREAT DEAL OF MATERIEL IN WITHDRAWING ACROSS THE RHINE AND WERE COUNTING ON THESE SUPPLIES FOR REPLACEMENTS.

MORE THAN 2,500 PLANES WERE USED IN YESTERDAY'S GREAT OPERATION FROM ITALY. WHILE THE HEAVY BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS SLASHED AT THE VIENNA-ZAGREB LINE, MEDIUMS AND FIGHTERBOMBERS STRUCK THE BRENNER PASS LINE IN CLOSE SUPPORT FOR THE ITALIAN FRONT. MORE THAN 500 HEAVY BOMBERS AND HUNDREDS OF FIGHTERS TOOK PART IN THE ATTACKS ON RAIL TARGETS IN AUSTRIA, HUNGARY AND YUGOSLAVIA. THEY KNOCKED OUT THOUSANDS OF UNITS OF ROLLING STOCK AND AT LEAST 25 LOCOMOTIVES BESIDES DISRUPTING THE LINES.

A FORCE OF MOSQUITOS STRUCK BERLIN LAST NIGHT WHILE ANOTHER GROUP HIT ESSEN, NORTHERN RUHR RAIL HUB. NO PLANES WERE LOST.

THE EIGHTH AIRFORCE REPORTED LOSING THREE BOMBERS AND TWO FIGHTERS IN YESTERDAY'S ACTION.

ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF COLOGNE XXX THE CITY"

OUTSIDE BOCKLEMUEND WAS A SIGN DESIGNATING THE COLOGNE CITY LIMITS. A GROUP OF AMERICANS ON A HALF-TRACK STOPPED TO LOOK AT IT.

"THIS IS A HELL OF A LONG WAY FROM NORMANDY ISN'T IT?" ASKED T/5 HYMAN KAUFMAN OF 1565 BOSTON ROAD, NEW YORK CITY. "AND THERE ISN'T MUCH FURTHER TO GO ON THIS RIDE."

WITH HIM WERE PVT. CARL SHOOTER OF 2719 ORDWAY ST., WASHINGTON; T/4 JOE PESIK OF ONTARIO, WIS.; PVT. GEORGE KERTZ OF HENDERSON, KY.; T/4 ERVILLE ABBOTT OF HORNBECK, LA., AND T/5 HOWARD STAMETS OF RURAL ROUTE ONE, MONTGOMERY, PA.

AT THE EDGE OF BOCKLEMUEND LT. JOHN BALMES OF RURAL ROUTE ONE, BOX 230, WAUKEGAN, ILL., PULLED A JEEP INTO A CHURCH YARD. "YOU HAD BETTER NOT GO ANY FARTHER," HE SAID, "THERE'S A FIGHT JUST AHEAD."

THE GERMANS BEGAN POURING IN HEAVY ARTILLERY. WE CROUCHED IN THE RUINS OF THE OLD CHURCH AND T/5 THOMAS ORDILLE OF 241 DELANCEY ST., PHILADELPHIA, REMARKED, "IT AINT A FIT DAY FOR MAN OR BEAST, IS IT?" EVERYONE AGREED IT WASN'T.

SAARLAUTERN, GERMANY, MARCH 5-(AP)-OTTO, A SKINNY GERMAN LAD JUST TURNED 15, SOLEMNLY TOLD AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS WHO NABBED HIM AS HE CROSSED THE SAAR RIVER TODAY THAT HE WAS A "SPY."

OTTO, WHOSE CHEEKS SHOWED THE FIRST PEACH-FUZZ TRACES OF A BEARD, LOOKED MORE LIKE A DEAD-END KID.

"I AM A SPY," HE ANNOUNCED, WHEN ASKED ABOUT HIS BUSINESS ON THE AMERICAN SIDE OF THE RIVER, ADDING THAT WHEN CAUGHT HE WAS ON HIS "FIRST SPYING MISSION"--TO GAIN INFORMATION FOR THE VOLKSSTURM.

"I KNOW WHAT HAPPENS TO SPIES," HE ADDED THROUGH ASHEN LIPS WHICK BELIED HIS AIR OF BRAVADO.

"OTTO APPARENTLY HAD BEEN READING ABOUT SPIES IN BOOKS," SAID LT. ERNEST ARONS OF 200 WEST 58TH ST., NEW YORK, WHO WASN'T IMPRESSED WITH THE YOUNGSTER'S ACCOUNT.

"HE'S JUST A STUPID KID WHO WAS SPPON-FED THE KIND OF JUNK THE HITLER YOUTH DISHES UT. HIS SPY STORY WON'T HOLD WATER."

OTTO TOLD SGT.HARRY GOLDSMITH OF 5304 UNIVERSITY AVE., CHICAGO, THAT THE SPYING PROFESSION WASN'T VERY PROFITABLE. THE BOY, WHOSE CLOTHES WERE PATCHED AND THREADBARE, SAID HE WAS SUPPOSED TO COLLECT ON RESULTS--WHICH WERE NIL FROM START TO FINISH.

Y WES GALLAGHER

RHEURDT, GERMANY, MARCH 5-(AP)-DOUGHBOYS OF THE U.S.NINTH ARMY SEIZED LARGE QUANTITIES OF GERMAN MILITARY BOOTY TODAY, INCLUDING 17 CARLOADS OF ROCKET WEAPONS, MOSTLY OF THE NEW 300-POUND FRONTLINE TYPE.

THE CAPTURED ROCKETS WERE TAKEN BY THE 35TH INFANTRY ON A RAIL SIDING WHERE THEY WERE APPARENTLY INTENDED FOR THE FRONT.

THE SHIPMENT WAS MOSTLY OF THE TYPE WHICH IS FOUR FEET LONG AND WITH THE EXPLOSIVE PUNCH OF A 300-MM.SHELL. THE ROCKET'S PROPELLANT CHARGE IS AMAZINGLY SMALL FOR THE SIZE OF ITS WARHEAD AND APPARENTLY QUITE POWERFUL AS THIS TYPE ROCKET HAS CONSIDERABLE RANGE.

MAR 6 1945

THESE ROCKETS FIRST WERE USED AGAINST AMERICAN TROOPS DURING THE GERMANS' ARDENNES OFFENSIVE. THEY HAVE BEEN USED IN RECENT WEEKS AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR ARTILLERY IN FRONTLINE ACTION. THEY ARE HIGHLY MOBILE AND ARE LAUNCHED FROM PORTABLE PLATFORMS.

THE 35TH ALSO SEIZED SEVEN 75 MM. GUNS, NINE 88'S, TWO 170 MM. GUNS, TWENTY-TWO 40 MM. GUNS, EIGHT 20 MM. CANNONS, THREE MORTARS, 400 RIFLES AND A GREAT QUANTITY OF OTHER SMALL ARMS.

SGT. BERNARD SHELLEY OF 3646 UNIVERSITY AVE., MINNEAPOLIS, WHO IN ORDER TO GET OVERSEAS ACCEPTED A BUST TO PRIVATE, THEN CLIMBED BACK TO HIS ORIGINAL RANK IN THE FIELD, SAW A GERMAN ENTER A HOUSE.

HE SNEAKED IN AND CAUGHT THE GERMAN SHAVING. IN OTHER ROOMS HE ROUNDED UP 15 MORE GERMANS AND 50 MACHINE PISTOLS, 300 RIFLES, 10 MACHINEGUNS, A 150 MM. PIECE IN A GARAGE NEARBY AND 10,000 ROUNDS OF AMMUNITION.

THE GERMANS, TRYING TO FLEE DOWN THE ROAD TO THE RHEINBERG FERRY NORTH OF HERE, WERE CAUGHT BY ARTILLERY OF THE 35TH'S 137TH REGIMENT WHICH, IN THE WORDS OF LT.COL.CLAUDE SHAVER OF 113 NORTH TERRACE DRIVE, WICHITA, KANS., HAD A "FIELD DAY."

30.24-23625

"WE JUST RANGED THE GUNS UP AND DOWN THE ROAD, KNOCKING THEM END-WISE," HE SAID. "WE RANGED IN WITH A COUPLE OF BATTALIONS, THEN LET THEM HAVE FIVE BATTALIONS. THEY WERE CONFUSED AND SORT OF RAN AROUND IN CIRCLES TRYING TO GET AWAY."

WHILE THE MORALE OF MOST GERMAN TROOPS IS SEVERAL DEGREES BELOW ZERO, TOUGH NAZI PARATROOP OFFICERS ARE FULL OF 'HEIL HITLERS' AND TRUCULENCE WHEN CAPTURED AND THEIR TROOPS ARE PUTTING UP THE MOST STUBBORN RESISTANCE ENCOUNTERED SINCE THE ROER BREAKTHROUGH.

"YOU CAN'T DO ANYTHING WITH THOSE GUYS," LT.COL.A.K.CLARK OF 2840 JACKSON DRIVE, LINCOLN, NEB., SAID. "THEY THINK IT IS JUST BAD LUCK THAT THEY ARE LOSING THE WAR AND ARE WILLING TO TRY AGAIN."

Y LOUIS P.LOCHNER

AACHEN, GERMANY, MARCH 5-(AP)-THE DEATH OF HERMANN ROECHLING, BIGGEST INDUSTRIALIST OF THE SAAR, HAS BEEN ANNOUNCED BY THE GERMANS IN REPORTS THAT SAID HE HAD BEEN KILLED "BY TWO RUSSIAN SOLDIERS" WHO HAVE BEEN EXECUTED AT SAARBRUECKEN.

IT IS POSSIBLE THAT ROECHLING WAS ONE OF THE INDUSTRIALISTS SENT BY THE NAZIS TO REOPEN WAR INDUSTRIES IN RUSSIA AND POLAND DURING THE GERMAN OCCUPATION AND THAT HE WAS CAUGHT BY THE STEAMROLLER ADVANCE OF THE RED ARMY.

MAR 6 1945

IF THIS WERE THE CASE, THE EXECUTION OF TWO RUSSIANS AT SAAR-BRUECKEN WOULD BE ONE OF THOSE THEATRICAL MOVES OF WHICH HITLER IS SO FOND--BRINGING ROECHLING'S ALLEGED MURDERERS BACK TO THE CITY WHERE HIS PRINCIPAL HOLDINGS ARE LOCATED.

HOMBERG, GERMANY, MARCH 5-(AP)-TWO BRIDGES ACROSS THE RHINE NORTH AND SHOUT OF HOMBERG WERE BLOWN UP BY THE GERMANS TODAY, FRUSTRATING THE EFFORTS OF THE U.S. 84TH DIVISION TO CAPTURE THEM.

THE GERMAN GARRISON IN HOMBERG SURRENDERED AT 3 A.M. TODAY, BUT THE DOUGHBOYS ARE CONTINUING THEIR HOUSE-TO-HOUSE SEARCH FOR ALL MALE GERMANS OF MILITARY AGE.

MANY NAZI OFFICERS WERE CAUGHT TRYING TO ESCAPE BY CHANGING TO CIVILIAN CLOTHING.

COL.CHARLES E.HOY OF CHICAGO AND HIS 334TH INFANTRY REGIMENT ARE IN NO MOOD FOR FOOLING AROUND WITH THE DEFEATED ENEMY AND ARE GOING ABOUT PATROLLING HOMBERG IN A VERY BUSINESSLIKE MANNER.

THE BRIDGE DESTROYED NORTH OF HERE WAS A RAILROAD SPAN, BUT WAS 60 FEET WIDE AND WOULD HAVE MADE AN EXCELLENT CROSSING FOR TANKS. THE BRIDGE TO THE SOUTH CARRIED BOTH RAIL AND MOTOR TRAFFIC.

ENEMY ARTILLERY FIRE HAS BEEN CRASHING INTO HOMBERG FROM DUISBERG AND MAJ.GEN.ALEXANDER BOLING HAS BROUGHT UP EVERY AVAILABLE AMERICAN GUN AND HAS STARTED SHOOTING ACROSS THE RHINE.

MAR 6 1945

THE FIGHT FOR HOMBERG LAST NIGHT LEFT A PATH OF RUIN STRAIGHT THROUGH THE CENTER OF THE TOWN WHICH ALREADY HAD BEEN BATTERED BY BOMBERS OF THE EIGHTH AND NINTH AIRFORCES. WHEN HOY PULLED HIS THREE BATTALIONS UP ABREAST FOR THE ATTACK, INTENSE ENEMY MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE FROM INSIDE THE CITY FORCED THE AMERICANS TO ATTACK UNDER A ROLLING BARRAGE.

BREAKING INTO THE TOWN FROM THE SOUTH AND WEST, THE SECOND BATTALION, COMMANDED BY CAPT.CHARLES E.HIATT OF SWAYZEE, IND., SOON WAS FLANKED ON THE LEFT BY THE FIRST BATTALION UNDER CAPT.AL C. PETERSON OF MONROE, LA., AND ON THE RIGHT BY THE THIRD BATTALION, COMMANDED BY LT.COL.WILLIAM SUTTON BONTURA OF NATCHEZ, MISS.

THESE THREE BATTALIONS FOLLOWED THE ARTILLERY BARRAGE AS IT SMASHED THROUGH THE TOWN JUST A HUNDRED YARDS AHEAD. BEFORE SUNUP THIS MORNIN THEY HAD PASSED THROUGH HOMBERG AND WERE STANDING ON THE WEST BANKS OF THE RHINE.

THE NECESSITY OF SHELLING THE CITY RESULTED IN MANY CIVILIAN CASUALTIES AS WELL AS THE WRECKING OF HUNDREDS OF HOMES.

MEN FROM THE 333RD REGIMENT, COMMANDED BY COL.TIMOTHY A.PEDLEY OF SANTA BARBARA, CALIF., PULLED INTO TOWN AND JOINED THE 334TH IN THE SEARCH FOR GERMAN SOLDIERS CAUGHT ON THIS SIDE OF THE RIVER WHEN THE BRIDGES WERE BLOWN.

THE UNITS OF THE 33RD WHICH ENTERED FIRST WERE COMMANDED BY LT.COL.NORMAN D.CARNES, WAPAKONETA, OHIO; LT.COL.DANIEL P.NORMAN, 104 NORTHWOOD AVENUE, SILVER SPRINGS, MD., AND LT.COL.WILLIAM I. BARRET, 1312 16TH STREET, TUSCALOOSA, ALA.

MAR 6 1945

OUTSIDE COLOGNE, MARCH 5-(AP)-DOUGHBOYS OF THE FAMOUS 104TH DIVISION, THE TIMBERWOLVES, PILED ON TANKS AT 9 O'CLOCK THIS MORNING AND 23 MINUTES LATER WERE INSIDE COLOGNE.

THE GERMANS CRANKED ANTIAIRCRAFT GUNS DOWN LEVEL WITH THE GROUND AND FIRED THEM AS ARTILLERY AGAINST THE CHARGING INFANTRY, BUT TONIGHT THE AMERICANS WERE FIGHTING STEADILY AND METHODICALLY TOWARD THE HEART OF THE CITY.

THERE STILL ARE LOTS OF CIVILIANS IN THIS WESTERN PART OF THE CITY. THEY LIVE IN COZY LITTLE BRICK HOUSES AND THEY DON'T LIKE IT A BIT BECAUSE AMERICAN TANKS AND TROOPS ARE BARGING IN ON THEM.

THEY ARE MOVING OUT, TAKING THE KIDS AND A FEW BELONGINGS. THE ARMY IS TAKING OVER SOME OF THE HOUSES FOR QUARTERS, COMMAND POSTS AND SIGNAL CENTERS.

THE CHILDREN ARE LAUGHING AND PLAYING IN THE STREETS NOW THAT THEY HAVE GOT OVER THEIR FIRST FRIGHT OF THE AMERICANS, BUT ANGRY STARES ARE ALL YOU GET FROM THE PARENTS.

THERE SEEMS TO BE NO APPRECIABLE DAMAGE FROM AIR RAIDS HERE, ALTHOUGH IT IS FAIRLY CLOSE TO A RAILROAD LINE ENTERING THE CITY FROM THE WEST. PRISONERS SAY IT IS DIFFERENT ON DOWN THE ROAD IN THE CITY.

A SERGEANT OF A GERMAN FLAK REGIMENT CAPTURED A WHILE AGO SAID

30.24-23627

THE FAMOUS COLOGNE CATHEDRAL HAD A DIRECT HIT BEHIND ITS SPIRES ABOUT THREE WEEKS AGO. BOTH SPIRES CAN BE SEEN FROM HERE, AND ONE APPEARS TO HAVE A SMALL CHUNK OUT OF THE SIDE.

BIG CLOUDS OF BLUE-BLACK SMOKE ARE BOILING UP OVER IN THE NORTHWESTERN PART OF COLOGNE, WHERE SOMETHING IS BURNING, AND A FEW OTHER PUFFS OF SMOKE MARK SHELL BURSTS OR WHERE FIRES HAVE STARTED.

CONFLICTING REPORTS FILTER IN ABOUT THE BIG HOHENZOLLERN BRIDGE OVER THE RHINE. SOME PRISONERS TOLD US A COUPLE OF MILES BACK THAT THE BRIDGE WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE BROKEN YESTERDAY AND SPILLED PEDESTRIANS INTO THE RIVER, BUT THIS IS UNVERIFIED.

MOST OF THE ARTILLERY FIRE IS COMING FROM THE EASTERN BANK OF THE RHINE, AND IT HAS BEEN THAT WAY THROUGH THE DAY.

MAJ.GEN.TERRY ALLEN'S 104TH DIVISION NATURALLY WANTED THE HONOR OF BEING THE FIRST IN COLOGNE, BUT THE THIRD ARMORED DIVISION BEAT IT IN.

MAR 6 1945

THE ZEAL WASN'T SO GREAT THAT ANY UNDUE RISKS WERE TAKEN. THE 104TH COULD HAVE GONE IN LAST NIGHT, BUT IT WAITED UNTIL TODAY TO MAKE A DAYLIGHT ATTACK.

A COMPANY LED BY LT.MERVIN TEIG, 328 PARK ST., IOWA FALLS, IOWA, WAS THE FIRST TO GO IN AT 9:23 A.M. LT.FRED PROETTI, SYRACUSE, N.Y., FOLLOWED WITH HIS COMPANY.

MEN IN BOTH OUTFITS WERE ABOARD TANKS UNDER THE COMMAND OF CAPT.LEONARD SALISBURY, 329 KNICKERBOCKER AVE., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

"NOT A TANK WAS LOST," SAID MAJ.HENRY RYAN, VINTON, VA., BATTALION COMMANDER WHO DIRECTED THE ATTACK.

WHEN THE BARRAGE CUT LOOSE TO OPEN THE ASSAULT, EIGHT GERMAN SOLDIERS SUDDENLY APPEARED A MILE OFF TO THE LEFT OF THE TARGET AND STARTED MARCHING ACROSS THE FIELD WITH THEIR HANDS UP.

"THEY SURRENDERED TO ANOTHER OUTFIT, ONE THAT DIDN'T HAVE A THING TO DO WITH THE RACKET," CHUCKLED MAJ.FRANK GENTRY, MEMPHIS, TEX.

LT.RAYMOND REGAN, 10 EAST RALEIGH, STATEN ISLAND, N.Y., AND LT. R.C.BANBURY (ADDRESS NOT GIVEN) QUESTIONED THE PRISONERS THROUGH PVT.ERIK LAUB, 611 WEST 113TH ST., NEW YORK, ACTING AS INTERPRETER.

BOTH GERMAN PRISONERS AND CIVILIANS AGREED THAT THE GERMAN ARMY WAS RETREATING ACROSS THE RHINE. GENERAL ORDERS SEEMED TO BE TO GET VEHICLES AND GUNS ACROSS THE RIVER, THEN COME BACK AND FIGHT AS INFANTRY.

IF THEY DO COME BACK, THE GERMANS FOR THE MOST PART HIDE IN BASEMENTS AND SHELTERS UNTIL TANKS AND INFANTRY MOVE IN, THEN SURRENDER.

MAR 6 1945

IT MAY TAKE A FEW DAYS TO CLEAN OUT COLOGNE. YOU CAN IMAGINE THE JOB IT WOULD BE SEARCHING EVERY BASEMENT IN A PLACE AS BIG AS ST.LOUIS, MO., WHICH IS ABOUT THE SAME SIZE.

ROME, MARCH 5-(AP)-LTS.LAWRENCE V.BACH AND BOONE A.HADDOCK, A COUPLE OF P-38 LIGHTNING PILOTS, DESTROYED A STRING OF 17 TANK CARS IN A STRAFING MISSION SOUTHWEST OF GRAZ YESTERDAY, BUT TODAY BACK SAID THAT WAS ONLY A SMALL PART OF THEIR SCORE.

THE CARS WERE JUST NORTH OF A SMALL GERMAN-HELD TOWN, EXPLAINED BACH, WHOSE HOME IS AT 1015 COTTONWOOD ST., GRAND FORKS, N.D.

"WHEN WE GOT THEM," HADDOCK SAID, "THEY BURST INTO FLAMES. THERE WAS A 35-MILE WIND BLOWING AND THE FLAMES CARRIED ALL THE WAY INTO THE VILLAGE AND THE WHOLE TOWN BURNED DOWN."

HADDOCK'S HOME IS ROUTE 5, FRESNO, CALIF.

ANOTHER P-38 PILOT, CAPT.TEMPLE BOWLING OF 18 WILSON ST., MONTGOMERY, ALA., WHOSE SQUADRON ACCOUNTED FOR 18 LOCOMOTIVES SOUTH OF VIENNA, SAID ON HIS RETURN TO AN ITALIAN BASE, "I SURE HAVE NOTICED A DECREASE IN THE AMOUNT OF RAIL TRAFFIC LATELY.

"UP TO A MONTH AGO," BOWLING ADDED, "WHEN WE WERE NOT PAYING MUCH ATTENTION TO THEM, WE SAW TRAINS ALL THE TIME. NOW WE HAVE TO GO LOOK FOR THEM. USUALLY WHEN THEY SEE US COMING, TRAINS TRY TO RUN FOR COVER IN TOWNS OR VILLAGES."

OF THE 18 LOCOMOTIVES DESTROYED, 14 WERE FOUND IN ONE STRING, HE SAID. HE AND FIVE OTHER PILOTS DISPOSED OF THEM.

PHOTO RECONNAISSANCE DISCLOSED THAT HEAVY BOMBERS WHICH SMASHED AT THE SOPRON RAIL YARDS MADE BETWEEN 80 AND 100 DIRECT HITS, OBLITERATING TRACKAGE AND FACILITIES IN THE EASTERN YARDS DOWN A PATH 250 WIDE IN THE CENTER. AT LEAST 150 CARS WERE DESTROYED.

LTS.JULIUS J.KERN OF 21 EAST 39TH AVE., GARY, IND., AND JOHN B. ATKINS, JR., 3321 CENTENARY BLVD., SHREVEPORT, LA., BOMBARDIERS IN B-17'S, SAID THEY WERE SURPRISED AT THE ABSENCE OF FLAK.

"THE U.S.S.R. HAS MADE A LIST OF ITS WAR CRIMINALS AND ALSO HAS STARTED TO ESTABLISH ITS RIGHTS TO PUNISH THEM AND THEIR ASSOCIATES."

THE SOVIET NEWSPAPER SAID OTHER COUNTRIES HAD TAKEN THESE STEPS IN THE HANDLING OF WAR GUILT CASES:

FRANCE HAS ESTABLISHED COURTS FOR HANDLING COLLABORATORS.

POLAND HAS SET UP SPECIAL COURTS.

YUGOSLAVIA HAS COMMENCED TO PUNISH WAR CRIMINALS.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA HAS A LIST OF 2,000 WAR CRIMINALS.

THE NETHERLANDS HAS SET UP A COURT BUT HAS MADE SLOW PROGRESS THUS FAR.

BULGARIA HAS SENTENCED IN SOFIA THREE EX-REGENTS, 22 MINISTERS AND 68 FASCIST DEPUTIES "AND THESE SENTENCES HAVE BEEN

ZHUKOV'S SPEARHEADS REACHED THE BALTIC POMERANIAN COAST NEAR KOLBERG YESTERDAY, THUS GIVING THE RED ARMY MASTERY OF VIRTUALLY ALL GERMANY EAST OF THE ODER RIVER FROM THE BALTIC SOUTH TO MORAVIA.

THIS DRIVE TO THE SEA, ALONG WITH THE CAPTURE OF KOESLIN BY MARSHAL K.K.ROKOSSOVSKY'S SECOND WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY TROOPS, GAVE THE RUSSIANS A LONG-SOUGHT DOMINATION OF THE BALTIC, CUTTING OFF ALL ESCAPE BY LAND FOR NAZIS POCKETED IN EASTERN POMERANIA, DANZIG AND EAST PRUSSIA.

IT ALSO GAVE ZHUKOV A TREMENDOUS ADVANTAGE FOR HIS COMING ATTACK DUE WESTWARD ON BERLIN, RELIEVING HIS NORTHERN FLANK AND SETTING UP THE POSSIBILITY OF OUTFLANKING BERLIN FROM THE NORTH AS MARSHAL IVAN S. KONEV HAS POSSIBILITIES OF OUTFLANKING IT FROM THE SOUTH.

ZHUKOV AND ROKOSSOVSKY BEGAN AT DAWN TODAY TO MOP UP SCATTERED GERMAN UNITS AND VOLSSTURMERS REPORTED FRANTICALLY TRYING TO ESCAPE AS THE RUSSIANS SENT FRESH FORCES AGAINST REMAINING NAZI POCKETS ALONG THE BALTIC COAST.

MARINES OF THE FIFTH DIVISION REPULSED A COUNTERATTACK IN HAND TO HAND FIGHTING, FLEET ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ REPORTED IN HIS MONDAY MORNING COMMUNIQUE. HE SAID RESISTANCE HAD STIFFENED "IN ALL SECTORS" AND ONLY "SMALL LOCAL ADVANCES" WERE MADE BY THE MARINES.

FIVE JAPANESE, WEARING FULL AMERICAN MARINE BATTLE DRESS, WERE KILLED BY 24TH REGIMENT PATROLS, AP WAR CORRESPONDENT JAMES LINDSLEY REPORTED.

MAR 6 1945

HE WAS TOLD BY LT.COL.G.L.MCCORMICK OF HUNTINGTON VALLEY,PA., ASSISTANT CHIEF OF STAFF AT IWO HEADQUARTERS, THAT THE NIPPONESE APPARENTLY WERE DISGUISING THEMSELVES IN AN EFFORT TO SNEAK WITHIN THE AMERICAN LINES.

THE EMBATTLED MARINES SAW A TOKYO-RAIDING B-29 SUPERFORTRESS USE THE SOUTHERN IWO AIRFIELD YESTERDAY, DEMONSTRATING THAT THEIR BLOOD WAS NOT BEING SHED IN VAIN. NIMITZ' COMMUNIQUE SAID 12,864 ENEMY DEAD HAD BEEN COUNTED UP TO 6 P.M. OF MARCH 3. PRISONERS NUMBERED 81--36 JAPANESE AND 45 KOREANS.

PRESSING THE JAPANESE INTO THE NORTHERN END OF THE SMALL, BLACK ISLAND, THE FOURTH AND FIFTH MARINE DIVISIONS EDGED FORWARD ON THE EAST AND WEST FLANKS, RESPECTIVELY. THE FOURTH ELIMINATED ONE STRONG CENTER OF RESISTANCE.

THE THIRD DIVISION, UNMENTIONED IN THE MONDAY COMMUNIQUE, APPARENTLY WAS CLINGING TO ITS CENTER WEDGE, THREATENING TO CUT THE JAPANESE LINE IN TWO.

LINDSLEY'S FIELD DISPATCH SAID THE NORTHERN TERRAIN MINIMIZED THE USE OF TANKS. HE REPORTED THE NIPPONESE WERE BEING ROUTED

FROM CAVES AND PILLBOXES WITH GRENADES AND FLAME THROWERS.

DOGS ALSO WERE USED TO HUNT DOWN THE ENEMY. THE THIRD MARINE WAR DOG PLATOON WENT ASHORE SUNDAY AND WITHIN A SHORT TIME THE SHARPNOSTED CANINES HAD FLUSHED THEIR FIRST VICTIM FROM A CAVE.

THE MAIN JAPANESE FORCE NOW IS IN THE MOST RUGGED PORTION OF THE ISLAND. THERE ARE COUNTLESS GULCHES AND GULLIES WHICH MAKE GOOD DEFENSIVE POSITIONS. THE JAPANESE ARE TAKING FULL ADVANTAGE OF THEM.

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, GUAM, MARCH 6-(AP)-THE CLINCHER BLOW IN THE SAVAGE 16-DAY OLD BATTLE FOR LITTLE IWO, WHERE MORE THAN 2,000 MARINES HAVE DIED WHILE KILLING MORE THAN 12,000 JAPANESE, WAS POISED TODAY--GROWN IN POWER BY SUPPLIES POURING ASHORE ON THE EAST AND WEST COASTS.

THERE WERE NO APPRECIABLE CHANGES IN THE LINES YESTERDAY AS THE LEATHERNECKS, HOLDING MORE THAN TWO-THIRDS OF THE EIGHT SQUARE MILE ISLAND, BUILT UP THEIR POSITIONS FOR A GRAND SCALE ASSAULT ON THE ROCKY DEFENSE-STUDDED NORTH END.

IN WASHINGTON YESTERDAY, NAVY SECRETARY FORRESTAL DISCLOSED ON HIS RETURN FROM A VISIT TO IWO THAT 2,050 MARINES HAVE BEEN KILLED, ADDING THE LOSS WAS NOT OUT OF PROPORTION TO THE IMPORTANCE OF TAKING THE ISLAND. IT IS NEEDED TO PUT AMERICAN FIGHTER PLANES AND LIBERATOR BOMBERS WITHIN RANGE OF JAPAN.

FORRESTAL GAVE NO FIGURES FOR WOUNDED AND MISSING. THE LAST OFFICIAL FIGURE SUPPLIED BY ADM.CHESTER W.NIMITZ COVERED CASUALTIES FOR THE FIRST THREE DAYS. THE FIGURES INCLUDED 644 KILLED, 4,168 WOUNDED AND 560 MISSING, ALTHOUGH SOME OF THE MISSING SINCE HAVE BEEN LOCATED.

BOTH FORRESTAL AND NIMITZ HAVE GIVEN THE INCOMPLETE COUNT OF JAPANESE DEAD FOUND INSIDE AMERICAN LINES AT MORE THAN 12,500. OTHER ENEMY DEAD ARE KNOWN TO BE BURIED UNDER SMASHED PILLBOXES. STILL OTHERS ARE BEHIND THE JAPANESE LINES, A DWINDLING AREA WHICH HAS BEEN SHELLED BY FIFTH FLEET WARSHIPS, POUNDED BY MARINE ARTILLERY AND BOMBED BY PLANES.

THIS MORNING'S COMMUNIQUE BRIEFLY SUMMARIZED THE GROUND SITUATION:

"ON THE NIGHT OF MARCH 4-5, THE ENEMY MADE A NUMBER OF ATTEMPTS TO INFILTRATE OUR LINES ON IWO ISLAND AND SUBJECTED THE MARINES TO SUBSTANTIAL SMALL ARMS AND ARTILLERY FIRE. ALL ENEMY EFFORTS TO MOVE INTO OUR POSITIONS WERE BROKEN UP. NO APPRECIABLE CHANGE WAS MADE IN THE LINES OF THE OPPOSING FORCES ON MARCH 5."

POSSIBLY INDICATIVE OF A MOMENTARY LULL, THE COMMUNIQUE FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE INVASION OPENED FEB. 19 MADE NO REFERENCE TO EITHER CARRIER PLANE ATTACKS OR WARSHIP SHELLFIRE AT IWO.

IN WASHINGTON, SECRETARY FORRESTAL PRAISED THE FIGHTING OF THE THREE MARINE DIVISIONS AS "HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL" BUT SAID THE JAPANESE THERE WERE STRONGER THAN HAD BEEN EXPECTED AND HAD MADE GOOD USE OF THEIR WEAPONS.

FORRESTAL'S ACCOUNT OF 2,050 MARINES KILLED MADE IWO FROM THAT STANDPOINT THE BLOODIEST BATTLEFIELD OF THE PACIFIC WAR. MARINE DEAD IN THE COMPARATIVE PERIOD ON SAIPAN SLIGHTLY EXCEEDED 1,200. AMERICAN DEAD ON GUAM FOR THE FULL 20 DAYS IT TOOK TO END ORGANIZED RESISTANCE TOTALLED 1,214.

A HIGHLIGHT OF THE 1,500-MILE STRIKE--ELEVENTH B-29 RAID ON TOKYO AND THE FIRST IN THE EARLY MORNING--WAS THE LANDING OF ONE SUPERFORTRESS AT THE SOUTHERN AIRDROME OF EMBATTLED IWO JIMA, 750 MILES SOUTH OF NIPPON.

MAR 6 1945

THE SKY GIANT, PILOTED BY LT.RAYMOND F.MALO OF 12 EAST BLUFF ST., DANVILLE, ILL., HAD ONLY FIVE MINUTES' GASOLINE LEFT IN ITS MAIN TANKS AND WAS UNABLE TO USE ITS RESERVE BECAUSE OF TROUBLE IN THE FEED LINE. WITH THE CREW ALERTED FOR A CRASH LANDING AT SEA, MALO HEADED FOR IWO AND BARELY MADE IT, ROLLING DOWN THE 3,000-FOOT RUNWAY WHILE OCCASIONAL JAPANESE MORTAR SHELLS BURST NEARBY.

SWARMS OF MARINES CROWDED ABOUT THE SUPERFORTRESS WHILE REPAIRS WERE MADE. THEN THE PLANE RETURNED TO ITS TINIAN BASE.

THUS LT.MALO'S B-29 MADE THE FIRST ACTUAL USE OF IWO JIMA AS A HEAVY BOMBER AIRBASE--ONE OF THE PRIMARY PURPOSES FOR WHICH IT WAS INVADED.

IN THE PAST APPROXIMATELY HALF OF THE B-29 LOSSES IN TOKYO STRIKES FROM THE MARIANAS HAVE RESULTED FROM CRASH LANDINGS ON THE LAST LAP OF THE LONG HOMEWARD FLIGHT. IWO JIMA MAY WELL SERVE AS AN EMERGENCY FIELD UNTIL IT CAN BE BUILT INTO A POWERFUL BASE. IT WILL BE A VALUABLE FUELING STOP.

THE SUPERFORTRESS FLIGHT, TAKING OFF AT NIGHT IN ORDER TO REACH TOKYO IN THE EARLY MORNING, HAD VISUAL BOMBING WEATHER UNTIL ONLY THREE MINUTES FROM THE TARGET--THE URBAN INDUSTRIAL AREA. THEN SOLID CLOUDS CLOSED IN.

ONE PILOT SAID IF THEY HAD BEEN OVER TOKYO 15 MINUTES SOONER THEY PROBABLY COULD HAVE BOMBED VISUALLY.

IT WAS THE SECOND CONSECUTIVE SUNDAY ATTACK IN GREAT STRENGTH ON THE NIPPONESE CAPITAL. LAST WEEK MORE THAN 200 SUPERFORTRESSES DEVASTATED 240 CITY BLOCKS STRETCHING FROM THE EDGE OF THE IMPERIAL PALACE GROUNDS TO THE WATERFRONT.

MAR 6 1945

TOKYO RADIO SAID OTHER SUPERFORTS YESTERDAY BOMBED NAGOYA, INDUSTRIAL CITY ABOUT 170 MILES SOUTHWEST OF THE CAPITAL, AND TOYOHASHI AND HAMAMATSU, COASTAL CITIES BETWEEN NAGOYA AND TOKYO.

ARMY AIRFORCE HEADQUARTERS, ADVANCE AREA, GUAM, MARCH 5-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-(AP)-MAJ. GEN. WILLIS H. HALE, 52, HAS ASSUMED THE DUTIES OF THE MISSING LT. GEN. MILLARD F.HARMON AS COMMANDER OF ARMY AIR FORCES, PACIFIC OCEAN AREAS AND DEPUTY COMMANDER OF THE 20TH (SUPERFORTRESS) AIR FORCE.

A HEADQUARTERS SPOKESMAN ANNOUNCED THAT GEN. HALE "WILL FUNCTION IN THESE CAPACITIES PENDING FURTHER ACTION BY THE WAR DEPARTMENT."

A WIDESPREAD AIR AND NAVAL SEARCH--THE GREATEST THE PACIFIC HAS EVER SEEN--WAS CONTINUING FOR GENERAL HARMON WHO DISAPPEARED WITH NINE OTHER OFFICERS AND MEN ON A TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT.

GENERAL HALE HAS BEEN DEPUTY COMMANDER FOR OPERATIONS OF THE ARMY AIR FORCES, THE PACIFIC OCEAN AREAS. A NATIVE OF KANSAS, HE STARTED HIS MILITARY CAREER WITH THE PHILIPPINE CONSTABULARY IN 1913 AFTER ATTENDING KANSAS STATE COLLEGE.

ABOARD A U.S. NAVAL AIR EVACUATION PLANE IN WESTERN PACIFIC, MARCH 5-(AP)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-FIFTEEN BOYS, VETERANS OF THE HELL OF IWO JIMA, ARE BEING FLOWN OUT ABOARD THIS TRANSPORT PLANE ONLY A FEW HOURS AFTER THEY WERE WOUNDED.

DAILY HOSPITAL PLANES WILL OPERATE BETWEEN IWO JIMA AND BASE HOSPITALS ON SAIPAN AND GUAM UNDER A NEW NAVAL EVACUATION UNIT.

AS A VOLUNTEER NURSES AIDE, I AM MAKING THIS FLIGHT BACK WITH THEM. EVERY MAN ON THE PLANE, EVEN A GRAY-FACED MARINE WHO LOST HIS LEFT LEG AND MOST OF THE TOES OF HIS RIGHT FOOT BY MORTAR FIRE YESTERDAY, BRIGHTENS EAGERLY AT THE MENTION OF A HOSPITAL--CLEAN, WHITE, WITH REAL BEDS--BY NIGHTFALL.

THE MARINE DOZED WHEN WE FIRST TOOK OFF FROM MOTOYAMA AIRFIELD NO. 1 AT IWO JIMA, THEN STIRRED RESTLESSLY AND MOTIONED ME CLOSE TO HIS LITTER. "ARE WE STILL MOVING," HE MURMURED ANXIOUSLY.

OUR PLANE, "NELLIE V" PILOTED BY LT. DANIEL H.DURDEN, SAN DIEGO, CALIF., IS MOVING SO SMOOTHLY AT 9,000 FEET ABOVE WHITE CLOUDS AND BLUE WATER THAT HIS QUESTION IS UNDERSTANDABLE. REASSURED HE SMILES FAINTLY, SIGHS AND CLOSES HIS EYES.

ON ANOTHER LITTER A BLACK-EYED BOY WITH AN ENGAGING SMILE IS FUMBLING WITH A SMALL BUNDLE OF BLOOD-STAINED LETTERS. HE LOOKS UP WITH A GRIN, "I'M AFRAID MY GIRL WILL BE PRETTY MAD AT ME FOR GETTING HER LETTERS DIRTY."

"I'LL HAVE TO WRITE MOTHER THAT I'M DOING ALL RIGHT," A 19 YEAR OLD LAD FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE TELLS ME. "LAST NIGHT I WAS LYING THERE IN THE DIRT ON IWO WITH A BULLET IN MY LEG. TONIGHT I'LL SLEEP IN A HOSPITAL BED. I DON'T BELIEVE IT YET.

"THE ONLY TROUBLE IS I HATE TO LEAVE THE BOYS. I CRIED WHEN THE CAPTAIN CAME TO SAY GOODBYE."

BUT HE ISN'T CRYING ON THE PLANE. HE'S GRINNING AND HELPING CHEER OTHER MARINES WITH MORE SEVERE INJURIES. IT IS THE TYPICAL ETTITUDE.

I FOUND THE SAME THING ON THE BEACH WHEN I VISITED THE MEDICAL EVACUATION STATION SERVING THE THIRD, FOURTH AND FIFTH MARINE DIVISIONS WITH LT. CMDR. LEO THALEN OF ELGIN, ILL., MEDICAL COMPANY COMMANDER, IN CHARGE.

TWO CORPSMEN CARRIED A LAD WITH A BLOODY BANDAGE AROUND HIS HEAD PAST US ON A LITTLER. HE RAISED HIS HEAD PAINFULLY, GRINNED AND CALLED, "HELLO MA'M, WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?"

THE BULK OF THE MARINES BROUGHT TO THE EVACUATION STATION, DR. THALEN POINTED OUT, SUFFER THE MOST SERIOUS WOUNDS, OFTEN MULTIPLE. HORRIBLE HEAD WOUNDS ARE SICKENINGLY FREQUENT, BUT THERE IS NO COMPLAINT FROM THE BOYS ON THEIR STRETCHERS AND ONLY GRATITUDE FOR THE HELP THEY RECEIVE.

IT WAS THE SAME ABOARD THE PLANE. WHEN PHARMACISTS MATE 1ST CLASS JOHN A.CRONIN, TUCSON, ARIZ., FORMER UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA PRE-MEDICAL STUDENT NOW THE KINDEST AND MOST EFFICIENT SORT OF NAVY CORPSMEN, BROUGHT AN EXTRA BLANKET TO SOME, TOOK TEMPERATURES, ADMINISTERED MUCH-NEEDED SEDATIVES, THEY THANKED HIM LIKE WELL-BEHAVED LITTLE BOYS.

MAR 6 1945

TWENTY WAS PRETTY OLD AMONG THAT GROUP.

WHEN I HELPED LADLE HOT SOUP AND PASSED OUT TURKEY SANDWICHES IT WAS THE SAME AGAIN. THANKS, PATHETICALLY GAY SMILES AND UNIVERSAL INSISTENCE THAT THE "OTHER GUYS" GET THEIR'S FIRST.

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA, MARCH 5-(AP)-AUSTRALIA PROBABLY WILL BE ABLE TO SUPPLY MILLIONS OF BUSHELS OF WHEAT TO LIBERATED COUNTRIES NEXT YEAR, DESPITE THE SEVERE DROUGHT WHICH CUT DOWN PRODUCTION LAST YEAR, AUTHORITIES SAID TODAY.

MAR 6 1945

THE DECISION TO INCREASE WHEAT ACREAGE AND THE PROSPECTS OF A MORE NORMAL SEASON ARE EXPECTED TO MAKE WHEAT AVAILABLE. ONE AUTHORITY PREDICTED A SURPLUS OF UP TO 100,000,000 BUSHELS WAS POSSIBLE.

MANPOWER DIFFICULTIES STILL ARE HANDICAPPING PRODUCTION TO A LARGE EXTENT BUT NEW SOUTH WALES GROWERS ARE BEING ASSISTED BY WAR AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEES AND THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE TO MAKE THE UTMOST USE OF THE MANPOWER AND MATERIALS AVAILABLE. IT IS EXPECTED THAT THE ACREAGE IN NEW SOUTH WALES ALONE WILL BE 1,000,000 BUSHELS IN EXCESS OF THE LAST YEAR.

NIGHT LEAD UNITED NATIONS (WITH WASHINGTON)

BY FLORA LEWIS

MEXICO CITY,MARCH 5-(AP)-THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS RESOLVED TODAY TO TAKE THEIR INSISTENCE ON HAVING PRIORITIES TO SOLVE THEIR OWN DISPUTES TO THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE AT SAN FRANCISCO.

THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON WORLD SECURITY PASSED A RESOLUTION BRINGING THE CHANGES REQUESTED BY LATIN AMERICA IN THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN TO THE ATTENTION OF THE REST OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

THE RESOLUTION CAME JUST AFTER SECRETARY OF STATES STETTINIUS ANNOUNCED THAT INVITATIONS HAVE BEEN SENT OUT FOR THE CONFERENCE, SPONSORED BY BRITAIN, RUSSIA, THE UNITED STATES, AND CHINA.

FRANCE WILL ATTEND, IT WAS LEARNED, BUT HAS NOT ACCEPTED AN OFFER TO JOIN AS A SPONSOR.

MAR 6 1945

THE LATINS REACTED TO THE CRIMEAN SOLUTION FOR VOTING IN THE SECURI COUNCIL WITH A QUICK BURST OF ENTHUSIASM.

THEY POINTED OUT IMMEDIATELY,HOWEVER, THAT THE REQUIREMENT FOR BIG POWER UNANIMITY WHEN FORCE IS USED TO KEEP PEACE WOULD TAKE THE TEETH OUT OF THE ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC UNLESS SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS ARE WORKED OUT FOR THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE NELSON ROCKEFELLER DECLARED IN A PRESS CONFERENCE THAT "THERE IS NO CONFLICT BETWEEN THE TWO-PROGRAMS FOR WORLD AND CONTINENTAL SECURITY.

MEANWHILE, IT WAS LEARNED HERE THAT FRANCE HAS ASKED CONSIDERATION FOR ITS IDEAS ON A WORLD SECURITY ORGANIZATION ON A BASIS OF COMPLETE EQUALITY WITH THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN AT SAN FRANCISCO.
THE OTHER FOUR MAJOR POWERS TURNED THIS DOWN.

FAILURE OF THE LONG NEGOTIATIONS TO INCLUDE FRANCE AS A SPONSOR MAY LEAD TO SOME BITTER DISCUSSIONS AT SAN FRANCISCO, IT IS FEARED. OFFICIALS SAID THAT PARIS HAS NEVER SENT WASHINGTON THE SUBSTANCE OF ITS PROPOSED CHANGES ON DUMBARTON OAKS, AND APPARENTLY FRANCE IS SAVING ITS RESERVATIONS TO POP THEM AT THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE.

THE LATIN AMERICAN NATIONS, ON THE OTHER HAND, DECIDED TO SEND THEIR DETAILED VIEWS TO EVERY UNITED NATION AND ASKED TO HEAR BEFOREHAND WHAT THE OTHER COUNTRIES THINK.

MEXICO CITY, MARCH 5-(AP)-DRAFTING OF A STATEMENT ON ARGENTINA TODAY REMAINED THE TOP JOB FOR THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE HERE.
IT WAS ASCERTAINED THAT REPRESENTATIVES OF 20 REPUBLICS HERE WILL DEFINITELY MAKE A FORMAL DECLARATION ON ARGENTINA, BUT THEY STILL ARE TRYING TO AGREE ON WHAT TO SAY.
ONLY OTHER MAJOR TOPIC STILL BEING DEBATED IS THE ECONOMIC CHARTER FOR THE AMERICAS. OFFICIALS EXPRESSED HOPE A COMPROMISE DECISION COULD BE REACHED TONIGHT.
SOME LATIN AMERICANS HAVE BEEN HOLDING BACK APPROVAL ON THE CHARTER, WHICH ESTABLISHES A POLICY OF FREE TRADE IN THIS HEMISPHERE. THEY ARE ATTEMPTING TO INCLCSJIPLQ ZLZLE

ARE ATTEMPTING TO INCLUDE SPECIFIC COMMODITY PROVISIONS, ESPECIALLY ON COTTON AND COPPER.
THE TWO IMPORTANT DIFFICULTIES IN WRITING AN ARGENTINE DECLARATION ARE:
1. DECIDING HOW SPECIFIC THE STATEMENT CAN BE ON ARGENTINA WITHOUT ENDANGERING A SOLID FRONT AGAINST ARGENTINA'S PRESENT STAND.
2. DECIDING WHAT MEASURES TO TAKE TOWARDS GETTING ARGENTINA BACK INTO THE AMERICAN SYSTEM AFTER THIS CONFERENCE IS OVER.

MEXICO CITY, MARCH 5-(AP)-THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE TUSSLED TODAY WITH TWO OF ITS KNOTTIEST PROBLEMS, ARGENTINA AND THE POSTWAR ECONOMIC POLICY OF THE AMERICAS.

THE CONFERENCE HAS COMPLETED THE BULK OF ITS WORK, BUT THESE TWO ISSUES ARE OPEN TO DEBATE AND MAY DELAY ADJOURNMENT UNTIL THURSDAY.

A GROUP OF LEADING DELEGATIONS PLANNED TO CONTINUE DISCUSSION ON THE POSSIBILITY OF THE CONFERENCE ISSUING A STATEMENT ON ARGENTINA

THAT WOULD EXPRESS REGRET OVER THAT COUNTRY'S ABSENCE FROM THE MEETING AND SYMPATHY WITH THE ARGENTINE PEOPLE.

DELEGATES SAID THAT ALSO UNDER CONSIDERATION IS THE ADVISABILITY OF A GROUP OF FOREIGN MINISTERS REMAINING HERE AFTER THE CONFERENCE ADJOURNS TO TREAT THE ARGENTINE PROBLEM IN A MORE CONCRETE FASHION THAN THE STATEMENT BEING DISCUSSED. WHAT THIS MIGHT ENTAIL WAS NOT DISCLOSED, BUT THERE WAS NO THOUGHT OF ENDING ARGENTINA'S ISOLATION BY SUCH ACTION, IT WAS SAID.

MEANWHILE THE UNITED STATES DELEGATES PLANNED TO INFORM THE SUB-COMMITTEE ON POSTWAR ECONOMIC POLICY THAT THE U.S.IS DETERMINED TO PRESS FOR ADOPTION OF ITS "ECONOMIC CHARTER FOR THE AMERICAS" WITH LITTLE IF ANY CHANGES. THE CHARTER SETS UP FREE TRADE PRACTICES.

THE UNIED STATES DELEGATION FEELS THAT THE CONFERENCE SHOULD ADOPT THE CHARTER AS A WORKING PRINCIPLE FOR THE POSTWAR PERIOD, IN RETURN FOR U.S.ASSISTANCE IN INDUSTRIALIZATION AND ACHIEVEMENT OF ECONOMIC SECURITY BOTH IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE WAR AND LATER.

THE LATIN-AMERICANS HAVE NOT DISCUSSED THE CHARTER TO ANY GREAT LENGTH THUS FAR. THEY WERE SAID TO BE HOLDING BACK UNTIL FORMAL AMERICAN AGREEMENT ON ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE IS OBTAINED, BUT THE U.S. DELEGATES WANT SIMULTANEOUS ADOPTION OF THE CHARTER AND AMERICAN ECONOMIC GUARANTEES.

A PLENARY SESSION LATE THIS AFTERNOON WILL MARK THE CLOSING STAGES OF THE CONFERENCE.

MEXICO CITY, MARCH 5-(AP)-ISSUANCE OF INVITATIONS TODAY TO THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE BY FOUR MAJOR POWERS WITHOUT FRANCE FOLLOWED ALMOST A MONTH OF DIPLOMATIC MANEUVERING.

HERE IS AN AUTHORITATIVE ACCOUNT OF WHAT HAPPENED:

FRANCE AND CHINA WERE ASKED AT YALTA TO JOIN WITH THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN AND RUSSIA IN SPONSORING THE SAN FRANCISCO MEETING.

ACCEPTANCE WAS EXPECTED WITHOUT 48 HOURS. CHINA CAME THROUGH IN 24 HOIRS.

AFTER CONSULTATIONS WHICH PRODUCED A DIRECT ANSWER ALMOST TWO WEEKS LATER, FRANCE AGREED PROVIDING HER OWN SUGGESTIONS ON A WORLD ORGANIZATION WOULD BE GIVEN AN EQUAL PLACE WITH THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN AT SAN FRANCISCO.

MAR 6 1945

IT WAS LEARNED RELIABLY THAT FRANCE HAS NOT TOLD THE OTHER NATIONS AT ANY TIME THE SUBSTANCE OF HER SUGGESTIONS AND RESERVATIONS TO DUMBARTON OAKS.

BRITAIN, THE UNITED STATES, CHINA AND RUSSIA REFUSED THIS FRENCH CONDITION. FRANCE WAS TOLD THAT ALL COUNTRIES HAVE A RIGHT TO SUGGEST CHANGES IN DUMBARTON OAKS AND TO PUT FORWARD THEIR IDEAS.

AFTER SEVERAL MORE TRYING DAYS OF HASTY CONSULTATIONS AROUND THE WORLD, FRANCE SAID THAT SHE WOULD JOIN AS A SPONSOR WITH A NEW CONDITION:

AMENDMENT OF THE INVITATION TO GO TO ALL THE OTHER UNITED NATIONS SO THAT IT WOULD DESCRIBE THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN AS A MERE DISCUSSION POINT, RATHER THAN AS A BASIS FOR FORMING A WORLD ORGANIZATION.

30.24-23635

THE BIG THREE, WHO SPENT CONSIDERABLE TIME PHRASING THE EARL
ORDING OF THE INVITATION AT YALTA, REFUSED TO CHANGE IT.

THE APRIL 25 DATE SET FOR THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE WAS PRESS-
ING, AND THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE HERE IS DRAWING TO A CLOSE, SO
THE OTHER FOUR DECIDED TO GO AHEAD WITHOUT FRANCE.

FRANCE RECEIVED AN INVITATION TO THE MEETING TODAY JUST AS DID THE OTHER UNITED NATIONS.

MAR 6 1945

821KX

THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN PROVIDES THAT FRANCE SHALL HAVE AN EQUAL
SEAT WITH RUSSIA, BRITAIN, THE UNITED STATES AND CHINA ON THE WORLD
SECURITY COUNCIL. HOWEVER, BECAUSE OF THE FAILURE TO AGREE ON INVITATIONS, FRANCE WILL NOT BE IN AN EQUAL POSITION AS A SPONSOR
AT SAN FRANCISCO.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD THAT TODAY WAS CONSIDERED THE LATEST POSSIBLE
DEADLINE FOR ISSUING THE SAN FRANCISCO INVITATIONS.

ONE OF THE MAIN REASONS FOR THE DEADLINE IS THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE HERE, CALLED IN PART TO DISCUSS WORLD SECURITY ARRANGE-MENTS.

THE CONFERENCE WILL PROBABLY END ON THURSDAY, A DAY LONGER THAN ANTICIPATED YESTERDAY, AND DISCUSSIONS OF DUMBARTON OAKS ARE ONLY BEGINNING, NOW THAT THE VOTING FORMULA HAS BEEN REVEALED.

(ADVANCE)...MINNEAPOLIS, MARCH 7-(AP)-ENACTMENT OF A WORLDWIDE CODE OF HUMAN RIGHTS, STARTING WITH A LAW THAT "NO COUNTRY, IN TIME OF PEACE, SHALL EXECUTE A HUMAN BEING WITHOUT JUST TRIAL," WAS PROPOSED TONIGHT BY COMMANDER HAROLD E. STASSEN IN A TALK OUTLINING SEVEN CARDINAL POINTS OF FUTURE WORLD POLICY.

THE FORMER MINNESOTA GOVERNOR PUT HIS PERSONAL VIEWS ON THE PROBLEMS OF WORLD PEACE ON RECORD IN ADVANCE OF THE APRIL SAN FRANCISCO UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE WHICH HE WILL ATTEND AS A DELEGATE.

HE SAID HE LOOKED UPON THE CONFERENCE AS "A GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY TO WIN A BEACHHEAD IN THE BATTLE FOR A JUST AND LASTING PEACE."

JOINING WITH OUT ALLIES "TO BUILD A DEFINITE AND CONTINUING ORGANIZATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS OF THE WORLD BASED ON JUSTICE AND LAW, AND INSURED BY FORCE," HEADED HIS SEVEN POINT PROGRAM.

STASSEN SPOKE AT A PUBLIC MEETING AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA. THE TALK WAS BROADCAST NATIONALL. (CBS).

AGAINST A BACKGROUND OF NEARLY TWO YEARS SERVICE IN THE PACIFIC AREA, STASSEN SAID:

"OUR FIGHTING MEN WANT AMERICA TO HAVE A WORLD POLICY FOR PEACE THAT IS AS BIG, AS DEFINITE, AND AS SUCCESSFUL AS HAS BEEN OUR STRATEGY FOR WAR."

HE CALLED FOR GRADUAL DEVELOPMENT OF "A NEW AND HIGHER LEVEL OF GOVERNMENT, WITH LEGISLATIVE, JUDICIAL AND EXECUTIVE FUNCTIONS, AND WITH WORLDWIDE JURISDICTION."

MAR 6 1945

EXPRESSING THE HOPE THAT THIS WORLD ORGANIZATION, WHATEVER ITS FINAL FORM, WOULD INCLUDE SOME METHOD OF DEVELOPING BASIC WORLDWIDE LAW, HE ADDED:

"IT SHOULD MAKE POSSIBLE THE FUTURE ENACTMENT OF A FUNDAMENTAL CODE OF HUMAN RIGHTS. THE BEGINNING MAY BE VERY SMALL. BUT EVEN IF WE STARTED WITH THE ENACTMENT OF ONE LAW, A LAW THAT NO COUNTRY, IN TIME OF PEACE, SHALL EXECUTE A HUMAN BEING WITHOUT JUST TRIAL, IT WOULD BE A SIGNIFICANT STEP."

STASSEN EMPHASIZED THESE OTHER SIX POINTS:

THAT "ABSOLUTE NATIONALISTIC SOVEREIGNTY IS DEAD."

THAT WE ARE CITIZENS OF THE WORLD AND OUR HAPPINESS AND WELFARE IS TIED UP WITH THAT OF ALL OTHER PEOPLES.

THAT PRODUCTIVE CAPACITIES AND RESOURCES OF AMERICA BE USED FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF ALL THE PEOPLES OF THE WORLD.

THAT WE RECOGNIZE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION IS VITAL TO THE PEACE AND PROGRESS OF THE WORLD.

30.24 - 23637

THAT WE ARE AND PROPOSE TO REMAIN A DEMOCRACY WITH AN ECONOMIC SYSTEM OF PRIVATE CAPITAL AND INDIVIDUAL ENTERPRISE; THAT WE WILL EXPLAIN OUR SYSTEM TO THE WORLD AND PERMIT OUR OWN CITIZENS TO LEARN OF ANY OTHER FORM OF GOVERNMENT "BUT WILL NOT PERMIT ANY OTHER GOVERNMENT TO ACTIVELY SEEK TO UNDERMINE OUR OWN."

A12CHP

THAT AGGRESSOR NATIONS MUST BE STRIPPED AND REMAIN STRIPPED OF THE MEANS OF MAKING WAR, WHILE WE MAINTAIN OUR OWN STRENGTH.

HE SAID BOTH A UNITED NATIONS COURT OF WORLDWIDE JURISDICTION AND A POLICE FORCE ARE ESSENTIAL TO A WORLD ORGANIZATION BUT "THIS DEFINITELY DOES NOT MEAN AN ALL-POWERFUL INTERNATIONAL POLICE FORCE OF A SUPERSTATE."

MAR 6 1945

"LET US CLARIFY OUR THINKING," HE CONTINUED. "IF EITHER THE UNITED STATES, OR RUSSIA, OR GREAT BRITAIN DECIDE IN THE NEXT 25 YEARS TO MAKE WAR, THEN THERE WILL BE ANOTHER WAR, AND NO ORGANIZATION, OR LEAGUE, OR UNION, OR TREATIES WILL STOP IT, BUT I DO NOT BELIEVE ANY OF THESE COUNTRIES WILL WANT TO MAKE WAR. EACH KNOWS THE HORRORS OF WAR. EACH HAS SO MUCH TO GAIN BY NOT MAKING WAR. EACH HAS A GREAT FUTURE IN THE PEACEFUL DEVELOPMENT OF ITS RESOURCES."

THE UNITED STATES GOES INTO THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE, HE SAID, "WITH THE OVERWHELMING SUPPORT OF THE PEOPLE OF THE COUNTRY AND THE UNITED STATES SENATE" FOR A UNITED NATIONS ORGANIZATION. HE CREDITED WITH LAYING THE GROUNDWORK FOR THIS SITUATION THE ATLANTIC CHARTER, THE MOSCOW CONFERENCE, TEHERAN, DUMBARTON OAKS, YALTA. "THE PRESIDENT'S EXCELLENT MESSAGE TO CONGRESS LAST WEEK AND THE NEVER ENDING WHOLESOME STUDY AND DISCUSSION THROUGHOUT AMERICA."

"FREEDOM OF INFORMATION TO THE CITIZENS OF THESE (AGGRESSOR) COUNTRIES," HE SAID, "MUST A FUNDAMENTAL RULEA.

"OPEN TO THE CHILDREN OF GERMANY AND JAPAN AND ITALY THE FULL ACCESS TO THE RADIOS AND PUBLICATIONS AND BOOKS OF THE WORLDHAND. IF WE ARE RIGHT IN OUR BASIC CONCEPTS IN AMERICA, AND I BELIEVE WE ARE, IN A GENERATION OR TWO WE WILL HAVE A DIFFERENT GERMANY AND A DIFFERENT JAPAN."

"WE OURSELVES SHOULD REMAIN STRONG," HE DECLARED, AMPLIFYING HIS SUGGESTION FOR STRIPPING AGGRESSOR NATIONS OF WAR-MAKING TOOLS. "WE SHOULD MAKE IT PLAIN THAT MUCH AS WE WANT PEACE, WE WILL FIGHT AGAIN, AND WILL FIGHT ANYONE WHO BASICALLY VIOLATES WORLD JUSTICE AND SEEKS TO FLAUNT OUR POLICIES AND TRIES TO MAKE MIGHT RIGHT

WITH THE U.S. NINTH ARMY, MARCH 6--(AP)--STAFF SGT. JUNIOR SPURRIER OF RICES, KY., WAS CALLED OUT OF THE FRONT LINES TODAY AND THE CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR WAS HUNG AROUND HIS NECK FOR PERSONALLY LIBERATING THE TOWN OF ACHAIN.

THE NATION'S HIGHEST MILITARY HONOR WAS BESTOWED UPON THE 22-YEAR-OLD SOLDIER BY LT.GEN.WILLIAM H.SIMPSON, COMMANDER OF THE NINTH, IN THE PRESENCE OF HALF A DOZEN OTHER GENERALS FROM THE 16TH ARMY CORPS AND WITH THE 30TH DIVISION LINED UP FOR THE CEREMONY.

"ALL THIS BRASS SCARED ME," SAID SPURRIER WHO WHILE FIGHTING WITH THE 30TH THROUGH ACHAIN IN LORAINE KILLED 29 GERMANS AND CAPTURED 30 MORE. HE ALREADY HELD THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS AND TWO PURPLE HEARTS.

LAST NOVEMBER, COMPANY C OF THE 134TH REGIMENT WAS GIVEN THE MISSION OF DRIVING THE GERMANS FROM ACHAIN. A BATTALION HAD CROSSED 1,500 YARDS OF OPEN GROUND AND WENT THE LAST 700 UNDER SMALL ARMS FIRE THAT GAVE WAY TO MORTARS AND ARTILLERY AS THEY REACHED THE OUTSKIRTS OF THE TOWN.

"SEND SPURRIER IN FROM THE WEST AND HIS COMPANY IN FROM THE EAST AND TAKE THE TOWN," ORDERED THE BATTALION COMMAND.

MAR 6 1945

SPURRIER KILLED THE FIRST THREE GERMANS HE SPOTTED AND OTHERS SOUGHT COVER IN HOUSES AS SPURRIER STARTED WORKING DOWN THE STREET FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE, MOPPING UP WITH GRENADE AND RIFLE FIRE. WHEN HIS AMMUNITION RAN OUT, HE IMPROVISED BY USING GERMAN GUNS LIFTED FROM ENEMY SOLDIERS HE HAD SLAIN.

WHEN ONE PARTICULAR HOUSE FACED HIM AS A STRONGPOINT AND SLOWED DOWN HIS ONE-MAN TASK FORCE ATTACK, SPURRIER KILLED THREE MORE GERMANS AND SET THE BUILDING AFIRE. HE THEN CAPTURED 16 GERMANS, INCLUDING A CAPTAIN AND A LIEUTENANT, AS THEY FLED THE FLAMES.

AFTER EIGHT HOURS OF FIGHTING BY HIMSELF, SPURRIER REPORTED THAT ACHAIN HAD BEEN CLEARED.

HE SAYS HIS ONE-MAN CAMPAIGNS AREN'T PLANNED AHEAD OF TIME.

"YOU JUST GO IN THERE AND FIGHT AND DO WHAT YOU THINK IS BEST," HE SAID. "THAT'S ALL."

SECURITY

Precede PARIS. By John A. Parris, Jr.

LONDON, March 6, *(AP) -- In outspoken criticism of the predominantly "Great Power" character of the projected world Security Organization, the Royal Netherlands government indicated tonight that her delegates to San Francisco would fight to strengthen the position of smaller nations in an internation setup.

Expressing opposition to the voting formula agreed upon by the Big Three at Yalta, spokesmen said the feeling in Dutch official circles was that the smaller nations would have "considerable reluctance" to sign a pact under which any nation, however great, could "have a position making it legally a judge in its own cause.".

MAR 6 1945

This Dutch view was disclosed as diplomatic quarters in London reported that France was preparing to take the lead at San Francisco on behalf of a louder voice for small nations. Recently Gen. De Gaulle held a lengthy conference with Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak. He is also understood to have been in touch with officials of the Netherland and Luxembourg. Partly as a result of France's decision not to become a sponsor of the World Security Conf. there is a growing belief in diplomatic quarters here that the small nations immediately adjoining France will look more and more to her for support and guidance in the postwar reconstruction period.

Like the Dutch, France make it clear she would porpose amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks blueprint, specifically regarding the question of alliances and voting procedure.

A Dutch spokesman argued that the Big nations in prewar years "repeatedly attempted to buy peace by sacrificing the security and vital rights of some weaker powers." The Dumbarton Oaks plan was drawn by the great powers and naturally would suit them, the spokesman siad, but he added that the plan was silent on any guarantee that a "modicum of justice" would be maintained for smaller nations.

MAR 6 1945

"The Dutch", he said, "feel that if the great powers alone are having the right by their vote to declare coercive adtion against themselves unlawful under the plan, the least the smaller powers may ask is that they receive some form of compensation through a better definition of their rights. For the smaller powers the accentin the plan is on security rather than peace."

Geographically, it was pointed out here, France is in an excellent position to lead a Western Eurppean bloc of small nations.

Cologne Falls, Nazis Fleeing South to Bonn, 3d Army Breaks Through Toward Rhine, Advancing 33 Miles in Two-Day Offensive

Allies Occupy All Territory West of Ruhr

BEALMEAR

PARIS, Wednesday, March 7—(AP) Cologne fell swiftly to the U. S. First army in the climax of its great eastward drive yesterday as General Eisenhower lifted the news blackout on operations of the American Third army and revealed that its armor was racing toward the Rhine in a breakthrough that covered 32 miles in two days. NIGHT

These dramatic developments, coming when the Ninth army and its British and Canadian Allies had virtually completed occupation of all German territory west of the Ruhr, shifted the big punches to the middle Rhine farther south and opened the way for the Allies to push the enemy out of the area west of the Rhine and north of the Moselle.

Sporadic Fighting Continues

The Supreme Allied headquarters announcement of the capture of the bomb-blackened Rhineland capital said that only sporadic fighting continued last night in Cologne's southern outskirts.

(A broadcast from London recorded by the National Broadcasting company quoted BBC correspondent Frank Gillard as reporting the Hohenzollern bridge at Cologne was still standing yesterday and open to foot traffic.)

Thus, Germany's fourth largest city and the greatest enemy industrial center that has so far capitulated was in Allied hands on the twelfth day of the powerful offensive from the Roer river.

Last night its beaten Nazi garrison was being driven southward toward Bonn through a narrowing corridor along the Rhine's west bank.

It was considered highly significant that the Germans relinquished Cologne without a struggle and that its capture was a pushover compared to that of Aachen.

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Louis P. Lochner, who entered the city with a military government unit, said Cologne's famed cathedral, although it had suffered some bomb hits, still was standing, but practically every other prominent building had been wrecked. The cathedral, he added, can be repaired.

Since the start of the slashing attack from east of captured Bitburg at dawn yesterday, Patton's armored forces had captured more than 1,500 Germans, including a Corps commander, and had reached a point only 20 miles from the Rhine. Tonight tanks led by Brig. Gen. Holmes Dager of Union, N. J., were reported smashing on against disorganized and sporadic Nazi resistance.

Drive is Unmatched

A field dispatch declared that "for the rampant Americans it was a surge which outdid anything witnessed in France." Weather, not the Germans, was said to be impeding the advance. A news blackout still prevented disclosure of the exact whereabouts of American spearheads. Motorized infantry was piling along German highways behind the speeding tanks.

The German garrison of Cologne put up surprisingly weak resistance as the U. S. Third Armored Division and 104th Infantry smashed through to the Rhine near the Cathedral, at the western end of the Hohenzollern bridge.

"The fighting," said Associated Press Front Reporter Don Whitehead, "was not the last-stand, do-or-die defense that had been expected. Cologne is no Aachen manned by a garrison prepared to fight house to house and street to street."

There was no escape for the surviving Nazis across any of the five bridges across the Rhine at Cologne. All had been destroyed by Allied bombings. Bonn, toward which the remnants were retreating, is some 13 miles up the winding river from Cologne.

North of the stricken city American forces cleared the Rhine all the way to Neuss, opposite Duesseldorf, except for a small pocket near Zons, virtually ending the fighting in that sector.

The only other enemy bridgehead on the west bank of the Rhine between Cologne and the Dutch frontier was at Wesel, and it had shrunk down to an area less than eight miles wide by six deep. A dispatch from Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's headquarters said it had lost all but its nuisance value.

British and Canadian big guns were shelling some 10,000 Nazi troops in the constricted pocket and trying to knock out their escape bridges across the Rhine. British troops pushed a mile and a half up the Issum-Wesel road today and approached the rail town of Alpen, only six miles from Wesel. Canadians gained two miles southeast of Sonsbeck and cleared the western fringe of Bonninghardt forest.

Yanks Clear Rheinberg

American troops, after clearing Rheinberg, mopped up the region west of a railroad from Rheinberg to Moores.

South of Cologne the Germans fought hard to hold open their corridor to Bonn, bringing up tanks to hold the flank of the escape route.

The veteran U. S. First Infantry Division drove through Trippelsdorf and Cardorf, within four and a half miles of the Rhine and within five miles of Bonn at the nearest point. The Ninth Armored Division cleared six villages in an eastward push from Euskirchen and reached the edge of Oberdrees, nine miles southwest of Bonn.

Farther south, Whitehead said, the Germans simply were retreating, with doughboys marching after them.

American troops captured a large Ford factory just north of Cologne. There was no immediate report whether the plant had been damaged by Allied bombings, but a prisoner said it still was in operation a few months ago.

Cologne itself was estimated to be 85 per cent destroyed from the 42,000 tons of bombs dropped on it since May, 1942. More than 95 per cent of the old city, which embraces the cathedral, is a rubble heap.

"Cologne looks like Stalingrad," an RAF officer told Whitehead. "There are some 2,000 acres of damage in the city. Cologne industry was spread through the city much like industries in Detroit. The only way to attack the industry was to destroy the city."

As the American soldiers battered their way past piles of wreckage they were amazed to see German civilians displaying apparent friendliness and relief at their arrival. Equally surprising was the ease with which Cologne was taken. It had been the consensus that the city would be bitterly defended and hard to crack.

No Last-Ditch Stand

Instead of fighting from house to house the Nazis defended only key points, sometimes blocks apart. The Third Armored division pushed into the sprawling city from the north, while the 104th infantry fought in from the west through suburban Efferen and the Braunsfeld district. The Eighth Infantry on the south cleared the suburbs of Alstaden and Hermulheim and seized a big power station on the outskirts.

Rain and low clouds over the entire Western front grounded Allied air forces and protected German troops in their withdrawals across the Rhine by barge and ferry. Only a few reconnaissance pilots braved the weather to report on the vital bridge situation, and this was what they saw:

Road and rail bridges at Wesel, which British Mitchells smothered under 347,000 pounds of bombs yesterday, both are severely damaged. The west end of the road bridge is blocked, but the Nazis are working frantically to repair it and may get a single lane open. The rail bridge is impassable to traffic and there are no signs it is being repaired.

There are no other permanent bridges useable anywhere from Holland to south of Cologne, and a pontoon bridge which the Germans threw across the Rhine at Rheinberg probably now has been denied to the enemy by the Ninth army's advance into that town.

north of the city.

Nazi Pocket Collapses.

In Cologne, greatest prize yet taken in Germany by the western Allies, only a knot of resistance was left in the main part of the city. Infantry and armored columns were driving against it.

The Canadian First Army in the north captured Sonsbeck, and the German rearguard defense west of the Rhine in that area collapsed. The Nazi bridgehead there was lost for all but nuisance value by American and Canadian army soldiers driving in a concerted push.

By mid-morning today, the First Army had won one-third of Cologne, and then smashed on through.

The Third Army's surprise stab toward the Rhine had been blacked out for security reasons for thirty hours since it started at 7:30 A. M. yesterday.

Bad roads were delaying the Fourth Armored Division's drive on the approaches to the Rhine. Infantrymen followed it in vehicles of all descriptions because the tanks' pace was so fast, a front dispatch said.

No House-to-house Fight.

The Third Armored Division and 104th Infantry Division closed on the last Germans resisting in Cologne. There the enemy had manned only key points, instead of making a house-to-house defense in the manner of Aachen. The Eighth Infantry was the third division which drove into and through the city of 768,000 population.

The Germans were battling to hold open their escape corridor down to Bonn, with Americans only six miles from that university city.

North of Cologne, which once was the greatest traffic center in western Germany, the American Ninth Army wiped out all but one pocket of Nazis on the Rhine south of Neuss, suburb of Duesseldorf, and with the Canadians hammered into the diminishing Wesel pocket farther down the great river.

The Americans entering Cologne were amazed to see civilians amid the wreckage displaying friendliness and relief at their arrival.

For Major-Gen. Hugh J. Gaffey, commander of the Fourth Armored Division, the capture of the German general was a double triumph. In the first place it was Gen. Graf von Rothkirch und Trach whose troops encircled Bastogne and it was the Fourth Division that broke the siege of Bastogne. In the second place, the armored approach to the Rhine carried Gen. Gaffey within hailing distance of the Rhine where as a first lieutenant of artillery he had been stationed until 1919.

To the north, Lieut.-Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth Army wiped out all but one small pocket on the Rhine south of the Duesseldorf suburb of Neuss and drove, with the Canadians, into the Wesel pocket farther down the Rhine.

The 50-square mile Rhine bridgehead west of Wesel was being compressed rapidly by American, Canadian and British troops battering the survivors of the German First Parachute Army from three sides. The German stand there appeared in its last hours. Both Rhine bridges at Wesel were impassable, although the Germans were striving to patch up the road bridge for further escapes to hastily dug defense positions east of the Rhine.

The enemy continued his flight across the Rhine by small boats and ferries under cover of night. Field Marshal von Rundstedt was believed having extreme difficulty extricating his heavy equipment—doubly precious now that Silesia has been lost and much of the Ruhr and Saar production has been canceled. The Germans were forced to abandon great quantities of material at Orsoy.

Nazi demolition squads, trying desperately to guard the rich industrial Ruhr left the Rhine bridgeless along the seventy-mile stretch from Bonn to Wesel.

The Germans yesterday destroyed their last Duisburg bridges. Aerial reconnaissance showed that the great Hohenzollern Bridge at Cologne was unusable.

A flyer who dropped through the overcast to scan the situation said the middle section of the bridge appeared to be gone.

The American Seventh Army finally cleared the important railroad and industrial French city of Forbach in a steady tightening of a siege ring upon Saarbruecken. Nearby Stirling Wendel also was cleared.

Supreme Headquarters belatedly announced that a communique stating the 1,240 war prisoners, most of them ill, had been liberated in Forbach was incorrect. Most were not military prisoners but Poles, French and Russians whom the Nazis had impressed as laborers.

Rains and low clouds grounded planes over the entire western front. The Twenty-ninth Tactical Air Force reported, however, that the First and Ninth Army drives had overrun so many German flak guns that the once dreaded Ruhr Valley now threw up only moderate ground fire.

At least 5,240 prisoners were captured yesterday exclusive of the First Army's unreported total.

Patton Is Loose in Dash for Rhine; First Army at River Inside City

LONG

Paris, March 6 (A. P.).—The American First Army captured Cologne today, and south of that great communications and industrial center the American Third Army raced twenty-five miles forward in a sudden breakthrough to within twenty miles of the Rhine in the Coblenz area.

DAY

The fall of Cologne was announced officially tonight.

American First Army tanks fought past the famous Cathedral in Cologne, Germany's fourth city.

Germans retreated south from Cologne along a corridor to Bonn.

The Third Army tanks broke out of their Kyll River bridgehead farther south yesterday morning and in thirty hours raced twenty-five miles, or more than halfway the distance to the Rhine. They were meeting "only medium resistance" in the push to the river in this sector.

More than 1,500 Germans, including Lieut.-Gen. Edwin Graf von Rothkirch und Trach, 59 years old, who commanded the Fifty-third Corps, were captured. His staff was also taken. The armored dash was led by Brig.-Gen. Holmes Dager of Union, N. J.

American troops had driven to the Rhine all along a line north of Cologne except for a bend in the river south of Duesseldorf, and captured the Ford motor plant just

Patton's Men Close Half Of Coblentz Gap With Rush

LONG

Paris, March 6 (AP)—American troops fought through Cologne to the Rhine tonight, and in the south the United States 3d Army spurted 25 miles toward the Rhine in the Coblenz area.

Against surprisingly light opposition, three divisions—the 3d Armored and the 8th and 104th Infantry—reached the Ringstrasse, the street that rims the old heart of the city. The Germans then fought in what was once the walled section.

Tanks and infantry moved up through the great industrial area in the north and west sections of the city, and shelled the railroad marshaling yards, which are among the largest in Germany.

American airmen who flew over termed the metropolis a "dead city."

The German communiqué said that south of Cologne Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's "blacked-out" 3d Army had made a deep breach in German lines guarding the middle Rhine and Coblenz in the area northeast of Kyllburg. At last reports the Americans were 44 miles from Coblenz and pushing beyond the Kyll River, last great natural barrier, from two bridgeheads 4 and 5 miles wide and 3 deep.

Canadians Get Into Xanten's Outskirts

The Americans held practically the whole west bank of the Rhine from Cologne north to Rheinberg, 5 miles south of Wesel.

Farther north units of the 1st Canadian Army stabbed into the outskirts of Xanten, key enemy strong point guarding the Ruhr city of Wesel 8 miles to the east.

The Germans' 50-square-mile Rhine bridgehead west of Wesel was being compressed rapidly by American, Canadian and British troops battering the survivors of the German 1st

Parachute Army from three sides. The German stand there appeared to be in its last hours.

Both Rhine bridges at Wesel were impassable, although the Germans were striving to patch up the road bridge for further escapes to hastily dug defense positions east of the Rhine.

A 9th Army armored division that seized Orsoy, just south of Rheinberg in a 3½-mile thrust yesterday, captured great quantities of Nazi war material and wiped out the last of two fixed ferry routes across the lower Rhine. The other ferry, just south of Rees, was under close-range Canadian artillery fire.

The Germans blew up their last Duisburg bridges yesterday, and aerial reconnaissance showed the great Hohenzollern bridge at Cologne gaping and unusable.

Patton's infantry and armor were holding a 30-mile stretch of the Kyll's banks from its junction with the Moselle east of Trier to a point 9 miles east of Pruem.

Rhine Reached At New Point

The drive to the Rhine continued north of Cologne.

American infantry reached the Rhine in another place 4 miles south of Duesseldorf. It cleared Rheinkassel, 5 miles north of Cologne, and was on the outskirts of Langel, a mile and a half farther north.

On the southwestern outskirts of Cologne, Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's 104th Division pushed to the southern suburbs without opposition. Outside the city the troops captured the great Goldenberg power station which provided electricity for a large mining and industrial area.

The 104th cleared the western Muengersdorf section of Cologne, moved deeper into the city through the Braunfeld region, and lacked only about 2 miles of running clear through the city to the Rhine. Overnight, the 104th had advanced 4,000 yards against little opposition.

3-Mile Gain South Of Cologne

The Germans were reported to have drawn back into the twisted streets of the old city for a last-ditch fight.

The 1st Division, fighting just south of Cologne, advanced 3 miles to a point 3½ miles from the Rhine. Armor and infantry gained up to 6 miles toward Bonn, 15 miles south of Cologne.

The American 7th Army finally cleared the important French railroad and industrial city of Forbach in its steady tightening of a siege ring upon Saarbrucken. Near-by Stiring Wendell was also cleared.

Churchill Aims Shell at Hitler

DAY

London, March 6 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Churchill visited German soil overlooking the great Rhine barrier to Berlin last week end and told front-line troops that "soon the enemy will be driven across the Rhine and any one can see that one strong heave will win the war," it was disclosed today following his return to Britain.

The visit "touched off an atmosphere of great expectancy on the western front," said a dispatch by Associated Press Correspondent Roger D. Greene.

During his tour, the 70-year-old statesman fired an artillery shell directed to Adolf Hitler—the same Hitler who four years ago promised to visit Britain—and paid calls at the headquarters of Marshal Montgomery and Gen. Eisenhower.

Directs Shell to Der Fuehrer.

Entering a gun pit, Mr. Churchill wrote on a 240-millimeter shell: "To Hitler personally." That shell was then loaded in an American-made gun. Mr. Churchill chewed grimly on his cigar as he pulled the lanyard and, with a heavy boom, the shell whizzed toward the target—a ferry crossing at Xanten.

"I am not responsible if it doesn't get Hitler," he joked. "The artillery boys set the sights. I just shot it off."

Mr. Churchill walked into the enemy country through the shattered Siegfried Line. Marshal Montgomery, Sir Alan Brooke, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, and Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, Canadian Army Commander in Chief, accompanied him.

As he drove through the Reichwald Mr. Churchill spotted a sign stating: "This is the Siegfried Line." A few yards beyond was a clothes line with several pieces of wearing apparel and a sign which boasted eloquently "and this is the washing." Mr. Churchill and Marshal Montgomery had a hearty laugh.

Cheered Wildly by Troops.

Wildly cheering troops lined the road. Soldiers shouted "How're we doing?" and promised to "bring Hitler back alive." Nodding and puffing vigorously on his cigar, the Prime Minister replied with his celebrated "V" sign.

German civilians, trudging along muddy roads with their few salvaged belongings on their backs, recognized the British leader as he was driven by. Their jaws dropped and they stared in obvious awe. He was recognized too by Belgian and Dutch civilians and welcomed enthusiastically by them.

When the Prime Minister reached Juelich on the Roer, it took considerable argument on Lieut.-Gen. William H. Simpson's part to keep Mr. Churchill from going on to Duesseldorf and risking the violent artillery barrage raging across the Rhine.

Won't Let Churchill Risk Life.

"If they are shooting you can put me in a tank and I will be all right," Mr. Churchill told Gen. Simpson, but the American commander declined to risk the life of Britain's No. 1 statesman.

"We will soon bring down tyranny so you can go home," he told Scottish troops.

Mr. Churchill was asked whether the Rhine would be as formidable a barrier as the English Channel proved for Hitler. He replied that depended on "measurements and other circumstances—and the other circumstances are on our side now."

He added, smiling, "You'll find no river ever proved an insurmountable barrier."

Mr. Churchill visited one of the highest hills in the area west of the Rhine and stared long and silently toward the German river, obscured in the mist of a gloomy, cloudy day.

Mr. Churchill told the troops that he was "proud to meet you on German soil you have conquered." He spoke with fierce pride in his voice.

"All our efforts," he continued, "will end in a broader picture of our island's sense of decency and fair play and will spread over a larger expanse."

"I am deeply impressed with the brave fighting of our boys, especially as I see what they fought through," he said as he gazed about him at the formidable Reichwald Forest and the mud and water on the roads and fields. "The enemy had a tremendous defense advantage in the Reichwald."

The tour included an inspection of the dragons teeth and pillboxes of the Siegfried Line near Aachen and of the jump-off spots on the Roer River for the Ninth Army's present drive.

During lunch at a Canadian corps headquarters, Marshal Montgomery told the Prime Minister in a jocular vein: "I still don't like the Churchill tank."

"And mark you," Churchill replied ruefully, "the tank was not named after me until it had been marked with a few blemishes."

Mr. Churchill's visit to Marshal Montgomery's headquarters closely followed a visit there by Gen. Eisenhower, Lieut.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commanding the United States Twelfth Army group; Lieut.Gen. Miles C. Dempsey, British Second Army commander, and Generals Simpson and Crerar.

Mr. Churchill and Mrs. Churchill arrived at the western front in a plane escorted by twelve Spitfires. The Prime Minister climbed down a ladder smoking his cigar and smiling, and kissed his daughter, Mary, an ATS member, who was waiting at the airfield.

REDS THREATEN TO FLANK STETTIN, GUNS POUND PORT

Two Soviet Armies Slice Pomerania into Many Shreds.

CAPTURE GRUDZIADZ

Way Cleared for Drive on Danzig, Nazis Suffer Heavy Losses.

WHEELER

LONDON, Wednesday, March 7—(AP) The First White Russian army reached the Oder river's northeastern outlet to the Baltic yesterday in a slashing 25-mile advance that took 500 German towns and extinguished the staggered enemy's hopes of any effective counter-attack against the north flank of the Soviet spearhead aimed at Berlin from the east.

The German province of Pomerania was sliced into new shreds by the great northward and northwestward thrusts of the First White Russian and the Second White Russian army, which reached the Baltic at new points and scored general but less spectacular gains in the northeast.

Reds Seize Cammin

Premier Stalin announced the day's top developments in an order of the day disclosing the capture by the First White Russians of Cammin, on the Oder delta outlet stream of Dievenow, 37 miles north of Stettin; Treptow, 21 miles northeast of Cammin; and in the same region the big German strongpoints of Greifenberg, Guelzow and Plathe.

Stettin, Berlin's Oder river gateway to the Baltic, was in immediate danger of being outflanked both north and south, and last night's Moscow communique announced that the First White Russians had shoved westward within 15 miles of the city, which the Germans themselves said was under Red army artillery fire. The Germans frankly called Stettin "an outpost of the Reich."

An early-morning Moscow bulletin described German manpower losses by the thousands in dead and captured at nearly every point, either by the annihilation of encircled groupings or the destruction of fleeing troops trains by the Red air force.

The Second White Russian army, operating northeast of the First White Russian group, toppled the holdout fortress of Grudziadz, 25 miles behind the lines and 55 miles south of Danzig, capturing more than 5,000 of the garrison along with the commanding general. This feat also was honored by a Stalin order of the day.

It cleared the way for a drive on Danzig itself, and the communique disclosed that this already was in progress, the Second White Russian army reaching within 30 miles of that once-free city with the capture of Alt-Kischau.

Up Through Pomerania

This was part of a general slash through north central Pomerania and the Polish corridor by this army, which took 60 towns in a day and broadened its foothold on the marshy Baltic sea shore north of Koeslin

Southwest of Koeslin a surrounded German force was liquidated with capture of its commanding lieutenant-general and more than 1,000 of his men.

The First White Russian army in its drive also took a by-passed enemy fortress, the town of Belgrad, and the two great armies together were ripping to ribbons the unnumbered, isolated thousands of German troops still within Pomerania.

MAR 8 - 1945

In a pattern that was growing typical, the Moscow communique related also that a large enemy force cut off south of Schivelbein in central Pomerania was being liquidated and that 2,500 German troops had been captured in that pocket March 4 and 5.

While the armies of Marshals G. K. Zhukov and K. H. Rokossovsky thus were demolishing the manageable shrede into which they already had ripped Pomerania, Zhukov's First White Russians continued to edge westward towards the lower Oder and had compressed the Germans into a 10 to 12-mile wide strip on the river's east bank from south of Stettin northward to Wollin island opposite Cammin, a distance of about 65 miles.

Stettin, a vital fortress in the defense of Berlin and the remainder of the German Baltic coast, was fast losing its significance.

Stettin Periled

With the Russians on the opposite banks of the Oder both north and south of Stettin, the city was in grave danger of being entirely outflanked. Besides Russian artillery fire, it was under a hail of Soviet bombs, Moscow announcing that Monday night and Tuesday morning a heavy air raid was conducted there, setting many fires.

The Red air force also smashed strongly at besieged Koenigsberg in East Prussia, announcing that an ammunition dump was blown up there.

The Moscow radio said that unrest in Stettin was so great that Gestapo Boss Heinrich Himmler had gone there to try to quell it.

With the Russian armies driving ahead unchecked, the German chief of staff, Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, sought to whip up the enthusiasm of his people for the war by telling them of alleged Russian atrocities in captured territory.

The Russians themselves were silent concerning land operations in East Prussia and on the front some 30 miles east of Berlin. The German radio said the Third White Russian army was continuing to attack in East Prussia, but it too was silent about the menacing salient aimed due west towards Berlin.

That salient now has been safeguarded by the Zhukov sweep to the Oder's mouth.

MAR 8 - 1945

Russians Reach Oder, 11 Miles From Stettin

London, March 6 (AP)—Russian troops closing on Stettin have reached the Oder, near Greifenhagen, 11 miles south of the port, a Moscow dispatch said today. The Germans declared the Soviets had thrust to within 13 miles of Stettin Bay and 35 of the U-boat base of Swinemuende.

Red Army artillery was shelling Stettin, the port of Berlin at the Oder's mouth.

The river divides into two main channels at Greifenhagen.

The German high command said Marshal Gregory Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army was wheeling westward on a 40-mile front from Stargard to Greifenberg, the latter town 14 miles from the Baltic coast and 17 northeast of captured Naugard.

Spearhead Stopped, Nazis Say

It said a Zhukov spearhead had been stopped northeast of Gollnow at a point 13 miles from Stettin Bay. Gollnow is northwest of Stargard and southwest of Naugard, both captured yesterday.

The Berlin radio asserted Zhukov had massed five infantry and two tank armies on the central sector for a push westward on Berlin.

Moscow dispatches said Zhukov's force was advancing steadily beyond Stargard, 19 miles east of Stettin, and Naugard, 22 miles north of Stargard, and tightening his flank on the Baltic coast in preparation for a new push on Berlin.

Gains In Polish Corridor

The Germans also reported local breaches by the 2d White Russian Army pushing up the Polish Corridor farther east toward Gdynia and Danzig.

Marshal Stalin tonight announced the capture of Grudziadz, encircled holdout bastion in the Polish Corridor on the Vistula. Grudziadz is 55 miles south Danzig.

Grudziadz was cleared block by block by savage assaults of Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army, and 5,000 prisoners were taken in the city, including the commander, who had been ordered to hold at all costs, Stalin's order of the day said.

Its fall cleared communications feeding troops striking toward Danzig.

Meanwhile Rokossovsky's army slashed deeper into the coastal strip of Pomerania between Danzig and Koeslin.

Zhukov's hardest blows at the moment apparently were directed toward Gollnow and Cammin, on the last main road and railroad to the seacoast east of the Oder.

Stettin Factories Large

The sprawling factories of Stettin, Berlin's port, are spread out on both sides of the Oder at the southwest corner of Dammscher Lake. Gollnow is northeast of this body of water. Cammin is only 3 miles from the Baltic on the eastern arm of the Oder estuary.

RAF Hits Big Oil Works In 4th Week Of Great Raids

London, March 6 (AP)—RAF Lancaster bombers carried the Allied nonstop aerial attack on Germany into its fourth straight week with a concentrated daylight blow at the Salzbergen oil refinery today, while United States 8th Air Force bombers were due for the first time in sixteen days.

Early tonight, enemy radio warnings disclosed that the RAF deadly Mosquito bombers were again roaming the skies over the Reich.

"Small bomber formations" were reported approaching west and northwest Germany about dusk and the Mosquitos were reported over northwest Germany two hours later.

200 Lancasters Out

A force of approximately 200 Lancasters hit the Salzbergen refinery, and the Air Ministry announced that a successful concentration of bombs on the target had sent columns of black smoke rising above the clouds. Mosquito bombers also smashed at German armor and transport at Wesel, on the east bank of the Rhine, this afternoon.

The 8th rested after sending an average of more than 1,000 heavies daily against the Reich's rail and oil targets for fifteen successive days. In the heaviest sustained air offensive in history, the 8th last summer flew seventeen successive days, but the force at that time averaged only 500 to 700 bombers daily.

44,000 Tons In 15 Days

London, March 6 (AP)—The United States 8th Air Force rested today and took stock of its fifteen continuous days of bombing Germany—a period during which 185 targets were blasted and burned with more than 44,000 tons of explosives in the greatest air campaign in history.

In fifteen days the 8th Air Force dispatched a total of 28,500 bombers and fighters. These planes dumped 160,000 high-explosive bombs and 3,500,000 incendiaries on enemy freight yards, oil refineries, bridges and factories, and concentrated on the Reich's sprawling rail network.

The huge tonnage of bombs dropped on the German targets—almost three times the weight dropped by the 8th Air Force during the entire first year of its operation—contrasted with an estimated 7,500 tons which the Luftwaffe used against London in eleven months of the great Blitz that began in September, 1940.

RAF Hits Nazi Oil Plant In 22d Day Of Raids

London, March 6 (AP)—RAF heavy bombers staged a high-concentration attack in daylight today on the Salzbergen oil refinery 27 miles northwest of Muenster in a follow-up to their 1,100-bomber assault last night on Chemnitz, Berlin and three other cities.

It was the twenty-second consecutive day of Allied air blows.

The night assault concentrated on Chemnitz, hit Monday by 250 United States Flying Fortresses. Other formations hit synthetic oil plants at Bohlen near Leipzig, and targets at Mannheim and Gelsenkirchen, while Mosquitos again bombed Berlin. Thirty-three planes were missing from this night fleet, but some may have landed on continental bases.

The night raiders had dropped approximately 4,000 tons of high explosives on their targets.

Two hours after the attack on Chemnitz, reconnaissance pilots saw large fires still burning. At Bohlen there were violent explosions, diffusing so much light that the last planes over the target were able to bomb visually as in daylight.

Railway Network Center

Chemnitz is one of the main centers of the vast railway network spreading over Saxony, and Allied air chiefs apparently are determined to deal it a knockout blow.

Its importance was emphasized by the Air Ministry, which said:

"Very few large industrial towns now remain comparatively undevastated to serve as bases for the organization of defense against the Russian Army or for administrative control of Germany."

This is the same type of coordinated blow by which American and British heavy bombers virtually flattened Dresden and numerous other German industrial centers.

The synthetic oil plant had been kept out of actjon by American bombers most of last year, but now had been repaired.

Heavy clouds and intermittent rain and snow over the battle area restricted yesterday's operations by the tactical air forces on the Continent.

DNB Off The Air

Meanwhile, the home and European telegraph service of the official German news agency DNB has been off the air since 8 P.M. yesterday. There was no explanation.

Listeners said the other DNB facilities were functioning but giving no fresh news of consequence.

DNB's transmissions went off the air last night at about the same time the German warning service reported bombers over the Reich.

The lapse is the longest since transmission was resumed after the February 3 bombing of Berlin.

WESEL POUNDED BY RAF BOMBERS

Hammer Rail City Clogged with Fleeing German Troops.

LONDON, March 6.—(AP) RAF Lancasters tonight blasted the Rhine river town of Wesel, clogged with fleeing German troops, in a follow-up of Mosquito raids on the same town during the day.

Mosquito pilots, who reported during the afternoon that Wesel was choked with masses of German soldiers and hundreds of vehicles, also were out tonight, dropping two-ton blockbuster bombs on Berlin for the 15th consecutive night.

U. S. Bombers Idle

American heavy bombers were idle during the day but the RAF heavies kept the offensive against Germany rolling into its fourth straight week with a daylight smash at German oil targets.

A force of approximately 200 Lancasters hit the Salzbergen refinery and the Air ministry announced that a successful concentration of bombs on the target had sent columns of black smoke rising above the clouds. Mosquito bombers also smashed at German armor and transport at Wesel on the east bank of the Rhine this afternoon.

The Eighth rested after sending an average of more than 1,000 heavies daily against the Reich's rail and oil targets for 15 successive days. In the heaviest sustained air offensive in history, the Eighth last Summer flew 17 successive days, but the force at that time averaged only 500 to 700 bombers daily.

FRANCE IS SEEN HEADING SMALL NATIONS' BLOC

De Gaulle Government May Be Rallying Point for Oaks Changes.

HOLLAND'S POSITION STATED

Dutch Want Better Definition of Rights of Lesser Powers in Security Organization.

PARRIS

London, March 6 (A. P.).—Diplomats here expressed the belief today that France was preparing to take the lead at the San Francisco world security conference on behalf of greater power for smaller nations in the projected international setup.

France made it clear in declining an invitation to become one of the sponsors of the conference that she would propose amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks blueprint for world peace regarding alliances and voting procedure agreed upon by the big three at Yalta.

The same position, in ever more outspoken form, was taken today by the Royal Netherlands Government. A spokesman said that the feeling in Dutch official circles was that the small nations would have considerable reluctance "to sign a pact under which any nation, however great, could have a position making it legally a judge in its own cause."

The spokesman said that the big nation in pre-war years "repeatedly attempted to buy peace by sacrificing the security and vital rights of some weaker Power."

"The Dutch," he said, "feel that if the great Powers alone are to have the right by their veto to declare coercive action against themselves unlawful under the plan, the least the smaller Powers may ask is that they should receive some form of compensation by a better definition of their rights.

"For the smaller Powers the accent in the plan is on security rather than peace," he added.

Other nations, including Belgium, are known to hold similar views and France may seek to lead a western European bloc at San Francisco.

In recent weeks Gen. de Gaulle has held lengthy conferences with Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak. The French leader also is understood to be in touch with the officials of the Netherlands and Luxembourg on questions directly concerning these countries in relation to France, economically and politically.

Report Says Himmler Commands Army Group

London, March 6 (AP)—An unconfirmed report from Germany, through underground channels, said today that Heinrich Himmler, commander in chief of the Nazi home army, has set himself up as an Eastern front army group commander under Colonel General Guderian.

Although it was impossible to check the accuracy of the report, it was considered more plausible than recent rumors that Himmler had supplanted Guderian in the east. The report said Himmler had established headquarters in Stettin, with the 3d Panzer Army and German 2d Army under his command.

Rhine Crossing Soon Predicted By German

London, March 6 (AP)—The Berlin radio military commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, predicted tonight that General Eisenhower would "immediately attempt to cross the Rhine in force."

"The various small-scale but repulsed crossing attempts carried out by units of the United States 9th Army Monday between Duisburg and Düsseldorf perhaps were curtain-raisers," he said.

Fighting In Norway Shortly Is Predicted

London, March 6 (AP)—Active fighting in the "battle of Norway" may start at any time, a Swedish broadcast quoting the underground Norwegian paper Kronikken said today. All plans were declared ready.

"During the past six months many people have expressed a desire for partisan warfare in Norway," the paper said. "The present task of Norwegians is to prevent German forces in Norway from reinforcing the hard-pressed German armies on the Eastern and Western fronts. The battle in Norway is at present a battle for transport."

Admiral Land Arrives in London.

London, March 6 (A. P.).—Vice Admiral Emory S. Land, United States War Shipping Administrator, has arrived here to attend a conference of the United Nations Maritime Executive Board, opening tomorrow. It was considered likely that the question of post-war use of America's surplus shipping would be raised.

markable tact, leadership and courage, contributed to the success of many supply-dropping operations and the destruction of enemy forces."

The Air Minister said British pilots frequently had landed in German-occupied territory to take out underground leaders. In one instance in southeast Poland, he said, underground forces defended a landing ground against German attacks for 47 hours to allow a British plane to take off staff officers of the Polish underground.

British Air Deal Charged

Laborite Says Swinton Made Secret Pact With Transport Companies

LONDON, March 6 (AP).—Laborite Fred Montague, former Under Secretary for Air, declared in Commons today that Lord Swinton, Minister for Civil Aviation, had made a secret deal with British railway and steamship companies for controlling post-war aviation. Two weeks ago Lord Swinton announced he would shortly make public a white paper outlining the government's policy.

Declaring the case an "exceedingly flagrant one," Montague said: "I have here minutes of a private meeting between Lord Swinton and the independent operators after the deal had been made with railway and shipping companies of this country. . . . Throwing at them the declared policy of the government, which had not been declared to this House or the country."

Montague said the idea that railway and shipping companies had vast experience in transport was "eyewash" and asserted that the Labor party still stood for public ownership of civil aviation after the war.

WAAF's 'Chuting Revealed

London, March 6 (AP)—British girls, members of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force, parachuted into France before D-day on missions never before revealed, Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair told the House of Commons today.

The parachute of one WAAF wireless operator, who later trained three French operators to aid the invasion, "stuck and opened just in time," the Air Minister related.

"She fell heavily and declares she owes her life to a bundle of paper francs she was carrying wrapped around her like a cushion," Sinclair said.

He reported that a WAAF officer, after parachuting into France to act as a courier, took charge of a large Maquis group when its commanding officer was captured, reorganized it and, "displaying re-

NAZIS CRY ATROCITY

London, March 6 (A. P.).—Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian, German chief of staff and commander on the eastern front, today accused the Russians of perpetrating atrocities "on an unprecedented scale" in eastern Germany. The Nazi propaganda agency Transocean broadcast his statement from Berlin.

The German Commander said that eyewitness accounts had been sent to the International Red Cross and added: "These are not outrages by single soldiers as may sometimes happen, but are systematic murder, looting, raping and burning committed under orders."

AIR MINISTRY DENIES TERROR RAIDS ON REICH

LONDON, March 6—(AP) Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair denied in Commons tonight that Allied leaders had adopted a policy of deliberate terror bombing against the great German population centers.

The question was raised by R. R. Stokes, Laborite, who asked the minister to comment on a dispatch of Feb. 17 from Supreme Allied headquarters in Paris which reported such a decision.

"The report is certainly not true; we are not doing terrior bombing," Sinclair said.

(Secretary Stimson told a Washington press conference Feb. 22 that "our policy has never been to inflict terror bombing on civilian populations." He said he had looked into the dispatch from Supreme headquarters—carried by the Associated Press—and found "that it arose from what I consider an excusable but incorrect interpretation of some remarks by a briefing officer at Supreme Allied headquarters."

four previous years put together," he continued. "Even the fifth year's total already has been greatly surpassed in the six months which have elapsed of the sixth year."

Sir Archibald said losses of RAF and United States bombers over Europe had been reduced from 4.1 per cent of planes dispatched in 1942 to 1.7 per cent last year, and to 1.1 per cent in the first two months of 1945.

After Heavy Losses

"Our air superiority has not been obtained without hard fighting and heavy casualties," he said, reporting that between April 1 and September 20, 1944, "the (RAF) bomber command alone suffered more than 10,000 casualties."

The RAF and United States Army Air Forces work "in the closest partnership and harmony—their tasks are complementary, their fortunes are intertwined," he added.

Sir Archibald declared the power of Allied air forces would "continue to increase until Germany is beaten."

"Not far short of 200,000 young men have received their flying training in the Dominions," he said.

Nazi Oil Reserves Believed Exhausted

London, March 6 (AP)—Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair declared today that "Allied air forces have reduced German oil production to such an extent that available reserves are almost certainly exhausted."

The percentage loss of United States and RAF bombers dispatched has been reduced by approximately 400 per cent since 1942, he told the House of Commons.

Sir Archibald said the "swelling crescendo of destruction" by Allied bombers "is engulfing oil plants, tank factories and communications of the German armies on every front, as from West, East and South the Allied armies surge forward into Germany."

German Raids Told

He disclosed the Germans sent 70 piloted fighters against Britain Saturday night, and acknowledged that small numbers of fast planes carrying a few bombs "may get through from time to time."

"From September, 1943, to August, 1944, the (RAF) bomber command dropped greater weights of bombs on Germany than in the Canadian 1st Mostly British

LONDON, March 6 (AP).—Sir James Grigg, War Secretary, informed Commons today that United Kingdom troops formed two-thirds of the Canadian 1st Army "at the present time." Earlier a plea for greater publicity for the part played by British troops in the present western front offensive had been made by "The Daily Telegraph," which implied the name of the Canadian 1st Army should be changed because "it has become a misleading title."

Bulgarian-Cruelty Report To Commons

London, March 6 (AP)—British and American prisoners in Bulgaria before that country was granted an armistice were brutally treated at times and some were put to death, Sir James Grigg, War Secretary, told Commons today.

He said that the number killed "certainly was below ten." He did not say whether any of them were Americans.

Hulten Appeal Refused, Dancer Granted Reprieve

LONDON, March 6—(AP) Home Secretary Herbert Morrison today refused an appeal for mercy for Pvt. Karl Gustav Hulten, American soldier sentenced to be hanged Thursday, but he granted a reprieve to Mrs. Elizabeth Marina Jones, who was convicted with Hulten of the murder of a London taxi-cab driver.

Morrison was given a last-minute appeal in Hulten's behalf by the American embassy. He ruled there were no sufficient grounds to justify him in recommending any interference in the sentence against the soldier, a parachute trooper from Cambridge, Mass.

To Be Hanged Thursday

Hulten is scheduled to be hanged in the courtyard of Pentonville prison Thursday morning.

The jury which tried Hulten and the girl, an 18-year-old English strip-tease dancer, recommended mercy for her. She testified she participated in the attack on the taxi driver only under the fear of Hulten. However, under British law, the judge had to sentence her to death.

In keeping with precedent, Morrison gave no explanation of his reasons for recommending to the King that he exercise the royal perogative of granting mercy to the girl

The King's action would commute her sentence to life imprisonment—a sentence which in England usually means around 15 years in prison, although the home secretary could reduce the term to as little as one or two years if he desired.

Applications had been made in behalf of both Hulten and the young woman for an attorney general fiat to enable them to appeal to the House of Lords, but the Attorney General refused both applications.

The appeal for Hulten to the Home Secretary was sent to the U. S. Embassy by a Massachusetts attorney acting for Hulten's wife and mother.

Hulten now is held in Wormwood Scrubs prison. He was described by prison reports as calm and spending most of his time reading adventure stories.

Juanita Frances, chairman of the Married Women's association, commenting upon the reprieve of Mrs. Jones, said:

"If a man and woman, provided she is a woman and not a child, are both equally guilty and there is reason for letting the woman off, then the man should be let off also. If it is wrong for a woman to be hanged, it must be equally wrong for a man to be hanged, providing of course they are equally guilty."

Taking the opposite view, Dr. Edith Summerskill, member of Parliament, said of Mrs. Jones' reprieve:

"I am very glad to hear of it. Nothing will convince me that an individual of 18, whether boy or girl, should be hanged for any offense."

In Hulten's case she said she felt Morrison was right in not granting a reprieve.

"I don't think he deserved one," she said, "and the girl was under his influence. That kind of behavior is foreign to this country. We do not have 'gun molls' over here. I rather blame the cinemas, who are responsible for such sensationalism."

Counsel Sends Mercy Appeal To President

Boston, March 6 (AP)—State Senator Charles Innes, counsel for the mother and wife of Private Karl G. Hulten, disclosed tonight that he had appealed to President Roosevelt.

3 OFFICERS ACQUITTED

Paris, March 6 (A. P.).—Three company commanders of the 716th Railway Operating Battalion, charged with neglect of duty in connection with the looting of supply trains, were today acquitted by a general court-martial. They were the last officers to go on trial.

Sixty-two enlisted men are still awaiting trial. Eight officers have been tried and five acquitted. So far more than 160 enlisted men have been convicted and two acquitted, and the cases against a score of others have been dismissed. Of those convicted and sentenced, 115 have received suspended sentences and another chance to make good as soldiers. They have been formed into a special combat group and will begin training tomorrow.

SEVENTH ARMY FREES ALLIED PRISONERS

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY, March 6—(AP) More than 1,200 Allied prisoners of war were liberated from a stockade in the village of Stiring-Wendel in France on the German border when troops of the American 76th division completed clearing Forbach yesterday.

Russian, French, Poles and Czechs were among those freed by the 247th regiment during the process of occupying the Forbach area two to three miles southwest of Saarbruecken. Another 200 or more Russian forced laborers were freed by the 276th regiment while mopping up Forbach itself.

A large majority of all these men were ill, many being tuberculars left behind when the Germans evacuated able-bodied prisoners.

France Relies on Russian Pact.

Paris, March 6 (A. P.).—France's touchiness toward her place at the April San Francisco World Security Conference can be explained in the words of the old proverb—she feels a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

Her bird in hand is the bright new Franco-Soviet alliance which guarantees rapid Russian help if the Germans at any time in the future make an attempt at revenge. In contrast, she presumably feels that comparable benefits may not be obtained at San Francisco.

This apparently is the thought behind the Cabinet decision that France shall attend the United Nations' conference as an invited nation only—and not as a sponsor. The decision became known yesterday.

Acceptance of a sponsoring role, it was said, would place France in the position of conforming to the Dumbarton Oaks decisions, which she had no part in making and to some of which she objects.

First American Ships Arrive At Marseille

Marseille, March 4 [AP—Delayed]—Brig. Gen. John P. Ratay, commander of the delta base section here, announced today that the first United States ships have arrived under the terms of the agreement by which Britain and the United States have allocated a number of vessels to the French Government up to April 1 to help meet French import requirements.

The ships were laden with food and supplies for French people, and the cargoes included 3,500 tons of synthetic rubber with which the Michelin tire factory will be started at Clermont-Ferrand, General Ratay said.

Colonel Hunter Clarkson, of Santa Fe, N.M., who is port commandant, said Marseille had a 27,500-ton daily capacity before the war.

FRONT TOURED BY CHURCHILL

'Strong Heave Will End War,' Prime Minister Says

HARDNESS

With Churchill in Germany, March 4 [AP—Delayed by Censor]. Prime Minister Churchill, touring the Western front in Germany, told Scottish troops in the northern Rhine sector today that "soon the enemy will be driven across the Rhine and anyone can see one strong heave will win the war."

Puffing a cigar, the uniformed Prime Minister made no effort to disguise his personal satisfaction in stepping on German soil won by the victorious Allied armies.

During his trip through the Canadian Army sector, Churchill stood on one of the highest points and gazed long and silently toward the mist-covered Rhine.

Perhaps he was recalling that four years ago, when Hitler was triumphantly planning a visit to London, he could promise the people of Britain only "blood, sweat and tears" before final victory. And there—across the Rhine—was victory.

MAR 8 - 1945

NIGHT

Germans Set Him

[A dispatch from London said Churchill returned there Tuesday after visiting the Western front and the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery "for the purpose of discussing with them and other Allied commanders a wide field of military matters."]

Cheering troops greeted Churchill everywhere he went, and he was recognized and welcomed enthusiastically by Belgian and Dutch civilians.

German civilians saw him too—and recognized him. Trudging along muddy roads with their few salvaged belongings on their backs, they saw the rotund figure of the British leader being driven by. Their jaws dropped and they stared in apparent awe.

Met By Daughter

The Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill flew from England to Belgium Friday and were greeted at a landing field there by their daughter, Mary, a member of the ATS, British version of the WACs.

One of his first stops was at Juelich, the ruined fortress city, where he observed, "there will not be any unemployment around here after the war." He scrambled over the wreckage, rejecting offers of assistance, and heard from Lieut. Gen. William Simpson, 9th Army commander, how Juelich was captured.

Simpson had trouble convincing Churchill that it would be unsafe for him to visit the banks of the Rhine itself at Düsseldorf.

"If they are shooting, you can put me in a tank and I'll be all right," the Prime Minister urged.

Simpson Adamant

But Simpson was adamant in his refusal to risk the life of Britain's No. 1 statesman.

The tour included inspection of the Seigfried Line defense installations in the Aachen area and the points from which the 9th Army jumped off across the Roer River in its great offensive.

At the Roer, the Prime Minister left the car and walked across the military bridge American engineers had thrown up, listening as he walked to an account by Simpson and Montgomery of the February 23 attack.

When he reached the British-Canadian sector, his progress was slowed considerably by throngs of soldiers who lined the roads shouting, "How are we doing?" and "Over the Rhine next!"

"To Hitler—Personal"

Seated beside Montgomery in the staff car, Churchill beamed and nodded in response and gave the "V" sign again and again.

When his party stopped south of Goch, where the Prime Minister got another view of the devastation visited on German towns in the path of the Allied advance, he entered a gun pit, wrote "To Hitler—Personal" on a shell with chalk and fired it at the Rhine ferry crossing at Xanten, miles away.

He grinned as the 360-pound shell roared from the 240-mm. howitzer.

"I'm not responsible if it doesn't get Hitler," he joked. "The artillery boys set the sights. I just shot it off."

Impressed With Obstacles

To the correspondents who trailed him through his tour, Churchill said:

"I am deeply impressed with the brave fighting of our boys, especially as I see what they fought through. The enemy had a tremendous defense advantage in the Reichwald."

And he gazed about him at the formidable forest, the mire of the roads and the mud and water of the fields.

He said Montgomery's north Rhine campaign had been, in effect, a second Caen, with the British and Canadian forces diverting the enemy power while the Americans farther south slashed through to the Rhine.

"You See Everybody"

Asked if he thought the Rhine was as effective a barrier as the English Channel, he replied that it depended on "measurements and other circumstances—and the other circumstances are on our side now."

"You'll find that no river ever proved an insurmountable barrier."

American troops were as enthusiastic as the British in greeting Churchill.

"Who would ever think you would see him around here?" exclaimed Private Steven Kutamen, of Reading, Pa., who was working with a bridge crew.

At Juelich, Tech. 5/g Ruysell Lee, of Grantville, Ga., said, "if you stand around here long enough, you see everybody."

After leaving Montgomery's headquarters, Churchill visited Eisenhower, Lieut. Gen. Omar Bradley, 12th Army Group commander; Lieutenant General Sir Miles C. Dempsey, British 2d Army commander, and Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, Canadian 1st Army commander.

In his party were General Sir Hastings L. Ismay, chief of staff to the Minister of Defense, General Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the Imperial General Staff; and Air Marshal Sir Arthur Coningham. They were joined for parts of the tour by various British, Canadian and American commanders.

Yanks Fight On Near Cologne Under 'Artificial Moonlight'

BOYLE

Cologne, Germany, March 6 (AP). With the Reich's fourth largest city firmly in American hands, United States 1st Army troops fought on under "artifiical moonlight" tonight in an unceasing effort to destroy fleeing remnants of Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt's collapsed German armies west of the Rhine.

The 8th Infantry Division smashed forward against sacrificial enemy units stationed south of Cologne trying to keep open as long as possible the narrow escape corridor to Bonn.

With Cologne fallen, Bonn, a university city known as "the Harvard of Germany," has become a funnel through which the Nazi high command is withdrawing its shattered and mauled legions across the Rhine.

Too Tired To Celebrate

Inside Cologne itself, weary tank crews of the 3d Armored Division and infantrymen from the 104th and 8th divisions were too tired to make much of a celebration of their victory.

Some men have been fighting for three days and nights without rest and the first thing most of them wanted to do was to stretch out in the most comfortable place they could find and shut out the war in well-earned sleep.

But some irrepressible soldiers, heedless of possible injury from a few prowling snipers still at large, sped through the ruined, rubble-piled streets on captured motorcycles, helmets off and hair streaming in the chill wind.

An Eerie Playground

It was an eerie playground. This great industrial and rail center is only a skeleton of its peacetime self.

On this rainy March evening thousands of its buildings and homes lie bomb-gutted and defenseless against the cold drizzle. Whole sections look as if they had been devastated by an earthquake, and many a deserted block echoes only to the cautious footfalls of patrolling guards and the distant bark of rifles.

Areas in the old part of the town seem as dead and bygone as some old Roman city freshly dug from the debris of centuries.

Cologne's forlorn refugees keep behind closed doors at night, by American orders. This makes it look like a ghost city, but there is still plenty of life here—underground.

Molelike Existence

For some time the people of Cologne have been living a molelike existence because of Allied air-raids. The victorious Americans have followed the example and holed up in basements and cellars for nighttime protection against German artillery from the other side of the Rhine.

NIGHT

Many of the troops have chosen to dwell in the wine cellars of homes from which wealthy Nazis fled without taking their vintages. There is plenty of material for victory toasts.

"What a wonderful place to sweat out the rest of the war," exclaimed one doughboy, relaxing his dirt-stained body in an overstuffed divan and taking a sample from a tall, slender bottle of white wine that bore the date of 1904 on its dusty label.

In fact, anyone forced to drink from a bottle less than 40 years old is considered to have picked a poor shelter.

No Leisure For Many

There was no such ease for other doughboy units still clearing the southeast suburbs of the final crust of Nazi defenses. They still were meeting stiff opposition from prowling snipers and rear-guard troops operating self-propelled guns, mortars and machine guns from well-protected strong points.

"Most of the snipers are crazy kids no more than 18 or 19 years old, who still are young enough to think there's some glory in dying for Hitler," said Lieut. John A. Cronin, a medic from Boston. "They are causing most of our casualties now."

One group of 67 prisoners was vocally bitter against the Nazi officers who deserted them.

"They were labor troops who were thrown into the infantry lines two days ago, although they had no training," said Mast. Sergt. Walter C. Leming, of Sparta, Ill. "They were given guns and stuck in the trenches and told to stay there and hold the position. Then the officers pulled out and left them."

MOST COLOGNE EDIFICES HIT

Cathedral Still Stands But Is Damaged By Bombs

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Cologne, Germany, March 6 (AP). Once beautiful Cologne no longer is the city known and admired by tourists from all over the world.

The famed cathedral still stands, but it has been damaged by bomb hits. Practically every other prominent edifice in the ancient city, Germany's fourth largest, has been wrecked.

NIGHT

I came here today with Lieut. Col. John K. Peterson, of Riverside, Cal., who heads the largest Allied Military Government unit yet sent into any conquered German city.

We departed from Aachen over one of Hitler's great superhighways. It had been shelled at a number of places, forcing us to make detours. We passes through ruined Dueren, and after many detours reached Teocklemind on the fringe of greater Cologne, where the unit received instructions as to exactly where in the great city it should set up headquarters.

It was 2 P.M. when we reached our destination. The AMG immediately settled down to work, though the windows in the "offices," as is the case everywhere else, are broken and light and heat are nonexistent. "K" rations at present are our only diet.

Ruins Unrecognizable

It is no fun going sight-seeing while shooting is continuing, hence I can give only a brief preliminary report. This much I am certain—the Cologne that tourists knew is no more. Overtowering everything else is the gigantic Gothic cathedral, visible to us for miles before we reached the suburbs. But even it sustained some hits and one really wonders that it still stands. It can, however, be repaired.

Beyond that the "Altstadt" (the old part of the city), which used to attract visitors from all over the world, had ceased to exist. I had taken my Baedeker with me and without it I could not have identified some of the ruins, even though I have been to Cologne a dozen times in the past.

Big Bridge Damaged

The Altstadt's many famous churches, its Wallraff-Richartz Museum, its opera house and city hall, the famed Guerzenich concert hall are things of the past.

As yet the AMG has not taken over the government of the city. That will come only after firing has ceased. Incidentally, this unit had lots of experience in smaller German localities.

German resistance died rapidly during the day as American troops pressed the defenders back to the Rhine. Not one of the five bridges across the river was usable. Four were knocked out completely and the other, the colossal Hohenzollern bridge, was so badly damaged that it cannot be made serviceable at present.

Artillery Ignores Cologne

During the day American artillery sent shells screaming across the river into Deutz, on the other side, but ignored Cologne, whose fate the artillery considered already sealed.

How many of Cologne's 768,400 inhabitants remain is impossible to estimate as yet. In fact it is impossible now to say who are civilians and who are soldiers, for many persons say soldiers have donned civilian clothes.

It will be one of the early tasks of the AMG to register all persons found in the city.

Inhabitants with whom I have talked say life has been hell for months. The city has been under incessant air attacks. Streetcars, electric and telephone service, water from faucets—these have been nothing more than memories here for five months. Everyone had to walk whatever the destination—no small matter in a city of such size. All had to carry water from pumps.

'Die Deutschen'

But that wasn't the worst part. The constant bombing wore the nerves of the remaining inhabitants to a frazzle. Their first reaction to the American entry was one of relief, because it meant the end of strafing and fighting and shelling was in sight.

"Thank God," was the usual expression from everyone. Curiously enough, in discussing the damage done by their own troops, they never said "our forces," but always "die Deutschen" (the Germans), as though talking of some foreign power.

German Civilians Display Little Enmity To Yanks

By Harold V. Boyle

Neuss, Germany, March 3 (AP—Delayed)—If this factory town of 60,000 persons can be taken as a test case, there will be little trouble from guerrilla warfare by civilians as Allied armies march through Germany to victory.

During the three days of fighting to clear this suburb of Duesseldorf on the western bank of the Rhine, there has been a minimum of disorder or open enmity on the part of the civilian population.

Civilians Obey Readily

In the few cases where civilian Germans did take arms against American soldiers, the frontline doughboys took care of them ruthlessly on a basic level—self-defense. And they don't have time to question anyone who fires at them.

The civic uprising against the Allied forecast and ordered by Hitler failed to develop. Most Germans are enthusiatically anxious not to offend the American Army. They give road directions willingly and co-operate quickly by obeying commands. They are used to being ordered and respect power, even that of a foreign army.

The Army may have trouble enforcing its strict non-fraternization rule as more and more troops go deeper and deeper into the Reich.

It is forbidden to hand out candy and sweets to civilians, but German kids have learned through some international channel of childhood of the American doughboys' greatest secret weapon—chewing gum. Flaxen-haired sons and daughters of the sons of der Führer are going overboard for the free and easy Yanks, as do children of all nations. They are already waving at passing troops with that watchful smile and "handout" look all candy-hungry children have in their eyes.

Set Up Own Rules

Until military government units take over and complete policing arrangements, combat troops have put into effect their own stern code to deal with civilians tempted to take potshots at American soldiers.

"If we are fired upon from a house, everyone in the house is arrested at once," said Lieut. Col. Tim O'Cook Snyder. "We put the responsibility for good behavior squarely on the German people. If they fail to produce anyone who fires at us we will evacuate every person living in that block."

Captives Predict Drawn-Out Ending

With U.S. 90th Division in Germany, March 6 (AP)—Prisoners captured by the 90th Infantry today said they believed an Allied crossing of the Rhine would not signal the end of the European war and that the German Army would be defeated only when it was strangled to death.

The prisoners, both Nazis and nonparty members, admitted their cause was doomed, however.

A 33-year-old law graduate of Leipzig University said: "There is no other way than to fight. We missed our chance last July when Hitler escaped assassination. From that point on, the party has taken great pains to nazify the army at every point, at every critical position.

Himmler Before Goebbels

"Goebbels's propaganda now is secondary to Himmler's hatchet methods.

"A minority of the people and the soldiers live in a world of hope grounded on Hitler's initial successes," he said, "but 80 per cent of the army know the war is lost and that only political life lies at stake."

A 28-year-old sergeant said the Wehrmacht no longer has organization or leadership since the days when the plot against Hitler failed and so many lost their heads.

NAZI TOPS VOTE IN ONE OF 19 AACHEN BALLOTS

AACHEN, Germany, March 6 (AP)—Under the Allied Military Government, this city—which once had a population of 165,000, but now numbers less than 14,000—is picking up the threads of democracy.

Nineteen meetings have been held by community committeemen from the rural areas around Aachen to discuss common problems, to fill out the farm work sheets that are the main instruments for production control and to elect delegates. Some 400 German farmers attended these meetings, electing delegates to the next largest unit, the Kreis, by secret ballot.

Only in one case did the AMG intervene, when a man with a Nazi past emerged as the best vote-getter. The farmers were told, through their own organization, that the Nazi would not be approved by the American authorities. Thereupon another secret ballot was taken, with a satisfactory result.

Recently the Aachen AMG area was placed under two responsible Allied officials with offices in the same building. Maj. Hugh Jones of Madison, Wis., was placed in charge of the bomb-blasted city. The surrounding ravaged farm area came under the jurisdiction of Maj. Russel Vincent of Seattle. They work in close cooperation.

ROME MOB RIOTS AT ROYAL PALACE

Left Wing Tells Bonomi To Quit Over Roatta Escape

Rome, March 6 (AP)—A Communist demonstrator was slain in a riot before the Royal Palace today and Premier Ivanhoe Bonomi's resignation was demanded by a coalition of Left-Wing parties as the escape of Gen. Mario Roatta during his trial for war crimes threw liberated Italy into its gravest political crisis since the Allied invasion.

The demand for the Premier's resignation was presented by a group composed of Communists, Socialists, Actionists, Republicans, Partisans and Veterans.

Can't Abandon Post

Bonomi announced in a communiqué tonight that he would present the question of his resignation to the Cabinet which he has called to meet tomorrow and let it decide whether he should remain at the head of the Government.

"As a member of a coalition government, I could never abandon my post," he said.

The communiqué claimed that the Carabinieri who dispersed the demonstrators did not fire at the crowd, but into the air.

The slain demonstrator was identified as Guiseppe Lastagna Mancini, a member of the Communist party, by the membership card in his pocket.

"Death To The King"

Three other persons, two Allied soldiers standing nearby and an Italian "police agent" were wounded when police fired on the crowd attempting to burst into the royal palace and shouting "Death to the King."

Bombs, apparently thrown by those in the crowd, burst in the square.

Crown Prince Umberto, Lieutenant General of the Realm since his father, King Vittorio Emanuele, relinquished his rights, was in the palace during the riot, but he did not appear while the Carabinieri drove off the crowd, estimated at 1,000 persons.

The King has not lived in Rome since the Italian armistice, having retired to a villa at Salerno.

The demonstration was the direct result of a mass meeting staged in Colosseum Square against the Bonomi government as a result of Roatta's escape.

Approximately 10,000 had gathered at this meeting and were exhorted by speakers, including a one-legged Partisan fighter, to storm the palace. The resulting disturbance lasted about an hour and a half.

The First Stone

While the demonstrators marched on the palace a mile away, others gathered in front of the Viminale—the President's palace—where red flags were hoisted.

The marchers remained relatively calm when they first reached the Carabinieri-surrounded palace, but suddenly one of the demonstrators hurled a stone at a mounted trooper. This was followed by a barrage of stones and sticks. Even the red banners and staffs were hurled at the officers.

The Carabinieri did not attempt to oppose the crowd with fire.

Just as reinforcements for the Carabinieri arrived, a bomb exploded in the midst of the crowd, followed by a burst of small arms fire. The crowd surged toward the palace gate, but was held back by foot Carabinieri who formed a human block at the entrance.

Body Draped

A few minutes after a second bomb exploded, American and British military police arrived on the scene and began to patrol the area. It was emphasized that the MP's were there only to see that no Allied soldiers loitered around the area.

The demonstrators carried the body of the slain man to the Viminale and, breaking through a cordon of Carabinieri, placed it in the waiting room. They then lighted candles and draped flags around the body.

The escape Sunday of Roatta, former chief of staff of the Italian Army during Mussolini's regime, and today's bloody outbreak plunged the Bonomi government into a political crisis which may topple it.

Apparently in a move to combat the political tension, the Government announced the dismissal of Taddeo Orlando as chief of the Carabinieri. Orlando formerly was an army general on Roatta's staff and like Roatta is wanted in Yugoslavia on charges of war crimes. The Communist party has demanded his ouster.

The announcement of the dismissal of Orlando came as the Socialists, Communists and other opposition groups staged the mass protest meeting at the Colosseum. Activity was suspended in all but the most essential industries as the workers attended the gathering.

The Government, in announcing the removal of Orlando, said "chiefs are to be considered responsible for what their subordinates do," suggesting that the police guarding Roatta at the time of his escape was implicated.

Surveillance Incomplete

The Government announced that the Uffizio Informazioni (formerly known as the SIM, the secret intelligence agency of the army) would be placed under the direct responsibility of the Minister of War. Under fascism, the SIM acquired a political tinge. The announcement said the new action was designed to "make of it an instrument exclusively military in character."

The Government also announced that still other measures were to be taken "in order to intensify the fight against the remains of fascism."

The Government said that an investigation into the escape of General Roatta Sunday had established that his removal to a hospital had been taken under competent judicial authority, but that "correct surveillance on the part of the Carabinieri was not carried out."

Count Carlo Sforza, who was vetoed by the British as Foreign Minister in the Bonomi government, is expected to make a strong bid for the premiership in event the present regime is forced to capitulate to the demands of the opposition.

Rome Reds Riot At Palace; 1 Is Killed, 2 Hurt

Rome, March 6 (AP)—A civilian was killed, another was injured and a British soldier was wounded when Romans, waving red flags, attempted to attack the royal palace today while Crown Prince Umberto was inside.

Two bombs were thrown and shots were fired in the clash between mounted carabinieri and the crowd near the entrance to Quirinal Palace in the midst of an Italian political crisis generated by the escape of an Italian general accused of war crimes.

Umberto Fails To Appear

Umberto, who as lieutenant general of the realm has taken over the duties of King Vittorio Emanuele, failed to appear during or after the disturbance, in which the demonstrators shouted "Death to the King!"

The crowd, thousands strong, marched to the Quirinal from Colosseum Square after a mass meeting there protesting the escape of Gen. Mario Roatta, twice chief of the Italian general staff under Fascism, from a military hospital Sunday during his trial on war-crime charges.

May Land Sforza in Power.

Hours before the disturbance at the Quirial it had become obvious today that Roatta's escape from a military hospital on Sunday—he had twice been Chief of the Italian General Staff under Mussolini—had produced a crisis in Italy and speculation was that that crisis might result in the overthrow of the government of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi and thus open the premiership to Count Carlo Sforza. Sforza was vetoed by the British for the post of Foreign Minister in the Bonomi Cabinet a few weeks ago, but another veto is made less likely by the fact that the new Allied program for Italy involves Allied control over none but the Ministries of War, Air and the Navy.

Tension gripped the city as the Leftist groups demanded a reorganization of the Government. Columns of Carabinieri patroled the streets, and guarded Government buildings and the Royal Palace. Work was suspended in all but most essential industries for the demonstration in the Colosseum Square.

Troopers Fire Into Crowd.

Later, as the marchers surged up to the Quirinal Palace, a bomb exploded and the Carabinieri fired into the crowd.

A truck and two jeeps loaded with Americans and British military police arrived on the scene to insure that no Allied soldiers became involved, and just as swarms of Italian policemen started dismounting from motor buses and motorcycles, a second bomb exploded in the midst of the crowd near the palace entrance. This explosion was followed by rapid small-arms fire that caused the crowds fringing the demonstration to dash madly out of the palace square, crouching low and falling over one another in their haste to flee.

In an urgent measure evidently designed to combat the political crisis, the Government announced the dismissal from his post of Gen. Taddeo Orlando, Carabinieri chief and formerly an army general on Roatta's staff. Like Roatta, Orlando is wanted in Yugoslavia to stand trial on charges of war crimes, and the Communist party had earlier today demanded his ouster.

In the event of the Bonomi government's fall, Sforza was expected to be supported for Premier by the Actionists and possibly by the Communists and Socialists. It was considered significant that he announced yesterday that he would not accept the ambassadorship to France.

Today, in an article in the Giornale del Mattino, Sforza said that Roatta's flight was "a political event which can be pregnant with consequences if we do not look reality in the face." As former High Commissioner for Sanctions Against Fascism, Sforza had approved Roatta's arrest, and he said in his article that he had received many obscure threats while the case was being investigated.

AP CORRESPONDENT CAPTURED BY NAZIS

ROME, March 6. — (AP) Joseph Morton, Associated Press war correspondent who wrote the first eyewitness account of the Russian entry into Bucharest and obtained King Mihai's own story of Romania's abandonment of the Axis, was captured by the Germans last Dec. 26 and has been unofficially reported in a German prisoner of war camp.

Though no word of Morton's capture has yet come through official channels, a British officer who returned from a mission in enemy territory told officials at Allied Headquarters in the Mediterranean that he saw the Germans seize Morton and several Allied officers.

The correspondent flew into enemy territory in a bomber sent to evacuate American airmen who had been shot down. When the airmen were flown out he stayed behind, intending to return to Italy on a later flight. Subsequent flights were impossible.

The British officer told U. S. Air Force officials that he saw enemy troops seize several men wearing American army uniforms. He was hiding nearby and said he was absolutely certain that Morton was one of the men. They seemed in good physical condition, though some had suffered minor frostbite in the mountains, the British officer declared.

Later he learned that Morton has been taken to a German prison camp, the officer said.

Morton, 32, had several spectacular beats to his credit when capture interrupted a correspondent's career that commenced in the Summer of 1942 when he landed in Liberia with American troops on a secret operation. Five months elapsed before he was permitted to send the first stories.

Later he became the first correspondent to reach Dakar after the capitulation of French West Africa. He rode an American bomber in the first Allied raid on Rome.

Brenner Pass Tracks Blocked

ROME, March 6 (AP).—The entire 125-mile Brenner Pass rail line from southern Germany into Italy has been closed for a month, the Allied Tactical Air Force announced today.

Flying 2,500 sorties and dropping 2,500 tons of bombs on Brenner Pass targets during the last month, the Tactical Air Force has kept the vital route blocked against the movement of supplies into Italy or the withdrawal of German forces from the Italian front, the announcement said.

AMERICANS SEIZE 2 ITALIAN HILLS

ROME, March 6—(AP) Driving up to a half mile northward through the Apennines on both sides of the Pistoia-Bologna highway, U. S. Fifth army troops have seized two important hills and occupied the hamlet of Bisopra, 13 miles southwest of Bologna, Allied headquarters said today.

The two heights, designated Hill 375 and Hill 374, rise 1,250 feet and with the hamlet make up a line dominating the area between the vital Pistoia-Bologna highway and the alternate Florence-Bologna road.

The same troops drove on Hill 481 slightly eastward, but were forced to withdraw to the foot of the peak after suffering casualties in dense minefields and booby traps.

American troops of the 10th division and Brazilian forces improved their positions west of Highway 64.

Observers reported stepped up activity in the German rear areas, particularly traffic in both directions along the Po valley highway leading to Bologna.

On the eastern end of the Italian front Eighth army patrols probed the spit of land separating the Valli di Comacchio lagoon from the Adriatic. Italian troops attached to the Eighth cleared most of the Germans from this area over the weekend.

German patrol activity increased in the area southeast of Fusignano and on the east bank of the Senio river north of Cotignola.

Allied tactical air force planes stabbed at enemy communications in northeast Italy, Austria and Yugoslavia yesterday. RAF heavy bombers attacked freight yards at Graz, in southern Austria, last night.

Flynn May Visit Pope

Taylor Declines to Confirm Report, but Hopes It Is True

ROME, March 6 (AP).—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's representative in Vatican City, declined today to confirm a report that Edward J. Flynn, of New York, former national Democratic chairman, would visit Pope Pius XII on his way home from Moscow. "I can only say that I hope so," Taylor commented.

Flynn, who made an appearance at Yalta during the Big Three conference, has talked with high dignitaries of the Russian Orthodox Church while in Moscow.

Yanks Take Hamlet Near Bologna

Rome, March 6 (AP) — United States 5th Army forces have captured the hamlet of Bisopra, 13 miles southwest of Bologna, after scoring advances of 400 to 800 yards in a drive up both sides of the Pistcia-Bologna highway, Allied Headquarters announced today.

With the town, two 1,250-foot heights designated as Hill 375 and Hill 476 make up a line dominating the area between the Bologna-Pistoia highway and the alternate Florence-Bologna road to the east.

West of Highway 64, where the United States 10th Mountain Division opened a strong attack two weeks ago, American and Brazilian troops made some progress through rugged terrain.

Eighth Army patrols probed the spit of land separating the Valli di Comacchio lagoon from the Adriatic. Italian troops cleared all the Germans out of the coastal woodlands in this area in a week-end attack.

Patrols reported German fire across the Po di Primaro, a stream which is the continuation of the Reno River in this coastal sector.

Allied flyers reported considerable movement in the German rear areas, including much traffic in both directions along the Po Valley highway leading to Bologna.

Tactical Air Force planes blew up an enemy ammunition dump on the 8th Army front. Allied aircraft stabbed at communications in northeast Italy, Austria and Yugoslavia. British heavy bombers attacked freight yards at Graz, in southern Austria, last night.

SAYS NAZIS SET UP VAST UNDERGROUND

Moscow, March 6 (A. P.).—Col.-Gen. Vasily Ulrich, president of the Supreme Military Tribunal, warned the Red Army today that Heinrich Himmler was organizing vast underground resistance forces in Germany and called for redoubled vigilance against Nazi spies and terrorists.

"Inside Germany there is no difference between our front and rear posts," he declared in the Red Star. "Every post is a battle post and subject to enemy attack. Thousands of Germans have been supplied with false documents. Supplies of arms are being hidden as well as printing presses and radio communications. Himmler is seeking to continue the Nazi party underground."

He warned Russian soldiers against indiscreet conversations with "Germans who, to escape punishment, pretend with extreme humiliation, to flatter you and say Hitler is kaput."

Ulrich said that German agents, especially in Romania, frequently disguised themselves in Red Army uniforms and tried to compromise the Red Army in foreign eyes by organizing raids on Romanian citizens and their homes. He warned also against "White emigres from Russia who are enemies of the Soviet Union."

Turkish Envoy Coming to U.S.

ANKARA, March 6 (AP).—Huseyin Ragip, Turkish Ambassador to the United States, will depart Thursday by special plane for Cairo, where it is expected he will proceed to the United States by boat. Ragip was recalled late last summer as Turkey's Ambassador to Russia.

JERUSALEM, March 6 (AP)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, about to leave for London en route to the San Francisco Conference, lamented last night that the "Jewish nation" was not found qualified for an invitation to the United Nations parley. He said the "nation" had given 30,000 volunteers to the struggle and that there were a 1,000,000 Jewish soldiers in Allied army ranks.

"I hope, before the San Francisco Conference, our position will be cleared," he said.

EAM SCORES GOVERNMENT

Greek Leftists Charge Regime With Illegal Acts

ATHENS, March 6 (AP)—The Eam's central committee protested today to the Regent, Archbishop Damaskinos, and to the Ambassadors of the United States, Britain and France that "disorderly scenes and acts of violence continue" despite assurances given by the Government.

The committee made six specific complaints: (1) Obstacles have been placed in the way of the circulation of the Eam's newspapers. (2) Arrests are being made without warrants. (3) Government officials are collaborating with the extreme right in ridiculing the demobolized Ela troops. (4) Arrests and acts of violence are continuing in the provinces. (5) Former security battalion members have been incorporated into the National Guard and police forces. (6) Thousand of Elas hostages are still being held at Corfu.

Manila Faces 15-Year Period Of Rebuilding

2,000-Block Area Ruined; Destruction Said to Top Cherbourg's or Naples's

MANILA, March 6 (AP).—Military and civilian engineers estimated today that it will be more than fifteen years before Manila can hope to be the city she was before the battle. Some scars may never disappear.

George E. Koster, veteran building engineer who constructed many of the city's famous structures, estimated the rebuilding time at from ten to fifteen years, depending on how much building material can be brought in before the war ends.

He said about 2,000 square blocks of Manila are utterly destroyed, along with bridges, the waterfront, power system and much of the street railway.

Koster, basing his figures on "an extremely sketchy survey," estimated the loss from fire, demolition and shelling at a billion and a half pesos, or $750,000,000. Some Army engineers have estimated the loss as high as two and a half billion pesos.

Colonel S. E. Liles jr., of Norfolk, Va., American heavy-construction man, now with the Army Engineers, said it is still impossible to determine the loss to power, street railway and water systems.

Manila's two big transformer stations were destroyed along with a stand-by power plant. The power plants themselves are fifty miles from Manila in Japanese held territory. The damage to them is not known. Pier 7, along the bay waterfront, can be rebuilt, but at great cost.

Destruction of bridges alone, Liles said, would run into, "I should think, around $20,000,000."

"I think the effectiveness and vastness of destruction here exceeds that at Cherbourg or Naples," he said."

Jap Troops On Luzon Shelled By Their Own Rockets

Manila, March 6 (AP)—Japanese troops on the Shimbu front were shelled by their own rockets today, but it took the ingenious efforts of Capt. W. E. Winterstein, of Fillmore, Cal., to make it possible.

During the last few days the 1st Cavalry and 6th Divisions captured many thousands of rounds of big-caliber Japanese rocket ammunition. But they didn't get hold of any usable Japanese rocket guns.

Winterstein built one and started firing Japanese rockets at the enemy.

The Nipponese used rockets ranging in size up to 18 inches more extensively on Luzon than any previous campaign in the Southwest Pacific. They lack the range of artillery or howitzers, but can be easily transported into the hills.

Great Accuracy

The Nipponese have developed great accuracy, once dropping fifteen rounds in a 50-yard area.

Too, modern rockets have a close-to-the-ground dispersal. One exploded 50 feet from a jeep. The jeep was peppered with fragments, but wasn't hit higher than 3 feet.

Luzon, Leyte Jap Dead: 225,000

Manila, March 6 (AP)—Destruction of six of the ten Japanese divisions on Luzon Island was announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who said the remaining enemy troops, effectively bottled up in the mountains, were under continuous attack and "their position is critical."

Six Japanese divisions could number close to 100,000 men.

More than 125,000 Japanese have been killed on bloody Leyte Island, south of Luzon, making a total for these two islands alone of 225,000 dead Nipponese troops, including some of the empire's best.

Gains On All Fronts

MacArthur, reporting gains on all Luzon fronts and effective air strikes against Formosa and China coast shipping, said that on Luzon "the equivalent of six divisions, with supporting elements, have been destroyed, together with the main supply depots."

Supplies destroyed or captured included great quantities of munitions, trucks, guns, food and clothing.

Twenty-fifth Division Yanks pushing into the Caraballo Mountains won more of the Balete Pass road leading to the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon, while the 38th and 43d Divisions near the west coast drove through the Zambales Mountains in an enveloping move against enemy positions.

In Watershed Area

Northeast of Manila the 6th Infantry and 1st Cavalry divisions were slowly overcoming strong defense positions along the Antipolo-Wawa line on the Marikana watershed.

American bombers were active on all fronts. Jolo Island in the Sulu Archipelago was raided heavily for the first time. Northern Borneo airdromes were hit with 60 tons.

A strong formation of Liberators attacked shipping and rail facilities on Formosa. Patrol bombers ranging Japanese shipping lanes in the China Sea sank three freighters.

LUZON FORCES REGROUPING

U.S. Bombers Busy As Troops Prepare Final Campaign

M. DANIEL

Manila, Wednesday, March 7 (AP). American forces in all sectors "are regrouping for the final phases of the Luzon campaign," Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today in announcing only limited activity against the estimated four Japanese divisions still on the island.

In the air war, however, American bombers were busy.

They sank a 6,000-ton freighter-transport off Formosa and left a destroyer escort in flames. They sank a small freighter and damaged another southeast of Shanghai, and sent four small vessels to the bottom east of Hong Kong.

Airdromes Bombed

Airdromes on Mindanao, southernmost of the Philippines, were heavily bombed.

Naval partol torpedo boats sank a coastal vessel loaded with "escaping" enemy troops off the west coast of Luzon.

The critical position of the Japanese was emphasized by General MacArthur in his Tuesday communiqué.

What remains of the formidable army Japan had on the island when American forces hit it through Lingayen Gulf last January 9 has been split into eight segments. These are being forced into ever-narrowing sectors by persistent Yank troops.

Six Divisions Destroyed

MacArthur's disclosure that six divisions of Japanese—probably between 90,000 and 100,000 men—have been destroyed together with their supporting elements and main supply depots underscores the disaster the Japanese Army has suffered. Originally the invaders were estimated to have had ten divisions on the island.

The Japanese who survived the dash of Americans down the central Luzon plains to Manila and the guerrilla victory in Ilocos Norte province on the northwest tip of the island are being hammered from the air. Their only possible avenues of escape by sea to Formosa or China are under the eyes of American naval units and flyers.

Backed Into Mountains

The main Japanese forces still on northern Luzon have been backed into the Benguet Mountains on the west and the Cagayan Valley and Sierra Madre Mountains on the east. Between the Benguets and the Sierras the rugged country is roadless and part of it is infested by fierce Kalinga headhunters.

Other Japanese segments are in the Sierras of east central Luzon, in southern Tayabas province, on the Bicol peninsula, in the rough volcanic areas of southern Laguna and Batangas provinces, and in the Zambles Mountains.

American forces are driving into most of these regions and have threatened the position in the Bicol peninsula by invading two islands just off the west coast.

THREE YANKS LIVE TO TELL THIS TALE

Manila, March 6 (A. P.).—An officer and three enlisted men say this happened in the Eleventh Airborne Division sector on Luzon:

Sergt. Thomas Thompson of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., saw a shadowy figure approaching his foxhole, shouted a challenge and in reply drew a wild shot from a Japanese rifle. Thompson aimed and pulled the trigger, but his rifle failed.

Pfc. Donald Otten of Sheboygan, Wis., aimed and pulled the trigger, and his rifle also failed.

Pfc. Eugene Wold of Duluth aimed and pulled the trigger—and his rifle failed.

At this point the Japanese threw a grenade into the foxhole where all three Americans crouched. The grenade failed to explode.

ALLIES ISOLATE MANDALAY JAPS

Calcutta, March 6 (A. P.).—The bulk of the Jap troops remaining in Burma were placed in increasing peril today by British armored and airborne forces which had virtually isolated Mandalay from Rangoon.

Aided by airborne infantry, armored units cut across the Irrawaddy River valley in an eighty-five-mile dash, severing the main enemy land, air and water links between the two cities.

Breaking out of the Pakokku bridgehead on the east bank of the Irrawaddy seventy miles southwest of Mandalay on February 23, the British armored column captured Meiktila. Heavy fighting continues. The airborne infantry helped seize eight airdromes intact. More than 1,600 Japs were killed.

CHINESE SURROUNDING FORMER BIG AIR BASE

MOOSA

CHUNGKING, China, March 6 (AP)—The Chinese High Command announced tonight that several columns of Chinese troops were attacking Suichwan, but field reports said soldiers virtually had surrounded the Kiangsi Province city where the United States Fourteenth Air Force once had one of its biggest advance bases.

The High Command reported also that Chinese troops four days ago had entered the suburbs of Yuhsien, a Japanese strong point forty-five miles northeast of Hengyang. This drive, the Command said, was launched from recently captured Chaling, sixty miles east of Hengyang.

NIGHT

Chinese Almost Surround Suichwan

Chungking, March 6 (AP)—Chinese forces from the north have almost surrounded Suichwan, Kiangsi province city midway between Hongkong and Hankow, where one of the biggest advance United States air bases in eastern China formerly was situated, Chinese field dispatches said today.

The Chinese said they had cut the highway between Suichwan and Kanhsien.

Independent reports suggested that the Japanese, having completed their drive east of the Canton-Hankow railway, eliminating three United States air bases in Kiangsi, were retiring. It was believed that all these bases might soon be retaken.

6 Bridges Destroyed In Jap-Held China

Chungking, March 6 (AP)—Medium bombers of the United States 14th Air Force destroyed six railroad bridges and damaged another in far-ranging attacks yesterday on Japanese communication lines along the coast of French Indo-China, an American communiqué said today.

In a surprise attack on the Touraine airdrome southeast of Hanoi, Lightning fighters destroyed two enemy transport planes, five bombers and three fighters on the ground.

Two Generals Lost In Crash

Canberra, Australia, March 6 (AP). Two of Australia's best known officers, Maj. Gen. R. M. Downes and Maj. Gen. G. A. Vasey, are believed to have been killed in an airplane crash off Queensland, Prime Minister John Curtin announced today.

Australian Air Force personnel aboard the plane were also reported lost.

Australian Slayer of 2 Americans Ordered Held Indefinitely

BRISBANE, Australia, March 6 (AP).—Frederick William Everest, discharged Australian soldier charged with killing two Americans, was found to be mentally sick by a jury today and ordered held in custody indefinitely.

Everest was charged with the murder of Army Lieutenant Allen C. Middleton, and Navy Chief Petty Officer John D. McCollum, whom he met accidentaly at different times and shot.

Doctors testified Everest suffered from the delusion that Amercians were trying to poison him.

British Fleet Stirs Speculation

Australian Observers Ask if It Will Be Used in Japanese Home Waters.

[The following story on prospective action of the British fleet in the Pacific was written for the Associated Press by Richard Greenlees, longtime staff member of the Melbourne Sun.]

Melbourne, March 6 (A. P.).—Will the British Pacific Fleet ever sail into Japanese home waters, or into any waters where it will have an opportunity of meeting the Japanese fleet?

That question is being asked freely here today. Rightly or wrongly, observers interpret yesterday's statement by the Commander in Chief of the British fleet, Admiral Bruce Fraser, that "the British fleet is ready and waiting for action," as a gesture of his impatience at delay and possible frustration rather than an indication that plans for British action are being formulated.

There is an uneasy feeling that something happened either in Washington or at Malta which may affect the whole future of the British fleet in the Pacific and detract from its whole usefulness in this area.

Good Faith Not Questioned.

The good faith of United States Pacific Fleet Commander Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and of Gen. Douglas MacArthur is not questioned here. An admirals' agreement was reached cordially at a recent Pearl Harbor conference under which Admiral Fraser agreed to work under American command and to undertake tasks allotted him.

Similarly it is known that Admiral Fraser was impressed by his interview with Gen. MacArthur.

Admiral Nimitz placed at Admiral Fraser's disposal every facility for transforming the short-range British fleet into a long-range force capable of sailing into Japanese home waters. Admiral Fraser readily accepted American offers with expressions of gratitude which were published widely. He has inspected American bases which it was proposed he share with the American fleet and he currently is making arrangements for an increase in the strength of his carrier fleet.

Hint Political Angle.

That arrangements have gone so far does not suggest that the Pacific command is seeking to restrain British operations in the Pacific. Accordingly, critics are pointing to Washington, believing that Pacific political considerations are responsible for a sudden change in joint naval plans.

The recent visit of James V. Forrestal, United States Secretary of the Navy, to Admiral Nimitz at Guam may have had some bearing on the suspected new policy which would obviously be high policy, possibly discussed at Malta. Meanwhile, it is felt that the best the British can hope for is to participate in operations connected with retrieving Malaya and maybe Hongkong.

Today, the well-informed Melbourne Herald, in a carefully written editorial, after expressing gratitude and admiration for the brilliant work of the American Navy, said:

"But our satisfaction could not be complete until naval forces of the British Empire could be here to help in hastening destruction of the enemy. . . . The decision to send the British fleet here was accepted and welcomed by America, whose whole strategy in the Pacific has been based on establishment and bold use of overwhelming Allied sea and air supremacy."

MARINES LAUNCH BIG DRIVE ON IWO

Engage Enemy in 'Heavy Fighting, Planes Use Airfield.

WAITE

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Wednesday, March 7—(AP) Preceded by the most intense artillery bombardment of the Iwo campaign, three Marine divisions resumed the offensive on the north end of the tiny island Tuesday and engaged the Japanese in "heavy fighting." By 5:30 p. m. the Leathernecks had scored small local gains.

NIGHT

The Marines were supported for the first time by land-based Army fighter planes flying from the captured Motoyama airfield No. 1 on the south end of the island. These fighter planes thus began operating from a base which puts them within flying range of Tokyo, 750 miles to the north.

Gain on West Side

The gains were scored on the west side by Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth Marine division and near the center by Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates Fourth Marine division which is on the right flank of Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third.

By night fall, the Leathernecks still were approximately 600 yards from the northeast shoreline at the bulge which, if reached, would cut the thinning enemy garrison in two. The fourth has about 250 yards to go to reach volcanic cliffs from where the heavily defended beach extends for 350 yards.

The developments were announced in today's communique of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

The Marine offensive was aimed at winning the less than one third rocky north end of the island still in enemy hands. It broke a stalemate which had existed for two days.

Although the campaign is 17 days old and the Nipponese garrison, originally 20,000 strong, has been blasted constantly in a gradually constricting area, the foe's ability to fight back remains strong.

MAR 7 - 1945

The communique said the Japanese still are "offering very stiff resistance and subjecting our forces to a heavy volume of small arms and mortar fire."

Carrier planes of the U. S. Fifth fleet and warship guns supported the Tuesday drive throughout the day.

14,456 Japs Killed

The count of enemy dead totalled 14,456 up to 6 p.m. Monday. This was an increase of 1,592 over the previously announced figure for a period up to 6 p.m. last Saturday.

There has been no account from headquarters here of Marine casualties since the one covering the first three days of the campaign. That figure was 5,372, including 644 killed. Yesterday in Washington, Navy Secretary Forrestal said Marine dead since has increased to 2,050.

Today's communique reported air raids on the Bonin islands, north of Iwo, and on enemy bases in the Palau islands, the Western Carolines and the Marianas.

Prior to today's communique, the enemy radio said the Marines launched a "violent attack" Tuesday and that fighting had reached "a decisive stage."

A dispatch from Morrie Landsberg, AP war correspondent aboard Vice Adm. Richmond K. Turner's expeditionary force flagship, said the island was clogged with men and equipment for the showdown. Landing craft still disgorged food and materials of war while transport planes removed the wounded.

Secretary Forrestal disclosed on his return from a visit to Iwo that 2,050 Marines have been killed, adding the loss was not out of proportion to the importance of taking the island. It is needed to put American fighter planes and Liberator bombers within range of Japan.

Forrestal gave no figures for wounded and missing. The last official figure supplied by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz covered casualties for the first three days. The figures included 644 killed, 4,168 wounded and 560 missing, although some of the missing since have been located.

Japs Claim 20,000

Both Forrestal and Nimitz have given the incomplete count of Japanese dead found inside American lines at more than 12,500. Other enemy dead are known to be buried under smashed pillboxes. Still others are behind the Japanese lines, a dwindling area which has been shelled by 5th Fleet warships, pounded by Marine artillery and bombed by planes.

[An imperial Japanese headquarters communiqué issued today claimed Marines on Iwo had suffered "20,000 casualties."

[The Japanese communiqué, which claimed about 250 American tanks "were either stranded or set afire," was carried in a broadcast by Domei news agency and recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.]

Infiltrations Smashed

This morning's communiqué briefly summarized the ground situation:

"On the night of March 4-5, the enemy made a number of attempts to infiltrate our lines on Iwo Island and subjected the Marines to substantial small arms and artillery fire. All enemy efforts to move into our positions were broken up. No appreciable change was made in the lines of the opposing forces on March 5."

Possibly indicative of a momentary lull, the communiqué for the first time since the invasion opened February 19 made no reference to either carrier-plane attacks or warship shellfire at Iwo.

Stronger Than Expected

Secretary Forrestal praised the fighting of the three Marine divisions as "highly successful," but said the Japanese there were stronger than had been expected and had made good use of their weapons.

Forrestal's account of 2,050 Marines killed made Iwo from that standpoint the blodiest battlefield of the Pacific war. Marine dead in the comparative period on Saipan slightly exceeded 1,200. American dead on Guam for the full twenty days it took to end organized resistance totaled 1,214.

Fight For Iwo In Decisive Stage, Japanese Say

New York, March 6 (AP)—The Tokyo radio declared today that American Marines on Iwo Island "have launched a violent attack on Japanese lines and the fighting has reached a decisive stage." The broadcast was recorded by BBC, the Blue network said.

HAUGLAND

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 6 (AP)—The clincher blow in the savage 16-day-old battle for little Iwo, where more than 2,000 Marines have died while killing more than 12,000 Japanese, was poised today—grown in power by supplies pouring ashore on the east and west coasts.

There were no appreciable changes in the lines yesterday as the leathernecks, holding more than two-thirds of the 8-square-mile island, built up their positions for a grand-scale assault on the rocky defense-studded north end.

Iwo Invasion Is A Story Of Horror And Heroes

By James Lindsley

Iwo Jima [Via Navy Radio], March 6 (AP) — Iwo's beachhead—black, sandy, treacherous—was the toughest of them all.

The United States Marines took heavy casualties at Tarawa and the conquests of Roi, Namur, Saipan and Tinian were fighting jobs for a fighting service. But nowhere were the forces of nature and of the Japanese lined up as they were at Iwo Jima.

Tarawa? Yes, it was flat, exposed and highly fortified. But it was a 76-hour campaign. Iwo has already blazed with fury and death for sixteen days.

Men Joke On D-Day

I saw long lines of amphibious tanks moving in on the island that sunny morning of D-day, February 19, as the first wave of Marines made their assault on the forbidding coast.

Many of the men were laughing and joking as the tanks waddled past our control boat, standing offshore. Some waved and yelled, but the brisk wind whipped their words away. There was this thought: "How many of these men will be dead ten minutes from now?"

Then carnage broke loose on the beach itself. The sounds of war—the boom and crack of naval guns all around us—was unleashed in full fury. For a while the nightmare ashore was too great to absorb.

The sharpest memory is of boys, light-hearted and without pretense, going into the worst mission the Marines have ever been called upon to undertake.

The Japanese had hundreds of mortar and artillery pieces deeply entrenched on high ground covering every inch of the beach. They opened up just after the first assault elements charged ashore.

Navy guns had knocked out some enemy positions in the terrific shelling that hadn't ceased until five minutes before the actual landing. But hundreds more were still in action.

Wreckage Litters Shore

In a short time, the wreckage of landing boats, trucks, amphibious tractors and other equipment littered the shoreline.

Surviving crews were forced to take shelter with the Marines in shell and bomb craters until they had an opportunity to charge up the steep slope to the rim of the southern Motoyama airfield, which was the initial objective.

That goal was reached the first day. It took the Marines from "H" hour (9 A.M.) until nightfall to advance the 500 yards from the beach to the airfield.

Pinned Down On Beach

Just how grim the fighting was I learned first hand after going ashore with the 3d Battalion of the 23d Marines.

I was pinned down on the beach. A shell hole seemed the only place to be while the enemy poured the concentration of fire on us. There was no turning back.

Out of the jumble of impressions, several stand out sharply in retrospect. There was the heroism of Capt. John W. Thomason 3d, mild-mannered 4th Division public-relations officer and former Houston (Texas) Chronicle reporter, who rallied the medical corpsmen and helped carry out the wounded under fire.

Marine Can't Lift Canteen

There was the sight of the gravely wounded Marine in a crater five feet away, who laboriously removed the canteen from his belt but lacked the strength to lift it to his mouth.

There was the stupefying crash as a landing boat received a direct hit, tearing one crewman in two while another, standing only two or three feet away, apparently was unharmed.

There was the story of the Marine, with both feet gone, who politely replied to an inquiry from his sergeant just before he died: "I'm very sorry but I don't know."

On the lighter side, remains the memory of the unidentified Marine charging ashore and tearing off his lifebelt, while he declared in a southern drawl: "That thing's not going to save my life now, Mac."

Freed Nurses Want 'To Dish It Out'

Guam, March 6 (AP)—Primly erect in the gaunt cargo room of a naval airfield on Guam, thin, determined Lieut. Laura Cobb spoke for the fourteen nurses homeward bound after more than three years in Japanese internment camps on Luzon.

"I want to see the finish of this war," said Lieutenant Cobb. "Indeed I do. We've been on the receiving line too long."

"That's right. We want to dish it out for awhile," agreed Margaret Alice Nash, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. She added hastily, "We want to go home first and rest and eat again."

The group included eleven navy nurses, two civilians and one British civilian nurse, all of whom became prisoners of the Japanese at Santa Scholastica on Luzon Island in the Philippines in January of 1942. They were moved to Santo Tomas in Manila and then to Los Banos, from which they were freed dramatically last month by paratroopers, guerrillas and amphibian troops.

Aboard Admiral Mitscher's Flagship, March 4 [AP—Delayed]—Reconnaissance flights confirmed first reports that the Ota aircraft assembly plant near Tokyo was "more than 90 per cent destroyed or damaged" in the carrier-plane raids of February 16, 17 and 25, Admiral Marc A. Mitscher said today.

GEIGER

The Koizuma assembly plant was damaged almost as seriously, while the Tama, Musashino and Tachikawa engine plants were "heavily damaged."

The four plants produced or assembled a substantial amount of all Japanese engines and planes.

728 Planes Destroyed

During their battle cruise in Japanese waters, carrier pilots flew 5,266 sorties and destroyed 728 Japanese planes, while American losses totaled 75.

Admiral Mitscher also announced 8 enemy naval vessels, 21 coastal vessels, an ocean tug, 6 luggers and many small craft were sunk.

One medium-sized Japanese aircraft carrier was listed as probably sunk, although the pilots who bombed it in Yokohama Harbor said it turned over on its side.

Airfields Mauled

Seventy-one small warships and four 6,000-ton combat cargo ships were damaged, while airfields, weather and radio stations were badly mauled.

Damage In Tokyo Is Confirmed

San Francisco, March 6 (AP)—The Tokyo radio reported seven Superfortresses raided scattered targets on Japan's main island last night and early today, ranging from Tokyo to Shimonoseki, 500 miles southwest on the extreme southern tip of Honshu Island.

The broadcast, recorded here, said a single B-29 over the capital at 7 P.M. opened the sleep-disturbing sorties.

Admiral Says Japs Have Changed Pacific Tactics

By ROBERT GEIGER

Aboard Mitscher's Flagship, March 4 [AP—Delayed]—In the next six months anything can happen in the Pacific, said Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, commander of famed fast carrier Task Force 58, because the Japanese admirals have changed their tactics, still have a strong naval force and air force and the Japanese Army is scarcely touched.

Mitscher expressed these opinions today while we were returning from the second successful Tokyo carrier-plane strike February 25.

Not Sign Of Defeat

"It is true the enemy has not attacked us on this strike with the vigor he displayed in many other attacks he has made against this task force," Mitscher said.

"This does not mean that his navy and his air force have been defeated. He still has strong naval and air forces. But he has not used them against us this trip and that alone is evidence of a change in tactics.

"Naval strategists agree the Japanese fleet now could not overwhelm even a fraction of our ever-growing fleet. . . .

"I am not ready yet to say we can move at any time without fear of losses in Jap waters, but we'll give the Japs a good battle and that's what will end the war. . . .

May Be Hoarding Forces

"The enemy may be planning to hoard his planes and warships for an all-out banzai attack or he may be holding them for bargaining purposes at the peace conference.

"Added to that we mustn't forget that they have an army of highly trained land soldiers numbering millions that have scarcely been touched. They have boasted they can expend 10,000,000 men and that knowledge must temper any appraisal we can make of the present situation."

The war's change of pace as far as this task force is concerned, said the Admiral, goes back to the most dramatic night of the whole war in my estimation. . . ."

That was the night of February 21, 1944, when an American task force approached Saipan and Tinian for the first time.

"We had decided it was the time for the carrier forces of our fleet to make a stand against land-based planes of the enemy. The outcome of the war possibly could depend on that issue.

"As it turned out it was the greatest morale booster this force has ever had," he concluded.

Iwo Marines Get Time For Bathing, Haircuts

MAR 7 - 1945

By Morrie Landsberg

Aboard Admiral Turner's Flagship, Iwo Jima, March 5 [AP—Delayed]—Iwo, its gritty surface clogged with men and equipment, was comparatively quiet today.

Behind the lines landing craft disgorged food and materiel; transport planes landed and took off from the hard runway of southern Motoyama airfield with wounded fighters; scores of men removed soiled uniforms and bathed along the southern shoreline, and several barbers set up shops consisting of a box, shears, clippers and comb.

Guns Keep Booming

Artillery and naval guns boomed regularly and carrier planes strafed Japanese positions.

With the 3d Division in the center, the 4th on the right flank and the 5th on the left, the enemy has gradually been pushed back into a small sector at the northeast end of the island.

The Japanese defenders can surrender, which is doubtful; continue to fight back bitterly, as they have for the past fifteen days, or jump off the island into the Pacific Ocean.

American commanders consider the latter the most convenient way of winding up this bloody campaign, but they are ready for anything.

Cleanup work at Mount Suribachi shows how the Japanese can conceal themselves in caves long after the objective is taken. Between 150 and 250 enemy dead were found in a cave which the Marines blew up on the southwest coast at the base of Suribachi.

Water Shortage Discounted

Not too much emphasis was placed on the possibility that a Japanese shortage of water may have a vital effect on the windup of the campaign. The 3d Division captured a huge distillation plant capable of turning out 300,000 gallons of water daily. The entire vicinity was booby-trapped.

The Japanese are not fighting simply for water. As everyone here is aware, they are fighting for what they consider a piece of the homeland. There is still a battle ahead against the remnants of the garrison.

Joint British, U. S. Navy Blows Against Japs Seen Impractical

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The writer of the following, Charles McMurtry, spent two and a half years with the U. S. Pacific Fleet Command, including several months at sea aboard warships, as an Associated Press War Correspondent. He returned recently to the United States from Honolulu.)

By CHARLES M'MURTRY
(Associated Press War Correspondent)

Immediate joint offensive operations by the American and British Pacific fleets are not practicable, no matter how anxious their commanders may be to strike Japan together.

And their commanders, Adms. Chester W. Nimitz and Sir Bruce Fraser, reached an amicable agreement on joint operations at a Pearl Harbor conference a few weeks ago.

British Must Wait

It isn't as simple as that, however, to send the two fleets steaming at high speed to strike the Japanese homeland. So the British, and particularly the Australians, impatient that their warships have not shared the glory of raids on Tokyo, Yokohoma, the Ryukyu islands and Formosa, will have to wait weeks, perhaps months, before Nimitz is able to report that Allied rather than American forces blasted Japan's inner defenses from the sea.

There is this basic difference between the two fleets: American warships are constructed for high-speed offensive action; the British for defensive action at considerably slower speeds.

The mush-rooming U. S. Pacific fleet was designed for fast, smashing attacks against any objective over the vast Pacific ocean, whose waters envelop 40 per cent of the world's surface. Most U. S. warships in the Pacific are capable of making 30 knots; many travel faster.

The British fleet was constructed primarily for close-range defense of the British isles—engagements like the battle of Jutland in the last World war in which heavily armed and heavily armored—but slow—ships fought it out with their own guns. Many British warships reach their maximum efficiency at 12 to 15 knots.

Nimitz 3rd or 5th Pacific fleet alone is capable now—or very soon will be—of striking any objective with 2,000 carrier planes. The entire British fleet, dispersed around the world, probably could not put a fraction that many warplanes into the air.

Training and thinking of admirals in command of the Pacific fleets is basically in sharp contrast. Commanders such as Adm. William F. Halsey of the U. S. 3rd fleet and Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher of famous Carrier Task Force 58 have spent years studying theoretical operations which would take their forces at high speed far from their home bases.

British commanders, in contrast, have devoted their strategic studies to short range warfare at 10 to 15 knot speed.

Allied warships had two not too satisfactory joint operations when U. S. and British carriers teamed to bomb Sumatra and Soerabaja in the Dutch East Indies in April and May, 1944.

Results Excellent

Results were excellent. Tr[illegible] But the operations affirmed th[illegible] such basically contrasting warships can not operate with the perfect coordination required for a strike as bold as a bombing of strongly-defended Japan.

It may be coincidence—it may be eloquent silence—but the bald fact is that American and British warships have not teamed since in such a daring strike. The Japanese were totally surprised and thus caught off guard at both Sumatra and Soerabaja.

Carrier strikes against well-defended enemy bastions should be fast; catch the enemy by surprise. Retirement should be at high speed.

The Allied task force retirements from Sumatra and Soerabaja were slow—very slow judged by American naval standards. An alert, efficient Japanese air command should have inflicted damage on ships of that force.

British warships—older ones especially—have to be refueled oftener than American vessels, which carry oil for many days of cruising. It would take weeks, possibly months, to remodel British ships to increase their fuel storage capacity.

British and American ship parts are not interchangeable—not even bolts and screws so that each fleet would need complete replacements for all types of vessels readily available.

There are some other minor differences that could be worked out but the basic differences—fast, long range ships and slower, short range vessels — constitute a problem not quickly solved.

Delegates Agree On Content Of Statement On Argentina

Mexico City, March 6 (AP)—Delegates to the Inter-American Conference today reached informal agreement on what to say to Argentina, it was learned on high authority.

The statement, which is expected on Thursday, the last day of the conference, remains to be phased, however.

The main points will be:

1. Expression of regret at Argentina's absence from the Inter-American Conference.

2. Hope that Argentina will be able to put herself in a position to sign the Mexico City resolutions and rejoin the American system.

3. Hope that Argentina will be able to put herself in a position to join the United Nations, which means a declaration of war.

4. Provision for consultation among the twenty other republics to decide whether Argentine acts actually constitute a sincere change in position.

Speeches But Not Debate

Meanwhile, delegates were scheduled to meet in a plenary session this afternoon to give formal approval to fifteen resolutions, including the reorganization of the Pan-American Union and the Act of Chapultepec.

While there will be speeches at the full meeting, debate is unexpected. All the resolutions to come up have been approved by each delegation and passage is assured.

The postponement of the final session until Thursday is due more to difficulties in clearing the economic charter and a flood of minor resolutions than to any trouble on the Argentine question, it was learned.

The main difficulty at the moment, one official said, is to find phrasing that is equally satisfactory in Spanish and English translations.

Solid Front Continued

The agreement on general points of the Argentine statement indicates the solid front that has prevailed through most of this conference.

Some delegations, Cuba for example, are split among themselves, however. Each country has only one vote, so if some delegates decide to pop off, it is extremely unlikely to produce anything more than noise.

Those who worked out the Argentine formula, including Latin-Americans, expressed considerable satisfaction with the ideas included.

It will probably be presented to the conference steering committee by the chairman, the Mexican Foreign Minister, Ezequiel Padilla.

20 NATIONS FAVOR FREE PRESS PACT

Mexico City, March 6 (A. P.).—Twenty American republics, including the United States, today advocated full freedom of the press and radio, unhindered access to the sources of news and the abolition of peacetime censorship.

In a resolution adopted by a committee for final conference action, these nations proposed that all wartime press controls be lifted immediately after the war. They also recommended that press and radio dispatches in this hemisphere be treated with the same privacy and freedom as letters, telegrams and other means of communication.

VINSON GIVEN PROMPT VOTE

Senate Confirms Nomination To FLA Without Debate

Washington, March 6 (AP)—The Senate confirmed today President Roosevelt's nomination of Fred M. Vinson to be Federal Loan Administrator.

Acting with unusual speed, the chamber approved the appointment of the 55-year-old Kentuckian to head the $40,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation and allied agencies. The action was taken on a voice vote without a word of debate.

Vinson thus steps out as Economic Stabilization Director to assume authority which Congress stripped from the Commerce Department before the Senate confirmed the Cabinet nomination of Henry A. Wallace.

Committee Vote Unanimous

The Vinson appointment had been approved unanimously earlier in the day by the Senate Banking Committee.

Speculation on President Roosevelt's choice of a new Economic Stabilization Director to succeed Vinson centered on a top layer of Government officials, with Chester Bowles, Price Administrator, mentioned most persistently.

The OPA chief, said to be Vinson's choice to take over the stabilization post, was summoned to the White House twice today for conferences, reportedly with James F. Byrnes, War Mobilization Director.

Others Considered For Post

Officials said that in addition to Bowles, those who had been considered for the assignment include Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, special counsel to the President; Harold Smith, Director of the Budget; Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Donald M. Nelson, former War Production

Rosenman In England To Note Civilian Needs

Washington, March 6 (AP)—Samuel I. Rosenman, counsel to President Roosevelt, has arrived in London to finish a survey of civilian supply needs in Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, Norway and Denmark.

Rosenman left here February 9 but as soon as he reached London he was summoned to meet Mr. Roosevelt at Algiers and return with the Chief Executive to the United States.

On the way they drafted Mr. Roosevelt's report to Congress on the Crimea conference.

Rosenman's arrival in London was announced by the White House today.

MAR 7 - 1945

Board chairman and now special foreign economics adviser to Mr. Roosevelt, and William H. Davis, chairman of the War Labor Board. Others mentioned as in the running are Gov. Robert Kerr, of Oklahoma, the 1944 Democratic convention keynoter, and former Senator Guy M. Gillette, now chariman of the Surplus War Property Board.

Bowles told friends prior to going to the White House that he had not been asked to fill Vinson's place.

Desire To Stay With OPA

He has expressed a desire to continue as Price Administrator, but associates doubt he would decline the stabilization job if the President asked him to accept.

Bowles, in saying he would like to remain as OPA chief, has asserted the agency's greatest test will come in the reconversion period and he would like to see it through. However, some sources feel he would be in an even better position to guide economic policy as Stabilization Director. That post and the job of Price Administrator are interrelated and Bowles could still work closely with the OPA.

In confirming Vinson's nomination as Loan Administrator, the Senate committee acted without hearings. Chairman Wagner (D., N.Y.) said the nomination was approved enthusiastically.

Chiang Ponders Bid To San Francisco

Washington, March 6 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China is considering a proposal that he visit San Francisco at the opening of the United Nations conference April 25.

It was learned today this proposal has been advanced by Washington. Coupled with this information, however, was the statement that Chiang will probably decide against the trip.

Anxious To Make Trip

Chiang is reported to be anxious to visit this country because he feels that the United States is China's most reliable friend in the council of nations.

Also he has not seen President Roosevelt since their meeting at the time of the Big Three conference at Tehran in December, 1943. Many questions of common political interest have since arisen and Mr. Roosevelt plans to visit San Francisco during the conference.

Parley May Bar Visit

The big obstacle in the way of the Generalissimo's visit is reported to be a political conference that has been called for May 5 to complete some preliminary steps toward turning the Chinese Government back to the people.

Although a message went to Chiang yesterday, urging that he come to San Francisco, he is understood to feel that the May 5 meeting is of such great importance that he will probably consider it inadvisable to leave.

Chiang's relations with the United States during recent months have been close. American Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley and Maj. Gen. A. C. Wedemeyer, the American commander in China, have brought back reports of greatly increased cooperation between the Chungking Government and the American units in the area.

Navy Expands Program By 84 More Warships

Washington, March 6 (AP)—The Navy today announced expansion of its combat-ship construction program by 84 additional aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

The new program, ordered by Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the Navy and chief of naval operations, would be in addition to the 288 combatant vessels remaining on the construction program on February 1, 1945. It will total 636,860 tons.

Included in the extended program are large aircraft carriers, air craft carriers, escort aircraft carriers, heavy cruisers and light cruisers.

Assuming no losses in the interim, completion of the original and now extended program would give the Navy a total of 1,532 combatant ships by the end of 1947 representing a total tonnage of 6,485,823.

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, March 6 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today 1,741 United States soldiers held prisoners of war by Germany, 326, or almost one-fifth, being from New York State. Of the latter figure, 215 are from the New York metropolitan area.

In each of these cases, next of kin have been notified previously and have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status.

Senators Favor Veto Phase Of Security Plan

Washington, March 6 (AP)—Republican and Democratic senators said today the Big Three agreement on international voting procedure may help smooth the path to American participation in a world peacekeeping organization.

Most legislators apparently regarded as a practical—if not perfect—solution for a difficult problem the proposal giving any of the five biggest members of a projected world security organization the right to veto the use of force against an accused aggressor.

There was a tinge of disappointment in some quarters, but it was more than offset by prompt contentions that if the San Francisco conference accepts this agreement the chances of Senate approval will be brighter.

Considers Public Opinion

Senator George (D., Ga.), ranking Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he thinks the American people will be better satisfied about joining a world league if they know the United States must agree before its military forces can be ordered into action against any other country.

The Yalta solution requires concurrence by the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China and France—all permanent members—before the proposed international council can act on several matters. These include the use of force and agreements on arms limitations.

"Unless the permanent members of the council stick together, any international organization will collapse anyway," George said. "If one of the large nations—say, Russia, as an example—should refuse to apply force against an aggressor, the others could not proceed."

Ball Agrees With George

George's idea that the agreement would make the projected international organization more palatable to the Senate was seconded by Senator Ball (R., Minn.).

Senator Bushfield (R., S.D.), who has been critical in the past, said he intends soon to discuss the Dumbarton Oaks preliminary agreements "fully."

Senators Hill (D., Ala.) and Hatch (D., N.M.) said the Yalta agreement is acceptable to them, but there were indications that Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) might suggest some amendments when he goes to the San Francisco conference in April. He would not discuss these changes.

Vandenberg Has Plans

Vandenberg yesterday accepted Mr. Roosevelt's invitation to be a delegate with the statement that he will have "concrete proposals" to submit to his seven colleagues.

Vandenberg, who complained that the Dumbarton Oaks formula made only one brief mention of "justice" as the guiding objective of the proposed organization, wants written into the San Francisco charter a right of the projected council to review decisions made in the expediency of war if they later threaten future peace.

Ship Survives 53-Day Attack

Washington, March 6 (AP)—The United States merchant ship Cape Constance survived 53 days of attack by Japanese planes during the Leyte invasion—and shot down two of the raiders.

A War Shipping Administration report today said the attacks began as the Cape Constance approached the Philippines with its military supply cargo and continued daily and at night when moonlight permitted.

"Although damage was inflicted on the war freighter, none of the crew was seriously injured," WSA said. "A few days after the first attack, the Navy armed guard brought down the first enemy plane. On the same morning another plane was hit and it crashed, killing the pilot."

The vessel is a Maritime Commission C-1 type ship, built by the Wilmington (Cal.) yard of the Consolidated Steel Corporation and operated for WSA by the Grace Line, San Francisco.

Action Deferred On Aviation Pact

Washington, March 6 (A. P.).—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee postponed action today on the proposed Five Freedoms international agreement drawn up at the recent Chicago air conference. Acting Chairman George (D.-Ga.) said the committee discussed a proposed resolution which would call upon the State Department to suspend interim agreements with other nations pending Senate action on Agreement 2, setting up a permanent council to put technical standards into effect. State Department officials will be heard on the proposal Friday.

Mr. George said the resolution, which will be voted on later, would request the President to submit Agreement 2 as a treaty, if it meets with his approval. It also contemplates suspending further interim pacts on freedom of transit and other phases of the agreements pending Senate ratification.

Bid To France Declared Clear

Washington, March 6 (AP)—The State Department denied tonight that the French had been kept in the dark about some of the preliminaries to the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

The denial carried an implication of weariness over what officials here regard as a French technique of needling this and other Allied governments by means of press reports in Paris.

Until late today, the department had deliberately soft-pedaled discussion of the failure of the French to become one of the sponsoring powers for the conference. It had tried to minimize concern over why and how that failure came about, presumably trying to make a bad matter better by not talking about it.

Department Speaks Up

But today a different attitude prevailed, for the department, through its press section, answered this question:

"Reports from Paris indicate that the United States Government did not make clear to the provisional Government of the French Republic the basis upon which it was conducting with France the consultations in connection with the provisional Government's joining the other four governments in sponsoring the San Francisco conference. Will the department comment?"

The State Department said that Ambassador Jefferson Caffery presented to the French Government on February 12 the invitation which had been drawn up at the Big Three conference in the Crimea. Caffery told the French he was acting on behalf of the American, British and Soviet governments.

French Make Reservations

The French, the State Department said, pondered the problem for two weeks and then sent back a reply suggesting reservations in the wording of the invitation. If they were accepted, the French said, France would become a sponsor. Meanwhile China had joined the Big Three.

Therefore, according to the department's account, Caffery told the French it would be necessary for the United States to consult with the other sponsoring nations on the French reservations. Moreover, it was added, while the consultations were going on Caffery kept the French fully informed of their progress.

It is understood it was the Soviet Government, impatient with French protests on various points, which vetoed the French suggestions.

New Groza Cabinet In Romania Sworn In

New York, March 6 (AP)—The Romanian radio announced today that a new Cabinet had been formed and sworn in, with Dr. Petru Groza as Premier and Gheorghe Tatarescu as Deputy Premier and Minister of Internal Affairs. The FCC recorded the broadcast.

The new Cabinet was declared to have conferred at once with Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Commissar.

Groza was Deputy Premier in the Cabinet of Nicolae Radescu, which was forced to resign a week ago.

Tatarescu has been Premier of Romania twice, having been forced out in 1940 by a pro-Nazi group.

Tito Is Named to Form New United Government

Appointed After 3 Yugoslav Regents Are Sworn In

Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), leader of the Yugoslav Army of National Liberation, was given the task of forming a united Yugoslav government Monday soon after three new regents were sworn into office, the British radio said yesterday in a broadcast reported by the Federal Communications Commission.

Tito was named to form a new government after he and Dr. Ivan Subashitch, Premier of the Yugoslav government in London, had handed in the resignation of their respective Cabinets, the broadcast said, an agreement with King Peter II having provided for this step before the regents were chosen.

9th Son Of Woman, 49, Rejected For Draft

Lehighton, Pa., March 6 (AP)—The ninth son of Mrs. Russell McFarland today said he "flunked" a selective service physical examination in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., last week end.

"I don't know why," said 18-year-old Marcus K. Smith. He said a navy physician told him he had not passed, but that he was not to tell anyone until "Monday or Tuesday." Lehighton selective service officials said they were not allowed to reveal the reasons for rejection.

His 49-year-old mother has eight sons in the armed forces. She and several Lehighton residents sent a telegram to President Roosevelt requesting special consideration for Marcus.

Another son, Clinton, was reported missing in action and last week Mrs. McFarland heard that a third son, Melvin, has been injured.

Legion Post To Restore Jap-American GI Names

Indianapolis, March 6 (AP)—National headquarters of the American Legion announced today Hood River (Ore.) Post No. 22 had agreed to restore to its honor roll the names of fifteen Japanese-American service men which it voted to scratch out last December.

Originally, sixteen names were struck off, but since the Oregon post took its action December 2 one of the Japanese-Americans was dishonorably discharged from the Army and his name will not be restored.

Edward N. Scheiberling, national commander, ordered the names restored January 19, backed by the executive committee of the Oregon Department of the Legion.

Word of the Oregon post's decision to restore the names came in a telegram to Scheiberling from J. B. Edington, post commander.

TO PRESS JEWISH CLAIMS

Dr. Chaim Weizmann Will Be at Parley in San Francisco

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, plans to be in San Francisco at the time of the world security conference there next month to press Jewish demands, J. L. Teller, editor of the Independent Jewish Press Service, 207 Fourth Avenue, reported yesterday.

Mr. Teller said cable messages from Jerusalem indicated that Dr. Weizmann would be accompanied by David ben Gurion, chairman of the executive committee of the Jewish agency, and Eliezer Kaplan, its treasurer.

ADATED RUHR (275)

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

THE FABULOUSLY RICH RUHR AREA, WHICH ALLIED ARMIES ARE APPROACHING IF THEY HAVE NOT ALREADY INVADED, IS SLIGHTLY SMALLER THAN THE STATE OF DELAWARE BUT IN 1942 IT CRADLED 75 PER CENT OF ALL GERMAN WAR INDUSTRIES.

THE NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY DESCRIBES THE RUHR AREA AS ROUGHLY COMPRISING A TRIANGLE ANCHORED BY THE RHINE CITIES OF COLOGNE AND WESEL AND THE GREAT RAIL CENTER OF HAMM, 55 MILES EAST OF WESEL AND 233 MILES SOUTHWEST OF BERLIN.

THE RUHR BASIN HOWEVER SPILLS OVER WEST OF THE RHINE TO INCLUDE THE CITIES OF MUENCHEN GLADBACH AND KREFELD, NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SAYS.

THE RUHR IS DENSELY POPULATED. FIVE MILLION GERMANS LIVED THERE EVEN BEFORE HITLER STARTED HIS REARMAMENT PROGRAM. ITS INDUSTRIES ARE BASED LARGELY ON THE IMMENSE COAL DEPOSITS, ESTIMATED TO CONTAIN 90 PER CENT OF GERMANY'S RESERVES AND HALF OF CONTINENTAL EUROPE'S. THE COAL SUPPLY IS SAID TO BE SUFFICIENT FOR 500 YEARS AT THE RATE OF 100,000,000 TONS ANNUALLY.

BESIDES THE GREAT ARMAMENTS WORKS, THE RUHR IS PACKED WITH SMOKE-BLACKENED CITIES WHICH PRODUCE FINISHED STEEL, CHEMICALS, PIG IRON, TEXTILES, SYNTHETIC OIL, HIGH OCTANE GASOLINE, RAYON, DRUGS, PLASTICS, DYES, BRICKS, GLASS, POTTERY AND OTHER PRODUCTS. COAL HAS COME FROM RUHR COLLERIES FOR 641 YEARS.

SOME OF EUROPE'S AND GERMANY'S GREATEST CITIES ARE IN THE RUHR. THESE INCLUDE COLOGNE (768,000); ESSEN (659,871); DUESSELDORF (540,000); DORTMUND (537,000); DUISBURG (431,256); WUPPERTAL (398,099); GELSENKIRCHEN (313,003); BOCHUM (303,288); OBERHAUSEN (191,305); KREFELD (169,485); SOLINGEN (138,587); MULHEIM (136,805); MUENCHEN GLADBACH (127,000) AND REMSCHEID (103,437).

ALLIED ARMIES ARE WITHIN 70 MILES OF EVERY ONE OF THE CITIES. MUCH OF THE RUHR'S WESTERN FRINGE IS ALREADY IN ARTILLERY RANGE AND ALLIED GUNS ALREADY ARE LOBBING SHELLS INTO COLOGNE.

A GREAT PART OF THE RUHR INDUSTRIES HAVE BEEN DESTROYED OR CURTAILED BY FIVE YEARS OF BOMBING. CITIES SUCH AS ESSEN, HOME OF THE KRUPP WORKS, HAVE BEEN DEVASTATED.

ONE OF THE MOST UNUSUAL GROUP OF PRISONERS TAKEN IN THE BATTLE FOR NEUSS WAS A COMPANY SPECIALLY TRAINED TO FIGHT IN TANK TURRETS USED AS PILLBOXES AND STRONG POINTS. THESE BATTLE SPECIALISTS HAD BEEN THROWN INTO THE LINE TO FIGHT AS ORDINARY INFANTRY BECAUSE THE AMERICANS ARRIVED BEFORE THEIR TURRETS DID--AND THEY WERE PRETTY DISGRUNTLED ABOUT THE WHOLE AFFAIR.

MUENCHEN GLADBACH, MARCH 4-(BY RADIO--DELAYED)--THE HIGH-RAFTERED CEILINGS OF THE SCHLOSS RHEYDT, WHICH A FEW DAYS AGO ECHOED TO THE SIEG HEIL OF GERMAN STORM TROOPERS, LAST NIGHT RANG WITH THE TOASTS OF THE 29TH DIVISION AS THE BLUE AND GRAY'S 115TH INFANTRY CELEBRATED THEIR VICTORY IN THE CASTLE WHICH A GRATEFUL CITIZENRY PRESENTED ARCH-NAZI JOSEPH PAUL GOEBBELS.

AS MASSIVE LOGS BURNED IN THE HUGE MEDIEVAL FIREPLACE OVER WHICH THE LIGHT FLICKERED ABOUT A LIFE-SIZED PORTRAIT OF HITLER AND GLEAMED ON A NEWLY PAINTED "KAPUT" SIGN, THE OFFICERS OF THE REGIMENT AND THEIR GUESTS DINED AT A LONG TABLE, FORMALLY LAID WITH SHINING CHINA AND GLITTERING GOBLETS.

THE TOASTMASTER WAS LT.COL.ANTHONY MILLER (OF BALTIMORE), REGIMENTAL STAFF OFFICER.

THE DOUGHBOYS SERVED A MEAL THAT INCLUDED A FRUIT CUP, SOUTHERN STYLE HAM, APPLE PIE AND CONSTANTLY FLOWING WINE.

CAPTURED THURSDAY WHEN ADVANCE ELEMENTS OF THE 115TH FLANKED THE CITY FROM THE EAST, THE SCHLOSS RHEYDT FELL WITHOUT A SHOT BEING FIRED.

THE BASEMENT WAS LOADED WITH WINE AND LIQUOR AND THE LIBRARY UPSTAIRS INCLUDED A BOOK OF PHOTOGRAPHS OF NAZI MOVIE QUEENS WHO HAD VISITED THE CASTLE.

ON HAND TO GREET THE GUESTS WAS LT.COL.WILLIAM O.BLANDFORD OF WASHINGTON,D.C., REGIMENTAL COMMANDER. WHITE-COATED ENLISTED MEN SERVED CHAMPAGNE AND GIN IN GLEAMING GOBLETS MONOGRAMMED WITH GOEBBELS' INITIALS.

"MOST OF THE SNIPERS ARE CRAZY KIDS NO MORE THAN 18 OR 19 YEARS OLD WHO STILL ARE YOUNG ENOUGH TO THINK THERE'S SOME GLORY IN DYING FOR HITLER," SAID LT. JOHN A CRONIN, A MEDIC FROM 698 HUNTINGTON AVENUE, BOSTON, MASS. "THEY ARE CAUSING MOST OF OUR CASUALTIES NOW.

ONE GROUP OF 67 PRISONERS WAS VOCALLY BITTER AGAINST THE NAZI OFFICERS WHO DESERTED THEM.

ONE OF THE BITTEREST ENGAGEMENTS IN THE COLOGNE AREA TOOK PLACE IN THE TOWN OF EFFERN IN THE SOUTHERN SUBURBS WHERE THE AMERICAN TROOPS WERE UNDER COMMAND OF MAJ. JOHN A.MEHLHOP OF DEXTER, N.M.

HE AND OTHER OFFICERS AND MEN IN THE WHITE-WALLED SUBTERRANEAN COMMAND POST WERE ELATED IN A TRIED WAY OVER THE TAKING OF COLOGNE BECAUSE THEY FELT IT WAS A LONT STEP TOWARD ENDING THE WAR.

JUELICH, GERMANY,MARCH 3-(DELAYED BY CENSOR)-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL PAID A CALL TO GERMANY TODAY IN A LONG-AWAITED PERSONAL TRIUMPH.

ADOLF HITLER WAS NOT ON HAND TO RECEIVE HIM.

THE 70-YEAR-OLD PRIME MINISTER WALKED INTO GERMANY THROUGH THE SHATTERED SIEGFRIED LINE, ONCE THE SYMBOL OF THE MIGHT OF HITLER WHO FOUR YEARS AGO WAS PROMISING TO CSIT LONDON.

CHURCHILL LOOKED AROUND THE RUINS OF THIS FORTRESS CITY--THE MOST COMPLETELY DESTROYED CITY SINCE ST. LO7-WITHOUT VISIBLE DISPLEASURE AND SAID GRIMLY: "THERE WILL NOT BE ANY UNEMPLOYMENT AROUND HERE AFTER THE WAR."

IT TOOK CONSIDERABLE ARGUMENT BY LT.GEN.WILLIAM SIMPSON OF THE 9TH ARMY, WHO ACTED AS GUIDE, TO KEEP THE FEARLESS BRITISH WARRIOR FROM VISITING THE RHINE ITSELF AT DUESSELDORF.

"IF THEY ARE SHOOTING YOU CAN PUT ME IN A TANK AND I WILL BE ALL RIGHT," CHURCHILL TOLD SIMPSON, BUT THE AMERICAN COMMANDER DECLINED TO RISK THE LIFE OF BRITAIN'S NO.1 STATESMAN.

THE TOUR INCLUDED AN INSPECTION OF THE DRAGONS TEETH AND PILLBOXES OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE NEAR AACHEN, AN INSPECTION OF THE JUMP-OFF SPOTS ON THE ROER RIVER FOR THE NINTH ARMY'S PRESENT DRIVE AND A LUNCH IN THE CITADEL OF JUELICH, THE SEVEN CENTURY OLD GERMAN STRONGHOLD WHICH FELL EARLY IN THE OFFENSIVE.

WITH THE PRIME MINISTER WERE MARSHAL SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY, SIR ALAN BROOKE, CHIEF OF THE IMPERIAL GENERAL STAFF, SIMPSON AND TWO 9TH ARMY CORPS COMMANDERS, MAJ.GENS.RAYMOND S.MCLAIN AND ALVAN C.GILLUM, JR.

THE CAR, WITH SIMPSON EXPLAINING HOW THE BATTLE THROUGH GERMANY PROGRESSED, THEN SPED INTO AACHEN, FOLLOWED BY A SMALL PRESS CONVOY.

IT ROLLED SLOWLY THROUGH THE RUINED GERMAN CITY AND GERMAN CIVILIANS' JAWS DROPPED AS THEY SAW THE UNMISTAKABLE FIGURE OF BRITAIN'S LEADER WITH HIS CIGAR.

OUTSIDE AACHEN THE CONVOY STOPPED WHILE THE PRIME MINISTER INSPECTED A PILLBOX THEN SPED ON AT 60 MILES AN HOUR TO THE ROER. ON THE WEST SIDE THE PRIME MINISTER INSISTED ON GETTING OUT AND WALKING ACROSS THE RIVER WHILE MONTGOMERY AND SIMPSON PAINTED A WORD PICTURE OF THE ATTACK ON FEB. 23 THAT CARRIED THE NINTH ARMY ACROSS AND TO THE RHINE.

A FEW GERMAN BODIES WERE STILL IN THE DESOLATE AREA WHICH LOOKS LIKE A SCENE FROM A FILM OF THE LAST WAR.

"ALL OUR EFFORTS," HE CONTINUED, "WILL END IN A BROADER PICTURE OF OUR ISLAND'S SENSE OF DECENCY AND FAIR PLAY AND WILL SPREAD OVER A LARGER EXPANSE."

ON HIS TOUR OF THE CANADIAN SECTOR HE WAS ACCOMPANIED BY MARSHAL SIR BERNARD L.MONTGOMERY, SIR ALAN BROOKE, CHIEF OF THE IMPERIAL GENERAL STAFF; AND GEN.CRERAR, COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE CANADIAN ARMY.

HE WORE A COAT WITH A COLONEL'S SHOULDER TABS.

IT WAS THE THIRD DAY OF A TOUR WHICH HAS TAKEN HIM INTO THE TRIUMPHANT U.S.NINTH ARMY SECTOR WHERE LT.GEN.WILLIAM SIMPSON CONDUCTED HIM THROUGH THE SIEGFRIED LINE.

THE WHIRLWIND DRIVE THROUGH THE SECTOR WAS SLOWED CONSIDERABLY BY WILDLY CHEERING TROOPS WHO LINED THE ROADS SHOUTING "HOW ARE WE DOING", "OVER THE RHINE NEXT" AND PROMISES TO BRING HITLER "BACK ALIVE."

TO ALL THESE CHURCHILL, RIDING IN A STAFF CAR WITH FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY, GAVE HIS FAMOUS "V" SIGN AND PUFFED FURIOUSLY ON A CIGAR WHILE NODDING HIS HEAD TO ACKNOWLEDGE THE GREETINGS OF THE TROOPS.

THE TOUR TOOK THE PARTY TO ONE OF THE HIGHEST HILLS IN THE AREA FROM WHERE THE BRITISH LEADER STARED LONG AND SILENTLY TOWARD THE RHINE OBSCURED IN THE MISTS OF THIS GLOOMY, CLOUDY DAY.

PERHAPS HE THOUGHT OF THOSE DEFIANT WORDS HE HAD UTTERED NEARLY FOUR YEARS AGO--WHEN HE PROMISED ONLY BLOOD, SWEAT AND TEARS BEFORE FINAL VICTORY. THE BLOOD AND SWEAT HIS PEOPLE HAD HAD, AND THERE ACROSS THE SWOLLEN RHINE WAS VICTORY.

AS HE TURNED AWAY AND RE-ENTERED THE CAR THERE WAS A SATISFIED LOOK ON HIS FACE THAT THE PROMISE WAS ABOUT TO BE FULFILLED IN FULL.

YOU COULD SEE IT IN THE AWE WITH WHICH THEY GAZED AT THE BARREL-CHESTED FIGURE WHO HAD STOOD BETWEEN THEM AND VICTORY.

SOUTH OF RUBBLED GOCH, IN WHICH HE HAD SEEN WHAT WAS HAPPENING TO ALL GERMAN TOWNS IN THE PATH OF WAR, CHURCHILL SENT A SHELL SCREAMING ACROSS THE RHINE.

ENTERING A GUN PIT CHURCHILL WROTE ON A 240-MILLIMETER SHELL: "TO HITLER PERSONALLY." THAT SHELL WAS LOADED IN A GUN. CHURCHILL PULLED THE LANYARD AND, WITH A HEAVY BOOM, THE SHELL WHIZZED TOWARD THE TARGET--A FERRY CROSSING AT XANTEN.

"I AM NOT RESPONSIBLE IF IT DOESN'T GET HITLER," HE JOKED. "THE ARTILLERY BOYS SET THE SIGHTS. I JUST SHOT IT OFF."

CHURCHILL TOLD WAR CORRESPONDENTS THAT MONTGOMERY'S NORTH RHINE CAMPAIGN WAS IN EFFECT A SECOND CAEN, WITH BRITISH AND CANADIAN TROOPS DRAWING ENEMY POWER TO IT AS THE AMERICANS SLASHED THROUGH FOR RE-SOUNDING GAINS.

MAR 7 - 1945

"I AM DEEPLY IMPRESSED WITH THE BRAVE FIGHTING OF OUR BOYS, ESPECIALLY AS I SEE WHAT THEY FOUGHT THROUGH," HE SAID AS HE GAZED ABOUT HIM AT THE FORMIDABLE REICHWALD FOREST AND THE MUD AND WATER ON THE ROADS AND FIELDS. "THE ENEMY HAD A TREMENDOUS DEFENSE ADVANTAGE IN THE REICHWALD."

CHURCHILL WAS ASKED WHETHER THE RHINE WOULD PROVE AS FORMIDABLE A BARRIER AS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL DID TO HITLER. HE SAID THAT DEPENDED "UPON MEASUREMENTS AND OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES--AND THE OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES ARE ON OUR SIDE NOW."

"YOU'LL FIND THOUGH THAT NO RIVER EVER PROVED AN INSURMOUNTA BARRIER," HE CONCLUDED.

THE SESSION WITH THE CORRESPONDENTS ENDED WHEN MONTGOMERY TOOK THE PRIME MINISTER BY THE ARM AND URGED HIM TO CARRY ON WITH THE HEAVY PROGRAM.

"I WAS ABOUT TO GIVE YOU SOMETHING REAL GOOD," HE JOKED TO THE NEWS MEN. "YOU'LL HAVE TO BLAME IT ON MONTY. I HAD ONLY STARTED TO TALK."

COLOGNE, MARCH 6-(AP)-DOUGHBOYS AND ARMOR OF THE U.S.FIRST ARMY CAPTURED COLOGNE TODAY, ROLLING THROUGH THIS FOURTH LARGEST OF GERMAN CITIES WITH ASTONISHING SPEED AGAINST LIGHT RESISTANCE.

THE GERMANS GAVE UP THE FIGHT AND MADE NO EFFORT TO HOLD COLOGNE AS THEY HAD AACHEN, AND THE FALL OF THE CITY, ANNOUNCED BY FIRST ARMY HEADQUARTERS OFFICIALLY TONIGHT, CAME MUCH SOONER THAN ANYONE HAD ANTICIPATED.

MAR 7 - 1945

IT HAD BEEN THE CONSENSUS THAT COLOGNE, A CITY NORMALLY OF 768,000 POPULATION, WOULD BE A HARD NUT TO CRACK, WITH THE GERMANS DUG INTO THE RUBBLE AND CONTESTING EVERY HOUSE AND EVERY STREET.

COLOGNE FELL ON THE 12TH DAY OF LT.GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES' POWERFUL OFFENSIVE, AND IT CLIMAXED ONE OF THE MOST SENSATIONAL DRIVES SINCE THE FIRST ARMY BROKE THROUGH AT ST.LO AND SMASHED ACROSS FRANCE INTO GERMANY LAST SUMMER.

TONIGHT THERE WAS RESISTANCE ONLY IN THE SOUTHEASTERN PART OF THE SHELL-SHATTERED CITY, STANDING AT THE HEAD OF A CORRIDOR DOWN WHICH THE ENEMY HAD FLED SOUTHWARD TOWARD BONN BEFORE THE BLASTING DRIVE OF THE THIRD ARMORED DIVISION AND THE 104TH INFANTRY DIVISION, WHICH SPEARHEADED THE OFFENSIVE AND CROSSED INTO COLOGNE.

CAPTURE OF THE CITY WAS MADE THE MORE SPECTACULAR BECAUSE IT WAS ACCOMPLISHED BY AN ARMY WHICH ONLY A FEW WEEKS AGO WAS FIGHTING FOR ITS VERY LIFE IN STOPPING THE POWERFUL DECEMBER OFFENSIVE LAUNCHED BY NAZI FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT. FROM THE DOORSTEP OF DEFEAT GEN.HODGES RALLIED HIS ARMY FOR THIS STEAMROLLER DRIVE, WHICH BEGAN IN MOONLIGHT ON THE MORNING OF FEB.23 WITH THE CROSSING OF THE ROER RIVER.

COLOGNE IS ESTIMATED TO BE 85 PER CENT IN RUINS, WITH MORE THAN 95 PER CENT OF THE OLD INNER CITY A RUBBLE HEAP.

THE RIVER IS A NATURAL BACKSTOP FOR THE SHATTERED SIEGFRIED LINE.

ENEMY SHELLING ALONG THE RIVER WAS INCREASING. UNDER PROTECTION OF MIST AND LOW CLOUDS THE ENEMY HAS FIRED 200 SHELLS INTO THE KLEVE AREA DURING THE LAST 24 HOURS AND TRIED TO SHOOT UP ROADS IN THE CANADIAN ARMY SECTOR.

ONCE THE ARTILLERY NOW SUPPORTING GEN.H.D.G.CRERAR'S TROOPS IN THE LAST PHASE OF THE FIGHTING IN THE GERMANS XANTEN-WESEL BULGE CAN BE TURNED EAST AGAIN COUNTER-BATTERY WORK WILL CERTAINLY REDUCE THIS ENEMY FIRE.

DEFENSES BEYOND THE RHINE ARE NOTHING LIKE AS STRONG AS THE SIEGFRIED LINE. THEY CONSIST OF HASTILY DUG TRENCH SYSTEMS, DITCHES AND MACHINEGUN AND ARTILLERY POSITIONS. THEY ARE NOT IN GREAT DEPTH AND ARE MANNED BY AN ASSORTMENT OF TROOPS FROM FORMATIONS WHICH FOUGHT WEST OF THE RIVER AND UNITS BROUGHT UP FROM NORTHERN HOLLAND.

THE MAJOR PORTION OF THE GERMAN FORCES ESCAPED ACROSS THE RHINE, BUT THE ALLIES HAVE GAINED THE WEST BANK AND NOW DOMINATE THE RUHR.

FIELD MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT FACED A GREAT PROBLEM IN MANNING THE RHINE DEFENSES. IT IS BELIEVED IMPOSSIBLE FOR HIM TO HAVE STRONG FORCES ALL ALONG THE 450-MILE FRONT.

WITHIN THREE MONTHS HE HAS HAD FOUR ARMIES MAULED. THESE ARE THE FIFTH AND SIXTH PANZER ARMIES IN THE ARDENNES, AND THE 1ST PARACHUTE AND 15TH ARMIES IN THE CURRENT RHINELAND BATTLE.

WHILE THE LATTER TWO WERE NOT TRAPPED AND DESTROYED, THEY SUFFERED HEAVILY. (SUPREME HEADQUARTERS SAID SATURDAY THE FIRST PARACHUTE AND 15TH ARMIES HAD BEEN DESTROYED AS EFFECTIVE FIGHTING FORCES.

THE LATEST FIGURE ON PRISONERS TAKEN BY THE CANADIANS NOW IS 19,500 AN INCREASE OF 2,500 OVER NIGHT. THE GERMANS LIKEWISE ARE SUFFERING HEAVILY IN KILLED AND SERIOUSLY WOUNDED.

WITH THE U.S.THIRD ARMY ON THE ROAD TO THE RHINE, MARCH 6-(AP)-RACING 25 MILES IN 30 HOURS, LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S ARMOR DROVE TO THE APPROACHES OF THE RHINE TODAY AFTER OVERRUNNING A SCORE OF TOWNS AND VILLAGES AND A GERMAN ARMY CORPS WHOSE COMMANDER, A LIEUTENANT GENERAL, WAS TAKEN PRISONER.

THE SPECTACULAR DASH, ON WHICH THERE HAD BEEN A NEWS BLACKOUT SINCE ITS START AT DAWN MONDAY, ENGULFED THOUSANDS OF GERMANS WHO WERE TAKEN PRISONER AND LIBERATED A GREAT NUMBER OF BRITISH AND FRENCH PRISONERS WHOM THE GERMANS HAD ABANDONED IN DISORDERED RETREAT BEFORE THE ONRUSHING AMERICANS.

THE CAPTURED GERMAN LEADER WAS LT.GEN.EDWIN GRAF VON ROTHKIRCH UND TRACH, 59, WHO COMMANDED THE 53RD GERMAN ARMY CORPS. HE WAS SEIZED WITH HIS ENTIRE STAFF.

THE GERMAN ARMY CORPS HEADQUARTERS WAS OVERRUN 12 MILES NORTHEAST OF BITBURG BY SPEARHEADING FOURTH ARMORED DIVISION COLUMNS WHICH KEPT GOING TOWARDS THE RHINE WITH ONLY MINOR OPPOSITION FROM THE GERMANS BUT WHICH WAS ENCOUNTERING TREMENDOUS DIFFICULTIES ALONG ROADS HUB-DEEP IN MUD.

THE NEWS BLACKOUT STILL PREVENTED DISCLOSURE OF THE EXACT WHEREABOUTS OF GEN.PATTON'S ADVANCE ELEMENTS TONIGHT, BUT IT COULD BE SAID THEY WERE ADVANCING AGAINST SPORADIC AND DISORGANIZED RESISTANCE FROM THE SCATTERED ENEMY.

FOR THE RAMPANT AMERICANS IT WAS A SURGE WHICH OUTDID ANYTHING WITNESSED IN FRANCE.

FOR MAJ.GEN.HUGH J.GAFFEY, COMMANDER OF THE FOURTH ARMORED DIVISION, CAPTURE OF THE GERMAN LIEUTENANT GENERAL WAS A DOUBLE SATISFACTION. IN THE FIRST PLACE IT WAS GEN.GRAF VON ROTHKIRCH UND TRACH WHOSE GERMAN TROOPS ENCIRCLED BASTOGNE AND WHOSE SIEGE OF THE BELGIAN COMMUNICATIONS CENTER WAS BROKEN BY THE FOURTH ARMORED.

IN THE SECOND PLACE THE FOURTH ARMORED APPROACH TO THE RHINE CARRIED GEN.GAFFEY WITHIN HAILING DISTANCE OF THE RIVER, WHERE AS A FIRST LIEUTENANT OF ARTILLERY HE WAS STATIONED UNTIL 1919.

AND IT WAS AT THE FORTRESS OF EHRENBREITSTEIN ACROSS THE RIVER FROM COBLENZ THAT THE LAST AMERICAN OCCUPATION TROOPS HAULED DOWN THE STARS AND STRIPES IN 1923.

DURING TODAY THE THIRD ARMY GAINED UP TO 25 MILES ON A 40-MILE FRONT, OVERRUNNING 11 TOWNS, CLEARING THREE AND ENTERING TWO.

THE TENTH ARMORED CROSSED THE REWER RIVER 2 1/2 MILES EAST OF TRIER, ADVANCING 2 1/2 MILES TO THE NORTHEAST AND CLEARING EITELSBACH AND KENN.

THE 76TH INFANTRY, ADVANCING 4 1/2 MILES EAST OF THE KYLL RIVER BRIDGEHEAD, PROGRESSED TO THE VICINITY OF BINSFELD, EIGHT MILES EAST OF BITBURG.

THE FIFTH INFANTRY CAPTURED OBERKAIL, EIGHT MILES NORTHEAST OF BITBURG.

GAINS BY THE FOURTH ARMORED INCLUDED AN ADVANCE TO THE VICINITY OF SCHONBACH, 25 MILES NORTHEAST OF BITBURG AND 28 MILES WEST OF THE RHINE. THE FOURTH CROSSED FOUR RIVERS TO REACH THIS AREA, THE KYLL, THE LIESSER, THE KLEINE KYLL AND THE SALM.

THE 19TH INFANTRY MADE TWO NEW CROSSINGS OF THE KYLL AND ADVANCED A MILE AND A HALF EAST, CAPTURING MICKELBACH, 11 MILES EAST OF PRUEM. THE 90TH IS NOW ACROSS THE RIVER ON A THREE-MILE FRONT.

THE 11TH ARMORED DIVISION ADVANCED THREE MILES EAST ON A THREE-MILE FRONT, REACHING THE KYLL AT TWO POINTS IN A REGION TEN MILES NORTHEAST OF PRUEM.

THE 87TH ADVANCED FOUR MILES ON A FOUR-MILE FRONT 12 MILES NORTHEAST OF PRUEM, ALSO REACHING THE KYLL AT TWO PLACES.

KNOTS OF THE FRENCH AND BRITISH SOLDIERS LIBERATED IN OUR ADVANCE ALSO WERE MAKING THEIR WAY TO THE REAR. COLOGNE (300)

BY HAL BOYLE

COLOGNE, MARCH 6-(AP)-GERMAN REFUGEES PLODDED WESTWARD OUT OF THIS WRECK OF A CITY AS THREE AMERICAN DIVISIONS STABBED TODAY FOR ITS HEART.

MEN AND WOMEN OF ALL AGES, THEIR FACES SHOWING NEITHER HATE NOR FEAR BUT REFLECTING THE DESPAIR OF ALL HOMELESS FUGITIVES, STREAMED TOWARD THE AMERICAN LINES BY THE HUNDREDS.

SOME WERE CARRYING BABIES OR LEADING CHILDREN BY THE HAND. THEIR HOUSEHOLD VALUABLES WERE PILED IN CARTS OR PERAMBULATORS, AND INCLUDED BLANKETS TO PROTECT THEM AGAINST THE MARCH COLD.

THE LAST DITCH DEFENDERS OF THE CITY, ESTIMATED BY ONE U.S.STAFF OFFICER AT LESS THAN 1,000, WERE WITHDRAWING SLOWLY INTO THE "ALTSTADT" OR "OLD TOWN" SECTION BORDERING THE RHINE ITSELF.

THEY WERE SURROUNDED BY YANK ARMOR AND INFANTRYMEN.

ONE-FIFTH OF THE 25 SQUARE MILES OF THE ONCE GREAT INDUSTRIAL CITY WAS IN AMERICAN HANDS LAST NIGHT. BECAUSE THE YANK SPEARHEAD HAD DRIVEN THROUGH MAIN DEFENSE BLETS TO WITHIN TWO AND A HALF MILES OF THE RIVER, THE NAZI GARRISON HAD TO PULL BACK IN ORDER TO ESCAPE BEING CHOPPED TO PIECES.

IT IS THE OLD CITY THAT CONTAINS THE WORLD FAMOUS CATHEDRAL AND MANY IMPORTANT AND PICTURESQUE MEDIEVAL BUILDINGS. THE RESISTING GERMANS WERE FIGHTING THERE MAINLY WITH A FEW MORTARS, MACHINE GUNS AND RIFLES AND SOME 88-MILLIMETER ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS.

MOST OF THE ENEMY'S HEAVY EQUIPMENT HAS BEEN MOVED TO THE RHINE'S EAST BANK AND ONLY A RELATIVELY FEW SELF-PROPELLED GUNS REMAIN.

THE TASK OF CLEANING OUT COLOGNE--A CITY ABOUT THE SIZE OF ST. LOUIS--IS A BIG ONE, FOR EVERY BASEMENT MUST BE SEARCHED FOR HIDDEN GERMAN SOLDIERS.

WHILE THE CENTER OF THE CITY APPARENTLY HAS BEEN HEAVILY DAMAGED BY ALLIED AIR RAIDS THERE SEEMED TO BE NO APPRECIABLE BOMB DAMAGE IN THE WESTERN SUBURBS.

THERE WERE STILL MANY CIVILIANS LIVING THERE IN LITTLE BRICK HOUSES WHEN THE YANKS ARRIVED, BUT THEY ARE RAPIDLY MOVING OUT, TAKING THE YOUNGSTERS AND A FEW BELONGINGS WITH THEM. ALREADY THE ARMY IS TAKING OVER SOME OF THE HOUSES FOR QUARTERS, COMMAND POSTS AND SIGNAL CENTERS.

ROME, MAR 4 (DELAYED BY CENSOR) ADD MORTON

THE CAPTURE INTERRUPTED A SPECTACULARLY SUCCESSFUL CAREER AS A WAR CORRESPONDENT BEGUN IN THE SUMMER OF 1942 WHEN MORTON LANDED IN LIBERIA WITH AMERICAN TROOPS. IT WAS A SECRET OPERATION AND FIVE MONTHS ELAPSED BEFORE HE WAS PERMITTED TO SEND THE FIRST STORIES.

MORTON WAS THE ONLY CORRESPONDENT TO SAIL FROM DAKAR ON THE FRENCH BATTLESHIP RICHELIEU WHEN IT WAS TAKEN TO NEW YORK IN JANUARY, 1943, FOR REFITTING.

PRIOR TO THAT TRIP HE WAS THE FIRST CORRESPONDENT TO REACH DAKAR AFTER THE CAPITULATION OF FRENCH WEST AFRICA.

DURING MUCH OF THE TUNISIAN CAMPAIGN MORTON WAS ASSIGNED TO COVER THE ALLIED AIR FORCES IN AFRICA. HE RODE A B-26 BOMBER ON THE FIRST AMERICAN RAID ON ROME'S RAIL YARDS ON JULY 19, 1943, AND A FEW DAYS LATER TALKED THE AIR FORCE INTO FLYING HIS JEEP TO SICILY. THIS ENABLED HIM TO ENTER SEVERAL SICILIAN CITIES ON THE HEELS OF THE INVASION FORCES AND WRITE FULL ACCOUNTS OF THE EFFECTS OF THE BOMBINGS THERE.

MORTON'S NAME POPPED INTO PROMINENCE AGAIN EARLY IN 1944 WHEN HE OBTAINED WRITTEN REPLIES FROM MARSHAL TITO TO A NUMBER OF QUESTIONS. TITO'S DECLARATIONS WERE RELEASED BY ALLIED CENSORSHIP ONLY AFTER PROLONGED CONTROVERSY.

MAR 7 - 1945

MORTON SCORED A NOTABLE BEAT WHEN HE FLEW TO BUCHAREST IN A U.S. 15TH AIR FORCE BOMBER IN TIME TO WITNESS THE RED ARMY ROLLING THROUGH THE ROMANIAN CAPITAL AND THE EVACUATION OF SCORES OF AMERICAN FLIERS FREED FROM ROMANIAN PRISON CAMPS. HE WAS THE ONLY ALLIED CORRESPONDENT THERE AND OBTAINED AN EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW WITH KING MIHAI IN AN OVERNIGHT VISIT TO THE ROYAL VILLA.

A121

PRIOR TO THAT TRIP HE SCORED BEATS FROM AMERICAN AIR BASES IN ITALY ON THE FIRST SHUTTLE RAIDS BETWEEN ITALY AND RUSSIA AND A GERMAN PARACHUTE TROOPERS' RAID ON TITO'S HEADQUARTERS IN YUGOSLAVIA.

JUST BEFORE HIS DEPARTURE ON THE TRIP WHICH RESULTED IN HIS CAPTURE MORTON SENT A NOTE TO ASSOCIATED PRESS HEADQUARTERS IN ROME SAYING "I AM OFF ON THE BIGGEST STORY OF MY LIFE."

MORTON, WHO IS 32, WAS BORN AT ST.JOSEPH, MO., AND JOINED THE ASSOCIATED PRESS AT LINCOLN, NEBRASKA. HE LATER SERVED IN THE AP CLEVELAND BUREAU AND LATER WENT TO NEW YORK AS AP FEATURES BACKGROUND MAP EDITOR, WHICH POST HE LEFT TO GO ABROAD.

HIS WIFE LIVES IN ST.JOSEPH.

MORTON WAS THE FIFTH CASUALTY AMONG ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENTS IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THEATER SINCE MID-SEPTEMBER, 1942, WHEN LARRY ALLEN WAS CAPTURED IN TOBRUK. ALLEN LATER WAS FREED AND REPATRIATED.

THE OTHERS WERE HARRY CROCKETT, DROWNED WHEN A BRITISH MINE LAYER WAS TORPEDOED OFF TOBRUK EARLY IN 1943; GEORGE TUCKER, INJURED IN A PLANE ACCIDENT IN ALGIERS IN THE SUMMER OF 1943; STEPHEN BARBER, WHO SUFFERED SHRAPNEL WOUNDS IN THE FRENCH LANDING ON THE ISLAND OF ELBA IN JUNE, 1944.

MOSCOW, MARCH 6-(AP)-FAST CHARGING RUSSIAN TANKS AND CAVALRY SWEPT CLOSE TO THE ODER'S MOUTH TODAY IN A THREAT TO OUTFLANK STETTIN AND SEIZE THAT IMPORTANT GERMAN NAVAL BASE IN PREPARATION FOR FUTURE ENVELOPMENT OF BERLIN FROM THE NORTH.

MARSHAL GREGORY K. ZHUKOV, COMMANDER OF THE FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY, ALREADY HAD TURNED HEAVY GUNS, SOME OF THEM ONLY RECENTLY CAPTURED FROM THE ENEMY, AGAINST THE EASTERN SUBURBS OF STETTIN. AT THE SAME TIME HIS MOBILE VANGUARD STEADILY ROLLED UP THE GERMAN DEFENSES GUARDING THE ODER ESTUARY.

HIS TROOPS WERE SAID TO BE DRIVING STEADILY FORWARD FROM BOTH STARGARD AND NAUGARD, SEIZED YESTERDAY. STARGARD LIES 15 MILES EAST OF STETTIN AND NAUGARD 22 MILES NORTH OF STARGARD.

AS ZHUKOV THUS GOT SET FOR A KNOCKOUT BLOW AGAINST STETTIN, CAPTURE OF WHICH WOULD BE A STRATEGIC PRIZE, MARSHAL K.K.ROKOSSOVSKY'S SECOND WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY TO THE NORTHEAST SLASHED DEEPER INTO THE COASTAL STRIP OF POMERANIA BETWEEN DANZIG AND KOESLIN.

THE BATTLE FOR STETTIN SEEMED VIRTUALLY UNDER WAY, ALTHOUGH ZHUKOV'S HARDEST BLOWS AT THE MOMENT APPARENTLY WERE DIRECTED TOWARD GOLLNOW AND CAMMIN, ON THE LAST MAIN ROAD AND RAILWAY TO THE SEACOAST EAST OF THE ODER.

THE SPRAWLING FACTORIES OF STETTIN, BERLIN'S PORT, ARE SPREAD OUT ON BOTH SIDES OF THE ODER AT THE SOUTHWEST CORNER OF DAMMSCHER LAKE. GOLLNOW IS LOCATED NORTHEAST OF THIS BODY OF WATER. CAMMIN IS ONLY THREE MILES FROM THE BALTIC ON THE EASTERN ARM OF THE ODER ESTUARY.

EAST OF CAMMIN THE BIG SEABOARD TOWNS OF TREPTOW AND KILBERG FACED THE PROSPECT OF IMMEDIATE ISOLATION AS THE RUSSIANS STRUCK SWIFTLY AHEAD. (BERLIN SAID KOLBERG ALREADY WAS BEING STORMED).

FIELD DISPATCHES SAID GERMAN COUNTERATTACKS ORGANIZED IN THE

STETTIN AREA WITH VOLKSSTURM INFANTRY AND A SMATTERING OF VETERAN ARMORED UNITS WERE ON AN UNIMPRESSIVE SCALE.
ZHUKOV'S TROOPS STRUCK OUT FOR ALTDAMM, EAST BANK ODER RIVER SUBURB OF STETTIN, AFTER CAPTURING STARGARD IN A STREET BATTLE THAT WAS OFFICIALLY DECLARED TO HAVE COST THE GERMANS 4,000 KILLED.

A47
THE ZHUKOV AND ROKOSSOVSKY ARMIES SEIZED A TOTAL OF 230 TOWNS AND VILLAGES YESTERDAY. GAINS AVERAGED 10 MILES. STEADILY PRESSING LARGE NUMBERS OF THE ENEMY BACK AGAINST THE BALTIC COAST, ROKOSSOVSKY WAS SAID TO BE WIPING OUT ISOLATED GROUPS ONE BY ONE.
ROKOSSOVSKY CAPTURED EIGHT TOWNS IN POLAND EAST OF POMERANIA ON THE APPROACHES TO DANZIG. FIVE COMMUNITIES FELL IN EAST PRUSSIA IN THE CONTINUING BATTLE FOR KOENIGSBERG.

MOSCOW, MARCH 5-(AP)-NEW GROUPS OF BRITISH, FRENCH AND DUTCH PRISONERS OF WAR HAVE BEEN LIBERATED BY THE RED ARMY'S ADVANCE THROUGH POMERANIA, FRONT DISPATCHES TO PRAVDA SAID TODAY.

NO AMERICANS WERE MENTIONED IN THE MOSCOW NEWSPAPER'S LISTING OF FREED PRISONERS MOVING EASTWARD IN CARTS, WAGONS AND ON BICYCLES THROUGH POMERANIA. THEY ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN RESCUED FROM A COLUMN OF 200,000 PRISONERS BEING DRIVEN WESTWARD BEFORE THE RUSSIAN ADVANCE. THE U.S. MILITARY MISSION IN MOSCOW SAID HOWEVER IT WAS PROBABLE THAT SOME U.S. TROOPS ALSO HAD BEEN LIBERATED.

THE TOTAL OF AMERICAN OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS AWAITING TRANSPORTATION IN ODESSA, AFTER BEING RESCUED BY THE RUSSIANS, NOW TOTALS 1,200, THE MISSION SAID. WRIGHT BRYAN, WAR CORRESPONDENT AND MANAGING EDITOR OF THE ATLANTA JOURNAL, REACHED THE ASSEMBLY POINT WITH THE LATEST GROUP OF AMERICANS, IT WAS REPORTED. THE MISSION SAID HE HAD REQUESTED PERMISSION TO VISIT MOSCOW.

PANIC SPREAD AMONG PANAMERICAN LANDOWNERS WHO HAD BEEN WORKING THEIR FARMS WITH SLAVE LABOR, INCLUDING MANY RUSSIAN AND POLISH GIRLS. PRAVDA SAID ON THE ESTATE OF ONE JOHANN WALBE THE WORKERS REVOLTED, HANGING WALBE ON A CENTURY-OLD TREE BEFORE HIS MANSION AS THE RED ARMY APPROACHED.

(HEADQUARTERS, THIRD MARINE DIVISION, IWO JIMA, MARCH 4-(DELAYED)-(AP)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-THIRST-MAD JAPS WHOSE PRINCIPAL SOURCES OF WATER WERE DESTROYED BY A THREE-DAY PREINVASION BOMBARDMENT, HAVE BEEN MAKING NUMEROUS RAIDS BEHIND MARINE LINES, PRESUMABLY IN QUEST OF THE PRECIOUS LIQUID.
THESE RAIDS ARE NOT OF THE BANZAI VARIETY IN WHICH SAKE CHARGED NIPS FANATICALLY WHOOP, HOLLER AND ATTACK ENMASSE. THEY WERE DEFINITELY PURPOSEFUL AND THE MAJORITY WERE ATTEMPTED IN OR NEAR WATER POINTS ON THIS DESERT-LIKE VOLCANIC ISLAND.
THERE HAS BEEN NO INDICATION THAT JAP FIGHTING MEN ARE UNDERGOING GREATER HARDSHIPS THAN ARE OUR TROOPS AS FAR AS FOOD AND AMMUNITION ARE CONCERNED, BUT THE MARINES HAVE PLENTY OF WATER. HUNDREDS OF DESTROYED CATCH BASINS, IN WHICH THE ENEMY CAUGHT RAIN WATER BEFORE THE MARINES STORMED ASHORE FEB. 19, ARE MUTE EVIDENCE OF THEIR PLIGHT.
IWO, THIS FORENOON, RECEIVED ITS FIRST DOWNPOUR IN NINE DAYS. ALERT MARINES SWORE THE JAPS WOULDN'T BEAT THEM AT THEIR OLD GAME OF CATCHING RAINFALL IN THEIR HELMETS OR ANYTHING THAT WOULD HOLD WATER. THEY WERE PREPARED TO TAKE POT SHOTS AT ANY WHO LEFT THEIR FOXHOLES.
AN INFILITRATING PARTY OF 100 JAPS ATTEMPTED TO REACH A WATER POINT AT THE BASE OF SURIBACHI MOUNTAIN A FEW NIGHTS AGO. THEY WERE SPOTTED BY A FORWARD ARTILLERY OBSERVER AND IMMEDIATELY WIPED OUT BY A HEAVY BARRAGE.
THE FOLLOWING NIGHT, 65 INFILTRATED A REGIMENTAL COMMAND POST IN THE NORTH CENTRAL SECTION OF THE ISLAND, AND ALL EXCEPT THREE WERE KILLED.
SOME 200 JAPS SNEAKED THROUGH THE LINES OF THE SAME REGIMENT, SITUATED ON THE DIVISION'S LEFT FLANK, EARLY TODAY, AND AT DAWN 160 DEAD WERE COUNTED.
A MAJORITY OF THE RAINWATER CATCH BASINS USED BY THE JAPS WERE OF 1100 GALLON CAPACITY, MEASURING FOUR BY EIGHT FEET. FROM THESE, WATER WAS TRANSFERRED TO 55 GALLON DRUMS, WHICH WERE EITHER BURIED IN THE SOFT VOLCANIC ASH OF THE ISLAND OR SECRETED IN CAVES.
MARINES HAVE FOUND EIGHT WELLS IN THE APPROXIMATE TWO THIRDS OF THE ISLAND NOW UNDER THEIR CONTROL. FIVE WERE ON THE WEST COAST AND FOUR OF THESE WERE MIDWAY UP THE BEACH, SPACED SEVERAL HUNDRED YARDS APART.

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON CORREGIDOR, FEB.20-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE BOYS OF THE 592ND ARE GETTING GRIPED ABOUT THIS WAR OF THE BEACHHEADS. IN SARDONIC JEST, THEY'RE BEGINNING TO CALL THEMSELVES "THE SECRET WEAPON."

THEIR SLOGAN IS: "INFANTRYMEN CAN TAKE A BEACH, BUT THEY'VE GOT TO GET THERE FIRST." THE 592ND ENGINEER BOAT AND SHORE REGIMENT IS ONE OF THE OUTFITS THAT GETS 'EM THERE.

THEIR MAIN GRIPE IS THAT NO ONE EVER HEARS ABOUT THEM. THEIR INDIGNATION REACHED ITS PEAK WHEN ONE BOY'S FATHER WROTE ASKING HIS E.B. & S.R. SON: "WHAT'S THAT OUTFIT OF YOURS DOING OUT THERE? WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO GET INTO THE WAR?"

GET INTO THE WAR, INDEED! UP TO THEN THEY HAD PARTICIPATED IN 20 SOUTHWEST PACIFIC LANDINGS. NOW THE TOTAL IS UP TO 26. THEY ARE UNDER THE 2ND ENGINEERS' SPECIAL BRIGADE AND COMPLAIN THAT THE ONLY TIME THEIR UNIT WAS MENTIONED IN THE NEWS IT WAS LABELED AS THE 3RD BRIGADE. THAT HURTS OUT HERE WITH THESE UNIT-CONSCIOUS LADS. (NOT THAT THE 3RD ISN'T DOING A GRAND JOB, TOO, BUT MEN IN UNIFORM IN THE WAR ZONES ROOT FOR THEIR UNITS LIKE THEY DID FOR THEIR COLLEGE OR PREP FOOTBALL TEAM BACK HOME.

THE E.B. & S.R. HAS THE JOB OF OPERATING BARGE-TYPE LANDING CRAFT CARRYING ASSAULT WAVES, REINFORCEMENTS AND SUPPLIES ASHORE, NO MATTER HOW HOT THE SHOOTING. THEY SET UP ON THE BEACHES TO HANDLE RATIONS, AMMUNITION, WATER AND TO BRING ORDER OUT OF CONFUSION.

THEY HAD ONE OF THEIR TOUGHEST JOBS IN THE SUCCESSFUL ASSAULT AGAINST CORREGIDOR. MOST OF THE LCM'S (LANDING CRAFT, MECHANIZED) IN WHICH THEY PUT TROOPS ASHORE CAME BACK WITH MACHINEGUN BULLET HOLES IN THEM. ONE BOAT COXSWAIN, AT THE WHEEL IN THE CRAFT'S MOST EXPOSED POSITION, WAS WOUNDED FATALLY. IT WAS THE THIRD TIME HE HAD BEEN SHOT. ANOTHER HAD TWO FINGERS SHOT OFF. BUT THE BOYS BROUGHT THE BOATS THROUGH SAFELY.

"WE GET SHOT AT A BIT," REMARKED SGT.JACK EDMINISTER, OF (1512 PARK HILL PLACE NORTHEAST, CANTON, OHIO, "BUT DESPITE OUR GRIPES I THINK WE'RE LUCKY TO BE ON THIS JOB. WE CAN EAT REGULARLY AND SLEEP ON STRETCHERS STRUNG UP ON THE BOATS. I GUESS THAT'S BETTER THAN LIFE IN A FOXHOLE."

SOMETIMES, EXPLAINS MAJ.HENRY M.SEIPT, FORMER CIVIL ENGINEER AT RIVERTON,WYO., COMMANDER OF THE 592ND, THE BOYS GO SEVERAL MONTHS WITHOUT EVER SLEEPING ANYWHERE BUT IN THEIR LANDING CRAFT. THEY'VE BEEN OUT IN THE PACIFIC 24 MONTHS.

AS MAJOR SEIPT DESCRIBED THE LIFE AND WORK OF HIS MEN, A RADIO CALL CAME IN.

"WHAT'S THAT? WHAT'S THAT?" HE CRIED EXCITEDLY. "YOU SAY THEY KILLED SEVEN?"

HIS WEAPONS SECTION ON ONE END OF THE CORREGIDOR BEACH HAD JUST MOWED DOWN SEVEN JAPANESE ON THE SIDE OF MALINTA HILL.

"ISN'T THAT A BIT OUTSIDE THE ENGINEERING LINE?" HE WAS ASKED.

SINCE CANADA HAS NO PRESENT OR PROSPECTIVE BOUNDARY DISPUTES WITH HER ONLY NEIGHBOR, THE UNITED STATES, THE "ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC" UNDER WHICH EACH AMERICAN NATION WOULD GUARANTEE THE BORDERS OF OTHER AMERICAN STATES AGAINST AGGRESSION IS NOT OF IMMEDIATE INTEREST TO CANADA.

CANADA, SO FAR AS CAN BE LEARNED, IS NOT CONTEMPLATING ASSUMING ANY RESPONSIBILITIES FOR MILITARY AID TO OTHER AMERICAN STATES EXCEPT THOSE WHICH MAY BE INVOLVED IN THE GENERAL INTERNATIONAL SECURITY ORGANIZATION TO BE DISCUSSED AT THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE NEXT MONTH.

NIGHT LEAD CONFERENCE (PMS IN)

BY FLORA LEWIS

MEXICO CITY,MARCH 6-(AP)-DELEGATES TO THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE TODAY REACHED INFORMAL AGREEMENT ON WHAT TO SAY TO ARGENTINA, IT WAS LEARNED ON HIGH AUTHORITY.

THE STATEMENT, WHICH IS EXPECTED ON THURSDAY, THE LAST DAY OF THE CONFERENCE, REMAINS TO BE PHRASED, HOWEVER.

THE MAIN POINTS WILL BE:

1. EXPRESSION OF REGRET AT ARGENTINA'S ABSENCE FROM THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE.

2. HOPE THAT ARGENTINA WILL BE ABLE TO PUT HERSELF IN A POSITION TO SIGN THE MEXICO CITY RESOLUTIONS AND REJOIN THE AMERICAN SYSTEM.

3. HOPE THAT ARGENTINA WILL BE ABLE TO PUT HERSELF IN A POSITION TO JOIN THE UNITED NATIONS, WHICH MEANS A DECLARATION OF WAR.

4. PROVISION FOR CONSULTATION AMONG THE 20 OTHER REPUBLICS TO DECIDE WHETHER ARGENTINE ACTS ACTUALLY CONSTITUTE A SINCERE CHANGE IN POSITION.

MEANWHILE, DELEGATES WERE SCHEDULED TO MEET IN A PLENARY SESSION THIS AFTERNOON TO GIVE FORMAL APPROVAL TO 15 RESOLUTIONS, INCLUDING THE REORGANIZATION OF THE PANAMERICAN UNION AND THE ACT OF OF CHAPULTEPEC.

WHILE THERE WILL BE SPEECHES AT THE FULL MEETING, DEBATE IS UNEXPECTED. ALL THE RESOLUTIONS TO COME UP HAVE BEEN APPROVED BY EACH DELEGATION AND PASSAGE IS ASSURED.

THE POSTPONEMENT OF THE FINAL SESSION UNTIL THURSDAY IS DUE MORE TO DIFFICULTIES IN CLEARING THE ECONOMIC CHARTER AND A FLOOD OF MINOR RESOLUTIONS THAN TO ANY TROUBLE ON THE ARGENTINE QUESTION, IT WAS LEARNED.

THE MAIN DIFFICULTY AT THE MOMENT, ONE OFFICIAL SAID, IS TO FIND PHRASING THAT IS EQUALLY SATISFACTORY IN SPANISH AND ENGLISH TRANSLATIONS.

THE AGREEMENT ON GENERAL POINTS OF THE ARGENTINE STATEMENT INDICATES THE SOLID FRONT THAT HAS PREVAILED THROUGH MOST OF THIS CONFERENCE.

SOME DELEGATIONS, CUBA FOR EXAMPLE, ARE SPLIT AMONG THEMSELVES HOWEVER. EACH COUNTRY HAS ONLY ONE VOTE, SO IF SOME DELEGATES DECIDE TO POP OFF, IT IS EXTREMELY UNLIKELY TO PRODUCE ANYTHING MORE THAN NOISE.

THOSE WHO WORKED OUT THE ARGENTINE FORMULA, INCLUDING LATIN AMERICANS, EXPRESSED CONSIDERABLE SATISFACTION WITH THE IDEAS INCLUDED.
IT WILL PROBABLY BE PRESENTED TO THE CONFERENCE STEERING COMMITTEE BY THE CHAIRMAN, MEXICAN FOREIGN MINISTER EZEQUIEL PADILLA.

MEXICO CITY..1ST ADD NIGHT LEAD INTERAMERICAN CONFERENCE (TOP ON AYE) 530 XXX EZEQUIEL PADILLA.
THE STATEMENT WILL HAVE A FRIENDLY TONE, AND BE SUFFICIENTLY VAGUE SO AS TO SAVE ARGENTINE FACE BY NOT LISTING SPECIFIC ACTIONS BUENOS AIRES MUST TAKE.
HOWEVER, SINCE ALL THE COUNTRIES ARE EXPECTED TO AGREE TO CONSULT BEFORE RECOGNIZING ARGENTINA, IT PROVIDES A FIRM TEST.
CONSULTATIONS PRESUMABLY WILL BE CARRIED ON THROUGH THE VARIOUS FOREIGN OFFICES RATHER THAN THROUGH THE PANAMERICAN UNION.
THE STATEMENT IS SCHEDULED TO BE SENT TO THE UNION FOR DELIVERY TO ARGENTINA, HOWEVER.
THE PROBLEM OF WHETHER ARGENTINA CAN APPOINT A DELEGATE TO THE REORGANIZED UNION MAY 1 SEEMS TO BE RESOLVING ITSELF THIS WAY:
ARGENTINA WOULD HAVE TO SIGN THE RESOLUTION BEFORE SHE COULD APPOINT A NEW DELEGATE.
HOWEVER, IT SEEMS NOW THAT IF BUENOS AIRES WANTED TO ADHERE ONLY TO THE RESOLUTION CHANGING THE INTER-AMERICAN SYSTEM AND NOT TO ANY OF THE SECURITY GUARANTEES PASSED BY THE CONFERENCE, THE OTHER COUNTRIES WOULD HAVE TO ACCEPT A NEW ARGENTINE DELEGATE INTO THE REVISED UNION. THAT WOULD NOT OF ITSELF MEAN RECOGNITION IN ANY WAY.
IN VIEW OF THE FORMULA ESTABLISHED, WELL-INFORMED OFFICIALS SAID THE ONLY CHANCE THEY SAW FOR ARGENTINA TO GET TO THE UNITED NATIONS SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE WOULD BE A SUDDEN, COMPLETE CHANGE IN BUENOS AIRES--VIRTUALLY IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT AN OVERTHROW OF THE GOVERNMENT.
THE GOVERNMENT, THEY SAID, WOULD PROBABLY FIND THE TIME BETWEEN NOW AND APRIL 25 TOO SHORT TO TAKE NECESSARY ACTIONS GRADUALLY.

MAR 7 - 1945

B33KX Q
THE FINAL ACT OF THE CONFERENCE IS ALREADY TAKING CONCRETE SHAPE, AS VARIOUS RESOLUTIONS ARE CONSOLIDATED AND PASSED.
A FREEDOM OF ACCESS TO INFORMATION RESOLUTION RECEIVED UNANIMOUS APPROVAL IN COMMITTEE THIS MORNING, TANTAMOUNT TO PASSAGE BY THE CONFERENCE.
IT IS A COMBINATION OF PROPOSALS BY URUGUAY AND THE UNITED STATES, URGING THE ABANDONMENT OF NEWS CONTROLS AFTER THE WAR AND THE TREATMENT OF PRESS DISPATCHES WITH THE SAME PRIVACY AND FREEDOM GIVEN LETTERS AND PERSONAL TELEGRAMS.
THE RESOLUTION SUGGESTS THAT THE PRINCIPLE OF FREE AND EQUAL ACCESS TO NEWS BE INCORPORATED IN PEACE TREATIES.
THE MILITARY AND POLITICAL DEFENSE ARCS IN THE NEW INTER-AMERICAN CIRCLE, CLOSED AGAINST AGGRESSION, HAVE BEEN COMPLETED HERE.
PROVISION IS MADE FOR A PERMANENT BOARD REPRESENTING ALL AMERICAN GENERAL STAFFS TO PROTECT THE HEMISPHERE AND LAY PLANS TO PUT DOWN AGGRESSION FROM WITHIN OR WITHOUT THE CONTINENT.
THE GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF MANUFACTURE AND DISTRIBUTION OF ARMS WAS RECOMMENDED AFTER A PROPOSAL URGING OUTRIGHT GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF ALL MUNITIONS INDUSTRIES WAS WITHDRAWN.
APPREHENSION AND PUNISHMENT OF WAR CRIMINALS AND SUBSERSIVE AGENTS WAS PLEDGED, WITH CAREFUL DEFINITIONS SO AS NOT TO APPLY TO POLITICAL EXILES AND LATIN AMERICAN REVOLUTIONARIES.
THE DUMBARTON OAKS RESOLUTION STILL LEAVES OPEN THE EXACT RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE SYSTEM AND A WORLD SECURITY ORGANIZATION. IT HAS THE VIEWS OF LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES BUT WITHOUT U.S.SUPPORT FOR CHANGING THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN.
ANOTHER RESOLUTION CONNECTED WITH THE PLEDGE OF SUPPORT FOR A WORLD PEACE AGENCY ASKS THAT WOMEN BE INCLUDED IN DELEGATIONS TO INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCES.
PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAS ALREADY APPOINTED DEAN VIRGINIA GILDERSLEEVE OF BARNARD COLLEGE (N.Y.C.) TO BE ON THE U.S. DELEGATION TO SAN FRANCISCO.

MEXICO CITY,MARCH 6-(AP)-TWENTY AMERICAN REPUBLICS TODAY ADVOCATED FULL FREEDOM OF THE PRESS AND RADIO, UNHINDERED ACCESS TO SOURCES OF NEWS AND ABOLITION OF PEACETIME CENSORSHIP.
IN A RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY A COMMITTEE FOR FINAL CONFERENCE ACTION, THESE NATIONS, INCLUDING THE UNITED STATES, PROPOSED THAT ALL WARTIME PRESS CONTROLS BE LIFTED IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE WAR.
THEY ALSO RECOMMENDED THAT PRESS AND RADIO DISPATCHES IN THIS HEMISPHERE BE TREATED WITH THE SAME PRIVACY AND FREEDOM AS LETTERS, TELEGRAMS AND OTHER MEANS OF COMMUNICATION.

MEXICO CITY, MARCH 6-(AP)-THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE WAS EXPECTED TO GIVE FORMAL APPROVAL TODAY TO AN "ECONOMIC CHARTER FOR THE AMERICAS" TONED DOWN CONSIDERABLY FROM ITS ORIGINAL FORM BUT CALLING IN GENERAL FOR MORE FREE TRADE AND INCREASED INDUSTRIALIZATION IN THIS HEMISPHERE.
AFTER 16 HOURS OF TORRID DEBATE A CONFERENCE SUBCOMMITTEE LATE LAST NIGHT APPROVED THE CHARTER WITH THREE IMPORTANT REVISIONS. ONLY URUGUAY AND COLOMBIA MADE EXCEPTIONS, WHICH WILL BE EXPLAINED BY THEIR REPRESENTATIVES AT A MEETING LATE TODAY OF THE COMMITTEE ON POST-WAR ECONOMIC PROBLEMS.
FULL COMMITTEE APPROVAL, TANTAMOUNT TO CONFERENCE ADOPTION, APPEARED CERTAIN. THE CHARTER WOULD APPEAR IN THE FINAL ACTS OF THE CONFERENCE AS A PREAMBLE TO ECONOMIC RESOLUTIONS ALREADY ADOPTED.
THE CONFERENCE, MEANWHILE, IS TRYING TO COMPLETE A FORMAL STATEMENT ON ARGENTINA, AND TO GIVE FINAL CONSIDERATION TO A NEWS FREEDOM

RESOLUTION.

THE ARGENTINE STATEMENT IS GENERALLY EXPECTED TO EXPRESS A REGRET THAT THE ARGENTINE PEOPLE ARE NOT REPRESENTED AT THE CONFERENCE AND A HOPE THEY WILL SOON REJOIN THE AMERICAN FAMILY OF NATIONS. IT MAY BE MORE CONCRETE IF ALL THE DELEGATES, PARTICULARLY THOSE FROM COUNTRIES NEIGHBORING ARGENTINA, APPROVE.

—THE THREE ARTICLES IN THE ECONOMIC CHARTER WHICH UNDERWENT COMPLETE REVISION IN THE SUB-COMMITTEE LAST NIGHT PERTAIN TO THE REDUCTION OF TRADE BARRIERS, EQUALITY OF ACCESS TO TRADE AND RAW MATERIALS, AND REDUCTION AND ELIMINATION OF ECONOMIC NATIONALISM.

POWERFUL LATIN AMERICAN OPPOSITION THAT DEVELOPED OVER THESE THREE POINTS RESULTED IN A CONSIDERABLE WEAKENING OF THE CHARTER'S IMMEDIATE EFFECTIVENESS IN BREAKING DOWN HEMISPHERE TRADE RESTRICTIONS

THE ORIGINAL U.S. PROPOSAL CALLED FOR EARLY CONSULTATION AMONG THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS TO FIND A BASIS FOR PRACTICAL AND EFFECTIVE COOPERATIVE MEASURES FOR REDUCING TRADE BARRIERS. THE NEW ARTICLE ELIMINATES ANY SUCH IMMEDIATE ACTION.

IT URGES "FULFILLMENT" AS SOON AS POSSIBLE OF THE "COMMON ASPIRATION OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS TO FIND PRACTICAL INTERNATIONAL FORMULAS TO REDUCE BARRIERS OF ALL KINDS WHICH HINDER COMMERCE BETWEEN NATIONS," BUT SPECIFIES THAT SUCH MEASURES BE WITHIN "THE NORMS THAT ASSURE ALL THE PEOPLES OF THE WORLD HIGH STANDARDS OF LIVING AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF THEIR ECONOMIES ON A SOUND BASIS."

MAR 7 - 1945

A41

THE CHARTER'S ARTICLE ON EQUAL ACCESS TO THE WORLD'S TRADE AND RAW MATERIALS WAS WIDENED PERCEPTIBLY TO SATISFY LATIN AMERICAN DEMANDS FOR THEIR FAIR SHARE OF U.S. MACHINERY TO INDUSTRIALIZE THEMSELVES AFTER THE WAR.

IN OTHER ACTION YESTERDAY THE CONFERENCE'S COMMITTEE ON WORLD SECURITY ADOPTED A RESOLUTION REQUESTING CHANGES IN THE DUMBARTON OAKS WORLD SECURITY PLAN THAT WOULD PERMIT AMERICAN NATIONS TO SOLVE THEIR OWN DISPUTES. IT WILL BE BROUGHT BEFORE THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

MEXICO CITY, MARCH 6-(AP)-FOLLOWING IS THE TEXT OF THE COMBINED U.S.-URUGUAYAN RESOLUTION ON "THE FREE ACCESS TO INFORMATION," ADOPTED TODAY BY AN INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE COMMITTEE:

WHEREAS:

IT IS THE FIRM DESIRE, REPEATEDLY AFFIRMED BY THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS, TO ASSURE A PEACE THAT DEFENDS AND PROTECTS EVERYWHERE THE FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS OF MAN AND PERMITS ALL PEOPLE TO LIVE FREE FROM THE EVILS OF TYRANNY, OPPRESSION, AND SLAVERY;

THE PROGRESS OF MANKIND DEPENDS ON THE SUPREMACY OF TRUTH AMONG MEN:

TRUTH IS THE ENEMY OF TYRANNY, WHICH CANNOT EXIST WHERE TRUTH PREVAILS, SO THAT THOSE WHO WOULD ERECT TYRANNIES ARE CONSTRAINED TO ATTEMPT ITS SUPPRESSION OR TO RAISE BARRIERS AGAINST IT:

FREEDOM OF COMMUNICATION OF THOUGHT, ORAL AS WELL AS WRITTEN, IS THE ESSENTIAL CONDITION TO THE DEVELOPMENT OF A WATCHFUL PUBLIC OPINION THROUGHOUT THE WORLD TO GUARD AGAINST ANY ATTEMPT OF AGGRESSION:

ONE OF THE MOST HARMFUL METHODS THAT HAS BEEN USED BY THE TOTALITARIAN GOVERNMENTS CONTRARY TO THE DICTATES OF HUMANITY IS TO ISOLATE THEIR OWN COUNTRIES FROM THE INFLUENCE OF FOREIGN INFORMATION, DEPRIVING THEM OF ACCESS TO, AND EXACT KNOWLEDGE OF, THE INTERNAL SITUATION EXISTING IN OTHER COUNTRIES:

IT IS ONE OF THE FUNDAMENTAL LESSONS OF THE PRESENT WORLD WAR THAT THERE CAN BE NO FREEDOM PEACE, OR SECURITY WHERE MEN ARE NOT ASSURED OF FREE ACCESS TO THE TRUTH THROUGH VARIOUS MEDIA OF PUBLIC INFORMATION:

THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE ON PROBLEMS OF WAR AND PEACE RECOMMEND:

1. THAT THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS RECOGNIZE THEIR ESSENTIAL OBLIGATION TO GUARANTEE TO THEIR PEOPLE FREE AND IMPARTIAL ACCESS TO SOURCES OF INFORMATION;

2. THAT WITH THIS ASSURANCE IN VIEW THEY UNDERTAKE, UPON THE CONCLUSION OF THE WAR, THE EARLIEST POSSIBLE ABANDONMENT OF THOSE MEASURES OF CENSORSHIP AND OF CONTROL OVER THE SERVICES OF PRESS AND RADIO, WHICH HAVE BEEN NECESSARY IN WARTIME TO COMBAT THE SUBVERSIVE POLITICAL TACTICS AND ESPIONAGE ACTIVITIES OF THE AXIS STATES.

3.- THAT THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS TAKE MEASURES INDIVIDUALLY AND IN COOPERATION WITH ONE ANOTHER TO PROMOTE A FREE EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION AMONG THEIR PEOPLES:

B52

4.-THAT THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS, HAVING ACCEPTED THE PRINCIPLE OF FREE ACCESS TO ALL FORMS OF INFORMATION, WILL DO EVERYTHING POSSIBLE TO ASSURE THAT WHEN A JUDICIAL ORDER IN THE WORLD IS GUARANTEED, THERE BE ESTABLISHED THE PRINCIPLE OF FREE EMISSION AND RECEPTION OF NEWS AND INFORMATION, ORAL OR WRITTEN, PUBLISHED IN BOOKS OR 6 5£3 043'', BROADCAST BY RADIO OR DISSEMINATED BY ANY OTHER MEANS, UNDER PROPER RESPONSIBILITY AND WITHOUT NEED OF PREVIOUS CENSORSHIP, THE SAME TO APPLY EQUALLY TO PRIVATE CORRESPONDENCE, LETTERS, TELEGRAMS, OR COMMUNICATIONS IN ANY OTHER FORM IN TIME OF PEACE.

UNITED NATIONS

BY JOHN M.HIGHTOWER

ASSOCIATED PRESS DIPLOMATIC NEWS EDITOR

WASHINGTON,MARCH 6-(AP)-FRANCE MAY BECOME A RALLYING POINT FOR SMALLER NATIONS SEEKING TO MAKE MAJOR CHANGES IN THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN FOR WORLD ORGANIZATION.

MANY DIPLOMATIC AUTHORITIES REGARD THIS AS THE MOST SIGNIFICANT DEVELOPMENT LIKELY TO RESULT FROM THE FAILURE OF GEN.CHARLES DE GAULLE'S GOVERNMENT TO JOIN WITH THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN, RUSSIA AND CHINA IN SPONSORING INVITATIONS TO THE APRIL 25 SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE.

IT ALREADY IS APPARENT THAT THERE WILL BE CONSIDERABLE CONTROVERSY AT THE CONFERENCE OVER THE POWERS OF THE SMALL AND MIDDLE SIZED COUNTRIES IN RELATION TO THE GREAT NATIONS WHICH WOULD HAVE A DOMINATING POSITION IN THE PROPOSED WORLD SECURITY COUNCIL.

AT THE MOMENT FRANCE IS IN A MIDDLE GROUND POSITION. THE DE GAULLE GOVERNMENT ALREADY HAS BEEN ASSURED OF A PLACE AS ONE OF THE BIG FIVE PERMANENT MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL. YET IT SPECIFICALLY

30.24 —23675

DECLINED TO SUBMIT ITSELF TO THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN BY DECLINING TO SPONSOR INVITATIONS TO THE SAN FRANCISCO MEETING, THEREBY IN A MEASURE DETACHING ITSELF FROM THE ANGLO-AMERICAN-SOVIET-CHINESE LINEUP.

ADDED TO THIS IS THE FACT THAT FRENCH DIPLOMACY TRADITIONALLY SEEKS LEADERSHIP OF THE SMALLER EUROPEAN NATIONS. IN ATTEMPTING TO REGAIN SUCH LEADERSHIP NOW DE GAULLE CONCEIVABLY MAY STRENGTHEN HIS POSITION IN RELATION TO THE OTHER BIG NATIONS.

THE FULL STORY OF WHY FRANCE DID NOT BECOME ONE OF THE SPONSORING POWERS REMAINS TO BE TOLD OFFICIALLY. BUT INFORMATION AVAILABLE HERE INDICATES THE FOLLOWING SEQUENCE OF EVENTS:

THE FORM OF THE INVITATION WAS DECIDED AT THE YALTA CONFERENCE. IN THIS INVITATION, AS RELEASED YESTERDAY BY THE STATE DEPARTMENT, THE INVITING GOVERNMENTS PROPOSED THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN AS "A BASIS" FOR THE CHARTER OF THE NEW LEAGUE TO BE WORKED OUT AT SAN FRANCISCO.

CHINA AND FRANCE, ALTHOUGH NOT PRESENT AT YALTA, WERE INVITED TO SUBSCRIBE TO THIS INVITATION. CHINA, HAVING BEEN IN ON THE DUMBARTON OAKS TALKS LAST FALL, READILY AGREED. FRANCE, NOT HAVING BEEN IN ON THOSE TALKS, ASKED THAT A RESERVATION BE WRITTEN INTO THE INVITATION.

BY THIS RESERVATION THE FRENCH SOUGHT TO GAIN SPECIFIC ASSURANCES THAT THEY COULD PROPOSE ANY AMENDMENTS AT SAN FRANCISCO.

LAST WEEK FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER GEORGES BIDAULT HAD A SERIES OF CONFERENCES IN LONDON WITH BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN.

A7WX

AS A RESULT THE BRITISH AND UNITED STATES GOVERNMENTS ARE UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE AGREED TO SOME MODIFICATION OF THE INVITATION. WHETHER THE FRENCH THEN SUGGESTED FURTHER CHANGES IS NOT CLEAR. AT ANY RATE, A TIME LIMIT WAS FIXED, AND IT IS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE BEEN DELAYED AT LEAST ONCE.

FINALLY, MOSCOW VETOED THE MODIFICATION, AND SO MUCH TIME THEN HAD ELAPSED THE OTHER GOVERNMENTS DECIDED TO GO AHEAD.

SO FAR AS COULD BE LEARNED HERE THERE IS NO RESTRICTION IN THE INVITATION ISSUED YESTERDAY WHICH WOULD PREVENT ANY OF THE SPONSORS FROM PROPOSING CHANGES IN THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN. FOR THAT REASON THE FRENCH POSITION ON THIS POINT IS STILL PUZZLING TO DIPLOMATS.

PARIS DISPATCHES SAID THE FORMAL INVITATION TO FRANCE TO PARTICIPATE AS A SPONSOR ARRIVED ONLY SUNDAY.

WHY RUSSIA ULTIMATELY DECLINED TO AGREE TO THE FRENCH RESERVATIONS, AS REPORTED, WAS NOT EXPLAINED. THERE HAVE BEEN SOME INDICATIONS, HOWEVER, THAT PREMIER STALIN FELT DE GAULLE WAS SEEKING TO EXERCISE POWER BEYOND THAT THE RUSSIAN LEADER THINKS HE ACTUALLY POSSESSES IN TERMS OF REAL FORCE DEVOTED TO DEFEATING THE ENEMY.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD THAT THERE HAVE BEEN POLICY DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THE TWO BEFORE.

ONE REPORT IS THAT AT THE TIME DE GAULLE VISITED MOSCOW AND MADE THE FRANCO-RUSSIAN PACT, HE DECLINED TO RECOGNIZE THE LUBLIN GOVERNMENT OF POLAND, TAKING THE POSITION HELD BY THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN THAT IT WAS NOT THEN A TRULY REPRESENTATIVE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

ALONG THE SAME LINE THERE HAVE BEEN REPORTS HERE THAT IT WAS STALIN WHO TURNED THUMBS-DOWN ON DE GAULLE'S PRESENCE AT YALTA.

ON THE OTHER HAND, THERE IS NO EVIDENCE THAT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT OR PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL ACTUALLY PROPOSED THAT DE GAULLE BE INVITED

THIRD ARMY DRIVE CARRIES TO RHINE

Thousands of Vehicles Blasted, Long Columns of Prisoners Captured.

By EDWARD D. BALL

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY IN THE RHINELAND, March 7 — (AP) The American Third Army stormed back to the Rhine in the Coblenz vicinity today in a spectacular burst of speed.

Armored spearheads reached the Rhine northwest of Coblenz, the city which the Third quit in 1923 after serving as an army of occupation following the First World War.

Thousands of retreating vehicles and tanks were blasted into flaming wrecks and uncounted thousands of prisoners were taken in the Third Army's most spectacular and overwhelming surge since Normandy.

It was a magnificent, triumphant advance by the onrushing tanks through village after village, through lanes of rain-sodden white flags and past columns of prisoners trudging toward the rear. Often they were unescorted and too numerous for the fast-moving tank men to count.

German troops gave up in batches from a half dozen to whole companies and they strung out for miles toward the rear after being disarmed and left on their own to find their way back to prisoner of war cages.

With them were additional thousands of liberated slave laborers garbed in ragged bits of their own uniforms—Bulgars, Poles, Russians, Yugoslavs and Italians, whose wretched faces wreathed in smiles and who gave American style salutes as the armed forces passed.

In contrast were the dejected, mud-spattered German soldiers, their arms upraised wearily in surrender.

Coblenz, which almost is within the grasp of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's armor, was the Third Army's headquarters after the last war. It was just across the river on the Rhine's east bank that the Stars and Stripes were hauled down from over the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein by the departing doughboys when the occupation ended.

In 1923, Maj. Raymond O. Barton of Ada, Okla., presided at the flag-lowering ceremony. As a Major General, "Tubby" Barton commanded the Fourth Infantry Division, now a part of the Third Army, in this war until he was forced recently to relinquish his command because of ill health. Barton had planned to borrow the same flag from Secretary of War Stimson, in whose office it is now kept, for a rehoisting ceremony when Coblenz falls.

Picture of Defeat

The smashed German army facing the American Third on this side of the Rhine was the most complete picture of defeat the war in the west has produced. Its men were beaten, its equipment destroyed. Unending grey-green columns shuffled along in a cold drizzle which at times turned to mushy snow. As night fell they still were coming, moving past smouldering carcasses of Nazi military vehicles ranging from Royal Tiger tanks and big Nazi pieces to small horse-drawn ammunition carts, with the dead animals sprawled in their traces.

Many of the Germans held aloft sticks from which drooped white flags the prisoners had fashioned from first aid gauze. Some looked happy and tipped their caps to disinterested Americans. The unshaven faces of others were grim masks as they stared straight ahead.

There was no semblance of a front after the double-banked retreating columns had been cut to pieces. During the day I made a 100-mile roundtrip by jeep between the Luxembourg border and what, late in the afternoon, was the farthest point of penetration by one of the Fourth Armored's spearheads. The only warlike action I saw on the part of the Germans was one artillery shell which whistled across a tank column and burst in a field 25 yards away. It did no damage. And it came from the flanks somewhere about 20 miles behind the leading elements.

LAST 29 MILES COVERED IN 12 HOURS AS GOAL IS WON NORTH OF COBLENZ

Patton's 4th Armored Division Captures Hundreds Of Germans In Great Advance As Bonn's Fall Seems Imminent

WIRE

With U.S. 3d Army, March 7 (AP)—The United States 4th Armored Division reached the Rhine River today.

The 4th's stab to the river was made against only light resistance. Hundreds of Germans surrendered as the tanks of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton sped through town after town.

The Rhine was reached at 5.45 P.M., at a point northwest of Coblenz approximately 58 hours after the 4th made its jumpoff.

From its starting point to the Rhine the armored force covered 65 miles, racing the final 29 miles in twelve hours today.

Germans Unable to Maintain Any Semblance of Front Against Yanks.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

PARIS, Thursday, March 8.—(AP) Tanks of the American Third Army stormed up to the west bank of the Rhine northwest of Coblenz last night, having plunged more than 50 miles inside Germany in a whirlwind advance that sent the enemy reeling in chaotic defeat.

NIGHT

The German collapse on the Third Army front, started by the Fourth Armored division's breakthrough at Bitburg three days ago, soon developed into a route with other units of the Third Army plunging eastward and the First Army swinging southward after the capture of Cologne.

It was the Ardennes breakthrough in reverse. The Germans obviously had nothing with which to prevent the American sweep from enveloping Coblenz and Bonn.

Dispatches said there actually was no semblance of a front in the Third Army sector.

BLACKOUT CLAMPED ON FIRST ARMY AGAIN

Another Important Push Seen Shaping Up—Third Army Continues Pursuit of Routed Nazis Further South.

DAY — LONG

Paris, March 7 (A. P.).—The American First Army moved within two miles of the Rhine city of Bonn tonight while the swift and powerful Third Army closed within fourteen miles of the middle Rhine and less than twenty of Coblenz.

A censorship blackout suddenly was imposed on the First Army operations—secrecy similar to that which prevailed before the great Rhineland breakthrough and the Third Army dash through the Eifels. The blackout suggested all-important developments were in progress.

The First Army, closing on Bonn from all sides, was said officially to have gained up to seven miles during the day, overrunning more than a dozen settlements including Bruhl, five miles south of Cologne. The blackout prevented pinpointing the advances on the First Army right flank, which has lagged far behind the left and center in the Cologne and Bonn areas.

DAY

In the Wesel pocket last sizable German bridgehead west of the lower Rhine, the Germans resisted with the utmost violence in an effort to rescue the last of an estimated 20,000 troops sealed in a pocket eight miles long and four to five miles wide. British, Canadian and American Ninth Army troops closed within five miles of Wesel, Ruhr corner city.

Foe Fights Hard at Wesel.

The Ninth Army cleaned out pockets south of Orsoy and gave the Allies a solid footing on the Rhine from Cologne to east of Rheinberg. The Thirty-fifth Infantry Division of the Ninth Army ran into bitter resistance at Orssenberg, two miles northwest of Rheinberg on the south side of the Wesel pocket but enemy units were crossing to the east bank of the river in any sort of craft they could find.

Determined rearguard resistance held Canadian troops before Xanten at the northern corner of the pocket. But Bonningham southwest of Xanten was captured.

Major-Gen. Hugh Gaffey's Fourth Armored Division approached the middle Rhine in the Coblenz area after a thirty-seven-mile sweep since early Monday. His tanks and infantry captured vast stores of booty—stacked for miles along the road.

— 3d Army Outflanks Saar

The exact spot where Gaffey was nearest the middle Rhine was not announced. Censorship prevented naming the towns he took in his five-mile advance overnight from a point 20 miles from Coblenz.

The 3d Army's dash toward the Rhine outflanked the Saar industrial district from the north, just as the 7th Army outflanked it from the south.

Prisoners were taken by the thousands. The whole German line in the rugged Eifels was collapsing. Third Army losses were extremely light, Associated Press Correspondents Edward D. Ball and Thoburn Wiant wirelessed.

The 4th Armored Division, a star unit of the 3d Army, was plunging toward the Rhine in a narrow corridor—sometimes only the width of a road—extending like a crooked finger northeast from the Kyll bridgehead east of Bitburg. Infantry followed the 4th Armored Division in vehicles of all descriptions.

Scores Of Towns Taken

As the 4th raced toward the Rhine, the 5th Infantry Division widened the corridor farther back. Scores of towns were taken. Most of their names were withheld under the continuing 3d Army blackout.

Cologne and its vast ruins was the largest German city to fall in either this war or the last. Its 768,000 peacetime population made it the size of Boston proper. Though shattered by repeated bombings, it is still the greatest traffic center in western Germany and was the site of vast and varied industries. Surprisingly, most Germans appeared friendly as conquering tanks and foot troops moved through its streets.

Cologne was British occupation headquarters between 1918 and January 31, 1926. It was one of the first cities into which Hitler sent his goosestepping Wehrmacht on March 7, 1936, scrapping the Treaty of Versailles. Its five bridges across the 1,300-to-1,700-foot Rhine have been wrecked.

Moving on Bonn, Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's 1st Army gained up to eight miles last night Outside the city, the 1st Army was 35 miles northwest of Coblenz and in a position to form with the 3d Army a trap on Germans tarrying in the Eifels.

Cities In Patton's Path

Patton's army, nearing the Rhine, also was in a position to sweep south along its valley toward Karlsruhe past such imposing cities as Coblenz, Weisbaden, Mainz, Ludwigshafen, Mannheim and Speyer and, with Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th Army, cut off Germans in the Saar.

Patton was past and behind the Siegfried Line; Patch was before a double belt of the fortifications at their thickest sections.

On the approaches to Bonn, the 1st Army was within 5 miles of Bad Godesberg, where a triumphant Hitler humbled the late Neville Chamberlain after the Munich pact that preluded the present war.

Towns Taken By Hodges

A partial censorship forbade naming all the towns overrun by the 1st Army between Cologne and overwhelmed and the German troops appeared concerned only with retreating to safety or surrendering as quickly as possible. Masses of Nazi equipment were destroyed and supply dumps were captured so rapidly that the loot had not been evaluated.

There was no estimate of the number of German troops caught in the pocket formed west of the Rhine and north of the Moselle by the American First and Third armies. A stretch of the Rhine's west bank approximately 30 miles long separates the two American forces and the pocket extends almost 30 miles to the west.

The disorganized Germans thus encircled face inevitable death or capture if they cannot get across the river before the pocket is eliminated.

There are six bridges across the Rhine between Bonn and Coblenz and five still were usable at last reports.

The Fourth Armored division reached the river just northwest of Coblenz in a drive which carried 29 miles in 12 hours. In its greatest surge since Normandy the Third Army had covered 65 miles in 58 hours, making the western Allies' deepest penetration of the Reich.

The enemy fell back in hectic retreat and offered but little resistance as Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's men rolled through town after town and streaked past thousands of prisoners, captured in such numbers they could not all be chaperoned to the rear.

To the north the U. S. First Army struck southward along the Rhine's west bank from captured Cologne to a point only two miles from Bonn, the First and Third armies together having formed in the past week the greatest Allied breakthrough since St. Lo.

Prisoner Bag Soars

The Allied prisoner bag on the West front soared past the one-million mark as Gen. Patton's men rounded them up by the thousands with such speed an accurate count was not possible tonight.

The German army which fled before the Third "was the most complete picture of defeat the war in the west has produced," wrote the veteran Associated Press Correspondent Edward D. Ball. "Its men were beaten, its equipment destroyed."

Thousands of German vehicles and armor were blasted into flaming wrecks, and German prisoners streamed westward in droves through the fourth division's narrow corridor, many of them unescorted and carrying white flags over their heads.

American Might

"Civilians along the corridor watched in amazement as the American armor rolled past hour after hour," Associated Press Correspondent Thoburn Wiant wrote from the Third Army front. "Many towns through which the armor sped were untouched because the Germans were not ready, or were unwilling, to offer resistance."

The city of Coblenz, lying at the confluence of the Rhine and the Moselle and serving as a communications hub for a large area, was "almost within the grasp" of the Third Army tonight, Correspondent Ball wrote from the front.

In captured Cologne, the civilians released from 12 years of the iron discipline of Nazi rule, went on a spree yesterday. Throngs which obviously had been dipping heavily into the city's wine stocks, raided stores and carried off all the goods they could.

American troops, Associated Press Correspondent Hal Boyle wrote, were too busy with their own problems to do more than hold "this demonstration of spontaneous looting by the city's poor" in check.

One American officer was quoted as saying Cologne was like "Saturday night back home when the carnival's in town" as the crowds milled around carrying boxes of cheese, cases of liquor and clothing they had pilfered.

FIRST

With the U. S. ~~Third~~ army smashing against Nazi defenses only two miles from Bonn, river city south of captured Cologne, Gen. Eisenhower's mighty forces threatened to overrun the remaining enemy-held portion of Germany north of the Moselle river and perhaps cut off most of the German troops still fighting west on a 50-mile sector of the Rhine from Coblenz to Cologne.

On this ninth anniversary of Hitler's remilitarization of the Rhineland American troops had cleared out all of shattered Cologne except the extreme southeast corner and were drawn up firmly along a 90-mile stretch of the wide Rhine from Cologne north to the Dutch border with the exception of a major enemy pocket at Wesel.

At latest report Gen. George S. Patton's crack Fourth Armored division had speared eastward 44 miles in its three-day breakthrough from east of Bitburg toward the middle Rhine and had reached the vicinity of Monreal, only four miles from Mayen on a main railline to Coblenz.

Equipment Abandoned

The flying wedge was meeting scarcely any resistance, and Associated Press front dispatches reported that abandoned German equipment and disorganized enemy troops were being gathered up wholesale. Patton's armor, followed by motorized infantry, was speeding toward the Rhine virtually at will.

Other Third army units fanned out east of the Kyll river from which the breakthrough started, driving generally northeastward. The Fifth division, protecting the Fourth Armored's right flank, worked northward and captured Spangdahlen, seven miles east of Bitburg, and entered Schwarzenborn, 10 miles northeast of Bitburg.

The 90th Infantry captured Gerolstein and reached Peln, 10 miles due east of Pruem, while the 11th Armored crossed the Kyll some 12 miles northeast of Pruem and seized Oberbettingen and Neiderbettingen.

The whole strained German defense along the Kyll river line appeared doomed to be chopped off between the Third army's northeastward smash toward the Rhine and the southward thrust of the First army's men and armor from the vicinity of Rheinbach.

Somewhere between 10,000 and 20,000 Nazis were fighting hard to hold the Wesel bridgehead against converging Canadian, British and American troops, who had squeezed them into an area of about eight-by-five miles, and no important Allied advances were reported there today.

A field dispatch said an American Ninth army armored unit suffered heavily in a sharp tank battle just outside the captured town of Orssenberg, five miles south of Wesel. Nazis in that area were reported fleeing across the Rhine in ferrys, rowboats and anything that would float.

Headquarters slapped a blackout on operations of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army south of Rheinbach, which is 21 miles south of Cologne and nine miles southwest of Bonn. There were official reports, however, of American advances up to seven miles in this area.

Between the right flank of Hodges' army somewhere in the neighborhood of Rheinbach and the flying spearhead of Lt. George S. Patton's Third army driving toward the Rhine was a distance of about 25 miles, with large German forces backed up in a narrowing salient to the west.

Weather Aids Nazis

The Nazis continued to receive tremendous help from the weather, rain and low clouds over the entire Western front grounding Allied tactical air forces and preventing aerial interference with the enemy retreat.

In their scramble to get across the Rhine the Germans were thought to be completely confused about the progress of American tanks, especially in the area south and west on Bonn. Ninth division doughboys were poised for the assault on Bonn itself, toward which the defeated enemy garrison of Cologne was making a fighting retreat. Alfter and Gielsdorf, just west of Bonn, were in American hands.

The First army's 104th Infantry division went briskly about its task of clearing the last Nazis out of the Marienburg district of Cologne next to the river, while the Eighth Infantry division pushed across the Cologne-Euskirchen highway and captured Meschenich, three miles south of Cologne.

The First division advanced within two miles of the Rhine a point five miles northwest of Bonn, capturing 19 German anti-aircraft guns and 14 trucks, all intact and ready for use. The 78th infantry cleared Schweinheim and Kirchheim, more than five miles southeast of Euskirchen. Beyond that its advance was cloaked in secrecy.

North of Cologne other First army units cleared the Germans out of the town of Zons, on the west bank of the Rhine six miles south of Duesseldorf, a field dispatch reported. This was the last Nazi bridgehead between Cologne and Wesel. German resistance was extremely light all along the First army front.

RIGHT

American troops who rolled into Bruhl, five miles south of Cologne and two miles west of the Rhine, found the town choked with between 10,000 and 20,000 refugees from Cologne. There was no confirmation of a report that the Germans were flying white surrender flags from windows in Duisberg, across the Rhine from Homberg.

British and Canadian troops smashing at the enemy's Wesel bridgehead were reported meeting the fiercest rearguard action they had encountered since they opened their offensive west of Kleve a month ago.

In their suicidal "nuisance" stand the Nazis fought Canadian forces to a standstill before the stronghold of Xanten, seven miles west of Wesel, and were making a house-to-house stand in Veen, eight miles northwest of Wesel.

MAR 8 - 1945

Bonn. Among those captured, however, were Meschenich, Fischenich, Olleheim, Rheinback, Schweinheim, Kirchheim, Keldenich, Sotenich, Kall and Brenig. Steing, Neurhof and Buchhoven were reached. A soft spot had been found in German lines and the only resistance was from a motley mixture of Germans, sacrificed to protect withdrawals across the river, up to 1,500 feet wide at Bonn.

Dispatches from the front listed these prisoners taken by armies since D day and the start of the current campaign:

	Present D-Day.	Campaign.
U. S. 1st.....	268,190	22,165
U. S. 3d.....	200,992	33,307
U. S. 9th.....	89,326	27,035
Canadian 1st...	141,614	20,000
U. S. 7th.....	93,107	....
French 1st.....	85,824	....
British 2d.....	104,336	....
FFI and others.	19,992	....

The United States 3d Army opened the current campaign on January 30, the Canadians attacked February 8 and the 1st and 9th armies started driving across the Roer on February 23. Official figures from the fronts were often a week or ten days ahead of those at supreme headquarters.

The 1st Army took 2,319 prisoners yesterday and the 9th took 1,700.

Mopping Up Cologne

First Army headquarters said a few snipers and remnant Germans were still being mopped up in Cologne, but the 25 square miles of the Rhineland capital was seven eighths cleared.

At Brenig near Bonn, the 1st Army captured nineteen anti-aircraft guns and fourteen trucks intact last night. Three usable Mark IV tanks were captured near by.

There seemed no reason to suppose that the shattered German Army could save either Bonn or Coblenz.

Rain Hinders Planes

The whole front was splattered by rain for a second day, preventing close air support during the early morning. British heavy bombers overnight added to the chaos and confusion of remnants of the German 1st Parachute and 15th armies trying to escape from the Wesel bridgehead as American, British and Canadian troops cracked it from the north, south and west. Three Allied prongs were pointed at Wesel, which is east of the Rhine.

Canadian infantry and tanks were spearing from positions just west and north of Xanten, Rhine ferry point, and were six miles from Wesel. The Rhine west bank was in Canadian hands all the way from the Wesel area to Nijmegen in Holland. Sonsebeck fell.

Valuable Regions Overrun

Between them, the Allies had overrun great stretches of valuable Ruhr and Rhineland industrial and farming regions.

The 9th Army, commanded by Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson, fought in the outskirts of Ossenberg, six miles south of Wesel, against dwindling resistance.

Supreme headquarters had no official information about conditions in the ruined city of Cologne, but field dispatches indicated that the great Gothic cathedral stood, only slightly damaged, in a sea of surrounding devastation. The damage to the cathedral can be repaired, advices said.

Other 3d Army Gains

Aside from the spectacular 4th Armored Division dash toward Coblenz and the middle Rhine, other 3d Army divisions gained up to 2 miles on a 35-mile front, capturing at least five towns.

Russians Open All-Out Attack, Hurl Seven Armies Into Drive

MAR 8 1945

By ROMNEY WHEELER

LONDON, Thursday, March 8—(AP) The Russians hurled seven armies yesterday into an all-out frontal offensive towards Berlin from bridgeheads on the Oder river 30 to 40 miles to the east, the Germans announced.

Moscow was officially silent, as is customary at the start of a major operation, but unofficial dispatches from the Soviet capital hinted guardedly that the German accounts might be substantially correct.

German broadcasts said the attackers, Marshal G. H. Zhukov's First White Russian army group, jumped off after a gigantic 24-hour artillery barrage and punched into the outer defenses of Kuestrin, west-bank Oder river fortress which was under attack from the north, east and south. Two tank armies were among Zhukov's forces; these alarmed announcers said.

A dispatch late last night from Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore in Moscow said "many signs pointed tonight to early launching of the all-out offensive on Berlin," and continued, "the logical place for the first attack is Marshal Zhukov's Oder front.

"Large-scale scouting operations have been under way for several days out of Zhukov's bridgeheads

"These operations, plus the magnificent victories in Pomerania, in which the Russians hurled the Nazis to the Baltic and dropped them off the Oder flank, indicated that Zhukov may be ready to commence activities."

100 Mile Front

The Germans said Zhukov's activities already had commenced with a roaring offensive that extended along about 100 miles of the Oder front but was concentrated mainly almost directly east of Berlin.

The Russians officially dealt with other sectors in their regular communique and in three orders of the day by Premier Stalin.

One order announced that Zhukov's right wing, which only Tuesday had thrust to the Oder's Baltic sea outlet, had captured Stepenitz, Gollnow and Massow, 15 and 20 miles northeast and east of Stettin. The communique listed other towns captured in that zone along the Oder's east bank and the Stettiner Haff (Lagoon) from 13 miles northeast of Stettin northward to the sea, a distance of 35 miles.

Stettin, Berlin's outlet to the Baltic, thus was placed in increasingly grave danger and had lost much of its importance as an outer citadel for the capital.

Another Stalin order announced that the Second White Russian army had captured Starogard, 25 miles south of Danzig, and Mewe, 35 miles southeast, while the communique added a list of 200 communities taken by that army in 5 to 6-mile advances along a front stretching from the Vistula river to the Baltic near Rueganwalde.

Stalin's third order, recalling a forgotten front, said the Second Ukraine army had taken Banska-Stiavnica (Schmenitz) in Slovakia 82 miles northeast of Bratislava.

The communique added five other towns to the captured list in the Banska Stiavnica area.

It also credited the First White Russian group with final liquidation of an encircled German grouping near the Pomeranian town of Schivelbein, with at least 8,000 of the enemy captured, including a lieutenant general and his staff.

The Germans said the Russians had broken into the Baltic fortress of Kolberg and were hastening to end the entire Baltic campaign, but devoted most of their broadcasts to accounts of the offensive aimed at Berlin.

The Nazis said Shukov was attacking repeatedly from bridgeheads on the west bank of the Oder, with Kuestrin as the focal point but with the assaults constantly being extended.

A late broadcast by the German Transocean agency referred to attacks extending from Schwedt on the north through Kuestrin to Crossen on the southeast—a river frontage distance of more than 100 miles.

In referring to the onslaught, which they contended was being held generally in check, the Germans for the first time used the designation "east of Berlin."

South of Kuestrin—toward its twin river bastion Frankfurt, 18 miles up the Oder—other Russian forces struck for new bridgeheads across the river and to widen those which the Nazis conceded Soviet troops already had established in the last several weeks.

German broadcasts also said Russian armor was attacking Zehden, on the east bank of the Oder 31 miles northeast of Berlin and 28 miles northwest of Kuestrin. A Berlin commentator suggested this assault could be developed into a flanking movement on Berlin.

Faces Frontal Assault

Meanwhile, northeast of Berlin, Stettin, port of the capitol, was faced with a frontal assault by Marshal Zhukov's north-wing forces which already have neutralized the great shipbuilding and commercial center with drives from the north and south.

A German frontline broadcast said "close formations" of Russian tanks were driving toward Stettin through a snowstorm on the main road from Stargard. The account said these forces already were well past the northern tip of Lake Madu and were probably within 10 miles of the port which already was under fire from Russian artillery and warplanes.

The Soviets reported Russian troops had captured the city of Wollin, 28 miles north of Stettin, and were sweeping across Wollin, the first of the stepping stone islands in Stettin bay to the north. The daring drive was aimed at cutting off Stettin from the sea.

The city of Wollin is on the coastal highway leading to the U-boat base of Swinemuende and westward to Mecklenburg province, north of Berlin.

MAR 8 - 1945

Moscow has never officially claimed to have crossed the Oder before Berlin, but Izvestia in a front dispatch said the Russians had established bridgeheads across an unnamed river and told of the tremendous enemy fire the Red Army had to overcome to get to the Berlin side.

Southeast of Berlin the Germans were fighting a delaying campaign in an effort to prevent Marshal Ivan S. Koneff from smashing toward the capital from the flank. A Berlin spokesman said Hungary, Eastern Slovakia and Lauban also were scenes of increasing action and claimed a German counter-attack had recaptured Lauban. However, Berlin acknowledged the loss of Banska Stiavnica.

Lauban is on the Queiss River east of Goerlitz and is at the extreme southern end of Marshal Koneff's front opposite Dresden.

New Red Drive Toward Berlin Is Reported

KRASCHKE

London March 7 (AP)—Russian troops have flung a major assault at Kuestrin intended to overwhelm that fortress on the Oder River, 39 miles east of Berlin, and "establish further attacking bases" against the Nazi capital, the German high command declared today.

The 1st White Russian Army attacked north and south of the city after a 24-hour artillery barrage, the Germans said. Weeks ago the Germans reported Soviet bridgeheads over the Oder from 30 to 40 miles from Berlin both above and below besieged Kuestrin.

The new report of action on the Oder came as the western allies threatened Germany's Rhine River line.

Not Mentioned By Moscow

Moscow dispatches made no mention of the Berlin-Oder front, but said Soviet troops were sweeping across Wollin, the first of the steppingstone islands in Stettin Bay to the north, in a push aimed at cutting off Stettin from the sea.

They captured the city of Wollin, 28 miles north of Stettin, on the coastal route leading to the U-boat base of Swinemuende and beyond to Germany's Mecklenburg province north of Berlin.

A Transocean broadcast said Marshal Zhukov's army sought to knock out long-beleaguered Kuestrin "to win jumping-off ground for a drive on Berlin on the Oder's west bank."

Drive Extends To Frankfurt

The assault extended south toward Frankfurt, eighteen miles up the river, it added.

A full-fledged Soviet offensive from the east on Berlin has been awaited for weeks. The 1st Ukrainian Army is arrayed west of the Oder on Zhukov's southern flank.

The Russians threw seven successive attacks at Kuestrin's northeastern defenses, the Transocean broadcast continued, but they were repulsed.

It said the Soviet box barrage opened yesterday morning, with German guns replying, and then Soviet ground troops charged.

Stettin Approaches Hit

Northeast of Berlin, Zhukov was hammering at the approaches to Stettin, the port of the German capital. The Germans reported furious, unabated fighting on what remained of the Germans' Pomeranian front, cut up by two Soviet army groupings.

The Russians invading Wollin Island had hopped a river in the Oder delta. Beyond Wollin is Usedom Island, where the naval base of Swinemuende at the eastern tip stands sentinel on Stettin Bay. Roads across Usedom connect with Mecklenburg province north and northwest of Berlin.

Stettin Outskirts Shelled

The Red Army's guns were declared shelling Stettin's eastern and southern outskirts as infantrymen edged forward within sight of fires set in the big German port by Red air force raids.

In entering Wollin, the Russian troops crossed the Oder delta outlet stream of Dievenow. Capture of Cammin, on the Dievenow, 9 miles to the northeast, was announced late yesterday by Marshal Stalin in an order of the day.

The field dispatches said the troops that drove to Wollin also captured Tessin, 4½ miles to the east.

Wollin controls the railway and highway leading across the islands of the Oder estuary through Swinemuende, where water traffic from Stettin goes directly into the Baltic and westward into Mecklenburg province. This Russian group was said already to have captured a number of German naval installations.

To the northeast in the Polish Corridor, the Russian drive for Danzig was said to be progressing at a quickened pace. At the present speed it was believed Red Army troops should be at Danzig's gates within a week.

Along the Pomeranian shores of the Baltic, between the Danzig and Stettin areas, many Germans were said to be trying to escape by sea. Heavy fighting was reported in Kolberg.

Guns pounding Altdamm, 4 miles east of Stettin across the Dammscher See, also were directed against trains and trucks carrying German forces out of the dwindling German-held territory to the north. The bottleneck was being narrowed by the hour.

Heavy fighting was raging in the outskirts of Gollnow, 14 miles northeast of Stettin, across the Dammscher See. Gollnow is a major railroad center.

Nazi Artillery Augmented

The Oder is narrow and held in by dykes through this strip of land. The Germans, apparently fearing the Russians may push across it and curve against Stettin from the north, have poured strong artillery and infantry forces into its defense.

On the south the Russians also struck a heavy blow at the defenses of Stettin by a prolonged shelling of the Stettin-Berlin railroad.

To the east and northeast, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army reached the Baltic at new points and made progress in wiping out elements of the German troops backed against the coast in both Pomerania and Danzig territory.

ALLIED BOMBERS CONTINUE ATTACK TO ISOLATE RUHR

CHAMBERLIN

LONDON, March 7 — (AP) Approximately 1,200 American heavy bombers and strafing fighters stepped up the offensive aimed at isolating the Ruhr from main German supply lines today with attacks on three rail belts running into the menaced German industrial zone.

NIGHT

While the rail lines were being hammered, four motor fuel plants within the battered Ruhr were bombarded in a coordinated assault.

R.A.F. bombers were reported over western Germany again tonight by the Nazis' "achtung" warning service.

Round the Clock Raids

During the day British Halifaxes, continued round-the-clock attacks on enemy shipping in the Skagerrak, scored a direct hit on a big merchant vessel.

More than 900 Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the U. S. Eighth

MAR 8 - 1945

30.24 - 23679

Air force and 250 fighters attacked the long, concrete, four-track viaduct near Bielefeld, 60 miles northeast of the Ruhr on the main line to central Germany and struck at railyards at Soset, 30 miles off Dortmund, and Siegen, 35 miles east of Cologne.

Three benzol plants and an oil refinery in the Dortmund area, including the small but important Harpenerweg refinery and the Castrop Rauxel Benzol plant, also were bombed.

No German Planes

The bombers and fighters saw no German planes and encountered only meager anti-aircraft fire at Dortmund and Soest—none at the other targets. Only the Bielefeld viaduct could be bombed visually, however, because of clouds.

The weather also restricted close suport of ground forces by tactical units based in France and Belgium.

Eighth Air force operations today followed a seven-hour attack by R.A.F. Mosquito bombers and Lancasters last night on enemy troop and armor concentrations in the Wesel area on the east bank of the Rhine.

The Lancasters also delivered a heavy night attack on the seaside resort of Sassnitz, on Rugen island in the Baltic, which was packed with enemy shipping.

Meanwhile Berlin was visited by Mosquitos for the 15th consecutive night. Crews clearly saw flashes of Russian cannon to the east.

R.A.F. night attacks probably were made by more than 1,000 aircraft three were lost.

U.S. Planes Hit Oil Plants

JAMESON DAY

London, March 7 (AP)—More than 900 United States heavy bombers struck in a seven-pronged attack today at oil plants in the Dortmund area, a large railway viaduct at Bielefeld, and railroad yards at Soest and Siegen after steady RAF night assaults on German troops massed at Wesel on the Rhine.

The 8th Air Force bombers were covered by 250 fighters in this 23d straight day of aerial blows closely co-ordinated with the ground attack.

Oil targets included three benzol plants and a large refinery on Dortmund's outskirts. Bielefeld, Soest, and Siegen all are on main rail and highway routes from central and eastern Germany to the Western front.

To Slow Traffic

Smashing of the Bielefeld viaduct would stop the main flow of traffic from the big inland bases of Brunswick and Hannover to the Ruhr battlefield.

British night fleets numbering 1,000 bombers hammered two Nazi evacuation sites on the Western and Eastern fronts, pounding Wesel on the Rhine in the longest air attack ever carried out against a German city, and striking hard at the resort harbor of Sassnitz on the Baltic island of Ruegen. Sassnitz has been a terminal port for evacuation and supply of East Prussia.

Sassnitz was crowded with German shipping when the heavy bombers arrived. The main force bombed water-front installations, and others went for shipping offshore with 12,000-pound bombs.

At the same time the RAF's fleet Mosquitos attacked Berlin with two-ton blockbusters for the fifteenth straight night. Some of the crews said that while over Berlin they could see guns firing along the Russian front.

Obliteration of Wesel, 30 miles north of Duesseldorf, started late yesterday afternoon when Mosquitos skimmed over the city and found it packed with German troops, armor and transport fleeing in front of the Canadian 1st Army.

Lancasters Came To Aid

The Mosquitos dropped their bombs, then radioed for help. A short while later a large force of Lancasters was on its way across the lower tip of the North Sea, with other Lancasters and Mosquitos following at regular intervals.

Except for one brief interval, Wesel was bombed continually from about 8 P.M. last night until 5.30 this morning. Three hours later the German radio said it was under attack again.

Low overcast hampered close support work yesterday, but in response to a call from ground forces that Nazi artillery and fortified positions were holding them up, many Thunderbolt pilots volunteered for dive-bombing missions under a 500-foot ceiling.

Fortified Houses

They went after six fortified houses, two artillery positions, twelve flak positions and a fortified factory building.

"That's just what we wanted. Thanks," the ground controller radioes when it was all over.

A force of 100 United States 9th Air Force Marauders attacked the Siegburg marshaling yards sixteen miles from Cologne, where reconnaissance had spotted at least 2,000 railroad cars believed to be filled with supplies for defenses in the Cologne area.

BRITISH PLAN PACIFIC WAR

Navy To Play "Full" Part In Overthrow Of Japan

SINGLETON

London, March 7 (AP)—Britain is determined to range her navy alongside United States naval forces in the Pacific to play "a full and worthy part in the speedy overthrow of the Japanese Empire," A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, said in the House of Commons today.

He said that this would be done in spite of a renewed threat of a German U-boat offensive that might require strong British naval action in Atlantic waters.

His declaration came as London naval circles denied reports that British war vessels were likely to prove a minor factor in Pacific naval operations. Without referring to the reports, Alexander told Commons that "we have been steadily massing forces for the Far East, with the great fleet train supply, accommodation, repair and amenity ships which they will require to sustain them."

Just The Beginning

"Operations already conducted," he said, "are but the beginning of the tasks of the British Pacific Fleet and the East Indies Fleet, which will continue to be reinforced and supplied so that they may play an ever-growing part in the defeat of Japan."

Asserting that "experiences gained in supporting landings (in the European theater) will stand us in good stead in our united operations against Japan," the First Lord stated: "A large share of the task of defeating Japan will fall upon the men of the royal and merchant navies."

Alexander mentioned the powerful battleships Queen Elizabeth and Valiant and the battle cruiser Renown, as being "among other vessels" ready for action in the Far East.

Impotence Denied

In London, naval men countered reports that the British fleet was likely to prove an impotent factor in the Pacific because of lack of speed with the assertion that the Royal Navy has both battleships and carriers in those waters capable of matching American warships.

Regarding the threat in the Atlantic, Alexander said the Germans were "making great efforts to renew U-boat warfare on a big scale," which he contended shows that they still consider it to be their "best hope of averting defeat against a nation which lives by seaborne supplies."

These efforts, he cautioned, probably will result in the appearance of new types of German submarines. And with improved equipment, he said, "we may be sure they will develop new tactics."

U-Boat Sinkings Increase

Meanwhile, Alexander declared, the number of U-boats being sunk continues to increase satisfactorily."

In the House of Lords, Admiral of the Fleet Lord Chatfield urged a special Government investigation at the "earliest practicable moment" of the organization and administration of imperial defense "to safeguard the empire against future unreadiness for war."

"You must not think that because you have Dumbarton Oaks or San Francisco behind you that you are all right," he cautioned.

Criticism Of British Pacific Fleet Called 'Rubbish'

DAY

London, March 7 (AP)—First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander told Commons today that Britain was determined to range her navy in the Pacific alongside United States naval forces and to play "a full and worthy part in the speedy overthrow of the Japanese Empire."

His declaration came as London naval spokesmen denounced as "pure rubbish" a report from the Pacific theater suggesting that the British fleet was likely to prove an impotent factor in any direct operations against the Japanese homeland.

[Associated Press War Correspondent Charles McMurtry wrote yesterday that most United States warships in the Pacific could make 30 knots and that many traveled even faster, outrunning British vessels and making joint operations by the two fleets difficult. Richard Greenlees of the Australian newspaper, the Melbourne Sun, said the question of whether the British fleet would sail into Japanese waters was in the balance.]

Royal Navy Defended

Naval spokesmen here said the Royal Navy had both battleships and carriers in Asiatic waters capable of matching American warships in speed.

"The whole business of the use of the British fleet in the Pacific has been decided in London and Washington," one said. "Neither newspaper reports nor comment by persons trying to breathe dissension between the United States and Britain are likely to change the naval strategy."

Without reference to the reports, Alexander told Commons that "we have been steadily massing forces for the Far East, with a great fleet train of supply, accommodation, repair and amenity ships which they will require to sustain them."

Richelieu In Fleet

He said the fleet now included, "among other vessels," the battleships Queen Elizabeth and Valiant, the battle cruiser Renown, the "fine French battleship Richelieu," several British cruisers and British carriers.

"Operations already conducted are but the beginning of the tasks of the British Pacific Fleet and the East Indies Fleet which will continue to be reinforced and supplied so that they may play an ever-growing part in the defeat of Japan," Alexander said.

He reviewed the naval contribution to D-day in Europe, asserting that "experiences gained in supporting the landings will stand us in good stead in our united operations against Japan."

"A Large Share"

"A large share of the task of defeating Japan will fall upon the men of the royal and merchant navies," he said.

Alexander said the Germans had been "making great efforts to renew U-boat warfare on a big scale," and that with new equipment "we may be sure they will develop new tactics."

He said the number of U-boats sunk continued "to increase satisfactorily," but acknowledged that new types of submarines might be used by the enemy at any time. In recent months, however, enemy undersea craft operating around the United Kingdom have had but small successes, he added.

MAR 8 - 1945

'A Short Way To New War'

London, March 7 (AP)—Sir William Beveridge, prominent British Liberal, declared today the proposed system of voting in the projected world security organization is "a short way to a third world war."

In a letter to the Times, he said that if the Big Three's voting formula is adopted the small nation would be formally deprived "of all hope of effective support by the world organization for peace."

"The inevitable result of this," he added, "will be that the small powers must seek security in an alliance or dependence on one or other of the great powers.

"That, with spheres of influence, balance of power, competitive armaments, and the rest of the old bag of tricks, is a short way to a third World War."

Sir William said the voting proposals meant putting five permanent members of the Security Council above the law which is to be established for all other nations.

MRS. LUCE ON WAY TO ITALIAN FRONT

LONDON, March 7.—(AP) Representative Clare Boothe Luce shunned all public contacts during a 24-hour visit to England before leaving today for Italy on a trip covered by secrecy but bearing at least a semi-official stamp.

The Connecticut congresswoman will visit and probably write about British troops in Italy at the personal invitation of Field Marshal Alexander, the Allied Mediterranean commander.

Much more than the usual secrecy surrounded Mrs. Luce's visit here. She did not stay at her usual hotel and the American embassy said it did not know where she could be located. The war office finally confirmed, however, that her trip to Italy was of at least a semi-official character.

She was expected to return to England after the Italian visit to study and report on the contribution of British women to the war effort.

JUDGE ROSENMAN DISCUSSES RELIEF

LONDON, March 7—(AP) Judge Samuel Rosenman, personal representative of President Roosevelt, said today he had discussed with British officials the feasibility of freeing huge stores of food, clothing and raw materials here for ill-clad and starving western Europeans.

Asserting that his mission was "purely fact-finding" and that he had no authority to make commitments to anyone, Rosenman said he was concerned with studying the problem of civilian supplies required by France, Belgium, Holland, Norway and Denmark.

Rosenman, here with the largest entourage of economic experts the United States has sent abroad since the war started, said he was carrying on his talks with British officials to see that the problem of supplies to liberated Europe was adequately met.

There have been reports recently that the Allies proposed to send 10 per cent of stores the British had hoarded against disruption of communications by German air attacks to continental civilians and that the proposal only awaited Rosenman's approval.

The judge repeated he had no authority to make any agreement with the British on this point but that he had studied its feasibility and would make his recommendation to President Roosevelt.

...n To Four ...tish Kings Dies

...ndon, March 7 (AP)—Lord Daw... of Penn, physician to four British kings, died early today at the age of 80.

Lord Dawson, whose scientific skill had served London's East End poor as well as royalty, underwent an operation six months ago, but his convalescence was reassuring. Less than two weeks ago he was consulted concerning the illness of David Lloyd George.

Physician to King George VI, Lord Dawson also had held similar posts in the royal households of King Edward VII, King George V and King Edward VIII.

His brilliance had won him many high honors in the medical profession and honorary degrees from many universities, including the University of Pennsylvania. He was president of the Royal College of Physicians from 1931-38.

Portugal Coup d'Etat Fails

LONDON, March 7 (AP).—Paris radio today quoted "reports from Portugal" as saying that a group of high-ranking army officers had attempted a coup d'etat aimed at the overthrow of the government of Premier Antonio de Oleivera Salazar.

ANTI-NAZI POSTERS APPEAR IN GERMANY

LONDON, March 7 — (AP) The German press and radio exhorted men, women and children today to rise up and fight as the war's decision "approaches with giant strides."

"Every German, man, woman and child—young or aged—must now be a fighter," asserted and inspired editorial-broadcast. "We have no time for weaklings."

Within the Reich, the Moscow radio said, new disorders flared in Berlin, Munich and Dresden in which SS and police intervened.

"Volkssturm men in Dresden support the demonstration crowd and fired on the SS," German language broadcasts from Moscow said. "Anti-Hitler leaflets appear night after night in Hamburg and Berlin."

Wrecked Flying Fortress Found

LONDON, March 7 (AP).—Wreckage of a Flying Fortress containing the bodies of ten American airmen has been found on the slopes of a mountain on the Island of Arran, off the west Coast of Scotland some forty miles from Glasgow, it was disclosed today. Several weeks ago a Fortress was heard in trouble over the island where two planes previously had crashed, but bad weather prevented a search then.

Briton Demands New Mediterranean Base

London, March 7 (A. P.).—Major F. W. Cundiff, Conservative, said in Commons today that Britain should demand a new naval and air base on the African coast of the eastern Mediterranean.

"I am not at all concerned whether we have to take something off Italy," he said. "If a strip of land around Tripoli and another around Bengasi are necessary for our future protection we should take those steps."

Cheers greeted his assertion.

AID PREMIER'S WIFE

London, March 7 (A. P.).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden informed Commons today that Russia is taking steps at once to free the wife of Tomasz Arciszewski, Premier of the exiled Polish Government in London.

Questioned as to the reasons for her arrest, Mr. Eden said: "I have been given some, but I thought that in the light of the happy conclusion to my inquiries it would be better to leave it there."

Mr. Eden upheld Russia's claim to Koenigsberg, the capital of East Prussia and important Baltic seaport, stating that "so far as I am aware there is no considerable Polish element in the city."

STRIP-TEASERS OVER 50 URGED

London, March 7 (A. P.).—Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, a Conservative M. P., opened an inquiry in the House of Commons today into the strip-tease profession in Britain. He said that he would ask the Minister of Labor if, in view of the shortage of young women for war assignments and factory jobs and in view of "the wastage when misused in the theatrical profession, he will allow only women over 50 to strip-tease."

Commander Locker-Lampson said that he also wished to know how many women in Britain "are engaged in strip-tease, what is their average age and average wage and why some would not be safer employed overseas?"

Two Who Bailed out of Bomber Meet Old Classmates Behind Lines

A UNITED STATES BOMBER BASE, in England, March 7 (AP).—The crew of a United States 8th Air Force Liberator bomber had to bail out on the way back from a Feb. 26 raid on Berlin, and came down just behind the American lines in Germany.

The pilot, Lieutenant Virgil R. Trombly, landed in a tree. He was hauled down by a group of soldiers who took him to a near-by village. The first man to greet him there was an infantryman, Henry Dickinson, a neighbor and high school classmate at Chazy, N. Y., whom Trombly hadn't seen in four years.

Co-pilot Lieutenant Frank M. Gorman landed in the market place of the same village. The first soldier he saw was Lieutenant David Wick, a neighbor and classmate at Shaker Heights, Ohio.

1,002,929 Nazis Captured In West

Allied Headquarters, Paris, March 7 (AP)—The total prisoner count for Allied armies on the Western front reached 1,002,929 today.

Of that total the American 1st Army captured 268,140. The 3d Army took 199,086, while the 7th bagged 93,107 and the 9th 89,330.

The Canadian 1st Army has captured 143,114, the British 2d Army 104,336, the French 1st Army 85,824 and the French Forces of the Interior 19,992.

One-Legged R/ Man Is Death To Na s

LONDON—(AP)—A one-legged night - fighter observer who "argued his way into the RAF" has helped to shoot down two—probably three—German planes over the Continent since D-Day.

Flt.-Lt. S. H. J. Elliot, of Radlett, Hertfordshire, had a leg amputation when a boy, but was determined to fly. He was eventually accepted after many medical boards, and when the invasion of France came was flying with the County of Middlesex Squadron, one of the RAF's most famous night-fighter outfits.

"Elliot is a man for whom we all have tremendous admiration," said a colleague. "He got himself into the air by sheer persistence."

Doomed GI's Kin Keep Death Watch

Cambridge, Mass., March 7 (AP). Mrs. Karl G. Hulten slept fitfully tonight as her paratrooper husband prepared to die on a London gallows tomorrow for the slaying of a British cab driver.

Twenty-one years old today, she collapsed today while nursing her fevered baby daughter, June, 21 months.

Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Signe Hulten, kept a long-distance death watch with the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Pero, in their little yellow frame cottage where young Hulten courted Rita Pero in happier days.

[EDITOR'S NOTE—Private Hulten is scheduled to hang at 9 A.M. tomorrow in the courtyard of London's Pentonville Prison. He is the first American soldier to receive the death sentence at the hands of British civil authorities in wartime.]

Bitter Over Dancer's Reprieve

Both Hulten's mother and his wife were under a doctor's care.

The condemned soldier's mother and the Peros were still shaken by the news that the 18-year-old strip-tease dancer, Mrs. Elizabeth Marina Jones, convicted with Hulten of the crime, had been reprieved.

"They both did wrong, and if they gave her clemency, he should have it, too," said Mrs. Pero, adding bitterly:

"It looks like she's getting a break because she's one of their own."

"Always A Good, Decent Boy"

"Karl must have gone haywire all of a sudden," Mrs. Pero sighed. "He used to be around the house all the time when he was going with Rita, and he was always a good, decent boy."

Their marriage was no rapid, wartime affair.

"They went together for two years before they were married in the rectory of our parish church," she recalled.

"It's the war that's breaking up homes and hearts," sighed Mrs. Pero, whose oldest son and three sons-in-law are in the servic

Hulten To Hang, Girl To Prison

London, March 7 (AP)—The life of Mrs. Elizabeth Marina Jones, 18-year-old British strip-tease dancer, sentenced to die for the robbery, slaying of a London taxi driver, was spared today by an eleventh-hour intervention of Home Secretary Herbert Morrison.

The girl's partner in the slaying, Private Karl Gustav Hulten, of Cambridge, Mass., will be hanged in the courtyard of Pentonville Prison at dawn tomorrow, however, barring some unexpected last-minute development.

No Action Aiding Hulten

Morrison granted Mrs. Jones a reprieve last night after considering an appeal filed by her attorneys and recommended to the King that he exercise the royal prerogative by commuting her sentence to life imprisonment.

Morrison ruled there were insufficient grounds to justify any interference with the death sentence imposed on Hulten, a former paratrooper.

An appeal in Hulten's behalf had been filed by a Massachusetts attorney, acting for the prisoner's wife and mother.

Term Probably 15 Years

Commutation of her sentence to life imprisonment probably would mean a parole after she had served about fifteen years, if usual procedure is followed.

Hulten, now a prisoner in Wormwood Scrubs Prison, was described by prison attendants as calm and spending much of his time reading adventure stories.

3d Division Has Record 19 Medals Of Honor

With U.S. 3d Infantry Division, France, March 7 (AP)—Army history was made today when a three-star general hung the Congressional Medal of Honor on a 135-pound sergeant as another sergeant and a lieutenant who have won the same prize looked on.

Sergt. James P. Connor, of Wilmington, Del., was top man today, with the boss of the American 7th Army, Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, in the chief supporting role as the 7th Regiment snapped through ceremonies underscoring the 3d Division's claim to be the leading winner of Congressional Medals of Honor in this or any other war.

MILLION GERMANS PRISONERS IN WEST

Paris, March 7 (A. P.).—The total number of Nazis taken prisoner since D day on the western front has passed the million mark.

Front dispatches listed these totals taken by armies since D day and the start of the current campaign:

	D Day.	Present Camp'gn.
U. S. First	268,190	22,165
U. S. Third	200,992	33,307
U. S. Ninth	89,326	27,035
Canadian First	141,614	20,000
U. S. Seventh	93,107	——
French First	85,824	——
British Second	104,336	——
F. F. I. and others	19,992	——
Total	1,003,381	102,507

The American Third Army opened the current campaign on January 30; the Canadians attacked February 8, and the First and Ninth Armies started driving across the Roer on February 23.

Official figures from the fronts frequently were a week or ten days ahead of those at Supreme Headquarters.

Yanks Pain German General

First They Said 'Nuts' to Him at Bastogne and Now They've Captured Him.

Paris, March 7 (A. P.).—The German commander, Lieut.-Gen. Graf von Rothkirk, who was captured by the American Fourth Armored Division in the Third Army sweep toward the Rhine yesterday, was the commander who besieged Bastogne in Belgium and received the reply of "Nuts!" from Brig.-Gen. Anthony C. McCauliffe in answer to demands for surrender.

Ironically, the Fourth Armored Division which finally captured Gen. von Rothkirk and his staff was the same which broke the German's siege ring at Bastogne.

Von Rothkirk after his capture made a prediction that the war would soon be over.

"How can you expect to win a war when you have no gasoline and no horses?" he commented plantively. "It will all be over within four months—five months at the latest."

Army Promotes Drama Critic

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN FRANCE, March 7 (AP).—Mark Barron, former drama critic for The Associated Press, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army, it was announced tonight. He had been serving as a staff sergeant in the Army's communications zone in France. Mr. Barron, who once was New York City editor for The Associated Press, has been overseas since February, 1944.

Nazi General Sees End Near

With the U.S. 3. Army, March 7 (AP)—A German guess on the end of the war—"four or five months"—came from the captured commander of the German 53d Army Corps, Lieut. Gen. Edwin Graf von Rothkirk und Trach.

"How can you expect to win a war when you have no gasoline and no horses?" asked the 59-year-old general. "It will all be over within four months—five months at the most."

Rothkirk was the commander who besieged Bastone in Belgium and who got the epic reply of "Nuts!" from Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe to his demand for surrender of the American 101st Airborne Division. The United States 4th Armored Division, which captured the general and his staff, was the outfit that broke the Bastogne siege.

One-Man Army Takes Nazi Town; Awarded C. M. H.

With the U.S. 9th Army, March 7 (AP)—Staff Sergeant Junior Spurrier, of Riggs, Ky., was called out of the front lines yesterday and the Congressional Medal of Honor was hung around his neck for personally liberating the town of Achain.

The nation's highest military honor was bestowed upon the 22-year-old doughboy by Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson, commander of the 9th, in the presence of half a dozen other generals from the 16th Army Corps and with the 35th Division lined up for the ceremony.

Scared By Brass.

"All this brass scared me," said Spurrier, who, while fighting with the 35th through Achain in Loraine, killed 25 Germans and captured 20 more. He already held the Distinguished Service Cross and two Purple Hearts.

Last November, Company C of the 134th Regiment was given the mission of driving the Germans from Achain. A battalion had crossed 1,500 yards of open ground and went the last 700 under small-arms fire that gave way to mortars and artillery as they reached the outskirts of the town. "Send Spurrier in from the west and his company in from the east and take the town," ordered the battalion command.

Spurrier killed the first three Germans he spotted and others sought cover in houses as Spurrier started working down the street from house to house, mopping up with grenade rifle fire. When his ammunition ran out, he improvised by using German guns lifted from enemy soldiers he had slain.

Sets Building Afire

When one particular house faced him as a strongpoint and slowed down his one-man task force attack, Spurrier killed three more Germans and set the building afire. He then captured sixteen Germans, including a captain and a lieutenant, as they fled the flames.

After eight hours of fighting by himself, Spurrier reported that Achain had been cleared.

He says his one-man campaigns aren't planned ahead of time.

"You just go in there and fight and do what you think is best," he said. "That's all."

THE MIRACLE OF COLOGNE

Great Cathedral Stands, While Almost All Else Is Ruined

By DON WHITEHEAD

Cologne, March 7 (AP)—Doughboys walking through the streets of Cologne looked up today from the awful wreckage of the ruined city to see the miracle of Cologne cathedral with its slender, graceful spires rising above the devastation wrought by Allied air-raids.

Those fragile, beautiful spires, blackened by the weather of seven centuries, rose straight into the heavens out of the most terrible destruction yet witnessed by these American troops who have seen the rubble of many blasted cities.

All Around Is Waste.

All around the ancient edifice the heart of Cologne lay in waste. For block upon block there was nothing but the gutted skeletons of buildings and debris piled many feet high.

Tons of bombs had ripped out the heart of Cologne. Great chunks of concrete had been tossed about like pebbles and huge steel girders lay twisted like hairpins.

And yet in this devastation was the miracle of The Dom. Seven times in two years the famous cathedral had been hit by bombs and yet it stood with remarkably little serious damage to its Gothic beauty. How it survived while everything around it was laid waste, no one can say.

But there it was like a promise of hope amid the shambles of despair, and in and out of its doors wandered doughboys while shells from American guns rustled over and crashed into the city on the east side of the Rhine.

None Doubts Ruin Now

There was a report before the troops entered Cologne that the old part of the city was 99 per cent in ruins. Almost everyone scoffed at that claim as an exaggeration. But none who walked through the old city today doubted the figure.

Most streets were piled high with débris. In two hours of riding and walking about the city I did not see an undamaged house standing or one that could be called habitable. If anyone lived in them they lived in basements or deep air-raid shelters which had not been reached by the fury of the bombings.

Bombs had ripped out whole sections of stout concrete buildings. Walls stood like gaunt skeletons with all the insides ripped or burned away. Great slabs of concrete had been tossed about as though they were children's blocks.

Some Power?

The cathedral had its scars, but it was as though some power had saved it from the destruction which reached to its very doors. Across the street were blackened and still burning German Panther tanks which had been knocked out by a Sherman tank in one of the last fights inside the city.

Inside the cathedral, whose floor was littered with debris, doughboys walked in silence, their helmets in their hands as they gazed at the vaulted ceiling and towering columns.

Capt. Michael Cooney, of San Diego, Cal., former priest of Holy Cross Rosary Church, of San Bernardino, Cal., gazed at the scene.

"It's amazing, isn't it?" he said. "It's amazing how it escaped when everything else is laid waste."

On the south side of the church one section of the wall sagged in and was supported by heavy timbers. There were gaping holes in the roof, some of them bricked up. Some figures of saints on the columns were damaged, but not seriously.

The center aisle was remarkably free of damage except for holes in the roof and so far as I could see, little of the basic structure was damaged. The sanctuary was littered with debris but not destroyed or even seriously smashed.

The old caretaker, who spoke excellent English, said the cathedral was first hit in the raid of June 26, 1943, and had been hit six times since.

Frescoes in the sanctuary were bricked up to protect them against damage. The baptismal font in front of the church was bricked over also and apparently undamaged.

"It's A Big Joint"

The caretaker said the high altar, valuable pictures, statues, vestments and the most precious of the stained-glass windows were removed early in the war and taken into central Germany to a place of safekeeping.

In the deep shelters beneath the cathedral some 2,000 civilians had taken refuge. They could not have found a better sanctuary. Through the day other civilians came to join them and wait until the war passed them by.

There is no doubt the miracle of The Dom will become a legend, and that people will say its fragile loveliness is indestructible.

One doughboy stood outside, gazing up at the towering spires, and then said:

"It's a big joint, ain't it?"

A. M. G. SETS UP COLOGNE RULE

Two New York Officers Are on Staff of Control.

COWAN

Cologne, March 7 (A. P.).—This great Rhineland metropolis, which once numbered almost 800,000 inhabitants, woke up today to find itself under an American military government set up by Lieut.-Col. John K. Patterson of Riverside, Cal. Col. Patterson himself did not yet know himself how many cellar-dwelling civilians remained in the ruins of the city, utterly devastated by three years' heavy aerial bombardment, some estimates running as high as 150,000 and some as low as 10,000.

An advance echelon arrived here last night seeking quarters for the military government. Like scores of other Army outfits, however, they'll have to take the best basement they can find.

One of the first tasks will be to register every person found in the city. There have been reports of German soldiers donning civilian clothes in an effort to escape capture, and these must be weeded out.

Other A. M. G. Problems.

A multitude of other problems await the A. M. G. Virtually all public utilities have been knocked out. There are no electricity, telephones, running water, or public transportation.

Steps must be taken to reorganize the whole food-distribution system and measures taken to safeguard the public health—always a danger spot in any war torn area.

Specific tasks relating to the following departments will be handled by these officers: Fine arts and monuments — Lieut. James Larwood, 37-56 85th street, Jackson Heights, L. I. Public relations counsel, and civil administration—Capt. Albert Schweizer, New York city architect.

Cologners Say Last Raid Was Worst of All; Cathedral Stands Unscathed Amid Ruins

Big Hospital Is Leveled, but 200 Patients Are Found Safe in Basement.

DAY

By HOWARD COWAN.

Cologne, March 7 (A. P.).—The Cologne Cathedral, the finest example of Gothic architecture in Germany, has escaped destruction in the three years of bombing which flattened most of the Rhine city. From the exterior, the cathedral appears to be only slightly damaged. The great spires are still intact.

In a skirmish in the street at the northwest corner of the Cathedral yesterday a German Mark IV tank scored a direct hit on a Sherman tank and killed three crewmen, but other American armored forces destroyed the Mark IV seconds later with three pointblank hits.

While the Cathedral escaped destruction, the 2,000-bed Lindenberg Hospital—one of the largest in western Germany—was laid waste in the devastating forty-minute bombardment by R. A. F. planes during the night of last October 30. However, only four persons were killed. A steel works and metal foundry lies about a half mile south of the hospital.

I spent an hour inspecting the ruins in the company of the Rev. Anton Gotzens, Catholic chaplain of the hospital.

All but 200 patients have been evacuated from the hospital, which is still carrying on in basements where some ceilings sag with the weight of debris. Two 500-pound dud bombs from the raid more than four months ago still lay in the hospital yard.

Four corpses with sheets over the faces lay on stretchers in one room with a blasted brick wall exposing them to view. Tags on the feet gave the dates of death as February 20 and March 1.

"No transportation to move them away," was the chaplain's explanation.

A framed picture of Hitler with the fanatical eyes which characterized his early portraits hung at an angle on a wall.

Although the British began bombing Cologne early in the war—it was the target for the first 1,000-bomber raid on Germany in May, 1942—the hospital staff agreed the worst assault was the daylight attack by the R. A. F. last Friday. The chief of police was among those killed.

They are going crazy. They are carrying big boxes of cheeses, cases of liquor and all the clothes they can lug with them."

In the cobblestoned area bordering the Rhine where the city's most famous buildings are centered, drunken German men and women staggered from one side street to another waving wine bottles and offering them to the American soldiers they encountered.

They had taken the wine from the cellars of hotels and homes whose owners had fled. Some of the women tried to climb into jeeps to ride through their own destroyed city.

A shortage of local police found to be trustworthy by the army complicated the problem.

Looting Breaks Out In Cologne; Drunken Men And Women Riot

BOYLE

Cologne, Germany, March 7 (AP). German looted German in ruined Cologne today as the iron discipline of twelve years of Nazi rule crumbled under an exuberance that accompanied American occupation of the Reich's fourth largest metropolis.

Food dumps, liquor warehouses and clothing floors of the city's remaining department stores were raided by wine-happy citizens rioting in the Alstadt, or old-city section.

Combat troops completing final mopping-up states of their occupation of the city were too busy with their own problems to do more than hold in check this demonstration of spontaneous looting by the city's poor.

'They Are Going Crazy'

"The celebration is on," said Lieut. Walter H. Stevens, of Salt Lake City, after a tour of the water-front area. "It's like Saturday night back home when the carnival's in town.

"They are milling around so much in some places that you can't get a peep through the streets, from the cellars of hotels and homes under the eyes of the Americans.

"Now that we have cleaned up the city, our biggest problem is keeping civilians out of warehouses," said Major Hugh Carv of Brooklyn, N.Y. "Those that are left here are looting each other's homes.

"The warehouses here are well stocked with food—good cheeses and other things that the people haven't had in quantity, although they certainly don't look underfed.

"The citizens here are the most obnoxious we have yet met in Germany. Heretofore, they have been submissive, but we've had difficulty with many of those living in the better districts of Cologne who don't yet seem to realize they have been conquered."

'Bawl Hell Out Of You'

"Yeah, some of them try to bawl hell out of you when it's necessary for you to enter their homes for military security reasons," said Major William G. Herbert, of Alameda, Cal.

...the more you see of these people, the more you see there still is a good deal of resistance left in Germany," said Cary. "These people aren't really desperately short of food or clothing—even those who loot. It makes you think the war isn't as near over as you yourself and a lot of people back home would like to think."

Supermen Turned Yellow When R. A. F. Struck Last Friday.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

Cologne, March 7 (A. P.).—Hitler's supermen in Cologne proved yellow and deserted their people last Saturday, three days before the Americans entered the city.

Nazidom's administrative apparatus for Germany's fourth largest city could not take the saturation bombing of Friday, March 2. The supermen began scurrying for the interior of the Reich on that day, and the last of them left Saturday. In their haste they provoked a major tragedy.

Various citizens with whom I have talked said there was one final mass exodus after last Friday's heavy air attack. Three bridges having been destroyed and two others damaged, thousands of Cologners used a bridge of limited capacity which spanned the Rhine near new market place.

Crowded Bridge Snaps.

Heavy vehicles were forbidden specifically, but the Nazi hierarchy ordered trucks, presumably bearing documents, over the span. Suddenly the bridge snapped and fell into the river. Just how many civilians were killed probably never will be known.

[This apparently was the Haengebruecke Bridge. The Hohenzollern Bridge is farther north.]

It is difficult to check with certainty upon a story like this one, however, for nowhere in Cologne is there an organized German authority to be found.

Since Saturday there has been no distribution of ration cards. Until the American Military Government sets up business, the people must worry for themselves how to obtain food.

The Nazi police also deserted—particularly the Gestapo. But that aspect is told by Cologners with glee. They declare that Rhinelanders never were as Nazified as the rest of the Reich.

From many homes in the few parts of the city relatively intact, one can see white flags hanging from windows. Ironically, on every street corner are placards with the words: "Unshaken, invincible, we are sure of victory in the end."

Cologners say that many casualties from last week's heavy bombing still lie under caved-in houses. A merchant pointed to the rubble at a corner near where I stood.

"There are a considerable number of dead under that heap," he said. "A blockbuster scored a direct hit on an apartment building, which fell apart like a house of cards."

The best estimate of how many of Cologne's 768,000 inhabitants remain is 100,000. Four weeks ago, the official ration card distribution showed 80,000. Shortly thereafter 40,000 came flocking back. After Friday's bombing there was another major exodus.

Military police inspecting the houses found much evidence of German soldiers having had enough, and having slipped into civilian clothing. This was borne out by the unusual number of young men I saw roaming about the streets. The military police round them up quickly, for fear they might change their minds and try to reach their outfits across the Rhine. There is also the danger that spies may be among them.

Foe's 88's Then Open Up on House Into Which Captives Were Herded

RHEINBERG, Germany, March 6 (Delayed) (AP).—Lieutenant Barnaby Keeny, of Farmington, Conn., and Private First Class Carl Bock, of 1788 York Avenue, New York City, captured eighteen prisoners and then the house in which they were holding their captives was almost demolished by German artillery.

"We got the last eight in the basement and had to go in after them with hand grenades," Keeny said. "They still had communications with the outside and called for direct fire on the house. Things really got hot when those 88's started potting us."

TOWSON MAN SAVES HIS TANK

Sergeant McLean Tells Of Fight Near Orssenberg

EUNSON

Rheinberg, Germany, March 7 (AP)—The 35th Division ran into bitter resistance at Orsenberg after shoving off north of here late last night.

One officer in the field said the Germans were sending 88 shells down the main road at the rate of almost one every second.

Artillery and mortars from across the Rhine rocked the Rheinberg area about noon as the enemy heavily shelled this pretty little German city which was theirs until yesterday.

NIGHT

U.S. Tank Cost Heavy

A bitter tank battle on the southeast sector cost an American armored unit heavily during the fight for the city.

"These Germans here are really fighting, until they get surrounded," said Major Hans van Houten, of Detroit, in charge of tanks attached to the 35th.

"Our losses were plenty heavy, but we got for certain two Mark Fours, two half-tracks, two German trucks, four anti-tank guns and ten German 88's. As the American columns approached Rheinberg from the southeast, German self-propelled guns knocked out the lead and rear tanks, leaving the others heemed in and at the mercy of direct artillery fire from the sides.

Towsonite Tells Of Fight

"We took a pasting," Van Houghton said in a tired voice, "but we let them know we were around. My boys are the best in the whole American Army."

In one column of eight tanks only one was left and its commander, Sergt. Vernon McLean, Towson, Md., said, "All we could do was sit there, and those 88's were pumping right over our heads. They knocked out the three tanks in front of us, then got the ones behind. We were hemmed in and couldn't turn."

"I never sweated so much in my life," said assistant driver Pfc. Charles Brown, Long Beach, Cal. Other members of the crew were Corporal William Grote, Long Island, N.Y., gunner; Tech. 4/g Joseph Schatz, Pittsburgh, driver; Private James Keown, Connelton, Ind., loader.

Tommy Gun Shot Away

Grote, who didn't have much to say, leveled his high-powered gun while they were trapped on the road and hit four anti-tank guns, a truck, a scout car and Mark IV tank, destroying them all.

"I had my Tommy gun shot away," said McLean. "About that time our battery went dead and the motor wouldn't start. Finally we got our gun working and that's when Grote did all his good work. We eventually got things working and backed away and flanked over to the right. That part of the fight lasted about three hours."

BONOMI IS GIVEN CONFIDENCE VOTE IN LONG MEETING

By GEORGE BRIA

ROME, March 7.—(AP) Premier Ivanoe Bonomi weathered his second political crisis in three months tonight as the cabinet in an extraordinary session convoked after the riot at the Royal Palace yesterday reaffirmed confidence in the premier who promised a swift Fascist purge.

NIGHT

The expression of confidence came after a long session in the Viminale Palace while rifle-bearing policemen, supported by two tanks commanding the driveways sloping up to the palace, guarded the ministers.

A cabinet announcement, issued as opposition press clamored for overthrow of the Bonomi regime, said the four-party coalition government "has agreed there is no reason for breaking up the coalition which first planned and already has begun vast action for intensifying the war and bettering Italy's position in the world."

The decision threatened a wide split in Communist ranks and was expected to provide more fuel for a fire which Socialists, Actionists and Republicans—not represented in the cabinet—have been building under Bonomi's government.

The decision by Communists—whose leader, Palmiro Togliatti, is vice premier—to continue in the government brought into the open wide divergencies within the party. Two Communists were included in the delegation which demanded Bonomi's resignation yesterday following the palace riot.

Communists also had joined with opposition groups in sponsoring a mass meeting in Colosseum Square following the escape of Gen. Mario Roatta, former Italian army chief of staff. It was this which provoked the demonstration and a march on the palace by Romans waving red flags and shouting "death to the King."

One report said Roatta was seen yesterday at Foligno, north of Rome, heading for Ancona or Florence.

The Vatican denied he had taken refuge in neutral Vatican City as suggested in a London dispatch to a Rome newspaper.

Meanwhile, Rome was quiet and tense today after the riot spread last night to crowded Regina Coeli Prison. Police and firemen with hoses took three hours to restore order.

The British provost marshal said three Allied soldiers, two Royal Air Forces members and one Pole who were onlookers at the palace riot, were among the injured there. A Communist demonstrator was killed.

MAR 8 1945

Rome Disorder Spreads To Prison

BRIA

Rome, March 7 (AP)—Disorders spread to the Regina Coeli Prison and sporadic bomb explosions throughout Rome punctuated Italy's political crisis today.

Following yesterday's clash before the Royal Palace between Carabinieri and a crowd in which a Communist demonstrator was killed and several persons were wounded, convicts and persons awaiting trial for Fascist crimes burst out of their antiquated cells at the prison before dawn. Police and firemen quelled the riot with fire-hose streams.

Bombs burst sporadically in various sections of the capital and crowds were reported to have demonstrated before Carabinieri barracks in outlying sections.

No Further Casualties

No further casualties were reported, however.

None of the prisoners broke out into the open.

The Cabinet met in an extraordinary session to consider a Left-Wing demand for its resignation as a result of the escape of Gen. Mario Roatta while he was on trial for alleged Fascist crimes.

The Cabinet appointed Gen. Brunetto Brunetti commander of the Carabinieri, succeeding Taddeo Orlando, who, like Roatta, is on Yugoslavia's list of war criminals. It also announced agreement on a swifter and harder Fascist purge.

Bonomi Future Uncertain

Whether Premier Ivanoe Bonomi would remain as Premier still was undecided, however. The swifter purge was essential if the Communists were to remain in his Cabinet.

Last night Bonomi declared that "as a member of a coalition government I could never abandon my post" without the approval of his Cabinet.

The square before the Royal Palace was deserted today, except for guards, including six-foot-tall royal Corazzieri in bright red, white and blue uniforms and spiked helmets, at the palace gates.

At Viminale Palace, where the Cabinet met, hundreds of police were stationed in the square and throughout the building. Two light tanks faced the street.

Streets Patrolled

Rome's central streets were patrolled by squads of police.

The British provost marshal said three Allied personnel were wounded during the Royal Palace riot, including two British airmen and one Polish Signal Corps soldier.

Besides the Italian slain, a number of Italian civilians were wounded. The Government communiqué said one civilian was wounded, but the Rome press said twelve.

The communiqué denied that the Communist demonstrator was killed by the guns of the Carabinieri. It said the Carabinieri fired into the air.

Roatta Getaway

A commission appointed by the Government, meanwhile, investigated the possibility that Roatta made his getaway Sunday night by a motor boat waiting for him on the Tiber near the military hospital where he had been confined during his trial.

Plain clothesmen have been stationed near foreign embassies and ministries, as well as outside the Vatican City walls, to foil any attempt by the former chief of the Italian general staff to gain refuge in neutral territory.

Tenth Division Pushes Ahead Over Rugged Terrain, Captures Peaks.

(HEINZERLING)

ROME, March 7.—(AP) The U. S. Tenth Mountain Division has scored a five-mile advance through some of Italy's most rugged terrain and against heavy German artillery, machinegun and mortar fire during the last three days, Allied headquarters announced today.

Lifting a three-day blackout on news of action in the Apennines southwest of Bologna, headquarters said the action was "a most successful limited objective attack" which resulted in the capture of a number of dominating peaks west of the Bologna-Pistoia highway, the town of Castel D'Aiano, 20 miles from Bologna, and 1,200 prisoners.

The American assault was supported by Brazilian troops operating on the right flank of the mountaineers. The Brazilians seized Castel Nuovo, three miles southeast of Castel D'Aaiano and a mile west of the Bologna-Pistoia highway.

The men jumped off March 3 at 7 a. m., after a 20-minute aerial and artillery barrage and climaxed an Allied drive which started two weeks ago with the capture of Monte Belvedere and Monte Castello. In the whole operation the Fifth Army has gained up to eight miles. The drive was aimed at getting control of heights dominating the Bologna-Pistoia highway.

In addition to the prisoners taken by the advancing Americans, German losses in killed and wounded were said to have been heavy. Many of the Nazis had come into the line only from 12 to 24 hours before as Field Marshal Albert Kesselring threw in reinforcements.

Yanks Gain 5 Miles In Italian Push

London, March 7 (AP)—The German high command said in a broadcast communique today that British troops had made a "local attempt" to land behind German lines on the Adriatic coast, but the attack was beaten off.

Rome, March 7 (AP)—American mountain troops have gained 5 miles in the Apennines southwest of Bologna in the strongest advance on the 5th Army front in weeks, Allied headquarters announced today.

The action was officially described as "a most successful limited-objective attack."

Striking northeastward west of the Pistoria highway three days ago, the Americans have captured a number of peaks and the town of Castel d'Aiano, 20 miles from Bologna. More than 1,200 prisoners have been taken.

Artillery Barrage

The attack began at 7 A.M. March 3 under a 20-minute artillery barrage and with air assistance. Headquarters permitted disclosure of the assault only this morning.

Brazilian troops, advancing simultaneously with the United States 10th Mountaineer Division, seized the town of Castelnuovo, 3 miles southeast of Castel D'Aiano and a mile west of Highway 64, running between Pistoria and Bologna.

Castel D'Aiano is the closest reported approach to Bologna by the 5th Army west of that highway.

To the east of it, other 5th Army forces reached the hamlet of Bisopra, 13 miles from Bologna, two days ago.

The objective of the drive presumably was to gain control of the Pistoia-Bologna highway, which the Germans have dominated far to the south for months through control of a number of peaks.

The whole Allied push began two weeks ago with the conquest of Monte Belvedere and Monte Castelo, and in that time gains ranging up to more than 8 miles have been made in the area.

One of the obvious aims of the drive was to control heights dominating Route 64, one of the two main roads to Bologna.

The Brazilians, operating on the American right flank, now overlook that highway from Castelnuovo. The drive is approaching a sector beyond Castel d'Aiano, where the Germans are astride the highway.

Supported By Brazilians

The American 10th Mountain Division's advance, supported by the Brazilians, marked the 5th's longest strides forward since the push through the Apennines astride Highway 65 to the east.

That drive ground to a halt about a dozen miles south of Bologna, and since that time there have been only minor stabs in that central sector. On the west, meanwhile, the United States 92d Division has been stalled in the Ligurian coastal area.

United States 12th Air Force Thunderbolts in close support of the attack pounded points west and north in the Monte Belvedere sector.

Brenner Pass Hammered

Allied tactical bombers also have been constantly hammering at the 125-mile Brenner Pass rail line from southern Germany into Italy, which, Tactical Air Force headquarters announced yesterday, has been closed for a month.

That assault was continued yesterday with medium bombers hitting the route and fighter bombers strafing the Po Valley.

ROME OPEN GOLF TOURNEY STARTS

By SID FEDER

ROME, March 7.—(AP) Headed by Vic Ghezzi, a former P.G.A. champion before putting on a soldier suit, a field of some 200 to 300 Allied service men and civilian players will tee off tomorrow in a four-day Rome Open golf championship.

There was to have been a one-day preliminary pro-amateur tournament today but the entry list of close to 300 shotmakers made it impossible, and instead the whole show will be put on as 72-hole title play.

Half the field will play 18 holes tomorrow and the other half on Friday. The low 100 will make a one-round tour Saturday with the final low 60 fighting it out over 36 holes Sunday over the not-too-tough Rome club layout.

Sgt. Ghezzi, who whipped Byron Nelson in an extra-hole battle for the 1941 professional championship, now is stationed at a replacement depot in Italy after completing an 84-match exhibition tour in the United States.

Also in the entry list is Seaman First Class Al Zimmerman, one-time Oregon Open and Pacific Northwest titleholder. He mailed his entry from Oran after recently finishing second in an Open tournament sponsored by Sutan Marakesh in North Africa.

The prize fund for the tournament starting tomorrow is more than $500. Naturally, this is for the pros only.

MUSSOLINI HINTS GAS USE

Implies Germans May Get Out of Battle for Italy

ROME, March 7 (AP)—Benito Mussolini, speaking last night to the officers of his Fascist Republican guard, suggested that the Germans would use gas in their last ditch stand.

"Today the German General Staff and the German people," he said, "are justified before God and men in having recourse to every kind of weapon rather than succumb."

Promising to defend the Po Valley "town by town and house by house," he hinted that the Germans might not take part in the final fighting in Italy. "This is a responsibility that we will have to assume," he told his officers.

Brenner Pass Blocked.

Rome, March 7 (A. P.).—The entire 125-mile Brenner Pass rail line from southern Germany into Italy has been closed a month, the Allied Tactical Air Force disclosed today. Flying 2,500 sorties and dropping 2,500 of bombs on Brenner Pass targets during the past month, the Tactical Air Force has kept the vital route blocked against the movement of supplies into Italy or the withdrawal of German forces from the Italian front, the announcement said.

The Tactical Air Force continued its campaign today against enemy communications, with medium bombers hammering the Brenner Pass route and fighter-bombers strafing the Po Valley and rail targets in Yugoslavia.

The Brenner Pasas attacks today were led by a group commanded by Col. Peter S. Remington, Cape Vincent, N. Y., which celebrated its thirtieth month overseas.

Poles Planned To Move University From Wilno

Moscow, March 7 (AP)—Pol Press, a Polish news agency, said today the Polish Provisional Government's Ministry of Education was sponsoring a plan to move the Stepan Batory University from Wilno, capital of Soviet Lithuania, to Danzig when the latter city was occupied by Russian and Polish forces.

Krakow's Jagiellonian University is expected to reopen soon.

A new university is scheduled to be established at Lodz, the agency dispatch said.

Harriman Entertains Flynn

MOSCOW, March 7 (AP).—American Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and his daughter, Kathleen, will give a reception and supper party tonight for Edward J. Flynn, former Democratic National Committee chairman, prior to his departure for Rome. Mr. Flynn, who has been visiting in the Soviet Union since the Crimea Conference, returned to Moscow from a visit in Leningrad.

CHINESE TAKE OLD LASHIO

Burma Road Terminus Falls To American-Led Troops

Calcutta, March 7 (AP)—American-trained Chinese 1st Army troops under Lieut. Gen. Daniel I. Sultan have captured the city of old Lashio, main terminus of the Burma road, and are only 2 miles from the city of new Lashio, reports reaching here today said.

With the capture of old Lashio and a near-by airstrip, the fall of new Lashio, which was developed in the late 1930's, was expected within a few hours.

Frontline reports said Japanese resistance before Lashio had thinned out considerably as British pressure on Mandalay, 140 miles to the southwest, increased with the capture of Meiktila.

Within Four Miles Of Mandalay

[A BBC broadcast reported in New York by NBC said an armored column of the 19th Indian Division had driven to within 4 miles of Mandalay, Burma's second largest city.]

A communiqué from Southeast Asia Command headquarters at Kandy said the British pincers were closing in on Mandalay.

India Glider Sets Record

CALCUTTA, March 7 (AP).—A world's record for a non-stop cargo glider flight was claimed in India recently when a towed glider covered 1,650 miles from Karachi to an East India base in eleven hours An A. T. C. transport pulled the glider, piloted by Lieutenant Bernard R. McGaully, of Plattsburg, N. Y., of the American 1st Air Commando group.

OLD LASHIO TAKEN BY CHINESE FORCES

American-Trained Troops Are Expected to Get Rest of Foe's Burma Stronghold Soon

F.L. MARTIN

CALCUTTA, India, March 7 (AP)—American-trained Chinese First Army troops under Lieut. Gen. Daniel I. Sultan have captured the city of Old Lashio, main terminus of the Burma Road and the end of the railway from Mandalay, and are only two miles from the city of New Lashio, according to reports reaching here today.

With the capture of Old Lashio and a near-by airstrip the fall of New Lashio, which was developed in the late Nineteen Thirties, is expected soon.

The Chinese troops stormed into Old Lashio with tank support from the north as the climax to two and a half years of fighting through the mountains and jungles of North Burma.

Late yesterday afternoon Chinese armored forces under Col. Rothwell Brown of Miami, Fla., and Washington, D. C., forced their way across the Nam Yao and early this morning blasted their way into Old Lashio.

The Chinese campaign for Lashio was started by Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell and the troops fought 530 miles from Ledo. The Chinese forces were under the direct command of Lieut. Gen. Sun Li-jen, a graduate of Purdue and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The communiqué reported the capture of Japanese positions southwest of Myingyan and said enemy resistance in the Chauk area, thirty-six miles southwest of the Pakokku bridgehead, was increasing. Chauk is in the rich Yenangyaung oil fields of Central Burma.

The Allied successes in the Pakokku sector have cut off 30,000 Japanese from all escape routes except eastward through the mountains to Thailand.

Chinese Attack on Railway

CHUNGKING, China, March 7 (AP)—Chinese troops have closed in on Pingshek, 165 miles north of Canton, in continuing attacks designed to break the Japanese hold on the Canton-Hankow railroad, the High Command said tonight.

Other Chinese forces, the High Command said, were attacking the near-by towns of Peishitu and Ichang, near the Hunan-Kwangtung border.

"The enemy resisted bitterly and severe fighting is in progress," the war bulletin said.

In the attack on Ichang more than 120 Japanese were reported killed and a large quantity of enemy war supplies seized.

The High Command said Chinese counter-attacks from the east toward Chenhsien, a railroad town eighty miles south of Hangyang, had reached a point only 7½ miles from the town.

It was gray January afternoon when the B-25 with a crew of five returned from a mission, overshot its landing and hurtled down a 60-foot embankment.

As rescuers surrounded the plane, flames leaped high, the top turret guns and oxygen tanks exploded from the heat.

Trapping in Blazing Wreckage

Braving the flames, fellow fliers pulled out the dead co-pilot and rescued the seriously injured pilot. They found the sergeant gunner bear- trapped in the flight compartment, his legs caught by buckled metal.

Six men tried to pull the still-conscious gunner free. There was not time to cut away the metal and physicians could not get into position to amputate his legs.

His screams rose above the roar of the flames. An engineering officer at the base, drawing his revolver, exclaimed: "I am going to shoot him. I can't stand hearing him scream."

He fired one shot into the ground to see if the pistol functioned, took aim, wavered and turned away saying "I can't do it."

"Don't shoot me! Pull me out of here," screamed the gunner.

Colonel Who Shot Sergeant Trapped in Plane, Acquitted

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH

KUNMING, March 2—(Delayed)—(AP) A 31-year-old air force officer, who two shots from his service pistol ended the agonized screaming of a 20-year-old sergeant gunner hopelessly trapped in a flaming plane, was acquitted today of a charge of voluntary manslaughter.

Seven colonels deliberated 30 minutes before clearing the lieutenant colonel, commander of a fighter group, veteran of 80 missions and ranking officer at the forward base. The defendant did not testify.

(Neither his name nor the victim's was given in this dispatch. Presumably censorship withheld them.)

It was reported that the decision hinged on reasonable doubt as to whether death was caused by the shots or burning, and on the degree of provocation.

Ten witnesses told this story of the shooting last Jan. 18:

The trapped man quieted. He gazed at the colonel. Then his mud-smeared head slumped and his eyes turned away. Two shots were almost indistinguishable above the exploding 50 calibre bullets.

Rather than base his case on a contention that the shooting was an act of mercy, Defense Counsel Lt. Col. John H. Hendren, of Kansas City, Mo., emphasized that the defendant had acted irrationally under great emotional strain.

The main pillar of the defense was argument that condition of the victim's body, later recovered, afforded precise medical testimony raising reasonable doubt that the sergeant had died of bullets rather than burning.

Officer Freed In Killing Of Trapped Flyer

FARNSWORTH

Kunming, March 2 (AP—Delayed)—An officer at a forward American air base who fired two mercy bullets into the head of a flyer—hopelessly trapped in a wrecked and burning plane was acquitted today of voluntary manslaughter.

A general court-martial of seven colonels drawn from the United States 14th Air Force and associated service organizations returned the verdict after hearing ten witnesses piece together one of the most soul-searing episodes of the war.

No Names Given

The defendant was a 31-year-old lieutenant colonel, commander of a fighter group, veteran of 80 air missions, and ranking officer at the base. The accident victim was a 20-year-old sergeant gunner in a B-25 bomber.

[No names were given in this dispatch. Presumably censorship withheld them.]

The incident happened January 18. Two others on the five-man bomber were killed in the crash, which occurred when the craft overshot the runway on returning from a mission. The plane hurtled down a 60-foot embankment.

Witnesses said rescuers reached the wreckage almost immediately. Three men were in the flight compartment at the time—the pilot, copilot and the sergeant gunner.

Two Are Removed

The copilot was killed in his chair. The pilot was seriously injured. Both were removed as flames spread through the plane.

As many as six men, braving gasoline flames from a broken wing tank, took hold of the sergeant's arms and shoulders at one time, witnesses said, and tried to pull him free, but he was pinioned tightly about his crushed legs behind the armor plate backing of the copilot's seat. The wreckage had folded in upon his legs.

Amputation Impossible

Witnesses said that a long effort would have been necessary to cut away the metal that had snapped in on the sergeant's lower legs and that physicians could not get into position to amputate the legs.

The rescuers, it was testified, actually tried to pull the trapped man's body loose from his crushed legs, but did not have the strength.

Doesn't Take Stand

All hope of rescue had been given up, witnesses said, when the lieutenant colonel, standing off about 15 feet, fired twice at the sergeant's head where it showed in the wreckage of the flight compartment.

(The dispatch did not say what fire-fighting facilities were available).

At the court-martial the defendant elected not to testify in his own behalf.

Emotional Strain Told

The defense counsel, Lieut. Col. John H. Hendren, of Kansas City, Mo., rather than base his case on a contention that the shooting was indeed an act of mercy, brought out testimony to show that the defendant had acted irrationally under great emotional strain.

The main pillar of the defense, however, was medical testimony that the condition of the victim's body, when finally recovered, left a reasonable doubt that the sergeant had indeed died from the bullets rather than from burning.

Death Cause In Doubt

Acquittal came when the prosecution failed to gain at least a two-thirds majority for conviction among the seven members of the court.

It was not officially announced what was the principal factor in a half-hour deliberation that followed the hearing, but it was understood that the decision hinged on a reasonable doubt as to the cause of death.

Agony As Factor

The degree of provocation—in this case the screaming agony of the trapped man—may have figured in the consideration. The court-martial manual, defines voluntary manslaughter as an act without malice "committed in the heat of sudden passion caused by provocation," then adds:

"In voluntary manslaughter provocation must be such as the law deems adequate to excite uncontrollable passion in the mind of a reasonable man."

Luzon Campaign Entering Its Last Phase

BERGHOLZ

New York, March 7 (AP)—A BBC broadcast said today a British armored flying column has driven within 4 miles of Mandalay in Burma. The broadcast was recorded by the NBC.

Manila, March 7 (AP)—The 58-day-old campaign for Luzon—it took the Japanese more than five months to conquer it—already is entering its "final phase," Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today.

With Manila liberated, Bataan and Corregidor retaken and the central Luzon plain overrun, the more than ten Yank divisions committed to the operation from the United States 6th and 8th armies are regrouping to go after scattered Nipponese in the mountains.

On rocky Corregidor, at the entrance of reopened Manila Bay, Yanks of the 503d Parachute Regiment have sealed off 300 caves and tunnels, a spokesman disclosed today. In those underground places, the few survivors of 6,000 Nipponese which had formed the fortress garrison are doomed to die because they refused to surrender.

Aid From Guerrillas

Brilliantly aided by Filipino guerrillas, the Yank divisions on Luzon are preparing death traps for the four Japanese divisions Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita has left of an original ten—an enemy loss to date on Luzon of more than 90,000 men.

On the Shimbu Line in the Marikina watershed east of Manila, where some of the most bitter fighting of the campaign has been raging, a headquarters spokesman said "a few limited objectives have been gained."

On the Manila Bay coast, south-east of Corregidor, troops of the 11th Airborne Division struck so swiftly at a "Q" boat hideout—the "Q" boat is somewhat akin to an American patrol torpedo boat—on the Marragodon River that the enemy failed to scuttle a single boat. Twenty were captured.

Tiaong Captured

Other 11th Airborne Yanks, spearing south of Laguna de Bay, below Manila, have occupied Tiaong in a thrust toward Batangas Bay. It is 8 miles south of San Pablo City. Strong air support was given the drive.

The always active Far Eastern Air Force sank a 6,000-ton freighter-transport off Formosa and set fire to another as well as to a destroyer-escort, today's communique disclosed.

Mrs. MacArthur and Son Rejoin General in Manila

By The Associated Press.

MANILA, March 7 — Mrs. Douglas MacArthur and her 6-year-old son arrived in Manila today to rejoin General Douglas MacArthur.

They came from Australia on the first refrigerator ship to enter the harbor since the liberation of the city.

A headquarters spokesman said she returned "to aid and assist in such way as she can in the care of internees and rehabilitation of the city and its inhabitants."

Bankers Reach Manila

Two Chase Officials Will Help to Re-establish Facilities

MANILA, March 7 (AP).—Two American bankers arrived here yesterday, at the invitation of President Sergio Osmena, to help the Philippine government unravel the knotty problem of banking rehabilitation.

The Commonwealth is without any banking facilities at present. American and British banks were formally liquidated at the outbreak of the war. Some Filipino banks were taken over and operated by the Japanese, or their Filipino puppets. These are technically insolvent.

The American advisers are Donald L. Ballantyne and William J. Lamneck, respectively second vice-president and foreign department executive of the Chase National Bank of New York. Ballantyne's last post in the Orient was as manager of the bank's Hong Kong branch. Lamneck served with the Shanghai branch nearly ten years.

FIRST WACS IN MANILA

Manila, March 7 (A. P.).—The first Wacs have reached Luzon. They were assigned to headquarters by the United States armed forces in the Far East. The first contingent, led by Capt. Maude Dillistin of Bridgeport, Conn., included six officers and thirty-seven enlisted women. They were taken on a tour of the rubble and ruin called Manila. Another group of 107 will arrive in the next few days.

Japs Blasted From Hulks

Manila, March 7 (AP)—Mop up of the Manila Japanese garrison has passed the water front and gone out into the bay, illustrating the tenacity of the Nipponese.

The 129th Regiment of the 37th Division yesterday made seventeen amphibious sorties against seventeen wrecked ships in Manila harbor. Japanese driven from Manila took refuge in the hulks and continued to fire at targets on shore.

Artillery pounded the hulks. Then the doughboys stormed them, supported by PT boats. Once aboard, the Yanks used flame throwers, grenades and automatic weapons to root Japanese out of companionways, staterooms and holds.

On only one ship did the assault boats draw fire. But there were exchanges after the men got aboard the hulks.

Col. John D. Frederick, of Springfield, Ill., regimental commander, said: "These Nips never quit. You'd think when we cleaned them out of the city they would be through. But now we've got to go out and blast them out of sunken ships.

"I wonder where they will turn up next."

YANKS ON LUZON HIT SHIMBU LINE

Two Jap Warships, 16 Freighters Damaged by American Planes.

M. DANIEL

MANILA, Thursday, March 8—(AP) American ground forces on Luzon have penetrated below Manila to the south coast for the first time while planes, in attacks along the approaches to the Asiatic mainland, have sunk or damaged two enemy warships and 16 freighters, some used as transports.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced these successes in his communique today.

NIGHT

Meeting only scattered resistance, Eighth army Yanks reached the southern Luzon shores at Balayan bay, while east of Manila the heaviest air strikes in support of a ground action ever recorded in the southwest Pacific featured an assault on the enemy's Shimbu line.

In two days, heavy bombers, attack planes and dive bombers pounded the heavily-defended mountain line, some 20 miles east and northeast of Manila, with more than 900 tons of bombs. Heavy Liberators alone made more than 75 sorties.

Despite the severe hammering the going was still tough for the Yanks. The Japanese are firmly entrenched from Antipolo to Wawa on the Marikina watershed.

Eleventh airborne division Yanks and the 158th infantry regiment, moving swiftly south below Manila bay, captured two towns on Balayan Bay Tuesday. Balayan Bay is on the Verde Island passage, across from American-held Mindoro island.

They seized the towns of Balayan and Calatagan, which are in Batangas province some 40 miles south of Manila.

Thus the Yanks were on the south end of Luzon for the first time.

MacArthur made the announcement today in his communique which told of sinking or damaging nine freighters and a corvette off Formosa and sending a destroyer to the bottom off Hong Kong.

In the stubbornly-held Marikina watershed area east of Manila, First Calvary and Sixth Infantry troops "sealed 19 enemy cave strong points," MacArthur announced, as heavy American fire noticeably reduced the enemy's artillery and rocket barrages.

A single Japanese plane bombed Palompon, on the west coast of Leyte, causing "light civilian casualties."

Medium bombers hit shipping in Formosa strait, sinking or severely damaging five freighter-transports, three freighters and a class A corvette along with two smaller craft. In adjacent waters patrol bombers sank another small freighter and left still another ablaze.

Railroad installations were heavily hit at Formosa itself. Two locomotives and a quantity of rolling stock were destroyed.

Patrol bombers and Mitchell medium units sank or badly damaged three freighters and two freighter-transports southwest of Hong Kong. They also sank a destroyer and scored near misses on a 3,000-ton freighter-transport.

Marines Drive To Split Iwo Foe In Two

HAUGLAND

Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 7 (AP)—An all-out push against the 6,000 or so Japanese still entrenched on the rocky northern end of Iwo Jima was under way today, with tremendous artillery support and army fighters operating off the southern airfield for the first time. Those fighters are based within flying range of Tokyo.

The ground drive, breaking a two-day comparative lull in this fiercest battle of the Pacific war, achieved small gains yesterday in the center and on the left flank.

Rolling Barrage

The Marines moved out behind a deadly rolling artillery barrage, but the Japanese fought back with a continuous stream of small arms and mortar fire and the Marines were confined to "small, local gains," in the words of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's communique today.

These gains were scored on the west side by Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's 5th Marine Division and just east of the center by Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' 4th Division. Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's 3d Division moved up in the middle.

May Split Jap Forces

By nightfall the Yanks were still some 600 yards from the northeast shoreline opposite a bulge which, if reached, would cut the remaining Japanese garrison in two.

The 4th Division was about 250 yards from volcanic cliffs which drop off onto a heavily-defended beach.

By 6 P.M. Monday 14,456 Japanese dead had been counted out of an original Iwo garrison estimated at 20,000. The last figure for American dead was 2,050.

Army fighters were using the captured Motoyama airfield No. 1 at the south end of Iwo for the first time, operating from a base 750 miles south of Tokyo.

Raids on Chichi Jima, in the Bonin Islands immediate north; the Palau Islands; Yap, in the Carolines, and Rota, in the Marianas, were announced in today's communiqué.

Tokyo radio acknowledged the new "violent attack" on Iwo Jima, saying the fighting there had reached "a decisive stage."

Iwo was clogged with men and equipment for the showdown fight. Landing craft disgorged materials of war in a constant stream on the eastern and western beaches Sunday and Monday.

carried firearms for protection (which is disallowed to correspondents).

There was still an occasional sharp crack of rifle fire close by and the mountainside had a porcupine appearance of bristling all over, what with machine and anti-aircraft guns peering from the dugouts, foxholes and caves. There was little sign of life from these enemy-spots, however. Our men were systematically blowing out these places and we had to be on our toes to keep clear of our own demolition squads.

As the trail became steeper, our panting progress slowed to a few yards at a time. I began to wonder and hope that this was worth the effort when suddenly over the brow of the topmost ridge we could spy men working with the flagpole they had so laboriously brought up about three-quarters of an hour ahead of us.

The way down was quite a bit easier, the path becoming well worn and men were carrying ammunition supplies, food and rations necessary for complete occupation of this stronghold.

The Marine history will record Iwo Jima as high in their many gallant actions in the Pacific war.

I have two very vivid memories: The fury of their D-day assault and the thrill of that lofty flag-raising episode.

It is hard now in the quiet atmosphere of this advance base to find words for it. The Marines at Iwo Jima were magnificent.

Guam, March 7 (A. P.).—"See that spot of red on the mountainside," the bos'n shouted above the noise of our landing craft nearing the shore at the base of Suribachi Yama.

"A group of Marines is climbing up to plant our flag up there. I heard it from the radioman."

He was plenty excited—and so was I.

The fall of this 560-foot fortress in four days of gallant Marine fighting was a great thing. A good story and we should have good pictures.

So in I went, back to more of that slogging through the deep volcanic sand, warily sidestepping the numerous Japanese mines. On, past the culverts where the Japanese dead lay among the wreckage of their gun positions and up the steep winding, always sandy trail.

Marine Private Bob Campbell, a San Francisco buddy of mine, and Sergt. Bill Janausk of Ta-[illegible] Wash., were with me and minutes until they were ready to swing the flag-bearing pole into position.

I crowded back on the inner edge of the volcano's rim, back as far as I could, in order to include all I could into the scene within the angle covered by my camera lens.

I rolled up a couple of large stones and a Japanese sandbag to raise my short height clear of an intervening obstruction. I followed up this shot with another of a group of cheering Marines and then I tried to find the four men I heard were the actual instigators of the grand adventure. But they had scattered to their units and I finally gave it up and descended the mountain to get the pictures out and on their way to possible publication.

MARINES ADVANCE ON IWO, FIGHTING IS STILL BITTER

Two 500 Yard Salients Driven in Jap Lines in Hand-to-Hand Battle.

GAINS SPOTTY

Planes Continue to Support Ground Troops, Smash Enemy Bases.

By VERN HAUGLAND

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Thursday, March 8—(AP) In hand to hand combat, United States Marines drove two 500-yard salients Wednesday into the rocky, intricately fortified north end of Iwo but the Japanese still showed no signs of cracking on the 17th day of the invasion.

All three Marine divisions, on the second day of a renewed offensive to end the bloody operation, registered gains but they were spotty and officers were not inclined to regard them as significant.

Enemy resistance continued heavy, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the progress in a communique today.

The Nipponese resistance was with "small arms and machine gun fire." There was no reference to mortar and artillery opposition.

The big gain Wednesday was registered on the west side by Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's Fifth Marine Division.

Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third Marine Division also punched ahead in the center where the leathernecks are getting into position to cut the Nipponese garrison in two.

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates' Fourth Marine Division scored gains up to 200 yards.

Reports received at headquarters were vague as to the specific locations of the new gains.

Offensive Stepped Up

The progress was stepped up over that of Tuesday when the all-out offensive to crush the last Japanese organized resistance was opened. Tuesday's gains were measured in meager yards.

Carrier planes continued to neutralize Japanese bases in the Bonins north of Iwo, hitting Chichi and Haha with rockets and bombs.

The rolling barrage which launched Tuesday's attack was the most intense ever put down by the Marines in such a restricted area reported AP War Correspondent Morrie Landsberg from the expeditionary force flagship. Big guns of the three Marine divisions, corps artillery, carrier planes and naval batteries participated for 62 minutes.

Fight To Death

It was clear, said Landsberg, that the Japanese are not disorganized, as they were in final stages of other campaigns in the Pacific, and intended to fight for what little they hold of this bleak island deep in Japan's inner defenses.

The rugged terrain and a slice of the northeast shoreline still held by the enemy prevented general use of American tanks. Employing flame throwers to sear out the Nipponese from their pillboxes, the Devildogs pushed forward slowly against enemy fire that sometimes came from several directions with pre-registered aim.

Although out-numbered, the enemy remnants fought back bitterly from behind every crag, from thick-walled pillboxes and in gullies and ravines.

Despite the slow progress Tuesday, Marine commanders were not discouraged, Landsburg said. A boost to morale all along the American front was the sight of Army fighter planes flying in support from Iwo's southern airfield, the first to be captured.

These fighter planes later will fly on strafing missions over Japan, only 700 miles northward, and give protection to Superfortresses on their raids over the enemy homeland.

Enemy dead reached 14,456 by 6 p. m., Monday, headquarters reported. That left less than 6,000, including the wounded, out of an enemy garrison originally estimated at 20,000 for the last ditch stand.

Surgical Masks Combat Iwo Dust

Honolulu, March 7 (AP)—Five thousand white gauze special masks has been rushed by the Red Cross to Iwo Jima to protect American Marines from sulphur dust and volcanic ash as they fight for that island.

Volcanic ash has been one of the great curses on Iwo. It has filled the eyes, mouths and lungs of the Leathernecks and has clogged their guns and motor vehicles.

The Marines on Mount Suribachi were affected by sulphur fumes recently when the volcano began to throw off clouds of choking dust.

MARINES ANNOYED BY VOLCANIC FUMES

HONOLULU, March 7—(AP) Five thousand white gauze surgical masks have been rushed by the Red Cross to Iwo Jima to protect American Marines from sulphur dust and volcanic ash as they fight the bloody battle for that strategic island.

Volcanic ash has been one of the great curses on Iwo. It has filled the eyes, mouths and lungs of the Leathernecks and has clogged their guns and motor vehicles.

The Marines on Mount Suribachi were affected by sulphur fumes recently when the volcano began to throw off clouds of choking dust.

20 Nations Favor Bid To Argentina

Mexico City, March 7 (AP)—Foreign ministers of twenty American republics, meeting in secret session early tonight, approved a declaration inviting Argentina to join the new hemisphere system and the United Nations.

The declaration, which officials expect will receive unanimous approval by the Inter-American Conference is scheduled to be acted upon in the final plenary session tomorrow. All the other resolutions have been formally passed.

Word that the document was coming out has already produced a reaction in Argentina, with Cesar Ameghino, Acting Foreign Minister, declaring he has decided to reaffirm his country's "respect for the personality, sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity of all other American nations.

The statement aroused mixed feeling here. Since the declaration on Argentina implies that Buenos Aires go to war, some officials saw Ameghino's remark as an attempt to avoid a declaration of war.

The resolution on Argentina is phrased so carefully that it does not contain a single menacing or demanding word. Yet, delegates from twenty nations have injected into their message, a firm note making it clear that only concrete and far-reaching action by the Argentine government can reunite the hemisphere.

The friendly, respectful tone of the declaration, officials feel, puts this choice before the Argentine government: Changing its ways or attempting what would be the extremely difficult job of justifying a refusal to its own people.

Missing Pelham Flier Prisoner

OTTAWA, March 7 (AP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force announced today that Flying Officer Robert G. Donaldson, whose father, E. V. Donaldson, lives at 507 Esplanade, Pelham Manor, N. Y., was a prisoner of war. He has previously been reported missing.

NURSE DRAFT BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Men as Well as Women Affected—Married Women Not to Be Included.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(AP) Nurse-draft legislation broadened to include men as well as women not over 44 or under 20 years of age won House approval today by a top-heavy vote.

The Administration-requested measure written by the House Military committee to meet the needs of the army and the navy for an estimated 18,000 additional nurses was sent to the Senate by a rollcall vote of 347 to 42.

It was virtually rewritten during three days of debate, but its major provisions, including a ban against drafting married women, were retained.

Written in during the closing hours of debate was a requirement that before any nurse, man or woman, may be inducted, he or she must be offered a commission by the Army or the Navy. In making this provision, the House set aside its action of yesterday providing that all nurses must be inducted as commissioned officers. Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the Military committee pointed out that anyone could evade induction by refusing to accept a commission. A commission cannot be forced upon anyone. All volunteer nurses in the armed services are given commissions.

A last-minute Republican-backed drive to forestall the actual drafting of nurses for at least 30 days after pasage of the legislation failed by a standing vote of 161 to 117.

Representative Fenton (R-Pa.), sponsor of the amendment, said it was intended to give the current nurse recruitment program a chance to produce results.

The biggest fight developed over a proposal to broaden the bill to include married women. The Military committee limited its recommendation to unmarried nurses. Representative Bolton (R-Ohio) offered an amendment to take them all in, married or single, with local draft boards following customary deferment procedure in the cases of women with children.

The House compromised by adopting on a voice vote a proposal requiring all nurses within the specified age group to register but exempting from induction women with children under 18, women with dependent children and women married prior to March 15, 1945.

The major argument advanced against exempting any nurse married prior to March 15 of this year was that it might result in a rush of marriages by women anxious to avert induction.

Opposing extension of liability to the married group, Representative Rabaut (D-Mich.), father of nine children, warned "wrecked morality" might result from induction of parents. He voted against the bill on passage.

Knocked out of the bill was a requirement that graduates of the government-financed cadet nurse corps be inducted before non-cadets are drafted. Also eliminated was a provision that gave the War Manpower commission's procurement and assignment service virtual power to order the deferment of any nurse essential for civilian health. The House gave almost exclusive deferment powers to local draft boards, instructing them to consider the recommendations of the WMC agencies, and allowing appeals as provided by the original draft law which the nurse-draft legislation amends.

Originally intended as a separate law, the legislation was made part of the Selective Service act in order to bring drafted nurses within the scope of veterans' benefits now provided for drafted men.

To end what some members claimed was a policy against using Negro nurses, the House approved an amendment prohibiting discrimination in the induction or employment of service nurses.

NEW ARMY TANK IS NAMED PERSHING

Mounting 90 Millimeter Gun, It Is Answer to the German Tiger, Says Patterson

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The new tank of the United States Army, described by Robert P. Patterson, Under-Secretary of War as the answer to the German Tiger tank, has been named the "General Pershing." Hitherto the largest gun carried in United States tanks has been the 76-mm., although some tanks are equipped with 105-mm howitzers. The "General Pershing" has a 90-mm. gun.

Mr. Patterson describes the new tank as the most powerful the United States has yet built. Supposedly it is heavier and carries more armor than the two-and-a-half-inch plate of the "General Sherman" and the four-inch of the assault tank.

As to the firepower of a 90-mm. gun, its potency is shown by the record of the M-36 tank destroyer, which also mounts that type of gun. The M-36 has knocked out tanks at ranges close to three miles, and when it shoots at a range of 1,000 yards "it can drop every one of its shells into a ten-inch circle," according to ordnance experts.

The 90-mm. gun of the M-36 can penetrate the eight-inch armor of the "Tiger" at 200 to 300 yards with a twenty-four-pound projectile. The Tiger mounts an 88-mm. gun.

Save for what Mr. Patterson has stated, the War Department has not released details of the construction of the new tank. Maj. Gen. Levin Campbell, chief of ordnance, several weeks ago disclosed that there was in action a new tank, known as the "assault tank," which he said was five tons heavier than the 35-ton General Shermans, and had about "double" the frontal armor of the "Sherman." He described that tank as only a "special purpose" one.

DAVIS IS NAMED TO VINSON POST AS STABILIZER

Taylor Chosen to Fill His Vacated Place as WLB Chairman.

MURRAY ATTACKED TAYLOR

In November He Referred to His 'Machinations' and Demanded That He Leave Board.

Washington, March 7 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt today reshuffled his top wage-labor policy makers.

William H. Davis, chairman of the War Labor Board was made Director of Stabilization, succeeding Fred M. Vinson. Mr. Vinson becomes administrator of the $40,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation and associated lending agencies which the ousted Jesse Jones formerly directed.

George W. Taylor, vice-chairman of the War Labor Board since its formation in 1942 and author of the "Little Steel" wage formula, moves up into Mr. Davis's post as chairman.

The President thus cleared the way for an early settlement of the dispute over "fringe" wage adjustments, a dispute which had locked Messrs. Vinson and Davis in a tight policy snarl.

Both Mr. Davis and Mr. Taylor had submitted their resignations last fall but were persuaded by Mr. Roosevelt to remain with the WLB through the war emergency.

New Stabilizer's Comment.

Mr. Davis, who was 65 years old last August, pleaded that he wanted a rest, and Mr. Taylor urged the President to release him so he could return to the University of Pennsylvania where he is on leave as professor of industry.

"I think perhaps it is jumping out of the frying pan into the fire," Mr. Davis said today when informed of his new job. "All I can say is that I will do the best I can."

The choice of Mr. Taylor as WLB chairman evoked no immediate comment from Philip Murray or William Green, presidents, respetctively, of the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. Mr. Murray at last November's convention, of the C. I. O. demanded that Mr. Taylor resign from the board in a bitter attack on what he called "the machinations" of the then vice-chairman.

Mr. Murray did not make it clear what he meant by "machinations," but Mr. Taylor, as the board's expert on wages, had insister on adherence to the formula which he wrote in the "Little Steel" decision of July, 1942.

As Director of Economic Stabilization, Mr. Davis will be responsible in a sense for some of the same sort of problem with which he has dealt exclusively as War Labor Board chairman—problems of trying to keep a balanced relationship between wages and prices.

BRETTON WOODS ADOPTION URGED BY MORGENTHAU

He Says Agreements Are Needed for Success at San Francisco.

REPUBLICANS FAVOR CAUTION

While Not Opposed to Stabilization G. O. P. Representatives Don't Want 'Railroading.'

Washington, March 7 (A. P.).—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau urged early enactment of Bretton Woods legislation today, but some Republican representatives immediately raised objections to "hasty consideration" of the agreements.

Mr. Morgenthau told the House Banking Committee that enactment of Bretton Woods legislation before the April 25 meeting at San Francisco would "prove to the world that America means business, and is not just talking about world collaboration."

While not opposing the principles of world economic stabilization in the legislation, Representatives Wolcott of Michigan, ranking committee Republican, and Sumner (R.-Ill.), Smith (R.-Ohio) and Crawford (R.-Mich.), immediately took an energetic stand against "railroading" the measure. Mr. Crawford said he had fifteen to twenty-five witnesses who want to appear in opposition."

Morgenthau's Points.

Mr. Morgenthau asked for favorable action on the agreements because, he said:

1. They are needed for the success of the world security organization to be chartered at San Francisco.

2. They are "definitely good business for the United States."

3. If the present program for post-war monetary stability is rejected, "it is unlikely that this opportunity will come again to our generation."

4. The agreements, though technical, "present a very simple issue—stability and order instead of insecurity and chaos."

With those main arguments, Secretary Morgenthau opened the administration's case before the House Banking Committee for the establishment of two institutions proposed by representatives of forty-four countries who met at Bretton Woods, N. H., last July.

Says Much Hangs on Action.

They are a multi-billion-dollar international monetary fund and the international bank for reconstruction and development.

Mr. Morgenthau told the committee: "The fate of more than the Bretton Woods agreements hangs upon the action of Congress at this time."

He said favorable action would provide the most heartening evidence that Americans are "thoroughly sincere" in their devotion to the principles of international co-operation. He added it would add "deeds to the words of hope" that link the United Nations in a peace alliance.

"The world security organization which was outlined at Dumbarton Oaks and will be completed, we all hope, at San Francisco needs the Bretton Wods agreements," Mr. Morgenthau asserted.

"We cannot say that we will join the other nations in an organization to maintain peace, but will not help to remove one of the most dangerous cases of war—economic dislocations."

Calls Power Economics a Peril.

He said that political security in the midst of economic chaos is impossible, for "power economics" may be just as dangerous as "power politics."

Mr. Morgenthau said he is convinced of one fundamental fact—"the Bretton Woods agreements are good for every American citizen."

Asserting that the agreements involve "jobs and profits," he contended the United States has perhaps more to gain than any other country.

Mr. Morgenthau appealed to Congress to avoid delay, saying that "time is the most valuable commodity we have," but he urged full and frank discussion.

Dean Acheson, Assistant Secretary of State, supported Mr. Morgenthau's plea, telling the Banking Committee that the action is necessary to eliminate economic wars that lead to armed conflicts.

"The whole basis of the Bretton Woods proposals," Mr. Acheson said, "is the conception of an expanding economy and collective security through common action."

Internal Trouble Abroad Laid To Communists

Washington, March 7 (AP)—American diplomatic officials are watching with growing concern the spread of internal disturbances in Romania and Italy.

Although the troubles in these countries apparently stem from different causes, in each they involve vigorous Communist leadership. There is a decided possibility that each may bring into play the principles, if not the actual machinery, of the Big Three decisions at Yalta for the protection of liberated European countries.

Italy produced the latest and most spectacular explosions, but Romania seems to involve issues potentially more dangerous to a friendly settlement of European affairs.

Linked To Moscow

Romania is so completely within the Russian sphere of influence that there are strong suspicions here that Moscow has been fully aware of the efforts to engineer a Communist coup in that country and of the continuing attempts to establish what is regarded here as a Communist minority in positions of power.

The Italian outburst, on the other hand, is attributed more to the awkward handling of Italian affairs by the Allied military command and the bungling and inertia of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi, which allowed the escape of Gen. Mario Roatta. Roatta, former army chief of staff under Mussolini, is accused of war crimes.

Red Flag In Rome

Communist leadership in the mass protests in Rome yesterday was evident by the fact the throngs which gathered before Quirinal Palace shouted "Death to the King!" and waved the traditional red flag of the party. The significance of such leadership, as seen here, is that wherever in Europe mass violence is incited by governmental shortcomings, Communists always spring most vigorously to the protests.

Initially there was a comparable situation in Romania. While the Government of Premier Radescu was as representative of the country's political parties as a hand-picked group could be, it lacked initiative in determining and prosecuting war criminals.

This failure was promptly assailed by the democratic front, a coalition of Leftist parties with strong Communist elements in the lead.

Russian Official Confers

After various outbursts which are believed here to have been organized to prepare the way for a coup Russian Vice Commissar Vishinsky appeared in Bucharest and conferred with King Mihai on February 24. This was twelve days after the Yalta declaration promising full independence to the countries of liberated and former satellite areas—an independence to be guaranteed by joint action of the Big Three powers wherever political unrest developed.

The arrival of Vishinsky was followed by the downfall of Radescu and the King thereafter asked Barbu Stirbey to arganize the Government. Stirbey, however, failed for lack of Leftist support.

New Regime Predicted

Latest reports here are that a democratic front leader, Dr. Petru Groza, is in the process of forming a government which probably would have a strong Communist coloring.

For the moment there is no public disclosure of policy which the United States has followed in Romania. It is considered likely, however, that if affairs go much farther toward control by Communist minorities, the Yalta principles may be strongly invoked.

Groza Reported Chosen

[A Tass dispatch from Bucharest today declared that Dr. Groza had been designated Premier of Romania to succeeed Nicolae Radescu; who was forced to resign last week.]

RHINE CROSSING WILL HASTEN DAY OF NAZI DEFEAT

By EDWARD H. HIGGS

WASHINGTON, March 7 — (AP) Once Allied armies leap the Rhine, the Germans won't be able to stop them, military men said today.

Moreover, one authority said that once a bridgehead has been firmly established and Allied forces have driven 30 or so miles beyond the Rhine's east bank, it will be possible to fix a date for the end of organized German resistance.

At that point in Germany, the Allies would be well on the way toward splitting the Western front in two and would be fanning out to pocket any German forces showing fight.

This optimistic view was based principally on estimates that the harassed Germans can place no more than 30 or 32 divisions on that stretch of the Rhine which the Allies already have reached—or are nearing—between Coblenz and the Rhine's junction with the Maas.

These divisions, many of them at one-fourth to one-half normal divisional strength of 15,000, probably would not represent more than 200,000 men. Many of the divisions likely have been stitched together from the remnants of units badly mauled west of the Rhine and therefore relatively ineffective.

Such a force is too impotent, in the belief of military authorities, to mount any sizeable counter-blow against Allied armies that cross the Rhine.

An early effort to hurdle the river is expected since the longer the crossing is delayed, the more time the Germans will have to scrape up troops and bolster east bank defenses.

Allied commanders now probably are waiting only for the Third and First armies to clear the west bank for Coblenz north to Bonn.

When this is accomplished, the Allies will have a 150 mile foothold on the west bank and a wide choice of spots for crossing.

First Lady Explains Trip to See Play

Washington, March 7 (A. P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt recently told in her newspaper column of taking a train trip to Baltimore to see a new play. Today, at her news conference, she was asked how she reconciled the trip with Government requests that people refrain from traveling for pleasure. She replied that she did not think that a short journey "in a coach displaces any one."

"Also, I have a special interest in that play," she added, "because it is about returning war veterans. I have urged writers and playwrights to do some things on that theme."

The round trip from Washington to Baltimore is eighty miles.

House Tribute to Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP).—The House decided unanimously today to send a message of congratulations to General Dwight D. Eisenhower and his men for the recent American Army achievements in Europe. Representative John E. Rankin, Democrat, of Mississippi, asserted "special tribute should go to General Patton, who only a year ago was the target of the smearbund."

Demand To Keep Tenets Of Monroe Pact Seen

Washington, March 7 (AP)—Senators predicted today this country will insist on retaining the principles of the Monroe Doctrine in any regional security arrangements made under the projected international peace organization.

Senator George (D., Ga.), said he believes there is ample protection in the Yalta voting agreement for continuation of the hands-off-the-Western-Hemisphere principle laid down by President James Monroe in 1823.

The Yalta procedure would give the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China and France veto power on the use of force against aggression.

U.S. Rights Noted

George noted that if the San Francisco Security Conference adopts this method, the United States would have the right to permit or halt forceful action by the proposed peace-preserving league in this hemisphere.

Moreover, he said it is the understanding of a bipartisan group which has conferred with State Department officials frequently that the duties of policing aggression would be left largely in the hands of regional groups.

Action On "Regional Level"

This regional setup, George said, would find the United States joining with other Western Hemisphere members of the proposed organization in keeping peace in their own household.

"Of course," George went on, "we will not be acting under the Monroe Doctrine, but under the general powers vested in the council to use force to prevent aggression. But I expect the action to be taken on the regional level and it must be with the consent of the United States as a permanent member of the council."

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.), another member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he would not be surprised if Senate opponents of international peace collaboration propose a Monroe Doctrine reservation to the treaty expected to come out of the San Francisco meeting.

He added that he believes there is no threat to maintenance of the doctrine in the proposed new international security system.

MRS. ROOSEVELT GIVEN CROWN AND RARE MINK COAT

By EDITH GAYLORD

WASHINGTON, March 7 — (AP) A jewel-encrusted gold crown, a gold-embroidered harem costume and a Canadian mink coat have been showered on Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

She'll wear only one of the fabulous items—the mink coat—she told her news conference today.

When King Ibn Saud of Arabia pitched his royal tent on the deck of a United States destroyer and steamed up the Red sea to pay a call on President Roosevelt, the King brought gifts for the Roosevelt family.

The law of this republic says that the President may not accept gifts from foreign persons without special permission from Congress.

Therefore, to Mrs. Roosevelt the King of Arabia sent six delicately spun and embroidered Arabian costumes. Two harem dresses were for the first lady and the Roosevelt's daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger, who accompanied her father to the Near East.

Four Arabian princes' costumes presumably are for the four Roosevelt sons who currently wear uniforms of the United States' armed forces.

The more than 100-year-old crown has reposed [illegible] the library at Hyde Park for some two years, Mrs. Roosevelt disclosed. Some African potentate sent it after the President's Casablanca conference with Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

"It's the most terrific thing you ever saw," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "Nobody could wear it. It's too heavy."

Asked whether it was sent for her to wear, the President's wife said she supposed it was given "as decoration."

Latest among the celebrated gifts directed to the President's wife is a mink coat from Quebec, reputedly valued at $8,000. Mrs. Roosevelt said she started to give it to a philanthropic organization, but the Quebec donor indicated such a gesture might be "ungracious."

Asked why she went to Baltimore to see a play when the Office of Defense Transportation has been asking people not to travel for pleasure, Mrs. Roosevelt explained that the play was about returning veterans.

"I don't think that going from here to Baltimore in a coach displaces anyone," she said. "Also, I have a special interest in the play. ...ave urged writers and playghts to do some things on that ...me."

Patton Ignores Enemy Fire To Swim Icy French River

Third Army General's Feat Inspires Men to Follow Him to Victory.

BALTIMORE, March 7. — (AP) The story of how Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton twice swam the 150-foot Sure river in Germany in January under heavy machine gun and artillery fire, inspiring "thousands of troops to follow him," was told today by one of the men who did.

Staff Sgt. Thomas J. Defibaugh of Cumberland, Md., one of the soldiers who followed Patton across the Sure, said "there was about a foot of snow on the ground when we got to the Sure river somewhere near the meeting place of the Luxembourg, German and Belgian borders.

"We learned that we had to take the town of Bettendorf on the opposite side and do it quickly," said Defibaugh, a member of the Fourth Infantry division which helped relieve the pressure on Americans trapped at Bastogne by the German counter-offensive last December.

"The Germans began firing machine guns and artillery at us as we came up to the river bank," continued Defibaugh, now touring war plants in the Baltimore area with other heroes of Bastogne.

"Just before dawn we started going across in three-man boats. The river was very swift and cold and had pieces of ice floating in it.

"After a while though, General Patton called the boats back and ordered the men to swim across with rifles, bazookas, and everything they could carry because they were 'sitting pigeons' for the Germans in the boats, sitting two or three feet out of the water.

"He figured the men would have a better chance swimming since they would then present only the tops of their heads as targets to the enemy gunners.

"To show us it could be done and to inspire the troops, General Patton jumped into the water and swam across to the opposite bank, then swam back. Thousands of troops followed him."

Inspired by Patton's daring, the soldiers fought "like madmen" for Bettendorf, Defibaugh related, and they took it after a bitter day and a half battle which established the Americans on high ground overlooking Germany.

Wife Not Surprised

SOUTH HAMILTON, Mass., March 7.—(AP) It was no great surprise to Mrs. George S. Patton, Jr., that her general-husband—American Third Army commander — had inspired thousands of troops by twice swimming the 150-foot Sure river.

Gen. Patton was a "great swimmer" and "easily could have done it," Mrs. Patton said tonight when informed of his feat.

"He has swum all his life. In the Olympic games in 1912, he came out third in a swimming event."

Halifax to Ride to Hounds

British Ambassador Scheduled for Oklahoma Wolf Hunt

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 7 (AP).—The Earl of Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, will ride to the hounds during his visit to Oklahoma, but his quarry will be wolves instead of the little red fox. The hunt is scheduled for March 20, with the entire Halifax party taking part. The group will tour the southwest to learn more about the country.

The event is being arranged by Dr. V. C. Tisdal, Elk City, Okla., who met Lord Halifax seventeen years ago in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Major J. P. S. Devereaux Farming At Shanghai

Chebeague Island, Maine, March 7 (AP)—Maj. James P. S. Devereaux, Marine leader of the heroic defense of Wake Island and a prisoner of the Japanese since the island's fall in December, 1941, is well and engaged in farming in Shanghai, China, friends of his family reported today.

Friends here said their information had come from Mrs. Robert Morse, of Miami, Fla., a Chebeague Island summer resident, and mother of Mrs. Ashton Devereaux, sister-in-law of Major Devereaux.

Dr. H. H. Kung, Vice Premier of China, was operated on yesterday for a bladder and kidney ailment at the Harkness Pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. Last night he was reported to be doing well. Dr. Kung came to this country eight months ago on a special mission and also for medical consultation.

48 RECEIVE D. F. C.

San Diego, Cal., March 7 (A. P.).— Forty-eight Distinguished Flying Crosses and thirty-three Navy Crosses were awarded today to eighty flying officers and air crewmen of Navy Air Group 20 by Rear Admiral Alfred E. Montgomery, Commander, Fleet Air, West Coast.

With few exceptions the Navy crosses, awarded thirty-three officers, were for extraordinary heroism in operations last October 24-25 against Japanese warcraft in the battle for Leyte Gulf. The group, returned recently for rest and reassignment, is commanded by Commander Daniel F. Smith Jr., Pittsburg, Tex. It sank or damaged more than 700,000 tons of shipping.

Those decorated included:

Distinguished Flying Cross:

Connecticut—Edward A. Ruopp, ARMIC, R. F. D. 5, Danbury, and Edward A. Switajewski, ARM2C, 216 Broad street, New Britain.

New Jersey—William E. McGrath, ARM1C, 331 East Seventh street, Plainfield, and John F. Schmidt, AOM1C, 331 Pearsall avenue, Jersey City.

New York—Peter J. Ward, ARM2C, 75-13 64th street, Glendale, L. I.

STASSEN PROPOSES WORLDWIDE 'CODE'

Navy Officer, Former Governor, Offers Seven Points for Peace.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 7—(AP) Enactment of a worldwide code of human rights, starting with a law that "no country, in time of peace, shall execute a human being without just trial," was proposed tonight by Commander Harold E. Stassen in a talk outlining seven cardinal points of future world policy.

The former Minnesota governor put his personal views on problems of world peace on record in advance of the April San Francisco United Nations conference which he will attend as a delegate.

He said he looked upon the conference as "a golden opportunity to win a beachhead in the battle for a just and lasting peace."

Joining with our allies "to build a definite and continuing organization of the United Nations of the World based on justice and law and insured by force," headed his seven point program.

Stassen spoke at a public meeting at the University of Minnesota. The talk was broadcast nationally.

Against a background of nearly two years service in the Pacific area, Stassen said:

"Our fighting men want America to have a world policy for peace that is as big, as definite, and as successful as has been our strategy for war."

He called for gradual development of "a new and higher level of government, with legislative, judicial and executive functions, and with worldwide jurisdiction."

Expressing the hope that this world organization, whatever its final form, would include some method of developing basic world-wide law, he added:

"It should make possible the future enactment of a fundamental code of human rights. The beginning may be very small. But even if we started with the enactment of one law, a law that no country, in time of peace, shall execute a human being without just trial, it would be a significant step."

Other Six Points

Stassen emphasized these other six points:

That "absolute nationalistic sovereignty is dead."

That we are citizens of the world and our happines and welfare is tied up with that of all other peoples.

That productive capacities and resources of America be used for the advancement of all the peoples of the world.

That we recognize freedom of information is vital to the peace and progress of the world.

That we are and propose to remain a deocracy with an economic system of private capital and individual enterprise, that we will explain our system to the world and permit our own citizens to learn of any other form of government "but will not permit any other government to actively seek to undermine our own."

That aggressor nations must be stripped and remain stripped of the means of making war, while we maintain our strength.

He said both a united nations court of worldwide jurisdiction and a police force are essential to a world organization but "this definitely does not mean an all-powerful international police force of a superstate."

"Let us clarify our thinking," he continued. "If either the United States, or Russia, or Great Britain decide in the next 25 years to make war, then there will be another war, and no organization, or league, or union, or treaties will stop it. But I do not believe any of these countries will want to make war. Each knows the horrors of war. Each has so much to gain by not making war. Each has a great future in the peaceful development of its resources."

TITO FORMS CABINET

By Associated Press.

The Yugoslav radio reported that Premier Marshal Tito completed the formation of a new unity government today, making Dr. Ivan Subasic, former head of the Yugoslav Government in London, as his Foreign Minister. The list was handed to Yugoslavia's three new Regents, who signed a decree formally appointing the Government, according to the broadcast recorded by FCC.

YUGOSLAV CABINET COMPLETED BY TITO

Marshal Tito completed yesterday the formation of a new Yugoslav Government of National Unity from among his own followers and members of Dr. Ivan Subasitch's London Cabinet, the Free Yugoslav radio announced in a domestic broadcast.

Six members of the Cabinet, including Dr. Subasitch, had served in the London exile government. The Cabinet list, as broadcast, contained twenty-six names.

Marshal Tito, acting under royal mandate, handed the completed list to Yugoslavia's three new regents, Dr. Srdjan Budisavljevitch, Dr. Anton Manditch and Dushan Sernec, who signed a decree formally installing the government at noon yesterday.

The Cabinet list, as broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio, follows:

Premier and Minister of National Defense—Marshal Tito.
Vice Premier—Dr. Milan Grol.
Vice Premier and Minister for Constituent Assembly—Edward Kardelj.
Foreign—Dr. Ivan Subasitch.
Without Portfolio—Dr. Josip Smodlaka.
Without Portfolio—Dr. Juraj Sutej.
Interior—Vlada Zechevitch.
Justice—Frane Frol.

For Croatia—Dr. Pavle Gregoritch.
For Slovenia—Edvard Kocbek.
For Bosnia and Hercegovina—Rodoljub Cholakovitch.
For Macedonia—Emanuel Chuchkov.
For Montenego—Milovan Djilas.

The five London Cabinet holdovers, besides Dr. Subasitch, were Dr. Grol, Mr. Kosanovitch, Mr. Vukosavyljevitch, Mr. Marusitch and Mr. Sutej.

Tokyo Predicts Battle

Domei, Japanese news agency, heard by the FCC, said that a "full scale" battle was imminent in the vicinity of Montalban, The broadcast said both Japanese and American units were deploying in a contest of vantage points, and that considerable heavy American artillery was shelling Japanese positions.

Tokyo Reports U.S. Raids On Hainan and Bonins

Says 60 Escorted Bombers Hit China Sea Base

The Tokyo radio reported new American air attacks on Japanese island bases yesterday, declaring that almost seventy planes had raided Hainan on Tuesday morning and that Chichi and Haha, in the Bonin group to the north of Iwo Jima, had been raided Monday.

According to the broadcasts, which were recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, sixty B-25's and eight P-38's struck yesterday at Hainan, which lies off the Gulf of Tonkin in the south China Sea.

Twenty American planes, including B-24's, carried out the raid on Chichi Monday, Tokyo reported in an earlier broadcast. Simultaneously a group of "small enemy planes" raided Haha. Tokyo said these raids had been successfully repulsed and that some of the raiders had been damaged.

The Japanese radio also reported that at least eight American Superfortresses, flying lone missions, had bombed widely separated areas of the home islands of Honshu and Shikoku overnight and that another lone B-29, apparently taking off from a base in China, had flown a three-hour sortie over occupied Korea.

One of the mainland raiders dropped bombs on the Kanto district, which includes the Tokyo metropolitan area, soon after midnight.

JAPANESE GENERAL DIES

Three Others Also Get Posthumous Decorations From Emperor

Another Japanese general—Maj. Gen. Tsunematsu Shibata — has died, the Japanese Domei agency revealed yesterday. The cause of his death was not given.

An English-language wireless dispatch, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, made the disclosure in reporting that Emperor Hirohito had granted posthumous decorations to 336 army officers and men and civilians "who participated in operations in the Pacific and Burma" or "died in service in Japan and Manchukuo."

Shibata was one of four officers of general rank to whom posthumous decorations were granted. The death of three other generals had been announced previously.

HAINAN IS RAIDED BY 68 U. S. PLANES

By Associated Press.

Sixty American B-25s and eight P-38s raided Hainan on Tuesday, the Tokyo radio said today. Hainan lies off the Gulf of Tonkin, in the South China Sea.

Tokyo claimed without confirmation that eight bombers and two fighter planes were shot down.

Eight sections of Japan, including Tokyo, were disturbed during the night by at least eight Marianas-based Superforts on their second successive night of widely scattered combination harrying and observation strikes, Japanese broadcasts reported today. A B-29 from China spent three hours at mid-day over Korea, presumably taking pictures. The enemy broadcasts were recorded by FCC.

THE THIRD ARMY'S BAG OF 1,586 YESTERDAY--PROBABLY INCLUDING FEW IF ANY TAKEN IN THE SPECTACULAR BREAKTHROUGH TOWARD COBLENZ--BROUGHT ITS TOTAL SINCE FEB.1 TO 34,893. IN ALL, THE WESTERN ALLIES HAD CAPTURED MORE THAN 1,000,000 GERMANS SINCE THE LANDING IN NORMANDY.

NINTH ARMY FORCES FIGHTING NEAR RHEINBERG TODAY WERE REPORTED TO HAVE PICKED UP ADDITIONAL NAZI SOLDIERS WHO HAD SHUCKED THEIR UNIFORMS AND WERE MASQUERADING AS CIVILIANS. ALSO IN THAT AREA SOME GERMAN SLAVE LABORERS WERE SAID TO BE SLIPPING ACROSS THE RHINE TO FREEDOM BEHIND THE AMERICAN LINES. GERMAN ARTILLERY ACROSS THE RIVER GAVE RHEINBERG A HEAVY SHELLING.

THE SMASHED GERMAN ARMY FACING THE AMERICAN THIRD ON THIS SIDE OF THE RHINE WAS THE MOST COMPLETE PICTURE OF DEFEAT THE WAR IN THE WEST HAS PRODUCED. ITS MEN WERE BEATEN, ITS EQUIPMENT DESTROYED. UNENDING GREY-GREEN COLUMNS SHUFFLED ALONG IN A COLD DRIZZLE WHICH AT TIMES TURNED TO MUSHY SNOW. AS NIGHT FELL THEY STILL WERE COMING, MOVING PAST SMOULDERING CARCASSES OF NAZI MILITARY VEHICLES RANGING FROM ROYAL TIGER TANKS AND BIG NAZI PIECES TO SMALL HORSE-DRAWN AMMUNITION CARTS, WITH THE DEAD ANIMALS SPRAWLED IN THEIR TRACES.

MANY OF THE GERMANS HELD ALOFT STICKS FROM WHICH DROOPED WHITE FLAGS THE PRISONERS HAD FASHIONED FROM FIRST AID GAUZE. SOME LOOKED HAPPY AND TIPPED THEIR CAPS TO DISINTERESTED AMERICANS. THE UNSHAVEN FACES OF OTHERS WERE GRIM MASKS AS THEY STARED STRAIGHT AHEAD.

THERE WAS NO SEMBLANCE OF A FRONT AFTER THE DOUBLE-BANKED RETREATING COLUMNS HAD BEEN CUT TO PIECES. DURING THE DAY I MADE A 100-MILE ROUNDTRIP BY JEEP BETWEEN THE LUXEMBOURG BORDER AND WHAT, LATE IN THE AFTERNOON, WAS THE FARTHEREST POINT OF PENETRATION BY ONE OF THE FOURTH ARMORED'S SPEARHEADS. THE ONLYWARLIKE ACTION I SAW ON THE PART OF THE GERMANS WAS ONE ARTILLERY SHELL WHICH WHISTLED ACROSS A TANK COLUMN AND BURST IN A FIELD 25 YARDS AWAY. IT DID NO DAMAGE. IN THEIR HASTE THEY PROVOKED A MAJOR TRAGEDY.

VARIOUS CITIZENS WITH WHOM I HAVE TALKED SAID THERE WAS ONE FINAL MASS EXODUS AFTER LAST THURSDAY'S HEAVY AIR ATTACK. THREE BRIDGES HAVING BEEN DESTROYED AND TWO OTHERS DAMAGED, THOUSANDS OF NERVE-WRACKED COLOGNERS USED A BRIDGE OF LIMITED CAPACITY WHICH SPANNED THE RHINE NEAR

OO

HEAVY VEHICLES WERE FORBIDDEN SPECIFICALLY, BUT THE NAZI HIERARCHY ORDERED TRUCKS, PRESUMABLY BEARING DOCUMENTS, OVER THE SPAN. SUDDENLY THE BRIDGE SNAPPED AND SANK INTO THE RIVER. JUST HOW MANY FUGITIVE CIVILIANS WERE KILLED PROBABLY NEVER WILL BE KNOAMFMOEWN ZIBXHIS APPAREN BRIDGE IS FARTHER NORTH.)

IT IS DIFFICULT TO CHECK WITH CERTAINTY UPON A STORY LIKE THIS ONE, HOWEVER, FOR NOWHERE IN COLOGNE IS THERE AN ORGANIZED GERMAN AUTHORITY TO BE FOUND.

SINCE SATURDAY THERE HAS BEEN NO DISTRIBUTION OF RATION CARDS. UNTIL THE AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNMENT SETS UP BUSINESS, THE PEOPLE MUST WORRY FOR THEMSELVES HOW TO OBTAIN FOOD.

THE NAZI POLICE ALSO DESERTED--PARTICULARLY THE DREAD GESTAPO. BUT THAT ASPECT IS TOLD BY COLOGNERS WITH GLEE. THEY DECLARE THAT RHINELANDERS NEVER WERE AS NAZIFIED AS THE REST OF THE REICH.

IRONICALLY, ON EVERY STREET CORNER ARE PLACARDS WITH THE WORDS: "UNSHAKEN, INVINCIBLE, WE ARE SURE OF VICTORY IN THE END."

COLOGNERS SAY THAT MANY CASUALTIES FROM LAST WEEK'S HEAVY BOMBING STILL LIE UNDER CAVED-IN HOUSES. A MERCHANT POINTED TO THE RUBBLE AT A CORNER NEAR WHERE I STOOD. HE SAID:

"THERE ARE A CONSIDERABLE NUMBER OF DEAD UNDER THAT HEAP. A BLOCKBUSTER SCORED A DIRECT HIT ON AN APARTMENT BUILDING, WHICH FELL APART LIKE A HOUSE OF CARDS."

THE BEST ESTIMATE OF HOW MANY OF COLOGNE'S 768,000 INHABITANTS REMAIN IS 100,000. FOUR WEEKS AGO, THE OFFICIAL RATION CARD DISTRIBUTION SHOWED 80,000. SHORTLY THEREAFTER 40,000 CAME FLOCKING BACK. AFTER THURSDAY'S BOMBING THERE WAS ANOTHER MAJOR EXODUS.

MILITARY POLICE INSPECTING THE HOUSES FOUND MUCH EVIDENCE OF GERMAN SOLDIERS HAVING HAD ENOUGH, AND HAVING SLIPPED INTO CIVILIAN CLOTHING. THIS WAS BORNE OUT BY THE UNUSUAL NUMBER OF YOUNG MEN I SAW ROAMING ABOUT THE STREETS. THE MILITARY POLICE ROUND THEM UP QUICKLY, FOR FEAR THEY MIGHT CHANGE THEIR MINDS AND TRY TO REACH THEIR OUTFITS ACROSS THE RHINE. THERE ISHALSO THE DANGER THAT SPIES MAY BE AMONG THEM.

ROME, MARCH 7-(AP)-A MILITARY POLICE PLATOON OF MINNESOTA MEN ON THE FIFTH ARMY FRONT, RECENTLY HONORED WITH THE MERITORIOUS SERVICE UNIT PLAQUE, HAS BEEN ON DUTY FOR MORE THAN FOUR YEARS WITHOUT A DAY'S BREAK ALTHOUGH ITS OVERSEAS ASSIGNMENTS HAVE INCLUDED NEARLY 500 DAYS OF SERVICE IN COMBAT AREAS.

THE UNIT IS THE 34TH DIVISION'S MILITARY POLICE PLATOON WHICH ORIGINATED IN THE FALL OF 1939 FROM A COMPANY OF THE DIVISION'S 35TH INFANTRY REGIMENT, WHICH THEN WAS A PART OF THE MINNESOTA NATIONAL GUARD.

ALL OF ITS MEN ARE FROM AITKIN OR ITS IMMEDIATE AREA INCLUDING THE OUTFIT'S FORMER FIRST SERGEANT, LESTER L. BROWN, WHO NOW IS A MAJOR, THEIR COMMANDER AND THE DIVISION'S PROVOST MARSHAL.

THE SPECIAL UNIT AWARD WAS IN RECOGNITION OF THE PLATOON'S EFFICIENCY AND SKILL DURING ITS TOUGHEST SIX MONTHS OVERSEAS WHEN IT SUPPORTED THE "RED BULL" DIVISION FROM CASSINO TO ROME VIA THE ANXIO BEACHHEAD. IT DIRECTED ALL TRAFFIC, OFTEN UNDER HEAVY GERMAN FIRE, AND HANDLED THE MAJORITY OF 10,000 PRISONERS TAKEN.

AFTER THE 34TH DIVISION FORCED A CROSSING OF THE RAPIDO RIVER, ONE SECTOR WAS UNDER HEAVY SHELLING FOR FOUR SUCCESSIVE NIGHTS. TELEPHONE LINES BETWEEN TWO VITAL CONTROL POSTS WERE KNOCKED OUT BUT THE MPS CRAWLED OUT AND REPAIRED THE BREAKS, KEEPING COMMUNICATIONS OPEN. LATER AT ANZIO, THE PLATOON DREW TRAFFIC DUTY FOR WEEKS UNDER CONSTANT SHELLING OF THE BEACHHEAD.

THE PLATOON WENT INTO ACTION DURING THE TUNISIAN CAMPAIGN.

EN ROUTE TO ITALY IN SEPTEMBER 1943, THEIR SHIP WAS TORPEDOED. ALL VEHICLES WERE LOST, BUT ONLY ONE MAN. REEQUIPPED, THE PLATOON HANDLED ALL OF THE DIVISION'S TRAFFIC FOR THE CROSSING OF THE VOLTURNO RIVER.

XXX SAID TODAY.

THE RED ARMY'S BIG GUNS WERE DECLARED SHELLING STETTIN'S EASTERN AND SOUTHERN OUTSKIRTS AS INFANTRYMEN EDGED FORWARD WITHIN SIGHT OF FIRES SET IN THE BIG GERMAN PORT BY RED AIR FORCE RAIDS.

IN ENTERING WOLLIN, THE RUSSIAN TROOPS CROSSED THE ODER DELTA OUTLET STREAM OF DIEVENOW. CAPTURE OF CAMMIN, ON THE DIEVENOW NINE MILES TO THE NORTHEAST, WAS ANNOUNCED LATE YESTERDAY BY MARSHAL STALIN IN AN ORDER OF THE DAY.

(150) MOSCOW-2ND ADD FIRST LEAD RUSSIAN XXX THE DAY.

THE FIELD DISPATCHES SAID THE TROOPS THAT DROVE TO WOLLIN CAPTURED TESSIN, FOUR AND ONE-HALF MILES TO THE EAST.

WOLLIN CONTROLS THE RAILWAY AND HIGHWAY LEADING ACROSS THE ISLANDS (THE ODER ESTUARY THROUGH SWINEMUENDE, WHERE WATER TRAFFIC FROM STETTIN GOES DIRECTLY INTO THE BALTIC, AND WESTWARD INTO MECKLENBURG PROVINCE.

THIS RUSSIAN GROUP WAS SAID ALREADY TO HAVE CAPTURED A NUMBER OF GERMAN NAVAL INSTALLATIONS.

TO THE NORTHEAST IN THE POLISH CORRIDOR, THE RUSSIAN DRIVE FOR DANZIG WAS SAID TO BE PROGRESSING AT A QUICKENED PACE. AT THE PRESENT SPEED IT WAS BELIEVED RED ARMY TROOPS SHOULD BE AT DANZIG'S GATES WITH A WEEK.

ALONG THE POMERANIAN SHORES OF THE BALTIC BETWEEN THE DANZIG AND STETTIN AREAS MANY GERMANS WERE SAID TO BE TRYING TO ESCAPE BY SEA. HEAVY FIGHTING WAS REPORTED IN KOLBERG.

IN THE SWEEPS AGAINST STETTIN THE RED ARMY WAS SECURING ITS NORTHER

MOSCOW, MARCH 7-(AP)-THE RED ARMY, SECURING ITS NORTHERN FLANK FOR AN EVENTUAL DIRECT THRUST AT BERLIN, SWEPT AGAINST THE BALTIC PORT OF STETTIN TODAY, SHELLING THE OUTSKIRTS AND TYING UP A MASS OF ENEMY TRAFFIC TRYING TO GET BACK INTO THE ODER RIVER FORTRESS.

AS RUSSIAN INFANTRYMEN EDGED FORWARD WITHIN SIGHT OF FIRES SET IN THE BIG GERMAN CITY BY RED AIR FORCE RAIDS, LONG RANGE GUNS BROUGHT THE EASTERN AND SOUTHERN SUBURBAN AREAS UNDER HEAVY FIRE.

GUNS POUNDING ALTDAMM, FOUR MILES EAST OF STETTIN ACROSS THE DAMMSCHER SEE, ALSO WERE DIRECTED AGAINST TRAINS AND TRUCKS CARRYING GERMAN FORCES OUT OF THE DWINDLING GERMAN-HELD TERRITORY TO THE NORTH. THE BOTTLENECK WAS BEING NARROWED BY THE HOUR.

HEAVY FIGHTING WAS RAGING IN THE OUTSKIRTS OF GOLLNOW, 14 MILES NORTHEAST OF STETTIN ACROSS THE DAMMSCHER SEE. GOLLNOW, A MAJOR RAIL HUB, PROTECTS THE WESTWARD ROUTE ACROSS THE FOUR AND ONE-HALF MILE STRIP OF LAND SEPARATING THE DAMMSCHER SEE AND THE ODER ESTUARY TO THE NORTH.

THE ODER IS NARROW AND HELD IN BY DIKES THROUGH THIS STRIP OF LAND. THE GERMANS, APPARENTLY FEARING THE RUSSIANS MAY PUSH ACROSS IT AND CURVE AGAINST STETTIN FROM THE NORTH, HAVE POURED STRONG ARTILLERY AND INFANTRY FORCES INTO ITS DEFENSE.

ON THE SOUTH THE RUSSIANS ALSO STRUCK A HEAVY BLOW AT THE DEFENSES OF STETTIN BY A PROLONGED SHELLING OF THE STETTIN-BERLIN RAILWAY.

THE RED ARMY GUNS WERE FIRING ACROSS THE ODER FROM THE REGION OF THE VILLAGE OF PEETZIG, OPPOSITE THE CITY OF ANGERMUENDE.

FROM SOUTH OF ALTDAMM IN A REGION CROWDED WITH VILLAGES MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY ALSO WAS SHELLING THE TOWNS OF FINKENWALDE AND PODEJUCK, SOUTHERN SUBURBS OF STETTIN.

IN A SLASHING 25-MILE ADVANCE, ZHUKOV'S TROOPS YESTERDAY CAPTURED 500 GERMAN TOWNS AND SEIZED CAMMIN, ON THE ODER DELTA OUTLET STREAM OF DIEVENOW, 37 MILES NORTH AND SLIGHTLY EAST OF STETTIN.

TO THE EAST AND NORTHEAST, MARSHAL KONSTANTIN K.ROKOSSOVSKY'S SECOND WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY REACHED THE BALTIC AT NEW POINTS AND MADE PROGRESS IN WIPING OUT ELEMENTS OF THE GERMAN TROOPS BACKED AGAINST THE COAST IN BOTH POMERANIA AND DANZIG TERRITORY.

ROKOSSOVSKY'S MEN ALSO TOPPLED THE LONG BY-PASSED FORTRESS OF GRUDZIADZ, 55 MILES SOUTH OF DANZIG AND 25 MILES BEHIND THE LINES. MORE THAN 5,000 OF THE GARRISON, INCLUDING THE COMMANDING GENERAL, WERE TAKEN PRISONER. THE SECOND ARMY REACHED WITHIN 30 MILES OF DANZIG WITH SEIZURE OF ALT-KISCHAU.

MOSCOW, MARCH 7-(AP)-THE RUSSIAN JOURNAL, WAR AND THE WORKING CLASS, TODAY CRITICIZED SENATOR VANDENBERG, THE VATICAN, COLUMNIST DOROTHY THOMPSON AND THE NEW YORK WORLD-TELEGRAM.
REFERRING TO THE MICHIGAN SENATOR'S FOREIGN AFFAIRS SPEECH OF JAN. 10 AND WHAT IT TERMED A REPETITION OF THE SPEECH AT DETROIT EARLY IN FEBRUARY, WAR AND THE WORKING CLASS DECLARED:
"VANDENBERG'S SCHEMES CANNOT BE REGARDED AS EXPRESSIONS OF THE PRESENT FOREIGN POLICY OF THE U.S.A., FOR IF AMERICAN POLICY WERE FORCED ALONG THE LINES HE ADVOCATES IT COULD NOT HAVE FOUND A COMMON LANGUAGE WITH THE OTHER UNITED NATIONS."
THE MAGAZINE WAS PARTICULARLY IRKED OVER VANDENBERG'S REFERENCES TO THE CURZON LINE AS "A DIVISION OF POLAND," TO "SOVIET UNILATERAL PLANS" AND TO THE ROLE OF THE UNITED STATES AS "A SILENT PARTNER" IN THESE EUROPEAN AFFAIRS. HIS SUGGESTIONS ON HOW THE UNITED NATIONS SHOULD HANDLE THE DEMILITARIZATION OF GERMANY ALSO DREW FIRE.
"VANDENBERG'S PHILOSOPHY IS THE PHILOSOPHY OF SINCERE IMPERIALISTS," SAID THE ARTICLE. "IF HE IS REALLY AGAINST GERMAN AGGRESSION, HE WOULD WELCOME ANY EFFECTIVE MEASURES AGAINST IT. X X X
"VANDENBERG ALREADY SEEMS TO SEE THE WHOLE WORLD ON ITS KNEES BEFORE THE ENTRANCE TO THE TEMPLE OF THE ALMIGHTY DOLLAR. THIS ISOLATIONIST OF YESTERDAY CANNOT UNDERSTAND CLEARLY THE COMPLEXITY OF INTERNATIONAL PROBLEMS, BUT FARSIGHTED PEOPLE REALIZE THAT THE UNCONTESTABLE ECONOMIC MIGHT OF THE U.S.A.CANNOT BE THE SOLE GUARANTEE OF PEACE AND SECURITY."
IN ANOTHER OF THE SERIES OF SOVIET ATTACKS ON THE VATICAN, WAR AND THE WORKING CLASS SAID THE REACTIONARY FORCES IN ITALY WHICH SEEK TO PREVENT THE ELIMINATION OF FASCISM AND BLOCK THE CREATION OF A FREE DEMOCRATIC ITALY "RELY ON THE VATICAN AND ITS OBEDIENT CLERGY."

A115
THIS ARTICLE ASSERTED THAT THE VATICAN ACTUALLY SHIELDS SOME PRO-FASCIST LEADERS, NAMING SPECIFICALLY LUIGI FEDEROZONI AND EDMUNDO ROSSONI, BOTH OF WHOM ONCE WERE MINISTERS IN MUSSOLINI'S GOVERNMENT AND WHO LATER BECAME LEADERS OF ANTI-MUSSOLINI MOVEMENTS.
IN A THIRD ARTICLE, THIS ONE ON INTERNATIONAL LIFE, WAR AND THE WORKING CLASS SAID A PREVIOUS ARTICLE ON THE SAME SUBJECT HAD BEEN DEDICATED TO "ABSURD RUMORS" THAT THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT PLANNED TO ORGANIZE A GERMAN PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT WITH THE CAPTIVE GERMAN GENERAL, FRIEDERICH VON PAULUS, AT ITS HEAD.
THE MAGAZONE THEN WENT INTO CRITICISM OF NEWSPAPER COMMENTATORS WHO HAD SUPPORTED THIS IDEA, SINGLING OUT DOROTHY THOMPSON, THE NEW YORK WORLD-TELEGRAM, WHICH IT TERMED "PRO-FASCIST," AND THE NEWSPAPER'S EXECUTIVE EDITOR, LEE B.WOOD.
IN CONCLUSION, THE ARTICLE TOOK UP A QUESTION BY MANAGING EDITOR EDWIN L.JAMES OF THE NEW YORK TIMES: "WHY CAN'T THE RUSSIANS REALIZE THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS HAS GREAT ADVANTAGES, ESPECIALLY IN OTHER COUNTRIES?" IT REPEATED THE MOSCOW VIEW THAT THE SOVIET UNION URS PRESS," FREE OF "EVIL AND HARMFUL INVENTIONS."

INFORMED OF THE WAR AND THE WORKING CLASS ARTICLE, WOOD SAID, "THE BEST ANSWER TO SUCH CHARGES IS TO IGNORE THEM."
JAMES SAID HE HAD NO COMMENT.

IN NEW YORK, COLUMNIST THOMPSON DENIED SHE HAD SAID THE SOVIETS PLANNED A GERMAN GOVERNMENT HEADED BY VON PAULUS, BUT SHE SAID SHE HAD "RAISED THE QUESTION---WITHOUT KNOWING THE ANSWER---OF WHETHER THE RUSSIANS HAD GONE TO ALL THE TROUBLE THEY HAD IN ORGANIZING THE FREE GERMANY COMMITTEE JUST FOR FUN".
SHE ADDED SHE HAD NEVER CRITICIZED "WHAT APPEARED TO BE THE RUSSIAN POLICY. I ADVISED THAT WE EMULATE IT."
"IF THE GENERAL TONE OF A FEW ILLITERATE SOVIET JOURNALISTS IS MAINTAINED, I SHALL EXPECT BEFORE LONG TO BE CALLED A FASCIST" SHE SAID, ADDING, "I SHALL KNOW NO ANSWER TO THAT EXCEPT TO ASK FOR PERMISSION TO VISIT THE SOVIET UNION IN ORDER TO PUNCH WHOEVER SAYS IT IN THE NOSE."

BRUSSELS, MARCH 7- (AP)-- A SURPRISE SETBACK WAS HANDED BELGIUM'S NEW PREMIER ACHILLE VAN ACKER LATE TODAY WHEN THE SENATE REJECTED, BY A VOTE OF 66 TO 63, HIS DEMAND FOR SPECIAL POWERS WITH WHICH TO FIGHT THE BLACK MARKET.

AFTER THE BALLOTING, THE PRIME MINISTER WITHDREW HIS BILL WITHOUT ASKING FOR A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE. THE BILL ALREADY HAD PASSED THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES.

THE SENATE'S ACTION INDICATES THAT VAN ACKER WON'T HAVE THE SMOOTH POLITICAL SAILING THAT SOME HAD ANTICIPATED, BUT IT DOESN'T MEAN HIS CABINET IS TOTTERING THOUGH OPPOSITION FROM CATHOLICS AND LIBERALS PROVED STRONGER THAN WAS EXPECTED.

OPPONENTS OF THE SPECIAL POWERS CONTENDED THAT THEY WERE UNCONSTITUTIONAL. THE LEGISLATION WOULD HAVE EMPOWERED THE GOVERNMENT TO CLOSE WITHOUT WARNING ANY SHOPS OR BUSINESSES

KANDY, CEYLON, MARCH 7-(AP)-CHINESE FIRST ARMY TROOPS AND ARMOR HAVE DRIVEN TO WITHIN TWO MILES OF THE BURMA ROAD RAILHEAD OF LASHIO, A SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS COMMUNIQUE SAID TODAY.

(A CHUNGKING DISPATCH REPORTED THE CHINESE HAD CAPTURED OLD LASHIO, TWO MILES NORTH OF THE MAIN TOWN, AND THE LASHIO AIRFIELDS).

LASHIO IS LOCATED AT THE END OF THE BURMA ROAD AND IS THE TERMINUS OF THE RAILROAD FROM MANDALAY, 140 MILES SOUTHWESTWARD.

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID BRITISH 14TH ARMY TROOPS, WHOSE ARMORED UNITS IN AN 85-MILE DRIVE HAVE SEVERED THE MAIN JAPANESE LAND, AIR AND WATER LINKS BETWEEN RANGOON AND MANDALAY, HAD CAPTURED JAPANESE POSITIONS SOUTHWEST OF MYINGYAN. THIS TOWN IS NORTHEAST OF THE ALLIED PAKOKKU BRIDGEHEAD ON THE EAST BANK OF THE IRRAWADDY RIVER. SOME 30,000 JAPANESE TROOPS ARE ESTIMATED TO BE CUT OFF EXCEPT FOR ESCAPE ROUTES THROUGH THE MOUNTAINS TO THAILAND.

MAR 8 1945

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS SAID ABOUT 2,000 ENEMY TROOPS WERE KILLED IN FIGHTING FOR MEIKTILA, WHICH FELL TO THE BRITISH ARMORED UNITS AND AIRBORNE TROOPS FEB.27. PREVIOUSLY THE BRITISH HAD REPORTED 1,200 ENEMY TROOPS SLAIN.

THE COMMUNIQUE SAID ENEMY RESISTANCE NORTH OF CHAUK, 36 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PAKOKKU, WAS INCREASING. CHAUK IS IN THE RICH YENANGYAUNG OIL FIELDS OF CENTRAL BURMA.

ON THE MANDALAY FRONT THE COMMUNIQUE REPORTED CONTINUED SUCCESS OF THE ALLIED PINCER MOVEMENTS CLOSING IN ON BURMA'S SECOND LARGEST CITY.

THE 19TH INDIAN DIVISION CAPTURED A VILLAGE 29 MILES NORTH OF MANDALAY.

BRITISH, INDIAN AND AFRICAN TROOPS OF THE 14TH ARMY AND 15TH INDIAN CORPS SINCE NOVEMBER HAVE LIBERATED 45,100 SQUARE MILES OF BURMA AND KILLED MORE THAN 6,000 JAPANESE, IT WAS REPORTED.

ABOARD ADMIRAL TURNER'S EXPEDITIONARY FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF IWO JIMA, MARCH 7-(AP)-(VIA NAVY RADIO) THOUSANDS OF JAPANESE REMAINING ON IWO MADE IT APPARENT TODAY THEY ARE NOT GOING TO YIELD WHAT LITTLE THEY HOLD OF THE ONCE GREAT FORTRESS WITHOUT A LAST DITCH FIGHT.

YESTERDAY, ON THE 16TH DAY OF THE COSTLY BATTLE FOR IWO, THE MARINES LASHED AT THE DUG-IN ENEMY IN THE NORTH WITH A BOMBARDMENT THAT WAS NOT ONLY THE HEAVIEST IN THE PRESENT OPERATION BUT THE MOST INTENSE CONCENTRATION EVER PUT OUT BY THE MARINES IN THE AREA OF THIS SIZE.

FOR 62 MINUTES THE BIG GUNS OF THE THIRD, FOURTH AND FIFTH DIVISIONS LAID DOWN A TERRIFIC SPREAD OF FIRE IN ROLLING BARRAGE FASHION TO COVER THE ADVANCE OF THE AMERICANS OVER THE RUGGED COUNTRY. CARRIER PLANES AND NAVAL BATTERIES AGAIN JOINED IN SUPPORT OF THE COORDINATED DRIVE.

BUT AT THE END OF THE SUN-BAKED DAY ONLY A FEW GAINS HAD BEEN REGISTERED. THE JAPANESE SHOWED THEMSELVES ONLY WHEN THE MARINES ATTEMPTED TO SEIZE ANOTHER FEW YARDS. THEN IN HAND TO HAND COMBAT THEY BROKE OUT AS THE LEATHERNECKS MADE A RUSH TO TAKE A PILLBOX IMPEDING THE ADVANCE OR SEIZE A HILL BLOCKING THE WAY.

OPPOSING LINES WERE CLOSE ENOUGH AT TIMES FOR GRENADE

THROWING DUELS.
THE TERRAIN IN THE NORTH AND A SLICE OF THE NORTHEAST COAST STILL HELD BY THE JAPANESE PREVENTED GENERAL USE OF AMERICAN TANKS. MARINES, HOWEVER, EMPLOYED FLAMETHROWERS AS WE COULD SEE FROM BEHIND THE FRONT. JETS OF BLACK SMOKE TOLD US ANOTHER OBJECTIVE HAD BEEN SEARED. BUT MARINES PUSHED FORWARD ONLY AGAINST ENEMY FIRE THAT FREQUENTLY CAME FROM SEVERAL DIRECTIONS WITH PRE-REGISTERED AIM.
IT IS PLAIN TO SEE THE JAPANESE ARE NOT DISORGANIZED AS THEY WERE IN THE LAST STAGES OF OTHER CAMPAIGNS IN THE PACIFIC. FROM THICK CONCRETE PILLBOXES, FROM BEHIND CRAGS AND IN GULLIES THEY STOOD OFF ASSAULTING FORCES THAT OUTNUMBERED THEM.
MARINE COMMANDERS WERE NOT DISCOURAGED BY THE SLOW PROGRESS IN YESTERDAY'S PUSH WHICH FOLLOWED A DAY DEVOTED TO REORGANIZING MARINES LINES AND BRINGING UP AMMUNITION FOR THE CONCERTED RIVE.
AMERICAN 155MM HOWITZERS POUNDED THE ENEMY THROUGHOUT THE DAY AND NIGHT. THE PRE-ATTACK BOMBARDMENT WAS SUPPORTED BY CORPS UNIT

AMERICAN 155MM HOWITZERS POUNDED THE ENEMY THROUGHOUT THE DAY AND NIGHT. THE PRE-ATTACK BOMBARDMENT WAS SUPPORTED BY CORPS UNITS AS WELL AS ARTILLERY FROM THE THREE DIVISIONS.

MANILA,P.I.,MARCH 6 (DELAYED)-(AP)-SIXTY-SIX-YEAR-OLD SERGIO OSMENA, PRESIDENT OF THE BATTLE-SCARRED PHILIPPINES, IS FACED WITH THE GREATEST TASK EVER ENCOUNTERED IN HIS LONG YEARS OF POLITICS--RELIEF AND REHABILITATION.

ONE OF THE LATE MANUEL QUEZON'S REMARKS ABOUT THE GRAY HAIRED OSMENA, "OSMENA ALWAYS THINKS BEFORE HE JUMPS," TYPIFIES THE FILIPINO CHIEF EXECUTIVE WHO SITS IN MALACANAN PALACE FACED WITH THE URGENT NEEI OF EFFECTING A PROGRAM FOR 16,000,000 PEOPLE.

IN PAST YEARS THE COMMONWEALTH HAS BEEN UNDER THE LEADERSHIP OF THE FIERY, QUICK-TEMPERED QUEZON. FILIPINOS LOVED HIS EXPENSIVE SHIRTS AND HIS STREAMLINED AUTOMOBILES. BUT IN THE BACKGROUND WAS THE COMPLETE OPPOSITE OF ALL THIS--OSMENA.

THE MAN WHO A FEW HOURS AFTER QUEZON'S DEATH AUGUST 1, 1944, WAS SWORN IN AS THE WARTIME LEADER OF HIS NATION, IS NOT A POLITICIAN IN THE TRUE SENSE OF THE WORD. HE IS MORE THE STATESMAN TYPE. MOST OF HIS LIFE HE HAS QUIETLY WORKED IN THE BACKGROUND FOR EVERY ACT WHICH WOULD PAY DIVIDENDS TO THE FILIPINOS.

OSMENA IS HALF CHINESE, HALF FILIPINO. HE IS A NATIVE OF CEBU. HIS POLITICAL LIFE BEGAN WITH EXTENSIVE PAMPHLETEERING AGAINST THE SPANIARDS IN THE TUMULTUOUS DAYS OF 1898. HE HAS NEVER DROPPED THIS

30.24 — 23705

CAMPAIGN OF RECOGNITION FOR THE FILIPINOS.

WHEN THE FIRST PHILIPPINE ASSEMBLY WAS CREATED, OSMENA WAS ELECTED FROM CEBU AND CHOSEN SPEAKER AGAINST QUEZON WITH WHOM HE HAD MANY BREAKS AND RECONCILIATIONS. THROUGHOUT THE YEARS THE TWO HAVE BEEN THE MAIN FIGURES ON THE PHILIPPINES POLITICAL STAGE.

OSMENA RETURNED TO THE PHILIPPINES WITH GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR. IN THE LEYTE PROVINCIAL CAPITAL OF TACLOBAN, HE REINSTATED THE COMMON-

MANILA--FIRST ADD OSMENA (BY SCHEDLER) XXX POLITICAL STAGE.

OSMENA RETURNED TO THE PHILIPPINES WITH GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR. IN THE LEYTE PROVINCIAL CAPITAL OF TACLOBAN, HE REINSTATED THE COMMON-WEALTH GOVERNMENT. WHILE IN TACLOBAN HE UNDERWENT HIS FIRST REAL TEST AS THE NEW LEADER OF HIS PEOPLE. FILIPINOS FROM LEYTE, SAMAR, AND SOME WHO SLIPPED OUT OF NEARBY JAPANESE-HELD ISLANDS RALLIED TO HIM.

MALACANAN NOW SEETHES WITH POLITICOS, ALL SEEKING TO GAIN A PLACE IN THIS PAGE OF PHILIPPINE HISTORY. BUT THE MAIN JOB AT THIS QUARTER IS IN THE HANDS OF SERGIO OSMENA.

HIGH ON OSMENA'S PROGRAM FOR THE RECONSTRUCTION OF MANILA ARE MORE PARKS AND GARDENS, CLEANED AND BEAUTIFIED RIVERBANKS.

HE PROPOSES TO DEVELOP FREIGHT PIERS IN NORTH MANILA TO SPEED TRANSHIPMENT TO RAILWAY LINES. OSMENA WOULD LIKE TO MAKE MANILA A PORT OF ENTRY NOT UNLIKE HONG KONG, A FREE ZONE, WHICH HE BELIEVES WOULD DEVELOP THE CITY INTO A HUB OF TRADING FOR WORLD MARKETS.

AMONG ONE OF HIS GREATEST IMMEDIATE WORRIES ARE PHILIPPINES BANKING AND FINANCES, LEFT TERRIBLY SNARLED BY THE JAPANESE INVADERS WHO FLOODED THE ISLAND WITH WORTHLESS PAPER MONEY PRINTED IN JAPAN. TWO AMERICAN BANKING EXPERTS ARRIVED YESTERDAY TO HELP ESTABLISH A SOUND MONETARY PROGRAM.

NEITHER ZERILLO NOR HIS SQUAD LEADER, STAFF SGT.MATILO ALVERADO, 926 WASHINGTON ST., MOUNTAIN VIEW, CALIF., COULD TAKE TIME TO FINGER THE COINS.

"WE HAD A MISSION TO PERFORM AND SINCE WE WERE UNDER JAP FIRE WE PUSHED ON TO ATTAIN OUR OBJECTIVE," SAID CAPT.PATRICK KELLY OF TACOMA, WASH., PATROL COMMANDER.

TEN FILIPINOS WORKED TWO DAYS COLLECTING THE COINS, MOST OF THEM PHILIPPINE BUT SOME OF THEM AMERICAN AND CHINESE, AND SHOVELING THEM INTO TRUCKS. SOME OF THE METAL WAS HARD TO HANDLE. THE HEAT OF THE ARTILLERY BLAST HAD FUSED COINS INTO CHUNKS THE SIZE OF A MAN'S HEAD.

LT.BERNARD DONAHOE, DOWAGIAC, MICH., SUPERVISED THE COLLECTION AND REMOVAL OF THE COIN TO THE FINANCE OFFICER AT FIRST CORPS HEADQUARTERS.

(THIS WAS THE SECOND REPORTED DISCOVERY OF LOOT BURIED BY THE JAPANESE AND UNCOVERED BY AMERICAN ARTILLERY SHELL FIRE. ANOTHER LARGE SUM WAS FOUND IN THE 25TH INFANTRY DIVISION'S AREA NORTH OF RIZAL.)

A GRAVE ON IWO JIMA, MARCH 7-(AP)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-PFC KENNETH RIDENOUL, 20, CAREY, OHIO, SQUATTED ON THE GROUND, SLAPPED WHITE PAINT ON A PLAIN, POINTED BOARD. A READY, ROWS OF THESE SLABS STICK UP OUT OF THE DARK SAND, THE ONLY GLINTS OF BRIGHTNESS ON THE HILL.

THE YOUNG MARINE OF THE GRAVES REGISTRATION DETAIL HAD PAINTED MANY GRAVE MARKERS. MORE WAITED TO BE DONE. NEARBY, PFC.MITCHELL PENLEY, 20, KINGSPORT, TENN., WAS DOING THE SAME THING.

IT WAS HOT ON THE HILL. BELOW US SLOPED DRIFTING SANDS OF THE BEACH, YELLOW NO. 2, WHERE SOME OF THE BOYS LOST THEIR LIVES FOR THIS DRAB, VOLCANIC ROCK.

A TRUCK RETURNED FROM THE FRONT WITH ANOTHER LOAD OF BODIES. THESE WERE PLACED ON LITTERS AND CARRIED TO A CLEARING ALONGSIDE THE FIELD OF MARKERS. THEY WERE LAID IN A NEAT ROW, THEIR FACES TURNED UP BLINDLY TO THE BLUE SKY THAT CANOPIED THE ISLAND.

JUST BEYOND THE FIELD OF SLABS, A BULLDOZER AND GRADER CLATTERED UP AND DOWN THE SITE OF THE CEMETERY. HEAPS OF LIGHT BROWN DIRT COVERED THE SANDS WHICH WERE "TIED DOWN" WITH CLAY SO IT WOULDN'T DRIFT. THE CLEARING IN WHICH THE BODIES WERE TO BE BURIED ALREADY WAS SMOOTHED DOWN. A FLAGPOLE STOOD OFF TO THE SIDE.

SOUNDS OF BATTLE REACHED THE MEN AROUND THE CEMETERY, BUT NOBODY PAID ANY ATTENTION. THE GRAVES DETAIL HAD BEEN GATHERING BODIES SINCE THE THIRD DAY OF THE 17-DAY OKD CAMPAIGN. IT HAD BEEN UNDER FIRE MANY TIMES--ITSELF HAS SUFFERED FIVE CASUALTIES.

TWO MEN WITH PAPERS AND FINGERPRINTING EQUIPMENT STARTED WITH A MARINE AT ONE END OF THE ROW OF BODIES. PHM 3/C KENNETH GATZ, 21, NIOBRARA, (CORRECT) NEB., STOOPED OVER, GRASPHED A STIFF BLACKENED HAND. HE WAS A BIG MAN, THIS MARINE.

GATZ TOOK ONE FINGER, DAUBED IT WITH INK AND TOOK AN IMPRESSION. WHILE HE WORKED, SGT.ROLAND L.TIGETT, 35, (3504 N. MIAMI AVE) MIAMI, FLA., TALKED ABOUT GRAVES REGISTRATION ROUTINE.

"WE TRY TO FIND THE DOG TAG," HE SAID. "WE BURY ONE TAG WITH THE BODY AND PUT ONE ON THE GRAVE MARKER, ON WHICH THE NAME IS STENCILED. IF THE BODY IS IDENTIFIED, WE TAKE A PRINT OF THE RIGHT INDEX FINGER. IF THERE IS NO IDENTIFICATION, WE MAKE 141 (CORRECT) SETS OF PRINTS OF BOTH HANDS."

"THE SETS GO TO THE DIVISION, TO HEADQUARTERS OF THE FLEET MARINE FORCE OF THE PACIFIC, AND TO WASHINGTON, WHERE FINAL IDENTIFICATION IS MADE. THEN WE TRY TO TAKE ALL MARKINGS OFF UNIFORMS TO HELP FIND OUT WHO THE MAN IS."

"WE ARE GOING TO HAVE THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CEMETERY HERE OF ALL OUR CAMPAIGNS," HE SAID. "THERE'LL BE A STONE FENCE AROUND THE CEMETERY. WE HOPE TO HAVE THE GRAVE MARKERS UP IN THREE DAYS."

NUTTING POINTED TO LT.WALTER STONNEBERG, 36 (3121 GREGORY ST.) SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

"HE'S BEEN MY HELPER THIS TIME AND I COULDN'T HAVE GOT ALONG WITHOUT HIM," THE CAPTAIN REMARKED.

STONNEBERG, DIVISION BAND LEADER, WAS SAD BECAUSE HIS BAND WAS BROKEN UP BY HIS GRAVES REGISTRATION DUTY. UP THROUGH THE RANKS, HE HAS BEEN A MARINE 20 YEARS.

THE BULLDOZER AND GRADER STILL WERE WORKING ON THE CLEARING. BELOW, THE CROP OF WHITE MARKERS GREW LARGE. MEN BENT OVER BODIES EITHER WORKING LIKE YOUNG GATZ OR LOOKING FOR FACES OF THEIR BUDDIES. THE CRACK OF ARTILLERY AND SMOKE FROM THE FRONT WERE REMINDERS OF THE BATTLE THAT MEANT DEATH FOR MANY BOYS--AND MANY GRAVES ON IWO JIMA.

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA, MARCH 7-(AP)-COMMENT BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT CHARLES MCMURTRY THAT IMMEDIATE JOINT OFFENSIVE OPERATIONS BY THE AMERICAN AND BRITISH FLEETS IS IMPRACTICABLE BECAUSE OF THE DIFFERENCE IN SHIP SPEEDS WAS CHALLENGED IN QUARTERS CLOSE TO NAVAL CIRCLES TODAY. WARNER

SIGNIFICANTLY, BRITISH NAVAL CENSORS ALLOWED PUBLICATION OF COMMENT BY DENIS WARREN, NAVAL CORRESPONDENT FOR THE MELBOURNE HERALD, NOW ATTACHED TO BRITISH PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS. HE RECENTLY SPENT SEVERAL MONTHS WITH ADM. CHESTER W. NIMITZ' FLEET. WARREN SAID:

"THE ROLE THAT THE BRITISH FLEET IS TO PLAY IN THE PACIFIC APPEARS TO BE IN THE BALANCE. REPORTS FROM AMERICAN SOURCES IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC LEAVE LITTLE DOUBT OF A HITCH IN PLANS FOR COMBINING THE BRITISH AND AMERICAN FLEETS IN MAJOR OPERATIONS AGAINST THE JAPANESE.

"ADMIRAL BRUCE FRASER'S ANNOUNCEMENT THAT THE BRITISH FLEET IS READY FOR ACTION SHOULD FORESHADOW ACTION STORIES IN THE IMMEDIATE FUTURE, BUT IT SEEMS HE WAS MERELY EXPRESSING A POLITE BUT CAREFUL REBUKE TO AUTHORITIES IN WASHINGTON.

"IF THE BRITISH FLEET IS INDEED READY FOR ACTION, A STATEMENT FROM WASHINGTON OUTLINING ITS ROLE WOULD DISPOSE OF HARMFUL STORIES CURRENT HERE AND IN AMERICA, FIRST, THAT THE BRITISH FLEET IS NOT WANTED IN THE PACIFIC, AND SECOND, THAT BRITISH SHIPS ARE NOT SUITABLE FOR USE AT LONG RANGE."

COMMENTING ON THE MCMURTRY ARTICLE, WARNER SAID THAT IT IS INCORRECT TO SAY THAT BRITISH SHIPS ARE NOT CAPABLE OF HIGH SPEEDS.

"BRITISH TASK FORCES FREQUENTLY OPERATE AT MORE THAN 20 KNOTS," WARNER SAID, "AND THERE IS LITTLE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE SPEEDS OF BOTH FLEETS.

(MCMURTRY POINTED OUT MOST U.S. WARSHIPS IN THE PACIFIC ARE CAPABLE OF MAKING 30 KNOTS; MANY TRAVEL EVEN FASTER).

WARNER RECALLED THAT 12 MONTHS AGO AMERICAN TASK FORCES WERE INFLICTING HEAVY DAMAGE ON STRONG JAPANESE FORCES WITH A CARRIER STRENGTH OF 400 TO 500 PLANES, AND THAT THE JAPANESE KNOCKED OUT THE U.S.PACIFIC FLEET WITH 150 PLANES.

"IF TECHNICAL DIFFICULTIES ARE DELAYING USE OF THE BRITISH FLEET, A CLEAR STATEMENT FROM NIMITZ' HEADQUARTERS WOULD BE IN THE INTERESTS OF MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING. AT LEAST IT WOULD STOP STORIES THAT POLITICAL DISAGREEMENTS THREATEN TO PREVENT FULL-SCALE BRITISH OPERATIONS IN THE PACIFIC," WARNER SAID.

ECONOMIC CHARTER

BY NORMAN CARIGNAN (250)

MEXICO CITY, MARCH 7-(AP)-THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS TODAY WERE GIVEN AN "ECONOMIC CHARTER" DESIGNATED TO ASSURE THEM GRADUAL, REGULATED INDUSTRIALIZATION AFTER WAR. THE CHARTER, REVISED DURING A HOT DEBATE IN SUBCOMMITTEE, WAS VOTED INTO THE FINAL ACTS OF THE INTERAMERICAN CONFERENCE THIS AFTERNOON.

IT PROCLAIMS THE EQUALITY OF LATIN AMERICAN COUNTRIES AND ASSURES THEM A FAIR SHARE OF U.S. INDUSTRIAL EQUIPMENT AFTER THE WAR.

IT ALSO ASSURES BUDDING INDUSTRIES IN THIS HEMISPHERE THAT THEY WILL GET NECESSARY PROTECTION TO LET THEM GET GOING WITHOUT OVERPOWERING COMPETITION FROM ABROAD.

AFTER AMENDMENTS, REVISIONS, AND DELETIONS THIS IS WHAT THE CHARTER GUARANTEES:

1.-DIRECTING OF THE ECONOMIC LIFE OF THE AMERICAN NATIONS TOWARD

RISING LEVELS OF LIVING.
2.-ALL WESTERN HEMISPHERE COUNTRIES WILL GET ACCESS ON EQUAL TERMS TO RAW MATERIALS, TRADE AND MANUFACTURED GOODS OF THE WORLD.
3.-GRADUAL ELIMINATION OF RESTRICTIVE TRADE BARRIERS IN LATIN AMERICA ON AN EQUAL BASIS WITH THE UNITED STATES AND EUROPE.
4.-ELIMINATION OF CARTEL PRACTICES THAT OBSTRUCT INTERNATIONAL TRADE.
5.-AGREEMENT TO WORK FOR ELIMINATION OF CAUSES LEADING TO ECONOMIC NATIONALISM.
6.-JUST AND EQUAL TREATMENT FOR FOREIGN ENTERPRISE AND CAPITAL.
7.-ESTABLISHMENT OF AN INTERNATIONAL BANK FOR RECONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT AND UNITED NATIONS FOOD AND AGRICULTURE ORGANIZATION.
8.-ENCOURAGEMENT OF FREE ENTERPRISE.
9.-COMMODITY AGREEMENTS TO CONTROL SURPLUSES.
10.-RECOGNITION OF LABOR'S RIGHTS.
THE CHARTER, A SORT OF ECONOMIC "TEN COMMANDMENTS" FOR THE HEMISPHERE, IS REGARDED AS A COMPROMISE BETWEEN LATIN AMERICAN IDEAS AND UNITED STATES PROPOSALS.

MEXICO CITY MARCH 7-(AP)-THE INTERAMERICAN CONFERENCE TODAY WAS EXPECTED TO PASS ON A STATEMENT TELLING ARGENTINA THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS WOULD LIKE HER BACK IN THE FAMILY BUT NOTING THEY ARE PREPARED TO STOP ANY AGGRESSION IN THE HEMISPHERE.
MEXICAN FOREIGN MINISTER EZEQUIEL PADILLA SAID LAST NIGHT THE ARGENTINE CASE WOULD BE TAKEN UP AT A MEETING OF THE STEERING COMMITTEE.
A DRAFT OF THE DECLARATION, AGREED UPON TENTATIVELY YESTERDAY BY CONFERENCE LEADERS, SAYS THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS WOULD LIKE ARGENTINA TO TAKE NECESSARY STEPS TO RETURN TO THE FOLD.
HOWEVER, IT POINTEDLY DECLARED, THE AMERICAS CONSIDER IT "ESSENTIAL" TO STATE THEY ARE UNITED ON A COMMON POLICY OF STOPPING ANY ACTUAL OR POTENTIAL AGGRESSION IN THE HEMISPHERE.
AUTHORITATIVE SOURCES DECLINED TO PREDICT WHETHER THE STATEMENT WOULD BE ADOPTED BY THE STEERING COMMITTEE IN ITS PRESENT FORM. THERE WAS A LIKELIHOOD THAT ARGENTINA'S NEIGHBORS--CHILE, BOLIVIA, PARAGUAY AND URUGUAY--MIGHT FIND IT DIFFICULT TO TAKE TOO STRONG A STAND.
THE STATEMENT, AS IT STANDS, CARRIES WITH IT PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR ARGENTINA'S FUTURE CONDUCT. THESE INCLUDE:
1-COOPERATE WITH THE OTHER AMERICAN NATIONS.
2-PRACTICE A COMMON POLICY.
3-CARRY OUT ITS OWN POLICY SO SHE MAY BECOME A MEMBER OF THE UNITED NATIONS, OBVIOUSLY HINTING THAT ARGENTINA DECLARE WAR ON THE AXIS.
THE STATEMENT POINTS OUT THAT THERE IS COMPLETE SOLIDARITY AMONG THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS TOWARD "THREATS OR ACTS OF AGGRESSION BY ANY AMERICAN STATE."
IT SAYS THIS COMMON POLICY IS FOUND IN THE HAVANA RESOLUTIONS, THE ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC AND IN THE FACT THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS ARE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS.
AT THE SAME TIME, THE STATEMENT DEPLORES THAT ARGENTINA DID NOT ALTER THE CIRCUMSTANCES WHICH KEPT HER FROM PARTICIPATING IN THIS CONFERENCE.
IT THEN EXPRESSES THE HOPE THAT ARGENTINA "WILL FIND ITSELF IN A POSITION" TO ADHERE TO THE PRINCIPLES AND DECLARATION OF THE MEXICO MEETING."
MEANWHILE, THE CONFERENCE HOPES TO WIND UP MOST OF ITS WORK LATE THIS AFTERNOON AT A PLENARY SESSION.

WITH BUDGET (350)
BRETTON WOODS
WASHINGTON, MARCH 7-(AP)-AMERICAN PARTICIPATION IN WORLD ORGANIZATION, REJECTED 25 YEARS AGO WITH PRESIDENT WILSON'S LEAGUE OF NATIONS, RETURNED TO CONGRESS TODAY FOR ANOTHER JUDGMENT.
THE HOUSE BANKING COMMITTEE OPENED HEARINGS ON THE BRETTON WOODS AGREEMENTS IN THE FIRST TEST OF HOW FAR THE CONGRESS NOW IS READY TO GO IN GLOBAL ECONOMIC AND SECURITY ARRANGEMENTS.
TREASURY SECRETARY MORGENTHAU WAS CALLED AS THE FIRST WITNESS, TO PLEAD FOR ENABLING LEGISLATION TO PERMIT THIS COUNTRY TO PARTICIPAT IN THE ESTABLISHMENT OF AN INTERNATIONAL BANK FOR RECONSTRUCTION AND AN INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND. BOTH WERE AGREED UPON AT A MEETING OF 44 NATIONS AT BRETTON WOODS, N.H., LAST JULY.
PRIOR TO HIS APPEARANCE A STATE DEPARTMENT OFFICIAL DESCRIBED THE AGREEMENTS AS "ECONOMIC DISARMAMENT--THE SETTING ASIDE OF THE MEANS OF ECONOMIC WARFARE" THAT BRINGS ABOUT ARMED CONFLICT.
THE DEPARTMENT OFFICIAL, WHO DECLINED USE OF HIS NAME, SAID THE BRETTON WOODS PLAN "POINTS DOWN THE SAME ROAD" AS THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN FOR OUTLAWING WAR.
HERE, IN BRIEF, IS ABOUT WHAT THE BRETTON WOODS AGREEMENTS MEAN:
INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND--1. ALL MEMBERS OF THE FUND WOULD DEFINE THEIR CURRENCY IN TERMS OF GOLD; 2. PROGRESSIVELY REMOVE BARRIER AGAINST INTERNATIONAL PAYMENTS; AND 3. PROVIDE A REVOLVING FUND OF FOREIGN EXCHANGE TO ENABLE MEMBER COUNTRIES IN TIMES OF STRESS TO MAINTAIN STABLE EXCHANGE RELATIONSHIPS WITHOUT RESORTING TO CUT-THROAT COMPETITION AND ECONOMIC WARFARE.
INTERNATIONAL BANK--
1. ENCOURAGE PROFITABLE INTERNATIONAL INVESTMENT IN REBUILDING WAR DEVASTATED COUNTRIES AND IN DEVELOPING NATIONAL RESOURCES AND INDUSTRIES IN UNDERDEVELOPED COUNTRIES.
2. GUARANTEE LOANS MADE BY PRIVATE LENDERS, SUCH AS BANKS AND INVESTMENT HOUSES.
3. EACH OF THE PARTICIPATING NATIONS WOULD PURCHASE STOCK IN THE BANK, WITH EACH MEMBER SHARING IN THE BANK'S RISKS IN PROPORTION TO THE STOCK IT HOLDS.
TOTAL ASSETS OF THE "FUND" WOULD BE $8,800,000,000, OF WHICH THE UNITED STATES WOULD SUBSCRIBE $2,750,000,000. CAPITAL OF THE "BANK" WOULD BE $9,100,000,000, WITH THE UNITED STATES SUBSCRIBING $3,175,000,000. BANK MEMBERS WOULD PAY IN ONLY 10 PER CENT OF THEIR SUBSCRIPTIONS, IN AMERICA'S CASE $318,000,000.

NIGHT LEAD ARGENTINE

BY CHARLES GUPTILL

BUENOS AIRES, MARCH 7-(AP)-THE ARGENTINE GOVERNEMENT DECLARED TODAY THAT IT REJECTED AGGRESSION AS AN INSTRUMENT OF NATIONAL POLICY AND THAT IT REPUDIATED UN-AMERICAN IDEOLOGIES.

THE DECLARATION WAS MADE IN A STATEMENT RELEASED TO THE PRESS BY ACTING FOREIGN MINISTER CESAR AMEGHINO AND WAS GENERALLY REGARDED HERE AS AN EFFORT TO CREATE A FAVORABLE ATTITUDE IN THE REVIEW OF ARGENTINA'S DIPLOMATIC ISOLATION BY THE INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE AT MEXICO CITY.

"OUR COUNTRY ALWAYS SUSTAINED THE NECESSITY FOR PERFECTING INTERNATIONAL SYSTEMS OF COOPERATION AND HAS ONLY THE GREATEST INTEREST IN THE EFFORTS IN THIS DIRECTION WHICH ARE BEING MADE BY THE UNITED NATIONS AND, IN PARTICULAR, BY THE GROUP OF AMERICAN NATIONS," THE STATEMENT SAID.

"REGARDING THE HEMISPHERE ASPECT OF THE PROBLEM, THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT, TRUE TO ITS JURIDICAL TRADITION, HAS MANIFESTED ~~XX~~ THAT IT RATIFIES ITS RESPECT FOR THE INDIVIDUALITY, THE SOVEREIGNTY, INDEPENDENCE AND TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY OF EACH AMERICAN STATE.

"IT HAS REJECTED ~~XXXX~~ AND DOES REJECT IN A CATEGORIC MANNER AGGRESSION AS A PART OF NATIONAL POLICY OR TERRITORIAL EXPANSION. MOREOVER, IT REAFFIRMS ITS DETERMINATION TO MAINTAIN ITSELF WITHIN THE SPHERE OF CONTINENTAL SOLIDARITY, REPUDIATING ALL IDEOLOGY FOREIGN TO THE REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC TRADITIONS OF ~~X~~ THE NATIONS OF AMERICA."

THE STATEMENT WAS READ TO NEWSPAPERMEN AT AMEGHINO'S FIRST PRESS CONFERENCE SINCE HE BECAME ACTING FOREIGN MINISTER IN JANUARY.

CORRESPONDENTS WERE SUMMONED TO THE SAN MARTIN PALACE TO HEAR THE STATEMENT IN ANSWER TO THEIR REPEATED REQUESTS FOR AN EXPRESSION OF THE ARGENTINE ATTITUDE IN THE FACE OF THE DELIBERATIONS AT MEXICO CITY

FROM WHICH SHE HAS BEEN EXCLUDED.

IT REFLECTED DISPLEASURE IN OFFICIAL QUARTERS HERE AT THE SUGGESTION THAT THE ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC WAS INSPIRED PARTLY BY APPREHENSION AS ARGENTINA'S REARMAMENT PROGRAM. OCCASIONED BY

MAR 8 - 1945

IT SOUGHT TO QUIET ANY SUCH MISGIVINGS BY A CATEGORICAL AFFIRMATION THAT ARGENTINA RESPECTS THE INDEPENDENCE AND TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY OF AMERICAN STATES ~~AND~~ AND REJECTS AGGRESSION AS A MEAN OF TERRITORIAL EXPANSION. BY IMPLICATION, THE ~~XXX~~ STATEMENT PAVED THE WAY FOR ARGENTINA'S ADHERENCE TO THE ACT OF CHAPULTEPEC AS WELL AS OTHER RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED AT THE MEXICO CITY MEETING.~~XXXXXXX~~

AMEGHINO ANTICIPATED SUGGESTIONS THAT HIS STATEMENT OF ARGENTINE POLICY WAS A SUDDEN DEPARTURE FROM ANY PREVIOUSLY EXPRESSED OFFICIAL ATTITUDE BY REFERRING TO A SPEECH CONTAINING SIMILAR SENTIMENTS WHICH PRESIDENT EDELMIRO FARRELL DELIVERED AT AN ARMED FORCES BANQUET LAST JULY 6.

THAT DATE IS SIGNIFICANT BECAUSE IT COINCIDED WITH THE DISAPPEARANCE FROM THE GOVERNMENT OF GEN. LUIS PERLINGER, FORMER MINISTER

OF THE INTERIOR, WHOSE ANTI-UNITED STATES AND PRO-AXIS TENDENCIES

EXERTED A POWERFUL INFLUENCE IN WIDENING THE BREACH BETWEEN THE FARRELL

GOVERNMENT AND OTHER AMERICAN NATIONS.

IN ALLUDING TO THAT OCCASION, AMEGHINO MAY HAVE INTENDED TO DRAW ATTENTION TO THE INCREASINGLY CONCILIATORY POLICY WHICH HIS GOVERNMENT HAS PURSUED SINCE PERLINGER AND HIS ULTRA-NATIONALIST ASSOCIATES WERE ELIMINATED.

Ottawa, Ont., March 7-(AP)-John Bracken, national progressive conservative leader, declared tonight that ~~[illegible]~~ the various ~~xxx~~ major political parties in Canada should be x represented at the world security conference in San Francisco.

MAR 8 - 1945

Speaking on a national network of the Canadian broadcasting company, he said that since the present parliament will have expired before the conference opens april 25 and that Prime Minister W.L. Mackenzie King would be without a mandate to represent Canada.

Bracken asserted that the prime minister was afraid to face the consequences of his wartime policy by an appeal to the voters and that he proposedto use his big majority in the house of commons to govern the country beyond the normal life of parliament.

Canada, he said, must support collective security for maintenance of peace and must share military and financial support of a world peace organization.

DOMEI SAID THE NIPPONESE GARRISON AT RABAUL WAS PREPARED FOR THE "COMING OF THE ENEMY." THIS POSSIBLY INDICATED JAPANESE FEARS THAT THE AUSTRALIANS, WHO HOLD THE BULK OF NEW BRITAIN ISLAND, ARE ON THE POINT OF ENDEAVORING TO RECAPTURE RABAUL, WHICH THE NIPPONESE WRESTED FROM THE AUSSIES NEAR THE OUTSET OF THE WAR.
DOMEI LISTED A SERIES OF "COMMANDANTS" ADOPTED BY THE RABAU JAPANESE, INCLUDING THE CONCEPT THAT IT IS A DISGRACE TO BE "TAKEN CAPTIVE ALIVE" AND A PLEDGE TO "DEFY DEATH AND FIGHT TO KILL 10 OF THE ENEMY."

BEHIND

PARIS, March 8.—(AP) Thousands of U. S. First Army troops, surging across the Rhine south of Cologne, drove east toward Germany's heart tonight against surprisingly light resistance after cracking the historic western barrier in a brilliant coup heralding a speedier end to the war.

The swift, sensational crossing was the biggest military triumph since the Normandy landings, and was a battle feat without parallel since Napoleon's conquering legions crossed the Rhine early in the last century.

It caught the Germans so disorganized that they met the assault waves with only scattered artillery and mortar fire, and they were quickly driven from strategic positions. The Allied high command kept them confused by withholding the momentous news for 24 hours.

MIGHT

It caught the Germans so disorganized that they met the assault waves with only scattered artillery and mortar fire, and they were quickly driven from strategic positions. The Allied high command kept them confused by withholding the momentous news for 24 hours.

Landing Made at Remagen

The Luxembourg radio broadcast without official confirmation that the Americans crossed at Remagen, site of the great Ludendorff double-track railway bridge, 28 miles southeast of Cologne and 12 miles southeast of Bonn.

(Brussels radio carried the same report, prompting speculation in London that the Americans may have seized the bridge intact, putting them in position to hurry tanks across and exploit the surprise blow to the full. The German communique said this morning that the Americans had reached Remagen.)

The crossing, fated to end the war months sooner than calculated, if it can be exploited, came as four Allied armies closed up to the Rhine nearly everywhere on a 150-mile front and the Third Army on the south end began blasting with artillery at Coblenz, most important river crossing left to the enemy.

The Germans rallied for three counterattacks after the first American infantrymen hurdled the river at 3:50 p. m. yesterday, but these were hurled back.

The enemy was caught without prepared positions, and he was forced tonight to blaze away with artillery at the deep and firm bridgehead, trying to stem the Allied tide of men and materials rushing across the river.

Rail Centers Bombed

Fighterbomber squadrons snarled through the murky sky, attacking a half dozen communications centers surrounding the bridgehead in an attempt to seal off reinforcements.

Tight censorship prevented pinpointing the location of the crossing and Supreme headquarters late tonight still permitted only the barest details to be disclosed in the hope of throwing the Germans off the scent except those immediately brought to battle.

(Supreme headquarters imposed its blackout on the First army's southern wing yesterday after permitting disclosure that armored units were 10 miles south of Bonn, which would place them in the area of Remagen.)

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges struck boldly while the Germans still reeled under tempestuous Allied blows that had driven them back to the east bank. Gen. Eisenhower sent warm congratulations to every soldier in the First army, declaring:

"The whole Allied force is delighted to cheer the first United States army, whose speed and boldness have won the race to establish the first bridgehead over the Rhine."

Already the bridgehead was nearly out of small arms range, a front dispatch said, and Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead reported the Americans were fanning out swiftly, seizing strategic positions and driving to get the crossings out of artillery range.

The Americans burst across the river—never crossed in battle since Napoleon's day—at a point about 280 miles from Berlin, hurdling in one giant stride what the Germans throughout their history have regarded as an impre[illegible]ble moat and a symbol of Teut[illegible] greatness.

Nazis Quiet o[illegible]rossing

The dramatic announcement was made tonight 24 hours after the crossings in order to leave the enemy in the dark while the Americans built up a powerful bridgehead. The Germans themselves had yet to tell the homeland that the Americans now were across the stream.

AP Correspondent Howard Cowan, crossing with some of the troops, declared: "The Americans are across the Rhine to stay."

The surprise blow was threatening to outflank the entire Ruhr basin—the greatest resource of war material left to the enemy—and was a military achievement unsurpassed since the Allies stormed ashore in Normandy.

AP Correspondent Wes Gallagher writing from Cologne said the crossings had changed the Western front situation overnight and opened the possibility of shortening the war months earlier than calculated by the Allied high command only a short time ago.

He declared it was apparent that the Germans had no time to reorganize their scattered forces east of the river at any point, and that Field Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt was too short of troops to hold the whole river line.

To seal off the bridgehead, Von Rundstedt must rob other forces along the river, weakening them before the threat of six other Allied armies, or must draw from the Russian or Italian fronts, both now ablaze.

Eisenhower now was in position to strike for the heart of the Reich across the rolling hill country south of the Ruhr valley.

The fact that Supreme headquarters in announcing the crossings referred to a bridgehead indicated good progress had been made east, since in military parlance a crossing becomes a bridgehead only when it moves out of direct, short-range fire.

Hodges chose to cross where the Rhine is about a quarter of a mile wide and its banks, steep and almost sheer at Coblenz, begin to flatten out as the stream meanders toward the Dutch frontier.

Location Secret

While the location was secret, it was disclosed during the day that the First army had speared to the Rhine at three points between Cologne and Bonn.

The sensational development, overshadowed combined First and Third army blows farther south, which by German account were about 15 miles from closing a steel trap on possibly 60,000 German troops and pinching off 2,500 mountainous square miles of the western Reich.

In this push, the First army had smashed halfway across through Bonn, Rhineland traffic nerve center with a population of 101,000, and was the same distance through Bad Godesberg, three miles south, where the late British Prime Minister Chamberlain met Adolf Hitler for a second time in 1938 in a futile attempt to arrange "peace in our time."

The German communique said the Ninth Armored division had forged across the Ahr river, possibly 14 miles from where the Third army's Fourth Armored division was shelling the Rhine transit center of Coblenz from positions at Wessenthurm, seven miles to the northwest.

For the Germans, the crossing of the Rhine would come as a shattering blow to morale. The Nazis were silent for more than 24 hours after the first crossings, and the powerful Allied-controlled Luxembourg radio made certain the news reached even the weakest German home radios by trumpeting:

"This is the greatest blow against the German army. The last phase of the war has begun."

9 Months after D-day

The crossing of the Rhine, an Allied goal almost as soon as the armies of Eisenhower plunged ashore on the beaches of Normandy last June 6, was accomplished nine months and a day after the historic invasion of western France.

The dramatic achievement capped an offensive launched Feb. 23 when the U. S. First and Ninth armies smashed across the Roer, knocking the Germans off balance so badly that the high command ever since has blacked out most of the movements of the First and Third armies to keep the enemy confused.

It was obvious the Germans were once more caught off guard by the suddenness, and the boldness of the Rhine crossing, which Eisenhower himself once said would be equivalent to a major naval operation. The first waves found opposition light.

The news swept swiftly through division after division, cheering battle-grimed veterans who felt that the end of the bloodshed in Europe was just that much nearer.

Twenty-four hours after the first troops set foot on the east bank, enemy artillery and mortar fire still was sporadic.

It was a great day for the U. S. First army and marked one more "first" for that battle-seasoned organization. It was the first ashore in Normandy, the first to enter Germany, and the first to break through the Siegfried Line.

Crossed During Darkness.

Paris, March 8 (A. P.).—The American First Army crossed the Rhine south of Cologne last night and secured a firm footing on the east bank today.

Lieut.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges poured more and more infantrymen across the river after his sudden and sensational crossing in darkness. The exact location of the bridgehead over the quarter-mile-wide river was shrouded by military censorship because the Germans obviously did not know the situation.

[In a broadcast picked up at New York by NBC late today, Radio Atlantic, the clandestine German station, declared that the crossing took place at Remagen, where huge amounts of war material prepared for the defense of the right bank of the river had recently been captured by the Allies.]

Apparently an Amphibious Operation.

The Americans had got across against rather light opposition before the Germans could grasp what had happened, Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher said. The surprise announcement was passed by censors at 5:55 o'clock tonight after twenty-four hours of security blackout.

Apparently the crossing was an amphibious operation—second only to the crossing of the English Channel. All five bridges were down in Cologne. The Canadians on the flooded lower Rhine were known to be using Alligators, Ducks and Buffalos—water-going tanks and trucks—and it appeared probable that this type of equipment may have been used for the American crossing.

Gen. Hodges seized the opportunity of establishing the bridgehead, and with no delay threw in troops quickly. The Germans were found disorganized after the severe mauling they took in their rout across the Cologne plain.

Pontoon bridges could be thrown across the river swiftly, once the east bank was secured. The middle Rhine—the section between Cologne and Bingen—is generally from 1,300 to 1,700 feet wide, and from five to fifteen feet deep but occasionally twenty-five to seventy feet deep. Its normal current is from six to nine miles an hour.

MAR 9 - 1945

News Sweeps Through Ranks.

News of the Rhine crossing swept through the Army from division to division and down through the ranks to the privates in the front lines, Correspondent Don Whitehead reported. It brought grins to their whiskered and grimed faces and cheered every one in the Army.

"If we can hold that bridgehead it means the war is months nearer an end," said Lieut.-Col. Robert Evans of Davenport, Iowa.

This sentiment was echoed by many soldiers who had looked on the Rhine as one of the greatest obstacles to be faced by the Army since the beaches of Normandy.

The first crossing was made at 4:30 P. M. yesterday and in the hours since a steady stream of men and ma-

.as pou d o to the eastern bank and moved d in a drive enemy artillery out of the range of the crossing site

It was the first the Rhine had been crossed by any army fighting its way eastward since the days of Napoleon. The surge from the River Roer which began on February 23 had developed such momentum that the Germans along a 200-mile front from Holland to the Moselle were either routed in confusion, or fighting for their very lives.

During the first twenty-four hours there has been very little artillery or mortar fire on the bridgehead, indicating complete confusion of enemy forces as they fled back across the river before Gen. Hodges's driving divisions.

[Cologne is in about the same latitude as Newfoundland, and the days at this season are extremely short.]

Half of Bonn Captured.

Meanwhile other units of the First Army captured half of the Rhine university city of Bonn (101,000) and half of nearby Bad Godesberg, where Hitler six years ago humbled the late Neville Chamberlain before Munich. The Germans said the First Army was within seventeen miles of forming with the Third Army near Coblenz a trap on perhaps 50,000 Germans caught west of the middle Rhine.

Bonn is a university city of 101,000. Bad Godesberg is three miles up the river from Bonn and is the village where Neville Chamberlain pleaded with Hitler before Munich for "peace in our times." It is twenty-one miles from Third Army positions on the Rhine near Coblenz.

The German communique said the First Army had reached Remagen, only seventeen miles from Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton's watch on the Rhine. Five to six German divisions back in the Eifels might be trapped by a joining of the First and Third Armies.

MAR 9 - 1945

Forward positions of the converging armies could not be disclosed through a security blackout, but every indication at Supreme Headquarters was that a great victory was shaping up. The Ninth Armored Division of the First Army was declared many hours ago to be over ten miles southwest of Bonn and "well under twenty-five miles" from the Third Army's Fourth Armored Division.

The amazing dash of Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army tanks to the Coblenz area and the Rhine outflanked the Saar industrial district from the north, snapping many of its communications and routes for war material. The Seventh Army outflanked the Saar on the south and was two miles inside it.

Thousands of prisoners were streaming back westward from the 2,500-square-mile pocket in which five to six divisions were caught between the First and Third armies. The First Army counted 3,873 yesterday, and the Third had time to check in only 1,614 of the Germans who jammed the roads back to prison pens on the Kyll River. Farther north the Ninth Army took 1,068 in fighting for the Wesel pocket at the northwest corner of the invaded Ruhr Basin. The day's total for the Americans alone was 6,555.

All through the greatest west-Rhine pocket in the Eifel Mountains, German resistance was dissolving swiftly as the First and Third Army loosed at least eighteen divisions, six of them armored, against the foe.

Through corridors torn in the spongy pocket, Gen. Patton and Lieut.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges sent in infantry riding anything that would roll to complete the mop-up. The Germans have been in similar peril before and have shown adeptness in eluding traps.

Seven of Gen. Eisenhower's armies were on the Rhine. All were building strength.

Gen. Hodges's First Infantry Division entered Bonn's outskirts after bursting through Duisdorf and Dransdorf. The Ninth Infantry cleared Vitterschlick and Volnershoven and in the drive into Bad Godesberg, seven miles to the east. The Rhine was reached between Cologne and Bonn with the capture of Rodenkirchen, Suerth and Godorf.

Drizzles soaked the whole front all day.

Just What General Ordered.

For the first time, the Americans were meeting some resistance from civilians. The battle of Bonn was much more bitter than that for Cologne. Although thousands of German civilians still were in Bonn, the enemy was pouring rockets and artillery fire into the town. Many Germans were being killed by their own shells, Mr. Whitehead reported.

Tells of Entering City.

A prisoner of war said that the Germans had a guard at the western end of the Rhine bridge at Bonn with orders to shoot any civilians trying to flee to the eastern bank and that the defenders received orders from Hitler only last night to fight to the last. The city police were trying to force civilians to fight alongsnde the troops, this German said, and there were frequent clashes between police and the population, which had no stomach for the fight.

The First Division attacked the outskirts of Bonn at 5 A. M. today, and Mr. Whitehead reported that he entered the city in an armored car with Lieut.-Col. Edward Driscoll of Long Island and Capt. Charles R. Clark of Corbin, N. Y. The Germans still held flak gun positions on each side of the corridor leading into the city and frequently swept the road with shellfire. As the car rolled down the Dorotheenstrasse toward the waterfront German civilians gazed stolidly from the doorways and windows.

There was too much shelling and too much of the city in enemy hands to go on a sightseeing tour and check on the damage to historical places such as the University of Bonn and its famous library, Beethoven's birthplace and Muenster cathedral, Mr. Whitehead said, but judging from the sections on the northwestern side, Bonn has escaped destruction such as that at Cologne. There were rows upon rows of houses virtually undamaged and even with the windowglass intact.

Nearly all civilians carried handkerchiefs or white cloths to show their passive acceptance of the Americans' arrival. A team of Military Government men waited at the division command post to take up their duties. The team is composed of eight officers and twelve enlisted men, including Capt. Robert Whitney of White Plains, N. Y.

Gen. Eisenhower was known from the start of the current campaign to want a bridgehead across the Rhine as quickly as possible, because he felt that a crossing would shorten the war in Europe by weeks.

The swift crossing gave the Germans no time to reorganize ranks or improvise defenses east of the Rhine, far beyond the shattered debris of the Siegfried Line. It constituted Field Marshal von Rundstedt's greatest defeat since the landings in Normandy.

Strangely, the Germans who customarily have announced great military developments before either the western or eastern Allies still were silent about the Rhine crossing.

The fact that Supreme Headquarters used the word "bridgehead" in announcing the crossing indicated that Gen. Hodges's infantry had secured a good, solid grip. In military parlance, a bridgehead is established only after it has been expanded sufficiently for the crossing to be out of direct short range fire.

irteen Days After Jump Off.

e crossing of the Rhine—one ne great achievements of the ntire war—came just two days after the capture of the great Rhineland capital of Cologne, which was cleared completely today.

The crossing came thirteen days after Gen. Eisenhower's assault forces crossed the flooded Roer River. It came as the Germans cried out that seven huge Russian armies were smashing at defenses of the Oder—a lesser river than the Rhine—and were across it at one point only twenty-five miles from Berlin.

Farther north, the Canadian First Army struck with renewed vigor at the Wesel bridgehead at the northwest corner of the Ruhr, hitting hard at the ferry crossing at Xanten.

RUSSIANS SMASH WITHIN 25 MILES OF NAZI CAPITAL

MAR 9 - 1945

New Soviet Offensive Surges 10 Miles West of Oder River.

REDS REACH SEELOW

Invade Danzig Territory; Threaten Free City, 12 Miles Away.

WHEELER

LONDON, Friday, March 9—(AP) The Germans said last night that Russian tanks had plunged within 25 miles of greater Berlin on the second day of an all-out frontal assault, while Moscow announced that other Soviet forces invading Danzig territory for the first time had rolled within 12 miles of the former free city of Danzig.

Surging ten miles west of the Oder river, "the Rhine of the east," and last natural defense barrier before the Nazi capital, the Russians were reported by Berlin to have reached the junction town of Seelow, outflanking the Oder fortresses of Kuestrin and Frankfurt.

This development came as the Americans in the west crossed the larger obstacle of the Rhine south of captured Cologne.

Reds Silent on Drive

Russia's high command communique again ignored the vital Berlin sector except for the announcement that Red army troops to the north had overwhelmed German positions only seven miles from the Pomeranian capital of Stettin, main port for Berlin.

Moscow dispatches said the heavy fighting along the Oder might be the prelude to a final offensive against the Reich capital, but suggested that the main blows might be forthcoming later on both flanks of the Nazi heart city.

Striking eight miles inside southwestern Danzig territory in a 14-mile advance yesterday, Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army penetrated to within 12 miles of Danzig city and to within 17 miles of Gdynia, another important Nazi naval base on the Baltic, with the seizure of Stangenwalde.

The Germans in this northern coastal area were squeezed into a 3,826-square-mile area with all land escape routes cut.

Berlin announced that Russian troops in a new offensive also had crossed the Nogat river boundary from East Prussia, reaching Neuteich, 19 miles southeast of Danzig, in a seven-mile advance inside Danzig territory north of fallen Marienburg.

Reds Seize Schlawe

The First and Second White Russian armies together captured 360 towns and villages during the day, including the Pomeranian stronghold of Buetow, and the "Polish corridor" bastions of Koscierzyna and Skarszewy to the east, the Soviet communique said. Berlin said the Pomeranian junction town of Schlawe also had fallen.

Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky's Second army captured 2,000 of the 5,000 German prisoners taken during the day and overran 300 localities on a 100-mile front between Schlawe in the west and the Vistula river in the east. A total of perhaps 200,000 Germans were caught in the trap around Danzig, original estimates said.

Enemy broadcasts told of "terrific fighting in the forefield of Berlin" as Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's tank-led First White Russian army infantry surged forward in an all-out assault covered by broadsides from massed Red army artillery.

Kuestrin, east bank Oder river stronghold, was outflanked as the Russians reached the key road hub of Seelow, 25 miles due east of the capital of the main Kuestrin-Berlin highway. The Nazi high command was said to have dispatched suicidal groups of Elite SS troops to defend Berlin's outer ramparts.

By German account a winding 170-mile front from the Baltic island of Wollin southward to Crossen was aflame, and the Russians were pouring reinforcements of tanks, artillery and self-propelled guns across the breached Oder in the wake of tommy gun assault troops.

Reds Threaten Swinemuende

Threatened all along this front were Swinemuende, big German naval base on Usedom island 33 miles northwest of Stettin; Poelitz, east bank Oder town controlling the neck of the sea channel between Stettin and Stettin bay; the big Pomeranian capital of Stettin itself; and Schwedt, east bank Oder town 27 miles southwest of Stettin.

Seelow is the junction of two great military highways, one of which runs directly into Berlin's eastern city limits, and another which skirts Berlin on the north. It is 11 miles southwest of embattled Kuestrin, where by German account the Russians had achieved two penetrations.

The Soviet advance to Seelow is the closest to Berlin yet announced by Berlin, and the enemy also said the Russians were hammering German troops at the east bank Oder village of Nieder-Wutzow, 29 miles northeast of greater Berlin, and 28 miles northwest of Kuestrin.

In a fluid battle raging in the Kuestrin-Seelow-Frankfurt triangle the Germans said the Russians also had captured Rathstock, seven miles southeast of Seelow, and Klessin, five miles south of Rathstock and eight miles north of Frankfurt.

Counterattacking German units "reentered" Rathstock, and "crushed the remnants of Russian defenders at Klessin," the Nazi Transocean news agency said. "Many places are changing hands repeatedly," it added.

The force which reached Seelow is under heavy German counterattack, the enemy broadcast said, but then told of the fighting spreading to the southern side of Frankfurt, 38 miles southeast of Berlin.

Soviets 25 Miles From Berlin's City Limits

London, March 8 (AP)—The Russians have driven to within 25 miles of Berlin's city limits, outflanking the fortress of Kuestrin and reaching Seelow on the west side of the Oder River, a Transocean broadcast from the German capital said today.

Seelow is directly east of Berlin and is 12 miles west of the Oder. It is on the main railway skirting the Oder which connects Stettin and Frankfurt.

Marshal Gregory Zhukov's massive new offensive, timed with the Allied drive to the Rhine, 321 miles to the west, also has reached a point 29 miles from Berlin northwest of Kuestrin, Berlin reported.

Terrific Fighting

Transocean said Seelow was reached from the Russian bridgehead at Goerlitz, between Kuestrin and Frankfurt, and said terrific fighting was taking place in the area, with many places changing hands repeatedly.

Moscow maintained silence on these sectors.

However, Marshal Stalin announced in an order of the day the capture of the Polish town of Koscierzyna, 29 miles southwest of Danzig, and the Pomeranian rail junction of Buetow, 20 miles west of Koscierzyna. Capture of the towns marked advances of 8 miles for the Red Army.

Big Attacks Reported

Heavy attacks are taking place at Niederwutzen, 4 miles southwest of Zehden in a loop of the Oder, Col. Ernst von Hammer said in a Berlin broadcast, and the Russians have made two breaches in the defenses of the fortress of Kuestrin to the southeast.

Fighting was reported flaming along a 125-mile front along the Oder from Stettin Bay to Crossen, following a terrific artillery barrage that began 48 hours ago. The enemy said the focal point of the attack was on both sides of Kuestrin, 39 miles east of Berlin, with the Russians battering at the northwestern, eastern and southern sides of that city.

19 Miles From Danzig

To the northeast, the Germans said, the Russians have invaded the old Danzig Free State and smashed to within 19 miles of Danzig.

Eighty miles west of Danzig, near the Baltic coast, the Russians captured the railway center of Schlawe, a town of 8,000, the Germans said. Schlawe is 22 miles northeast of Koeslin.

Moscow had not officially confirmed German announcements of the launching of the second great phase of Marshal Stalin's eastern offensive toward Berlin, but correspondents in the Soviet capital were permitted to hint that the German broadcasts were true.

Zhukov, who drove to the Oder in the first phase, has been preparing his forces for the grand assault for more than a month while Marshal Ivan Konev, on the south, pushed abreast to the Neisse River and other forces brought the northern flank up to the Baltic and the lower Oder.

Stettin's Peril Grows

The latter wing also was developing a front which threatened to place Stettin, Berlin's chief port and birthplace of Russia's Catherine the Great, under attack from south, east and north.

The Germans said the Russians had used boats to cross Madue Lake and were only 11 or 12 miles south of Stettin.

The Russians last night announced advances to places within 13 miles northeast of Stettin.

In Canalized Section

Farther north they had pushed even closer. After capturing Stepenitz, Gollnow and Massow they reached the narrow canalized section of the Oder, linking Dammscher Lake and Stettin Bay.

Stettin is built on the west side of Damnscher Lake and a crossing of the Oder below that barrier would cut Stettin off from the bay. Already Poelitz, 6 miles north of Stettin on the main railway linking the city with the bay, was under fire from Russian guns.

Many Cleanup Battles

Berlin reported that the Russians had invaded Wollin, first of the stepping-stone islands separating the bay from the Baltic Sea. Moscow dispatches said reconnaissance patrols were believed to have reached the island and that preparations were under way to storm it.

Scores of cleanup battles were being fought eastward along the Baltic, where up to 200,000 Germans have been encircled in Pomerania, Danzig and the old Polish corridor, and Berlin said there was a "terrific bloodletting" in these fights.

Moscow dispatches said the remnants of half a dozen German divisions were cornered in bypassed Kolberg on the Baltic. Berlin said the Russians had broken into the city.

Polish-born Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky was reported from Moscow to have reached positions about 19 miles southwest of Danzig. The boom of German guns defending Skarszewy, only 3 miles from the border of the old Danzig Free State, presumably could be heard in Danzig.

Skarszewy is 8 miles northwest of fortress Stargard, captured by the Russians yesterday. The Russians had also spanned the Wierszyca, Vistula tributary, which had formed one of the chief defenses of Danzig.

Across Nogat River

The Germans said Rokossovsky also had surged across the Nogat River, north of Marienburg in East Prussia, which formed the chief defense of Danzig on the southeast, and plunged to Neuteich, 6 miles inside the old Free State and 19 miles southeast of Danzig.

Berlin said the Kuestrin-Frankfurt front before Berlin was under the command of Lieutenant General Reinefahrt, an SS leader, who is accused by the Russians of war crimes in Poland.

Under him, Major General Remer, who the Germans said frustrated a plot to seize Berlin during the plot against Hitler last July, commands the Kuestrin garrison, the Germans announced.

SINGLETON

NIGHT

LONDON, March 8—(AP) A United States parachute trooper was hanged today on a British prison gallows for slaying a taxi driver while one of England's most familiar opponents of capital punishment protested outside the walls.

British prison officials and two American Army officers witnessed the execution in Pentonville prison of Karl Gustav Hulten, of Cambridge, Mass. On his 23rd birthday, Hulten became the first United States soldier to be executed by British authorities.

In another prison, saved from a similar punishment by commutation of sentence to life imprisonment, was his co-defendant, Elizabeth Jones, 18, a frail but pretty former strip tease dancer.

They were convicted of killing taxi driver George Edward Heath—"the man with the cleft chin"—who was shot in a robbery. The body was dumped into a ditch.

The girl's reprieve, granted by Home Secretary Herbert Morrison, was stressed by the black-garbed Mrs. Violet Van Der Elst, who came to the prison walls shouting a protest.

"You let the girl off, but let the man hang," she cried, striding to and fro among the crowd of approximately 200 persons. "It's a damned shame."

Her demand to be admitted to the gallows chamber denied, Mrs. Van Der Elst boarded a garbage truck across the street, and, with the driver, charged toward the prison's wooden gate.

Quick-witted police maneuvered another truck into the way, forcing Mrs. Van Der Elst's truck to the curb. They dragged her and the driver from the machine and walked them away amid her shouted warnings: "Don't touch me."

Hours later, Mrs. Van Der Elst and a man listed as Charles Francis Smith, truck driver, were charged with attempting to cause bodily harm to a police sergeant and were freed under $200 bail each for a hearing March 26.

Hulten went to his death shortly after 9 a. m. wearing a civilian suit. prison authorities said death was instantaneous.

In Boston Hulten's mother, Mrs. Signe Hulten, sobbed "I'd be better off dead with my boy." She said she would appeal to British authorities for his body.

Hulten's wife, Rita, and their 21-month-old daughter, June, were both ill at their Cambridge home. She cabled Hulten last night to "keep up your hope and courage, darling."

Hulten's Wife, Mother Loyal To Him To Finish

Boston, March 8 (AP)—Mrs. Signe Hulten broke into sobs today when she was informed by the Associated Press that her son had died on a London gallows for the robbery slaying of a cab driver.

Words failed her completely and she could only murmur "yes, yes" as the news was brought to her in her Boston rooming house.

Both she and the Cambridge (Mass.) paratrooper's wife were under a doctor's care as they waited the long night hours away, hoping and yet fearing to hear from London.

Proud Of Her Son

"I am still proud of my son," Mrs. Hulten said in a statement to the Boston Globe last night.

Yesterday was the twenty-first birthday of the paratrooper's wife and she and her daughter, June, 21 months old, were ill.

Nevertheless, Rita Hulten marshaled strength enough to send a cablegram to the London Daily Mirror to be delivered to her husband before the execution.

"Keep up your hope and courage, darling," she cabled, "Trust in God this will come out all right. I love you and am with you, hoping for the best."

Statement For England

Mrs. Signe Hulten's statement, which she asked be sent to British papers, follows:

"I just want to say this—I am glad my dear son don't have no more to answer for to God. He is a saint, compared to those who have condemned him. Let them remember it when the real hour of justice will strike. I am still proud of my son.

"I know he had told the truth when he said 'Those are not my words.' Too tired to read the ghastly statement made up for him, he just signed himself to be murdered and to die for the satisfaction of the bloodthirsty-minded England.

"And then they dared to call my son a cold-blooded murderer. Then they do the same to him, but in a more ghastly way.

"And now I take the liberty in pointing out to you who have condemned him, I am glad my son has so very little to answer for."

1,700 U.S. Craft Raid Ruhr; 8th Reports Loss Of 1 Plane

CHAMBERLIN

London, March 8 (AP)—More than 1,700 United States heavy bombers blasted rail yards and motor-fuel plants of the Ruhr today and the Air Ministry said RAF Mosquitos had bombed Berlin tonight for the seventeenth consecutive night.

During the evening enemy radio stations blared warnings that a bomber column 200 miles long was over western Germany. The warnings indicated that British Lancasters and Halifaxes were heaping fresh destruction upon vital plants and communications as the greatest air Blitz of the war carried through its twenty-fourth straight day.

From the great American armada just one bomber was reported missing—an all-time low for losses on an operation of such magnitude.

The Flying Fortresses and Liberators met no opposition from the German air force and most flyers said they had encountered no anti-aircraft fire over the Ruhr, long notorious as "flak valley."

"Real Change In Air War"

One gunner, Sergt. Ted Menpavols, of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., observed that "a month has seen a real change in the air war. Only a few weeks ago German flak batteries threw up tons of shrapnel when we flew over the Ruhr. Today, I could have counted the flak bursts on two hands."

Benzol plants were among the American targets and at one a terrific explosion on the ground swept into the sky 20,000 feet high. Mustang pilots said they saw "a ball of fire and brown smoke turning white rising about 8,000 feet" after the attack. Some pilots 4 miles high could feel the concussion from the blast.

The daylight blows caught the Germans still reeling from a Wednesday night assault by the largest force of bombers sent out by the RAF this year and tonight the enemy's Achtung warning system told of British bombers being over Brandenburg province where Berlin has been hit for sixteen successive nights previously.

Approximately 1,250 British bombers rained destruction in last night's attack on Dessau, important Eastern front base, and on two oil refineries at Harburg and another at Heide in Schleswig-Holstein. More than 500,000 incendiaries were dropped on Dessau and fires spread over the greater part of the target area, the RAF reported.

Essen Rail Yards Hit

With the daylight, more than 700 Fortresses and Liberators concentrated on rail yards at Essen, six benzol plants in the Gelsenkirchen-Dortmund area and the Uerscholven synthetic oil refinery plant which had been knocked out previously but had been repaired sufficiently to merit renewed attention.

Nearly 700 more bombers blasted congested freight yards at Siegen, 45 miles southeast of Cologne; Giessen, 75 miles southeast, and Betzdorf and Dillenburg on the main line from Giessen to Cologne.

Both Siegen and Giessen were attacked yesterday when the 8th Air Force sent out 900 bombers in the opening phase of what is developing into an intensified aerial assault to isolate the Ruhr by strangling its rail outlets.

Gas Supplies Target

Attacks on benzol and oil plants fall within the plan of Allied air chiefs to deprive the German Army of any "on-the-scene" gasoline for the Ruhr battle.

More than 300 fighters accompanied the bombers through the Ruhr sky. Clouds obscured targets and the 4,000-ton explosives were dropped by "magic eye" sighting.

Preliminary reports said there was little flak and no German air force interference.

The RAF reported that 38 bombers and one fighter failed to return from the night operations.

15th Out Again

The 15th Air Force in Italy, freed from bad weather, resumed coordinated operations with the Russian armies in Hungary by attacking railroads at Hegyeshalom, 70 miles from the Hungary front lines.

Other Liberators struck at the German escape route between Vienna and Zagreb, bombing rail yards at Maribor, Yugoslavia, while others blasted steelworks at Kapfenburg, 70 miles southwest of Vienna.

1,350 U.S. Bombers Hit Oil, Rail Targets

London, March 8 (AP)—German rail and oil targets were struck another blow today as 1,350 American bombers, following up the RAF's 1,250-plane night assault, attacked seven oil plants and five switching yards handling traffic to the Ruhr battlefields.

The most sustained air campaign of the war carried through its twenty-fourth consecutive day.

The Americans' targets included the clogged yards at Essen, almost within earshot of the fighting along the upper Rhine; Siegen, Betzdorf, Dillenburg and Giessen. Six benzol plants and one synthetic refinery in the Gelsenkirchen-Dortmund regions were the oil objectives.

Fighter Cover

Approximately 350 fighters provided cover for the bombers. Close protection against the German air force seldom is needed any more.

The British night attack was carried out by the largest force sent out by the RAF this year. The British planes blasted the Germans' Eastern front base of Dessau, struck at vital oil refineries and gave Berlin its sixteenth successive night raid.

3,000 Tons Dropped

It was estimated that 3,000 tons of explosives and fire bombs were dropped on Dessau, on the Elbe River 65 miles southwest of Berlin. The city still was in flames today.

The British Air Ministry listed 39 bombers and one fighter missing from the night's operations. At least fourteen German night fighters were shot down.

United States 15th Air Force heavy bombers resumed operations in co-ordination with Russian armies in Hungary, attacking railroads at the Hungarian city of Hegyeshalom less than 70 miles behind German lines.

Hegyeshalom is on the Vienna-Budapest trunk railway in the Danube basin 90 miles northwest of Budapest. Bad weather had grounded the Italian-based bombers for several days.

Good Results Reported

Liberator pilots returning from the attack reported good results at Hegyeshalom, last raided December 6.

Other Liberator squadrons struck the German escape and supply route between Vienna and Zagreb, bombing the railyards at Maribor, Yugoslavia. Still others blasted the steel works at Kapfenburg, 70 miles southwest of Vienna.

Pilots returning from the assault on Dessau reported the whole target area was "ablaze from end to end, with smoke rising to a height of 17,000 feet."

Other Targets

Dessau is one of the largest industrial cities of central Germany and is located on several railways feeding German lines on the Russian front barely 100 miles to the east.

Other targets of RAF heavy bombers last night included oil refineries at Harburg, across the river from Hamburg, and Heide in Schleswig-Holstein, west of Kiel.

Last night's raid on Berlin was carried out by Mosquitos, which again dropped two-ton blockbusters on the city.

Bad weather over the continent yesterday curtailed operations by Allied tactical air forces until late afternoon, but fighter and medium bombers made a number of successful attacks on rail traffic north of the Ruhr.

Five German planes were shot down yesterday over the front.

Britons Planning To Resume Television

London, March 8 (AP)—Plans for resuming television, perhaps within the year, on a Government subsidy basis were projected today in an official White Paper.

A television committee headed by Lord Hankey suggested the service should be started into British homes on a prewar basis, so that there would be no waste of time, but added that improvements should be made as rapidly as possible.

Frank's Yanks Beaten In London Tournament

London, March 8 (AP)—Upset of the favored team, Frank's Yanks, representing the 398th Bomb Group, marked the opening round of the three-day basketball tournament for the championship of the American forces in the United Kingdom last night. The Yanks were whipped, 50 to 40, by the 1st Base Air Depot five.

Sixteen teams out of an original starting field of 2,000 qualified for the biggest sports tournament of the war. The finals will be held Friday night.

GOEBBELS SAYS WAR IS PAST ITS 'CLIMAX'

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels told the German people today that the war had "already exceeded its climax" and would "lead up to a furioso in its final phase, then end suddenly and rashly" in German victory.

Predicting that German superiority in morale and purpose would permit Germany to snatch victory in the final moment of crisis, Goebbels said in an article in his magagine Reich:

"Experience teaches us it is not man's business to argue or speculate about the forcible necessities of the war. War comes at the moment it is due with the force of a hurricane and usually ends the same way, quite suddenly after its wildest eruption."

The fighting fronts remain fluid, he said, and "it is not to be presumed that it will become completely stabilized anywhere at any time."

The German radio, more than twenty-four hours after the Americans crossed the Rhine, made no mention of it tonight, but some accounts stressed the growing fury of the battle.

Capt. Ludwig Sertorius of the Transocean news agency predicted that the major Rhine crossing would be attempted by the British Second and Canadian First armies across the north German plain.

He asserted that despite the pressure on the central Rhine, "there is no serious threat to the Rhine line yet between Bonn and Coblenz."

Britain And U.S. Hold Communications Talks

London, March 8 (AP)—British and American special delegations on communications said today in a joint statement that their conversations here were designed to facilitate "the exchange of official communications in the Mediterranean area, both military and civil, incident to the war effort."

A spokesman said the question of press rates had not been considered yet.

The joint statement said "numerous and complex problems" and their effect on the war effort made the conference "not only essential but urgent."

Mark Barron Promoted in Army

With the United States Forces in France, March 8 (A. P.).—Mark Barron, former drama critic for the Associated Press, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army, it was announced tonight. He had been serving as a staff sergeant in the Army's communication's zone in France.

Lieut. Barron, who once was New York city editor for the Associated Press, has been overseas since February, 1944.

SWISS TALKS SUCCEED

London, March 8 (A. P.).—Allied trade negotiations with Switzerland, intended to prevent supplies from getting into Germany and Nazi loot from moving out through Switzerland, have ended with some concessions on both sides, the Swiss radio said today.

Spaatz's Pilot Weds WAC

London, March 8 (AP) — Capt. Bryce B. Smith, personal pilot for Lieut. Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of United States Strategic Air Forces in Europe, and Capt. Murl L. Fodness, aide to Brig. Gen. E. P. Curtis, Spaatz's chief of staff, were married today somewhere in France.

Ancient Painting In Cathedral

Glasgow, March 8 (AP)—A nativity picture, painted in oil by an unknown artist some 300 years ago and discovered in an antique dealer's back shop, now hangs in ancient Glasgow Cathedral, the only picture in the church.

France to Get British Food

To Borrow Stocks Saved to Meet Threat of Nazi Invasion

PARIS, March 8 (AP).—Deputy Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee, of Great Britain, was reported today to have promised French food supply authorities that England would lend to France stocks of fats and sugar once accumulated to meet threats of Nazi invasion.

France, it was said, will reimburse England in kind as soon as she can obtain imports from West Africa, Tunisia and other French empire producing areas.

Relief Convoys Go To Prison Camps

Paris, March 8 (AP)—Allied authorities announced today that the International Red Cross, aided by the American and British Red Cross, had sent train and truck convoys from Switzerland into German prison camp areas.

Last Tuesday, headquarters disclosed, a trainload of food and medical supplies was sent to Moosburg, Germany, for 100,000 Allied prisoners under a safe conduct guarantee from Nazi authorities. Yesterday a convoy of 25 trucks left Switzerland with supplies under a similar arrangement to aid prisoners being transferred from eastern Germany in forced marches.

Red Cross Seeks Trucks

Stockholm, March 8 (AP)—The American Legation is negotiating the purchase of 50 trucks from Sweden for alleviation by the International Red Cross of a critical situation among relocated Allied prisoners of war in Germany, a legation spokesman said today.

He said many prisoners, moved westward because of the Russian offensive, lost virtually all their equipment.

Supplies will be sent to Luebeck, where the International Red Cross will take over with drivers and technicians from among the prisoners, the spokesman said.

EISENHOWER PRAISES AMERICAN FIRST ARMY

WITH THE FIRST U. S. ARMY March 8—(AP) Gen. Eisenhower praised the U. S. First army today for its "speed and boldness" in establishing a bridgehead across the Rhine river.

The Supreme Allied commander in a message to Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, commander of the First army, said:

"The whole Allied force is delighted to cheer the First U. S. army whose speed and boldness have won the race to establish the first bridgehead over the Rhine. Please tell all ranks how proud I am of them."

Daring Gamble On Lucky Break Won Bridgehead Across Rhine

By HAROLD V. BOYLE

With U.S. 1st Army Across the Rhine, March 8 (AP)—By capitalizing on one of the greatest battlefield breaks in history, American troops are across the Rhine today in force, confident that the final great battles of World War II are at hand.

They think their audacious gamble—details of which cannot yet be told because of security reasons—has shortened the war by weeks and perhaps months.

"We will beat those Russians into Berlin yet," shouted one grinning doughboy as he planted his foot on the eastern banks of the river which military men have regarded as the greatest remaining barrier to Allied victory.

Foe Caught Flatfooted

After 24 hours—the first soldier crossed at 3.50 P.M. yesterday in broad daylight—Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's bridgehead has been established firmly.

The Germans were caught flatfooted by the surprise crossing and are still falling back under 1st Army pressure.

The best they have been able to muster so far is sporadic artillery fire which has caused a number of casualties but has been completely ineffective in interrupting Hodges's rapid exploitation of his bridgehead.

Ths crossing was so sudden it completely dazed the German high command which stil. is trying to regroup its scattered units retreating across the Rhine.

'Traffic Cop's Nightmare'

Every road leading to the bridgehead is bringing weapons to carry into the eastern Rhineland the massive power punch the 1st Army delivered fourteen days ago at the Roer River.

It is a traffic cop's nightmare. Everybody wants to get over to the east bank of the Rhine as soon as possible.

There is considerable risk in going over for the German artillery guns now are zeroed in on the crossing site, even if their shelling thus far has been sporadic.

I moved up to the crossing point on foot in the middle of a long column of joking doughboys. We were only a short distance from the river's edge when a Nazi shell whined over and struck almost at the feet of one soldier. He pitched forward, dead without a sound, as we scattered for shelter.

'He'll Never Know'

They could have waited at least until he got over to the other side of their damned river," said one soldier resentfully. "Poor guy, he'll never know now what it's like over there."

After a few moments the column formed again and ran forward in the tense, double time of doughboys in battle, holding their rifles at the ready before them. There was no more joking about crossing the Rhine or what it meant.

They knew now what it meant—more fighting.

Crossing Site Beautiful

The crossing site has all the storied beauty of the Rhineland. It is situated between high, sheer bluffs and rolling green hills softened by a light mist. The river itself winds between these hills like a lazy, silver-gray snake.

One of the first things the original company to cross had to tackle was a sheer, 300-foot crag fissured with many crevices where enemy machine gunners could have set up all but impregnable positions—but didn't because German military leaders were not expecting the crossing.

"They got three of our engineers, though, by sniping fire," said Lieut. M. J. Eder, of Chippewa Falls, Wis. "And taking that cliff wasn't any picnic. Our boys got halfway up when some Nazi ack-ack gunners down the river saw them and fired on them with 20-mm. bursts. That was really rough going."

To The Top And Inland

But the doughboys soon worked to the top and pushed on inland. They still were advancing late this afternoon through rugged hills and heavy woods — terrain the Nazis could have held through many days of bitter battle had they been prepared.

The men who made the first crossing still are foremost in the line. They have fought on without rest of any kind and when I left at dusk to recross the river to file this story the hills and valleys still echoed with the bark of their rifles and the nervous chatter of machine guns.

American artillery is giving them support now and big-throated Yank batteries still are slamming strong counterbattery fire at hidden German guns shelling our crossing. Rainy skies during most of the day kept grounded the little artillery spotter planes.

Streets Are Littered

The debris of battle lines both banks of the crossing. Streets on the eastern bank are littered with sand-colored Volkswagons, flak guns, self-propelled guns, trucks and even horse-drawn carts. They were caught trying to evacuate across the river and ripped to pieces by American warplanes and infantry.

I saw at least a dozen dead German soldiers lying by their knocked-out vehicles, their boots pointed skyward. Villagers had covered some of the faces but others stared starkly with mouths still half opened as if in surprise.

Children playing near by paid no attention to the dead soldiers and German farmers thriftily busied themselves looting Nazi ordnance trucks of tools and wrenches.

The western bank also showed signs of quick, fierce battle. Bombs had destroyed many houses in the first small village seized by American infantry. One German motorcycle rider, shot as he tried to escape with news of the Yank crossing, lay sprawled in the roadway, his head only a few inches from groaning trucks laboring forward with heavy ammunition loads.

Hospital In A Tunnel

Medics had set up aid facilities in a tunnel near the crossing site and casualties were quickly and efficiently treated and evacuated. Every few minutes little groups of prisoners wandered back from the hills with their hands clasped over their heads. Advancing doughboys had disarmed them and merely waved them on back to the rear. They wanted ground more than prisoners.

"We took more than a thousand prisoners yesterday during operations on both banks of the river," said Capt. Charles Gillett, of Newport, Ky.

In a dimly lit cellar of a German home already scored by bomb damage, commanders of the bridgehead force had set up a command post and were busy ordering the advance of new troops streaming across the river.

'Ordered Confusion'

Muddy roads bordering the crossing churned into the whole bridgehead scene and gave the impression of vast "ordered confusion" which is normal in every big invasion.

Describing in general terms the establishment of the bridgehead, Major Ben Cothran, former advertising executive with the J. Walter Thompson firm in New York city, said:

"When we started out to reach the Rhine, we didn't have much hope of getting across immediately. But we believed it was possible and we were told to go ahead if the chances of success looked good when we got here.

"We moved much more quickly than the Germans expected. They had been using the same site here themselves earlier in the day. We caught two German prisoners crossing. Going over was just a short job when we were set."

Swift Blow Catches Nazis by Surprise, Then They Rally Too Late to Dislodge Americans; Three Counter-Attacks Are Beaten Off

By Howard Cowan

ACROSS THE RHINE, March 8 (AP).—Troops of the United States 1st Army of Lieutenant General Courtney H. Hodges swept across the Rhine late yesterday and were firmly intrenched on the east bank tonight after severe fighting. Three counter-attacks were hurled at the bridgehead last night and one of them, at 2:30 a. m., drove the Americans out of a command post and 500 yards up the river before being repulsed.

"They had a 20-mm. gun they were using on us," said Lieutenant Lyman Smith jr., of Naples, N. Y., "but we have got that knocked out now."

The crossing caught the enemy entirely by surprise. The infantry which got across first was commanded by Major Murray Devers, of Hagerville, Ark. When I reached a command post on the east bank today Devers was asleep in a room where maps were spread out, with the next objectives marked in crayon.

"It's the first sleep he has had in four days and nights," an officer said.

I can't say where the crossing was made and can tell little of what I saw, but this much can be said — the Americans are across the Rhine to stay.

Hodges's hurdling of the Rhine, across an expanse probably more than 400 yards wide, was one of the most thrilling coups of the war. The crossing was so swift that the Nazis were able to put up only frantic and confused resistance.

Men were so busy fighting it was difficult to get details, but when the full story is told the names of Lieutenant Emmett J. Burrows—I don't know where he's from; Lieutenant John Mitchell, of Pittsburgh; an engineer named Lieutenant Mott and Lieutenant Carl Timmerman, of Westpoint, Neb., will be at the top of the list.

"It hasn't been confirmed yet," said Sergeant Major Stephan S. Price, of 1514 Unionport Road, the Bronx, during a brief talk in a command post on the east bank of the Rhine, "but we are pretty sure Burrows was the first man to set foot on this side of the Rhine."

The first troops began swarming onto the German-held side of the river at 3:50 p. m. Wednesday afternoon (accounts from the west bank said 4:30 was the crossing time). Since then the flow of men and material has proceeded uninterrupted despite intermittent shelling which had grown heavier late today.

Germans in a village near the fast-moving operation watched wide-eyed as American military might poured across the Rhine throughout the day. Their consternation was exceeded only by the natives in towns across the river who made no move to evacuate even though Cologne had fallen and the 1st and 9th Armies were drawing up along the Rhine on a broad front.

One of the first men to greet me on the opposite shore was a chaplain from Henryetta, Okla., William Gibble. Every one else was so busy fighting this morning that he went with a German medical corps man into a town on the east bank of the river and accepted the surrender of the entire populace and some 400 to 500 wounded Germans in a hospital.

It was a fitting recompense for the soft-voiced Oklahoman, who was captured by the Germans during the Ardennes break-through and held prisoner for six hours before an American counter-attack released him.

The fighting men of the army which forced the D-Day beachhead in Normandy were wild with joy at the success of the Rhine crossing.

Private John Motsinger, of Pittsburgh, Kan., was playing a French harp. "Want one?" he asked. "I got millions of 'em." His pockets were bulging.

Prisoners were coming in so fast there was no one to take care of them. Many were wandering about disarmed, and they remained wary of the 88-mm. shells which were dropping spasmodically.

The unluckiest individual was a German naval officer who came chugging down the Rhine in a barge at an embarrassing moment. Half a dozen Americans leveled guns at him and his hands came up. For several hours every one was too busy chasing the Germans on the bank to bother with those in the water, and the naval officer in gold braid and blue serge, and his crew, just stood in the boat with their hands up.

Major James Baker, of Columbia, Mo., a physician who superintended evacuation of wounded back across the river, said casualties "were extremely light" for the operation.

I made the crossing to the east bank with Private John Getz, of Strasbourn, N. D., whom I had met while walking along a road leading to the west bank after my jeep became entangled in a traffic jam.

As we approached the river bank an 88-mm. shell landed squarely in the middle of the street, killing one American soldier and wounding another in the leg. Every one hit the dirt. A couple of medical corps men, crouching low, ran to the side of the wounded man lying in the gutter.

We reached the other side without any more shell fire and took shelter in a huge tunnel in the side of a rock precipice that towers on the eastern bank of the river when the 88s opened up again.

Cologne Called Example Of National Suicide

By Louis P. Lochner

Cologne, March 8 (AP)—After taking inventory of what remains of Cologne and other lesser German cities captured by the Allies, the conclusion is inescapable that Adolf Hitler has committed the Reich to national suicide.

I have just completed my first detailed tour of Cologne's downtown section. It was a sorry sight on this bleak, cold day.

Cologne's Wall Street, the Unter Sachsenhausen, exists no more. The proud structures of the Reichsbank, Dresdener Bank, Diskonto Gesellschaft and other financial institutions are burned-out shells.

Phone Exchange Is A Wreck

The main post office directly opposite these banks is in far worse condition than the post office in ruined Aachen.

The telephone exchange is a wreck — "completely kaput (finished)," is the way it was described by Lieut. Col. Robbins P. Crowell, of Washington, D.C., AMG telephone specialist.

"It's far worse than Aachen," Crowell added.

It will take a long time to re-establish telephone service in Cologne—much longer than in smaller Aachen, where all the public offices already are serviced from the main exchange in the post office.

St. Gereon's Church Gutted

I stumbled over the bodies of Germans as I picked my way through debris along almost unidentifiable streets to the section near gutted St. Gereon's Church. It is in this area that the large German insurance companies had their headquarters.

The large modern insurance company buildings have taken terrific beatings from the air, and none can be used without complete overhauling.

Many Living In Cellars

Large quantities of dynamite were found within the structures. A woman who emerged from a nearby basement explained bitterly:

"The Gestapo swine intended to blow up all those buildings.

"What did they care that many of us had been living in the cellars. When the American soldiers came they ran away and never paused to blow the buildings up."

Not even the residents in the western part of Cologne are aware of the full extent of the damage in the Altstadt," or old part of the city because of the complete breakdown of transportation facilities in the urban area.

Various burghers living on the northwestern fringe of Cologne, for instance, were convinced that three celebrated hotels in the shadow of the ancient cathedral were still livable—namely the Excelsior, the Ewige Lampe and the Dom.

Some Damage To Cathedral

As a matter of fact, they are heaps of rubble.

The cathedral itself is still standing, but there is no denying that it suffered some damage. There are big holes next to the north and south portals of the imposing west facade, though the main portal itself is practically intact.

There are several holes in the roof of the transept through which rain streams unretared, and the structure is at present windowless. Most of the valuable stained glass windows were removed early in the war for safekeeping.

War or no war, however, mass has been said daily in the cathedral by the remaining priests.

Baltimore Major Is In Cologne

Cologne, Germany, March 7 [AP—Delayed]—American troops gazed across the Rhine to the east from shattered, captured Cologne today, and an officer spoke their thoughts:

"Know what I'd like to do?" asked Major John Dean, of 3700 North Charles street, Baltimore. "I'd like to hit across the Rhine and get this thing over with fast."

Enemy Not Far Away

It seemed strange to stand on the western side of the river and know that the enemy was in those buildings a few hundred yards away—at least everyone supposed the enemy was there although there was no answering fire to shells which United States artillery poured across the stream.

Major Dean sat before a stove in the basement of a bombed building as he spoke of getting this over with in a hurry.

No Bridges In Cologne

But there are no bridges in Cologne over which troops can cross. All five of the great span had been dumped into the stream by Allied bombings, including the Hohenzollern bridge, which was the last destroyed.

Soldiers talked chiefly about the feeble German effort to hold Cologne. Americans suffered few casualties, one unit having only two men killed in fighting through town to the river bank.

"Didn't Fire A Shot"

Private Sam Armato, of Tickfaw, La., and Pfc. Theodore Johnston, of Detroit, said they couldn't understand it.

"We got into town without firing a shot and, boy, I didn't expect to," Johnston said.

Son Of Gen. John G. Dean

Major Dean is the son of Gen. John G. Dean, head of the "mission to Moscow" group in Russia for the last two years. He is a 1942 graduate of West Point.

The husband of Mrs. Elizabeth Heard Dean, who is living in Baltimore for the duration, at the Northway Apartments, 3700 North Charles street, the major left for overseas duty last August. He first landed in Normandy and then moved on through France, Holland, Belgium and into Germany with the 1st Army.

Only 25 years old, Major Dean was a resident of Washington before going to West Point, and his mother is now living in Washington. His family owns the San Francisco Chronicle.

The major and Mrs. Dean have a 14-month-old son, John R. Dean 3d. Mrs. Dean is the daughter of Gen. Jack W. Heard, now serving in the European theater.

GERMANS SHELL BONN AS YANKS SMASH IN

BONN, Germany, March 8 (AP)—Doughboys fought their way through the streets of Bonn tonight while this birthplace of Beethoven, one of Germany's cultural centers, was raked by shells from both German and American guns.

The famous fighting First Infantry Division was plowing through stiff opposition here while a few miles to the south the Ninth Infantry was cleaning out the resort town of Bad-Goedesberg, the scene of the second Hitler-Chamberlain conference, which ended with the disagreement over Czechoslovakia. American troops tonight had cleaned out resistance in about half of both towns.

For the first time American troops were meeting some resistance from civilians and the battle for Bonn was much more bitter than that for Cologne. Although there were still thousands of civilians in the city, the Germans were pouring rockets and artillery fire into the town and many Germans were being killed by their own shells.

A prisoner of war said the Germans had a guard at the western end of the Rhine bridge with orders to shoot any civilians trying to flee to the eastern bank and that the defenders had received orders from Hitler last night to fight to the last.

City police were trying to force civilians to fight beside the troops, this German said, and there were frequent clashes between the police and the population, which had no stomach for the fight.

1st Infantry Division Has 60,000 Prisoners

Bonn, Germany, March 8 (AP)—The United States 1st Infantry Division, commanded by Brig. Gen. Clift Andrus, captured its sixty thousandth prisoner today—rounding out a bag equivalent to an entire German Army with two corps of three divisions each.

The famous Fighting First, many of whose men are from New York, rolled up its record in campaigns in North Africa, Sicily, France, Belgium and Germany.

YANKS CLOSING ON ITALY TOWN

Find Resistance Light In Villages Near Vergato

London, Friday, March 9 (AP). A voice purportedly that of Gen. Mario Roatta, former Italian chief of staff, who escaped while on trial in Rome for his connections with the Fascist regime, was heard by Daily Express monitors during the night broadcasting from one of Mussolini's radio stations in northern Italy.

Rome, March 8 (AP)—American 5th Army troops closed in from three sides tonight on the German highway stronghold of Vergato, 17½ miles southwest of Bologna on the Central Italian front.

Advancing among Italian peaks towering as high as 2,600 feet, the Americans captured the small villages of Fornaci, Salvaro and Serra, just east of the Bologna-Pistoia highway and northeast of Vergato, encountering what was officially described as "light resistance."

Counterattack Driven Off

Farther east in the area of the newly captured town of Casaglia, 13 miles south of Bologna, a German counterattack in company strength supported by the fire of artillery, mortars, self-propelled guns and automatic weapons was driven off after bitter fighting.

West of the Bologna-Pistoia highway the United States 10th Mountain Division repulsed German attacks against its newly won positions in the Monte Belvedere-Monte d'Ella Castella area and then forged ahead making local improvements in its line.

This consolidation of the eight-mile gain scored by the division during the last two weeks was made despite intermittent enemy artillery and mortar fire. The Americans added more prisoners to their bag of 1,200 taken since the drive started.

There was no official Allied announcement concerning the German report yesterday that a British fighting group attempted to make a landing on the Adriatic coast behind the Nazi lines.

Bomb Supplies And Guns

Flying in close support of the ground troops United States 12th Air Force fighters and fighter bombers hammered fuel and ammunition dumps in the central and eastern Po Valley and Nazi gun positions and buildings on the 8th Army front yesterday. Other fighters and medium bombers concentrated on the southern half of the Brenner Pass rail line.

Eight Allied aircraft were missing from the 1,250 sorties flown. RAF Liberators and Wellingtons bombed rail yards, 15 miles north of Udine, for the first time at night.

Ranging over the central Po Valley in a night-flying Havoc, Lieut. Harlan J. Jewett, of Los Angeles, caught a large convoy of motor vehicles on a highway 10 miles east of Cremona. He destroyed six and damaged fifteen.

Yanks Consolidate Advances In Italy

Rome, March 8 (AP)—The United States 10th Mountain Division made "local improvements" yesterday despite German attacks on its newly-won positions west of the Bologna-Pistoia highway on the 5th Army Italian front, Allied Headquarters announced today.

The American division is consolidating a 5-mile advance through rough terrain and heavy artillery, machine-gun and mortar fire. Several dominating peaks within 20 miles of Bologna were captured in the drive which headquarters yesterday termed "a most successful limited-objective attack.

Gains East Of Highway

In new overnight gains 5th Army troops seized positions at three small villages northeast of the Bologna-Pistoia road town of Vergato, a German stronghold which has held out for months against Allied attacks and is now virtually enflanked.

The gains east of the highway were made against what the communique said was "light resistance," suggesting the possibility that the Nazis may have decided to give up Vergato.

General Morgan Gets Post In Rome

Rome, March 8 (AP)—Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander announced today the appointment of Lieut. Gen. W. D. Morgan as chief of staff of Allied force headquarters in the Mediterranean theater.

He succeeds Lieut. Gen. Sir John Harding, who has been given an unspecified new military assignment.

Allies' Monarchy Stand Made Issue

Rome, March 8 (AP)—The question of Allied responsibility for maintaining the monarchy in power and enabling it to prepare for an eventual showdown fight against the Leftist Republicans was raised tonight as opposition parties continued to batter at the Bonomi Cabinet.

Allied policy demands of any Italian Cabinet a pledge not to raise the question of Italy's monarchy until after the war. Both the Badoglio and the present Bonomi governments signed this pledge before they were approved by the Allied commission.

Held Core Of Stride

The new Allied program for Italy, while lifting some of the control over the Italian Government, made no modification of this policy, which is regarded as the core of liberated Italy's political strife.

Critics of Allied policy say that the Allies, by maintaining an embargo on the monarchy question, are placed in the position of calling Tuesday's royal palace riot an "entirely Italian affair" when they are preventing the Italians from freely deciding by elections whether they want a monarchy.

They say that the Bonomi Government attempted to appoint a commission to investigate the Italian military debacle in Rome after the armistice—a probe which would have raised the question of the King's and Marshal Badoglio's responsibility—but that the Allied Commission quashed such an inquest.

Communists Insist On Purge

Communist Cabinet members, meantime, warned Premier Bonomi they would remain in the government only if a promised Fascist purge was carried out swiftly and completely.

An organ of the Italian General Confederation of Labor, which claims 2,000,000 members, declared that the present government commands no popular respect, and added:

"If things continue this way, the people themselves will administer law and obtain justice. The French revolution was preceded by much less disturbing symptoms."

The situation continued tense in Rome as shots were fired during the night at police guarding the clinic where Lieut. Gen. Count Francesco Jacomoni is being held during his war crimes trial as a co-defendant of the esaped Gen. Mario Roatta. The assailants escaped. Jacomoni was escorted to court today by guards armed with submachine guns.

Rome Open Golf Field Led By Private Bolt

Rome, March 8 (AP)—Private Tom Bolt, Abilene (Texas) amateur, posted a two-over-par 73 today to take the lead in the first round of the Rome Open golf tourney.

Because of the 300 entrants and the shortage of clubs and balls only half the field competed today. The others shoot their qualifying round tomorrow.

After tomorrow's round, the low 100 scorers will be permitted to negotiate an 18-hole test Saturday with the low 60 survivors playing for $800 in prize money in a 36-hole competition Sunday.

Bolt, who hadn't played a round in two and a half years, one-putted three greens to finish two strokes in front of his nearest rivals.

Deadlocked for second with 75s were Naval Technician Al Zimmerman, a pro star from Portland, Ore., and Lieut. Charles Dudley, Greenville (S.C.) amateur. Back of them came Corporal Bert Topping, British pro from Lancaster, with a 77, and Private Earl Howell, of Richmond, Va., at 78.

Tournament favorite Sergt. Vic Ghezzi failed to arrive but is expected tomorrow.

Visits Headquarters In Italy

Shots Fired In New Rome Protest

Rome, March 8 (AP)—Shots were fired in the night at Carabinieri guarding a clinic where Lieut. Gen. Count Francesco Jacomoni is held on war-crime charges, in another of the series of demonstrations so far weathered by Premier Ivanoe Bonomi.

No attempt was made to burst into the hospital.

The escape Sunday of Gen. Mario Roatta and a protest riot before the royal palace were previous incidents of the week.

Vote Of Confidence

The Cabinet declared its confidence in Bonomi late yesterday. Opposition parties protested anew against his retention of control of the Government.

Jacomoni, brought to court for continuation of his trial this morning, was guarded by Carabinieri armed with submachine guns. He told newsmen that "I heard the shooting, but I stayed in bed."

Former Viceroy of Albania he was one of a group accused of helping Mussolini maintain his dictatorship. Among acts charged to him are the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, aggressive international policies and murder of the Roselli brothers in France.

Request By Albania

[The FCC quoted the Tirana radio a week ago as announcing that the Albanian Government had forwarded a request to the International Committee on War Criminals in London that Jacomoni be handed over for trial in that country.]

In the incident last night many shots were fired by an unknown person who succeeded in escaping from two Carabinieri, who fired back. There were no casualties.

Editors Arrive in Moscow

MOSCOW, March 8 (AP)—The committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, which is seeking assurance of post-war freedom of news exchange, arrived here today. The committee previously has visited Great Britain, France, Italy and the Middle East. En route here they were weatherbound at Stalingrad for three days.

Peasants Seize 32 Big Estates

Moscow, March 8 (AP)—A Tass dispatch from Bucharest said today that thousands of Romanian peasants had divided more than 32 large estates among themselves and now looked to the new government to approve their action.

Heeding the call of the "central committee of the land front," the Tass report said 10,000 peasants shared the 138,000-acre holdings of Count Strudz at Piatra-Neamt, while 38,000 acres of woodland at Bacau were parceled out.

"Unused farm machinery also was divided by the peasants and immediately put to work," Tass said.

German Chemical Plant Uncovered In Pomerania

Moscow, March 8 (AP)—A secret source of German productive power was discovered by Russian correspondents in Pomerania when the Red Army came upon the ruins of a chemical factory where 10,000 foreign workers once were employed.

Izvestia said today the factory was located beside a railroad "which was not shown on any map and was adjacent to an ancient forest."

"A week before we came," the dispatch said, "the Germans blew up the main part of the plant and evacuated a majority of the workers."

TRADE AGREEMENT SIGNED BY SWISS

BERN, March 8 — (AP) Switzerland concluded trade agreements with the United States, Great Britain and France today in which she undertook to prevent concealment of Nazi loot here in return for Allied promises of assistance in obtaining food and raw materials.

Signing of the agreements this morning ended one phase of negotiations begun Feb. 12. The Swiss want—and insist they must have—American food shipped through Lisbon and French ports; the Allies want to trace Nazi bank accounts and hidden art treasures from lands formerly occupied by the Germans.

The Allies feel that such Nazi assets may form the basis for financing of a possible future war.

Lisbon Denies Coup Report

Lisbon, March 8 (AP)—Reports carried by the Paris radio of an attempted coup against Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar were declared here today to be completely unfounded. The situation here was quiet and entirely normal.

Belgian Senate Refuses To Fight Black Market

Brussels, March 8 (AP)—The Belgian Senate refused today to give the Government special powers to combat black market and profiteering operations and Premier Achille van Acker, in a broadcast to the people, accused his opposition of ruining the Government's campaign against those activities.

"The situation of our country remains grave," van Acker said. "Belgium wants to be governed and it shall be. For that the Government needs special powers. It will not fail in its task, knowing that it is the country's will."

His assertion was considered an indication that he would propose an even stronger bill.

U-Boat Sinks Swedish Boat

Stockholm, March 8 (AP)—The Swedish fishing boat Vaestkust was rammed and sunk by a German U-boat early today near the island of Smoegen north of Gothenburg, Swedish dispatches reported. The six-man crew was rescued by other fisherman with assistance from the submarine.

Berlin Reported Short Of Medical Facilities

Stockholm, March 8 (AP)—Berlin is suffering from a shortage of doctors, nurses, medicines and hospitals, and the German capital is daily being converted more and more into a fortress, a responsible neutral informant said today.

An informant, who has just arrived here from Berlin, gave this description of Berlin's developing defenses:

Perhaps 500,000 Germans and foreigners, especially Poles, Italians and prisoners of war, are converting the sprawling, ruined capital into a fortress under the direction of army engineers.

A tour of the city gives the impression that at least 80 per cent of the street corners are fortified, with machine guns and anti-tank guns controlling the approaches.

Bombs dropped by Allied planes in their regular raids frequently detonate mined areas.

REDS SALUTE WOMEN

Moscow, March 8 (A. P.).—The Soviet Union observed international women's day by paying tribute today to Russian women for their tremendous contributions to the war effort. It is doubtful if anywhere in the world have women played greater part in the war than they have in Russia. They drive tanks in the thickest fighting, they fly bombers over the toughest targets, and they load bombs on icy airfields. They build and repair planes; they load by hand thousands of tons of cargo, and man machine guns on the front. They even ride horses in cavalry units.

The percentage of women on collective and State farms runs from 85 to 90 per cent. Their percentage in factories is from 60 to 85 per cent. It is about 70 per cent in communications, such as railways and motor transport.

Both Allied and Swiss spokesmen emphasized their satisfaction over the discussions and the agreements. The Allied delegates especially said they were pleased because the agreements set a precedent which Spain and Portugal will be asked to follow.

The agreements reached do not end the discussions. The Swiss have frozen Nazi bank accounts and credits which they considered it possible to do under neutrality, but they have not given the Allies access to names and details of these accounts which the Allies still are seeking.

The Allies promised with Allied military approval to open transport, including some facilities at the French Mediterranean port of Toulon. Military requirements still will put a limit on this transport, however.

The chief American delegate, Laughlin Currie, who also was leader of the negotiations for the Allies, made it clear that Switzerland might expect increasing difficulties in obtaining supplies because of the Allies' military needs.

He told the Swiss, however, that to "a foreigner coming to your country through devastated Europe there appears to be a superabundance of goods in Bern shops."

Chinese Troops Press Attack On Suichwan

Chungking, March 8 (AP)—The high command said tonight that Chinese troops were pressing an attack on Suichwan, once one of the United States 14th Air Force's major forward bases east of Japan's "west wall."

Other troops, trying to breach the Jap-held Canton-Hankow railroad, maintained pressure against the enemy at Pingshek, 165 miles north of Canton and the near-by city of Ichang, the command reported. But Japanese troops were striking back about 10 miles southwest of this area and fighting was in progress.

A communiqué by the 14th Air Force, recapitulating activities during February, reported that despite continued adverse weather a total of 78 enemy planes were destroyed, five probably destroyed, and 98 damaged. Thirteen enemy vessels with a total of 30,400 tons were sunk, and five ships totaling 11,100 tons probably sunk.

GAINS BY CHINESE

Chungking, March 8 (A. P.).—Chinese troops have closed in on Pingshek, 165 miles north of Canton, in attacks designed to break the Japanese hold on the Canton-Hankow railroad.

The Chungking radio was quoted by FCC as saying four strongpoints around the Japanese-held town of Hochih in northwest Kwangsi province were captured yesterday by Chinese troops in renewed fighting along the Kweichow-Kwangsi communications corridor in south China.

EMPIRE FORCE IN MANDALAY

British And Indian Troops Enter Suburbs, Fall Imminent

London, Friday, March 9 (AP). An all-India radio report heard in London early today said that Indian troops of the British forces in Burma had captured the main railway station in Mandalay.

Calcutta, March 8 (AP)—British and Indian troops hammered into the northern suburbs of Mandalay today after a 14-mile night advance through disintegrating Japanese resistance and the fall of Burma's second city was believed here to be imminent.

The final drive into the Obo suburb, about a mile from the main part of the big river port, was made from the town of Madaya, on the east bank of the Irrawaddy River above Mandalay, by troops of the 19th Division, who established a bridgehead at Singu last month.

Many Japanese were bypassed in the spectacular night thrust to be mopped up at leisure.

Thousands Of Foe Trapped

Capture of Mandalay, a city of 135,000 population, is expected to seal off additional thousands of enemy troops, whose retreat routes have been virtually severed by a British drive to the Meiktila area to the south, between Mandalay and Rangoon.

The Burma picture was the brightest for the Allies since the Japanese invaded the country in the Spring of 1942. Unless the enemy is reinforced strongly and quickly, the weight of odds against him makes it certain he will be driven from Burma in the not distant future.

"There are 50,000 Japanese in the central Burma pocket waiting to be killed," it was declared tonight at headquarters of the Southeast Asia command.

City Is Badly Wrecked

As Maj. Gen. T. W. Rees, of Wales, 5 foot 4 inch commander of the 19th Division, led his men on the double-march into Mandalay, it was predicted that the Japanese garrison probably would retire to high ground dominating the city on the east.

Sections of Mandalay have been badly torn by Allied bombers and its railways have been smashed into uselessness. The attacking Allied troops apparently had famous Fort Dufferin as their first objective.

To the northeast of Mandalay Chinese forces drove 2 miles and occupied New Lashio and its railway station, a day after their seizure of Old Lashio. Thus in six weeks after opening of the Ledo road from India into China, the remaining 105 miles of the old Burma road down to Lashio, its Burma terminus, had been opened.

Opens Silver, Lead Supplies

As an immediate reward from the Chinese smash down to Lashio the Allies now will be able to transport silver and lead from the rich Bawdwin mines, 25 miles north of Lashio, to India and China. Lashio is the northern terminus of the main Burma railroad from Rangoon.

"Killing Japanese now is our prime objective in Central Burma," said a top British officer.

More than 3,000 Japanese bodies have been counted by the British and Indian column which plunged from the Pagan bridgehead southwest of Mandalay to the Meiktila area. In one area 100 by 1,200 yards square at Meiktila, there were 879 dead Japanese. More than 6,000 enemy troops have been killed since the campaign to clear the Burma west coast began in November.

Jap Communications Cut

Key Japanese communications north and south now have been severed, and the enemy's tenuous alternate routes are under continual hammering from the air. Scores of Japanese supply dumps all over Burma have been blown up in recent weeks and virtually every bridge on road and rail lines has been knocked out repeatedly, despite enemy efforts to make repairs.

Front advices say the Japanese forces remaining north or Mandalay are breaking up into isolated groups, apparently without a central command.

The enemy's confusion was highlighted by failure to fight on the Chaungmagyi River line, the best natural barrier before Mandalay.

British Troops In Mandalay Suburbs

Calcutta, March 8 (AP)—Spearheads of the British 19th Division plunged into the northern suburbs of Mandalay today, and official estimates at Allied headquarters left the impression that the fall of Burma's second city was imminent.

In their 14-mile dash southward from Madaya to Mandalay Indian troops of the British division bypassed a considerable number of Japanese. These enemy groups appear dazed and bewildered and are scheduled for later elimination.

New Lashio Taken

Chinese troops 130 miles northeast of Mandalay smashed two miles through Japanese defenses and occupied New Lashio and its railway station, establishing Allied control of the entire Burma Road from Lashio to Kunming. The Chinese had captured Old Lashio yesterday.

Enemy battle plans apparently

have been disorganized by the British dash across the Irrawaddy River valley to the Meiktila area, an operation which has threatened the Japanese rear communications.

Unless the Japanese can bring in reinforcements immediately, it is believed here they may be ousted from Burma in the not too distant future. Supplying troops and reinforcements is a major Japanese headache, since their key north-south communications now are severed and tenuous alternate routes are under continual hammering by air.

AMERICANS STRIDE IN LUZON CAMPAIGN

33d Division Drives 12 Miles North on West Coast as 11th Airborne Gains in South

RECORD BOMBING IS MADE

Thousand Tons Are Dropped on Japanese Shimbu Line to the East of Manila

MANILA, Friday, March 9 (AP)—American forces of the Thirty-third Division drove twelve miles north along the west coast of Luzon to seize the town of Aringay, due west of the Philippine summer capital of Baguio, while United States troops on Luzon's south coast advanced thirteen miles east of Balayan Bay to capture Lemery.

East of Baguio the Twenty-fifth Division was probing northward from Digdig and Carranglan toward Balete Pass, gateway to the extensive Cagayan Valley of northern Luzon. The bulk of the remaining enemy garrison is believed to be in this area.

Capture of Lemery gave the Americans a firm foothold on the southern shores of Luzon, just thirty miles across the vital Verde Island passage from American-held Mindoro Island.

The Eleventh Airborne Division and the 158th Regiment of the Eighth Army reached Balayan Bay on Tuesday. They moved eastward along the fringe of the bay on a good highway.

East of Manila, in the bitterly contested Marikina watershed area, the First Cavalry and Sixth Infantry Divisions maintained active patrolling of the front and continued steady pressure on the flanks of the Shimbu Line, stretching along the mountains from Antipolo to Wawa.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced in his communiqué today that bombers on successive days hit Japanese defenses along the line with more than 1,000 tons of bombs. This was the heaviest supporting action of any ground campaign in the Southwest Pacific.

Heavy bombers sank or damaged eleven freighters in wide sweeps of the China Sea and areas around the Philippines. One was a 10,000-ton tanker, sunk off Formosa. Among ground targets pounded were airdromes on Formosa and Mindanao, southernmost of the Philippines.

General MacArthur announced that Australian forces in an amphibious operation had landed without opposition on Saposa Island, at the southern entrance to Matchin Bay, off the northwestern coast of Bougainville.

Units of the 38th and 43d divisions were completing the combing of the Zambales Mountains in western Luzon, while troops of the 1st Corps continued to press slowly forward into the mountains of the north.

American planes, which MacArthus reported were active over "all Luzon sectors," also struck at Japanese positions on the Philippine Islands of Cebu, Panay, Bohol and Negros. One plane was lost.

LUZON AMERICANS ON SOUTH SHORE

BERGEZ

Manila, March 8 (A. P.).—American troops were on the southern shores of Luzon for the first time today as other troops, east of Manila, inched forward against Jap positions softened by the heaviest air strikes thus far used in support of ground action in the Southwest Pacific.

While American bombers sweeping China Sea shipping sank or damaged two warships and sixteen freighters, Eleventh Airborne Division and 158th Infantry Regiment units penetrated to the south coast of Luzon Tuesday to capture Balayan and Calatagan at Balayan Bay. They met only scattered resistance.

In the bitterly contested Marikina watershed area east of Manila, heavy bombers, attack planes and dive bombers dropped more than 900 tons of explosives on the elaborate Jap intrenchments which have held the Americans virtually stalemated for weeks. Despite this record attack, the American Ground Forces found the going tough along this mountainous Shimbu Line between Antipolo and Wawa.

Gen. MacArthur said in his communique today that American counterfire at the Shimbu Line had "noticeably reduced the enemy's artillery and rocket barrages." He reported nineteen Jap cave strong points had been sealed off.

Heavy bombers sank or severely damaged nine ships in Formosa Strait and sank another small freighter and left still another afire in nearby waters. A destroyer was sunk southwest of Hongkong, where three freighters and three freighter-transports were sunk or badly damaged. Rail facilities on Formosa itself were shot up by fighters.

New Filipino Cabinet Sworn In By Osmena

Manila, March 8 (AP)—President Sergio Osmena today administered the oath of office to the new Philippine Commonwealth Cabinet, composed of men who had refused stanchly any step of collaboration with the Japanese.

The ceremony was at Malacanan Palace, where the restored Commonwealth Government is starting to function.

Several of the new Cabinet members were guerrilla leaders during the Japanese occupation. One, Tomas Caoili, named Secretary of National Defense, is engaged now in fighting the Japanese on Mindanao and was unable to be present.

GEN. [illegible]JDGE WOUNDED BY JAPANESE GRENADE

MANILA, Friday, March 9 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, commander of the hard-hitting First Cavalry Division, was wounded severely Feb. 28 by a Japanese grenade, but the medical staff reported today his recovery was certain.

General Mudge's home is Fellsmere, Fla. His wife lives in San Diego.

The General was wounded on the battle line northeast of Manila, while looking for a dugout that the Army engineers had blasted. A Japanese, who had been left for dead, tossed a grenade. Shrapnel wounded General Mudge in the abdomen.

General Mudge has been with the cavalry since he left West Point in 1920. The First Cavalry Division, a veteran outfit, took Tacloban on Leyte and was the first to enter Manila.

The first report of his wounding was permitted today coincident with announcement that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had awarded him the Distinguished Service Cross for the Luzon campaign.

General Mudge's cavalrymen composed the motorized column that raced down the east side of the central Luzon plain to free the 3,700 internees at the Santo Tomas prison camp.

General Mudge long has been known as a "front line" general. He was awarded the Silver Star on Leyte for actively directing his troops on an isolated mountain front when the Japanese attacked while he was on an inspection tour.

He also holds the Legion of Merit and the Bronze Star.

Mudge's jeep driver was injured on a morning visit to the front.

Later in the day, the cavalry general returned to the same section again with a new driver.

During the Admiralty islands campaign last year, Mudge commanded the Second brigade of the First Cavalry division. When Maj. Gen. Ennis P. Swift was taken from the First Cavalry to command the First corps, Mudge was promoted from Brigadier general to major general and given command of the division.

Shell Uncovers Great Fortune Japs Buried

With the U.S. 33d Division, Philippines [AP—Delayed]—A $500,000 treasure in silver coins, apparently buried by Japanese after looting Philippine banks, was uncovered by an exploding artillery shell north of Rosario.

It was discovered by an army scout, Pfc. Lewis Zerillo, Astoria, Long Island, N.Y., who said:

"There I stood, knee deep in money."

Ten Filipinos worked two days collecting the coins, most of them Philippine, but some American and Chinese, and shovelling them into trucks. Some of the metal was hard to handle. The heat of the artillery blast had fused coins into chunks the size of a man's head.

[This was the second reported discovery of loot buried by the Japanese and uncovered by American artillery shell fire. Another large sum was found in the 25th Infantry Division's area north of Rizal.]

Philippine Valor Medal To MacArthur

Manila, March 8 (AP)—The Philippine Government will present Gen. Douglas MacArthur the Medal of Valor Saturday. The award is the highest the Commonwealth Government can bestow.

Brig. Gen. Carlos Romulo said the medal was created twelve years ago but MacArthur will be the first to receive it.

Success On Iwo Jima Never Doubted: Turner

By Morrie Landsberg

Aboard United States Expeditionary Force Flagship, Iwo Jima, March 8 [AP—Via Navy Radio]—Vice Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner, the Pacific's veteran invasion boss, said today that despite unexpected Japanese resistance there was never a chance that the Marines would fail on Iwo Jima.

The 61-year-old over-all commander of the Iwo amphibious force said the Marine commanders on the island were cheerful and added: "They feel as I do—that it won't be long before the thing is over." He declined to give a more definite estimate.

Asked if the Marines were ever in danger of losing their beachheads, Turner vigorously replied: "Not a chance—not a chance!"

Heavily Fortified

He said the small island fortress was even more heavily fortified by the Japanese than the American command expected. And the enemy defenses were "tremendously better organized" than on other islands taken in the campaigns directed by Turner, who started the amphibious business at Guadalcanal.

Turner (referred to now as "that man Turner" by Tokyo radio) told correspondents that "the Japs didn't have much chance to show their best fighting ability on Iwo because they were pinned down by our gunfire. Our troops kept at them every move."

Turner went ashore on Iwo today. He said, "Airfield developments are going along well," adding:

"Iwo is going to be a very valuable place for us. I am favorably impressed with the island as an airbase. It is better than I had expected it to be, from looking at photographs and looking at it from this ship."

Turner said he was particularly pleased by the flexibility of the Marines' beachhead thrusts, which permited shifts in points of attack. This permitted the concentration of landings on southern beaches after operations on more northern beaches were curtailed by heavy Japanese fire.

Jap Defenses Praised

"But there were no safe places to land anywhere," he added with emphasis.

Discussing the Japanese defenses, he declared they were not only better organized than any other islands taken by Americans but the smallness of Iwo enabled concentration of fire.

"These defenses," Turner said, "were really built, many of them for a long time. The Japs have a good sense of ground positions and and expectations that this island would be well organized was more than fulfilled. There were more pillboxes than expected and more heav yguns—but the general nature of it we knew pretty well from photographs."

Tanks Repel Jap Blow On Iwo

LAND

Aboard Admiral Turner's Flagship off Iwo Jima, March 8 [Via Navy Radio—AP]—Marine infantrymen compressed Japanese into a narrow crescent on northern Iwo today in the final stages of the long, bloody campaign to conquer this air stepping stone to Tokyo.

Softened up by the shattering artillery bombardment the day before, enemy troops yielded on all fronts yesterday. In the northern central sector the Japanese were forced to withdraw into their caves at times as they sought to throw back the oncoming 3d Division in hand-to-hand combat.

Make Suicidal Charge

A Yank tank battalion reported Japanese made a suicidal charge on armored vehicles operating with the 3d Division, attacking suddenly with explosive charges mounted on the ends of long poles. Tankmen said it failed completely.

No tanks were damaged, they reported, and "a considerable number" of Japanese were killed.

The three Leatherneck divisions threatened to split the remaining enemy force of several thousand men by a co-ordinated drive in an effort to bring the eighteen-day-old operation to a successful conclusion.

Advances 500 Yards

The 5th Division, on the northwest side of the island, advanced 500 yards on the left flank, the 3d Division gained equal yardage in the center, threatening to isolate the Japanese along the northeast coast. Units of the 3d already command dominating heights of the northeastern coastal area where their line swings down from the north-central front.

The Japanese suffered a serious setback when the 3d Division captured the island's third hill 362. This one, east of Motoyama town, was the core of enemy opposition on the right flank.

The 4th Division picked up 100 to 200 yards on the east.

Slow Progress Expected

Where the final showdown will occur remains to be shown by subsequent fighting. Any Yank advance from now on is expected to be extremely slow because of the necessity of cleaning out every pillbox and cave as the troops move along.

The Japanese blew up one of their own ammunition dumps in the north-central sector as Americans threatened it.

A reconnaissance company found 30 to 40 Japanese dead in the surf at the base of Mount Suribachi on the island's southern tip. The patrol did not report whether the Japanese had flung themselves to death from the cliffs of the volcanic mountain, as a number of their companions had done previously.

Nothing To Do, Iwo Civil Affairs Officer Says

With the Marines on Iwo Jima, March 8 [AP—Via Navy Radio]—That man wandering gloomily around looking for something with absolutely no chance of finding it is the American senior civil affairs officer for Iwo Jima.

The rub is that the affairs here are strictly military and if there are any civil affairs to administer they've escaped the notice of Navy Lieutenant E. M. Duerbeck, of Washington.

Lieutenant Duerbeck brought along office equipment and a staff of two officers and eight enlisted men, as well as considerable clothing and other necessities for the hypothetical civilians.

"I guess I came along just for the ride," he said. "In 1941 there were 200 civilians here and we had no way of knowing whether any of them remained. Apparently the Japanese evacuated them before the show started."

Lieut. Col. Vandegrift Wounded On Iwo Jima

With 5th Marine Division, Iwo Jima, Feb. 26 [AP—Delayed]—Lieut. Col. A. A. Vandegrift, Jr., son of the commandant of the Marine Corps, was wounded slightly Saturday while leading his battalion against Japanese fortifications on the northern end of this island.

Vandegrift commands the 3d Battalion, 24th Regiment, 4th Division, which was sweeping up the center of the island.

He has been evacuated for treatment aboard ship of what was described as flesh wounds in the thigh.

Congressional Medal Winner Is Killed

FARO

With Fifth Marine Division, Iwo Jima, Feb. 21 [AP — Delayed]—Sergt. John Basilone, first enlisted Marine to win the Congressional Medal in this war, was killed by Japanese artillery fire on the beach on the first day of the battle for Iwo.

Basilone, 27-year-old hero of Guadalcanal from Raritan, N.J., was leading his machine-gun platoon through a heavy artillery barrage when he was felled on the black sands. He and several of his men were caught by the Japanese fire soon after they hit the beach in the opening assault.

Although Basilone could have stayed in the United States after the Guadalcanal campaign, he had volunteered for another tour of overseas duty which ended in his death. Men of his platoon praised his aggressive courage.

Wanted to Be Overseas.

Washington, March 8 (A.—In a delayed dispatch received here today, Staff Sergt. Henry Giniger of 609 Rutland Road, Brooklyn, Marine Corps combat correspondent on Iwo, said that Sergt. Basilone was wounded fatally a few hours after he had hit the beach.

Known as Manila John on account of his service with the Army in the Philippines before joining the Marine Corps, Sergt. Basilone was decorated in January, 1943, for his gallantry in the fighting at Lunga on Guadalcanal on October 24 and 25, 1942.

Sergt. Giniger added in his dispatch that Sergt. Basilone had said he wanted to spend the rest of the war overseas.

His Medal of Honor citation said that he contributed "in a large measure to the virtual annihilation of a Japanese regiment" on Guadalcanal by battling his way through the enemy lines to get ammunition for his isolated machine-gunners. Firing a machine-gun and a pistol, for three days and nights without sleep or food, he piled up thirty - eight Japanese bodies in front of his own emplacement as the Japs sought in vain to knock his machine-gun out.

Toured U. S. in Bond Drives.

After Guadalcanal he returned to the United States and was received by the people of Raritan and nearby Somerville with one of the largest parades in the history of those two boroughs. After the parade his townspeople presented him with $5,000 worth of War Bonds. He turned down a chance for officers' training, saying that he was just a plain soldier and wanted to get back into the fight.

For a little while, then, he spoke on War Bond tours. But this palled on him, and he said he felt like a museum piece. His great ambition, he confessed was to be present at the recapture of Manila.

"I kept thinking," he said, "of how awful it would be if some Marines made a landing on Dewey Boulevard and Manila John Basilone wasn't among them."

He asked to be transferred back overseas, and when he was assigned to a combat outfit, he said he felt like kissing the heavy machine - guns.

Born in Buffalo, N. Y., Sergt. Basilone served as a private in the Army from 1934 to 1937, and enlisted in the Marine Corps on July 11, 1940. Last July he married Sergt Lena Riggi of Portland, Ore., a member of the Marine corps Women's Reserve, now stationed in California. He also leaves nine brothers and sisters, in addition to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Basilone, who live atthe Raritan address. His father, a native of Naples, Italy, is a tailor in Somerville.

His Parents Notified.

An official telegram announcing Sergt. Basilone's death was received today by his parents.

They had heard previously that something had happened to their son.

Today's telegram was received by Mr. Basilone at his place of employment in Somerville. He telephoned his home in Raritan, where the call was answered by his wife's sister-in-law, who listened for a moment and then exclaimed: "Johnny?"

When she heard the answer she began to cry. She said nothing, but hung up the receiver, and Mrs. Basilone, realizing what the message was, began to weep hysterically. A physician was called to attend her.

Two brothers of Sergt. Basilone are now in combat areas. Corporal Alhponse Basilone is serving with Gen. Patton's Third Army in Germany, and Marine Pfc. George Basilone is believed to be on Iwo. In a letter, dated February 4 aboard ship, John and George said they were headed for action together. It added that they had been together in Honolulu, where they visited John Fox, their former teacher at Washington School, Raritan, who is now teaching in Honolulu.

There was a constant stream of relatives and friends at the Basilone home this afternoon. Mayor James J. del Monte of Raritan, summoned home by his wife from his work in New York, called at the house. The Rev. Amedeo Russo, pastor of St. Ann's Catholic Church, was another who offered condolences.

JAP RESISTANCE FIERCE

Fifth Division Shoots Enveloping Arm Up Northwest Shore.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Friday, March 9—(AP) Front line dispatches disclosed today that the Third Marine division has reached the cliff top overlooking the northeast beaches of Iwo and the Fifth Marine division has shot an enveloping arm 1,000 yards up the northwest shore.

The disclosures followed a Navy communique announcing only small gains Thursday on the third day of an all-out push so bitterly contested that the Marines had to call on tanks to operate in unfavorable terrain as support.

Approach Iwo Beach

The front line dispatches amplified these gains, placing Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine's Third division at the edge of cliffs only 300 yards from the beach. The cliffs are honeycombed with dugouts in which machineguns and possibly heavier weapons bar the precipitous path down to the surf.

The place where the Third has completed the drive across the plateau is 1,500 yards southeastwardly down the coast from Kitano point, northernmost part of Iwo.

It also was disclosed that Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey's hard fighting Fifth Marine division thrust up the northwest coast 1,000 yards Wednesday and Thursday.

(The exact spot reached by Rockey's men was not reported, but a few days ago the Fifth was in a straight line with Third division Marines who captured a 362-foot hill. An advance of 1,000 yards on the coast opposite that promontory would put the Fifth less than 2,000 yards from the extreme north tip of Iwo).

Meet Fierce Resistance

Indicative of the tough fight being encountered by the Fourth Marine division of Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates on the east side, its position still is a [illegible]ed only a short distance nort[illegible] the original landing beaches, [illegible] Feb. 19.

Inland, however, the Fourth has driven some salients up to 300 yards or more.

Today's communique on the stiff battle said the three Leatherneck divisions, "attacking resolutely," "all advanced" against a foe "defending every prepared position desperately."

The tanks lumbered over extremely difficult terrain to help the Devildogs get through the maze of enemy defenses.

Carrier planes poured bombs on the Nipponese and warships of the U. S. Fifth fleet raked the positions with shellfire.

The Third, Fourth and Fifth Marine divisions have spotty advances of around a half mile to show for three straight days of intense hand-to-hand combat.

Drive Began Tuesday

The drive began Tuesday after a much-needed day of rest in a bitter, bloody campaign which entered its 15th day today.

In the air, neutralization attacks were dealt the Bonins, north of Iwo, and raids were made in the Palaus and on Wake island, today's communique announced.

The core of enemy opposition on the right flank was wiped out Wednesday by the Third Marine division's capture of another hill 362. This one, the third of that height to be seized, is east of the town of Motoyama.

Below this position the Fourth Marine division picked up 100 to 200 yards in its northward drive which is clearing the coastline.

Advances of about 500 yards were scored Wednesday in the center of the line by the Third division and on the left by the Fifth Marine division. The gains were made in the face of intense small arms and machinegun fire.

AP War Correspondent Morrie Landsberg reported that a tank battalion fighting with the Third division repelled a suicidal charge made against armored vehicles by Japanese carrying long poles on which explosives were mounted. Not a single tank was damaged but many enemy soldiers were killed.

Vice Adm. Richmond K. Turner, over-all amphibious commander, visited the Volcanic island Thursday, inspected its shattered defenses, took note of its possibilities and chatted with Marine commanders.

MARINES FIGHT WAY TO IWO'S NORTH RIM

Reach Cliff Top Overlooking Northeast Shore as Others Stab Up Northwest Coast

Tanks Go Into Action

Today's communiqué on the stiff battle said the three leatherneck divisions, "attacking resolutely," all advanced against a foe "defending every prepared position desperately."

The tanks lumbered over extremely difficult terrain to help the Devil Dogs get through the maze of enemy defenses.

Carrier planes poured bombs on the Japanese and warships of the United States Fifth Fleet raked the positions with shellfire.

The drive began Tuesday after a much-needed day of rest in a bitter, bloody campaign that entered its nineteenth day today.

In the air neutralization attacks were dealt in the Bonins, north of Iwo and raids were made in the Palaus and on Wake Island, today's communiqué announced.

Vice Admiral Richmond K. Turner, over-all amphibious commander, visited the volcanic island Thursday, inspected its shattered defenses, took note of its possibilities and chatted with marine commanders.

"They feel as I do—that it won't be long before this thing is over," he said.

Brazil Aids Russia But Denies Recognition

SAO PAULO, Brazil—(AP) The Brazilian Red Cross here recently completed packing some 10,000 pieces of clothing to be sent to Russian relief. The twenty-two crates, containing men's, women's and children's clothing of all kinds, will be sent via the United States. Brazil, although a fighting ally, does not recognize Russia.

U.S. Wants 20,000 Jamaicans For Farms

Kingston, Jamaica, March 8 (AP). Herbert MacDonald, chief liaison officer in Washington for the Jamaica Government, said here that the United States wants more than 20,000 Jamaicans this year to work on American farms and in industrial plants.

He said 19,000 Jamaicans who went to the United States last year established a creditable record.

INTER-AMERICAN CONFERENCE ENDS

MEXICO CITY, March 8—(AP) Delegates to the Inter-American conference signed a blueprint for a new era in this hemisphere tonight. Then they started home, preparing to extend their system for peace and prosperity to the rest of the world at San Francisco.

The 16-day meeting here closed with traditional pomp and ceremony, first in a plenary session in Mexico's gilt and marble chamber of deputies, then at beautiful Chapultepec Castle, where delegates signed the final act containing 59 resolutions.

The conference reached historic decisions on its outstanding problems in an aura of friendliness which provided a startling contrast to the tension in continental relations a few months ago. Nevertheless, prime questions were left over for the San Francisco meeting where, some delegates said, the real test of decisions made here will take place.

The Mexico conference has put a problem to the United Nations at San Francisco which may cause far more strain in that meeting than appeared here. It stems from the Act of Chapultepec, guaranteeing American frontiers with the armed might of the American nations.

MAR 9 - 1945

No. 24 - 23725

It remains for the San Francisco conference to decide how far this hemisphere can go in imposing peace, without the express direction of the World Security council. Main point of conflict is the fear that if a virtually autonomous system is created in the Americas, Russia and Britain may seek the right for independent action in their part of the world.

Indications here were that the United States may ask special conditions to allow the western hemisphere to handle its family problems, since it has never threatened world peace. There is a division of opinion among U. S. delegates here on this point.

Another open question is how far the Latin American nations, with very definite ideas about the Dumbarton Oaks plan, will get in their efforts to change the proposals for a world peace agency.

The United States carefully sidestepped supporting their program for revisions here, which pound at expansion of the security council to include more Latin Americans, increased powers for the assembly, and territorial guarantees similar to the Act of Chapultepec.

PARLEY'S 6 BIG POINTS GIVEN

Stettinius Calls Hemisphere Talks At Mexico City Success

Mexico City, March 8 (AP)—Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., United States Secretary of State, declared tonight that the inter-American agreements just completed here will "contribute much" to the United Nations conference at San Francisco.

He asserted also that "under the resolutions adopted here, no Axis leader, official or agent who is guilty of crimes against law and civilization in this war will be able to escape punishment by finding refuge in this hemisphere."

Six Points Of Agreement

At the close of the conference Stettinius in a statement summed up its accomplishments by listing six points of agreement which he described as "of outstanding significance":

1. Reaffirmation of wartime collaboration in the "common struggle against the Axis" together with measures to stamp out Nazism in this hemisphere and to deny refuge to Axis war criminals.

2. Indorsement by the twenty American republics which participated here of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals "as a basis of the charter for the world organization" which is expected to be created at San Francisco in the meeting starting April 25.

3. Provision in the Act of Chapultepec for "machinery for united action by the American states in the face of aggression or the threat of aggression whether from within or without this hemisphere."

4. Adoption of "sweeping and specific measures toward strengthening and reorganizing the inter-American system and preparing it for whatever new responsibilities it may assume within the world organization."

5. Rededication of the American nations "to American principles of humanity and to raising the standards of living of our peoples, so that all men and women in these republics may live decently in peace, in liberty and in security."

6. Adoption of a resolution calling upon Argentina "to unite with us in our common struggle against the aggressors and so to guide its policies that it may become eligible to sign the declaration by United Nations and adhere to the final act of this conference."

Stettinius emphasized throughout his statement that the actions in Mexico City were entirely in line with the proposed security organization to be taken up at San Francisco.

Broadcast By Stettinius

Later in the evening, Stettinius made a radio broadcast summarizing the six points.

"In our agreements here, I believe we have given concrete expression to that spirit of the good neighbor which has long since found acceptance among all the peoples of the Americas," the secretary said.

As he had done in the statement, he projected the work of this gathering forward to the next inter-American meeting scheduled to be held at Bogota in 1946. The conclusions reached here "foreshadow the more complete and perfect organization of the inter-American system" at Bogota, Stettinius said.

Conference Ends

Delegates to the conference signed a blueprint for a new era in this hemisphere tonight and then started home.

The sixteen-day meeting here closed with traditional pomp and ceremony, first in a plenary session in Mexico's Chamber of Deputies, then at Chapultepec Castle, where delegates signed the final act containing 59 resolutions.

Mackenzie King On Way To White House Parley

Ottawa, March 8 (AP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today announced that Canada's delegation to the San Francisco world security conference April 25 will include representatives of the parliamentary opposition here. He left for Washington to discuss details of the conference and other matters with President Roosevelt.

Mr. King declined to state whether the opposition representatives would be confined to the Progressive Conservative party and added that the proper time for a further statement would be when Parliament meets March 19.

The Prime Minister said he did not propose to ask for an extension of the life of the present Parliament beyond April 17.

Mr. King said he was journeying to Washington at the invitation of President Roosevelt and planned to stay at the White House Friday night and part of Saturday.

ADM. NIMITZ HINTS AT U.S. LANDINGS ON CHINA COAST

WASHINGTON, March 8 — (AP) Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, forecasting the final assault on Japan as one of overwhelming might, said today "it may well be" that some of the now-secret take off spots will be in China.

The U. S. commander of the Pacific ocean areas popped up in Washington at a time when other important figures of the war against Japan were circulating in the capital.

But at a news conference he discounted thoughts that there might be a direct connection. He shied away from the idea that a stride toward Tokyo via the Chinese mainland may be just around the corner.

Says Navy Strong

"The Navy is strong enough to go to any point in the Pacific it wants to go," he said.

"Where?" he was asked.

With a grin, the pink cheeked, blue-eyed fleet admiral replied: "The Japanese would like the answer to that very question. They'll learn in due course."

More than 100 reporters packed around him in a paneled conference room, where he sat with Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and other officers.

One asked directly whether there was any connection between his arrival here and the presence in Washington of General Joe Stilwell, Admiral William F. Halsey, Lieut. Gen. A. C. Wedemeyer, chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, ambassador to China.

"I think not," said Nimitz.

He said he arrived Sunday night, coming for one of his periodic conferences with Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the Fleet.

Reporters pressed for comment on the advantages of a landing in China. Nimitz said:

"In planning the final assault on the empire, we need more than one position. We need a number of positions. It may well be that some of these position will be in China."

Mindful that Nimitz is in command of the Pacific ocean areas and that General Douglas MacArthur is commander in the southwest Pacific, a reporter inquired in what zone the Japanese home islands lie.

"The Japanese islands are in the Pacific ocean area," Nimitz said. "But they are large land masses and conduct of operations in large land masses is properly a function of the army."

Sees Big Job Ahead

Emphasizing that "we still have a very big job before us," Nimitz said he did not believe "much over 10 per cent, if that much, of the Japanese army has been committed in the various island operations to date."

Other Nimitz statements, volunteered or brought out by questions:

"Russian bases would be useful to us.

"I do not believe there have been any changes in plans for the employment of the British Pacific fleet.

"I am not aware of any such considerations. (Political considerations conceivably blocking use of British ships against Japan.)

"We knew when we went to Iwo Jima it would be a tough nut to crack. The very toughness makes clear the importance the Japanese placed on that position.

"The pattern of resistance on Saipan, where there was a considerable number of civilians, and on Iwo, where I believe there were no civilians, may be anticipated in the Japanese homeland. I believe the civilian population will participate fanatically with troops in defense of their homeland.

"We would welcome an attempt at interference (by the remainder of the Japanese fleet.)

"Japanese shipping has been reduced to the point where their capacity to engage in overseas operations has almost reached the vanishing point.

"The Japanese have been able to manufacture airplanes somewhat faster than we have been able to destroy them—at least until recently."

"We have always gone in great force and intend to continue."

REVISED LABOR MEASURE IS SENT BACK TO HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP) The Senate sent a completely remodeled manpower control bill back to the House today, with all direct penalties aimed at balking employers rather than employes.

Jammed in the Senate two full weeks, the substitute bill drawn by the Senate Military committee was blasted loose late today by a 63 to 16 roll call vote. Thirty-nine Democrats, 23 Republicans and a progressive voted for the measure, seven Democrats and nine Republicans against.

The House is expected to refuse to take the Senate substitute, sending the legislation to conference with instructions to hold out for the work-or-jail bill the representatives approved Feb. 1.

The outcome there is doubtful. Senate Majority Leader Barkley has said repeatedly that the conference committee will write the final version of the bill.

Shortly before the final vote, the Senate reversed a decision taken Tuesday and wrote back into the bill a penalty of a year in jail or $10,000 fine for employers convicted of violating employment ceilings which the War Manpower Commission chairman would be authorized to establish for any and every place of business in the nation.

The vote in favor of the penalty today was 40 to 36. Tuesday a similar clause was knocked out, 44 to 35. A significant and contributing factor in the reversal was a heavy switch of Republican votes. Twenty-three Republicans voted Tuesday to remove the penalty; only nine were recorded today against putting them back in.

The Senate also adopted an amendment by Senator Morse (R-Ore.), a former member of the War Labor board, which would give the director of War Mobilization (James F. Byrnes) authority to set up tribunals for appeal of challenged regulations. The bill had provided that the WMC Chairman (Paul V. McNutt) could set up the appeal boards.

Morse argued that it would be unfair to let "the very man whose regulations may be challenged by a citizen have power to set up a tribunal to determine if the regulation was unjust."

The theories of the Senate and House bill are almost squarely opposed.

The House voted to empower local draft boards to order men from 18 to 45 to take war jobs, or stay on their present jobs if necessary to the war effort. Men who refused to do so would be subject to draft dodging penalties—up to five years imprisonment or $10,000 fine.

The core of the Senate bill is a provision authorizing the WMC chairman to set employment ceilings and to forbid hiring of new workers.

While there is no direct penalty on employes, it has been pointed out that men and women forced out of work by such a ceiling might not be able to get other jobs.

PRESIDENT ENDS VISIT TO HOME

Has Full Schedule on Return From Hyde Park.

Washington, March 8 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt returned today from a four-day visit to his home in Hyde Park, N. Y., and almost immediately went into conference with Democratic congressional leaders.

Those calling at the White House were Vice-President Truman, Speaker Rayburn, Senate Leader Barkley and House Leader McCormack.

The President still wants the best man power control bill he can get as soon as possible, Senator Barkley reported after the conference.

"That's so we can get some men and some power," the Senator added.

A full day of engagements was announced by Jonathan Daniels, administrative assistant, with twelve Rangers who took part in the capture of the Cabanatuan Prison camp in the Philippines being presented to the Chief Executive after the Congressional conference.

The Rangers came with Gen. Joseph Stilwell, chief of the Army Ground Forces.

The President also scheduled a meeting with Major-Gen. Hurley, Ambassador to China, and Lieut.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, American Chief of Staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Admiral Halsey was invited to lunch with the Chief Executive.

Change in Policy.

Announcement that the President had returned from Hyde Park, where he arrived by special train last Sunday morning, marked a change of policy. Rarely since the war began has his return from visits of that sort been made public. When asked the reason for the change today, Mr. Daniels said:

"We felt that where security is not involved, security should not be invoked.

"As we go along through the war we come to a point where experience has shown that, without endangering the President, there can be some relaxation of rules that seemed essential before we had the experience."

Mr. Daniels added, however, that the policy of not announcing presidential trips in advance would be continued.

12 Rangers Who Freed 513 Meet The President

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Twelve officers and men of the 6th Ranger Battalion who helped free 513 American and Allied prisoners from the Cabanatuan stockade on Luzon were presented to President Roosevelt today.

Gen. Joseph Stilwell, chief of the Army Ground Forces, made the introductions. The President was particularly interested in the Philippine ribbon which the men wore for service on Leyte and Luzon. He examined one on the uniform of Capt. Robert W. Prince, of Seattle, and commented it was the first he had seen.

When General Stilwell was asked if the President had made any interesting remarks to the two officers and ten men, he replied:

"You don't have to say anything extra for these fellows."

BELGIAN ENVOY SEES PRESIDENT

Roosevelt Pledges More Supplies for Nation.

Washington, March 8 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt told the new Belgian Ambassador today that every effort consistent with the military situation is being made to expedite the delivery of supplies to Belgium. He gave this assurance when the new envoy, Baron Robert Silvercruys, former Belgian Ambassador to Canada, presented his letters of credence at the White House.

"I know how sorely depleted are the resources of Belgium, which she has so unselfishly pledged to the continuation of the struggle against our common enemy," Mr. Roosevelt said. "Allow me to assure you that every effort consistent with the military situation is being and will continue to be made to facilitate delivery of the supplies so vitally needed for the Belgian people."

The President also received the Italian Ambassador, Alberto Tarchiani, the first envoy from Rome to call at the White House since before the United States and Italy went to war in December, 1941. Mr. Roosevelt and the diplomat exchanged written statements in the traditional ceremony of the formal opening visit and both expressed the hope for even greater friendship and understanding between the American and Italian peoples.

The President said that the United States is confident that "Italy will build at home, and help to build for Europe a political and social organization worthy of the heart and mind of her people."

Ambassador Tarchiani declared: "It is the Italian people's determination to throw, more and more, the full weight of their will and their resources into play in the common struggle for freedom and peace, with the objective of sharing in bringing about a state wherein the principles of justice and security shall have prevailed and brotherhood shall be established for all peace-loving nations."

FORRESTAL COMMENDS ROSENTHAL'S COURAGE

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP) Secretary of Navy Forrestal today called Associated Press Photographer Joe Rosenthal "gallant as the men" whose picture he took as they planted the American flag on Mt. Suribachi.

Telling solicitors for the Washington Red Cross campaign of the Iwo Jima fighting, Forrestal praised correspondents on Iwo for the "extraordinary accuracy and speed" of the invasion coverage and said:

"The gallantry of the newspapermen has been outstanding. For example that unforgettable photograph of the soldiers placing the American flag on Suribachi. I want you to remember that that picture was taken by an Associated Press photographer, a man named Joe Rosenthal. A man just as gallant as the men going up that hill."

Senate Applauds Rhine News

WASHINGTON, [illegible] 8 (AP).—The Senate halted its debate on the man-power bill today to applaud an announcement that American troops had crossed the Rhine. When the Democratic leader, Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, read an Associated Press dispatch on the crossing, Senators broke into applause.

HOUSE SEEKS SHARE IN WRITING OF PEACE

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP) The House opened a serious bid for a share in the writing of peace terms today, ignoring a Senate committee's determination to balk the plan for the war's duration.

The Rules committee ordered two days of general debate on a Constitutional amendment which would erase the Senate's traditional two-thirds vote control over treaties and make future peace pacts subject to ratification by a majority vote of both Houses of Congress.

The Senate Judiciary committee has announced it will not consider any constitutional amendment proposals until the end of the war.

MAR 9 1945

Committee Favors House Vote On Treaties

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The House Rules Committee added its support today to a proposal to give the representatives a voice in treaty ratifications.

It approved for floor consideration a proposed constitutional amendment to eliminate the Senate's present two-thirds vote rule on treaties and making future pacts subject to a majority vote of both branches of Congress. The plan was granted two days of general debate, despite an expression by the Senate Judiciary Committee that it will consider no constitutional amendments until the war ends.

HOUSE BOOSTS DEBT OF U.S.

Passes Bill, 358-4, Raising It To $300,000,000,000

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Legislation boosting the national debt limit to $300,000,000,000 was approved by the House, 358 to 4, today after Democrats and Republicans alike called for an end of "wasteful" spending.

The House beat back, 71 to 26, a Republican supported effort led by Representative Rich (R., Pa.), to hold the debt top at $280,000,000,000. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Only Authorizes Borrowing

No new expenditures are authorized by the measure, which simply authorizes borrowing to cover expenditures otherwise provided for.

Representative Carlson (R., Kan.) sought to impress on the House how much is $300,000,000,000, saying that many dollars put together would make a line 18,000 miles long.

While the actual debt now is $242,500,000,000, the Treasury estimates war costs will boost it to $300,000,000,000 or above by July 1, 1946. The debt, when the United States began preparing for war was about $43,000,000,000.

Must Stop Wasteful Spending

In presenting the new legislation, Chairman Doughton (D., N.C.) of the House Ways and Means Committee declared "promiscuous spending by the Federal Government must stop, if we are to maintain the security of our credit."

The four voting against the bill, all Republicans, were Representatives Rich, of Pennsylvania; Thomas, of New Jersey; Winter, of Kansas, and O'Konski, of Wisconsin.

Jesse Jones' Office in Hotel

Ousted Commerce Secretary's Plans Not Known

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP).—Jesse H. Jones, ousted Secretary of Commerce, has taken two rooms at the Statler Hotel as a temporary office, but what for is not known.

Friends said they doubt he has made any particular plans. In the office are his assistant, Norman Baxter, who left the Commerce Department when Mr. Jones was ousted by President Roosevelt to give the post to former Vice-President Henry A. Wallace, and a secretary.

Mr. Jones, who lives at the Shoreham Hotel, continued to go to his office in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation building—to be occupied henceforth by Fred M. Vinson—until this week. Mr. Baxter said today Mr. Jones took no official actions after being dismissed in January, but made himself available for consultation with R. F. C. officials on matters that Mr. Jones had been handling.

Lend-Lease Extension Okayed

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The House Rules Committee today approved a one-year extension of the Lend-Lease Act which expires June 30. The bill probably will reach the House floor next week.

Temporary U.S. Generals Face V-E Day Demotion

Stimson Explains Procedure for Transfer to Pacific

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP).—Many of America's temporary generals are due for demotions soon, but it's no reflection on their ability.

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, reported this today in a letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn, of Texas, requesting legislation to permit "orderly reduction" of ranks.

Secretary Stimson proposed that the President, for the war's duration and six months thereafter, be permitted to re-appoint officers of temporary major general or higher to lower temporary general officer grades.

"Changes in assignments of general officers are being required with increasing frequency and will reach a maximum during the redeployment and reduction in strength of the Army following the defeat of Germany," Mr. Stimson asserted.

"Under the present system a lieutenant general, for example, who must be stepped down in order to place him in a position in which his capabilities can be utilized to best advantage, must be reduced at one shock to his permanent grade of lieutenant colonel or colonel.

"Under the proposed legislation it would be possible, when necessary, to effect a reduction of only one grade, this making the most effective use of an officer, and to so time the action as to cause a minimum embarrassment to him.

"Thus an officer now serving in the European theater who is to be re-assigned to the Pacific in a lower general officer grade could be given a leave of absence at home in his higher grade and reduced while en route to his Pacific assignment.

"Earlier reduction would be unjust to the individual. Later reduction would be detrimental to his prestige and the efficiency of his new command."

Senator Vandenberg Calls For Representative Rule for Poland

WASHINGTON, March 8—(AP) Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) declared today that the American people will support the Moscow three-nation decisions on a Polish provisional government only if it is "a truly representative coalition."

The Republican delegate to the San Francisco world security conference voiced to the Senate "complete approval" of British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden's warning to the Soviet-backed Lublin regime not to molest supporters of the London Polish government.

Declaring that the American government "should be equally frank about this situation," the Michigan Senator told his colleagues:

"There is no escaping the fact that the treatment accorded Poland—symbolizing generally the attitude of the United Nations toward our smaller allies in this war for liberation—will have a large effect upon the success of our ultimate plans for collective security and organized peace."

Eden told the House of Commons that if the British were to have confidence in the Moscow negotiations by representatives of the United States, Great Britain and Russia to set up a provisional Polish government, the Lublin government must avoid persecutions of Poles loyal to the London regime.

Vandenberg said the "acid test" of the Moscow government will come when it is revealed whether General Anders and the Poles who fought at Cassino, as well as General Bor and his followers in the Polish underground, are to have a home and country under the new provisional government.

Beyond that, the Michigan Senator said he thought the American people want the expedient decisions of wartime to pass in review at the peace table for "full, free, fair study and for recommended correction."

"Expediency and justice frequently are not even on speaking terms with each other," he declared. "The hopes of men for permanent peace cannot subordinate basic justice to expediency."

It is a curious process at best, he continued, for an American, a Britisher and a Russian to sit down with no Poles present to create a government for Poland.

One of the "acid tests" to be applied to the new Polish Government, the Michigan Senator told colleagues, would be whether it furnished a home and country to the Polish troops which fought with the Allies at Cassino in Italy and are fighting on the European front.

"Curious Process"

At best, he said it was a "curious process" for American, British and Russian representatives—with no Poles present—to sit down in Moscow and attempt to constitute a provisional Polish government.

There is no escaping the fact, Vandenberg continued, that the treatment accorded Poland will be looked upon by other small nations as indicative of their fate.

Emphasizing that "dreadful proportions" of the Moscow decisions, the Michigan Senator reiterated his demand that agreements made in the stress of war be subjected to "full, free and fair review" at the peace table.

The only way to attain lasting peace, he said, is on the basis of justice, "and expedience and justice often are not on speaking terms."

Vandenberg Warns On Poland

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) declared today that the three-power committee meeting in Moscow must set up "a truly representative" Polish coalition government if it is to be supported by the United States.

Vandenberg, a delegate to the April 25 World Security Conference, gave the Senate his "complete approval" of a warning voiced by British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden to the Lublin Government against persecution of supporters of the London exile government.

"But the fact that we have imposed this trusteeship upon Poland and are participating in it ourselves simply accentuates and magnifies the importance of our own share of this responsibility to see to it that this new provisional government is a truly representative Polish coalition," he declared.

Oil Situation Better

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Interior Secretary Ickes said today that "we have turned the corner on the oil situation."

"There was a time, a little while back," he told his news conference, "when only we and St. Peter knew how badly off we were. Now we're inclined to do a little boasting."

Ickes, who also is petroleum administrator, said the situation was "brighter" for fuel oil, gasoline and kerosene, but Solid Fuels Administration experts said there is no indication that rationing will be relaxed.

Chinese Study U. S. Railroads

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP).—Thirty-nine Chinese engineers have reached this country for railroad training. Sixty others will arrive later in the year. The idea is to educate the Chinese in American railroad methods so that they can apply them at home. The training will be carried out on twelve railroads with topographical conditions somewhat similar to China. The Foreign Economic Administration will finance the program under lend-lease.

'FRINGE' WAGE LIMITS FIXED

Vinson Orders Adjustments Just Before Changing Jobs

Washington, March 8 (AP)—Fred M. Vinson fixed the limits for four common "fringe" wage adjustments tonight in his last act as economic stabilizer, and said they could be granted without OPA approval.

These adjustments involved vacations, shift differentials, merit increases and job reclassifications.

At first the Vinson order, handed down as he took the oath as Federal Loan Administrator, to be succeeded by William H. Davis, former WLB chairman, was regarded as a concession to the board.

Restraining Statement

Later analysis by the board showed, however, that the ruling was not as liberal as it had expected it to be.

The possibility immediately arose that Davis might have to make his own revision or extension of the order to cover additional fringe adjustments.

In a statement, which the board at first blocked from release through the Office of War Information but later withdrew objection to, Vinson said that all other fringe adjustments, which he classed as "minor," could not become effective if OPA says a price increase would be needed.

Two Particular Cases

Of immediate concern was the status of the meat packing and textile industry cases, blocked in the dispute over this "fringe" policy.

Both still must be released by the board, which stayed the effectiveness of its decisions pending settlement of the policy, and some portions will go through Davis and some through OPA.

The textile case, establishing a 55-cent minimum and 5-cent general increase for 23 Southern and 31 Northern mills, would have to be approved by Davis, who voted for it several weeks ago as a member of the WLB.

Clears Desk For Davis

Job reclassification phases of the meat packing case would go through Davis, but the OPA would have to pass on the provision for free tools and work clothes, a board spokesman said.

Clearing his desk for Davis, Vinson issued the order authorizing WLB approval of these four wage adjustments to become effective on authorization of Davis, instead of OPA, if price ceilings or production costs would be increased.

Vinson and the board, under Davis's leadership, had been locked in a dispute over this point and the board offered as a solution a set of standards or limitations for several common types of adjustments to be followed in the future.

Provisions Of Order

The order provided for these standards:

1. Vacation provisions up to one week after one year of service and two weeks after five years of service.

2. Shift differentials in non-continuous operations not to exceed 4 cents an hour for the second shift, and 8 cents an hour for the third shift.

3. Merit increases and automatic progressions on a basis no more liberal than that embodied in the board's present standards.

4. Reclassification and job revaluations not to exceed an average increase for all employés in the plant of one per cent an hour or one per cent.

The board, Vinson's order read, "shall continue to use its present safeguards to prevent such adjustments from becoming general wage increases.

Vinson Takes Oath

In rare and unusual cases affecting critical needs of war production the board may authorize reclassification or re-evaluations in excess of these amounts, if approved by the new Economic Stabilizer, Davis.

Vinson ruled that other wage adjustments or changes in working conditions affecting earnings but not basic rates, shall remain subject to the Presidential "hold-the-line" order of April 12, 1943.

Vinson took the oath today as the new Federal Loan Administrator.

MURPHY RETURNS TO U. S.

Eisenhower's Adviser Will Confer With President and Others

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—Ambassador Robert D. Murphy, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's ranking adviser on German affairs has returned from Supreme Allied Headquarters to confer with President Roosevelt and other American officials.

The exact nature of his mission remains unexplained, although it coincides with an approaching new period of operations and civilian control inside Germany. The State Department says only that Mr. Murphy is maging one of his "periodic trips" back to Washington.

There is reason to believe, however, that one of the critical questions now to be answered is: What attitude should be taken by Allied military authorities toward general cleanup and reconstruction work in Germany with a view first to speed the march to victory and, second, to lay the foundation for long-range control and pacification of Germany.

TRANSPORT BATTLE OFF LUZON IS TOLD

Refitting of the USS Callaway Reveals Heavy Casualties and Damage at Invasion

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The U. S. S. Callaway, veteran Coast Guard-manned assault transport, is ready for action again after suffering heavy casualties and serious damage in the invasion of Luzon. In reporting this today the Navy said the Lingayen assault was the Callaway's sixth amphibious action.

The Callaway, commanded by Capt. D. G. McNeil of West Newton, Mass., was flagship for Capt H. G. Wright, commodore of the transport division in the Lingayen landing.

She was leading a column of attack ships through twisting straits between islands in the Philippines. There were frequent air attacks, but the sturdy Callaway came through unscathed until the morning of Jan. 8 when she was leading her ships up the west coast of Luzon.

When the vessels were thirty-five miles offshore and sixty miles from Manila the Japanese hit hard. The Callaway then scored her third enemy plane, but not before receiving a searing blow in her superstructure.

"The attack," the Navy reported, "killed several members of the crew instantly—many of them men who had stood by guns although they knew danger was all around them. The attack started a blaze on the starboard side of the superstructure which turned men into human torches. Flames leaped to the top of the stack and shot down toward the engine room through a ragged hole in the upper fiddley. Men jumped up, others jumped down, they ran and they rolled on the deck trying to escape the flames and put out the fire on their own clothes and skin."

Jack Ginsberg, yeoman 1/c, of 57 Second Avenue, New York City, said, "Smoke and flames enveloped the area. Screams and moans were heard. Unexploded shells pop-popped from the flames. The air was fetid—fire, burned human flesh, rubble, eye-tearing smoke."

Fred Sanek, signalman 3/c, of Washington, Pa., told how he lay on deck with a sprained ankle and a wound in the right leg. Suddenly he saw on the signal-light platform above him one of his buddies, his clothing burned off exposing his charred body gripped in the blazing ring of a lifebelt.

"Rip your belt off!" Sanek yelled at him.

The burning man helplessly raised his arms, showing his shipmates the burned skeletons of what had been fingers. Lieut. (j. g.) Richard M. Lloyd of Glendale, Calif., the ship's recognition officer, went to the rescue. Seizing a guy wire, he went up hand over hand to the platform and lowered the burned man to helping hands.

While the crew cared for the wounded and searched for the dead, the Callaway continued her course, leading her division toward Lingayen Gulf and the next day's invasion.

WIN WAR FIRST, SAYS STIMSON

Rules Out Post-war Acts Till Fighting Is Over.

Washington, March 8 (A. P.).—Secretary of War Stimson, in a renewed appeal to get on with the war, declared today that there can be no post-war action until the battle is won. He incorporated his statement in the war review at his weekly news conference. It follows:

"Here at home the Army is operating under the heaviest pressure in the effort to meet the insistent demands of the various theaters. At no time since we have been in the war have the pressures been so heavy and the requirements so great, and at no time has it been so important that we meet these demands without delay or discussion.

"Our great purpose is to maintain the momentum of the present operations in a tremendous effort to bring the war in Europe to a prompt conclusion.

"Although the post-war discussions now underway are of the greatest importance to the future of this and all other countries, we must always bear in mind there can be no post-war action until we first achieve a victory.

"There can be no real economies in lives and dollars until we bring this fighting to a successful conclusion."

Sees Early Philippine Victory.

Mr. Stimson predicted completion of the Philippine campaign far ahead of schedule.

"The campaign in the Philippines has gone forward with machine-like precision and great rapidity, forecasting the reconquest of the islands at a much earlier date than we had ever thought possible," he said.

In discussing what he termed "the victory of the west bank of the Rhine," Mr. Stimson praised the "vigor of the attacks launched by the various American armies on the western front."

Although the figures have not all been tabulated, "it is certain that we have passed the one million mark in prisoners taken by Allied forces in the west since the D day landings in France on June 6," he said.

FIRST NEGRO NURSE SWORN INTO NAVY

Among Five Commissioned, She Hopes Others Will Follow Example and Join Up

Five registered nurses, the first commissioned in New York under the Navy's speed-up nurse recruiting system, were sworn into the Navy Reserve Nurse Corps yesterday morning at the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 33 Pine Street. Included among the new ensigns was the first Negro nurse to be commissioned by the corps, Miss Phyllis Mae Daley, 25 years old, of 167 West 143d Street.

The corps is in urgent need of 2,500 additional nurses by June 30, Cmdr. Thomas A. Gaylord, USN (retired), announced. At present there are 9,000 Navy nurses. Commander Gaylord, who is director of the Office of Officer Procurement, administered the nurses' oath. Arrangements have been made, he said, to speed up recruiting by receiving applications for commissions through the Pine Street office rather than through Washington. Nurses have been assured that they will be notified of the Navy's decision approximately thirty days after final papers have been filed.

The nurses sworn in yesterday were Jane Agnes Belanger, 37-36 88th Street, Jackson Heights; Marion Helen Bendix, 531 East Lincoln Avenue, Mount Vernon; Adele Lee Bruce, Mount Kisco; Barbara Jean Zeigler, 35-05 Parsons Boulevard, Flushing; and Miss Daley.

Miss Daley said she hoped she would be "only the first of a large number of Negro nurses" in the Navy corps. She applied with five friends about a month ago but the others have not yet been notified of their acceptance or rejection, she said.

ARMY ASKS HALT TO OPERATION OF CANOL OIL PROJECT

WASHINGTON, March 8 — (AP) Operation of most of the controversial multi-million dollar Canol Oil project in northwestern Canada will be halted June 30, the War department announced tonight.

The move was attributed to an expected improvement in the tanker situation as well as the more favorable military position in the Alaskan area.

The $134,000,000 project was launched in April, 1942, a few months after Pearl Harbor, when Alaska was threatened by the Japanese and the sea route from the United States to Alaska was endangered. Abandonment long has been recommended by Secretary Ickes, petroleum administrator for war, who said the Army went into it without consulting him. Numerous congressional attacks have been made on Canol, but the Army heretofore has defended it as strategic insurance.

The Army announcement failed to satisfy congressional opponents of the Canol projects.

Chairman Mead (D.-N. Y.) of the Senate War Investigating committee greeted it with a statement saying the June 30 date for cessation of operations is too far away and the whole thing should be dropped now. The committee, he said, has advised the War department that in its opinion, "in view of the urgent need for aviation gasoline we can not afford to waste manpower at Canol any longer," Mead said.

The statement quoted Ickes as advising the committee that domestic 100 octane gasoline output has been retarded for lack of properly qualified manpower.

Facilities included in the suspension are petroleum production at Norman Wells; a 600-mile pipe line that carries crude oil from Norman Wells to Whitehorse in the Yukon territory, and a refinery at Whitehorse.

American personnel and movable equipment, such as trucks will be withdrawn as rapidly as possible, the Department said, adding that several hundred experienced refinery men will be released for jobs in United States refineries.

Still to be left in operation is a petroleum products pipe line which will deliver motor fuels from Skagway, on the Alaskan coast, to Whitehorse and thence down the Alaskan highway to Watson lake and up the highway to Fairbanks.

Arrangements with Canada provided that at the end of the war the installations should be appraised at commercial value. Canada was given the option of purchasing with the stipulation that if she failed to exercise her option, the property could be sold to any other bidder at not less than appraised value. The agreement provided, however, that the project could not be dismantled except upon the advice of the permanent joint board on defense, United States - Canada.

A recent agreement made it possible to dispose of the project prior to the conclusion of the war. The Department said the Canadian and U. S. governments have agreed to name representatives to appraise the property at an early date—if possible before the operations are halted on June 30.

The War Department said that experience during December, 1944, and January and February, 1945, showed the average cost of Canol products was $11.15 a barrel delivered at Whitehorse. This compared with an average of $7.33 per barrel if the products were obtained in the United States, delivered by tanker to Skagway and thence by pipeline to Whitehorse.

The Honor Roll

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, March 8 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today the names of 2,168 casualties in the European war area.

In all of these cases next of kin have been notified previously and have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status.

Included in the list are the following with next of kin:

MAR 9 - 1945

U.S. Losses Total 823,632 To Date

Washington, March 8 (AP)—More than half a million sick and wounded American fighting men were flown out of battle zones last year with just 28 deaths in flight.

They were carried to medical centers overseas and in this country and twenty per cent of all American casualties returned to the United States in 1944 came by plane, without a single loss by enemy action.

This was reported today by the Office of War Information, based on information from all flight branches of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

Casualties To Date

Meanwhile, army and navy statistics showed that total combat casualties reported since the start of the war have reached 823,632. They were divided as follows:

Army: 142,285 killed, 438,734 wounded, 91,237 missing, 60,666 prisoners.

Navy: 34,513 killed, 41,209 wounded, 10,671 missing, 4,317 prisoners.

The total figure of 823,632 is higher by 10,600 than a week ago. The Army accounted for all the increase except 373.

Deaths from wounds and sickness would have been far higher, the OWI report said, but for air evacuation. It described this as "one of the . . . greatest life-saving measures of military medicine."

Russians Liberate New Yorker

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The War Department released today a list of American prisoners of war reported liberated by the advance of Soviet armies in Europe. The list included First Lieut. Harold Zucker, whose wife, Mrs. Natalie L. Zucker, lives at 65 West 192d Street, New York City.

513 JAP CAPTIVES FREED SWIFTLY

Washington, March 8 (A. P.).—The daring raid that liberated 513 prisoners from the Japanese camp at Cabanatuan on Luzon in January was pulled off twenty-four hours after it was originally scheduled, a leader of the raid disclosed.

Capt. Robert W. Prince, who led 121 rangers and Alamo scouts on the rescue mission, related at a news conference that the raid first had been set for Monday, January 29, but was postponed a day when it was discovered that a large force of Japanese was stopping there overnight.

Capt. Prince, Stanford University graduate whose home is in Seattle, Wash., and eleven other veterans of the raid returned to the United States ten days ago by plane.

The raid, first mass liberation of prisoners in the Pacific area, took only twenty-eight minutes to carry out, Capt. Prince reported. Two of the rangers were killed and three wounded while two of the 280 Filipino guerrillas who took part were slightly wounded.

Capt. Prince, who is 25, calculated the Japanese losses at 523 killed, including 300 ambushed by guerrillas who had set up a flanking position on a highway near the camp. The remainder of the Japanese were slain in the camp.
